DRY BONES OF CORRUPTION IN THE WHOLE HISTORY OF NEW YORK STATE LEGISLATURE TO BE DRAGGED FORTH

BLIZZARD STRIKES CITY AND COLD WAVE WILL FOLLOW SOON

Duluth Awakes to First Real Taste of Winter Weather.

The first severe storm of the winter swept down on Duluth between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning and the city awoke to find snow drifted on the sidewalks and against the doors and more snow falling and being driven before a brisk wind from the northeast.

The storm increased during the morning, with the temperature falling, and it will probably reach its point of greatest severity tonight. This morning the snowfall and wind were not attended by low temperatures, but a cold wave is following closely in the

WANT NATION TO LICENSE AUTOS

Members of Association Seek to Avoid Multiple State Taxes on Tours.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The first session of a national convention called by the American Automobile association to urge on congress the passage of a bill now pending to permit federal registration of automobiles, and to promote in general the movement for uniform motor vehicle laws in the various states, was held today.

Senator Depew delivered the opening address to the delegates, who represent the principal automobile clubs of the country and most of the large trade associations. Legislative delegates commissioned by the governors of about twenty states also were present.

The first day's session was taken up in discussion of the federal license movement. As a result of the bill introduced by Representative Cocks of New York, any motor vehicle owner, after having paid a license in his own state and complied with the laws of that commonwealth, would be permitted to tour through any state without paying a succession of taxes, provided he had paid the federal tax.

Hearing on Thursday.

On Thursday the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, which has the bill, will give a hearing and all the delegates to the convention will go to the capitol.

Senator Robert L. Taylor of Tennessee has promised to address the convention, and so have Senator Beveridge, Senator Rayner and former Governor Bachelder of New Hampshire.

A model motor vehicle law drafted by Charles T. Terry of New York, chairman of the association's legislative board, has been substantially adopted in several states, and will be further discussed and urged upon the legislators as the basis of uniform legislation.

OKLAHOMANS WANT BOOZE

Constitutional Drouth Is Attacked in Initiative Petition.

Guthrie, Okla., Feb. 15.—An initiative petition, bearing 59,486 names, asking for an amendment to the state constitution striking out both federal and state prohibition provisions and substituting therefor a system of high license and local option was filed with the secretary of state here yesterday by Dr. John Threadgill, president of the Oklahoma Local Option and High Li-

WEST UNDER WHITE COVER

Four-Foot Fall in Thirty-Six Hours Reported in the Rockies.

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 15. — Snow which has fallen steadily in Coeur d'Alene and Western Montana, is stalling railroad traffic. More than four feet has fallen in the last thirty-six hours.

Several small slides have been encountered and cleared.

Four men were caught by a slide in the mountains east of Wallace, Idaho. Two extricated themselves. A force of twenty men is working to uncover the two remaining men, who have been buried ten hours under thirty feet of snow.

Heavy in North Dakota.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Heavy snow with considerable wind blowing it into drifts prevails over this part of the state today. The temperature is around zero. There is no suffering from the cold, though the prediction is for more snow and colder weather tonight, with clear weather Wednesday.

There have been no trains from the West over the Northern Pacific, but this is due to a wreck at Belfield, 330 miles west, rather than to the storm. Tracks were cleared at that point at 11 o'clock this forenoon and trains are expected in at midnight.

Trains from the East all arrived and were sent West. They are being run on slow time, but the main line tracks are not so badly blockaded that snow plows cannot clear tracks. No efforts were made to send trains out on the branches today.

The Great Northern trains are all moving, but are behind the schedules. Milwaukee trains from the South are greatly delayed. Telephone service is slightly disturbed by the storm, but all points in the state could be readily reached at noon today.

TIMBER THIEVES BURNING FARMS

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 15.—Timber thieves in the wilderness of Southern Indiana are driving away the farmers with fire, according to reports received today from Nashville, the seat of Brown county, into which until lately no railroad had penetrated.

Houses and barns on eighteen farms have been destroyed. C. M. Harbet and his family last night had to run to save their lives from their blazing home.

For miles south of Nashville the settlers have moved out, and the timber thieves are cutting and hauling walnut and hickory logs by the hundreds. On the edges of the thinly settled territory in which the bands of depredators work, the farmers, armed with shotguns, patrol the roads at night.

Packers Will Seek to Show That Retailers Caused High Prices.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—That the government intends to make a thorough probe into the affairs of the so-called "beef trust" was indicated more clearly today by the appearance of L. B. Patterson, vice president of the National Packing company, before the federal grand jury which is investigating the case. The calling of Mr. Patterson seems to bear out recent reports that

BLEACHED FLOUR CASES CALLED

Goverment Attorney Seeks to Get Continuance in Court in Iowa.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Feb. 15.—The seven bleached flour cases in which the Updyke Milling company of Omaha and the Shawnee Milling company of Shawnee, Kan., are defendants, were called in the United States district court before Judge Apperson today. Pierce Butler of St. Paul, special government attorney, who has been assigned to the litigation, is conducting a case in New Orleans and M. L. Temple, United States attorney for the Western Iowa district, asked for a continuance. The defendants indicated that they would resist this move, and promised a fight at the very outset.

Judge McPherson granted a continuance until March 17.

SENATOR TILLMAN LOSES CHILDREN.

Columbuia, S. C., Feb. 15.—In a decision handed down here today the supreme court took the two children of B. R. Tillman, Jr., from their grandfather, Senator Ben R. Tillman, and restored them to the custody of their mother.

LOSE HOPE FOR THE NINA'S CREW

Naval Authorities Have Received No Word of Missing Craft.

Washington, Feb. 15.—An atmosphere of gloom pervaded the navy department today when the messages received failed to disclose any word regarding the whereabouts of the missing navy tug Nina and the thirty-two men aboard. The officials seem to have nearly lost hope that any of the men are alive.

During the day naval officials became satisfied that the Nina did not proceed on its voyage any further north than Fenwick island light ship, off the coast of Delaware, and orders accordingly were given to abandon the search of the districts north of that territory.

MONTREAL COAL MAN NOT IN PRICE COMBINE.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 15.—James Ross of Montreal, president of the Dominion Coal company, was today exonerated of charges of collusion to increase the price of coal. Alexander Dick of the same company and J. R. Cowans, manager of the Cumberland Coal & Railway company, were held for trial on the collusion charge in $2,000 each.

TOWN VOTES TO BE DRY FIFTY YEARS

In Return Will Get Big Gifts From Native Now a Millionaire.

Hudson, Ohio, Feb. 15.—The village voted yesterday that it was worth while to remain "dry" for fifty years in order to obtain a waterworks plant, electric light and sewerage system, and kindred improvements.

The electorate turned out in body after a hot campaign and voted to accept the proposition by 162 to 97.

James W. Ellsworth, a native of Hudson, but at present, millionaire resident of New York, offered the village the advantages named if it would vote "dry" and stay so for fifty years; paint its houses white with green blinds, and put on red tile roofs; grow hedges to replace the picket fences; plant shade trees and clean up.

Giver Is Disgusted.

When the offer was first made two years ago, the village promptly voted "dry" and painted itself white. Ellsworth built a boys' club and a new Congregational parsonage.

Discontent arose, however, among the "wets," and petitions for a return of the saloon were circulated, resulting in today's election. Ellsworth served notice that he would continue his portion of the improvements if the town went dry, but that on the whole he was rather disgusted.

SWEEPING INVESTIGATION IS PROPOSED IN SENATE

Governor Hughes and Republican Leaders Are Said to Be Back of the Proposition.

Resolution Provides for Committee of Eight, With Ample Funds and Powers.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Investigation of legislative corruption in every possible form and at any time since the organization of the New York state government is announced by the Republican leaders, to satisfy the public demand arising from the Conger-Allds bribery scandal.

A resolution introduced in the senate today by Senator J. M. Wainwright of Westchester county provides for the appointment of a joint committee of three senators and five assemblymen, who shall be given an ample appropriation and practically unlimited powers to conduct such an investigation.

The measure is supposed to represent the views of Governor Hughes and his advisers, and its sweeping provisions reveal how desperate these men consider the situation.

Not Factional Move.

That the resolution was not merely an expression of personal opinion or the product of a faction was evidenced by the fact that none of the Republican leaders objected when the measure was introduced. Senator Newcomb of New York, who was largely instrumental in causing the investigation of the Conger charges, spoke briefly in favor of the Wainwright resolution. Senator Grady talked in opposition on the ground that the disclosures of the Allds investigation thus far had no bearing upon the present legislature.

The resolution was referred to a finance committee and a special report is expected from that body. Senator Wainwright is regarded as the logical choice as chairman of the proposed investigating committee.

View of Leaders.

What is supposed to be the view of the party leaders was voiced by Senator Davis of Buffalo, chairman of the senate investigation into the Allds case.

"The public mind seems to be inflamed to such an extent," he said, "that this resolution is not entirely out of place. It is based solely upon the allegation made by Attorney James W. Osborne that a bridge corruption fund did exist in 1903."

WILL ASK MORE PAY ON LAKES

Proposal Will Be Made to Owners in the Dredgers' Association.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 15.—The executive committee of the Dredge Owners' Protective association today, after a conference with representatives of five marine labor organizations, announced that a proposal for an increase in wages would be made to owners. T. V. O'Connor of Buffalo, president of the International Longshoremen's association, was chairman of the conference. The unions represented are the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel Dredgemen, International Dredge Workers, Licensed Tugmen's Protective association, Tug Firemen and Linesmen's association, and the Rock Drill Workers of America. The dredge owners are represented by S. O. Dixon of Milwaukee, J. A. Smith of Cleveland and M. Sullivan of Detroit.

PARLIAMENT MEETS AGAIN

Problematic Situation Confronts the Government in This Session.

London, Feb. 15.—The third parliament of King Edward assembled this afternoon. The ceremony was of the simplest character, all the royal pageantry connected with the state opening being postponed to Feb. 21, and the interim devoted to the swearing in of members and the clearing away, if possible, of the difficulties confronting the government.

These latter are due not only to the divergent interests actuating the various parties which constitute the coalition majority, but are a result as well of the divisions within the parties themselves over the best means of grappling with the great issues brought about in the recent appeal to the country.

Most Interest in Years.

Not for many years has such intense interest attached to the opening of the parliament and seldom have the problems involving the success or failure of the government threatened to be so difficult of solution, even to the most capable of the members of parliament.

The result of the recent elections appears so confused that the staunchest press supporters of the government admit that proof that the government will have a majority to act drastically upon the dominant issues can be established only after the house of commons has settled down to work, and the Nationalists and Laborites show their hands in the course of the debate upon the speech from the throne.

The lower chamber re-elected Rt. Hon. James William Lowther, member for the Penrith division of Cumberland, speaker, and forthwith the swearing in of its members was commenced. The house was in session one hour when adjournment was taken.

FOUND DEAD ON LAND IN ALASKA

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 15.—Peter Taube of this city, president of the American Marble company, has been found dead on the company's property at Fox Island, Alaska. The cause of death has not been ascertained.

The company has had much trouble over the Alaska holdings. Five years ago William Deppy, a stockholder, was shot and killed on the company's land by Robert Ball, a disbarred Michigan attorney, who had gained control of a majority of the stock. Ball was given a twelve-year prison sentence, and is now in the National Hospital for the Insane at Washington, D. C.

The property finally was sold to the Vermont Marble company. Taube's visit to Alaska was in connection with the transfer.

CROWD HEARS GLAVIS QUIZ

The Ballinger-Pinchot Inquiry Arouses Increasing Interest at Capital.

Witness' Successor in Office Is to Be Called to the Stand.

Washington, Feb. 15.—To ascertain whether L. R. Glavis, the accuser of Secretary Ballinger, was the victim of a "frame up" in connection with the finding of various missing official papers, Attorney Vertrees, counsel for Mr. Ballinger, has requested that subpoenas issue forthwith for A. Christensen, Glavis' successor, and G. W. O'Neill of Seattle. Mr. Vertrees today also requested the committee to summon as witness Miss Ella M. Shartell of Seattle Special Agent Frank L. Shalding of Cheyenne and W. W. Barr of Seattle.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Interest in the congressional inquiry into the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy has been greatly heightened as a result of yesterday's cross-examination of Louis R. Glavis by John J. Vertrees, counsel for Secretary Ballinger. Anticipating a continuance of the rapid fire of questions, crowds even greater than yesterday's record-breaking attendance, sought admission to the committee room this morning. The seating capacity of the place has been enlarged from time to time until now the spectators entirely surround the witness and the attorney, and almost enclose the committee itself.

Glavis underwent his first ordeal of cross-examination with the same cool, self-possessed manner that he displayed when giving his direct testimony.

Just a little knowledge at the proper time, at the time when the man's ailment or disease was in a curable state, as all diseases of men are, for a greater or lesser period—would have saved him all this lingering agony, the dread of anticipation, would in all likelihood have enabled him to live and enjoy his full span of life.

WATCHED BY THE CORPSE

Aged West Duluth Woman Had Long Vigil By Husband's Body.

Too Weak to Summon Aid or Notify Her Neighbors.

With the blinding snow storm of the early morning cutting off all combination with her neighbors and unable even to pick up the dead body of her husband from the floor, where he fell dead while crossing the room, Mrs. Chris Dahlbak, an aged invalid, watched over the corpse of her husband for several hours today before the authorities were informed of his death.

Christian Dahlbak, the dead man, was 80 years old and one of the pioneer residents of West Duluth. For a number of years he has made his home at 6405 Worden street, where his sudden death occurred shortly after midnight. Coroner McCuen was notified of the death this morning and has ordered that an autopsy shall be performed over the body to determine the cause of death.

The autopsy will probably be performed this evening by West Duluth physicians. It is supposed that the man died of old age following an attack of heart trouble. For the past week he had suffered with a cold and claimed that he was not feeling well. His condition was not looked upon as serious at any time and his death came as a sudden shock, both to his aged wife and friends.

The authorities were first notified of the death about 8:30 o'clock this morning when Julius Geanst of 6411 Worden street, the nearest neighbor called at the Dahlbak home to inquire how they were feeling. He found the old man lying prostrate on the floor where he had fallen. The aged wife is grief stricken over the affair. Geanst is a laborer at a Garfield avenue mill and was just returning from work on the night shift at the time. He immediately notified the police.

Undertaker M. J. Filiatrault of Ramsey street took charge of the remains and the autopsy will be performed at his place. The funeral arrangements have not been made. Dahlbak is survived by a wife only.

BAILEY WILL SUCCEED BARNES

Former Fire Commissioner Is Appointed to Library Board.

W. F. Bailey, civil war veteran and former owner of the Duluth Brass works, has been appointed by Mayor Haven as a successor to L. A. Barnes, who resigned recently from the library board. The appointment was made known last evening at the council meeting.

Mr. Bailey, who resides at 1220 Central avenue, retired from active business two years ago, when he sold his interest in the Duluth Brass works to the present owners. He has served on the board of fire commissioners and has been prominently identified with G. A. R. and Masonic work.

L. A. Barnes resigned from the library board this week on account of the provision in the law that no city official can hold two offices. Mr. Barnes is the alderman-elect from the Eighth ward and will assume office after March 1.

SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

John Enkovach, the boardinghouse keeper who was arrested at West Duluth Sunday night accused of discharging firearms within the city limits, was given a suspended sentence in municipal court today. Warrants are out for the arrest of two other men who are connected with the affair.

Last night George Jackovach, another boardinghouse keeper, at 326 South Fifty-seventh avenue west, ejected several of his lodgers from his place after a drunken row. Someone fired a gun at him through a window. The bullet missed its mark and flattened against the stove in the room.

No arrests were made in this case.

Two Small Fires.

Two small fires broke out this morning at West Duluth, but both were extinguished before any damage resulted.

The first alarm came in over the telephone at 6 o'clock from 212 South Sixty-third avenue west, where it was reported that there was a chimney fire. The truck was not taken out but firemen were sent to the blaze.

About 8 o'clock Department No. 8 made a run to 509 North Fifty-third avenue west, the residence of August Sundquist. This was a chimney fire also.

Strand-Widtzoe.

The marriage of Miss Johanna Strand of West Duluth to Sigurd Widtzoe of Duluth was solemnized last evening at the home of the bride's uncle, John Thorness of Sixty-sixth avenue west and Nicollet street. Rev. N. J. Lokrem of Superior officiated. They will live at West Duluth.

Entertains for Bride.

Miss Mary Barnes of 231 North Fifty-seventh avenue west entertained the choir of the West Duluth Baptist church last evening at her home, in honor of Miss Clara Johnson, who is to become a bride next month. The guests were: Rev. A. J. Hoag, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Borhquart, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Johnson, Miss Bird Kent, Miss Mabel Wallace, Miss Maud Wallace, Frank Ashley, William Little and Mrs. L. A. Barnes.

Each Must Earn $1.

An "experience" social to be held on St. Patrick's day, March 17, is now planned by the Ladies' Aid Society of the West Duluth Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand avenue.

Each member is expected to earn a $1 between now and the date for the social and at that time tell how she earned it.

It is probable that a musical program will be given and refreshments will be served.

With the Curlers.

Three games will be played this evening at the curling rink in the Bagley event. Method will meet Clark, Miller will play Zauft, and Keyes will be matched against Wade. Olson won the first game in this series last evening when he defeated Zauft, 13 to 10.

Two games were played last night in the Hendricksen cup event, Meldahl losing to Miller, 20 to 10, and Evered winning from Holland, 13 to 10. The following is the standing in the Buckley event:

Macauley Ilts	Ilts
Meldahl	Rockwell
Keyes Method	Keyes	Zauft
Hewitt Zauft	Zauft
Clark Wade	Wade	Wade	Wade.
Holland Olson	Holland

West Duluth Briefs.

The social, planned for tonight, by the Young People's Society of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, has been postponed on account of the storm.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the West Duluth Baptist church will hold a tea tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Stoller of North Fifty-ninth avenue west.

Funeral services were held this morning from Proctor for Joseph Allard, who died Saturday. Burial followed at Calvary cemetery. The deceased was an old resident of West Duluth.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Anna Olson of South Sixty-third avenue west.

West Duluth tent, No. 2, K. O. T. M. entertained at cards last evening at Great Eastern hall. The members of the Duluth tent attended in a body.

A social will be given Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Booren of 410 North Fifty-eighth avenue west under the auspices of the Royal Neighbor lodge.

Rev. J. A. Krantz, pastor of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church at West Duluth is in St. Paul this week, presiding over the sessions of the Minnesota conference of the church, of which he is president.

The choir of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church will meet in the church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street for rehearsal Thursday evening.

ASKS COURT FOR FREEDOM

Buhl Man Claims He Is Unlawfully Held in Jail.

On a writ of habeas corpus, John Hartikainen is trying to secure his release from the St. Louis county jail, where he has been confined for two months past.

Judge Ensign has ordered the sheriff to appear in court with the prisoner Feb. 19 and show cause why he is detained.

Hartikainen claims that he is not imprisoned by virtue of final judgment. He believes that he is imprisoned by virtue of a warrant of commitment. He claims that the imprisonment is illegal, for he has been confined since Nov. 1, and in spite of the fact that the grand jury has been in session twice, no indictment has been returned against him.

Hartikainen was sent to Duluth from Buhl by the justice of peace. He was originally charged with larceny, having appropriated $30 to his own use.

It is quite likely that Hartikainen will get his release.

LOEB TO MANAGE THE RETURN OF ROOSEVELT.

The firm of O. B. Johnson & Co., hardware dealers, at 1819 West Superior street, has been dissolved, and Alfred Johnson will continue the business, taking into partnership A. W. Peterson, who for the past eight years has been connected with the Duluth Hardware company and the Quayle-Larsen company of this city. Both members of the new firm are well known. They desire all their old friends as well as new ones to make them a call when in need of anything in the hardware line. The firm will be known as

TONNAGE TAX DEAD ISSUE

Representative Dalzell Believes Reapportionment Is Now Paramount.

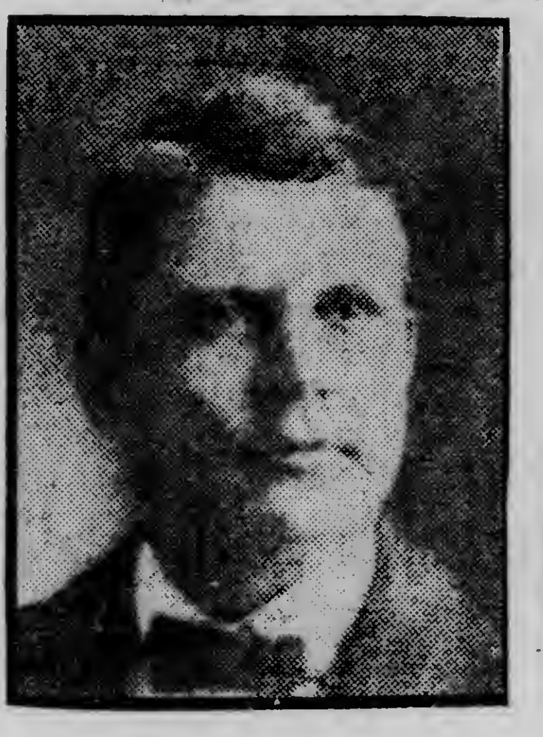
M. S. Carl of Clara City Is Candidate for State Treasurer.

"When I was here last July, I made the prediction that no tonnage tax bill will ever again be introduced into the legislature of Minnesota and as time goes on, I am strengthened in that conviction," said Representative John Dalzell of the Twenty-second district, who is at the Spalding today. "Bjorge is a candidate for congress, the people of Southern Minnesota have learned much from Governor Johnson's veto and I believe the agitation has died."

Representative Dalzell is a good friend of Northern Minnesota. He was chairman of the tax committee of the last house and in two fights against the tonnage tax, he stood with Northern Minnesota, being the only representative from the Seventh district to oppose the bill. His constituents were wrought up by his action in 1907, but he won them over and was re-elected by a larger majority than before.

Mr. Dalzell is here today in company with M. S. Carl of Clara City, a former representative in the legislautre and a candidate for the Republican nomination for state treasurer. Mr. Dalzell is frank in saying that he wants the support of St. Louis county for Mr. Carl.

"He is a friend of mine and if I have any friends here, I am going to assure them that in supporting Mr. Carl for the nomination, they will be making no mistake in the man, and will be favoring me besides," said the representative. "Mr. Carl served two terms in the legislature with credit. He is a banker in his home town and has made a success in business. I believe he would make a good state treasurer and I am going to work for him."



JOHN DALZELL.

Mr. Dalzell believes reapportionment and not the tonnage tax will be the big issue for Northern Minnesota at the next session of the legislature. Judging by the tenor of his talk, Mr. Dalzell would not desert Northern Minnesota in that fight either.

"Northern Minnesota ought to get together and go down to the legilslature ready to show the rest of the state that it wants its rights," he said. "Here is a vast, almost undeveloped region, with a representation in the legislature with which it can do very little. The people ought to go to St. Paul with a solid front and a determination to use all their batteries on that one issue. The extreme southern counties of the state will be inflexible, for they would probably suffer in a reapportionment, but I believe the central counties are willing to be shown and are fair-minded enough to do the right thing if the proposition is presented to them as it should be.

"Let the counties of Northern Minnesota get together and work together. They will have opposition, but they have shown their ability to cope with opposition and if a solid front is presented and the right kind of men are sent to the legislature, the hope of reapportionment is not a forlorn one, by any means."

MEDAL FOR PEARY.

Representative Butler Presents Resolution in the House.

Washington, Feb. 15.—A gold medal and the thanks of congress for Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, is contemplated in a bill introduced today by Representative Butler of Pennsylvania, chairman of the subcommittee which a few days ago reported adversely on the proposition to make the explorer a rear admiral in the United States navy.

Traitor to Revolutionists.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 15.—M. Rosenburg, a student from Baritz, has been convicted by a revolutionary court of having betrayed the late Gregory Gershunin, the terrorist.

RETURNS FROM CONFERENCE

Next Meeting of Charity Workers Will Be Held at Crookston.

Miss Jean Poirier is home after attending the conference of charities and corrections at Mankato. Miss Poirier was re-elected enrolling secretary.

Miss Poirier was the only Duluthian to attend the conference which, she says, was the best and largest ever held.

The meeting will take place next year at Crookston. Duluth lost by one vote. It is very probable that the year following Duluth will be the meeting place, as many of the delegates were favorable to the Zenith City.

There were in attendance at the conference about 225 delegates. Mankato people and residents of the surrounding towns took an unusual interest in the proceedings of the conference, and swelled the attendance greatly.

"Dangers of Peace," an address delivered by William E. McEwen, was one of the features of the conference. So good did the delegates consider it that it will be printed in pamphlet form.

Among the other prominent speakers were State Senator Clague of Redwood Falls, Dr. Colter of the University of Minnesota, and Prof. Jenks also of the University of Minnesota. Prof. Jenks' address on "Future Americans" was well received. The conference lasted four days.

In connection with the conference on corrections and charities an important meeting of the state child labor association was held.

NAMES MEN FOR EXPO IN BERLIN

State Department Picks Milwaukee Man as Commissioner General.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The state department has appointed an honorary commissioner-general and four honorary commissioners to the American exposition to be held in Berlin, Germany, from July 4 until September of this year. William C. Brunder of Milwaukee is appointed honorary commissioner-general. He is said to be a man of fine ability and is one of the proprietors of the Germania Abend Post, one of the leading German newspapers of the West.

Herman Ametz, until recently comptroller of the city of New York, John Ball Osborne, at present chief of the bureau of trade relations in the state department and an authority on economic subjects, Irwin M. Laughlin, secretary of the United States embassy at Berlin, and Hugh Gordon Miller, a New York lawyer, have been appointed honorary commissioners.

Mr. Laughlin is a Yale graduate and has had wide diplomatic experience. Mr. Miller was formerly assistant United States attorney of Virginia and was commissioner from the state of New York to the Jamestown exposition, and later vice-president of the Robert Fulton Monument association.

Get No Compensation.

These officials serve without compensation, as congress has not been requested to make an appropriation covering their compensation or expenses.

The purpose of the exposition is to bring German merchants and consumers generally in closer touch with American manufacturers, and it is expected that the American exhibit will be a very large and comprehensive one. The exhibition will be held under the patronage of Prince Henry of Prussia.

A. H. Bawden Begins Suit Against Columbia Clothing Company.

A. H. Bawden has begun suit against the Columbia Clothing company for $2,500 for injuries alleged to have been sustained recently when his foot became wedged between the wall and the elevator and was badly crushed.

The accident happened at the noon hour and in his complaint, Mr. Bawden claims that the man who was operating the elevator was not a licensed operator, that he was inexperienced and careless, and that the company knew these facts at the time the accident.

Attorney William Marx will conduct the action for the plaintiff.

COMPLAINTS BY SIMPSON

Unreasonableness and Discrimination Alleged Against Seven Concerns.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney General Simpson today filed a complaint with the state railroad and warehouse commission against the Wells-Fargo Express company, the American Express company, the Great Northern Express company, the Northern Express company, the United States Express company and the Western Express company.

The complaint alleged against the Wells-Fargo company, and the others contain similar charges, that its rates are unequal, unreasonable, discriminatory and extortionate, and that 75 per cent of each rate would be reasonable.

The petition asks that the commission establish a reasonable schedule of rates.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 15.—At the annual meeting of the Mackay companies here today the announcement was made that the management had decided to sell the holding of 82,000 shares of American Telephone stock.

It is understood that when the stock was acquired several years ago it was for the purpose of obtaining control, but since then the telephone company has purchased a substantial interest in the Western Union and the object of the Mackay companies has failed.

TRIUMPHS OF DRY FARMING.

"The Palouse country is a panorama of rolling hills, checkered with sagebrush and great wheat fields. Close to those wastes of curious grayish tint," says a writer in the National Magazine, "are rich fields covered with the thickest stand of wheat I ever saw.

"The soil seems to have performed a miracle in producing this lavish wealth, but those standing corps are an indisputable proof of the triumph of dry farming. The fields are harvested only every second year and always ploughed very deeply, the soil being thoroughly pulverized in the odd years.

"A thick blanket of dust covers the earth—good fairy in disguise, for that dusk blanket protects the ground and preserves the moisture of the winter snows. Although very little rain falls during the growing season, this stored up moisture is sufficient nourishment for the production of a magnificent crop; the soil needsshrdlu hrdl shrdls crop; the soil appears to have a volcanic ash that needs only seed and moisture to bear abundantly.

"In raising wheat here, loss is occasioned from the action of windstorms, which blows off the dust blanket and exposes the seed,, so every effort is made to keep the blanket on. Instead of sowing two bushels of seed to the acre, as in the East, one bushel is here sufficient. The grain is cut by headers and combination harvesters and thrashers, which also sack it right in the field.

"There may be some waste from over-ripe grain, but this method saves the cost of stacking and shocking, and in some cases, reseeds the ground, resulting in a crop of young wheat very valuable for forage. This wheat grass has the same effect as clover in fertilizing, and the green fields add to the attractiveness of the landscape, standing side by side with fields of yellow wheat and black dust of summer fallowed tracts, with a touch of sagebrush now and then for contrast.

"When the sturdy German farmer from California first experimented in this country, they incurred a great deal of ridicule. Now these very methods are producing thirty to forty bushels an acre, while the maximum cost of cultivation an acre is $5. Such facts indicate why the Western farmers are able to winter in California or other favorite American pleasure resorts, run automobiles, or even tour Europe and winter on the Rivier."

QUEER IDEA OF CARICATURE.

I remember going to lunch with a very rich individual for the purpose of studying him says the well-known cartoonist "Spy" in the Strand. He would insist on looking at some rough notes I had made, and the sight of them made him greatly incensed.

"Look here," he exclaimed, "I may be shortish and I may be inclined to be stout, but I'm not a fat dumpling figure like that. If you want to please me and my friends" (which, of course, I did not wish to do) "you will make me tall, because it will be the exact opposite of what I am!" Such was the man's idea of a caricature.

HUSBANDS BACKED OUT

Refused to Live on Meatless Diet Prescribed By Wives.

The cost of living was the principal topic discussed after routine business at the Women's Union Label league meeting held in Kalamazoo hall last evening.

The members who had pledged themselves to the meatless diet were in evidence, but some had to confess that they were obliged to furnish the male members of the family with meat at least once a day. Some husbands insisted on their usual rations of meat three times a day. But the women were faithful to their pledge.

One member who said she was experimenting on her husband, a 200-pound man with an epicurean appetite, stated that for herself and hubby it cost for the week for food alone, from Jan. 31 to Feb. 7, $5.29 and from Feb. 7 to Feb. 14, $5.39. She didn't eat any meat at all but he had meat every day at least once, sometimes twice, and occasionally three times. But she substituted a cheaper grade of meats than formerly and served such foods as spaghetti, beans, rice, codfish balls (with codfish at 18 cents per pound), fresh herring, and other cheap dishes, with cheap side dishes of vegetables such as mashed yellow turnips, plain boiled cabbage, boiled onions, etc., which cost less than canned peas and beans, or other fancy vegetables. Potatoes are reasonable in price and can be prepared in various tasty ways such as escalloped, creamed, baked, etc. Eggs are coming down in price but are yet too high for the average pocket-book, the members reported.

The members are to bring in a menu list at the next meeting and the members with families whose husbands earn small wages, are to tell their experiences and how they manage to live, as they can indulge in meat but rarely. Their principal diet consists of bread and tea.

News of the return of 22,000 shirt-waist workers to work under union conditions, was read in a communication from Miss Dutcher of the Women's Trade Union league of New York.

Mr. E. A. Kelley, Belvidere, Ill., writes us: "I am an ex-engineer with 22 years active service to my credit. About three years ago my kidneys were affected so that I had to give up my engine. First I was troubled with severe, aching pain over the hips. Then followed inflammation of the bladder, and specks appeared before my eyes. A sample of Foley's Kidney Pills that I tried so benefited me that I bought more. I continued to take them until now I can safely testify they have made me a sound and well man." WILLISTON HOPING TO GET AYR CUT-OFF TERMINUS.

Williston, N. D., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Even though the Great Northern has filed a resolution with the secretary of state fixing Surrey, Ward county, as the Western terminus of the new Ayr cut-off, Williston has not given up hopes of securing the line. The fact that Great Northern surveyors have been employed during the past few weeks in the vicinity of Plaze, along the Knife river south of Stanley, it is believed that the company intends to continue the line westward instead of stopping at Surrey. The line, to go through the Plaza district and to Williston, would have to cross the Soo railroad at or near Anamoose or Drake.

FOSSTON FAMILY HAS CLOSE CALL FROM FIRE.

Fosston, Minn., Feb. 15.—There came near being a tragedy here early Friday when the Hos. Lenes dwelling took fire from an over-heated stove, it is supposed, and those in the house were only made aware of their danger when a can of kerosene setting nearby exploded, the report awakening Mrs. Lenes, who, with the baby, slept in an adjoining room.

Flames from the burning oil enveloped the room in which the stove stood and Mrs. Lenes was compelled to go out through the window, taking the child, and reaching the nearest neighbor's, Garet Motz, the others in the apparently doomed house, Misses Mollie Lenes and Della Hendrickson, being aroused and safely taken out.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ACTIVITIES

ADOPT DESIGN FOR LAMP POSTS

Commercial Club Committee Favors Type Used on Third Avenue.

The Commercial club committee which has been working out a plan for a great white way in the downtown district selected a universal design for the posts to be used, at a meeting at the club rooms yesterday afternoon. With minor exceptions the posts will be similar to those on Third avenue west, being modeled largely on the Minneapolis pattern. Each will have a cluster of five lights, four below and one above. The four lower lights will burn until midnight and the top light until dawn. It is expected that the installation will begin early in April.

WILL TALK TO THE FARMERS

A. B. Hostetter Will Hold a Series of School House Meetings.

A. B. Hostetter of the Commercial club left today for points along the Brooks-Scanlon railway where he will hold a series of farmers' meetings.

Circular letters have been sent out to the farmers telling of the object of the meetings which is for the purpose of stirring up interest in the proposal to run a train on the line for the benefit of the farmers.

The question of the resources of the country and the number of farmers the service would help, will be taken up, and on his return Mr. Hostetter will furnish the railroad with the information gathered. It is believed that if shown that the train is needed the railroad will readily agree to run the train.

Health and Beauty Talks

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

B. C. V.: It is to your credit that you wish to remain young looking as long as possible. A pleasing complexion goes far toward smoothing the way through life. The regular use of a good complexion cream does much to preserve the youthful contour of the face, keeping the flesh firm and the skin smooth and velvety. You can make a greaseless cream at home as follows: Get from your druggist one ounce of almozoin and put it in half a pint of cold water, adding two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. Stir and let stand over night before using. This cream jelly thoroughly cleanses the pores of the skin, taking out all dust, oil and grime. Its regular use tends to make large pores smaller and prevent blackheads. It keeps the skin soft, pliable and fresh looking, and removes tan, freckles and skin pimples. Almozoin cream jelly can be used both as a massage cream and face cream, for it contains nothing that might cause a growth of hair. It is splendid for chapped face and hands.

Miss M. J.: It is no wonder that your friends think you wear a switch. The light streaks in your hair are the result of shampooing with soap. All soap and many ready-prepared shampoos contain alkali, which takes the very life out of the hair and leaves it dry, dull and brittle. When you wash your hair be sure to use a good and reliable shampoo, and you will note a big improvement in your hair. The shampoo I always use myself and recommend to my friends is made by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. This shampoo can be prepared at a very small cost. It lathers fine, cleans the hair and scalp splendidly and relieves itching scalp. It dries quickly and makes the hair bright, soft and fluffy. You can get a canthrox shampoo at almost any shampoo parlor if you ask for it, or you can buy canthrox at any drug store and make the shampoo yourself.

Arline: The indoor, confined life of winter tends to play havoc with health and beauty. Lack of ambition and loss of energy, that feeling of "Oh, what's the use?" deranged digestion, a torpid liver and accumulated impurities of the blood bring about sallowness, pimples, liver blotches and a most discouraging and unsatisfactory reflection when one looks in her mirror. You must get all the fresh air you can, and let fresh air into your rooms. Five minutes before each meal and before bedtime take a tablespoonful of a tonic made as follows: Dissolve one-half teacupful of sugar and one ounce of kardene in a half pint of alcohol and add enough boiling water to make a full quart of tonic. When your stomach and liver are right and your blood pure, your step will be springy, your eyes bright and your complexion blooming and charming.

Gertrude J.: The dandruff, itching scalp and brittle, falling hair with split ends of which you complain come from a diseased scalp, due to the presence of germs. The surest way to get rid of these troubles quickly and remove the germs will be to shampoo twice a month with canthrox and rub into your scalp twice a week a quinine hair tonic made by dissolving one ounce of quinzoin in half a pint of alcohol, then adding half a pint of cold water. Use this tonic regularly and it will remove the dandruff and irritation, stop your hair from falling out and make it soft and glossy.

Harriet S.: As the eyes add so much to one's personal charm, you should be very careful about using unreliable eye tonics. A good eye tonic is indispensable for weak, tired and inflamed eyes. If you will get an ounce of crystos and dissolve it in a pint of water, and put a drop or two of this in each eye daily, it will strengthen and brighten up your eyes until you probably will no longer need to wear glasses. This tonic is splendid for granulated eyelids and does not smart or burn.

Ella G.: Winter is a trying time for those inclined to be stout, as the tendency then is to gain even more weight. Here is a simple and harmless remedy that will not only stop the accumulation of flesh, but will reduce your weight if you are too fat. Just get from your druggist four ounces of parnotis, dissolve it in a pint of hot water and take a tablespoonful before each meal. This remedy has worked wonders where others have failed, and I feel sure it will do you much good.

Jane S. (and Others): The finest complexion beautifier I have ever seen to soften and whiten the skin and take away that oily, sallow, coarse look is made from four ounces of spurmax, half a pint of hot water and two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. Apply a little of this lotion to your face, neck and arms, and it will improve your looks wonderfully. This is much better than face powder, as it does not show on the face or rub off so easily, but will give your skin a pink, healthy, youthful appearance. Spurmax lotion is inexpensive and splendid for tan, freckles, cold sores, chapped and rough skin caused by raw, penetrating winds.

The business men's banquet, which will be held at the Spalding Friday evening and at which Judge Selden B. Spencer of St. Louis and Fred B. LOOK FOR REPLY TO POWDER DEMAND

Pittsburg District Miners Will Strike If Denied What They Ask.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 15.—Miners of the Pittsburg district expect hourly to receive the answer of the operators to their demand for an agreement regarding reimbursement for the use of "permissable powder" in the mines of this district. It is reported the operators will not agree to the demands made by the miners.

Five members of the executive committee of the United Mine Workers of America and operators of the Pittsburg district are in conference over the situation. It is contended by the miners that the use of such powder breaks the coal into fine particles, reducing the men's earning power, and that the new powder costs more than black powder. The miners demand they be paid for this difference.

Twenty-five thousand coal diggers in this district may strike April 1 if the powder question is not settled to their liking.

NURSE TELLS STORY AGAIN

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 15.—Miss Pearl Kellar, the nurse who gave the most important testimony at the inquest over Col. Thomas H. Swope, was the first witness called today by the special grand jury that is investigating the death of the millionaire. Miss Kellar's evidence will probably occupy the grand jury two days.

The testimony of Dr. Frank Hall, a bacteriologist who assisted at the autopsy, has added a new element of doubt which it is believed will cause the prosecuting attorney to subject every witness before the grand jury to a severe course of questioning. Although Dr. Hall appeared before the coroner's jury, the evidence he gave yesterday in his deposition at the office of Attorney Frank P. Walsh was not previously brought out.

The physician's latest testimony was that by his observations at the autopsy he was convinced the death of Col. Swope might possibly have resulted from cerebral hemorrhage, uraemic poisoning or congestion of the spinal cord. At the inquest he had testified that the brain and vital organs of Col. Swope were practically normal.

SO EXCITING!

Alice Had Monkeys Brought In and Then!

Washington, Feb. 15.—If Col. Roosevelt is having any more thrilling adventures in Africa than a number of distinguished persons had in the dining room of his daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Saturday night, they think he owes it to his family to come home at once.

Representative and Mrs. Longworth were giving a dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, of New York. Along toward the close of the dinner the talk drifted to animals, and Mrs. Longworth described two pet monkeys she recently acquired. The guests expressed a desire to see the animals and Mrs. Longworth had the cage carried into the dining room.

The door of the cage became unfastened and one of the monkeys escaped. It leaped to the center of the table and, turning a handspring, climbed the chandelier, where it hung by its tail and chattered at the company. The women shrieked and scrambled to their chairs, while the men fell over each other in trying to evolve measures of protection and at the same time capture the beast.

The monkey eluded the brave hunters with ease. It sprang from the chandelier to the sideboard, ran around the room three or four times, while the women and some of the men went rapidly out of the nearest doors. Then it vaulted onto the plate rail, where it did a few stunts to the damage of much bric-a-brac. Finally it intrenched itself behind a jardiniere, where it was captured.

ARTISTIC CAREER

Of Eleanor Robson, Actress, Is Closed.

Miss Eleanor Robson, whose engagement to August Belmont was announced last week, was born in England and was brought by her parents to this country as a child. At the age of 7 she was placed in the convent school, St. Peter's academy, West Brighton, Staten island, where she remained until she was 18. It was then necessary for her to choose a calling, and she chose the stage, a profession in which her mother, Mrs. Madge Carr Cook, had already achieved conspicuous success, and later as Mrs. Wiggs in "The Cabbage Patch" won for herself fame and fortune. Miss Robson closed her professional career last Friday evening in "The Dawn of Tomorrow."

Miss Robson's first appearance, in 1897, as Margory Knox in "Men and Women" at the California theater, San Francisco, was in a large measure purely accidental. She was traveling with her mother, who was playing an important role in the production, when the actress playing Margory Knox was taken ill. The management had no understudy, and Miss Robson volunteered. She went on without previous experience and with a few hours study and made a decided impression. This decided her choice of a profession; hitherto she had expected to be a painter. She played a wide range of characters and made a marked impression. Her classical roles were Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet"; Kate Hardcastle in "She Stoops to Conquer" and Constance in Browning's "In a Balcony."

Miss Robson began her career as a star at the Garden theater, New York, as Mary Ann in "Merely Mary Ann" about five years ago. The piece was removed to three different playhouses in this city and enjoyed an unbroken run extending over a whole year. Its production in the Duke of York's theater, London, captured the critics and theater goers, winning for the actress place and esteem in literary and artistic London.

Two of the strongest of Miss Robson's character parts are Salomy Jane, from Bret Harte's story, and Glad, which she played for the last time Friday evening.

Miss Robson's serious work has been along theatrical lines, but no less seriously she has been interested in literature. Her work won for her artistic recognition, and for a long time she has been a figure in the artistic and literary circles of this city and of London, claiming among her friends the late Marion Crawford, George Bernard Shaw, Israel Zangwill, Lewis N. Parker, Barrie and Pinero.

Mr. Belmont is a widower, 57 years old. His wife died in Paris in September, 1898. She was the daughter of Edward Morgan and granddaughter of the famous old merchant, Matthew Morgan, of this city. He has three sons, August, who in 1906 married Miss Alice de Goicouria of this city and who at the first of the year he admitted into the firm of August Belmont & Co.; Raymond, recently graduated from Harvard and a clerk in the banking house, and Morgan, at St. Mark's boarding school, Southboro, Mass.

Since the death of his wife Mr. Belmont has lived much alone, either in his house on East Thirty-fourth street or at his country seat at Hempstead, Long island. His sons have passed most of their lives either at boarding school or at college.

The marriage will take place some time next month. The wedding will be a quiet one, at Miss Robson's house. Only the family and a few intimate friends will be present. Mr. and Mrs. Belmont will sail for a short trip through Europe, returning to open the house at Hempstead and in time for the races at Belmont park.

TAKE THAT!

Thoughtless Men Become Insufferable Boors.

If women want polite men around they must not stand for anything that is the opposite, advises an exchange.

To allow a man to smoke without asking permission is all wrong.

To allow him to remain seated while a woman enters the room, not to remove his hat as often as he should and not help her with her chair at the table are unpardonable.

No man has any respect for the woman who allows him to treat her in this way, whether she is single or his wife.

In fact, in the latter case it is all the worse. The husband who is allowed to start on the road of discourtesy will end by being a perfect boor.

Teach your daughter to expect the most courteous treatment from the boys and the young men she knows.

The American young man is naturally conceited. He thinks, if he is at all good looking, that every girl is running after him. He pays long calls, during which he expects the girl to do all the entertaining; he poses and considers often that his presence is enough without treating her to the theater or to any other form of amusement.

And, sad to relate, if a girl gives in to his whims he becomes absolutely insufferable, so that when he grows older all his good qualities are lost beneath the mantle of self-esteem he has been allowed to wrap himself in.

These are the men who never pay dinner calls, who look down upon women contemptuously, and who, when they marry, admit of no argument, declaring their will is law.

What they need is the right kind of woman to teach them politeness and courtesy.

TOO MUCH HEAD.

Result of College Educations, Thinks One Woman.

In speaking of the influences of a college education for girls in the February Woman's Home Companion, a college woman says, "The girls that I met then and that I still meet seem to me emotionally little hard buds long beyond the time when their minds and bodies are both matured, and I cannot but think that it is as disastrous to have this emotional immaturity prolonged beyond measure as it is to have it awakened too soon. Quick sympathies and a warm, loving heart make for happiness everywhere, and all the critical knowledge of Shakespeare in the world never yet helped a woman to rest a tired man or to hold a child more lovingly in her arms.

"My summers were periods of waiting to get back to my college life. I lived utterly apart from my family and made no effort to understand the lives of my brothers and sisters. The little help I gave at home was done willingly enough, but without interest—a duty to be accomplished, that was all. I dwell upon this, for I think that this was the effect that college had upon the greater part of my friends. All of us would come back from our various towns with reports of the meagerness of life; all of us were discontented with the conditions we found there; all of us had windy ideas about independence and careers. I was among the most favored of them, I think, in that I had after all an end in view and that my work was destined to make me self-supporting. It gave me at least a profession, which is a very great thing, but many girls have left college at 22, no more able to earn a penny than the day on which they entered it—alienated from their home people on the one hand, worshipping things of the intellect and with an inclination to look down upon the men 'engrossed,' as they call it, 'in money-making.'

"I do not say that this happens to all girls. There are women so womanly and so sane that nothing can unbalance them, but this was the tendency of college for many of us and this is my quarrel with education as it exists. Education ought to educate for something; it should help a woman to lead her life of a woman or else it should fit her to earn her living."

THE EVENING STORY

TACT

By Nellie Cravey Gillmore.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Hartley's pen raced furiously over the paper for fully thirty minutes before he even paused to look up. His lower lip was caught hard under his teeth, so that when he finally released it, there were purple prints, and his eyes, usually of a mild gray-blue, had grown black under some sudden stress of emotion.

At last he laid aside his pen, and for a moment sat staring intently at the blur of words before him. His lashes flickered, and a transitory quivering of the lips betrayed the fleeting presence of softer feelings. But they yielded abruptly to the old uncompromising lines of face and mouth, and with resolute fingers he folded and addressed the letter, laying it aside to be posted.

Afterwards, he arose, took one or two impatient turns up and down the room; then came back and sat down again, thinking deeply.

A clock striking six startled him from his reverie, and he left his desk precipitately, getting his coat, hat and gloves at once. Thrusting the letter he had written into his pocket, he banged the door behind him and started toward the elevator.

Out on the street, Hartley buttoned his coat to the neck and turned his face in the direction of home. He entered the deserted house mechanically, going at once to his bedroom, where he struck a light and flung himself wearily into a chair. His brain seemed clogged, dazed. He was wondering dimly what Elsie would think when she read his letter.

The letter! In his intense excitement, he had even forgotten to post it. Some abrupt whim prompted him to reopen the envelope and read it over before sending it. It ran:

"My Dear Elsie: I am not surprised at your act, but I am surprised at the utter lack of ingenuity you have displayed in the carrying out of it. I have known for a long time that you cared nothing for me, and that you did care for that man. But I most certainly thought that your intelligence alone would have rescued you from so broad a step. It is, of course, needless for me to explain myself. The inclosed clipping, however, may not come amiss—merely as a direct justification of my present course. This much, let me say, in regard to your latest offense: hereafter, it will not be necessary that you exert yourself toward further deception, since it is my unalterable determination to put all thought of you forever out of my life. As to Carrington, he is not worth the sacrifice of powder and shot necessary to eliminate his vile existence. I am making all preparation to dispose of the home immediately; your personal effects will be shipped to whatever address you may wish to indicate. Please spare me the annoyance of any reply, and the pain of a future meeting. All can be satisfactorily arranged through our lawyers.
Yours, Arthur Hartley."

Hartley went over the lines with scorching cheeks. Surely he had not been so great a fool as to heap insults like these upon a possibly innocent woman! In his jealous rage he had lost all control of reason and almost hopelessly incriminated himself for life. But a pitying Providence had saved him from his own madness, and tears swam suddenly in his hot, aching eyes.

With a gesture of disgust, he tore the letter into shreds and flung it into the fire. When it had sifted away to nothing, he rose heavily and poured out a glass of wine from the decanter on the mantel shelf. The liquid soothed him immediately, and half an hour later he had thrown off his clothes and was sleeping exhaustedly.

When Hartley entered his office next morning he went at once to his desk and began to sort out various papers. He worked rapidly and deftly, and by noon everything was in shape.

"I am compelled to leave town on important business," he announced to one of his junior partners, "please hold all mail till further orders from me."

Inside the hour he had bought his ticket for the Adirondacks.

* * *

A minute before, she had believed him hundreds of miles away, tugging at the pile of briefs he had declared it impossible for him to leave under a fortnight.

"Dick! What a shock you've given me, and what a surprise!" she managed to jerk out hysterically; "and why didn't you let me know you were coming?"

"I wanted to give you a pleasant surprise. I hope it is a pleasant one?"

Then they both laughed, and afterwards, he went up to her suite to brush up a little, as it was almost the hour for dinner.

His wife's noncommittal attitude had left hom more in the dark then ever. Two days ago he would have sworn that she was guilty; today, he would have taken an oath of just the reverse. Yet there were the damning bits of evidence that no amount of argument—or sophistry—could evorcome. Should he trust her—or—

The sudden appearance of a waiter announcing dinner interrupted his reverie. He put aside all personal reflection and changed his clothes with dispatch. A few moments later he had started toward the door. On the way out, his eyes fell by accident upon a crumpled sheet of closely-written note paper. The writing was in his wife's hand, unmistakably. He hesitated a second, divided between an overmastering desire to examine the contents, and an inherent antipathy to prying into her private affairs. But the recollection of his last week's bitterness, coupled with all the foregoing uncertainty, stung him into action. He bolted both doors securely and smoothing out the wrinkled paper, read with a suffocating heart:

"Dear Charley: There was a time when I believed that I had unfortunately given my heart to you, and that I should never be able to live happily away from you. But, thank heaven, the knowledge of my true feelings has come to me before it was too late. I am sending this to you to stop you in New York. Do not come here, for if you do, I shall decline even to recognize you. I am consumed with shame when I think of my contemptible weakness in allowing affairs to progress even to this point. But Providence has been merciful in protecting me from further and hopeless error. My husband is an honest and honorable man, and in every way is far above the average. Should he ever learn of my meanness, I fear that it would be the end of everything for me. You see, it has come to this that I fully realize now how deep and genuine is the feeling I have always had for him, notwithstanding this miserable affair between us. It was, I assure you, entirely brought about by a fancy on my part that he was beginning to neglect me. So you will readily understand how superficial my feelings in regard to you have always been. If there is anything of the gentleman in your composition, and I believe there is, will you not let these past few months remain a closed book forever? I am repenting most keenly this ridiculous folly, and with the help of God, I mean to be forever true and honorable. Don't try to dissuade me, for I was never so tragically determined in my life.—E. H."

When Hartley looked up from the letter, his eyes were blurred and aching. But a grateful mist swam suddenly across the hot balls and his brain cleared. "Honest and honorable and in every way far above the average of men"—those were her words. Should he deserve them by a liberal silence or confront her with this positive proof of unfaithfulness? After all, her infidelity had been only in thought, and she was still his by all the laws of God and man. Her only crime had been her weakness, and for that he himself was doubtless in part responsible.

He walked over to the mantel and deliberately struck a match, applying the flame to the crumpled sheet of paper. When it had fallen to black bits over the hearth, he turned. For some reason he had not heard the door open softly, and the blood flamed over his face as he encountered his wife's eyes fixed full upon him.

An awkward silence fell between them. Elsie was the first to break it.

"I thought you must have forgotten about dinner," she said, coming up to him, "so I ran up to remind you." She carried a big bunch of violets in one hand and she laid them suddenly across her lips to hide their trembling.

Hartley passed an arm about her shoulders and bent swiftly to kiss her.

Had she seen him destroy the letter, and did she know that he had read and knew all? He would never have the answer to that question, but the warm touch of the lips she lifted to his caress solved all future problems for them both.

This is the cry of little Fay Hubbard as she goes through the crowd at the suffragette meetings in New York selling copies of the paper issued in the interest of the cause. Little Miss Fay is only 13, but she is so ardent for the cause that she says she will never have a sweetheart who will not promise to let her vote when she is old enough to claim the franchise. Effort to Be Made to Ascertain Beliefs of Citizens.

Aitkin, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the County Sunday School association here last fall it was decided to take a religious census of Aitkin.

The matter has been deferred through one cause and another, but the work will be done on Saturday afternoon next. All the churches in town have become interested and each has selected a number of canvassers to do the work. About forty people will be thus engaged and it is expected the census will be completed in half a day. The purpose is to find out the number of children in town who are not attending Sunday school.

GLADNESS COMES~

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of illness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact that it is the only remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is, therefore, all-important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to purchase and note that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

It is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and assists in overcoming habitual constipation permanently, also biliousness and the many ills resulting therefrom. The great trouble with all other purgatives and aperients is not that they fail to act when a single dose is taken, but that they act too violently and invariably tend to produce a habit of body requiring constantly augmented doses. Children enjoy the pleasant taste and gentle action of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the ladies find it delightful and beneficial whenever a laxative remedy is needed, and business men pronounce it invaluable, as it may be taken without interfering with business and does not gripe nor nauseate. When buying note the name, California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of every package. Price, 50 cents a bottle.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

HANDLING MORE CARS

Minnesota Railroads Not Handicapped Moving Freight as Has Been Claimed.

Railroad Commission's Report Will Show Roads Busier Than Last Year.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to the Herald.)—According to reports now in the hands of the state railway commission, Minnesota railroads are handling from 25 to 40 per cent more freight now than a year ago, in spite of the extensive car shortage troubles and although crippled by the strike of the switchmen.

The commission's report to Governor A. O. Eberhart may be made public today. All the reports are in from its investigation of traffic conditions, but these must be tabulated. The report is made in response to the governor's request, prompted by the efforts of the strikers and of the Twin City aldermanic committee to get a public hearing on car shortage complaints.

Enough is known of the commission's forthcoming report to show that it will not indicate that the roads are materially handicapped by the strike. Members of the commission say the blockade is not as bad now, on the whole, as it was three years ago, when there was no strike. They also find more cars being handled today and a larger tonnage than the roads moved last winter at this time.

DULUTHIAN IS HELD FOR TRIAL

Harry Williams in Trouble in Polk County on a Serious Charge.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Williams alias William Powell, charged with attempting to obtain money under false pretenses, was bound over to the district court of Polk county at the preliminary hearing yesterday.

Williams, according to information received here, is a resident of Duluth, and has a wife and family there. For that reason Judge T. A. Sullivan placed his bond at only $150, believing that he might be able to procure that amount and gain his liberty, but last night he was taken to the county jail at Crookston, not being able to get the bond.

The offense is alleged to have occurred here about a week ago. Harry Hutchins, a saloonkeeper, being the complaining witness.

Two Harbors defending the affirmative.

BIG SANDSTONE MEETING.

Civic League Discusses Saloon and Other Current Questions.

Sandstone, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The largest gathering of people ever congregated in the new opera house since its completion was held Sunday night, when the Civic league conducted another of the anti-saloon meetings prior to the village election next March. The question of high taxes in the village and town of Sandstone and in Independent School District No. 5 was thoroughly gone over and explained by Secretary Madison of the school board, who contended that the money derived from liquor licenses in the past had nothing to do with the higher taxes this year, but that the many public improvements were the direct cause; that in the past in spite of the revenue from the saloons the village debts had steadily increased from year to year instead of lessened. Rev. W. S. Middlemass was the chief speaker of the evening. He argued against the saloons and challenged the audience to deny any of his statements. The choir and the male quartet rendered some beautiful songs. The next meeting will be held next Sunday evening and the league is making efforts to secure Hon. Frank Eddy, Rev. Father Cleary, Rev. Clemans and other able speakers on the temperance question.

CASS LAKE RESORT.

Cass Lake, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Neshota (twin) beach is the name of the new summer resort southwest of Cass Lake, between Long lake and Helen bay. A tract of thirty acres has been platted into lots and they are being sold at a very reasonable figure. The resort is within a short distance of the Indian mission school and is situated in one of the most beautiful spots around here.

A bridge will probably be built across Kitchi lake, near the mission. If this is not done it may be that the mission school will be moved across on this side of the lake. At the present time it is impossible to get across to the school without crossing the river or lake in a boat. A ferry is used for the transportation of wagons and other like vehicles. The government department has been contemplating doing something in this line for several years but as yet they have taken no definite action.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city is voting today on the question of issuing $15,000 in bonds for the purpose of erecting a new school building. DISAPPEARED FEEL SPLENDID Stella Halquist, of Laporte, Minn., Tells How Her Troubles Disappeared After Taking Cardui, the Women's Tonic.

Laporte, Minn.—"I am getting along fine and feel splendid, since taking Cardui," writes Mrs. Stella Halquist, of this place.

"I used to have backache, headache, and that tired out feeling. I had other womanly troubles and dragging sensations but they have almost disappeared now.

"I cannot praise Cardui enough, for it has done wonders for me."

Cardui is no mere nerve sedative or pain queller, and contains none of the new headache ingredients, the too frequent indulgence in which may be dangerous.

On the contrary, Cardui is harmless, as its ingredients are mild, tonic herbs, acting mainly on the female constitution and building up both nervous and vital energy.

No harmful effects can possibly come, to young or old, from the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and thousands of women, have written, like Stella Halquist, to tell of the great benefit they obtained from its use.

Ask your druggist.

NOTE—The Cardui Home Treatment for Women, consists of Cardui ($1), Thedford's Black-Draught (25c), or Velvo (50c), for the liver, and Cardui Antiseptic (50c). These remedies may be taken singly, by themselves, if desired, or three together, as a complete treatment for women's ills. Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept. Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

Some of them were tortures, some positively dangerous, and none would hold the rupture in its proper place. The doctors told me I could not expect to have it entirely healed unless I would consent to a surgical operation. I fooled them all, however, and cured myself completely and permanently by a simple method which I discovered. Anyone can use it, and I will gladly send the cure free by mail to anyone who writes for it. Fill out the coupon below and mail it to me today. I will send the cure by return mail, postpaid.

Tired?—Nature's Sweet Restorer

IS SIGHTED IN DULUTH

Halley's Comet Will Soon Be Visible Without Aid of Telescope.

First Visit of Celestial Wanderer in Seventy-Five Years.

The comet which was woven in the tapestries of William the Conqueror as a good omen to that energetic ruler will illumine the heavens in a few weeks for the first time in seventy-four years.

Probably the first person in Duluth to get a glimpse of the visitor is J. H. Darling, assistant to Lieut. Col. Fitch of the United States engineers.

This astronomical body, which met with such disfavor in the olden times, is known as Halley's comet. It was sighted several months ago by Prof. Wolff of Heidelberg. It has been studied for several weeks by scientists with powerful telescopes. The most advantageous places for sightseeing will be along the west coast of South America and the Hawaiian islands. Several astronomers from Eastern and Western universities, as well as a party of foreign scientists, have already departed for Hawaii where they will take observations of the visitor.

The earth will be enveloped in the comet's tail for a day or two. A man who walked down town in today's snow storm said he would not have to stretch his imagination much to believe it now. The tail, however, is mostly gas, and at this distance from the comet will not be noticed. The comet is now about 170,000,000 miles from the earth and about 130,000,000 miles from the sun. It is going through space at the rate of 2,000,000 miles a day and for two days in May will be about 14,000,000 miles from us. It is now eight degrees to the right of Saturn and slightly below it. The earth is moving away from it now, but after March 25 the two bodies will begin to move toward each other. The comet will then become larger from the earth's viewpoint and will become visible to the eye about May 18. It will be a day object in April and the forepart of May, and on May 18 will be the nearest to the earth that it has approached in at least 150 years. It will become an evening object on that date, when it should present a brilliant spectacle. The "A 1910" comet which caused a flurry in scientific circles a few weeks ago, was a candle by the side of an electric headlight compared with the spectacle which will be presented by Halley's comet.

The last appearance of the comet can be remembered by few persons now living. Few people who will see it hanging on the Eastern horizon in a few weeks, will live to see it again, as it recurs only once in seventy-five years, or thereabouts. The news of the sighting of the comet a few months ago was considered a great astronomical triumph. It was a triumph even greater than that of 1835, when the scientific world was electrified on Christmas day by the appearance of the great meteor-like body within a short time of the date Halley said it would, before he died previously.

Within a few weeks Halley's comet will illuminate the Eastern sky, an arc of light, plainly visible. People all over the world will marvel, influenced by something of the awe of their ancestors who, when they beheld the great "hairy star" thought that it was a menace sent by God to warn them of their sins—an awe that in many people, science has failed to dispel.

In 1862, Halley, the London astronomer, declared that the comet bearing his name would return in 1759. When the comet appeared at that time, as predicted, Halley's statement that it traveled in an orbit was confirmed. Particular interest attaches to Halley's comet because it is the first one to reappear. Prior to the time of Halley, comets were supposed to be only occasional visitors, but Halley found that by calculating that the comet travelled in a closed curve it would return to the solar system at intervals of about seventy-five years. In 1835 the comet was only about half as large, and as brilliant as in 1759.

Some scientists claim there is danger to mortals from the gases in the tail of the comet which will envelop the earth for at least two days, but a majority say the comet will not get close enough to cause this.

SOME HOPE OF A SETTLEMENT

George B. Howley Returns From a Trip Through the West.

George B. Howley, president of the State Federation of Labor, said today that the strike of switchmen in the Northwest would be adjusted in the near future. Mr. Howley has returned from a trip through North Dakota and Montana. He is stopping at the St. Louis.

"A conference between representatives of the railroads and the switchmen will be held in St. Paul this week," said Mr. Howley, "and I look for the difficulty to be settled then."

Best Health Builder and Tonic After Pneumonia.

MRS LAURA J. FULLER.

The one stimulant prescribed by Doctors in such cases and when the system is run down is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which has brought the blessing of health to thousands of homes the past 50 years.

"Some two years ago I had a very severe attack of pneumonia and was confined to my bed four weeks or more. After I was able to be about the house I was very weak and not able to do my work, had that 'all gone' feeling and nothing seemed to help me. My brother said to me, 'Get some Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and see if that don't do the trick.' I got a bottle and commenced taking it according to directions—a teaspoonful before each meal and one when going to bed. I commenced to get better from the start and have continued the use of it and would not be without it under any consideration. It certainly has saved me many times its cost in doctor's bills. I can cheerfully recommend it as the best tonic and health builder in the world." Laura J. Fuller, Hampton, Conn.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain from which all the injurious substances have been removed. FLEE FROM THE FLAMES

Mrs. Davison and Daughter Driven Out Into the Storm.

Small Store and Home Are Destroyed By Early Morning Fire.

Protected by their night clothing only, Mrs. Catharine Davison and her small daughter were driven from their beds into the storm early this morning, when their home at the rear of a candy store, 2432 West Second street, was completely destroyed by fire.

Forced to leave the burning building, the woman sent her little girl across the street to arouse the neighbors. The little girl did so and the woman and child were taken in, and from a window watched their home go up in flames.

The department was called but not in time to save the building. The origin of the blaze is unknown. It broke out about 3:30 o'clock this morning but was not discovered by Mrs. Davison until it had gained considerable headway.

The building was owned by B. Archambauldt and the store was conducted by Mrs. Davison. Her husband was out of the city at the time of the fire. The building was completely destroyed with its contents and the loss is close to $1,000, partly covered by insurance.

The firemen were called out late last evening to a fire at the rear of Mullery's mill at the foot of Twenty-fourth avenue west. One of the large stables caught fire and burned to the ground. Fortunately, it was the barn used by the night shift horses and was empty. Some insurance was carried on the building.

BANQUET MARCH 3.

Members of West End Commercial Club to Gather Around Board.

Thursday, March 3, has been selected as the date for the first annual banquet of the West End Commercial club, which will be held this year at the St. Jean Baptiste church hall on West Third street between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues.

The Rosary Society of the St. Clement's Catholic church of the West end will serve the banquet. Arrangements will be made for several good speakers. Several are in view and the committee will send out invitations to them.

Preparations will be made to accommodate at least 200.

WRESTLING MATCHES.

Members of Adams Association See Grapplers in Action.

Two wrestling matches were pulled off last evening at the Adams Athletic association rooms on West Superior street, in which Herman Peterson threw John Steuerwald twice in thirty-three minutes and Henry Anderson secured two falls in exactly ten minutes in a match with Helmer Otterson.

Peterson secured his first fall in fifteen minutes. The second took three minutes longer. Otterson was thrown the first time in seven minutes. The second fall followed in three minutes. John Gelstman acted as referee and Axel Erickson was timekeeper. Anderson challenged Peterson for a match next Monday evening. The men will wrestle two out of three falls.

Valentine Social.

With an interesting program of "experience" rhymes, a novel Valentine social was given last evening under the auspices of the Epworth League Sewing Circle of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church. The affair was held at the church. Each of the young ladies contributed 50 cents and then recited a rhyme to tell how she secured the money. About $30 was collected. Miss Harriet Anderson of West Fifth street won a prize for the best verse. A musical program and refreshments followed.

To Entertain Society.

The Tabernacle Circle of the St. Clement's Catholic church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Carroll of 2714 West Fourth street. An interesting program has been arranged and the hostess will serve refreshments.

West End Shortrails.

Rev. Carl G. Olson, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, left last evening for St. Paul where he will attend the annual Minnesota conference of Swedish Lutheran churches.

Queen Esther circle of the Grace M. E. church will be entertained this evening at the home of Mrs. Peter Gorman of 112 North Twenty-fifth avenue west.

The Sunday school teachers of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church will meet this evening at the church parlors to discuss plans for an Easter program.

The Swedish Republican club held a short business session last evening at Sloan's hall, at which twenty new members were admitted. The preliminary arrangements for the annual banquet were made.

The funeral of Carl Harron of 2025 West First street, who died Saturday, was conducted this afternoon from the residence and later from the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church with interment at Park Hill cemetery. Rev. E. Erickson officiated.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Swedish M. E. church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Youngberg of Twenty-first avenue west and Seventh street.

CABINET MEMBERS NAMED IN LONDON.

London, Feb. 15.—The following appointments were announced last night: Secretary for the home department, Winston Spencer Churchill; president of the board of trade, Sydney Buxton; chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, J. A. Pease, postmaster general, Herbert Louis Samuel.

J. A. Pease, who was the chief Liberal whip, was defeated at the general election, but it is expected that a safe seat will be found for him in Lancashire. Herbert Louis Samuel is under secretary of state for the home office.

AN ITCHING PALM

No Cure for It. Other Forms of Itching Preferable.

There is no cure for an itching palm—the money kind. Even poslam, the new skin discovery, cannot help it. But when it comes to eczema, the most annoying of itching skin troubles, poslam will stop the itching at once and cure the worst cases in a few days. So with hives, rash, scabies, split toes, piles, and scaly scalp, all of which are different forms of eczema, accompanied by severe itching and caused by imperfect digestion and careless diet.

Poslam comes in two-dollar jars, but fifty cents' worth will answer in curing any of the diseases mentioned. It can be had of any druggist, the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior, make a specialty of it.

That results are immediate will be amply demonstrated overnight by the use of the experimental sample which the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city, will send free by mail, in plain wrapper, to any one who will write for it.

BIJOU—New vaudeville bill. (See notice below.)

THE DRUMMER AS STAGE HERO

"The Traveling Salesman" Delights a Large Audience at Lyceum.

It is as a creator of stage types that James Forbes has been most successful. "The Chorus Lady" was never hampered with any startlingly original plot, but Miss Patricia O'Brien was a type that nobody could fail to recognize.

In Bob Blake, the jovial drummer of "The Traveling Salesman," Mr. Forbes has drawn an equally accurate picture. The author does not resort to burlesque or caricature to extract fun from his characters. He relies solely on the faithfulness of his picture, and for this reason he succeeds in reaching the great mass of everyday citizens more effectively than any of the modern playwrights, with the possible exception of Charles Hoyt.

The plot of "The Traveling Salesman" would never take a prize for originality, and it is with difficulty stretched out to cover four acts. In fact it would just about make a good vaudeville sketch, if it relied on the plot alone, but it is padded out with amusing situations, and some new and some old slang, until it furnishes a good evening's entertainment, which is thoroughly wholesome and enjoyable.

Mr. Forbes' work is not unlike George Ade's. There is the same supply of pat slang phrases, the same knack of picturing homely, commonplace American types, and the same broad, genial humor. That it is popular was shown last evening, when the Lyceum was crowded with an audience which thoroughly enjoyed itself.

Mark Smith, in the title role of Bob Blake, the traveling salesman, is a type himself. The role is what is known to actors as a "fat part," with every opportunity for good work. Mr. Smith possesses a rather imposing physique which borders just closely enough on obesity to be typical of a drummer, or at least of the fat, jolly drummer of comic paper fame. He also has a contagious laugh. As far as the physical attributes go, he is well fitted for the part. He is also a passably good comedian, and on the whole, is quite satisfying in the part.

If some kind friend would only whisper to Miss Miriam Nesbitt that "The Traveling Salesman" is not light opera, she would make a very charming Beth Elliott. She sings through her lines in a delightful soprano voice, carols her love scenes, warbles her repartees, and softly gurgles her anger. This unfortunate tendency mars an otherwise good piece of work.

A little lecture on the art of not overdoing it, would help Theodore Kehrwald materially. As Julius, the colored bellboy, he has some good opportunities for comedy work, but he mars them by exaggerating the characteristics of the negro. His part in the poker game scene could be made a scream.

One of the cleverest bits in the performance is contributed by James O'Neill, Jr., son of the famous tragedian of Monte Christo fame, in the role of Ted Watts, the friend of Blake's. He gets all there is out of a supporting role.

Miss Diana Huneker also handles the part of Mrs. Babbitt most capably, and Clifford Stork is effective in the role of the villain of the plot, Franklyn Royce. The other characters in the play do not make their parts stand out, but neither are they offensive.

"The Traveling Salesman" will be repeated tonight. It is clean, wholesome comedy, and offers a first-class evening's entertainment, to those who are looking for a little variety from a rather steady diet of musical comedy.

FIRST HONORS ARE DIVIDED

More Than One Headline Act at Bijou This Week.

J. Hunter Wilson and Miss Effie Pearson, in a singing and dancing act, and Walter Le Roy and Florence Clayton, in a comedy sketch, "A Horse on Hogan," divide the premier honors on the bill at the Bijou this week.

Both acts are head-liners and their presence on the same bill makes that bill one of the best that has been seen at the Bijou in some time. Mr. Wilson and Miss Pearson turned from musical comedy to the vaudeville stage, and they have made a success in the latter as they did in the former. Miss Pearson is a winsome miss, whose charm gets across the footlights before she begins to sing. When she does sing, the charm is greater and her male companion adds to the merit of the act by using a good voice to advantage. Their "Romeo and Juliet" is a pleasing bit of singing and stage "business."

"A Horse on Hogan" is a cleverly constructed tabloid comedy, well acted by Mr. Le Roy and Miss Clayton. The action hinges on a man looking for a horse and a woman looking for a husband, and some of the situations are decidedly funny. The actors bring out the comedy in the sketch to the full, and the audience is kept in constant laughter during the time the playlet runs.

Mlle. Nadje, equilibrist, receives her share of applause from the audience, and she richly deserves it, for she adds distinct merit to the bill. Her act is rather short, but it is interesting every minute. She has some new features that have not been seen here before in acts of the kind, strange as it may seem.

Newell and Niblo have a musical act that is pleasing. Their work on the saxaphones is especially good. Max York has a troupe of well-trained dogs and he furnishes amusement and entertainment for the audience by putting them through their paces. Earl Morse sings "Red Head" and the usual moving pictures complete a first class bill.

A Safeguard to Children.

"Our two children of six and eight years have been since infancy subject to colds and croup. About three years ago I started to use Foley's Honey and Tar, and it has never failed to prevent and cure these troubles. It is the only medicine I can get the children to take without a row." JUDGE ARRAIGNS THE CONDITIONS

Makes Remarkable Speech in Reply to Female Suffrage Hunters.

Troy, N. Y., Feb. 15.—In telling a delegation of female suffragists yesterday why he favored votes for women, Supreme Court Justice Wesley O. Howard delivered a remarkable arraignment of political and commercial greed and graft. He said intelligence, not sex, should be the test for the right to vote. Then he said:

"Governors are calling out militia to suppress boxing exhibitions, while the jugglery of statutes in the same building is contributing with other causes to raise the cost of living to the point of bread riots. Waiters are forbidden to graft 10 cents from the man who sits an hour at the dinner table, while the taxpayers are being plundered out of millions of dollars by the jackals that prowl around their public works.

Solons and Conditions.

"While the 'direct primary bill' is being added to the thirty-three other dead sections of the election law, to become the plaything of the bosses, butter and eggs are leaving the table of the laboring man and the smoke of sirloin steak is no longer smelt in his kitchen. While legislators are consuming their own time and the people's money in making and investigating charges of fraud corruption and bribery against one another, some corporate monster is said to be sucking the milk from the table of the sick room and from the crib of the infant."

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

SAYS TAFT SHOWED MORAL AMBIGUITY

Charles A. Towne Talks About the President's Lincoln Day Address.

New York, Feb. 15.—Charles A. Towne, formerly United States senator from Minnesota, said last night in a lecture on the "Dynamic West" that he had been struck by the "moral ambiguity" of President Taft's Lincoln day address.

"The president," said Mr. Towne, "devoted much time to proving: First, that the Republican party did not promise to lower the tariff—merely to revise it. But if the party did not promise to lower rates, they implied as much—and what is the difference between an honorably implied promise and an 'explicit promise'? If the party of Mr. Taft had not convinced the people that it would lower the tariff, the people would not have elected Mr. Taft president.

"Then, having said that the party did not promise downward revision, Mr. Taft goes on to assert that downward revision has been secured. Which makes me feel that he must have doubted the justice of his own first promise—else why should he be so anxious to prove that a promise not made has been kept?"

MINING CONGRESS TO MEET IN LOS ANGELES.

Denver, Feb. 15.—The directors of the American Mining congress announces that the thirteenth annual convention of that body will be held in Los Angeles next fall. Spokane was the chief rival for the convention which is expected to attract 2,000 delegates. A movement to unify all the mining laws will be one of the results of the congress and several new statutes for the regulation of mine inspection and the use of safety appliances, will be advocated.

Canadian Pacific Dividend.

Montreal, Feb. 15.—The board of directors of the Canadian Pacific railway has declared a dividend of 2 per cent on preferred stock and 3 per cent on common stock, for the half year ending last December, payable April 1. It was decided that a further sum equal to one-half of 1 per cent on the common stock would be paid at that time, out of the interest on the proceeds of land sales. After paying operating expenses, fixed charges and the dividends now declared, there is a surplus for the half year ending December 1st of $10,611,917.

KEENE EXPLAINS.

Tells About the Hocking Pool That Collapsed.

New York, Feb. 15.—James R. Keene, the millionarire horseman and stock exchange member, took the stand yesterday to explain his part in the Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron pool, which collapsed last month and took three stock exchange houses down with it. The hearing is being held before Thomas W. Alexander, United States commissioner in bankruptcy, on application of Irving L. Ernst, receiver for the failed firm of J. M. Fiske & Co., to determine the assets of the firm.

Mr. Keene admitted that he was the manager of the pool and named his occupation as "stocks and speculation, I suppose."

The early questions of counsel brought out that there were two Hocking pools, the first of which was dissolved last March at Mr. Keene's instance.

Tomorrow Columbia Basement Sale

One of those rare events that bring out the biggest crowds. The inventory of a stock of men's and boys' wearables in excess of $100,000 in wholesale value naturally shows up hundreds of good and true articles which from the critical viewpoint of the Chief Buyer, whose aim it is to keep the stocks "clean," must walk the plank. A sale like this entails an awful loss, but one that is cheerfully and courageously taken by modern merchants of the Columbia class. A few special purchases on which the loss is borne by the wholesalers sweetens the leaven for us and means still more dough for you.

INVESTIGATE COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT

City Council Appoints a Committee for the Purpose.

Third Amendment Declared Lost on the Official Returns.

THE COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Appointed committee of three to investigate commission plan of government.

Officially declared third amendment lost.

Authorized advertising $150,000 worth of water and light bonds for sale.

Confirmed appointment of W. F. Bailey to library board.

Disposed of many minor routine matters.

The city council took the first step towards the adoption of the commission form of government in Duluth last night when a committee of three, consisting of Aldermen Shartel, Hoar and Moore, was appointed to make a complete investigation of the plan.

This is the first time that any action has been taken toward the adoption of this plan in Duluth. The matter has been discussed informally many times, but no official or commercial body has heretofore shown any initiative.

The commission plan was first tried at Galveston, Tex., and taken up by Des Moines, Iowa. The latter city received so much attention that the commission form of government is known as the Des Moines plan. The authorities in the Iowa city declare that it is an unqualified success, pointing to the vast saving in municipal expenses made the first year as the most convincing proof.

Alderman Shartel, who introduced the resolution calling for the appointment of the committee, stated that the investigation, if properly made, will take six months or a year. He explained that the commission plan is being adopted in many cities throughout the country, and that it is proving a popular success. He believed that Duluth should at least learn the merits of the plan for itself. This will take considerable time and should it be found suitable for Duluth, would have to be adopted by a vote of the electors.

Amendment Lost.

The official canvass of the election returns on the water and light bond issue and the amendments showed that the third amendment, providing for the levy of not to exceed 1 mill for a street maintenance fund, had been lost by eighteen votes. The bond issue and the first two amendments were found to have carried. To rectify the error a contest will have to be started against the precinct where the difference of twenty votes was discovered by some citizen. The city attorney will represent the citizens bringing the contest and Attorney Charles E. Adams has volunteered his services to have the precinct recounted. The official vote shows that the amendment received 5,239 votes and that the total vote was 8,762.

Condemnation proceedings were ordered to secure property for a road to open a rich agricultural section near Woodland. In a general way the road parallels Woodland avenue about half a mile to the west. It leaves Woodland avenue at St. Marie street and intersects it again at Stornaway street.

* * *

The city clerk was directed to advertise for bids for $150,000 worth of the water and light bonds authorized at the last city election. The other $50,000 worth are intended for the extensions which will become necessary when the steel plant is completed.

* * *

The Iron Range road was asked to remove the obstructions from its right-of-way at Robinson street. The city intends to maintain a crossing at that point. The board of public works was authorized to advertise for bids for three new dump wagons and one sweeper.

* * *

The building inspector was directed to relay the floor on the rear room of the basement of the city hall at an expense of not to exceed $75.

* * *

A petition was received to grade and pave Second alley between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenue east.

* * *

Twenty-second avenue east.

The ordinance authorizing the sale of $30,000 worth of bonds for the permanent improvement revolving fund had its first reading.

* * *

The council approved the appointment of W. F. Bailey as a member of the library board to succeed L. A. Barnes resigned.

* * *

The board of public works reported that $20,000 might be saved by changing the route of the Woodland sewer so as to have the outlet at Thirty-fifth avenue east instead of at Thirty-eighth avenue east.

In submitting his annual report Chief Troyer stated that the substitution of automobiles for horses has been a big improvement as well as the means of making a considerable saving. Including all repairs and the cost of gasoline, both automobiles have been run on an average of $8 less per month than it cost the city to keep the horses.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH" SLOGAN INJURES BUSINESS OF TRAVELING AGENTS OF OUTSIDE CLOTHING AND SHIRT FIRMS

Traveling representatives of tailoring houses, shirt manufacturing companies and other concerns selling direct to the consumer by order, are confronted in Duluth by the "Do It For Duluth" slogan and are meeting with rather a frosty reception this winter.

The word has gone out among traveling men that the Indian sign is being freely used on those who sell direct to the consumer in opposition to Duluth dealers, and when they see fruitful fields elsewhere they pass by Duluth and leave the field to the home dealers.

The "Do It For Duluth" slogan has been widely adopted. There isn't much fuss about it and perhaps one wouldn't notice unless he looked sharply that there is any effect, but the traveling men, who have been reaping a rich harvest in Duluth for years selling clothing by order, find that their old customers are turning to Duluth dealers and leaving the outside men in the cold.

People are learning that Duluth dealers have the goods, can make the garments to satisfy and have prices that compare favorably with those of outside concerns. They are beginning to learn that every dollar given to an outside concern for something that could be bought at home is a dollar turned from the channels of trade through which it should go, a dollar taken from the sum total of dollars that makes Duluth prosperous. If a man has any civic pride and if selfish interests are removed by prices at home being on a level with those set by outside concerns, he isn't going to willingly damage his own town. He is going to turn to the home dealer and "Do It For Duluth."

Duluth has up-to-date tailors and up-to-date clothing stores, who furnish stylish clothing at fair prices. Duluth has up-to-date shirt manufacturers, who can make a shirt to fit like the proverbial "paper on the wall." There is no necessity for people going outside of the city for their clothing. The people are learning it to their own satisfaction. Outside dealers and their representatives are learning it to their sorrow. Duluth dealers are learning it to their profit.

"Do It For Duluth."

WAS KILLED BY STEPSON, SAYS CORONER'S JURY

Inquest Is Held Over the Body of Charles Clark.

The members of the coroner's jury which investigated the death of Charles Clark yesterday at the undertaking rooms of Olson & Crawford in the West end declared that it was their belief that the old man was killed by blows inflicted by George Booker, his stepson.

Booker was taken from the morgue, where the battered body of his stepfather still laid, to the police station, where a warrant was immediately sworn out by Chief Troyer, charging him with murder in the first degree. He was taken at once to police court, where he asked a preliminary examination, which was set for tomorrow.

Clark's body was brought to the morgue at 4 o'clock Thursday morning under peculiar circumstances. The story told by Booker did not seem reasonable. Suspicion that he had met a violent death became almost a certainty when the autopsy disclosed the terrible injuries inflicted upon him. Three ribs on each side of the body were smashed in two; his breast bone was fractured; one rib in the back had been broken and plunged through the lung, which was filled with blood; his shins were bruised and his head and face marked, while the right arm was broken below the elbow by a blow seemingly inflicted by a heavy instrument.

The corpse was hauled to the city in a sled. Booker declared that the old man had fallen across a fire onto a set of bed springs on the other side, receiving the injuries which caused his death while he was being hauled to Duluth.

Dr. J. A. McCuen and the physicians who performed the post-mortem stated that Clark could have lived but a short time after he was injured. They declare positively that the injuries were caused by violent blows. This was repeated yesterday afternoon at the inquest by Dr. Braden.

Kicked Him to Death.

The police and the county authorities are strongly of the opinion that Booker kicked and beat his step-father to death in a frenzied rage induced by Clark's accidentally setting the wagon on fire while hunting for a pail in which to steep tea. It is also believed that his naturally irascible temper was quickened by liquor.

The two men had left Wednesday afternoon for Johnson's camp near French river with a wagon load of stuff which they intended to transfer to a sleigh, the runners of which they carried on the bottom of the wagon. They had reached the transfer point and had started to unload when Clark received the wounds which killed him. Booker says that he was the only person who was with him from the time they started until he brought him back dead early the next morning.

The evidence placed before the jury, which was sworn in by Coroner McCuen, was limited, only two witnesses being examined. The first was Dr. Braden, one of the physicians who performed the autopsy, and Booker himself. W. E. Greene, assistant county attorney, carefully explained to Booker that he didn't have to testify unless he wanted to, but Booker said that he desired to tell his story. Dr. Braden explained the injuries and declared that their nature indicated positively that they were the result of violent blows.

Booker's story was substantially the same as that he told the police. He added several new details, but they did not conflict seriously with what he had previously said. Going down one hill with another facing them, he said that he started the team on a run and was almost to the top of the next ascent before he noticed that Clark was not with him. Going back, he says, he found him lying beside the road, where he explained he had been knocked by one of the wheels. But that evidently did not disable him, as he afterwards helped unload some of the goods on the wagon preparatory to putting them on the sled. He complained very little, but coughed quite a bit after being picked up on the road, according to Booker.

About two blocks from the Iron Range crossing on London road Booker said he noticed that Clark's head was on one side and that his hand was dragging outside. He says he tried to blow into his mouth to make him breathe, and then felt that his heart had stopped beating.

Booker admitted that they had some alcohol with them, in a quart bottle, but said there was only half a pint of alcohol with enough water to nearly fill the bottle. He said that they had drank all but about a quarter of it. He said that he got it about three or four days before election. He denied that they had taken more than one drink of whiskey before they started. He was closely questioned about the goods they had unloaded from the wagon and where he had placed them. The part which Clark had helped unload was also carefully inquired into.

The members of the jury which heard the evidence were W. W. Johnson, Joseph Cummings, R. C. Sloan, E. A. Thompson, S. W. Hill and M. S. Watt. One of them remarked afterwards that the evidence introduced was not very complete, but that it was sufficient to warrant much further investigation.

TWENTY-FIFTH IS CLEARED.

Negro Soldiers Not Those Who Attacked Woman.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 15.—The Twenty-fifth infantry (colored) of Brownsville fame, was cleared of a new trouble last night. The negro soldiers were paraded before Mrs. C. F. Aiseda, a white woman, who claimed that she had been attacked by a soldier who threw a cape over her head last Friday night. Mrs. Aiseda was given a most thorough opportunity to scrutinize the faces of the men, but was positive that her assailant was not among them. This probably will end the incident.

Fitger Brewing Co., DULUTH, MINN.

In commenting on a report made public by a Special Government Commission, "The Hospital," London, in an editorial, May 1, 1909, says:

"When a man drinks good beer he drinks and eats at the same time, just as when he eats a bowl of soup. We hope the number of beer drinkers will increase considerably, as the result of the researches of our Commission, and we hold the view that it would be infinitely better for the well-being of the people, as a whole, if they were to select beer as their habitual drink. If the worth of food is measured by its calorimetric value, the fact is, that a glass of good beer is approximately as nourishing as a glass of milk, or a quart of good beer is equivalent to a quarter of a pound of beef, and it is often far more efficacious in the treatment of insomnia than drugs, due to the hypnotic principle contained in hops."

THE PRICE OF CIVILIZATION.

A careful reading of the very interesting and, withal, very just discussion of current economic problems contained in the published reports of a sermon given Sunday by Rev. John Walker Powell of this city tends to remove the impression, which many seem to have taken from it, that it is its author's idea that the high cost of living, with all its painful appurtenances, is to be condoned because it is the necessary price we pay for the state of civilization at which we have arrived. Surely Mr. Powell does not wish anybody to rest upon that impression of his views. When he says that "it is true that living costs more than formerly, but we do not always consider that it is worth more," he speaks a part of the truth, and the rest of it is in his statement that the fight of the people against privilege is old and unceasing and that victory, in the end, is certain.

Living today is worth more to many, it is true, but so long as there is so much injustice in the distribution of the benefits of civilization it is not true to say that it is worth more to all. If civilization such as that which prevails today were to be had only at the fearful price of the economic tyranny that it exacts, it wouldn't be worth preserving for a moment. When the humble serf of feudal days protested against the miseries of his situation, perhaps his baron calmly informed him that his condition was the price he must pay for the glory of living under feudalism. The worker of today who is denied the right of full self-expression because the struggle for bare existence absorbs so much of himself and because between the wretchedly meagerness of the share of his product he is able to retain and the high prices he is charged for the necessaries of life his body is badly nourished and his soul is starved, is paying a price all too great for the measure of civilization that is meted out to him.

So long as men depend upon the pleasure of others for the inherent right to toil for their daily bread, so long as those who toil not reap the richest fruits of the toiler's product, so long as human flesh and blood is cheaper than machinery, which is property and therefore sacred though humanity is despised, so long as industry is controlled by a modern baronage and labor is its vassal, just so long must the cost of living remain out of proportion to the wages of toil, and just so long will civilization be too dear at any price.

A "DRY" CHICAGO? HARDLY.

At the coming April city election, Chicago will probably vote on the momentous question of "wet or dry?" This is common enough in the smaller communities. Townships and villages vote upon it often, and the thrilling campaigns for and against the saloon help mightily in relieving the tedium of existence in small communities. But it is not the usual thing to have great, cosmopolitan cities like Chicago voting on it just like a village, and though the result is a foregone conclusion, the campaign and the election will be interesting indeed.

In order to bring the question to a vote, under the law it was necessary to secure 61,000 signers to a petition. This meant 61,000 real, live and present voters, and it was something of a contract. When the "drys" had that many, they kept on and got nearly 14,000 more for good measure, so that the petition as presented contained the names of 74,805 voters. It was presented by a thousand temperance workers, who spent the hour preceding the formality of its deliverance singing gospel hymns in a neighboring hall. After the immense document had been duly presented and its receipt duly acknowledged, the concourse of earnest and enthusiastic workers sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." From the published descriptions of the scene, there is no mistake about the earnestness and zeal of those who seek to free Chicago's 2,000,000 people from the "demon Rum," which they manifestly believe to be a task of greater moment than anything now pending in the public life of America.

It would be a tremendous triumph for prohibition, of course, if the "drys" should carry the Chicago election and vote out the saloon. Equally of course, they will not do it. Whether they believe there is a chance of success does not appear. At any rate they appear to be going at their campaign exactly as they would if they saw victory in sight. Maybe they intend it only as a moral lesson, and as an opportunity to educate the public to the evils of drink.

Though Chicago is one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world, and though there is probably about as great a proportion of "liberal" voters on her poll lists as any other large city could show, it is clear that the liquor trade is not underestimating the importance of this movement. At first they hoped that it would not be possible to get the required number of signers to the petition. That was a false hope, of course, because there is nothing easier on earth than getting signers to petitions. Now the saloon interests are rallying to the defense, and if the anti-saloonists are proceeding as though they saw a chance for victory, the pro-saloonists are proceeding as though they intended to take no chances of defeat.

A "dry" Chicago is utterly unthinkable, on the basis proposed. If there was a little broader spirit among the anti-saloon crusaders, there is a way that even in Chicago it might be possible to do their cause some good. Where they make a mistake is in classing beer and the more ardent liquors together. Among the large foreign element whose votes for "liberality" toward the saloons may be counted upon, beer is the thing that will hold them in line. If the fight were to prohibit the sale of whisky, for instance, it would get many more votes. While beer can be and is abused, and while maybe everybody would be better off if they refused to drink even beer, unquestionably the ardent liquors are far greater offenders than beer. Besides, under prohibition it is easy to smuggle bad whisky through the legal lines, because it is cheaper and less bulky.

An experiment that would stand far greater show of success would be to ask Chicago to vote against whisky, and give it to understand that it could keep its beer. That would be a move in the interests of temperance, and while it might not win, it would stand a better chance than the present forlorn hope of asking Chicago to vote to deprive itself of everything that cheers and stimulates.

AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.

Each day next week Rev. M. S. Rice of the First Methodist church will deliver noonday addresses of twenty minutes each at the Lyceum theater. The services will start at 12:15, beginning with fifteen minutes of song service. The subjects announced are tempting to the interest, and Dr. Rice is always worth hearing. It is announced that while the meetings will be arranged and paid for by the First Methodist church—there being no collection—they will be in no sense sectarian; that they will be simply for "the good of the cause."

Clearly, since there are too many business men who will not go to the church, this is an attempt to bring the church to the business men, and as such it is an entirely worthy and very interesting experiment, which cannot fail to do good. The man who neglects his soul and lets it atrophy lacks much of being a complete man. He may not suspect it, but the development of his higher instincts is just as essential to his real success in life as anything else; indeed, without such development he cannot, in any true sense, achieve success worth while. If men who lack spiritual development because of their neglect can be tempted to remedy that lack by noonday meetings in a theater handy to their downtown places of work and business, this is a splendid enterprise for which The Herald wishes the most abundant success.

BACK TO THE FARM.

To say that the high cost of living is due to the fact that the cities have robbed the farms of their producing population practically is equivalent to saying that the soil does not produce enough to feed the country, and that the high price is caused by an increasing demand paralleled by a lessening supply. The Herald has shown that the country is producing enough to feed itself, and that if it were not there would be no such exportation of food products as there is now, nor would it be possible to stuff the cold storage warehouses of the country full of food, to be held there for months or years to await a favorable moment for selling it.

As to the idea that there is a lessening supply, or a supply not keeping pace with the demand, the figures don't show it. The department of agriculture has compiled some statistics that are in point.

In the decade of 1866 to 1875 this country produced 6.2 bushels of wheat a year for every man, woman and chlld in the country. In the period from 1905 to 1908 the average annual production was 7.9 bushels per capita, the highest in the history of the country.

The production of corn in the latter period was 31.8 bushels per capita, also the highest in the country's history. In the decade from 1866 to 1875 the average was 24.6 bushels per capita. The production of oats was 9.8 bushels per capita as compared with 6.9 bushels in 1866-1875, that of barley 1.9 bushels compared with .7 of a bushel, that of potatoes 3.4 bushels compared with 3 bushels, that of cotton 70 pounds per capita as compared with 37.8 pounds, that of hay .74 of a ton compared with .63 of a ton. The number of milch cows was .24 per capita in 1905-8 and .25 in 1866-75, of swine .64 as compared with .69, and of sheep .64 as compared with .80; these being the only decreases. The relative production of beef cattle will not account for the high price of beef, for there was .58 of a beef for each head of the population in 1905-8 and only .37 in 1866-75.

When it is stated that the high cost of living is due to a relative decrease in production it means that it is a product of the law of supply and demand. Yet if that law were still effective, the figures compiled by the department of agriculture show that the cost of living should be lower, because the supply is relatively greater now that it was fifty years ago.

The abandonment of the soil cannot be called the chief cause of the high cost of living, therefore. Yet, nevertheless, it is indisputable that with prices of food products so high, the soil invites willing hands to profitable labor. It is also true that if a larger proportion of the population were engaged in cultivating the soil, the yield of food products would be greater. If the law of supply and demand is still in effect, that would mean that the cost of these commodities would be less than it is now. Whether they would be less depends upon whether or not there is interference with the law of supply and demand.

At any rate, there is no question whatever that the most profitable labor to which the man of industry and strength can devote himself is the cultivation of the soil. The soil will support millions more than it is being called upon to support now, and if these millions go back to the soil they ought to be able to make living cheaper. Whether they will make it cheaper or not depends upon whether the country permits distributing agencies to control the prices of food products.

A GOOD MOVE.

There can be little doubt that sooner or later Duluth will adopt the commission form of government, with a view to taking city business out of politics and putting it on a business basis. Other communities are going that way, and none are returning. Government by commission is no magic potion that will cure civic evils in one dose; it is merely better machinery than the old for giving expression to the aspirations of progressive public spirit. But it is better machinery, and as Duluth is progressive, it will come to it. It is good, therefore, that on the motion of Alderman Shartel, the city council has taken the initiative in a movement to investigate the workings of the plan. Investigation should precede action; and it's to be hoped that this investigation will result in early action.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE OTHER SIDE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I read with surprise the address of a prominent minister. It is surprising to think that in the light of the twentieth century, before an intelligent audience a man would dare expound precepts and theories whose knell has been sounded, and whose worth his own illustrations destroyed. When he said "all that is needed to bring the millenium is purer motherhood," his position is untenable. Race redemption is not given over to one sex alone. God's commands and precepts were given to man as well as woman, and it is because the world has tried to shoulder this responsibility onto female shoulders alone that races have decayed, nations have fallen, and the Kingdom of God been so long delayed. When the sinning woman was brought (mark you, the man was not) and her accusers fled, the Master said: "Neither do I condemn thee; go and sin no more." The answer to the question of why the world is no better, is not that we haven't good mothers enough,, or that they lack training, but that little or no training is given to fathering. How can a good, pure woman give birth to a healthy being, morally and physically, if the father is taught he can sin with impunity? Let this minister read the medical statistics of this country; then dare he say it is purer motherhood alone which is needed to save this race from the fate of Ninevah and of Rome?

When the men of this nation awake to the fact that they must deny themselves and follow Christ's teachings of purity, then will the up-lift of the race be accomplished. How can we have the higher product of womanhood if fatherhood be not of the highest, as constitution and character are inherited more, it is said, from the father than the mother?

As to woman's place being the home, nobody will deny it, but because man neglected his duty to posterity, woman is forced out to fight shoulder to shoulder for the home. We talk of child protection and safeguarding young girls, and $25,000 is said to have been paid into the city treasury by houses of sin. It shows that something else besides purity of motherhood is needed in Duluth. There is a crying need for purity of fatherhood as well.

SOME PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

To the editor of The Herald:

I note with pleasure the many well written articles by correspondents on your editorial page. I am somewhat of an interrogation point. Am from Missouri and want to be shown.

Why are the state tax commissioners so anxious to raise the assessment on timber in the northern part of the state? St. Louis county pays 63 per cent of the state taxes. Does she get 10 per cent of the appropriations of the state?

Why is cord wood $7 and $8 a cord in Duluth and our merchants in Tamarack, (only sixty miles away), cannot pay $3 per cord and get out even, shipping it to Duluth?

Is there no way the northern part of the state can force a reapportionment in the legislation?

How is it that two-thirds of the merchandise in this section comes from Minneapolis, 160 or 180 miles instead of Duluth only sixty miles?

Are the Duluth merchants dead or just asleep?

If the Great Northern and Northern Pacific do not discriminate against Duluth and in favor of the Twin Cities, show me.

When the Soo road and Canadian roads want to get in and aid Duluth why do the people of that city oppose them so much.

NELSON AND MILLER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been wondering if people generally have noticed how industriously Congressman Miller and Senator Nelson have been performing lately in the little arena in front of the grandstand, via their special press agents and the newspapers. Their efforts are mainly directed toward doing big things for Duluth and the Eighth district. They are going to be successful, too, so far as hot air goes, in drawing some attention to themselves, for, though they are sure enough insurgents, they will have the full backing of the Taft-Cannon-Aldrich combine in bringing themselves to the favorable notice of the public. Wonder why these two faces smile at us so often from the columns of the newspapers just now? Wonder why these two names are coupled so often in connection with expected deeds of great daring in the public service just now? Wonder why Nelson has suddenly become the only absolutely incorruptible man on earth? Wonder why the erstwhile turn-coat Miller has suddenly become the honest, fearless, dashing, rising young statesman from the Eighth? The interests know how to take care of their own and never let a good man go, especially if he is two-faced enough to make it the easier for them to fool the public. Now just watch Mr. Nelson and Mr. Miller ooze virtue, wisdom and single-mindedness at every pore while the press agents of Cannonism perpetuate them in office. Now let us note the different look on the faces of the triumvirate when the real insurgents against "Cannonism" (which means, insurgents against the complete ownership of the Republican party by thieves), such as La Follette, Cummins or even Moses Clapp, are mentioned.

The Two Lives.

Two babies were born in the self-same town,
On the very self-same day;
They laughed and cried in their mothers' arms,
In the very self-same way.
And both seemed pure and innocent
As falling flakes of snow,
But one of them lived in a terraced house,
And one in the street below.

Two children played in the self-same town,
And the children both were fair;
But one had curls brushed smooth and round,
The other had tangled hair.
The children both grew up apace,
As other children grow,
But one of them lived in the terraced house,
And one in the street below.

Two maidens wrought in the self-same town,
And one was wedded and loved;
The one saw thro' the curtain's part
The world where her sister moved.
And one was smiling, a happy bride,
The other knew care and woe,
For one of them lived in the terraced house,
And one in the street below.

Two women lay dead in the self-same town,
And one had tender care;
The other was left to die alone
On her pallet so thin and bare.
One had many to mourn her loss,
For the other few tears would flow,
For one of them lived in the terraced house,
And one in the street below.

If Jesus, who died for rich and poor,
In wondrous holy love,
Took both the sisters in His arms
And carried them above;
Then all the difference vanished quite,
For in heaven none would know
Which of them lived in the terraced house,
And which in the street below.

—James McGranahan.

THE WEATHER.

Unheralded, a blizzard swept down on Duluth last night. It lacked a low temperature to make it completely uncomfortable, but the weather man says the cold weather is coming tonight and the snow and high wind will continue. The lowest temperature last night was 12 deg. and tonight zero weather is expected. The wind attained a velocity of forty-eight miles an hour last night from the northeast. It is expected to shift to the northwest tonight.

A year ago today was cold.

The sun rose this morning at 7:13 and it will set at 5:32, giving ten hours and nineteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A storm of considerable intensity is central this morning over Iowa. During the past twenty-four hours it has caused light to heavy snow in extreme Northern states, strong northeasterly winds in the lake region and Northwest and higher temperatures in the Central valleys and Southern states. The storm is followed by a cold wave in the Rocky Mountains and Northwest with zero temperatures in Western Canada, Western Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana. Areas of high barometer are central over Northern Alberta and South Atlantic states.

"Indications favor decidedly colder weather and probably heavy snow at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following are the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

Favorite Names for Girls.

New York World: The bulletin of Smith college for 1910 shows 1,660 regular students. These come from all parts of the country, and to many women and parents a summary of their first names may not be uninteresting.

The most popular name is Helen, of which there are 101; the old favorite Mary follows with 89; Margaret comes third with 63; Ruth has 60; Florence, 52; Elizabeth, 47; Marion and Mildred each 41; Dorothy, 40; Edith, 35. Some Witty Wisdom.

Puck: If President Taft were a carpenter, perhaps he would try to do good jobs with bad tools.

The "common people" pledge themselves to go without meat for a month. The Beef trust can keep meat in cold-storage for a year or more. Come again common people!

If England adopts a protective policy, what will they tell the English workman he is to be protected from, we wonder? The pauper labor of American? Turn about is fair play.

If you must, boycott some one, save your wrath till next fall, and then boycott a Republican congressman. The retail butcher is as much to blame for the present price of meat as the steer on the range. Save your ammunition; and, as they said at Bunker Hill, don't fire until you see the whites of a congressman's eyes. That will be about the first of next November.

The Message.

I dreamt that I died, and my spirit rose
Like a prisoned bird set free,
And I joyed in the bliss of a new-born day,
A nameless ecstacy.

I moved at one with the Spirit and Light,
All mystery was no more,
And I saw my loved and the dear ones all
I had known on the farther shore.

I thank Thee, O God, for this message of Thine
In answer to all my prayer;
I am glad to live here for my life's little day,
Because I know I shall meet Thee there.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

The New Kitchen Cabinet.

Perham Enterprise: Recent reports from St. Paul indicate that a new and up-to-date Republican kitchen cabinet has been made from the old Republican official timber stored around the state capital. The offices of the state auditor, state treasurer, secretary of state and railroad and warehouse commission are said to have supplied most of the material. If Frank Day had his cabinet patented before it went out of commission, he could now live comfortably on the royalty derived from the workings of the new one.

Not Seeking the Truth.

Cannon Falls Beacon: Senator Root, to Glavis: "Will you swear those affidavits were not made to attack Taft's administration?" The president had better direct his friends to cut out such questions as the above or the country will soon understand that the intent of the inquiry is not to bring out the truth, but to browbeat Glavis and discredit the case of the people vs. the grabbers and skinners.

The Working Girl is All Right.

Thief River Falls Press: The girl who can put a good square patch on a pair of pantaloons or command a regiment of pots and kettles, may not, in the eyes of 10 per cent aristocracy, seem as accomplished as the girl who can embroider and work a worsted dog on a blue ground or hum the "Sweet Bye and Bye," but the working girl in every day battles of life, is worth a 10-acre field full of the other kind.

Can't Do the Impossible.

Hibbing Tribune: Most people seem to think there is nothing that Roosevelt can't do. Now they are planning to have him make a speech, when he returns from Africa, "that will cement the various discordant elements of the Republican party."

Taft Insists It's "The Best Ever."

Roseau Region: The present tariff with its attendant exorbitant prices on necessities of life is consuming the consumer, and Governor Eberhart had heart to tell President Taft that the people of Minnesota are being reconciled to it and are beginning to view it with favor.

The Truth About High Living.

Little Falls Herald: James J. Hill says it isn't the high cost of living that bothers the country, but the cost of high living. We trust the Great Northern section men, whose evening meal consists of porterhouse steak and trimmings washed down with imported wine, would please call a halt. They really are eating and drinking too much. And less clothes should be worn. Also, use hay in your shoes instead of socks.

He Should Cash In.

Eveleth News: One of the affectionate things said of Uncle Joe Cannon is that he can sit behind a bob-tail flush and make the other fellow believe he has five aces. This to an extent accurately portrays the old fellow's congressional career to date, but he is getting "called" rather frequently of late. In poker parlance he is down to the whites.

ON THE IRON RANGES

JUDGE BRADY OUT FOR ANOTHER TERM

Hibbing Municipal Judge Announces His Candidacy for Re-election.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The political game is becoming more interesting, rumors of expected candidacies adding zest to an otherwise ordinary election.

It is generally expected that President Frank Ansley will seek re-election, while Dr. H. R. Weirick, former president, and Peter McHardy would also fill the position. W. N. Brown, yardmaster for the Missabe road at Mitchell, known to a host of friends as "Windy" is also being groomed for the job, a meeting having been held to launch his candidacy. Adam Synder at the same meeting was indorsed for supervisor of the township of Stunz.

Judge Thomas F. Brady announces his candidacy for re-election as municipal judge. Judge Brady is one of Hibbings oldest citizens, having lived here for the past fifteen years. He has served the village in the capacity of clerk, recorder and judge. He is well known throughout the range as well as Hibbing for his many kindly deeds of charity.

Judge Brady showed skill in handling the case of Petriella, the district organizer for the Western Federation of Miners, during the summer of 1907, when there was a strike here. Petriella became so troublesome he was arrested and bound over in $1,000 cash bonds which he furnished. It is said Judge Brady's life was threatened, but he forced the trouble maker to give bonds or go to jail and Petriella subsequently "jumped" his bonds. Petriella departed for parts unknown taking with him, it is said, about $8,000 of the miner's money, which belonged to the treasury, and has never been heard of since. Through his management of the baseball team, which he has always been the prime mover in organizing and managing, Judge Brady is also well known.

Mr. Brady will be opposed in the coming election by Attorney John Bell.

JURY ACQUITTED JOHN KAININEN

Found Man Indicted for Assaulting a Woman Not Guilty.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in the case of John Kaininen, which had been on trial in district court since Wednesday, of last week, brought in a verdict of not guilty yesterday afternoon, after being out only a short time. Kaininen was charged in two counts, one for having broken into the home of Mrs. Hilda Lehtinen with burglarious intent and one for having criminally assaulting Mrs. Lehtinen while the latter was asleep. Kaininen was found not guilty on the former charge, and is now out on $1,000 bonds on the second charge.

Tony Koinidar pleaded guilty to assault upon Joe Indahar and was sentenced to the state reformatory, but was paroled by Judge Hughes for one year upon the promise that he would refrain from the use of intoxicating liquor during that period.

A large number of applications for citizenship papers have been filed with Clerk of Court N. J. Holloway. The list includes fifty applications for intention to take out papers and seventeen applications for full citizenship papers.

It now appears almost certain that the January term of court, including a session to be held at Hibbing, will run into the April term, which begins on the fourth Tuesday of that month.

The trial of Marco Bayuk, indicted by the grand jury for operating a "blind pig" at Hibbing, was taken up this morning.

AURORA MINER IS INJURED BY BLAST

Did Not Get Out of Harm's Way Before Explosion of Powder.

Aurora, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Most, an Austrian miner, was severely hurt at the Mohawk mine yesterday afternoon while setting a blast underground. Most had set the blast, but failed to get to a place of safety quick enough before the explosion. He was hurt about the eyes and hands and had his chest crushed. He was taken to the Lenont hospital at Virginia for treatment, accompanied by John Beecroft of the local hospital.

One of the section hands at Colby, three miles east of Aurora, while helping to carry a rail had his leg broken in two places. He slipped and fell. Dr. Darrow, the local railroad physician, was called.

WILL CONSIDER BIGGER LICENSE

Question of Increasing Saloon Licenses Before Eveleth Council.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council this evening will consider the raising of the liquor licenses from $500 to $1,000, the telephone franchise, Caesar Capitinelli's application for a transfer of license to the Alari brothers, further action on the Grant avenue paving matter, and many other questions. The advocates of the present license rate argue that the local real estate values will drop because of the proposed change in license and many of the poorer saloonkeepers forced from the liquor business and families affected; also that only the choicest locations will be grappled up and the buildings at the both ends of town vacated. The advocates of the increased license argue that the town will be greatly improved by the change; that the illegitimate dealer will be forced to leave the business, and that the real estate values will not decrease, and the breweries will not care to lose their licenses, as the law restricts one saloon to every 500 population. Also Eveleth would be very little affected by any county option wave, as the town would then be prepared for it and unaffected by it.

TWO HARBORS HAS LARGE FIRE LOSS

Schreiner Bros.' General Merchandise Store Eaten Up By Flames.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two Harbors experienced the worst conflagration of the winter last evening when fire destroyed the general merchandise store of Schreiner Bros., a two-story brick with basement, involving a loss of nearly $100,000, about half insured. The fire broke out about 7 o'clock and it was after midnight before the flames were entirely subdued and the four burned walls stand today mute evidence of a disastrous fire.

James Irwin, a fireman, was injured during the height of the fire when the ladder upon which he was standing was moved by another fireman who did not see Irwin and the latter fell to the ground. He was able, however, soon to join the other fire fighters, who, by hard work confined the fire to the one building. Practically everything in the store with the exception of the office books was lost.

Just Increased Stock.

The concern had just received additional stock making their loss heavier than if the fire had occurred a few days ago. During the fire some of the cartridges carried in stock exploded adding to the excitement, one large explosion blowing out a plate glass window.

Just in the rear of the store is a big gasoline tank, but hard work prevented the fire from spreading to this highly explosive fluid. Several cabooses of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, whose tracks are in the rear of the building, had to be removed to prevent their being ignited from the flames of the burning store building.

Schreiner Bros. & Moulton will rebuilt, and will reopen temporarily in a smaller structure as soon as a stock of goods can be shipped to the city.

CURLING FEVER HIGH.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interest in the local curling game is principally centered about the Eveleth smokery trophy event hung up by G. Fred Smith, secretary of the club and J. P. Treddinneck. The matches have reached the second round in the event and the rinks are straining every effort to win.

Drawings for the Hotel Glode trophy event have begun and actual play in that contest will soon begin. The Hayes and Casey trophy event is as yet unfinished and B. O. Greening and F. A. Pratt are expected to play off their match this week, so that the victorious rink may be able to meet S. E. Helps' crew when the latter returns from his Canadian trip. The contest between the Helps outfit and the winner of the Greening-Pratt match will be for the trophy.

Much interest also exists between the Virginia and Eveleth inter-city contests and games are being played weekly by representatives of the two cities.

Work That Tells

Plenty of It Has Been Done Right Here in Duluth.

Cures that last are cures that tell. To thoroughly know the virtues of a medicine you must investigate the cures and see if they prove permanent. Doan's Kidney Pills stand this test, and plenty of proof exists right here in Duluth. People who testified years ago to relief from backache, kidney and urinary disorders, now declare that relief was permanent and the cure perfect. How can any Duluth sufferer longer doubt the evidence?

Capt. M. McLean, 4324 Gilliat St., Duluth, Minn., says: "Time has only strengthened my high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. I publicly recommended this remedy in 1898 after they had freed me from a dull, heavy ache across the small of my back and other symptoms of kidney complaint. There has been no return of my trouble, convincing me that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently. I shall advise the use of this remedy at every opportunity."

After a trip attended by many startling adventures, A. L. Leith of Washington, D. C., and F. C. Adams, Duluth, members of the party of Hudson Bay explorers, have returned to civilization.

According to a message received yesterday by Judge D. E. Roberts of the East end, Superior, father of Hugh Roberts, a former member of the exploring party, the two men have reached Cochrane, Ont., and will return to their homes immediately.

Hugh Roberts of Superior who was second in command in the party, returned home last November to resume his studies at Wisconsin university. Dr. Leith also returned in November.

INDUSTRIAL CONTESTS

Between School Children at Conservation Congress at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual contest among counties of the state which gives opportunity for the school children to compete in industrial training, will be held this year in connection with the conservation congress here March 16 to 19, instead of in connection with the Minnesota Teachers' association as usual.

This plan was decided on for many reasons. Among others it will give more than 10,000 visitors an opportunity to see the work the boys and girls of Minnesota are doing.

The exhibits are in charge of George F. Howard, superintendent of educational extension work of the university. The counties have held their contest. The best county exhibits in the state have been selected and will now be shown in St. Paul where prizes will be awarded.

DOCTORS TELL PEOPLE HOW TO AVOID DISEASE.

New York, Feb. 15.—The American Medical association, the organization which represents the medical profession of the whole country, is about to issue a series of pamphlets for distribution to the public, showing the progress that is being made in the prevention or cure of various diseases and in methods for conserving the public health. A few of these pamphlets have been printed and already are being distributed to applicants at the Chicago headquarters of the American Medical association. This action marks an important departure, and is in accord with the general tendency among physicians to endeavor to limit disease through the intelligent co-operation of the public.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Frank Taft's Speech.

Washington, Feb. 15.—President Taft's Lincoln Day speech in New York will be printed as a government document and circulated throughout the country as Republican campaign literature. On motion of Senator Hale, the senate has ordered the printing. The address will not be published in the Congressional Record, but will be issued as a pamphlet so as to be circulated under frank.

"Sole Surviving War Governor."

Signing himself as the "sole surviving war governor," former Governor Sprague of Rhode Island, has written a memorial to congress in support of the bill providing for the retirement of former officers of the Civil war. The petition was presented to the senate and it was directed that it should be printed in the Congressional Record.

Ex-Governor Sprague says in effect that many of the old officers have had hard luck since they left the service and that they should be taken care of by the government.

Conserve Big Trees.

A bill looking to the further nationalization of the California forests of big trees, was favorably reported by the house committee on public lands when it recommended the Smith bill, providing for the exchange of privately owned lands in the Sequoia and Gen. Grant parks for other public lands in California. There are now about 3,000 acres of land within these two natural parks. Owners of such land are authorized to exchange them for lands of equal value or acreage with the consent of the secretaries of agriculture and interior.

Assails Exchange Report.

"There isn't a word that Herbert Knox Smith says in his report on cotton exchanges about the subject of hedging that is worth anything," emphatically declared Vice President A. R. Marsh of the New York Cotton exchange before the house committee when the hearing on the anti-option bill was resumed yesterday. He said the commissioner of corporations, Mr. Smith, was obsessed with past conditions when he wrote the report on the investigation of the exchange.

Futures have no effect on spot quotations, according to Mr. Marsh, who contended that the law of supply and demand governed both.

Cannon on the Floor.

After considering the rivers and harbors appropriation bill for about seven hours, today the house succeeded in disposing of 70 of the 100 pages of that measure without making any important changes. A unique feature of the day's proceedings was a speech by Speaker Cannon, who, obtaining the door, gave his approval to the pending bill, incidentally telling the Democrats if they should ever come into control of the house, they would realize the necessity of providing methods of procedure that would allow them to transact business or disappoint the people who had placed them in the majority.

Oppose Alaskan Bill.

Strenuous opposition from unexpected quarters was the reception met by the Alaskan legislative council bill in the senate yesterday. Senator Clark took exception to the power given to the proposed council to repeal laws enacted by congress; Senator Clay to the control of public lands vested in the council, and Senator Heyburn to the appointment of an army officer as a member of the council. Replying, Mr. Beveridge said that local legislatorst would understand conditions in the territory better than congress possibly could, and he declared the president had reached the same conclusion.

Davidson Voted Down.

Representative Davidson of Wisconsin opposed the appropriation carried in the bill of $1,000,000 toward the construction of a waterway from Lockport, Ill., by way of the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers to the mouth of the Illinois river on the ground that congress was not in possession of any report upon that project. He declared that such an appropriation would be in violation of the practice of the house for many years, and insisted that either the house was offering the people of Chicago a gold brick, knowing that the appropriation could not under the terms of the bill become available, or that it was providing money before it was known that the project would ever be declared feasible. The appropriation was defended by Chairman Alexander and other members and was sustained by a vote of the house.

FIVE ARE INDICTED IN GRAVE YARD CASES.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 15.—The county grand jury late yesterday afternoon returned indictments against T. T. O'Leary, J. J. Keene, P. J. Needham, Dr. J. C. Rogers and Dr. C G Schott on the charge of criminal conspiracy to defraud in the alleged grave yard insurance cases recently brought to light here All those indicted except Dr. Schott were arrested and gave bond. O'Leary's bond was fixed at $14,000; Keen's $11,000; Needham and Dr. Rogers $5,000 each.

the government has determined to summon men who have intimate knowledge of the workings of the packing concerns.

Blame the Retailers.

New York, Feb. 15.—The so-called beef trust, resenting the criticisms to which the members have been subjected, proposes to send to the grand jury, when the latter begins the investigation, a list of prices showing the advances made in the last few years. The packers assert that for every advance of 1 cent made by them, the retailers have hoisted the prices 4 cents a pound and in some cases 6 cents.

Probe Has Begun.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 15.—The examination of witnesses to get at the causes of high prices for food has begun by the legislative probe committee. C. W. Wood, a Columbus stationary engineer, testified that last November he heard agents of certain creamery companies tell Mr. Houser, a Columbus dealer, that if the latter sold butter for less than 40 cents a pound, they would refuse to sell to him. State Labor Commissioner Charles L. Wirmel submitted statistics, based on returns from a number of cities, to show that while living was going up wages were going down.

Fight Over Hawaii.

Honolulu, Feb. 15.—The congressional measure providing for prohibition in the Hawaiian Islands is opposed by the Honolulu chamber of commerce, the Merchants' association and the Bar association on the ground that it is unwarranted federal interference with a local question. The bill, however, is supported by the Civic federation and the ministerial union.

Twenty-four feminine organizations have petitioned congress to extend to them the privilege of voting at he elecion which the senate committee on Pacific islands proposes on prohibition. The wives of Governor Frear and Chief Justice Dole and other prominent women of the island are taking part in the movement.

wake of the storm and it will arrive here tonight, while the wind and snowfall will continue. This morning the Dakotas, Montana and Western Canada experienced temperatures ranging from zero to 20 deg. below and zero temperatures may be expected in Duluth tonight. The lowest temperature last night was 12 deg. and the wind attained a velocity of forty-eight miles an hour.

Only about two inches of snow fell last night, but the wind drifted it to a height of several feet in spots. The snowfall was heavier during the day and before the storm is over Duluth is expected to have nearly a foot of snow on the level. The wind will shift around to the northwest and will be a chilling gale.

As soon as the storm struck and its intensity became apparent, the street railway company put its plows into operation and this morning all lines were clear and cars were running on time. The company will keep the plows in operation to insure open tracks and unless the storm becomes more severe than is expected, there will be no cessation in the service.

The railroads experienced little trouble on account of the storm today, but they are not so sure of escaping tonight and tomorrow, for the heavy snowfall is general throughout the Northwest and the snow is being drifted heavily along the tracks. Most of the attention of the operating departments of the different roads this morning was given to moving passenger trains and no attempt was made to move any freight trains except locals throughout the Northwest.

The range roads experienced little trouble and all of the trains were reported nearly on time.

The telegraph companies had their usual storm trouble, but both were successful in holding communication with Chicago all day. To the west, there was more wire trouble. Some of the board of trade wires worked badly and communication between Chicago and New York over the industrial markot wires was difficult.

to end as no one else does, and none of the inquiries directed to him seemed to ruffle him in any way until it was announced that testimony would be produced to show that certain original letters, which it is claimed Glavis did not turn over to his successor when he was removed from the service, were found recently in a box which he left in the grand jury room at Seattle.

This angered the witness, and he bitterly denounced what he termed a "frame up" on the part of federal officials who were seeking favor with their superiors.

Glavis fences with the attorneys skilfully, and apparently is a match for all of them. He parries their questions, and when directed to answer "yes" or "no" he always stands upon the right that has been accorded him to follow this up with an explanation which may run on for five minutes or more, and in the course of which he usually takes advantage of the opportunity to say he was thus convinced "that Mr. Ballinger is unfit for the office he holds, is unfaithful to his trust, and not loyal to the interests of the people."

Is Clever Witness.

Members of the committee, among whom are many well-known lawyers, declare that rarely in their experience have they seen a more clever witness than Glavis. His counsel, Mr. Brandeis, sits by with a broad grin during most of the time that the dismissed field agent is answering or arguing with Mr. Vertrees, and is apparently confident that the witness needs no assistance.

The appearance of counsel for both sides has tended to enliven the proceedings greatly and has also been an influence to bring about some lively discussions among the members of the committee as to the admissability of testimony, and regarding protests from Glavis that Mr. Vertrees cuts off the answers before the witness has fairly started to reply.

Mr. Vertrees disclaims any such intention, but asserts that instead of directly responding, Glavis branches off into an argument or into an expression of opinion as to what might be considered right or wrong.

In these committee discussions the Democrats have thus far always been found on the side of the accusing witness. Mr. Madison, the insurgent member from Kansas, also has taken up the defense of Glavis.

Expect Three Reports.

These little incidents, as well as the apparent general temper of the committee, have led a number of persons who are following the case to predict already that the final outcome will be a majority and minority report, one by the Republicans, one by the Democrats, and possibly a third and individual report from Mr. Madison.

The committee held an unusually long executive session this morning and it was 10:40 o'clock when the public hearing was resumed. Glavis again took the stand for a continuance of his cross-examination.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

A FIRST CLASS FIGHTING MAN IS BILLY PAPKE, THE MAN WHO PUT KEWANEE ON THE MAP

Now on Way to Paris—Lehto, Touted as a Match for Zbyszko, May Be Rudely Awakened.

(BY BRUCE)

It is far you will go and long you will look before you will find a fighting man that has been treated better by nature than William Papke of Kewanee, Ill.

This young man could not help but be a fighter. History tells us that George Washington didn't want to be president of the grandest country in the world, but he couldn't just naturally help it. James J. Jeffries, keeping on the trail of big men, didn't want to become a prize fighter; yet, he, too, couldn't dodge the thing.

Billy Papke was earning his living driving a coal wagon. He is an unimaginative sort of cuss, is Billy, and it is probable that he might be driving a coal wagon today, if something hadn't happened. That is putting the statement in its most simple form.

One day a fellow who was to fight though history has not paid very much attention to his name, for some reason couldn't keep his date. Bill was substituted just like the hero in "Sporting Life," and he won the fight with ease.

He made more money than he made in several long and weary weeks of shoveling dirty, if dear, coal. After mature and impassioned contemplation of the two lives, he decided in a business-like way which the Germans have a habit of doing that he would be a fighter.

He has been a fighter ever since. Like the Fuzzy-wuzzy of Rud Kipling "He is a first-class fighting man." There is only one man of anywhere near his own weight he has not been able to lick; that man is one Steve Ketchel, at times a most ungrateful person.

Down at Kewanee Papke is one of the big noises of the place. Since Mr Griggs has left town he is about the whole thing. They have no boiler factory in Kewanee, but even if they had it would make no difference, for Willie Papke has established his reputation and will be the loudest noise in the city as long as he continues to win fights.

Papke is an Elk and belongs to the best social club in Keewanee. The girls are poetically inclined over his waltzing. He is so popular that when Billy is out of town it seems just like Lent.

Just now Billy is on his way to Paris. He will meet the winner of the Willie Lewis-Harry Lewis battle. Papke should have no trouble in beating the winner of this fight. Not so long ago he encountered the Willie Lewis person in smoky Pittsburg. He did almost everything to Lewis that one fighter can do to another. He forgot all about the golden rule.

He will try to get on a match with Tom Thomas, the crack English middleweight, whom the English sportsmen are cracking up as the greatest fighter of his weight and inches in the world. When Papke gets through with the Englishman, if he is given the opportunity of meeting him, the Britishers may have to reform their ideas. This is very difficult as well as unpleasant for an Englishman to do.

Steve Ketchel is also on the trail of the Thomas chap. It may develop into a race between the two American rivals to see which will have the first crack at the latest English phenom.

Papke is a pleasant, open-faced boy. He loves dogs and children and is as amiable as a sunny day of June—outside of the ring. Once the heat of battle fights his system, his Teutonic face looks like the angry back of a porcupine and a steely glint shoots from his lamps that puts the Dutch on many a fighter.

Bill had considerable trouble in learning to eat with his fork. By instinct he seemed to prefer the knife. By diligent practice, however, for eating is something that Papke never tires of, he has become so that he can flirt with a fork on fairly unembarassed terms.

When Billy was first breaking through the level of the coal driver's social strata of society, people used to invite him out for the novelty of watching him eat. They say it is worth twice the price of the food consumed, even if the cost of living is one of the problems of the day.

But Billy and social usages are on fairly good speaking terms at the present time. He can order from a menu and looks even comfortable in a cafe. His education has been acquired by hard knocks and you might call him a self-made man. He has also helped to unmake several other men. It isn't nice to mention names, though.

* * *

A writer in the Evening Copper Journal of Hancock, Mich., is evidently a very strong personal friend of Karl Lehto the big Finn wrestler of the Copper country or he is one of those boys who believes most of the things he hears.

He comes out with the statement that Lehto wants to meet Zbyszko on even terms and that the Finn is confident of besting the big Pole. He says Zbyszko will have nothing on the Finn in strength and when it comes to skill Lehto will meet the Pole on an equal footing.

This might sound better, if there were not some people in this town of Duluth who know the Finn somewhat. Chris Person is one of these people. He went to the Copper country expressly for the purpose of meeting the much touted Finn, and was told that Lehto would not meet him. Person agreed to throw the pride of the Copper country twice in ninety minutes and still could not get a rise out of the "greatest man ever developed in the Northwest."

Person doesn't claim that he is a match for Gotch or Zbyszko or any of the rest of them. He is a most peculiar kind of a fellow. He is always ready to wrestle any of them, bar none, and no matter how strong or how famous they are, this Person chap will carry the battle right to them.

Lehto is of another breed. He is a poser and a "get-get-a-reputation" kind of a guy. He is afraid of meeting Person and if he meets Gotch he will be the most regretful man this side of Jerico.

If Lehto and his friends really imagine he is as strong as Zbyszko, they will be awfully surprised when the Pole clamps his massive arms around the Finn and starts some of his Leslie Carter style of close-in wrestling. However, we live to learn.

BILLY PAPKE.

Saturday six members of the New York Giants left for Marlin Springs, Tex. Surely we awake from the long winter to find King Baseball with us again.

Plans have been made to use the polo grounds as a hippodrome when the Giants are on the road. Last season, if some of the reports of the games are correct, the Giants made a hippodrome of the grounds when the Giants were at home.

John L. Sullivan is on the high seas. Wonder if the big fellow will visit King Ed while abroad. Wonder if he will be given the opportunity. There is quite a change since the time J. L. met Eddie. Then John was the greatest fighter in the world and Ed was only the prince of Wales. Now Eddie has landed in the king row and John is an ex-member of the down and out club. Time is such a funny changer.

JERRY DOWNS IS SOLD TO COLUMBUS.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The Washington American league baseball club yesterday sold Second Baseman Jeremiah (Jerry) Downs to the Columbus club of the American association. Downs was with the Minneapolis club last season.

LONG RACE EASY FOR MEADOWS

Toronto Man Makes Fast Time for Fifteen Miles in New York.

New York, Feb. 15.—Fred Meadows of Toronto, Canada, won all the way last night in one of the greatest indoor fifteen-mile professional running races ever seen in this country. His time of one hour, 21 minutes, 15 seconds is the fastest ever made in Madison square, but is 9 1-5 seconds behind his own world's record, made last week at Toronto. He was never pressed.

Meadows thus established himself undisputed champion of the world at his own distance. L. Jungstrom of Sweden, who pressed him hard at Toronto, finished second again, but never was in the running last night with Meadows, who took the lead at the jump. Acoose, the Indian, finished a poor fifth, two laps behind Jim Crowley of New York, fourth, who in turn finished two and one-half laps behind Sellen, third. Meadows was two laps safe at the finish or his time might have been faster. Sellen, third, was one lap behind L. Jungstrom, second.

SAM LANGFORD TO MEET CHEYENNE HEAVYWEIGHT.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 15.—Sam Langford, who arrived here yesterday signed articles last night for a twenty-round battle with Nat Dewey, the Cheyenne colored heavyweight to take place before the Cheyenne Eagles' club Feb. 22.

BACKER OF THE LONG SCHEDULE

CHARLES EBBETTS.

President Charley Ebbets of the Brooklyn baseball club has been a very busy man recently preparing the schedule of 168 games for the National league. The schedule has already been placed before the National league schedule committee. President Dreyfus of the Pirates has prepared a schedule for 154 games and claims that he has enough votes to have his playing schedule adopted. Ebbetts has been in baseball for the past eighteen years and is in control of the Brooklyn club. He expects that the Brooklyn team, under Dahlen, will land at least in the first division, next season.

HEAVIES IN EVEN MATCH

Mahmout Fails to Throw Zbyszko in an Hour's Wrestling.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Stanislaus Zbyszko won a handicap wrestling match from Yusiff Mahmout last night when the latter failed to get a fall in one hour. According to the terms of the match Mahmout was to throw Zbyszko twice in sixty minutes or forfeit the purse and side bet.

The decision of a jury of newspaper men will decide which of the foreign wrestling stars is entitled to meet Frank Gotch in a match for the world's championship. The men appeared so evenly matched last night that it is probable the jury will refuse to give a verdict and ask for a finish match. A crowd estimated at 12,000 watched the match.

After twenty-nine minutes of sparring for a hold without either man going to the mat, Mahmout got behind Zbyszko. The Turk's right hand was badly swollen and bandaged and he appeared to be able to do little with it. After four minutes of working on the mat with Zbyszko on the defensive, the bout was stopped for a few seconds while the referee readjusted the bandage on the Turk's arm.

Mahmout tried repeatedly for a toe-hold, but the massive strength of the Pole rendered such a hold well-nigh impossible. Zbyszko finally took the offensive after forty-six minutes, but was able to hold that advantage only six minutes. Mahmout struggled to his feet after getting away from the defensive and both were up when the hour ended.

In a preliminary, Walter Willoughby of Cleveland defeated Ernest Kartye of Chicago in straight falls. Willoughby won the first fall in 23:44 with a scissors and wristlock and the second came in 5:48 on a combination scissors and head hold.

Eugene Tremblay of Canada was awarded the verdict over Max Luttbeg of Chicago, when the latter refused to continue after wrestling thirty minutes without either getting a fall.

NEW LEADERS IN DOUBLES

Claytor and Seifert Go Into First Place in Bowling Tournament.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—No new high marks were set in the five-men events of the international bowling tournament last night although several of the teams got within the money. New marks were set in the doubles and singles yesterday afternoon, however, Claytor and Seifert of St. Paul going into first place in the former event with a score of 1,160 and W. A. Johnson leading the individuals with 602.

Following were the high scores in the five-men events last evening: Turners, Minneapolis, 2,631; Doris, No. 2, St. Paul, 2,565; Butler brothers, Minneapolis, 2,325; Northwestern Stamp Works, St. Paul, 2,322; Cedar Brook Anchors, St. Paul, 2,308.

High scores in the doubles were Aune and Hill, 1,101; Matak and Weber, 1,092; Pinska and Rosenquist, 1,081; Porter and McDowell, 1,056. All were from St. Paul.

The high marks in the singles were all made by St. Paul men. W. A. Johnston went into first place with a score of 602. Other high scores were made by A. J. Purt, 672; C. F. Hinderer, 565; H. Claton, 563; H. Matak, 557.

SOPHOMORES TO PLAY FRESHMEN

Much Interest in Basket Ball Contest Between Class Teams.

The freshmen and their more experienced rivals, the sophomores, will meet at basket ball this afternoon at the boy's department Y. M. C. A. The contest will count as one for the championship of the school.

The under classmen have won two games, but as they have now lost Helmer, their star player, the dope seems to favor the second year men. The sophs have won one and lost one. A defeat at this time, would put them out of the running. A victory will tie them with the freshmen for first place.

There is much rivalry between the class for basket ball honors and the game this afternoon will be hard fought.

The juniors will play a practice game tonight in preparation for their contest with the seniors, which comes Friday.

The lineup for the freshman-sophomore contest follows:

Freshmen.	Position.	Sophomores.
Harris	f	Osman
Kerns	f	Cook
Brown	c	Mars
Lawrence	g	Jeronimus
Huttle	g	St. Claire

No Kick Coming.

To the Sporting Editor of The Herald:

Last Friday evening a game of basket ball was played in the high school auditorium at Aitkin. Cloquet had played Aitkin on her own floor Jan. 14 and had won by a score of 40 to 16, and the team was over-confident. They lost here by a score of 18 to 15 and declared they received unfair treatment. They did not, as the following facts will prove:

First, one of their own players told one of Aitkins': "Cloquet has no kick coming. We received a square deal."

Second, they made seven points on ten fouls, while Aitkin's team made two on five, which goes to prove they were treated fairly by the referee, and have no cause to use the paper to run down the treatment received at Aitkin.

We wish to make this public in answer to a statement made by Cloquet in the Duluth News-Tribune. Yours very respectfully

HAROLD PORTER.

TEAMS WILL MEET AT BASKET BALL

High School and Y. M. C. A. Fives Will Come Together.

The high school and Y. M. C. A. basket ball teams will clash tonight at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

The high school team will play without James Kelly, who has an important engagement with the other members of the Adams hockey team when they line up against the Big Duluth team at the Adams rink. Wallace, another member of the high school team, will remain out of the basket ball game tonight for the same reason.

There is much interest in the outcome of the contest to be played this evening, as it is the first time the two fives have met. The high school boys have been busy for some weeks and have now rounded into very fair shape.

BLACK CHAMPION TO APPEAR HERE

The date has not been definitely fixed as yet, but the exhibition is scheduled for some time within the next three weeks.

There will be considerable interest among the fans to get a look at the black champion as he has not before appeared in this neck of the woods.

Johnson is said to carry with him a troupe of entertainers who give value received, and the announcement of his coming will be welcome news to those interested in the fight game.

RUDD RETURNS FROM MONTREAL

Somersault on Skis Took Well With the Canadians.

Martin Rudd, who turns somersaults on skis in hair-raising style, returned yesterday from Montreal, Can., where his act took the populace by storm. The first day about 8,000 people are said to have been present, while on the second day it is estimated that 10,000 crowded the grounds. It is stated that half of the immense throng present couldn't see what was going on. The grounds were policed by 125 officers.

Rudd expects to go to Boston Monday, but has not definitely decided on the trip. The circus ski rider has not been overlooking the business side of the bargain, and has a reel of moving pictures showing him doing his stunt on one of the high slides.

JEM DRISCOLL WINS.

London, Feb. 15.—Jem Driscoll last night defeated "Seaman" Hayes for the featherweight championship of England and a purse of $5,000 before the National Sporting club.

Driscoll soon had Hayes at his mercy and the police stopped the contest in the sixth round to avert a useless knockout.

NORTH DAKOTA U WINS.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota university basket ball team defeated the Fargo college team at the university gymnasium yesterday afternoon by a score of 28 to 13. It was a very interesting game with a large crowd in attendance.

A Common Cold.

We claim that if catching cold could be avoided some of the most dangerous and fatal diseases would never be heard of. A cold often forms a culture bed for germs of infectious diseases. Consumption, pneumonia, diphtheria and scarlet fever, four of the most dangerous and fatal diseases, are of this class. The culture bed formed by the cold favors the development of the germs of these diseases, that would not otherwise find lodgment. There is little danger, however, of any of these diseases being contracted when a good expectorant cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It cleans out these culture beds that favor the development of the germs of these diseases. That is why this remedy has proved so universally successful in preventing pneumonia. It not only cures your cold quickly, but minimizes the risk of contracting these dangerous diseases. For sale by all druggists.

SHORT SCHEDULE FOR THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

Chicago, Feb. 15.—The American league began its annual schedule meeting here today. The schedule was not submitted at today's session and the majority of the time was occupied with the discussion of the renewal of the ten-year agreement under which the organization has existed since shortly after its inception in 1900. The present agreement will expire in November of this year. There was no opposition to the renewal as all the club owners appeared perfectly willing to continue the organization.

The adoption of the schedule will be the principal business at tomorrow's session. It is expected the National league will decide upon its schedule in New York today and the American league watches the results there with a great deal of interest. The adoption of a 154 or 168-game schedule by the National league will have no influence on this meeting as the 154-game draft now drawn up will be adopted unless there is a radical and unexpected change in the attitude of the American league.

Among the magnates here are: President Ben Shibe and Manager Connie Mack of Philadelphia, Secretary Hugh McBreen and Manager Patsy Donovan of Boston, President L. Hedges of St. Louis, and President T. C. Noyes and Manager James McAleer of Washington. The Chicago club is represented by President C. A. Comiskey, Secretary Charles A. Fredericks and Manager Hugh Duffy, who has arrived here to prepare for the spring training trip to the Pacific coast.

President John I. Taylor of the Boston club is not present at the meeting as he is now in San Francisco.

Toss Up in National.

New York, Feb. 15.—When the National baseball league met today to consider the season's playing schedule, it was still a toss-up whether the 154 or the 168-game program would win.

Schedules providing for both long and short playing seasons have been prepared, and were animatedly discussed during the morning as the league presidents got together for the business of the day. The confidence of those who desire to cling to the old 154-game arrangement had apparently been dissipated by the preliminary testing of sentiment, and today the 168-game adherents are seemingly the more confident of success. President Robison of St. Louis has lined up for the longer season and says that votes for the 168-game schedule may be expected from Messrs. Ebbets of Brooklyn, Fogel of Philadelphia, Murphy of Chicago and Brush of New York.

On the other hand, President Herrmann of Cincinnati and President Dreyfuss of Pittsburg still declare today that the merits of the 154-game program, avoiding, as it does, any possibility of a clash with the American league, was bound to be successful. Debate over the divergent views of the two groups gave every promise of being warm and prolonged.

There was a prospect that today might witness a settlement of the long-standing dispute between ex-Manager Murray of the Philadelphia team and the club management. Murray's claim for $15,000 on a contract having still two years to run when he was deposed last fall was to have been considered by the league directors at their meeting yesterday, but the temporary indisposition of President Horace Fogel of Philadelphia prevented the subject being taken up. It was announced that the directors would meet today and endeavor to reach a solution of the difficulty if Mr Fogel had sufficiently recovered from his gout to admit of his appearance.

Phillies Heavily Fined.

The board of directors of the National league yesterday fined the Philadelphia club $250 for the forfeiture of the game with New York at the Polo grounds Oct. 4 last; fined Capt. Doolan of the "Phillies" $100 for unseemly conduct in the same game, and approved the list of umpires selected by President Lynch. Adjournment then was taken until today.

The umpires for the coming year will include only two new men—Henry O'Day, Robert Emslie, James F. Johnstone, Charles Rigler, William J. Klem and Stephen J. Kane having been reappointed. The new men are William Brennan from the Wisconsin and Illinois league and Gus Moran, who last year was an umpire in the Southern league. The double umpire system will be employed throughout the season.

While New York claimed $1,000 from Philadelphia for the forfeited game, the directors held that an award of $250 was sufficient because it was one of the last games of the season. The fine of $100 against Doolan is in addition to the fine of $50 assessed by Acting President Heydler on the umpire's recommendation. With fines of $25 each against two other players in that game, the forfeited game cost the Philadelphia club $450.

Long Schedule Favored.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—The American Baseball association held its annual schedule meeting here today. There was no objection to the adoption of a 168-game schedule which was given a trial last season and proved popular with the club owners.

The schedule committee consisted of Chairman W. H. Watkins of Indianapolis, M. E. Cantillon of Minneapolis, and George Tebeau of Kansas City, submitted its draft to the meeting at the morning session. All appeared to be satisfied with the general outlines of the schedule but several changes of minor importance were asked by the various club owners.

Western Leaguers Gather.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Representatives of the clubs of the Western league began gathering here yesterday for the schedule meeting which will be held Wednesday. Those who arrived yesterday were: Frank Isbell, Wichita; William Rouke, Omaha, and J. C. McGill, the new president of the Denver club.

According to President Norris L. O'Neill, the schedule for 1910 will probably contain 154 games, although a draft of one consisting of 168 games may be submitted. The Western leaguers held several conferences with the club owners of the American league and the American association who are here for their schedule meetings.

MANY ENTRIES FOR TOURNAMENT

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 15.—Secretary Langtry, in charge of entries for the tenth annual tournament of the American bowling congress to be held here has announced the following number of contestants:

Five-men teams, 404; two-men teams, 954; individuals, 2,017.

These figures Mr. Langtry say show an increase over the previous record made at Pittsburg of 30 in the five-men teams, 190 in the two-men, and 466 in the individuals. Detroit's list, it is said, shows the largest advance in single entries in the history of the American bowling tournament.

The total money paid in for each event for this tournament is five-men teams, $10,060; two-men, $9,890; individuals, $10,085, making a grand total of $30,035. With the reduction of 15 per cent which goes to the local tournament association, $25,529 is left as prize money for the contestants.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 15.—Lew Powell is so well liked in the betting that he will probably enter the ring tonight a strong favorite in his 10-round bout with George Memsic. Powell was so heavily backed by his friends in the North that the odds quoted today were 10 to 7 that he would whip his opponent, however, has [illegible].

BANQUET IS POSTPONED

Y. W. C. A. Dinner Will Be Held on Washington's Birthday.

Late this afternoon the directors of the Young Women's Christian association held a meeting and decided to postpone the annual banquet from Friday evening until next Tuesday evening, Washington's birthday.

It was found that the banquet would conflict with the one held by the Young Men's Christian association, which will be a part of the state convention. The latter could not well be postponed, and the directors of the Y. W. C. A. decided to postpone theirs.

On another page of The Herald this evening, it is stated that the banquet will be held Friday evening, this notice being written before the action of the directors this afternoon

THE WOMAN WHO CHOOSES HER MATE

It is said the woman does the courting. The male thinks he chooses, but, instead, he is guided hither and thither (a merry game) by the invisible leading string of feminine art. Can this be true of fat ladies? Does the fat woman feel as safe her leading strings will hold as the girl with the line of beauty from toe to chin?

Mere man knows as little of this as of other things feminine, but he has done one famous thing. He has developed a harmless and elegant fat reducer, the Marmola Prescription Tablet. This tablet taken after meals and at bedtime relieves the fat girl's soul of fear of the straight front enemy, for it puts her on equal terms. Any one can get thin by its means—and quickly. It takes off a pound a day in some cases. Simply take one tablet daily, as directed. The reduction is sure, it will be uniform, no wrinkles or sagging will result. Fat will go as it came—quietly—off the fattest places first. The Marmola Tablet (made strictly in accordance with the famous prescription formula ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fl. Ex. Cascara Aromatic, 3½ oz. Peppermint Water) never injures. It is cheap, also, a large case, of the druggists, or The Marmola Co., 191 Farmer building, Detroit, Mich., or any druggist, costing only seventy-five cents.

ANTI-MEAT MEETING.

MRS. H. RIORDAN.

While whole batteries of cameras vollied and thundered, Mrs. Sophia Loebinger and her associates shrieked for freedom and a vegetable diet in Union square, New York, recently. Mrs. Loebinger is the leader of a suffrage organization which makes many public speeches and keeps the police busy. Mrs. Loebinger and her associates are never rough, nor are the police rough with Mrs. Loebinger. The commissioner selects the most courtly of his officers to approach the Loebinger suffragettes, and, cap in hand, to beg of them not to disturb the peace by speaking in public places without a permit. For the meeting of Saturday Mrs. Loebinger had obtained a permit. It gave to her and Mrs. Harriet Riordan and others of the not too militant suffragette organization an opportunity to declare themselves against the high price of meat products. Pledges were circulated among the few men who had gathered in front of the speakers' stand, and one or two signed them. But the Loebinger meeting will not make a very big dent in the business of the meat trust. Assisting Mrs. Loebinger in her work was Mrs. Anita Brooks, who was Mrs. Anita Comfort of St. Louis some thirty years ago, Mrs. Harriet Riordan and Miss Cecile Riordan. In the larger picture the persons in line are Mary O'Donnelly, Anita Brooks and Cecile Riordan. If any of these suffragettes is imprisoned and forcibly fed, she is pledged to insist on celery soup and potato puree instead of meat extracts.

FORTY THOUSAND VOTE TO STRIKE

New York Builders Threaten Open Shop If Men Walk Out.

New York, Feb. 15.—A building trades strike which will call out thousands of local workmen is threatened. Forty thousand union men have voted to quit work this afternoon, and thousands of others are voting on the question of striking in sympathy with the striking steamfitters.

Should the workmen in the building trades go out in sympathy with the steamfitters, the employers propose to declare for the open shop.

SEND FOR WITNESSES.

Kentucky Bribery Scandal Is Said to Be Taking Form.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 15.—The special bribery probing committee met today behind closed doors. Senator Joseph Cattlet of Caldwell county, who voted unfavorably to the county unit after making an alleged promise to his constituents to support it, was before the committee again. The testimony is being kept secret, but the report is that sufficient evidence has been developed before the committee to determine the committee to send for witnesses out of the state.

DEMURRAGE AND STORAGE CHARGES ARE FOUND O. K.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Rules providing for demurrage and storage charges by railroads at New Orleans on shipments of forest products transported on local bills of lading for "export" after ten days of free time, were declared by the interstate commerce commission today to be neither unlawful nor unreasonable. It also was held by the commission that the regulations were not unjustly discriminatory, as compared with rules which do not provide for demurrage or storage charges upon shipments that are moved under true export bills of lading.

The dismissal of the case by the commission sets an important precedent in the matter of demurrage and storage charges on all shipments for export.

FEW BODIES OF WRECK VICTIMS RECOGNIZABLE.

Ciudalela, Baleraic Islands, Feb. 15.—The work of salvaging the wreck of the French steamer General Chanzy and the recovery of the bodies of the 156 persons, whose lives were lost was continued today. Most of the bodies have been rendered unrecognizable through being pounded against the rocks by the high seas. The wreckage of the vessel has been scattered far and wide and is rapidly disappearing in the currents about the islands.

THREE ARE BOUND AND GAGGED BY BURGLARS.

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 15.—Three burglars last night attacked Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wyman of Peoria, Ill., in the couple's cottage here, bound and gagged the pair and robbed the victims of jewelry valued at $4,000. Wyman, his wife and the negro cook, who also was bound and gagged, were thrown under beds and were not able to free themselves until today.

NEW HUNTING GROUNDS.

Old Mexico Offers a Tempting Field to American Sportsmen.

"I wish to bring to the attention of sportsmen a large, new and practically unvisited region where game in great variety is still as plentiful as in the old pioneer days," writes Dillon Wallace in Outing. "It is a region, too, as quickly and easily reached as the over-hunted districts of our own Rocky mountains or the Canadian wilderness. In this country, as formerly in the West, there are no game laws and no restrictions upon the chase save aim and conscience.

"The region referred to is in Old Mexico. It may be said that every species of game animal found on the North American continent south of the 50th parallel of north latitude, except moose, caribou and elk, is found in Western Mexico. The silvertip bear ranges all through the high Sierra Madres wherever there are good feeding grounds, and wherever there are grizzlies you may expect also the huge cinnamon bear, the grizzly's close neighbor.

"The common brown bear is not so numerous, but the black bear is quite plentiful. The white-faced bear is more rare, though it is sometimes found in the coast mountains. I could not learn that this species had ever been seen in the Sierra Madres.

"The higher mountains, at all elevations, and even the lower foothills abound with white-tail deer. On the Pacific side they are numerous almost to the coast, and I can vouch from personal experience for the quality of their venison.

"The mule, burro or black-tail inhabits portions of the states of Chihuahua, Coahuila and Sonora, and in this section are also found mountain sheep. Perhaps the best section for bighorn in Mexico, however, is in Lower California, but to hunt there you must have leisure. The game is too remote to be reached on an ordinary expedition.

"The mountain lion lurks in all the high country, and along with him is sometimes found but seldom killed the American panther. All the American great cats in fact inhabit both the Pacific and Gulf coasts and the foothills. The small American leopard is very numerous all along the hot country coasts, and the Mexican jaguar, known locally by foreigners as the tiger, preys upon cattle and ranch animals to such a degree as to be very much of a nuisance.

"Ascending the valley of the Santiago Rio huge alligators were seen basking in the sun on every sandy reach along the river bank. Coveys of quail rose before us. Deer scampered away as we approached their feeding trysts by the brooksides. Pheasants and wild turkeys fed in the foothills and in mountain and jungle lurked big game animals, as was evidenced by numerous signs.

"I was also impressed by the fact that our sportsmen are rarely if ever seen in this part of Mexico. Why this is so I cannot say. One reason possibly is lack of information as to existing conditions, and many doubtless hesitate on the erroneous assumption that all Mexico is an unhealthful country, sweltering under the tropical sun and infested with venomous insects and reptiles. In the month of November 1907, my guide and I were lost in the snow in Mexico for two days, and during my stay in the mountains, the heat was not so assertive as to be noticeable. Of snakes and insects there was none—not even a mosquito."

FOSSILS FROM THE MOON.

"At the summit of the Gara-Ischitoge," says Vera Collum, describing her trip through Central Japan in the Wide World Magazine, "there was a small tea-house where the people had collected some of the beautiful old fossils from Tsukiyoshi, which were supposed to have fallen from the moon (tsuki—moon). Z——and I bought one or two, and E' looked at them with a dawning light of marvel in his eyes. The woman told him of the moon legend, and I told him something of the real origin of fossils, and he had the intelligence to perceive that the truth was even more wonderful than the fiction. I could see that he wanted to buy a specimen, but, although he was earning good wages, he would not be guilty of extravagance.

"Five minutes after we left the cottage, our kettle of cold Maggi's pea-soup, which we usually prepared overnight at the inn for our lunch next day, fell off the cart. The soup was wasted; and we discovered that the lid of the kettle had been knocked off on our way up the pass, and the cloth we had tied it up in had come unknotted, allowing half the soup to dribble over our luggage. Z——was about to throw the kettle—useless to us without a lid—away, when I suggested that El should run back and give it to the tea-house people, who were poor and might appreciate a good kettle, even without its lid. His face beamed at the suggestion, and he raced back to the little thatched cottage with an alacrity that surprised us. Presently he returned, and his conduct was explained. He had "swapped" the kettle for one of the Tsukiyoshi fossils! All the way down the pass we saw him taking his treasure out of his belt and unwrapping it from its tissue paper at intervals, when he would look at it with awe, and perhaps put another wondering question to us about the petrifaction of a long dead shellfish and the geological development of his country.

THE BIGGEST BEAR.

Wide World Magazine: Previous to being placed in his present home, "Monarch," the biggest bear in the world, resided in a cage in Woodward's Gardens, San Francisco, where he remained three or four years. He was fretful for months after being robbed of his freedon, and dangerous to approach when he realized he could not escape. His aptitude in discovering the weak places in his cage, together with his wonderful agility and tremendous strength, made imperative the construction of a second and much stronger cage than was used to confine bears, lions and large animals. There he would sulk in sullen rage, but gradually succumbed in a slight degree to the advances of his keeper, and tolerated the presence of the man who brought him food. The enterprising newspaper publisher who purchased "Monarch" from Kelly, presented the bear to the Golden Gate park, where of late years, he has greatly increased in bulk.

"Monarch" is the perfection of ursine grace, notwithstanding his huge size, and is the presumably proud father of twin cubs about 4 years old, who, it is believed, may grow in time as large as he. The mother is a large silver-tip grizzly. Though a captive, "Monarch" still remains unconquered.

Curing Catarrh

Accept Our Advice and Try this Remedy at Our Risk

Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membrane. The mucous membrane is, one may say, the interior lining of the body. Catarrh therefore may exist in any part of the system.

When the catarrhal poison attacks the mucous membrane, inflammation and congestion are produced and nature fails to throw off the accumulated poisons. The organ which has been afflicted ceases to perform its proper function as nature intended it should. The result is, complication upon complication, which may lead to other even more serious afflictions.

We honestly believe Rexall Mucu-Tone will do wonders toward overcoming catarrh. It is made from the prescription of an eminent physician, who made a long study of catarrh, and his great success with this remedy was an enviable one.

We want you if you are a sufferer from catarrh in any form, to give Rexall Mucu-Tone a thorough trial. Use it with regularity and persistency for a reasonable time, then if you are not satisfied, come back and tell us, and without question or formality we will hand back to you every cent you paid us. This is certainly the fairest offer that any one could make and should attest our sincerity of purpose. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

LAND OFFICE INQUIRY HAS BEGUN TO GROW BROADER

Witnesses From the Coast Are Ordered Summoned to Testify.

Washington, Feb. 15.—After an executive session of forty minutes in regard to admitting at this time of a report from Seattle giving the details of an alleged discovery of twenty-four letters which had been missing from the official files of the land office there and were said to have been found in the effects of Louis R. Glavis, chief accuser of Secretary Ballinger, the congressional investigating committee today ordered subpoenas issued for A. Christensen, chief of the field division at Seattle, and also for the assistant custodian of the federal building where the boxes belonging to Glavis were stored. The list of prospective witnesses is increasing daily, indicating that the inquiry will be an extensive one.

Tried to Disprove Charge.

Attorney Vertrees, on behalf of Secretary Ballinger, sought to show by letters and telegrams in the record that Glavis' charges that requests for a delay in hearing the Cunningham cases had not been favorably received by Fred Dennett, commissioner of the land office, were not substantiated by the evidence.

In one telegram read, Dennett wired Mr. Ballinger suggesting that the latter authorize a delay until certain evidence could be secured. Mr. Ballinger in reply said that in view of his personal reluctance to direct proceedings in the Alaska cases, Dennett himself should give the necessary directions to Schwartz.

What Convinced Glavis.

"That convinced me," said Glavis, "that Mr. Ballinger was personally directing the cases, fir in all my experience with the interior department I never heard of its being necessary for the commissioner to appeal to the secretary for permission to delay a hearing."

Mr. Vertrees read into the record an extract of a letter from Dennett to Schwartz in which he said:

"If more time is necessary we will have to grant it, but it seems to me that November is putting the matter off rather long."

Mr. Vertrees here requested that Miss E. M. Shartell of Seattle, a stenographer, be summoned as a witness.

Brandeis Wants Witnesses.

"While you are about it, Mr. Chairman," interjected Attorney Brandeis, "please also summon Special Agent Frank L. Spalding from Cheyenne, and W. W. Barr from Seattle."

Mr. Vertrees questioned the witness further today about the memorandum Glavis assisted in preparing and on which Assistant Secretary Pierce rendered a construction of the new coal land law of May, 1908. Glavis testified yesterday that this construction to his mind showed Mr. Pierce to be unfit for his office.

Mr. Vertrees sought to show that the Cunningham claimants, having decided to stand for patents under the old law, were specifically excluded from consideration in the Pierce opinion. The attorney also sought to show that Attorney-General Wickersham did not overrule Mr. Pierce, but substantially sustained him in every essential particular.

Cunningham Claims Included.

All Mr. Glavis would admit in this connection was that he certainly did not intend to exclude the Cunningham claims from consideration, and that while Attorney General Wickersham may have construed the law as Mr. Pierce did, the witness did not think so.

"But you condemn Mr. Pierce on your construction of the law?"

"Yes, sir."

The session had not proceeded far when Mr. Vertrees and the witness had another clash. The attorney wanted direct answers. Glavis wanted to explain every answer by referring to reports, etc. Mr. Vertrees once arose with:

"If your honor pleases—" then he corrected himself by saying: "Mr. Chairman."

Glavis Has His Way.

The committee ruled to let Glavis make as many and as long explanations as he desired.

"I don't think they are relevant," said Chairman Nelson, "but go on."

Mr. Vertrees then took up the accusation of misconduct against Fred Dennett, commissioner of the land office. Glavis had declared that after hearing H. R. Harriman, one of the applicants, make certain admissions relative to a claim, Dennett answered a telegram from Glavis saying none of the claimants had made admissions.

Mr. Vertrees brought out that Glavis' telegram had been sent more than a year after the Harriman incident and that the witness knew of no other admissions among 900 claimants.

"Yet you condemn Mr. Dennett as an improper official from this?"

"Not from that alone," replied the witness.

May Have Been too Broad.

Gladys admitted that an affidavit he made June 29, 1909, as to certain statements which a claimant named McDonald had said he had made to Dennett, may have been too broad. If it was the witness said he was anxious to correct it.

"What else did Dennett do?" asked Mr. Vertrees.

"Well, he wrote those 'funny' letters from Seattle and Portland."

"How did you get copies of those letters?"

"Special Agent Spalding acted as Dennett's stenographer and told me about the letters, and I asked him to furnish me with copies."

"You ordered him to do so, didn't you?

"I was his superior officer."

"He refused and you ordered him?"

Mailed Under a Frank.

"He hesitated. He said the letters were private, but they were mailed under a frank and I thought that made them official."

"You used that argument to Spalding didn't you?"

"I don't know that I did."

Mr. Vertrees went into the letters in some detail. They were written by Dennett to H. H. Schwartz, chief of the field service, and have heretofore been introduced in evidence.

SKIN SUFFERERS' DOUBT IS REMOVED

Many eczema sufferers have failed so utterly with salves and other "discoveries" that even the assurance of the best physician or druggist cannot induce them to invest another dollar in any remedy.

It is to these discouraged sufferers in particular that we now offer, at only 25 cents, a trial bottle of the accepted standard eczema remedy, a simple wash of oil of wintergreen, thymol and glycerine, as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription.

Hundreds of cures have convinced us and we know you can prove instantly with the first application that it takes away the itch at once.

EBERHART WILL EXTEND WELCOME

Governor Decides to Address County Optionists But Will Not Air His Views.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart will address the meeting of the county optionists at the Auditorium March 2. The governor at first believed that his engagement to address a church gathering at Duluth on that day would make it impossible for him to welcome the visitors. Now he says he will talk to the convention and leave on an afternoon train for Duluth.

P. J. Youngdahl, commenting on the invitation that has been sent the governor by the league, said today in a public statement:

"An invitation to welcome the convention and tell where he stands on this important question has been sent to Governor Eberhart. His reply will be awaited with interest."

Will Extend Welcome.

When this statement was read to the governor this morning, he said:

"I shall extend a welcome to the delegates to the convention as I should to any other gathering that asked me to do so. I do not understand that it is within my province to consider the question of county option, and I shall not do so.

"I shall not attempt to dictate to the state convention what it shall or shall no say in its platform. I think my position on this question is well known."

The convention will have three sessions, devoting the morning and afternoon to business. The evening will be a county option demonstration. Seaborn Wright of Georgia, who helped in the fight of the Anti-Saloon league in the South, will deliver the principal address.

Reardon to Speak.

Other speakers will be Rev. James Reardon, president of the Catholic Total Abstinence society; Mr. Youngdahl, J. F. Jacobson, Elias Rachie, E. T. Young, Dr. Andrew Gilles and Joel P. Heatwole.

About 1,000 delegates are expected. Twenty Minneapolis churches will charter special cars to the meeting.

SOO ANNOUNCES BIG EXPENDITURES

Eight Million to Be Put Into Improvements During the Year.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Paul, Minneapolis & Sault Ste. Marie railroad officials today announced the intention of that road to expend $8,000,000 in improvements during the present year, of which $3,000,000 will be expended upon the Chicago division. The rest will be spent in improving the main line, although a good share will be put into the Thief River Falls branch to Duluth.

HARBOR BILL IS PASSED

Includes an Appropriation of $500,000 for the Duluth Harbor.

No Provision Made for Survey of the St. Louis River.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house has passed the river and harbor bill, and in it are the following items for Duluth and vicinity: Improving harbor at Duluth and Superior, continuing movement already started and for maintenance, $500,000, the greater portion of this amount is to be spent in the harbor of Duluth; improving the St. Croix river, $4,000; improving harbor at Agate bay, $2,000; improving harbor at Grand Marais, $2,000; improving Minnesota river, $22,000, improving Red River of North, $7,500.

Congressman Miller has been very successful in securing practically all he asked for of the river and harbor committee regarding authorization for surveys of new projects. The projects in which he has interested himself for which surveys are authorized follow: Harbor at Knife River; Rainy river, with view of removing obstructions in channel at Rainier; Mississippi river, with view to removal of a ledge in Aitkin county at or near Pine Knoll; Mississippi river, between Winnebigoshish and Pokegama reservoir and from Leech lake dam to the mouth of the Leech river, with view to straightening and improving the channel. Surveys are also authorized for the harbor and channel at St. Paul, St. Croix river at Afton and Red River of the North and its head waters with a view to determining whether storage reservoirs are necessary in the interest of navigation, and also whether such reservoirs are desirable for the purpose of preventing floods and developing water power in co-ordination therewith.

Of the $500,000 appropriated for the Duluth harbor, about one-half will be spent for dredging and enlarging the harbor basin. The sum of $40,000 will be used for maintenance, and the remainder will be spent on the Superior entry work.

The local engineers recommended a survey of the St. Louis river, with a view of deepening the channels as far as Commonwealth avenue, New Duluth, but this recommendation was stricken out by the board of army engineers. Efforts were made by Congressman Miller at the request of the Commercial club, to have this included, but his efforts were evidently unsuccessful. It is possible that the clause can still be added in the senate.

UNION DISPUTE MAY CLOSE MINES

Labor Squabble Is Likely to Affect the Whole Butte District.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 15.—Unless there are unforseen developments, all the mines in the Butte district will close Wednesday morning as a result of a jurisdictional labor dispute.

A committee representing the International Engineers' union waited on the superintendent of the Amalgamated Copper Mining company and announced that the jurisdiction of the union must be recognized. The committee also claimed jurisdiction over the pump men, compresser men, firemen and oilers.

Officers of the miners' union say that the Western Federation of Miners will furnish enough engineers to operate the mines, and thus a long shut down may be avoided.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although gaining consciousness this morning after having been unconscious since 12 o'clock last night, following a vicious attack by a pair of thugs, Richard Harrington of Brownsville, Minn., is unable to give the officials any clue as to the identity of the assailants. The murderous attack upon Harrington took place shortly after 11 o'clock last night at the west end of De Mars avenue bridge, here. A messenger boy named John White saw the thugs and Harrington go down an alley and immediately notified the police, but it was nearly an hour later when the unconscious man was discovered lying in the shadow of a lumber pile. His hands had already been frozen. Robbery was the motive, prompting the assault.

GRAY HAIR

The Logical Explanation.

There is a great deal of misinformation about the care of the hair and the cause of hair getting gray prematurely. It used to be believed that in some families gray hair was hereditary, like blue eyes or quick temper. Science, however, has proved that gray hair is simply a lack of the proper hair food, and is in every case an individual problem. Premature gray hair is easily preventable, and when it first appears all that is necessary is to apply some reliable hair food such as HAY'S HAIR HEALTH. This standard remedy is entirely harmless and is in no sense a dye, being a preparation rich in the exact kind of sustenance that the scalp needs to keep the hair from decaying. Gray hair is simply a [illegible] Philo Hay Specialties Co., Newark, N. J., U. S. A.

SUPERIOR

SIX MONTHS FOR TOWN OFFICIAL

Alex McAloon Pleads Guilty to Charge and Is Sentenced.

Alex McAloon, chairman of the town of Gordon, Wis., and former member of the Douglas county board, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of receiving money under false pretenses, and was sentenced to six months in the Douglas county jail.

The sudden termination of the case comes as a surprise. It was scheduled to have been taken up yesterday morning before Judge Wickham, who came from Eau Claire, having been called to Superior by Judge Vinje of the Superior court on change of venue proceedings, but the case was adjourned until the afternoon.

During the afternoon the defendant changed his plea to guilty and the sentence was imposed by Judge Wickham.

Case Is Settled.

The case of Emil Johnson against the St. Paul & Western Coal company, which was to have come to trial today in the superior court, was settled out of court yesterday and has been stricken from the docket. Johnson was suing the company for $3,000 alleged damages for injuries received while engaged in shoveling coal at the company's dock on Connor's point.

HIRING HELP IN AFRICA.

Wide World Magazine: The "servant problem" is bad enough in America, and the experiences mistresses have to relate are many and varied; but an infinitely wider range of possibilities is opened up when mere man—and a bachelor man at that—tackles the servant and other household problems in an East African bungalow. Anything can happen—and does happen!

Native house servants of a sort are plentiful enough around the chief towns of British East Africa, Nairobi and Mombasa, and the slightest rumor that the muzungu (white man) requires a "boy" or m'pezi (cook) fills one's compound with cooks, "generals," and raw niggers, representing every tribe under Africa's sun.

The average bachelor contents himself with four servants—a head "boy," a cook, a 'toto (youth) to assist them, and a m'shenzi (raw untrained native) for odd jobs, gardening, etc.

It is no easy task to make a selection from the host of eager, voluble applicants. Dirty carefully-stuck-together "baruas" (testimonials) are examined and the owners questioned, but it is unwise to put much faith in these documents, for it is no unusual occurrence for a "boy"—on the principle of "the more the merrier"— to proudly present you with three testimonials, everyone bearing a different name from the one under which he introduces himself!

These gentry are always greatly offended when you kick them off the veranda and tell them they have bought or stolen the documents from other natives! Upon one occasion, a would-be cook brought me a "barua" signed by a well-known settler, and worded:

"To whom it may concern. The bearer of this 'barua' is an infernal rogue and thief. Please kick him out."

By the time I had stopped laughing, the nigger had arrived at the conclusion that something was wrong, and was doing record time down the path, so I was unable to avail myself of the kind invitation.

WOMEN IN FIELD OF SCIENCE.

Detroit Free Press: Wandering through the huge white marble buildings of the department of agriculture at Washington, you see many women, in neat white aprons, some of them mere girls, bending over microscopes and test tubes. Their activities seem very mysterious, but when you inquire you learn that they are engaged in original research work relating in one way or another to farming or gardening.

The case of Miss Alice Henkel, a botanist in the plant bureau, is noteworthy, if only for the reason that she entered that establishment originally in an ordinary clerical capacity as a stenographer and typewriter. That was only a few years ago when a mere girl she came to Washington from Cincinnati. But she was the inheritor of scientific aptitude from a family in which there had been many searchers after exact truth in botanical and other lines, and she quickly toop up plant study as a professional pursuit.

Miss Henkel, though still a young woman, is the author of a number of scientific bulletins already issued by the plant bureau. One of these is on the subject of "Weeds." Another is on "Drug Plants"—this latter subject being one to which she has devoted special attention. Up to the present time more matter of hers has been published by the government than from the pen of any other woman.

Miss Margaret Huddleson is another young woman scientist in the department of agriculture. She hails from Kansas City, Mo. Not long ago she took a high degree at a local college of medicine and is now a full-fledged doctor. This she did in the intervals [illegible]

IMPROVE THE MINNESOTA

Farmers Will Hold Most of the Million Dollar Issue of Stock.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Articles of incorporation will be filed within three or four days with the secretary of state, providing for the incorporation of the Minnesota River Improvement & Power company.

The company will be capitalized at $1,000,000.

The Minnesota River Improvement & Power company is a peoples' movement. It was started some time ago by the farmers living throughout the valley of the Minnesota, who, seeing that the state was powerless to enact laws providing for the improvement of the land along the river bottoms, determined to take action of their own.

Plan Dams in Minnesota.

The plans of the new company contemplate three dams along the Minnesota river, which will control absolutely the flood waters of the river, save 150,000 acres of land from inundation at flood times, and directly and indirectly affect some 800,000 more acres lying along the river for two and a half miles inland from each bank.

A. B. Kercher, temporary president of the company, said this afternoon:

"With the three dams which we expect to build—one at Ortonville, at the source of the Minnesota, one at Lac Qui Parle, and the third at Redwood Falls—we will be able to control absolutely the flood waters of the entire Minnesota river, and this on no less authority than that of George A. Ralph, state drainage engineer.

Quotes State Engineer.

"Mr. Ralph says that with a single dam at Ortonville he could control 15 per cent of the flood of the Minnesota. We expect to develop 25,000-horse power. We also expect the national government to give us aid insofar as navigation is concerned. The federal board of engineers has a man in the Minnesota river region now, estimating the cost of river improvement for navigation."

Among the men back of the new company are: State Senator C. A. Johnson of St. Peter; Judge L. W. Collins of Minneapolis; A. L. Poehler of Henderson; Dr. L. Albert Fritsche of New Ulm.

Work on the dam at Ortonville will begin as soon as the frost leaves the ground and it will be pushed forward with all possible haste.

"It is the intention," said Mr. Kercher this afternoon, "to sell the larger part of the stock to farmers, and to issue bonds for the remainder."

COPPER MARKET WEAK AND LOWER

Covering of Shorts Creates Little Activity and Trend Is Narrow.

The copper market was heavy today, support being withdrawn by shorts who covered early in the session. The market sagged, many of the leading issues losing from one to three points. In those issues which were the object of buying by shorts the tone was uncertain and the trend was narrow. There was some selling by interests, which supported the market at lower levels and today's liquidation was in the nature of profit taking.

The local market was quiet. The storm was detrimental both to the local and foreign markets. Wire trouble made it difficult to get quotations from the East.

A disturbing factor in the market is the presence of so many momentous issues hanging on decisions which will be handed down by the United States supreme court, before the end of the spring term. Overshadowing all is the American Tobacco case. It was argued several weeks ago. A decision will not be announced until after the Standard Oil case is argued in March. The validity of many state laws affecting corporations will be tested, including the act of the last legislature of Minnesota increasing to 4 per cent the rate of the gross earnings tax upon railroads.

Amalgamated opened at $75.25, lost ¼ point and advanced to $75.50 and then declined to $75.12½. Calumet & Arizona sold at $70, Giroux at $10.12½, off ⅛ point; Greene-Cananea at $9.37½ up ⅛ point; Butte Coalition at $24.37½, down ⅜ point; Lake at $83, up to $84.87½ and down to $81.75; North Butte at $36, down 2 points; Superior & Pittsburg at $14, Steel common at $79.75, down to $79.37½, back to the opening and down ½ point.

Carman sold at $1, up, 6¼ cents; Calumet & Sonora at $21.50, Elenita at $6.68¾ and $6.75, Keating at $2, National at 54 and 55 cents; San Antonio at $8.12½ down to $7.87½. North American at $2.87½, Butte & Superior at $2.68¾, Butte-Alex Scott part paid at $4.12½, $4.25 and then at $4.50, the full paid at $7.25 up ¼ point; Butte-Ballaklava at $9.87½ up ⅛ point, Copper Queen at 62 and 60 cents, Live Oak at $18.25 up ⅜ point, Shattuck at $19.50, Warrior at $11.50 and $11.62½, Calumet & Montana at $1.18¾ and Calumet & Corbin at 75 cents.

The following letter has been received here from Milford, Utah, telling of activities in mining properties there: "There is great activity in various portions of the Star district. The Harrington-Hickory of the Majestic company has recommended shipments. The Moscow and Red Warrior are steady producers and occasional shipments are made from the Hub, the Progressive and others. The last addition to the shipping list is the St. Mary's. Advices are to the effect that they are loading their first car of copper ore since the work was abandoned in the old shaft on the copper vein and tunnel on the silver-lead vein. This property is thoroughly equipped like the Red Warrior, Moscow and others and will, no doubt, from this time on gradually increase its productiveness as development continues. The St. Mary's, the Taylor and the Mars are well known properties and in the early days were all producers, so that it is not surprising, to those who know, that these later developments are making good. The reorganization of the Newhouse properties in the San Francisco district has stimulated operations in that vicinity.

Capt. James Bale, president of the Section 30 Development company, which has a lease on lot 4, section 30, 63-11 near Ely, is superintending the erection of camps and the sinking of the shaft which has reached a depth of about sixty feet. Supplies are being hauled from Ely and preparations are being made to prosecute the work of exploration and development with vigor. A fair-sized vein of rich ore has been shown up in the bottom of the shaft and it is expected that the formation will widen with depth, a feature of the Vermilion veins, which has been demonstrated by developments at the producing mines. The property adjoins the St. Clair lease to which the Duluth & Iron Range will have completed a spur from Ely by May 1.

Martin Rosendahl received a telegram from Capt. W. J. Dawson who is in Butte, as follows: "Charlton and myself down the Scott mine. Ore fifteen feet wide in face, averaging 6 per cent, 65-feet length just cut on 4 ledge on footwall two feet, high grade ore. Still drilling in 9 per cent ore in new ledge. Six cars on way to smelter. Mine never looked so good."

Another telegram said that the last car of ore shipped to the Pittsmont smelter averaged 19 6-10 per cent copper according to the smelter returns.

POWER BEHIND THE REPUBLIC.

No man can lay a finger on one case where the reform movement, however augustly engineered, has succeeded in regulating, checking or restraining the corporation end of business, says Charles Edward Russell in Success Magazine. Try it and see. Run over the long list of regulative activities and if you can mention one that has effected any essential change or been other than flat failure I will award you a prize. Do you select the fines lately levied with much eclat upon the railroads for rebating and the like? Dear unsophisticated soul, those fines were never paid by the railroad companies; they were paid by you and me. As for rebating, that goes on its sweet, simple way as of yore. Or do you think of meat inspection? That is a jest. Or of the pure food law? I know a man who is writing a comic opera about that.

The fact is, the reformers cannot induce government to control business because government is not government but only business. Government is business and business is the government and a government cannot very well proceed against itself. We hate to acknowledge the truth about the situation: the contrary pretense is so pleasing and titillating, but consider im- [illegible] government, please kindly call attention thereto. Business is the sole power, national, state and local. Whatever attempt may be made to proceed independently of or adversely to business is merely illusion for effect upon the public. Business still finds it well or thinks it well to continue the shell of another form of government as a means of [illegible] one to be convinced.

CACTI'S PATCH IN MICHIGAN.

Evening Wisconsin: Located in the northern portion of Blue Lake township, covering an area of several acres and [illegible] the successful farming of the land in that vicinity, is an immense patch of cactus of the prickly pear variety. Naturally growing only in the warmer portions of America, the spread of the big patch in the extreme northern part of Muskegon county has been the cause of no little comment, and the stories of its origin are numerous.

Nearly half a century ago, C. F. Wheeler, connected with the agricultural department at that time, in going over Muskegon county happened upon this strange cactus patch. He pronounced the plant a native of Arizona and was unable to explain its presence in Michigan only on the theory that some Indian tribe, either migrating here willingly or driven northward rather than become enslaved to some more powerful tribe, had brought the plant.

Legends of how the cactus was brought to this country are still told by the residents of Blue Lake who have heard from time immemorial the stories of its origin from the lips of aged Indians, who fifty years ago were numerous in the country. The Indians used to say that the cactus was brought from Arizona here by the band of Zuni Indians, who, conquered by another of the other tribes, were forced to accept exile or slavery.

The date of this coming to Michigan was placed by these Indians at about the year 1400 from estimates made in the stories told them by their forefathers, and to prove this statement they said that the cactus was the food upon which they lived and that they made various attire of the plants. [illegible] regions of Blue Lake, and in the last few years [illegible] the area which they cover.

LIVE 17 YEARS UNDERGROUND

One of the insect marvels is the life story of the cicada, commonly and erroneously called the seventeen year locust. The famous brood twenty-two appeared in the summer of 1902. It extended over a territory from Long Island west to Wisconsin and south to Georgia. No harm is done by these insects, except that the females lay their eggs in branches of the trees, [illegible] It does not hurt a tree to lose a goodly number of its twigs once in seventeen years. The next visitation of these insects is due in 1919.

It is interesting to note that brood twenty-two has a generation of [illegible] says Country Life in America. They are eight years old this year and have nine years yet to grow before they [illegible]

The life history of a generation begins when the females flock to the treetops and lay their eggs in the twigs. In a few weeks the eggs hatch and [illegible] tiny antlike larvae wriggle out and fall to the ground. Immediately they burrow below the surface and establish themselves alone in a little chamber near the root of some plant.

In the years of inactive life that follow, the insects feed upon sap from rootlets. [illegible] front legs are developed into tools like cutting jaws for burrowing and digging food.

The insect moults its skin five times during the seventeen years, [illegible] the fourth, eleventh and fifteenth years. When the seventeenth year is reached ambition of a new sort is born. The creature now a pupa crawls to the surface [illegible] building a chimney of earth and crawling out of this special exit into the open for the final moult.

What to do for a Cough.

Here is a home-made remedy that [illegible] an obstinate cough quicker than [illegible] Any woman can make it in five minutes.

Put the Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle and fill up with the syrup, made as follows: Take a pint of Granulated Sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir for about 2 minutes. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. It tastes pleasant—children like it.

This simple medicine is also splendid for colds, whooping cough, bronchitis, incipient consumption, chest pains, etc.

Pinex, as you probably know, is the most potent form of Norway White Pine Compound. It is rich in all the well-known pine elements. None of the weaker pine preparations compare with the real Pinex itself. Your druggist has it or will gladly get it for you.

The full pint of this effective cough syrup can be made for 54 cents. It keeps perfectly and lasts a whole family a long time.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

BETTER MEAT INSPECTION

Government Deputy Sworn in as a City Inspector Also.

Action Gives Added Authority and Will Improve the Service.

The bureau of animal industry has allowed the deputy government meat inspector in Duluth to be sworn in as a special city deputy to aid in increasing the efficiency of the meat inspection in Duluth.

Duluth is the first city in the country which has been allowed this concession by the government. The matter was taken up recently with Dr. Madison, inspector in charge at this port, by Health Commissioner F. J. Patton in an effort to improve the local conditions.

The city has one meat inspector at the present time. In addition to visiting all the retail shops he is required to see that the bakeries comply with the law and that the meats and poultry in the commission houses are in proper condition for public consumption. He has made an excellent record, but the field is a large one and the funds at the disposal of the city are limited.

The government inspector covers part of the ground and will be of much assistance in bettering conditions in Duluth. In the past he has had no authority to condemn meats, no matter how bad they might be, in the markets. Being sworn in as a special deputy of the city enables him to destroy meat any place in Duluth where it is found to be unwholesome. There is no additional salary attached to the position of the government deputy. Only his powers in the city are increased. He is not under the direction of the health department nor will he work under the orders of any one in the employ of the city.

CULLUM TAKES OFFICE MARCH 1

New Council Will Meet and Organize Second Tuesday of Month.

Dr. M. B. Cullom, mayor elect, will assume office March 1, and the aldermen elected at the last election will take up their duties as city fathers the first Monday of next month. The mayor will make his appointments the second Tuesday of the month, the same night as the council meets to organize for the next year. Those which require confirmation by the council will be sent to the council the same night it is probable. The most important appointments are the city engineer and the health commissioner. The appointees, which require no confirmation but whose bonds must be approved, will likely submit their bonds the same evening. The Democrats have control of the city council but they have not yet laid any plans for the future organization.

NO CONGESTION DUE TO STRIKE

State Railway Commission Makes Report to the Governor.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—A report made to Governor Eberhart today by the state railway and warehouse commission on freight traffic conditions in Minnesota, and particularly in regard to the Twin Cities, says that the commission has found no freight congestion due to the switchmen's strike. What action the governor will take in the strike will not be known until he has studied the report.

BALLINGER WILL COME TO ST. PAUL MEETING.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior, will address the conservation congress which meets at the St. Paul auditorium March 16.

At least Mr. Ballinger has assured Governor Eberhart that he will make every effort to be present, and in a letter received by the governor Monday Mr. Ballinger says that, in all probability, he will attend.

Edgemont, S. D., Feb. 15.—Roy Reynolds is dead as the result of what at first was believed to be a trivial injury. EAU CLAIRE VOTING ON COMMISSION PLAN.

Eau Claire, Wis., Feb. 15.—The voters of Eau Claire are deciding today whether or not the city shall be the first in the state to reorganize under the Wisconsin plan of commission government. Both sides are claiming the victory, but although union labor, in a big measure, is against the new system, to the practiced eye it appears that the commission men will win by a narrow margin.

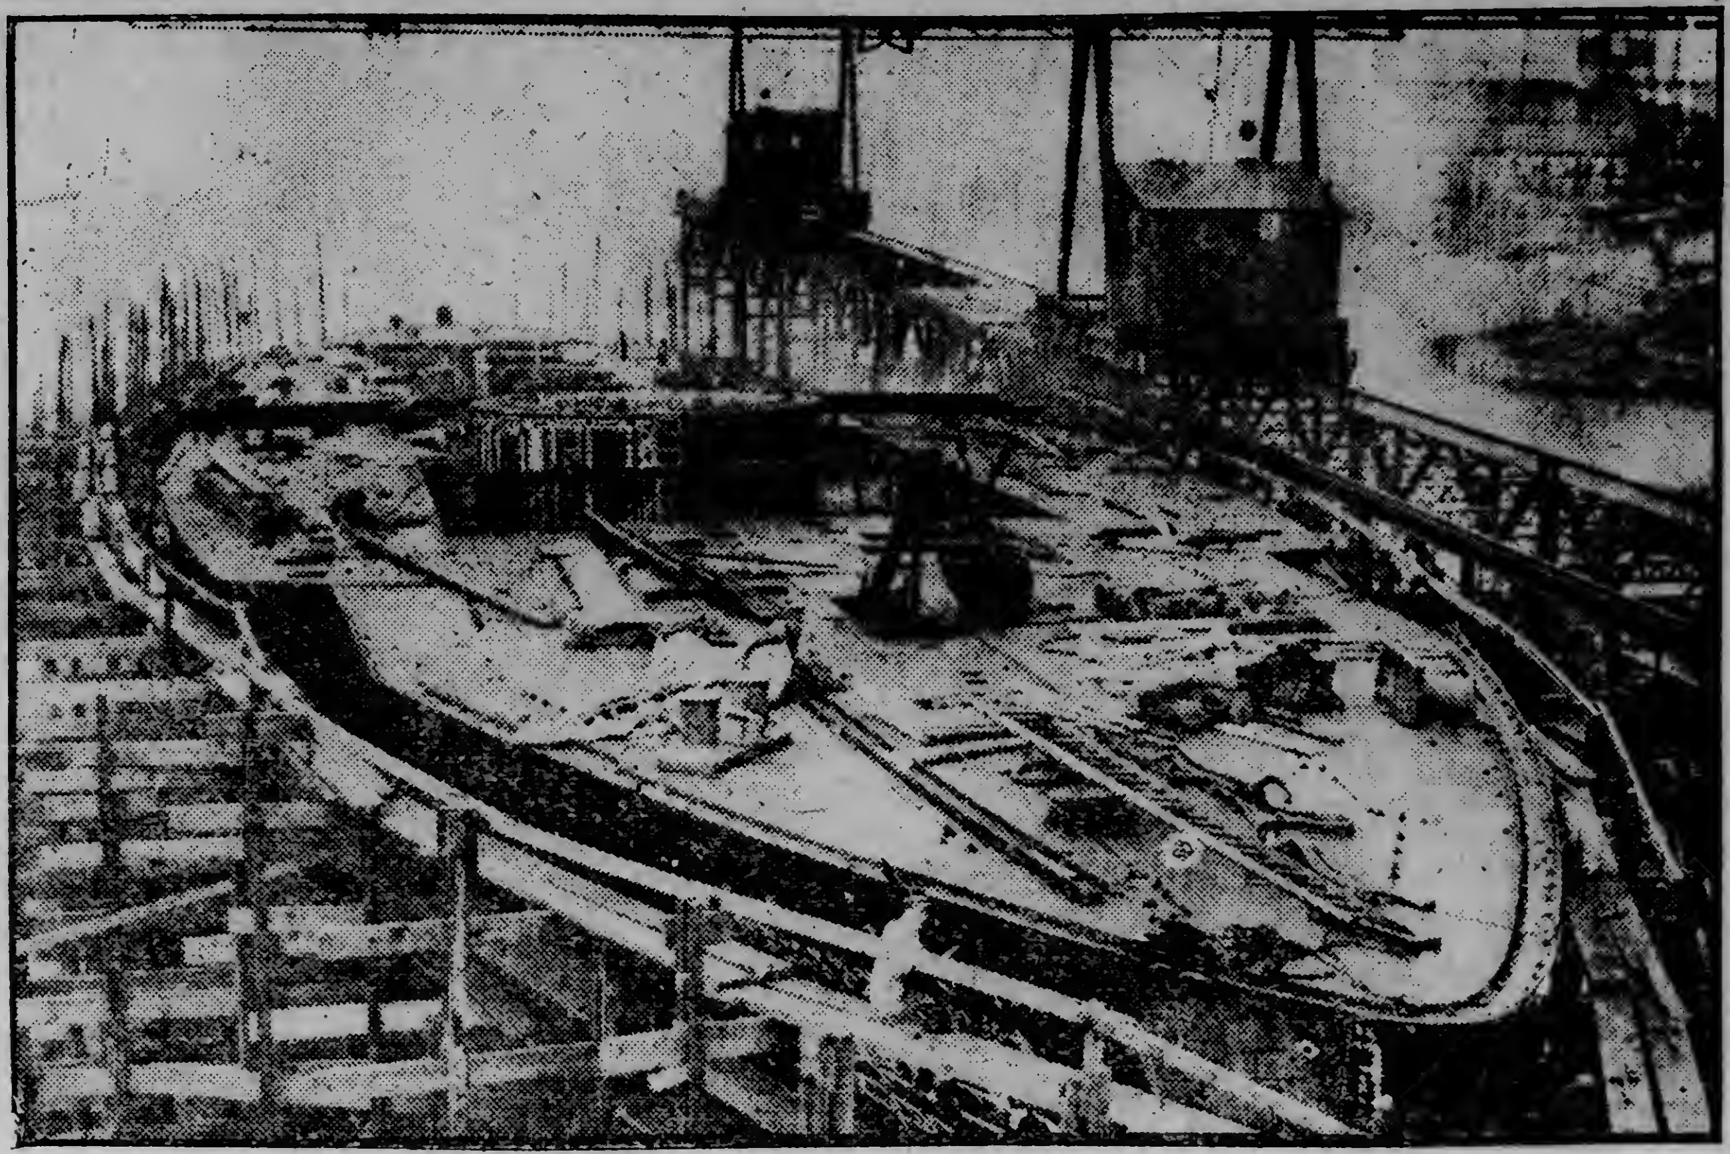
AN AMERICAN DREADNOUGHT TAKING SHAPE



BUILDING THE FLORIDA IN THE BROOKLYN NAVY YARD.

The American dreadnought Florida, will be launched in the spring. The date has not been fixed, but it probably will be within two months. This is the second big battleship to be built within recent years at the Brooklyn navy yard. The first was the Connecticut, which is now in active service. The keel of the Florida was laid in March of last year. At the same time the keel of her sister ship, the Utah, was laid at a private yard. The Utah was completed first, but this was because work on the Florida was delayed by work done in repairing other ships of the navy.

"DEAD ISSUE," SAYS IRELAND

Archbishop Declines to Say More About Fairbanks Episode.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Archbishop Ireland, who is in Washington for a few days, called at the White House today and through Secretary Carpenter arranged for an interview with the president at a convenient moment. When reference was made to the Fairbanks episode, the archbishop shrugged his shoulders and remarked with a smile:

"That's a dead issue."

"Some people," said the archbishop, "like to play with corpses, but I do not."

DENIES CZARINA IS VERY SICK

Baron Rosen Issues Statement Under Instructions From His Government.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Denial of alarming rumors regarding the health of the young Empress Alexandra of Russia, was given today in a statement which Baron Rosen, the czar's ambassador to Washington, gave out on instructions from St. Petersburg. The statement follows:

"Her majesty, the Empress Alexandra Feodorovna of Russia, who has lately been suffering from neurosis of the heart, is now convalescent and the Russian ambassador is instructed to categoricaly deny the rumors in regard to the empress' health that have appeared in some foreign newspapers."

FIRST MEETING OF APPRAISERS

Value of Property at Virginia Will Be Determined.

The appraisers are today trying to get at the real value of the property at Virginia, that is to be used in the near future for the district court building.

The meeting is being held at the office of William J. Stevenson, special attorney for the county board, in the courthouse.

The board of appraisers consists of Dr. C. B. Lenont of Virginia, E. M. Tredway of Duluth and Charles Kauppi of Duluth. It is the first meeting held since the appointments were made some time ago by William A. Cant of the district court.

The land is to be condemned by the county is owned the most part by the city of Virginia, although there are some individual owners, a number of whom are today present at the hearing.

NEGRO WINS FREEDOM.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Accused in the district court of breaking into a boxcar, John Doyle, colored, put up such a plausible and winning defense that he was not only promptly acquitted but left the courtroom with several dollars his story had wrung from the court and others jingling in his pockets. He claimed that during a run of hard luck he had simply broken into the car to sleep after spending his money for a money order to send to his mother and produced a copy of the order to prove it.

TRIED TO PASS BAD CHECK

Workman Charged With Forging Contractor's Name on Stolen Check.

Abraham Anderson was arrested last night by Patrolman Henry Mason, charged with forgery. He is accused of forging the name of A. G. Osman to a check taken from the contractor's check book in the temporary office at 15 West Third street. It is supposed to be one of the batch of blanks taken from the office about a week ago. Anderson made the forgery payable to O. Olson. He has been in the employ of the contractor and was given a genuine check for $18, Feb. 14, and he tried to make out another just like it, except that he made it payable to O. Olson instead of to A. Anderson. The amounts of both were the same. When arrested he had not cashed the genuine check. He claimed that the forgery was given to him by another man to cash for him, but he didn't know the other fellow's name, age, description or residence. He tried to pass the forgery upon one of the second hand dealers, but they had been warned and furnished descriptions of the checks and as soon as he saw it he called the police.

INDIANS AS CHURCH MEMBERS

Deeply Religious, Once They Are Converted—Indian Evangelists.

Kansas City Star: It has been only a few decades since the selfsame Indians who now are taking an active interest in the religious life of Oklahoma were terrorizing the Southwest with their deeds of cruelty. During this month the annual Comanche revival will be held west of Cache. Last year fifty converts were taken in through the influence of the camp meeting.

The Indian, when converted, is deeply religious and enjoys, more than the average white man, the privilege of holding and attending religious meetings. His preference is for camp meetings, as this form more closely resembles the conventions held by the tribes before their conversion to Christianity. It is the custom of the Methodists and Baptists in particular to hold camp meetings for the Indian tribes, among whom they have been doing missionary work. The Kiowas and Comanches are especially favorable to these open air gatherings and attend in great numbers each summer.

The Catholics hold first place in doing missionary work among the Indians of the Southwest, with the Methodists and Baptists close together for second place, and the Presbyterians and Episcopalians in third position. Recent congressional action has given all these denominations the control and ownership of the church and school lands, which they have improved by the erection of buildings thereon. Each of these denominations has numerous schools and churches for the red men throughout the new state, and occasionally may be found buildings belonging to one of the many other denominations.

Edwin Miller, a fullblood Delaware Indian, was recently ordained a minister of the gospel, following an examination before the Baptist commission. Although but 20 years of age he began immediately to serve in his capacity as a clergyman.

The Rev. Sarcoxie has been in the ministry for twenty years. He speaks English but preaches in Delaware. Miller speaks both English and Delaware.

In the Rev. Henry L. Cloud, a fullblood Cherokee Indian evangelist, the Methodists have their most influential missionary among the Indian tribes of the new state. Young Lone Wolf, a Kiowa chief, is a Baptist minister, as is also Chief Gotobo, the head man of the tribe. The former is a Carlisle graduate and reads his Greek Testament every morning before breaking his fast. One of the latest ordained ministers among the Kiowas was Kicking Bird, a descendant of the old war chief of that name.

JED'S ABILITY.

Chicago News: "There goes young Snowson," said the blacksmith, pointing to a passing youth. "I reckon he's lookin' for a job."

"Lookin' fer a job has got to be a chronic condition with Jed Snowson," said old Dave Geddes as he lit his pipe at the forge.

"Findin' jobs is jest as chronic with him,' said the blacksmith. "He finds jobs an' loses 'em so rapid that he has a job in th' air all the time, like a feller huskin' corn in the field."

"What ails Jed, anyhow?' asked old Dave. "He looks all right an' talks like a sensible feller enough."

"He's like Pop Misner's razor," said the blacksmith. "He looks fine in repose, but he's no good in action."

"He's had a powerful wide field of experience for a lad," said old Dave.

"He has tried his hand at about every trade and profession," said the blacksmith, 'an' he's made a fizzle of every blamed thing he's gone at. He won't take time to learn a trade or a business before he wants to work at it an' draw wages.

'Jed's strong card is references. He's got a lot of relations, all well fixed people, an' they dig up references for Jed whenever he wants to tackle a new line of business, which is about every two weeks.

"He'll go into a bank, an' after springin' his references he'll get on as a clerk. Then when it turns out that he ain't got the ability or the education to tally for a thrashin' machine, there is hard feeling' an' Jed is pushed through the swingin' doors.

"He got a job night watchin' for a big factory one time. He pulled the watch boxes faithful up to 9 o'clock, then he locked himself up in the office an' went so sound asleep that when a man from the watchmen's headquarters came over to see what ailed him thet he didn't pull the boxes, the man had to get the fire department to help wake Jed and get him on his feet again."

"I heard he got a good job driving for a big express company," said old Dave. "He ought to be able to drive horses, I should think."

"He got that job," said the blacksmith. "That was his star performance. He took his gilt-edged references around to the express company, and the manager seemed to take to him at once. Them honest eyes of his went right to the manager's heart—for Jed is honest; he ain't got sense enough to be crooked, even if he wanted to be.

"The company actually apologized for starting Jed in small—just givin' him a single rig an' a pick-up route.

"'Now,' says the company boss, 'you take this wagon and go to the corner of Lake and Canal street, an' drive south as far as Jackson—and you call wherever you see our cards hung out.'

"'That's easy,' says Jed.

"'And,' says the boss, 'you take up the cards and bring all freight to this barn.'

"Well, away goes Jed, happy and gay, and about three hours later in he comes a radiatin' sunshine from every pore. He came into the office, luggin' a stock of the company's call cards and plunks 'em down on the desk.

"'I got 'em every one,' says he, proud as a peacock. 'Some of the people tried to stop me, but I soon showed 'em where they got off,' says Jed.

"'Where's the freight?' asks the boss.

"'What freight?' says Jed.

"Well, sir, if there was a madder man than that boss in this world it was the next express boss higher up. They didn't know where the cards had been. They had no way of findin' all that freight, but to wait fer 'phone calls, meanwhile runnin' the chances of losin' six blocks of customers."

"They discharged him for that, did they?" asked old Dave.

"No," said the blacksmith. "Discharged is too mild a word. They didn't give him time to walk out by the door. He jumped through a winder."

ADVANCE NOT MAINTAINED

Wheat Declines at the Close After a Strong Opening.

Flax Is Dull But Strong, Scoring Fractional Advance.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 15.—The wheat market continued its advance early today but toward noon began to soften, and at the close was on a parity with yesterday's close, the undertone being much weaker, however. The decline was caused by profit taking by the professionals who acquired long lines yesterday and early today, and by the realization that today's snow fall would be beneficial to the growing plant. The latter factor toward the close offset the bullish sentiment caused by the crop scare reports. There was considerable buying on the break.

May wheat opened at $1.13½ bid, sold up to $1.13⅞@1.14 and down to $1.13⅜ asked, this being the bid price at the close yesterday. The July option opened at $1.13⅝ asked, went to $1.13¾ asked and then the same price bid and declined to $1.13⅝ and closed at that quotation asked. The closing price yesterday was $1.13⅜ bid.

May flax opened at $2.18¼, gained ¼c, declined to the opening and gained ½c and closed at $2.18¾ asked. The September option opened at $1.68 bid, gained 1c from bidders and sold at $1.70, closing at that price. There was no trading in July or October.

Durum closed ⅝c off, rye and barley were unchanged, oats closed ½c up. High durum was $1.00⅛.

The market opened higher on buying by speculators, the firm cash demand, higher cables, a continuation of the bullish crop reports, and an expected slump in receipts due to the prevailing storm in the Northwest and the cold wave which is following.

There were a few reports of damaged crops in the Southwest, although word was received from several well-known grain and elevator companies in that region, indicating that the wheat crop will be a bumper one, according to present indications, and that the reports of crop damage refer to isolated regions and are being sent out for market effect. Some folks are hedging by buying July and this option is also attractive to the professionals.

Offerings were light although the advancing prices ran into a few resting orders, chiefly from the country, which likes to take this method of selling its stuff. The market was badly congested. It appears to be out of the rut, however, in which it lay dormant a few days ago. The millers took considerable stuff, appearing to believe that the storm would reduce receipts. The cash demand was active. Cash here equalled May and in Minneapolis No. 1 northern sold 1@2c over the near option. The movement from the country shows signs of decreasing on account of the inability of the railroads to haul the grain. Whether the farmer will let go of further supplies on this bulge is problematical.

Liverpool closed ⅝@⅞d higher and the foreign market had a good tone. There was some export trade today to England and the continent. Bradstreet's world's visible supply showed an increase of 1,250,000 bu, which was to be expected. Last year the increase was 2,675,000 bu. The increase in the United States was 250,000 bu. Canada 16,000 bu, Europe and afloat 1,000,000 bu and east of the Rockies 214,000 bu. The foreign markets were influenced by stronger American markets and an advance of 2¼c in the Buenos Ayres market from last night. The spot demand was better and offerings were light.

The large shorts still have their lines intact, despite the advance in wheat. They claim that heavy reserves will eventually depress values. The bears pointed out today that the storm which is general over the West would provide an additional covering of snow for the growing wheat plant, which undoubtedly will be benefited by the prevailing snow fall. Reports indicate that the wheat has had plenty of moisture. The new fall of snow should delay the effect of any possible alternate freezing and thawing.

Traders view the flour situation with a mixed sentiment. Some mills claim the demand is excellent while some folks assert that the Minneapolis mills are cutting prices on spring wheat flour to compete with millers in other territory. Consumption is heavy and sales are liberal, is the general opinion. The East claims that stocks there have been reduced.

The government's report on farm reserves is awaited with interest. A year ago the reserves were placed at 143,000,000 bu compared to 148,000,000 bu in 1908, and 206,000,000 bu in 1907. A small showing of wheat on the farms would be sufficient incentive for intense bullish activity. Many bulls think the government overestimated the last crop and they believe the report on the reserves which will be issued March 8 will sustain their contention.

The flax market today was quiet, the offerings being extremely light, and bidders few. There seemed to be little demand from any quarter. The futures other than May are assuming a speculative aspect and now and then a few trades are made, some of which seem to be for hedging purposes.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Advance and Hold Close to High Levels.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Wheat prices advanced in the early trading today, opening ⅛@⅜c higher and keeping generally close to the high levels through the first hour. Stronger markets abroad and disinclination of longs to lessen holdings, contributed to the firmness. Fluctuations were practically within the opening range which, for May, was $1.12⅝@1.12⅞. At the start May was ⅛@⅜c higher than final figures yesterday.

The market continued strong through the first half of the session and advanced until May touched $1.13¼. Later because of increased offerings, the prices sagged to about yesterday's closing level. The close was easy with May at $1.12½@1.12⅝, a shade higher than the final figures yesterday.

Corn opened a shade to ⅜c higher in sympathy with the firmness in the wheat pit and through the first hour held close to the opening figures. Stocks are accumulating rapidly, but some traders look for smaller arrivals soon and therefore cling to the bull side. Opening figures for May were 67@67¾c.

Trading was extremely active later in the day, covering by shorts being a feature. May advanced to 67⅝c. The close was strong at almost the top with May up ½ at 67⅜@67½c.

In oats, a fair demand headed by elevator interests kept prices in line with wheat and corn. The start was a shade to ¼c higher. In the first hour prices reacted a trifle and rested slightly below the opening figures. May opened with ⅛@¼c advance at 47½@47⅜c.

Provisions dropped off in the first trades, losing 5c to 20c of yesterday's gain, lard leading in the decline. In the first hour increased demand gave support and the figures crept up again toward the high levels. Pork made the most rapid recovery. May went up to $23.55, yesterday's quotation. Opening figures for the May products were: Pork, $23.40@23.50; lard, $12.60@12.50; ribs, $12.25@12.22½.

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

Market Starts Heavy, Recovers Initial Losses, But Declines Again.

General List Moves Languidly and the Close Is Very Dull.

New York, Feb. 15.—The market opened heavy today, but losses in the important stocks were confined to moderate fractions. There were a few notable exceptions, Kansas & Texas going up 1¼ and Great Northern ore certificates a point. Canadian Pacific was down 2 points in sympathy with a corresponding loss in the London market.

The market reversed its course soon after the initial dealings, a brisk demand for Reading, the Western railroad stocks, United States Steel and the Copper group carrying prices well over yesterday's final figures. There was a varied demand for the inactive specialties, a dozen or more going up from 1 to 2 points. Reading moved up 1⅝, and then the whole movement came to a halt, profit-taking forcing Reading back a point, and lowering some of the other leaders to below yesterday's closing again.

Prices receded until the gain in Reading was wiped out. By that time Amalgamated Copper was 1⅜ lower than last night, La Clede Gas 1½ and Southern Pacific, Rock Island preferred, the American Smelting stocks and Utah Copper 1. The room traders, finding themselves almost the only operators, hesitated to push any movement. Bonds were steady.

After Reading had broken to under 165⅝, the early support was extended again and it rallied a point. Elsewhere there was a partial recovery which did not hold. Union Pacific and several other stocks went lower than previously. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha advanced 5½. La Clede Gas lost 2¾.

The close was rather weak and very dull. Reading pulled up the general list when it was bid up above 166. A number of minor industrials gained 1@2 points but the general list moved languidly and fell back again. Canadian Pacific lost 2¾, American Sugar 1⅝ and Rock Island and Western Maryland certificates 1.

BUTTE- ALEX SCOTT.

Slowly but surely this property is working its way into a place where it will stand among the richest producers in this country as a big dividend earner.

To give you an idea of what is going on at this mine I will publish two messages received from Butte, yesterday.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 14, 1910.
Martin Rosendahl, Duluth—

Charlton and myself down Scott mine fifteen feet wide in face average 6 to 8 per cent copper, sixty-five foot length. Just cut No. 4 ledge on foot wall, two feet high-grade ore, still drilling in ore, in new ledge; six cars on way to smelters. Mine never looked as good.

(Signed) W. J. DAWSON.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 14, 1910.
Martin Rosendahl—

Last car ore shipped Pittsmount smelter, 19 6-10 per cent copper; that is going some.

(Signed) W. J. DAWSON.

The Butte-Alex Scott company have also received messages from Supt. Stone that confirms the above. We are going to show up another Minnie Healy and today we can hold up our heads with any independent mine on the Hill.

Returns from ores shipped and moneys received for same will tell Duluth people a great story. Something will have to move when every car shipped will bring back a check for $1,060 up to $2,500. This is a real mine and I have known it all the time. In the Leonard adjoining us 2,500 men are employed, and in the High Ore and West Colusa about 3,000. Think it over, are we in good company? Big ledge opened up should be a regular bonanza.

Calumet & Corbin and Calumet & Montana were the strong features of the morning session. Calumet & Corbin is being bought whenever offered and it is going into the hands of people who realize the possibilities of the property which they already have in the Corbin district, and also of the property which they have taken over in the Raedersburg district. These people have just returned from a trip to the property and the class of buying which they have been doing is bound to be reflected in higher prices. We remain distinctly bullish on Calumet & Corbin and do not hesitate to advise its purchase at anything near the present figures. Calumet & Montana showed every evidence of being on bottom. There are good bids for this issue at all times and stock is very scarce. In fact, it is extremely hard to buy it at any time. Live Oak sold down to $19.00 but quickly recovered to $19.50. It will not hurt any one to take a few shares of Live Oak on this quiet spot. The company is showing up a big tonnage of ore, which is a trifle better than the Miami mine, and it is showing it at the rate of over 300,000 tons per month. This property is going to be one of the biggest prospects in the Miami camp and the present price will look ridiculously cheap within a year from the present time. Shattuck-Arizona was extremely active at $19.50 and the buying in this issue is coming from people who are close to the management. Amazon-Montana remains firm at $2.87 and the buying in this stock is by people who have confidence in the future prospects of this property and who have faith in the ability of its management to make a mine out of the present property. Its equipment is of the best and is of a permanent character. Amazon-Montana presents great possibilities in a speculative way as it is a development stock and could easily sell for six or seven times its present price and still not be selling at a very high figure. Word was received today from the Savanna company's manager at Silver City, N. Mex., stating that the company had uncovered a vein of very rich copper ore. Word was received also stating that the drills which were recently installed at the property are entering ore that is of the very best grade. This is a stock which has not yet been fully appreciated by the public, and the investment and speculative possibilities which it offers are immense. We advise the purchase of Savanna at anything near the present price. We advise the purchase of any of the best stocks on these quiet days, and feel that purchases made now will show good profits within a short time.

STILL EIGHT IN COLONY

Number of Prisoners Held for Murder Does Not Decrease.

Schreiber Is Dean of Colony and Booker Latest Recruit.

When George Booker accused of the murder of Charles Clark takes up his abode at the county jail, the murder colony will be increased to eight members.

Some have been proven guilty of the crimes with which they were charged; some are awaiting sentence; others have been sentenced; and all are awaiting the final disposition of their cases.

The men accused of serous crimes are confined in cells on the second floor, the ground floor being devoted to drunks, vags and petty criminals.

There is not a man in the murder colony who does not hope for release. Even "Old Bill" as Schreiber is familiarly called, expects to have the supreme court interfere in his case. Schreiber is the dean of the colony of eight.

Acupito Suscrasello is held at the county jail on a charge of murder in the first degree. He was indicted some two months ago by the grand jury at Virginia and pleaded not guilty when arraigned.

The trouble occurred over a board bill, with a man named Loni Grillo at Gilbert. As a result of the quarrel, Grillo, it is claimed, was decapitated. A sharp instrument in the hands of Suscrasello is said to have caused the death of his brother Italian. Suscrasello is a very young man and far from being a desperado in appearance.

Adolph Matel is still held at the jail for the murder of Adolph Mattis. He has had one trial at which time the jury disagreed. His cousin, Victor, was tried on the charge of murdering the same man, but was declared innocent by a jury. Whether or not Matel will be brought to trial again is not known at this time.

Ralph Jones, the colored man, accused of the murder of Walter Whitehead, is still awaiting his trial. He claims that he killed the negro pugilist in self-defense.

Frank Sadler, who was convicted of the murder of Lawrence Ropre, and sentenced to life imprisonment, is still a member of the colony, but will soon begin his long term at Stillwater.

Jackson McPherson, proven guilty of the murder of Otto Frey aboard the steamer North Lake, Sept. 22 last, is hoping for a new trial. He expects soon to receive about $250 from an estate left him by an uncle who died in Scotland. This money he will use to try to regain his freedom. He stoutly maintains his innocence and claims that he acted in self-defense.

Mike Rossi, who killed Antonio De Meo in the Omaha railroad yards, is awaiting his death sentence. He has been sentenced to the gallows, but the governor has not as yet set the date although the thirty days given him by the court has expired. His cell is well stocked with Bibles. He worries constantly concerning his fate and hopes in some manner to escape his punishment.

CANADA SAVES WATER POWER

Parliament May Prevent Any Export to the United States.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 15.—Canada has entered upon a general plan to prevent the export of power developed along the international boundary line to industries located on the American side. The struggle to prevent the export of Canadian power is actuated by the fear that the industrial development in the manufacturing cities along this side of the boundary line will be handicapped if the policy is sanctioned.

Before a committee of the house of commons a few days ago, the St. Lawrence power problem came to the front. The committee was asked to approve of a bill granting the St. Lawrence Power Transmission company the right to export power. This company denied it was associated with the St. Lawrence Power company, which asks permission of the international waterways commission to construct a 700,000-horse power dam at Long Sault rapids, but F. H. McGuigan of Toronto is the leading figure in both companies.

C. M. McGrath, member of parliament, declared before the committee that Canada would have to demand a settlement of the Niagara power questions by preventing the present export of power from the Canadian side to the United States.

See Blow at Americans.

The fight on these two questions, together with the Ontario government's refusal to permit the Minnesota & Ontario Power company to export power from its Fort Francis power stations to the Minnesota side of the Rainy river, is all part of a general plan to retain all the Canadian power for future use by the Canadian industries.

Advocates of the conservation program which apparently is to control the government's policy in this regard, declare that there is a desire to shut out American capital or refuse power to the American industries merely to inconvenience their development. Canada fears that if the export of power is permitted, the industries will be built up around the American side of Long Sault, Niagara, Rainy river and other power sites, which will ultimately use all the power that can be developed.

Montreal opponents of the Long Sault power dam claim that Standard Oil capital is represented in the company which seeks the right to undertake the big project. There has been no evidence of such interests in the proposition as it has been presented to the international waterways commission.

COLLEGE FOR INDIANS.

New Educational Plan Is Proposed By Congressman Miller.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Representative Miller has introduced a bill in behalf of the various tribes of Chippewa Indians of Minnesota. It embodies the practical ideas which the Indian office has advanced, for some time, and contemplates a new departure in the field work of education among the tribes. Mr. Miller's bill provides for an appropriation of $150,000 to be taken from the trust funds of the Indians for the establishment of a college of instruction in agriculture, mechanical, scientific and artistic pursuits. The location of the proposed institution of learning is to be decided by a council of Chippewas to be held as soon as the Miller bill becomes a law.

Mr. Miller presented this measure as a practical proposition in line with requests of the Chippewas. Heretofore direct appropriations from the federal treasury have been made for the support of Indian schools. Mr. Miller proposes to change this system and allow the Indians themselves to direct their own affairs and expend their own money.

EIGHT DEAD IN WRECK.

Four More May Die as Result of Collision.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 15.—Eight persons were reported dead, four probably fatally injured, and twenty more or less seriously hurt as a result of a head-on collision between southbound passenger train No. 5 and northbound No. 2 on the Georgia Southern & Florida railroad, nineteen miles south of this city, last night at 6 o'clock. It is said the wreck was caused by the crew of No. 2 mistaking orders and running by Bon Aire, where the train was ordered to meet No. 5.

The two locomotives and baggage and express cars were totallly demolished. The coaches were piled in one mighty heap.

OSBORN AFTER SHERMAN.

Jackson, Mich., Feb. 15.—The most prominent feature of the Lincoln club banquet here last night was an attack on Vice President Sherman by Chase S. Osborn of Sault Ste. Marie, who is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in this state. Mr. Osborn said:

"At the Chicago convention of 1908 we were told that Jim Sherman must be nominated because he could raise campaign funds and stood in with powerful men. They virtually told us we must nominate Sherman, and now we have the fruits, which are Aldrichism, Cannonism and Ballingerism."

HEIKE NOT IMMUNE.

Sugar Trust's Secretary Must Face Trial for Fraud.

New York, Feb. 15.—Charles R. Heike, secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, known as the "sugar trust," is not "immune." He must stand trial beginning March 1 next, on indictments charging him with other employes of the company of conspiring to defraud the government by underweighing imports of sugar.

Counsel for Heike admitted his guilt, but maintained that though guilty, his grand jury testimony was a bar to prosecution. After the decision however, Heike's lawyers changed the plea to "not guilty" and time for trial was fixed.

In ruling against Heike, Judge Martin referred to the danger that would follow if indiscriminate pleas at bar were entertained or allowed and the opportunity it would give rich men to avoid the administration of justice. There had been no evidence, he said, to show that the government was animated by bad faith in bringing the defendant before the grand jury or that any effort was made to extract testimony from the defendant that might be used against him.

The club figures that about $13,500 will be saved on the cost of the improvement. The new charter provision for paying the cost of paving street intersections out of the general fund will also be applied to the Sixth street improvement, which will be first taken up by the city in the spring.

MOORHEAD GIRL BEATEN BY UNKNOWN ASSAILANT.

Moorhead, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The police are trying today to run to cover the brute in human form that attacked Miss Selma Erickson in front of her home here last night after she had returned across the bridge from Fargo, but are without a clue as she is not able to furnish much of a description of her assailant. In the attack the girl's nose was broken her eyes injured and she was left unconscious on the wak where she was found.

THEATER MAN AGAIN ARRESTED IN WASHBURN.

Washburn, Wis., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—For a third time Proprietor Louis Latts of the Bijou theater has been arrested for running his establishment on Sunday. He was acquitted last week after a jury trial, by raising the point that being a Hebrew he observed Sunday from Friday night until Saturday night, therefore he had a right to seek a livlihood on the Christian Sunday, and the point won the jury's sympathy. He claims he is being singled out for persecution as others who keep open Sundays are not molested.

DULUTHIANS SEE PRESIDENT TAFT

Capt. Monaghan and Wife Presented to Chief Executive By Miller.

Washington, Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller this morning escorted Capt. Monaghan and wife of Duluth, and Mr. and Mrs. Costello and daughter, of Graceville, to the White House and introduced them to President Taft.

Ex-governor S. R. Van Sant is in Washington, today, and was among those who called at the White House, to see President Taft.

Charles A. Towne of New York, formerly of Duluth, is also in Washington for a few days, and was upon the floor of the house, this morning, renewing old acquaintances with members who served with him in former congresses, and incidentally meeting numerous new friends.

WILL BUILD AUDITORIUM

Duluth Socialists Will Have Hall Costing Close to $50,000.

Duluth Socialists will have a new theater and hall at Fifth avenue east and First street, to cost $50,000.

A crew of men started work excavating for the basement yesterday and it is expected that it will be completed before the summer is far advanced.

The work is being done by the Finnish Workers' association, known by the name of "Ystava,' which means "comrade" or "friend" in the English language.

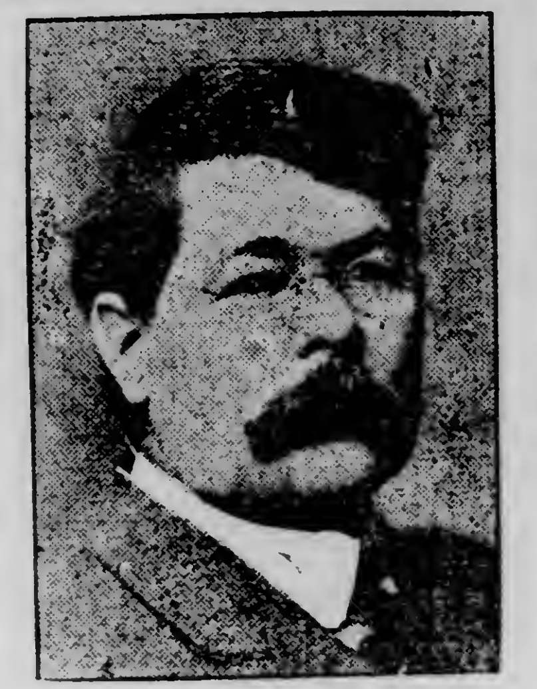
The building is planned to seat about 1,000 people and will be modern throughout. The construction will be of brick and stucco and fireproof throughout. The hall will be 50 feet wide, 110 feet long and will be furnished with a stage 38 feet deep, making it one of the largest at the Head of the Lakes.

The basement will contain a large library and reading room, a dining room and kitchen with the janitor's quarters and the heating plant underneath. The interior finish will be plain at first but will be made more elaborate later.

The plans, which have been in the hands of the building inspector several days, were drawn by Lars Forsell of Hancock, Mich. When they have been accepted by the building inspector, Mr. Forsell will leave for Chicago where another hall of a similar nature will be erected. It appears that the Socialists are building a chain of these theaters and halls throughout the country.

The first estimated cost was $35,000, but as it has a stage the building must be fireproof throughout, which will bring the cost up to at least $50,000.

ASKS PHYSICAL TEST FOR INCOMING ALIENS



DANIEL J. KEEFE, Commissioner General of Immigration.

NEED NEW ALIEN LAWS

Commissioner of Immigration Says Present Ones Fail of Purpose.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Not further restriction but merely to make possible such restriction as the existing law intends but has not accomplished, is the object of a proposed new immigration law recommended by Daniel J. Keefe, the commissioner general of immigration, in his annual report for the fiscal year 1909.

It is proposed to accomplish this by codifying, arranging in logical sequence and strengthening at their weak points all existing laws on the general subject of immigration and Chinese exclusion.

Suggests New Laws.

Some of the principal suggestions are: So defining the term "alien" as to leave no doubt that it includes all persons not citizens; extending the contract labor provisions to forbid and penalize the inducement of immigration by false as well as genuine promises of employment; penalizing an

VOTE ON MERGER OF THE UNIONS

Referendum on Miner-Federation of Labor Plan to Be Put Into Effect.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 16.—"Shall the Western Federation of Miners affiliate with the American Federation of Labor?" is the question to be submitted to a referendum vote, probably within a week. This step is recommended by the special committee appointed at the last federation convention to investigate the proposal.

The committee was headed by Charles H. Moyer, president of the federation. In a report just completed he urges immediate action in submitting the proposition to a vote of the members. Closer affiliation with the United Mine Workers of America is said to be the real object.

The effect probably will be a working agreement whereby the United Mine Workers will be given jurisdiction over all coal miners and the Western federation jurisdiction over metalliferous miners.

WANTS DOUGHERTY KEPT IN PRISON

Peoria Prosecutor Opposes Parole of Convict at Joliet.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 16.—Surrounded by an array of strong witnesses, State's Attorney Robert Scholes left here this morning for Joliet, where he will oppose a petition to parole Newton C. Dougherty, convict No. 9510, ex-superintendent of schools, whose case it was announced would come up before the pardon board this afternoon.

Mr Scholes is accompanied by D. S. Long, president of the school board, Former President J. W. Maples and attorneys who handled the case in which Dougherty was convicted.

There will be only two members of the pardon board at the hearing, Garrett Kenney, the Peoria member, having withdrawn on account of the local interest.

Confessed to Forgery.

Newton C. Dougherty, who was superintendent of schools here, was indicted five years ago, pleaded guilty to forgery of school funds to the amount of about $750,000, and was given an indeterminate sentence at the Joliet penitentiary. His arrest caused a sensation in financial, educational and social circles throughout the country.

After serving about a year at Joliet, the safe of the school board was blown up in the library building and "scrip" damaging to the interests of Dougherty was obtained. The robbery was committed, it is said, by Eddie Tate, a convict who had just been released from Joliet, and it was charged that the crime was instigated by Dougherty inside the walls of the penitentiary.

MILLER TO MAKE FIGHT

District Engineer Reported It Was Not Necessary This Year.

Washington, Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The river and harbor bill, which passed the house last evening, did not carry an appropriation for the proposition of deepening the channel to the new steel plant at Duluth to a depth of twenty-one feet.

Congressman Miller worked hard to get it into the bill, but the district engineer of the army stationed at Duluth reported adversely, and his report was approved by the general board of engineers. The objection to this deepening of the channel at this point and at this particular time seems to have been solely because it is not considered absolutely necessary this year.

However, Congressman Miller differs from the findings of the engineer corps in regard to this project, and says he will use his utmost endeavors to have the committee on commerce, to whom the bill is referred in the senate, to at least authorize an appropriation to make a further examination of the project with the hope that a subsequent examination may find a change of heart on the part of the district engineer.

Senator Clapp, who is a member of the senate committee, said today he would see what can be done when the bill is taken up in committee.

SIXTH DEATH IN ODD SEQUENCE

One More Added to Strange Fatalities Following Keystone State Graft.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 16.—The strange fatality that has pursued some of the principal figures in the capitol scandal was again brought to public mind today when John E. Stott, one of the chief witnesses in the celebrated case, was found dead in the bathroom of his home. He is the sixth man in the case to die. His death was due to heart trouble.

Stott was secretary to the board of public grounds and buildings which let many of the contracts that brought more than a dozen men to the bar of justice. He was a witness in two trials already held and was to take the stand in the case of Joseph M. Huston, architect of the capitol, whose trial will come up next month.

Two of the six men who died were under a two years' sentence, one was awaiting trial and two were important witnesses. Besides these one of the many men under indictment has been confined in an insane asylum.

Laredo, Tex., Feb. 16.—Because of a shortage of wheat in Mexico, the rate of duty has been reduced by the Mexican government from 3 cents a kilometer to 1 cent.

MATEL IS A FREE MAN

Released From County Jail on Motion of County Attorney.

Shakes Hands With Other Members of the Murder Colony.

This morning the jailer held the great iron doors wide open and Adolph Matel, who was accused and tried for the murder of Adolph Mattis following a wedding celebration on Garfield avenue last August, walked out into the open, a free man. The jury in the case at the time of the trial disagreed.

Assistant County Attorney Warren E Greene yesterday appeared before Judge William A. Cant and moved that Matel be allowed his freedom, as there seemingly was not enough evidence to secure a conviction.

Matel was not in court at the time the motion was made yesterday after-

GRAND JURY TO TAKE UP INQUIRY

Kentucky Tobacco Cases to Be Investigated By Special Body.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 16.—Following a conference here by half a dozen federal secret service agents who have been working up Kentucky tobacco cases, it was reported today that a special grand jury would be called to meet in Covington soon to take the subject up. The understanding is that the government has abandoned its idea of proceeding against the Burley Tobacco society under the Sherman antitrust act, and that the proceedings will be directed against individuals whom investigation is shown to be amenable in the law.

FATAL WRECK AT BLUE EARTH

Fireman Killed and Engineer Fatally Hurt on Northwestern Train.

Mason City, Iowa, Feb. 16.—In a head-on collision between a Chicago & Northwestern passenger train and a freight train at Blue Earth, Minn., last night, Fireman Erickson was killed and Engineer Tyson fatally injured. Several passengers were slightly hurt. The passenger train, northbound, rolled down an embankment, after striking the freight train.

GRAIN BILL UNDER FIRE

Chicago, Minneapolis and Baltimore Men Attend Senate Hearing.

Strong Fight Against Federal Inspection Is Being Made at Capital.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Strenuous opposition from boards of trade of Chicago, Minneapolis and Baltimore developed in the senate committee on agriculture today to the McCumber bill, providing for federal inspection so as to establish uniform grades in every market. The grain markets of the country now have their own systems of grading grain, and representatives of this system opposed the pending bill on the ground of paternalism and constitutionalty.

The contest for the appontment of federal grain inspectors was begun five years ago. One year later a favorable report was made by the senate committee on agriculture. Since then, the friends of the bill say, fair grading has been the rule at the big markets.

Back to Old Methods.

It was charged today that if the proposed legislation was defeated, former methods, which were sharply condemned by Senator McCumber and Senator Crawford, would be resumed.

Senator McCumber charged that the grain buyers gave the farmers poor grades in order to be on the safe side, and sold the grain to millers at a much higher grade, and that the farmers were in this manner defrauded.

The McCumber measure, if approved by the committee, will be put into the agricultural appropriation bill as an amendment and not be spbject to a point of order.

ROOSEVELT NEAR TO GONDOKORO

Expedition Will Reach That Place Thursday, Say the Runners.

Gondokoro, Soudan, on the Upper Nile, Feb. 16.—The Smithsonian African scientific expedition is expected here at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Definite news as to the hour of arrival was brought by a special runner, who reached here today.

Col. Roosevelt and Kermit Roosevelt have left the expedition's trail for a day's hunting of elephant and giant eland at Rejaf, on the Congo side of the Bar-el-Jabel. Rejaf is a few miles to the south and west of this place, and the hunters have invaded the territory on the special and eagerly accepted invitation of the Belgian authorities. But for this departure from the program of travel the expedition would have arrived here today.

Preceded by Runners.

Col. Roosevelt and Kermit are accompanied in the Congo by E. B. Haddon, the British district commissioner stationed at Mpumu, Uganda. Commissioner Haddon met the expedition at Kiriba Camp, sixteen miles to the south of Gondokoro.

A commodious brick house here has been placed at the dispsal of Mr. Roosevelt. Nine runners in the van of the expedition have arrived here.

VISIONS OF BIG STICK HAUNT CHAMBERS OF NATIONAL CAPITOL

Special "Personal" Messa to Both Houses May Fol low Later on.

Washington, Feb. 16.—(Specia The Herald.)—Political jobbers and defiant opponents of the propositions advanced by the present administration got the jolt of their lives today, and once more the chambers of the national capitol are filled with visions of the big stick, rampant, while members of congress who served under the Roosevelt regime are beginning to wonder if after all there isn't some kind of similarity between the present genial occupant of the White House and his strenuous predecessor.

It came so suddenly and has landed so hard that before anybody actually had time to realize what had happened the latest move of the president had borne fruit in the appointment of a subcommittee of the senate to consider all the measures bearing on the conservation of natural resources, and it is said that other steps are to be taken at once to hurry forward the work of other administration propositions.

Taft Is Not Pleased.

It all started in the president's growing dissatisfaction over the failure of congress to "get down to business" on the measures that the administration regards as important. For the last two weeks there have been open

BOOKER IS BOUND OVER

George Booker, 35 years of age, was bound over to the grand jury after a hearing in police court this morning charged with murder in the first degree for killing his stepfather, Charles Clark, 65 years old.

Booker is alleged to have beaten the old man to death on a deserted road near French river last Wednesday night in a frenzied rage, induced by liquor and a quarrel between the two men.

No new facts were brought out at the hearing this morning, the only addition to the case being that Booker was represented by Attorney S. F. White, who cross-examined the witnesses for the state, Dr. A. J. Braden, who performed the autopsy, and Chief Troyer. Circumstantial evidence is all that has been introduced thus far, the indication being that Booker kicked

MILLERS MAY LET FLOUR CASE DROP

Judgment By Default Is Expected in Bleached Flour Trial.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 16.—The hearing of testimony in the so-called "bleached flour" case will probably extend over a period of several days. Following the overruling of exceptions attacking the constitutionality of the pure food law, the government is proceeding to take testimony and is expecting judgment in default against the milling company. Many prominent chemists of the country have been called to testify as to alleged harmful effects of bleaching.

JAPAN IS PLEASED AT TARIFF ACTION

Not So Well Suited Over Prospective Adoption of Exclusion Bill.

Tokio, Feb. 16.—The announcement that the United States will grant its minimum tariff rates to Japan, which was communicated to the foreign office by American Ambassador O'Brien and published in all the newspapers, has been received by the commercial interests of the empire with the liveliest satisfaction and has created an excellent impression generally.

The leading newspapers comment conservatively upon the action of the committee on immigration of the house of representatives in unanimously voting to report favorably the Hayes exclusion bill. However, the newspapers and public do not show the least ill-feeling over the subject and there is no evidence of a tendency toward jingoism.

FALSE REPORT ABOUT THE NINA

Tug Thought to Be the Missing Craft Proves to Be the Apache.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 16.—Although reported to have been spoken on Sunday off Montauk, Point, preceeding under sail for this port, the missing naval tug Nina has not put in an appearance here. Capt. Cummings of the steamer Bayview, which arrived at Newport News last night from Searsport, Me., said that he passed the Nina on Sunday off Montauk, Point, L. I., and that the missing craft ought to reach Boston today. The tug reported proved to have been the naval tug Apache. The fate of the missing Nina is as much a mystery as ever.

Government boats, including the revenue cutter Gresham and the gunboat Castine, which had been recalled from the search yesterday, were sent out again today to patrol the coast. They kept in close touch with the Charlestown navy yard by wireless, but did not send the report that the Nina had been found. The fact that no wreckage of the tug was sighted, however, helps to sustain belief that the Nina may yet turn up safe.

BODY BLOW FOR REFORM

The Republican Organization Sweeps City in Philadelphia Election.

Philadelphia, Feb. 16. — Reform, which has many times gone down to defeat only to come up again for another fight, received its hardest blow in the municipal election here yesterday when the Republican organization swept the city. Not one reformer was elected to city councils or to the board of magistrates.

The greatest feat of the organization was the election of men the leaders had selected for minority representation on the magisterial board. Fourteen magistrates were elected, but under the law no elector could vote for more than nine, thus giving the minority parties a chance to choose the other five. The Republican organization elected its own nine men by big majorities, and threw enough votes to five other candidates it had selected under the party title of "Workingmen's league" to elect them also and to defeat the Democratic and reform candidates. Three of the men on the "workingmen's" ticket are Democratic and had the assistance of the Democratic organization.

The Republicans re-elected Hugh Black as receiver of taxes by a majority of 102,000 over the reform candidate.

A neighborless neighborhood.

They all seem too good to be true, of course, but a suave young man, who is sojourning here vows that at least he can remove the world from the curse of the dawdling telephone girl. He vows with all the ardor of the enthusiast that every man may be his own telephone girl and with some that doesn't make so much of a hit either. But the suave young man grows eloquent and he points out the advantages, and dear knows there are some.

In the central-less system the telephone instrument is slightly different. Every individual instrument is tuned to a certain number of vibrations a minute and no other telephone in all the universe vibrates to just that number. It's almost as fascinating as the mystery of personality. The process of telephoning by this system is something like this. You take down the receiver and place a pointer on the instrument to the number or mark of the line you wish to get in communication with, it buzzes and you say, "Hello, honey" and it's all over except the talk. There is no fretting or fuming. Why, in the present imperfect system, fat men have been seen to vibrate at the telephone that made every one in sight quiver in fear for strokes of apoplexy. Sympathetic bystanders have seen these corpulent gentlemen take ineffectual steps in front of the 'phone while there poor podgy faces grow purple with rage. They have vibrated, indeed they have.

Then the fat man becomes calm and even more terrible and asks with elaborated politeness, "Is there any good reason, central, or do you think it would be entirely unfair and unjust if I were to place a complaint right this minute for this da—rned telephone service that you've been handing me? I've been standing twenty minutes trying to get that number. I know they're there. It's what Shakespeare said war is, that's what it is. If you don't know what that is ask your Sunday school teacher."

"Number," says Central.

"Number?" yells the fat patron. "I want the manager, that's who I want, and you give him to me quick."

"The number?" asks Central.

"I don't know the number. I want the manager."

"What number were you calling?" asks Informaton.

"I want the manager," bellows the fat man.

"Call seven-nine-two," says Information, switching him back to Central.

Maybe those telephone girls don't have a good time with fat men.

But with an individual vibrating telephone system all this will be eliminated. No two telephones will vibrate alike as has been said. But if they should happen to get out of order, and it may be that that might happen and your 'phone should begin vibrating in perfect accord with—but enough of that.

In many cases it would seem to be an unmixed blessing but what are the youths to do who put in so much of their time doing this—

"Hello, little girl. Would you get me seven-four-three, please?"

"——— —— ———."

"Yes, little girl."

"——— ——— ——— ———."

"That's awfully sweet of you, dear."

"——— ——— ———."

"Your voice sounds so nice, today."

"——— ——— ———."

"I'm sure they're there. Would you try once more. I hate to bother you."

"——— ——— ———."

"That's awfully sweet of you, Clara."

"——— ——— ——— ——— ———."

"Thanks, little one."

And so on until the young man becomes a fat old one or vibrating telephones are installed.

LADY COPS,

Says Dr. Shaw, When Equal Suffrage Prevails.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 16.—If the women are given the right to vote in New York state, the first jobs they will try for will be the police force. That is what the Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Women's Suffrage association, said last night at the first political convention of woman suffragists ever held in Erie county. "One hundred women on the police force of New York city would do more to wipe out juvenile crimes and sins against childhood than all the other forces in Greater New York combined."

SAYS HAWLEY DIDN'T THINK

New York, Feb. 16.—Edwin Hawley's name was brought into the testimony today in the government's suit to dissolve the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger. J. C. Stubbs, the general traffic manager of the merged lines, who was on the witness stand, declared that in his opinion there was no real competition between the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific's gulf routes to points in Colorado and Utah.

Attorney Severance, for the government, called Mr. Stubbs' attention to the fact that Mr. Hawley had declared when a witness that the Colorado and Utah business was as eagerly sought by the Southern Pacific as by the Union Pacific.

"Mr. Hawley is a competent man, but I don't think he understood what the term competition means. If he thought a moment, he would not have answered that way," said Mr. Stubbs.

FOUND WARRANT AWAITING HIM

Would-Be Complainant Is Himself Arrested on Assault Charge.

When John Perkusich, 20 years old, who resides in an Austrian boarding house at 124 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, called at the West Duluth police station shortly before noon, today, to swear out a warrant for the arrest of John Enkovach on an assault charge, he found a warrant waiting for himself and was promptly arrested by the authorities on the complaint of Enkovach, who also charges assault.

Perkusich is one of the principals in the shooting affair in a South Central avenue boarding house, Sunday night, which resulted in the arrest of Enkovach on a charge of discharging firearms in the city limits. Enkovach was arraigned yesterday and given a suspended sentence. He claimed that he fired the gun to attract the police to the scene.

Mike Grepo, another one of the men who was connected with the affair, was arrested upon the complaint of Enkovach, who claims that Grepo assaulted him. Grepo was brought into municipal court this morning, but he not being able to speak a word of English, the case was continued until this afternoon, when all three men will be in court, with an interpeter.

Although the police are not fully acquainted with the details of how the quarrel began, it is known that it had to do with a woman, who is employed at the boarding house, at 110 South Central avenue, which is kept by Enkovach. Perkusich, it is understood, called at the boarding house that evening to see the girl, but he learned that she had left the place in company with another girl and a man to attend the theater.

Enkovach is said to have told Perkusich that the girl that he was paying his attentions to, did not care for him and that he had better find another. It is also said that the men were drinking at the time the matter was being discussed. Perkusich resented the remarks of the boarding-house-keeper and then the trouble began.

Chairs and furniture were broken; doors were pushed in; rocks and bricks exchanged; windows broken; and the affair culminated in Enkovach pulling a pistol from his pocket and shooting in the air. Two police officers on the beat heard the commotion and came to the scene.

The entire matter will be aired this afternoon in the municipal court. Perkusich told the police today that he could secure witnesses to prove that Enkovach was conducting a bling pig and that he sold liquor at his boarding house last Sunday.

THE PRISONER TRIED TO ESCAPE

Merry Chase Through Deep Snow Provides Amusement for Onlookers.

John Reamer is a remarkable runner.

While in charge of the chain gang which was working this morning in the vicinity of the new courthouse one of the prisoners attempted to escape.

Reamer gave chase and a merry time the two men had of it.

The prisoner, whose name was not learned, got very tired of shoveling snow and announced that it was easier to get away than to hang around and work hard all morning. The other men told him that it would be easy to outrun the guard.

The man suddenly threw away his shovel and started. Reamer was soon in hot pursuit and a pretty 300-yard race was the result.

It was easy going where the snow had been cleaned, but when the deep snow was struck the pace of the two men slackened to a remarkable degree. Finally the prisoner went heels over head in a large snowdrift and the deputy fell on him, much in the style of a flying tackle in football. There the two men lay. Both were out of breath, and Reamer held the legs of the prisoner like grim death until another officer came up and slipped the handcuffs on him.

The office help at the courthouse and the spectators on the streets enjoyed the chase greatly. One spectator remarked that it was a regular moving picture show.

Reamer was badly out of breath, but he announced that any old time any chain gang worker could outrun him the snow had to be deeper than it was after yesterday's storm.

LOOKS OVER GAS PLANT

Minneapolis Alderman Is Securing Ammunition for War in That City.

Failure to Agree on Franchise May Bring Municipal Ownership.

Alderman A. M. Goodrich of Minneapolis is in Duluth looking over the records and studying the results of municipal ownership of the Duluth gas plant. He expects to remain for two or three days and when he returns to Minneapolis, he will be loaded with ammunition for the war in progress there between the city and the Minneapolis Gas company.

Mr. Goodrich was closeted this morning with Manager L. N. Case of the water and light department, looking over the accounts of the department and gaining information on operation and business policy. He later visited the gas plant and before he leaves, he will consult with prominent local people to learn the sentiment toward municipal ownership here.

"I am not a committee from anything, but am securing this information so that I may more intelligently consult with my brother aldermen and may know just where I stand on the municipal ownership proposition," said Mr. Goodrich this morning. "I have just begun my investigations, so I cannot form any decided opinion yet, but I should say from what I have learned of Duluth's experience that Minneapolis could certainly do better with municipal ownership of the gas plant than it did with the gas company operating under the old franchise and I am not certain that municipal ownership would not do better than private ownership under the new franchise, which we offered the company and which was rejected.

"We have served notice on the gas company that we will take over their property as soon as the old forty-year franchise expires Feb. 24. If the company maintains the same attitude it has for months past toward the city, I believe we will do so. We have been trying to come to terms on a new franchise, but the company has rejected our proposals. A committee of the council and officials of the company have been in session almost daily for months without results.

"Finally we passed a franchise such as we thought the company should work under and we gave the company ten days in which to accept. They sent the franchise back in five days and the ten days' period expired Monday. We have served notice on them that we will take over the plant and, as we have complied with all conditions provided in the old francalse, we will go ahead unless the company recedes from its position and I am not sure we will not go ahead regardless of what the company may do.

"Public sentiment is beginning to swing around to the council's side and the opposition to a municipally owned gas plant is disappearing. Minneapolis has always conducted its water plant and has made a success of it. That plant is more efficiently-managed and is giving better service than the gas plant has, so that the city is profiting all around. Under the old franchise, the gas company could go out, tear up the streets, lay its pipes and leave the street in any old condition without ever consulting the city. I believe that utility corporations should be under municipal regulation and that is what we provided for in the franchise that was rejected. You are paying 75 cents net for gas here and we are paying $1 net. If the city of Duluth can make money on its plant at the price it is furnishing gas, I believe the city of Minneapolis can also, and can give the people better service than the company is giving now."

attempt to import foreign laborers, and permitting the importation of alien skilled laborers if labor of like kind unemployed cannot be found here, only if the consent of the secretary of commerce and labor is obtained in advance; increasing the fine against steamship companies for taking on board dangerously diseased aliens, from $100 to $200.

Physical Examination.

Mr. Keefe believes the time is ripe for the adoption of even stricter measures and suggests that a proposal worthy of careful thought is that all male aliens between 16 and 50 years of age be required to pass a physical examination equal to that observed for army recruits.

Touching the "white slave" traffic, the report sets out that an enormous business is done in importing and distributing foreign women for immoral purposes, including the seduction and distribution of alien women and girls who enter regularly, and also to some extent of American women and girls, but the federal officers have not discovered positive evidence of the existence of a syndicate for those nefarious purposes.

Politics and White Slaves.

In some cities, it is declared, the traffic is connected with local political conditions and some of the municipal authorities are implicated or otherwise helpless to assist in eradicating the evil.

During the year there was a marked increase in deportation as a result of the campaign against the traffic. Immigration, which during 1909 fell off from the two previous years, the commissioner says, is reassuming normal proportions.

As to occupations, 174,800 unskilled laborers of the immigrant class entered and 118,936 of the emigrant class departed. Of the 751,786 immigrant aliens who entered the United States during the year, 88,393 were under 14, and 38,517 were 45 or over; of those over 13 years of age, 191,094 could neither read nor write, an increase in the ratio of illiteracy to 29 per cent as against 26 per cent in 1908. For various reasons, 10,411 aliens were deported.

Problem of Races.

Southern and Eastern Europe furnish about 67 per cent of the immigrants. The continuance of this preponderance is declared to be a question concerning every patriotic citizen, for it is stated there can be little homogenity between people of that section and the real American.

intimations that the chief executive was not altogether satisfied with the way these questions have not been advanced by the lawmakers, but nobody, apparently, thought of taking his dissatisfaction seriously.

Today, however, there appeared in the halls leading to the executive offices a line of congressmen who are "fathering" or opposing administration measures, and the statement is made on apparently good grounds that every last one of them was sent for.

Adding to the interest in the situation was the fact that the line included Senator Borah of Idaho, prominent as an opponent of the postal savings bank scheme, and Representative Hayes of California, known as an insurgent.

Heard Some Straight Talk.

What was said to these two, or to Beveridge, chairman of the senate committee on territories, or to Carter, in charge of the postal bank bill in the senate, has not been given out, but it is known that all were treated to some "straight talk," and that they went back to their respective duties fully impressed with the importance of bringing about some tangible results in their respective houses.

But the sensation did not end there. President Taft has talked with members of both houses before this, and these conferences always have ended in nothing more serious than promises, near-promises or hopes that something would be done. Now comes the declaration that unless the wheels of legislation are given all the grease and power necessary to grind out the work demanded, the president will follow the example of Roosevelt by sending a special "personal" message to both houses, telling not only what he wants, and what has not been done, but just why the delays have occurred, giving names and interesting bits of the inside history of some things.

noon. He was released this morning on the order of the court.

When he was told this morning that he was about to be set at liberty he smiled and said that he knew he had his freedom coming. He was glad to leave the jail and before he went away shook hands with all the other members of the murder colony and also with the jailers. This leaves but seven in the colony.

Previous to the trial of Adolph at which time the jury disagreed, Victor Matel, a cousin of Adolph's had been tried and acquitted of the charge.

At the wedding liquor flowed freely and the celebration lasted until early in the morning. All the guests it is said, were under the influence of liquor, and trouble arose among the men.

In the general melee that followed, Victor Mattis was killed. The weapon used was a knife. So many were mixed up in the fight that it was impossible to get at the facts in the case and determine who really struck the blow.

Who killed Mattis will in all probability never be known. The Matel boys were the only ones arrested in connection with the crime and they are now both free.

Clark. There is scarcely any chance that any one will turn up who can throw additional light upon the case.

The confinement of the last six days, combined with worry, seems to show upon the accused man. In court this morning he swallowed frequently and blinked his eyes almost continually. He didn't say a word, except to his wife, who sat beside him, from the time he was brought in until he was taken back to the county jail. He was slightly paler than he was last Friday, when he was arrested by Detectives Toewe and Terry.

Mrs. Clark testified that the relations of the two men had always been of the friendliest. She said that they had been married fourteen years and that during that time the two had been intimately acquainted.

Dr. Braden again described the injuries of the dead man in detail, declaring that they were the result of violence of some kind. S. F. White, attorney for Booker, tried to bring out the fact that they might have occurred at one time, as by a fall, but the doctor did not think that it was possible. He said that the injuries and bruises looked as though they had been received about the same time. "They could have been received at one time if enough happened at once," was his way of putting it, but he didn't think it likely.

Chief Troyer repeated his conversations with Booker showing that different details had been brought out at different times. The chief talked with Booker three times, but did not warn him to be careful or state to him that what he said might be used against him in a criminal prosecution. Attorney White tried to have the chief's conversation shut out on these grounds, but his objections were overruled by the court. The state was represented by W. E. Green, assistant county attorney.

BEMIDJI IS READY FOR BIG DOINGS

from all over the state have promised to take part.

Going From Duluth.

St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties will be represented at Bemidji by between twenty-five and thirty delegates, who will leave the city this evening in two special cars.

W. A. McGonagle, president of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, will take a party of nine as his guests in his private car. The members of the party will be: J. H. Hearding, F. A. Patrick, R. D. Haven, B. W. How, L. B. Arnold, C. S. Mitchell, C. P. Craig, Stillman H. Bingham and J. H. Gray.

The other members of the party will be: H. A. Wing, Anton Ringsred, L. A. Barnes, A. J. Meldahl, F. A. Jolitz, J. D. Sulcove, G. G. Hartley, A. Schall and A. B. Hostetter of Duluth; P. E. Dowling and W. S. Smith of Eveleth; A. P. Silliman, Frank Ansley, George Mumford and R. W. Hitchcock of Hibbing; D. H. Lawrence, Dr. J. D. Budd and John Dwan of Two Harbors and J. S. Bergstrom of Tower.

One or two members of the above party are not yet certain that they will be able to go, but there will be at least twenty-five delegates from Northeastern Minnesota.

HOYT MAY BE THE NEXT TO TESTIFY

Man Whom Glavis Consulted Likely to Be Called on as Witness.

Washington, Feb. 16.—There was no morning session of the Ballinger-Pinchot committee of inquiry today, adjournment having been taken yesterday until 2 p. m. today. Louis R. Glavis was under cross-examination all day yesterday by Attorney John J. Vertrees, representing Mr. Ballinger, and the indications are that the questioning of this chief witness for the "prosecution" will continue for several days more.

Henry M. Hoyt, attorney general for Porto Rico, who was consulted frequently by Glavis when Mr. Hoyt was a United States attorney at Seattle, has been in Washington several days and probably will succeed Glavis on the witness stand.

ROOSEVELT IS MODEST.

Wants No Ostentatious Attention From Parisians.

Paris, Feb. 16.—M. Liard, vice rector of the University of Paris, has been officially advised that Theodore Roosevelt will reach Paris about April 14 and that the length of his stay probably will not exceed three or four days.

The French government is anxious to receive the former president of the United States with the highest honors and French society is prepared to lionize him, but Mr. Roosevelt has discreetly allowed it to be understood that he particularly desires to avoid any appearance of ostentation. Mr. Roosevelt's visit to Paris, therefore, will be devoid of the spectacular features which characterized ex-President Grant's visit here at the time of his tour around the world.

TIDE BEARS MAIL AS IN OLDEN DAYS

Primitive Method Resorted to When Cable to Nova Scotia Fails.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 16.—Because the cable between the Magdalen Islands and Cape North is broken and will not be repaired until warm weather sets in, the inhabitants of the islands have resorted to the ancient way of transmitting messages and mail.

A heavy barrel containing between thirty and forty letters sealed in cans was picked up on the Cape Breton coast yesterday by persons living near the shore. The letters were received by the postoffice authorities today and duly sent to the respective addresses.

The tides had carried the barrel the sixty miles across the Gulf of St. Lawrence in ten days.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 16.—Chairman Ritter and Expert Examiner Frank Brown announced today that they have found more evidence of probable fraud in the state printing department. They have discovered that the figures on sales made and the cash paid out do not correspond with the way-bills of the goods actually delivered. Another warrant is likely to be sworn out soon.

CANNON ON HIS HOBBY

Speaker Lauds Roosevelt as Greatest Press Agent He Knows.

Says Ex-President Would Have Spent $2,000,000,000 Every Year.

Washington, Feb. 16.—"Unanimous consent" to talk five minutes more was accorded the "gentleman from Illinois," at the National Press club last night after Speaker Cannon of the house of representatives had consumed his allotted ten minutes in discussing his hobby.

It was "hobby night" at the club, and Mr. Cannon had followed Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau; Dr. Harvey Wiley of pure food fame; Gifford Pinchot, formerly chief forester of the United States; Commander R. E. Peary and Representative Champ Clark of Missouri, each of whom had discussed a pet idea.

The club's large assembly room was thronged with members to whom Speaker Cannon's talk seemed especially striking. He said:

"Now, my hobby in my little circle has always been to stand by and watch other people's hobbies.

Where Pinchot Stands.

"Sometimes scientists and conservation people run wild. Pinchot is an awfully able man. You said, Mr. Chairman, that he is still chief forester. Well, he is chief forester, I guess, in the estimation of the people, but he is not 'still' an uncomfortable subordinate!

"So is Wiley. Why, Champ (addressing Representative Clark), if in the providence of God you had been president and had a cabinet, and you had had under you two men in subordinate positions like those men, they would have been out of the public service in a holy minute; but they were the whole shooting match, and the secretary had great trouble in being secretary.

"Theodore Roosevelt is a great man—the greatest press agent I ever knew. He is the most popular man in the United States in my time, save Lincoln, and more popular than Lincoln was when he was alive; more popular than Grant was when he was alive. There was more legislation and better legislation during his term of office of a little less than eight years, than in any other sixteen years of our history, save alone the period of the civil war and that which followed.

If Roosevelt Had His Way.

"But suppose we had written into law, Brother Clark, all that he recommended in all his messages? * * * Why, it is a $1,000,000,000 congress annually now! If Pinchot and Wiley and Willis Moore and all those other specialists had their way, and Roosevelt's messages had materialized into law, let me tell you, Mr. Champ Clark, the budget would be $2,000,000,000 every year."

With well wishing for the hobby-riders, Mr. Cannon closed, saying:

"Long may our successors live to take these apostles who are pushing ahead. Each one is looking through his gimlet hole in the universe, and the universe is to each individual according to the range of his vision. They are splendid servants of 90,000,000 of people, but would make internally poor masters."

THE ICEMEN ARE WORRYING

Annual Question as to Whether Lake Will Freeze Over.

Ice dealers are beginning to have their annual session of worry that Lake Superior will not freeze over sufficiently to enable them to reap a harvest. However, they have not begun to show any deep wrinkles. It is very unusual for the lake not to freeze, at least late in the season. They have generally been able to get a supply, although it is rather slim when the ice does not get to be over eight or ten inches thick. This forces them to work day and night with big crews in order to make a fair showing.

COPPER MAGNATE'S ESTATE IS STILL IN LITIGATION.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 16.—The litigation over the estate of Andrew J. Davis, the Butte copper mine owner, which has been before the courts for fifteen years, is not yet at an end. In the supreme court yesterday, Joseph A. Coram of Brooklyn brought a bill against Henry A. Root, trustee, and the heirs of the Davis estate, seeking to compel them to reimburse him to the amount of $30,000 which he says he expended in litigation over the will in Montana.

Most of the mortgage tax collections and receipts from tax sales in St. Louis county during 1909 go to the city of Duluth. The apportionment has been made by County Auditor Halden.

The amount received from mortgage tax collections was $33,984.43, and this will be apportioned back to the districts where it was collected, excepting only that share which belongs to the county and state.

SNOW STORM IN DEATH VALLEY

Alfred Merritt Turned Back By One Blizzard to Meet Another.

Alfred Merritt returned from the Pacific coast yesterday to run into the worst blizzard of the year, after his contemplated investigations in the West had been shut off because of snow storms. Mr. Merritt stated that he had planned to go into the famous Death valley, but that snow had fallen in that region for the first time in the memory of man, compelling him to wait until another time. The same cause prevented him from going into the mountains of Nevada, where he had some property he wished to visit. Mr. Merritt said that the California orange growers have been worried because of what they called severe weather, but he thought that the crop would come out all right. He looked for some of the many Duluth people who are on the coast at the present time, but he did not succeed in finding any of them.

WIPES OUT COMMISSION.

Gaynor Says New York Has Been Paying Needless Salaries.

New York, Feb. 16.—A commission which had been in existence since 1883, supplying succeeding commissioners with a salary of $5,000 a year each to four men comprising the board, was abolished yesterday by Mayor Gaynor. The men removed are John F. Cowan, William H. Tenyck, John J. Ryan and John H. Windolph, whose ostensible duty as an aqueduct commission was to supervise the almost endless construction and improvement of the Croton water system.

In removing the commissioners, the mayor says the work which the commission was created to do was substantially completed many years ago and there has been no excuse since that time for the commissioners not so reporting and ending their official existence.

Counterfeit $10 Bill.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Counterfeit $10 bills of the series of 1901 again have made their appearance. Three have been passed here and Chief Wilkie of the secret service says the bill is the same counterfeit which has bobbed up in different sections of the country during the last five years. The bills all bear the same number—2,413,-601 B.

DEMANDS FOR SUNDBY ROAD

Farmers and Residents of City Say It Is Necessary Improvement.

Want County to Bear Part of the Construction Expenses.

Residents of the central wards of the city are appealing to the county commissioners to appropriate part of the necessary money to complete the Sundby road, declaring that it is the most important roadwork inside the city limits.

Those who have investigated the route say it will open the best farming community at the Head of the Lakes, and enabling the farmers to travel over easy grades with heavy loads. It is now impossible for them to carry heavy loads because of the steep grades encountered.

The Sundby road starts at Sixth avenue east and Fifth street, goes up Sixth avenue to Eleventh street, turns one and one-half blocks on Eleventh street to the Brewery creek ravine with tunnels through the boulevard and Mesaba avenue to an intersection with the Swan Lake road at Duluth Heights. Thence it follows the valley to an intersection with the Maple Grove road at Miller's creek.

The Maple Grove road is one of the best in St. Louis county and a great deal of money has been spent upon it. Those who are familiar with the subject declare that it would be poor economy to fail to get the full benefit of this road by neglecting the Sundby road. Now there is no sufficient outlet from the community, which it taps, into Duluth. It runs through the heart of the farming settlement and is the center section line of Hermantown.

In connection with solving the high cost of living, it is claimed, that Duluth would have a partial solution in the completion of the Sundby road to connect with the Maple Grove road. The farmers now complain that they have no good road into the city, and that they make fewer trips because of this reason. With an easy grade they could also return with large loads of fertilizer to enrich their lands. The land is all cleared and under cultivation. The grade of the Sundby road is not too steep for a suburban electric line which could be built up the Sundby road to the Maple Grove road to Five Corners and Hermantown with a terminal at Pike lake.

The last city conference committee appropriated $2,000 for the Sundby road. Alderman Hector of the Third ward and Alderman Hogan of the Fifth ward recently appeared before the board of county commissioners to urge the appropriation of additional sums to complete the work. They said there are too few property owners to bear the expense. It is estimated that there is about $10,000 worth of concrete work necessary between Fifth street and the Swan Lake road. If this is taken care of, a number of the property owners have expressed themselves as willing to sign a petition for the remainder of the work. They say that the county will get as much benefit out of the improvement as the city and that it is only fair that the county commissioners should appropriate the needed money. They state that the farmers living outside the city limits for miles back are just as anxious to have the road built as are the residents of the city. It will give them the best possible road into Duluth, enable them to dispose of their products, increase the value of their farms and will be the best thing that could be done to help settlers on the land back of the city.

FAVOR DIVISION OF CONFERENCE

Important Matter Before the Augustana Swedish Lutheran Synod.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most important subjects to be considered at the conference of the Augustana Swedish Lutheran church which began in Gustavus Adolphus church last night is the proposal to divide the Minnesota conference.

The conference has become large and somewhat cumbersome to handle, and a division appears desirable to many of the members, as the territory embraces also North and South Dakota and Canada.

One of the plans is to form three conferences, the partition to be made so that each will contain an educational institution. The conference now maintains Gustavus Adolphus college, St. Peter; Minnesota college, Minneapolis, and Northwestern college, Fergus Falls.

Duluth Man President.

Dr. J. A. Krantz, Duluth, president of the conference, and Rev. A. Hult, Harris, preached last night. This morning was devoted to the transaction of business and this afternoon there will be a discussion of "The Charitable Work of the Church and Its Importance." Rev. B. Modin of Vasa will introduce the discussion. Rev. N. Lehart of Detroit will deliver an address on "Our Home Missions" tonight, and Rev. T. J. Kjellgren of Scandia on "Foreign Missions."

The business session will continue all day Thursday. Thursday evening is educational evening. Addresses will be made by Dr. P. M. Magnusson, state normal school, St. Cloud, and Dr. P. M. Mattson of Gustavus Adolphus college, St. Peter. A large concert will be given Friday evening and Saturday evening will be devoted to a discussion of the "Laymen's Missionary Movement."

All the Swedish Lutheran pulpits in the Twin Cities will be occupied by visiting pastors next Sunday morning and evening. The building at the Bethesda hospital will be dedicated next Sunday at 3 p. m., when addresses will be delivered by Dr. J. A. Krantz, Rev. C. J. Carlson, president of the board, and Rev. C. A. Hultkrans, superintendent of the hospital.

The officers of the conference are Dr. J. A. Krantz, Duluth, president; Rev. L. P. Bergstrom, Winnipeg, vice president; Rev. S. A. Lindholm, Lafayette, secretary; Dr. G. Rast, Dresser Junction, Wis., treasurer.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The attempt of the Societe Anonyme des Anciens-Etablisments Cail of France, to recover $1,400,000 damages from the government of the United States for alleged infringement of its patents on gas-checking devices for ordinance has resulted in the question's being brought to the supreme court of the United States. Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—There appears to be little chance of arresting the two thugs who murderously assaulted Richard Harrington, of Brownsville, Minn., in this city Monday evening. Harrington is recovering from the effects of his terrible beating but can throw no light on the affair.

Harrington is about 45 years of age and for some time had been in Souris, N. D., where a brother resides. Only $10 was secured by the robbers, he only having that amount of money on his person.

EAST GRAND FORKS LID STILL EFFECTIVE.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Sunday and night closing lid is still effective, not even being pried open around the edges. Yesterday Fred Heinlein, a local saloon keeper, was fined $25 for selling liquor on Sunday, while J. J. Johnson, a messenger boy, was fined $5 for carrying liquor from a local saloon. The officials appear determined that there shall be no letting up of the lid order.

Mandan is splendidly located for such an industry, a large amount of wool being raised on the Missouri slope every year.

The troubles of the Skrove family date back for some time. It was alleged that Skrove some time ago made a trip to the range in company with a West end young woman and that he had been attentive to numerous other women, escorting them to public dances and passing as an unmarried man.

Skrove did not appear in court, although it was his intention at one time to fight the case. The young woman with whom he is alleged to have taken the trip was in court yesterday, but she did not testify.

State Secretary, Y. M. C. A.

The officials of each association, with a number of delegates from the membership, will be accredited to the convention here. Credentials have been received from over 200 already and that number is expected to be increased to 300 before the first meeting opens tomorrow night.

It is expected that nearly all of the members of the state committee, all strong men and earnest workers for the association, will be here to attend the sessions of the convention. This district has four members on the state committee, F. E. House, E. C. Little and Phil Bevis of Duluth and Thomas Owens of Two Harbors.

CHAMBERLAIN TAKES THE OATH

London, Feb. 16.—For the first time since he was stricken with paralysis years years ago, Joseph Chamberlain put in an appearance in the house of commons this afternoon annd took the oath as a member of the new parliament. The advent of the tariff reformer was quite unexpected and afforded a dramatic surprise for the officials and members who were being sworn in.

Mr. Chamberlain walked with marked difficulty, being assisted by his son, Joseph Austin Chamberlain, and Lord Morpeth.

SELLING SLIPS FOR 1910 ZENITH.

The slips for the 1910 Zenith appeared at the high school this morning and are now on sale by the members of the Zenith board. The slips are sold to members of the school for 50 cents each, the book costing 75 cents when published if no slip is presented. A large number were sold this morning.

The work on the Zenith is keeping the members of the board busy, but the 1910 class began early preparations and there is now no danger of the work piling up on them. A large number of stories have been handed to Mr. Sprague by members of the class trying for the prizes. Mr. Sprague says there are several very good ones among them, but the contest has not closed yet so no winners have been picked.

ENGLAND IN A TURMOIL

Duluth Man Visits Country During Height of Political Agitation.

Says Suffering In Paris on Account of Flood Was Terrible.

R. S. Patrick, one of the best known diamond drill men of this part of the country, returned yesterday from a business trip to England, Scotland and France. Mr. Patrick says England is in a political turmoil, and not, perhaps for a century, has there been the political agitation and excitement that there is at the present time.

"People are talking, or rather, shouting politics on the streets, in the clubs and in their places of business," said Mr. Patrick. "The one great national thought at the present time is politics. The efforts of the Liberals to pass the budget making the land held by the nobility subject to taxation are the storm center.

"The budget has already been turned down by the house of lords, as you perhaps know. It will be presented again, it is expected.

"If an American can judge from the surface conditions, there can be no doubt but that the people of England are heartily and thoroughly in favor of having the vast land holdings of the nobility taxed. This land has been exempted from taxation for years, while the people of Great Britain are growing poorer. The people seem to have taken a decided stand in the matter."

Mr. Patrick states that the home rule question for Ireland is another political issue that has reached a grave crisis. He says the Irish are resolutely determined on the issue, and to the observer of the trend of English politics it looks as if the English lawmakers must face this issue squarely and unflinchingly.

Mr. Patrick was in Paris during the time the flood of the River Seine caused such terrible loss of property, suffering and loss of life, not to mention the privation that was imposed by the flooding of the entire city.

"You can form no conception of the suffering brought on by the flood," said Mr. Patrick. "For days the people of Paris were unable to get food. Property was destroyed, citizens were drowned, houses swept away, and for a while the entire city was threatened. I was not there during the worst of the flood time, but I saw enough to convince me of the terrible nature of the situation.

"In Paris there are many poor, many of these people have hard enough shift to get food in the normal times of prosperity. You can imagine the plight these people were in when the waters of the Seine flooded the city.

"Conditions abroad are very good, at least there is the promise of a very good year. Industrial conditions are somewhat disturbed in England at the present time by the exaggerated political agitation. Scotland is enjoying prosperity, as well as France, as far as one could judge from travel. The Paris flood naturally disturbed conditions in France somewhat."

FIRST PATIENTS ARE RECEIVED

Three Scarlet Fever Victims Now at the City Hospital.

The first patient was received at the new city detention hospital at Fourteenth avenue west yesterday and two more were sent to the institution today. They were down with scarlet fever.

The new hospital is being opened gradually. It was expected that it would be completely finished last Monday, but some of the shipments were delayed, making it impossible to finish all the wards.

Already it is anticipated that the new hospital will be too small for the demands that will be made upon it. There are about sixty cases of scarlet fever in the city, and it will be impossible to place them all there. But even though the hospital were larger, many of these patients would not be taken to the institution. They would rather remain under quarantine at their homes, and frequently where children are ill the mother objects strenuously to allowing them to be taken from her direct care.

The opening of the institution, however, will greatly relieve the local situation. The need has been felt for years.

TWO MEN PLUS SIX DRINKS OF WHISKY EQUALS BIG TIE-UP

Rawlins, Wyo., Feb. 16.—Six drinks of whisky, distributed equally between two telegraph operators at Dana, tied up the whole Union Pacific system in Wyoming last Saturday, according to admissions made by the railroad officials.

The operators say they were not, until then, familiar with the full effects of the "red stuff" and did not imagine that such a small amount could produce such results. It was Lincoln's birthday, and they felt so good over it that they decided drinking whisky was the only adequate method of celebrating.

"Let's go over after more booze" suggested one of them after the celebration had progressed so far as the six drinks.

"Sure," agreed the other. "But how about the trains?"

He Fixed 'Em.

"I'll fix 'em," said the first operator, and he swung up the red signal board to hold all the fast mail trains, and hung out a signal on the station door saying:

"This station is closed."

"Now, then," said the second operator, "this is Lincoln's birthday and the Union Pacific will have to get along without us for today."

A merry time was had. But the trains had to wait at Dana. Moreover, the road officials did not indorse that way of celebrating, and the two enthusiasts were arrested. They will be prosecuted, charged with delaying the mails.

STORM CAUSES SOME SUFFERING

Charitable Institutions Asked to Furnish Fuel to Unfortunate Families.

The big snow storm of yesterday caused much suffering in the city of Duluth.

Yesterday afternoon the applications began to come in to the several county offices and the humane society for help and today many a family is receiving coal and wood.

The officers of the societies state that the very warm winter experienced thus far has kept the number of destitute families down to a remarkable extent. The cases have not come to light for many refuse to ask for help until it is absolutely necessary. During the warmer weather they can get along with but little fuel, but during the colder weather they suffer greatly, if not assisted.

HEARS GARFIELD ON WATER POWER

Senate Committee Finds Big Problem Facing It on That Question.

Washington, Feb. 16.—All of the administration bills providing for the conservation of natural resources will be considered by a sub-committee of the senate committee on public lands, to be composed of Senators Smoot, chairman; Clark of Wyoming, Dixon, Chamberlain and Hughes. Hearings will be given.

A hearing was today given by the full committee on public land to Former Secretary of the Interior James R. Garfield. He discussed chiefly the bill relating to the public land adjacent to the water. As a general principle he approved the proposition of Secretary Ballinger, but suggested a number of changes which convinced the committee that considerable attention must be given to the questions involved.

Garfield Tells Views.

Mr Garfield is of the opinion that the water power should be developed by co-operation of the Federal and state governments. He endorsed the suggestion of leasing the public lands adjacent to water sites to concerns which will undertake to develop power under conditions that will prevent monopoly. He suggested that 25 per cent of the proceeds from rentals should be paid by the national government to the states in which the power is developed.

"Why not 75 per cent?" asked Senator Smoot.

Mr Garfield said that he had named 25 per cent as that was the amount the states received from proceeds of forest reserve rentals. Mr. Smoot called attention to the fact that it was costly to administer forest reserves, while it cost little to lease lands for water power development. Mr. Garfield then said he thought the states should receive 75 per cent of the rentals.

SAY ROOT MUST CHANGE THE BILL

Senators Will Kill Postal Bank Plan If He Does Not Alter It.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Unless Senator Root can be induced to withdraw or materially modify his amendment to the postal savings bank bill, requiring the investment of postal deposits in United States bonds, that measure probably will be defeated in the senate. The friends of the bill practically admit that this is the situation and they consider the crisis very imminent.

MUST REPORT ALL ACCIDENTS

City Building Inspector Will Enforce New Ordinance on Elevators.

S. M. Kielley, building inspector, will enforce the new elevator ordinance requiring owners or tenants of buildings to report all accidents, whether they be trivial or serious, before removing the evidence.

It is claimed that this has not been done, and where violations are discovered in the future, warrants will be sworn out for the arrest of those responsible. The ordinance was passed recently, following the killing of a young woman in an elevator accident in one of the large office buildings. The provisions are stringent.

Since the ordinance went into force several accidents, none of them resulting in fatalities, however, have reported. In no case has the ordinance been complied with. Complaints have been made and steps have been taken to see that the violations cease.

GOING AFTER HIS LICENSE

Police Get Report of Another Robbery From Christopher Hotel.

Another robbery from the notorious Christopher hotel at 228 Lake avenue south, run by David Christopher, was reported to the police last night.

Christopher's place was raided by the police Saturday night and he and several inmates were arrested charged with statutory crimes. Their trial is set for this afternoon.

The last robbery is said to have been bold and daring. Otto Lunquist told the officers that he had been robbed of $45. He said that late in the afternoon three men hanging about the place enticed him to a room. Once there he says that they just held him against the wall while they went through his pockets, relieving him of every cent he had in his possession.

The police say that Christopher should be refused another license to conduct a saloon in the city. They state more robberies and more crimes are committed there than in almost any saloon in Duluth.

SAY AMERICANS ARE ALL SAFE

Consul in Nicaragua Sends Report on Conditions in Matagalpa.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Americans in the Matagalpa district, now the war center in the Nicaraguan revolution, are all well, according to the report of Consul Olivares, who went there in person to investigate the complaints of outrages committed by the Madriz troops. The report of Olivares, which has been transmitted to the department of state by Vice Consul Calderea at Managua, makes no further comment on conditions than to say Americans are safe. If that is the full report of the consul, the complexion of the situation is radically changed.

Drive Chamorro Out.

Managua, Feb. 16.—The forces of President Madriz have again taken possession of Matagalpa, which on Feb. 10 was occupied by Gen. Chamorro, one of the insurgent leaders. The bombardment of the city, which was begun Saturday night after notification had been given to the non-combatants to withdraw, was abandoned for some hours and begun again Monday. The government forces had heavy guns on the hills, but the insurgents were without means to reply at long range. Chamorro therefore deemed it advisable to retreat, and under the cover of darkness evacuated Matagalpa. Generals Lara, Chavarria, Martinez and Rivas, each of whom commanded sections of the government troops, reoccupied the city at noon.

It is reported here that Gen. Chamorro has broken away from Gen. Estrada and proclaimed himself president.

THE BEMIDJI CONFERENCE.

What should come out of the Northern Minnesota conference at Bemidji tomorrow and next day, over and above the complacent feeling that will result from an analysis of Northern Minnesota's infinite possibilities for development, is an alliance, offensive and defensive, that can be made a basis of a campaign to get justice from the Minnesota legislature.

And the first item on that program of that alliance should be reapportionment.

Northern Minnesota's development is hampered by legislative neglect because Northern Minnesota hasn't votes enough in the legislature to get justice.

Northern Minnesota hasn't votes enough in the legislature to get justice because the present apportionment was made years before the northern two-thirds of the state reached its present population, and because, although there are Southern Minnesota districts where a population of less than 10,000 has as great a voting power in the legislature as districts in Northern Minnesota with 75,000 population, those who hold the power have refused to yield any of it.

There is just one way to change this absurdly unjust condition, and that is to elect no senators or representatives from Northern Minnesota who will not pledge themselves to join an organization of Northern Minnesota's voting strength in the next legislature that will demand reapportionment before any other measures are permitted to go through.

AMERICA'S AUGEAN STABLES.

Not long ago there was a heated debate in what was supposed to be a secret conclave of Republican leaders in the New York legislature, during which charges of bribery hurtled about the room. Being secret and private, of course the reporters got hold of it, so it got into the newspapers. The result is the present investigation of the charge that one Republican legislative leader took money from a bridge company ten years ago, a charge that seems to be fairly well proved. This, in turn, has resulted in a determination, crystallized by Governor Hughes, to throw the doors wide open for an investigation of legislative bribery that is not to be limited by time or statute.

It is easy to imagine that legislators and former legislators in New York are exceedingly anxious, about this time, and it is also easy to imagine that, in view of the fact that such ideas often are contagious, there are lawmakers and ex-lawmakers in many other states who will view the proceedings with sober concern.

If the full history of state legislation in this country could suddenly be laid bare, the reason why so many people are watching the New York proceedings with gravest interest would be clear. Did you ever, on a summer's afternoon, idly poke your walking stick under a flat rock in a meadow and turn it over, and shudder at the strange, ugly crawling things that scuttled away from the light. It would be just like that. New York appears to be about to turn over the flat rock that covers the dark burrows of legislative corruption, and the fear that the example may spread to other states is probably causing many hearts to quake, even though they beat within the proudly distended chests of men who hold their heads up in fancied respectability and public esteem.

It may even be that here in our own fair state of Minnesota there are those who are glad that New York is so far away, and who hope that if New York's example spreads its influence will die out before it leaps the Alleghanies and crosses the prairies to the Mississippi valley.

THE BRITISH CRISIS.

The rejection of the Lloyd-George budget by the house of lords created a British political crisis which made an election necessary; and the outcome of that election was so vague and indefinite and uncertain that the assembling of the new parliament, the third of Edward's reign, bears a close resemblance to a crisis in itself.

If either the Unionists or the Liberals had won by a decisive majority, the beginning of the new parliament would have been clear and definite enough. If the Unionists had won, the budget would have been laid aside until some other day, and a program of "tariff reform," which would mean the substitution of a protective tariff for England's tried and approved free trade policy, would have been taken up.

If the Liberals had been fortunate enough to win by a decisive majority, they would have put through the budget immediately, and the lords, convinced that the people wanted it, would have passed it meekly, no matter how much it hurt to do so.

But no such certainty exists. The Liberals and the Unionists finished neck and neck, and neither, alone, can control the house of commons. The balance of power lies with the Nationalists and the Labor party. The Labor party is radical, including among its membership the Socialists of England, and while progress is to its taste, it wants to go faster than the Liberals think wise, and therefore it is unruly and unreliable.

The Nationalists can be depended upon for votes for the Liberal program—providing. The Nationalists are the Irish members who want home rule for Ireland, and who see in the present juncture an excellent chance of getting it. They know they can get pretty nearly whatever they want or overthrow the government, and they are apt to put their own cause first. If Asquith and his ministry can get an agreement with the Nationalists that is satisfactory to both, the union of Liberal and National forces will provide a working majority to which, on most important matters, will be added many votes from the Labor party. The Unionists are in the minority, and they will stay there. It is extremely improbable that any coalition between the Unionists and either the Nationalists or Laborites will be brought about. But the majority, though anti-Unionist, is embarrassingly divided, and the leader who can ride this team three abreast and not lose his footing must have a cool head, infinite tact and abundance of wisdom.

It is a mighty critical position for the Asquith ministry, and about the only persons in a position thoroughly to enjoy it are the Nationalists. Asquith has promised home rule to Ireland in return for Irish votes for his budget; but his idea of what is proper home rule and the Irish idea of it may be two very different things.

The early days of the session are certain, then, to be extremely interesting; and unless the greatest good fortune rests with the Asquith government, the early days of the session will be its only days, for failure to form a working majority will make it necessary to dissolve parliament again and to have another election. Then, maybe, the lords and the Unionists will not be able to fool so many people, the issue may be clearer, and the Liberals may return to the fourth parliament with a comfortable majority. If they do not, chaos and unceasing unrest and disturbance will fill many days for Great Britain.

GLAVIS ON THE STAND.

Those who have followed the testimony given by Louis R. Glavis, the government servant who was discharged for daring to protest that the people's heritage is not in safe hands, must have been impressed with his sincerity, his earnestness and his honesty. There is no attempt, apparently, to account for his attitude toward Secretary Ballinger on any score of prejudice or self-interest. His statements have been moderate, temperate and sensible. The impression he leaves is that of an honest man who could not keep still while the people's wealth was being taken from them by chicanery and official neglect.

Edward B. Clark, the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Evening Post, confirms these impressions from first hand observation. In a letter to his newspaper, written during the early days of Glavis's examination, he said: "Due regard is given to the meaning of words when it is said that this youth has astonished the members of the committee by his poise, his alertness and his unmistakable sincerity. It was this dismissed official of the interior department, whose looks suggest that he cannot be more than a year past the voting age, who by the sheer strength of his personality forced the calling into the case of great lawyers in the hope that means might be found to make him weaken under the fire of cross-examination.  The senators and representatives who are sitting in the hearing of the case properly refuse to express any opinion whatever concerning the proceedings so far as they have gone. They have admitted, however, without giving any color of opinion as to the merits of the testimony adduced, that young Glavis has amazed them by his grasp of all the details of the controversy from its inception, by his memory of dates, names and happenings and by the skill with which he has arrayed facts so as to make them weigh heavily in favor of that for which he is contending. No one knows, and so it may be that God, the law and the heavy artillery are all on the side of the defense; but the militant Glavis has made good use of his rapid-fire new-model rifle, the projectile from which has proved its penetrating power."

Glavis's bearing is indeed admirable, and whatever the outcome of the inquiry, his clearness and candor, his fairness and earnestness, cannot fail to leave with the people a confirmation of the impression that the interior department is not in safe hands. It is not necessary to show criminality, and Glavis charges none. If Ballinger, by temperament, instinct and environment, is not a fit man to guard the people's heritage, then he should be displaced and a safe man put on guard. He may not be criminal, but he has been indiscreet. He does believe, evidently, that the people's wealth should be turned over for private exploitation, on terms favorable to the exploiters. In other words, his viewpoint is not so much that of the people's interest in the abstract as it is that of some people's interest in the concrete. That makes him an unfit man for his place, and he should not be allowed to remain there.

DID IT A-PURPOSE.

The Herald acknowledges receipt of a playful communication from a local friend who signs himself—or herself—"Quilp, Jr.," taking it to task for having dared fate by chortling over the fine winter weather in an editorial published Monday evening. It may be as well to acknowledge the corn: we did it intentionally. Fully aware that to speak above a whisper about fine winter weather was likely to bring on a blizzard unless the precaution of knocking on wood was taken, The Herald deliberately shouted its approval of the weather conditions that have prevailed this winter, and as deliberately refrained from touching wood. The idea was that while the genial weather was very beautiful and delightful indeed, it was getting monotonous, and there seemed to be a general demand for a temporary change.

And it came. The wind blew up out of the northeast a storm quite old-fashioned in its strength and efficiency, and presently the air was full of flying snow and the ground was covered with shifting drifts, and old timers were delightedly calling up The Herald office to ask the date of the great blizzard of March 9, 1892. The snow was greatly needed, and its coming was by no means disagreeable. The storm leaves the average for the winter far and away above anything that any other part of the country can claim. It provided the snow needed for many purposes, and it gave some of our citizens a chance to stimulate the circulation of their blood and give it thorough oxygenation by shoveling the snow off the walks, a pleasant, wholesome exercise they haven't had enough of this winter.

And though the blizzard was followed this morning by "a cold wave," it was a very charming cold wave indeed. The temperature wasn't so terribly low, the air was still, and a combination of winter's briskness and a faintest touch of spring's mellowness created a condition delightful beyond expression.

"Quilp, Jr.," seems to think The Herald should be ashamed of having done this thing. It isn't; it is proud of it. It is another tribute to the power of the press.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

PRESIDENT TAFT AND THE PAYNE TARIFF LAW.

To the Editor of The Herald:

President Taft might as well "eat the devil as to sup his broth." The rank and file of the American people are as much disgusted with the Payne-Aldrich tariff law as they are with the chief conspirator, Cannon. Why should President Taft be lauded by Governor Hughes as the greatest president since Lincoln, while 75 per cent of his own party condemn him, and pronounce it the most stupendous fraud ever imposed upon a people? If the tariff bill was of Cannon's working, then with Cannon it should have been defeated. An indorsement of the results of Cannonism is an unqualified indorsement of the speaker himself. Taft's saying that the Payne law is the best tariff law ever enacted is true as far as the trusts, which are the chief beneficiaries of the tariff, are concerned.

No other tariff ever heaped such burdens upon the consumers of the necessaries of life. Mr. Taft will have the fight of his life to satisfy the West especially, that the present tariff law is a good thing for the people in general. In my opinion the president will be held equally responsible with Cannon, Aldrich, Payne, etc. When the voters of the country get down to solid thinking and learn to prize patriotism and independence above partisanship they will place the proper construction upon Taft's motive in signing the Payne bill. Analyze the president's excuse from the same standpoint you would look at any other proposition; but before starting in strip the president of his robe of office, for we are much inclined to give more weight to Taft as president than to Taft a private citizen. If the Republican party had not, in framing this law, kept its pledge as the president interpreted the tariff plank in the platform to mean, why then was it so important, as the president claims, to preserve the solidarity of the party? Why not defeat the purpose of the party when that purpose was to inflict an unnecessary burden upon the people and play into the hands of those who have already through tariff favors gobbled up nearly all the wealth of the country? Would not a rebuke to the party for doing wrong go farther in the direction of ultimate solidarity than to indorse it when it is wrong to gain temporary prestige?

Another frivolous excuse the president, or Mr. Taft rather, gave for signing the bill was a panic scare, or there might be unsettled business if the question was not settled. At the same time he favored a tariff pensioner to ascertain the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad, thereby admitting that this bill had been framed in committee and three months' discussion on the open floor of both houses without this knowledge. The platform of the party stood for a tariff that represented the difference in cost of production at home and abroad, stilled Mr. Taft urged upon congress the importance of an immediate revision of the tariff. Why did he not tell them to enact a law to give him the power to appoint a tariff commissioner and then, after the commissioner made its report, base its legislation upon that report? But here is the secret of the whole thing. The country, regardless of party, was demanding a revision of the tariff downward, and Mr. Taft and the leaders knew if they did not promise a revision at an early date they would not be able to hold votes to the Republican party, so they fixed up the platform to catch the vote. Would it not have been more sensible, so long as the party had declared in favor of a commission, to have put off tariff legislation until the commission made its report? The same rule applies to railroad rate legislation.

No just law can ever be made till the cost or value of the road be ascertained. Mr. Taft failed to rebribe his party for its inconsistency and failure to keep its faith. Now its up to the voters to know their duty and do it fearlessly. What is the use of the people to hold the right of suffrage if they cannot use it conscientiously? A man is not a good, safe citizen who will say, "I am a Democrat or Independent or Populist or what not, at heart, but then I am afraid the Republicans will bring on a panic if they lose the election. They control the money of the country." Why don't the voters rise to the height of true men and patriotic citizens and face the situation from a standpoint of right? If we are up against a condition whereby a certain party, in the event of defeat, can bring on a panic and cause distress among the people as a punishment for electing the other fellow, then the sooner we face the issue the better. If such fear is well founded, then that situation alone is the greatest problem we have to solve, and the sooner we solve it the better. Stop and think where such line of action would ultimately lead us. Can one be free to vote as he thinks when he is threatened with starvation or bankruptcy?

A VALENTINE!

To the Editor of The Herald:

Quoting from your editorial of Monday, Feb. 14: "Surely nature never made anything more perfect than the present winter in Duluth. Though storms and blizzards have raged all about, though piercing cold and biting winds have played havoc with the tempers of those who live in less favored climes, though even into the 'Sunny' South grim winter has stretched its chilling forces, in Duluth the temperature has been mild; there has not yet been a really unpleasant storm, and conditions have been as nearly immaculate as they possibly could be; and, if referring to the subject without knocking on wood is dangerous, and even should it precipitate bad weather, Duluth can stand it without complaining, for it would have to be very bad, indeed, to bring the average down very much. Besides, the last of the winter months is half spent."

And the next day it snowed! Wow!! Wow!!!. Run along, Mr. Editor, and borrow a stick of wood from the neighbors—and join me in the woodshed. "Will you ever do it again?"

Reform by Suicide.

Success Magazine: The course of true reform never runs smooth—not even in China.

Not long ago Yung Lin, a Chinese patriot, despondent over the rapidity with which everything was going to the Chinese terriers, wrote a long letter to the emperor-regent complaining about things in general. To add emphasis to his remarks he committed suicide. The government, in recognition of his patriotic devotion, issued an edict in his honor, but whether it has taken any steps toward the reforms he suggested the dispatch does not state.

The letter of protest is said to be one of the most remarkable pieces of muck-raking on record.

"Rice," said this ardent reformer in one choice passage, "has become as dear as pearls, and fire wood as costly as cassia buds."

So it seems that even in far-away China, the ultimate consumer has his grievances. If we only had in America men who would put as much devotion into living for their country as poor Yung Lin did into dying for his, we should indeed be fortunate.

THE WEATHER.

The storm has passed, leaving a heavy blanket of snow on Duluth and the cold wave, which is following in its wake is now upon us. Last night the mercury dropped to 16 deg. below zero and tonight will also see a low mark of from 15 deg. to 20 deg. below zero. Today is clear, bright and snappy.

A year ago today, Duluth was also entertaining a pronounced cold snap.

The sun rose this morning at 7:11 and it will set at 5:34, giving ten hours and twenty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The storm that affected this section yesterday has moved its center from Iowa to New England states. This disturbance, in connection with another central over Eastern Mexico, caused rain or snow in the Northwest, the lake region, Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri valleys, Southwestern and Rocky mountain states during the past twenty-four hours. Strong northerly winds also resulted in the lake region and Middle states, and temperatures rose somewhat along the Atlantic seaboard and from Eastern Tennessee southward. The northwestern cold wave has spread eastward to and including the western lake region and southward to Northern Texas. Zero weather prevails throughout the entire Northwest, its southern limit being Northern Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming, the coldest being 30 deg. below zero at Edmonton. The barometer is abnormally high over the Dakotas, Montana and Alberta.

"The easterly movement of this high pressure area will be attended by continued severe cold weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Thursday."

The Habit of Cheerfulness.

Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine: Cheerfulness will attract more customers, sell more goods, do more business with less wear and tear than almost any other quality. Optimism is the greatest business-getter, biggest trader, the greatest achiever in the world. Pessimism has never done anything but tear down and destroy what optimism has built up.

In the business office, as in society, anywhere, the favorite is always the cheerful person. Good-natured, cheerful people do not waste their vital energy as rapidly as the grumbler or the too sober, too sad people. They work with much less friction.

Good cheer is a great lubricant; it oils all of life's machinery. Shakespeare says:

"A merry heart goes all the day,
Your sad tires in a mile—a."

There is no other life habit which can give such a prolific return in happiness and satisfaction as that of being cheerful under all circumstances. If the resolution to cultivate cheerfulness is strongly made at the very outset, it will not be difficult to form the cheerful habit, and it will be the best protection against suffering and disappointment.

Cheerfulness is also a great producer. It adds wonderfully to one's active ability, and increases mental and physical power. It makes hosts of friends, and helps us to be interesting and agreeable.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

A Very Affecting Thought.

Wabasha Herald: A picture of Governor Eberhart posing with Robert C. Dunn and Joel P. Heatwole would be worth something.

Same Old Brand of Harmony.

St. Peter Herald: The variety of opinions expressed by the exchanges that come to our office indicate that, in the coming campaign, the Republican party is to use the same old brand of harmony.

Country Voters Thinking.

Long Prairie Leader: The Twin City newspapers seem to have formed a combine to nominate Eberhart for governor. Possibly they have overlooked the fact that they will need a few country votes next fall to elect him. The country voters have been doing some thinking of late on "live issues" and they may balk at being led by one who seems not to realize there are such issues.

What Taft Backs.

Red Wing Free Press: Taft is reported to be willing to back the federal incorporation bill with his personal sponsorship. In the eyes of the people that ought to make the measure all the more objectionable. It is not so very long since he personaly backed the most infamous tariff law that ever cursed any nation. He is also personally backing a ship subsidy bill which is conceded by disinterested persons to be the rankest steal, next to the tariff law, ever conceived.

They Can't Say It.

Ortonville Herald-Star: Their inability to say "E Pluribus Unum" is all that saves Governor Eberhart from a combined attack by Ed Young, Jake Jacobson, Bob Dunn and Joel Heatwole.

Correct!

Detroit Record: Editor Pease of the Anoka Union, has been furnishing copy for his paper for forty-four years continuously. He is said to be second oldest editor in point of service in the state. Like rare old wine, he continues to improve with age.

Is It Often Anything Else?

Warren Register: The charge that a bunch of politicians have gotten together at St. Paul and fixed up a slate for the next Republican state convention, may not be true, but it has, nevertheless, stirred up a lot of hard feeling. If the state convention is to be nothing more or better than a ratification meeting, it might as well never be called at all.

Too Much of a Muchness.

Roseau Times: The country is getting blamed tired of the explanations which do not explain. The busting of trusts which do not bust, the reduction of the tariff bill which does not reduct, the high price of food which goes higher, the activity of Taft who does not act, the firing of Cannon who refuses to be fired and the assinity of the Republican congress in general. What?

Would Be An Uprising.

Minneota Mascot: Should Senator Clapp be defeated by the next legislature the people will not rest content until they have visited their wrath upon the men who will have betrayed their trust. The "insurgent" spirit is strong in Minnesota and it only needs some such thing as the defeat of Senator Clapp by the "machine" to start such a movement as the political history of Minnesota has not yet recorded. There would be an uprising of indignant voters that would make the old state fairly tremble.

Puck: Colonel (1919)—So you lost half your forces in ambush?

"Sure. I've had two college boys here workin' for me durin' the last year, and I was afraid to discharge either one of 'em for fear they'd find fault with my grammar when I done it."

Washington Star: "Before we were married," said Mr. Meekton, "I showed my affection for Henrietta by serenading her."

"I suppose you neglect any such attentions now."

"Yes. I show my affection now by respecting her desire that I shall not try to sing."

Kansas City Star: "Times has certainly changed," observed an octogenarian darky in Alabama. "Befo' de wah it was only de slaves dat was sold, but only de udder day I hears a genulmen state dat an old mastah was sold at auction in New York for a whole lot o' money. Times has cert'n'y changed."

Harper's Weekly: "What was that terrible noise going on in Popkin's apartment last night?" asked Wickley of the janitor.

"They were celebrating their wooden wedding," smiled the janitor. "Mrs. Popkin was hitting Popkin on the head with a rolling pin."

"Knocking wood for luck, eh?" grinned Wickley as he passed on, while the janitor chuckled.

The Catholic Standard and Times: "How's your son making out in business?" asked the first capitalist.

"Very well indeed," replied the other, "he's got a quarter of a million."

"Why, you started him with a million, didn't you?"

"Yes, and it's two months now since he started operations in Wall street."

Bon Vivant: Tramp—Could you give me a little vinegar and a rag to put on my foot?

Housekeeper—I'm sorry I haven't any vinegar, but I can give you a little brandy.

Tramp—Thank you, that will do very well—and I shan't need the rag.

London Sketch: "Oi'll work no more for that man Dolan."

"An' why?"

"Shure, 'tis on account av a remark he made."

"An' what was that?"

"Says he, 'Casey,' says he, 'ye're discharged.'"

Chicago Tribune: "Er—may I call you Miriam, Miss Montague?"

"Yes, if you like, Mr. Tompkins, but my first name is Florence."

Woman Suffrage in Norway.

Chicago Journal: The women of Norway vote for members of parliament and they take part in the elections with self-restraint and dignity. In the recent election in Christiania more than 40,000 women took part, yet there was no disorder or confusion. This may be due in part to race temperament.

This seems another illustration of the trite statement that suffrage cannot be forced upon women by a few of their own sex. When the majority of the women of America want the ballot, they will get it.

"Your Committee Reports—"

Kansas City Star: "Your committee finds that the protective tariff law, enacted to foster American industry—to put money in the pockets of American workmen—is in no way responsible for the rise in the cost of living. On the contrary, without the tariff prices would have gone much higher. The tariff is the source of all prosperity—"

No, this report has not yet been made by the senate committee to investigate the cost of living. But it will be.

DECISION IN LAND CASE

Circuit Court of Appeals Passes on Cedar Island Lake Action.

Judge Morris' Order Upheld in Part and Reversed in Part.

The United States circuit court of appeals at St. Louis yesterday affirmed the decision of Judge Page Morris as to Cronin and reversed that as to Molinda Tanner in the case of W. H. Murphy, Elisha H. Flinn and Selwin Eddy, executors of the estate of S. J. Murphy, deceased, George O. Robinson, Elisha H. Flinn and Temple E. Door against Malinda Tanner and Michael Cronin, one of the famous Cedar Island lake land cases, which grew out of a confusion of surveys in that district.

Under the decision of the circuit court of appeals, there is no sliver between the land of the plaintiffs and the north line of the Faison survey, but Cronin owns land south of the north line of the Faison survey between the south line of the plaintiff's land and the shore of Cedar Island lake.

The plaintiffs in the case are joint owners of certain land in Section 3, 57-17 near Cedar Island lake. They brought suit some two years ago to clear their title of claims of Mrs. Tanner and Mr. Cronin. Mrs. Tanner claimed title to an unsurveyed sliver she claimed as l ing between the southern boundary of the plaintiff's lands and the Faison survey. Cronin claimed title to land lying within the Faison survey near the shore of the lake.

Judge Morris' decision, filed May 11, 1905, was to the effect that the sliver did exist and that Mrs. Tanner had title to it, that Cronin should have title to land lying within the survey and that the plaintiffs had all the land they had entered upon and received patent for.

The decision of the court of appeals upholds Judge Morris as to Cronin and reverses him as to Mrs. Tanner. The concluding paragraph of the decision says:

"Upon the facts found by the trial court and the law applicable thereto as announced by the supreme court, we hold that the Faison meander boundary line is the southern boundary of plaintiff in error government lots, and that the trial court erred in restricting them to the number of acres called for in the patent, so far as the defendant in error, Tanner, is concerned. We might reverse the case and order a new trial but as the facts upon which the rights of the parties depend are all before us in the findings of the trial court, we will affirm the judgment of the trial court as to the defendant in error, Cronin, and reverse said judgment as to the defendant in error, Tanner, with directios to the trial court to enter judgment, upon the facts found, in favor of plaintiffs in error and against Tanner for the possession of so much of the land described in the complaint as lies north of the Faison meander boundary line, and it is so ordered."

DISTURBANCES IN GERMANY

Neumenster Police Have to Call on Soldiers to Disperse the Mobs.

Kiel, Feb. 16.—Further disturbances occurred last night at Neumenster, province of Schleswig-Holstein, where two indignation meetings were held to protest against the acton of the police in interfering with Sunday's demonstratons against the proposed Prussian franchise law. After the meetings had adjourned a crowd gathered at the town hall and hooted and stoned the police. The latter attacked with drawn sabers, but being unable to disperse the mob, requisitioned a company of infantry, which with fixed bayonets cleared the square. Several of the police and some of the demonstrators were wounded.

Kassel, Germany, Feb. 16.—Following a largely attended meeting of protest against the proposed election measure last night, a crowd gathered in the public square and made a demonstration in favor of universal suffrage. The police, who were turned out in force, were received with jeers. It was several hours before the demonstrators were dispersed. There were no casualties, but a number of arrests were made.

AMATEUR SLEUTHS MAKE BAD GUESS

Woman They Claim Is Mrs. Gunness Proves to Be Somebody Else.

Laporte, Ind., Feb. 16.—Another attempt to identify a woman as Mrs. Belle Gunness, owner of the Laporte "murder farm," failed today when Sheriff Antiss of Laporte county, telegraphed from Everitt, Wash., "Not Mrs. Gunness." Mrs. Sophia Hopkins, who is living on a ranch near Bellingham, Wash., is the woman who Sheriff Antiss was called upon to identify. She was declared to be Mrs. Gunness by several amateur detectives, but the Laporte sheriff could find little resemblance to the woman he had known here.

MORRIS EMPLOYE IS ASKED TO TESTIFY.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The federal grand jury which is investigating conditions in the packing industry called as a witness today Thomas Hopps, a department manager for Morris & Co. Mr. Hoops is credited with a thorough knowledge of the beef department of the packing company. His appearance is said to be in line with the determination of the government to summon only important witnesses.

Christiansand, Feb. 16.—The Danish steamer Cambodia was wrecked today near Grimstad. Thirteen of the crew were saved, but it is feared that a small boat containing sixteen others was lost.

REACTION AT THE CLOSE

A favorable reaction toward the close injected a healthier tone into the copper market and caused leading issues to close higher than yesterday and above the opening today.

In the early hours the trading was light, scattered shorts selling and new liquidation appearing apparently from the public. Last week, according to some critics, about 80 per cent of the trading in the East was professional, and this condition was prevalent today. The market got some support toward the close when the shorts tried to take profits. Scattered buying helped to sustain values and when a few long interests began to buy the market got out of the rut and advanced. The movement was the result of activities almost entirely professional, with the exception of scattered investment buying.

The local market was fairly active. It is inclined to become specialized and some professionals think that it will be entirely a specialty market for some time. The Scotts were strong at the opening because of yesterday's favorable reports from the property but the part paid slumped fractionally toward the close. The full paid was stronger. Calumet & Corbin was strong, about 2,600 shares changing hands at rising prices, the stock selling at 80, 78, 85 and then at 84 cents. Warrior was strong, gaining ¼ point from the opening. Butte & Superior lost ⅛ of a point and Live Oak declined ⅝ of a point.

Butte-Alex Scott, part paid, sold at $4.75 then at $5 down to $4.62½. The full paid sold at $7.25 and then at $7.50. Cactus sold at $4.87½; Live Oak at $18.87½ down to $18.25; Red Warrior at $2.75 down to $2.68¾; Shattuck at $19.50; Warrior at $11.50 up to $11.62½; Butte & Superior at $2.68¾ down to $2.62½; Calumet Montana at $1.25, $1.31¼ and back to the opening; Keating, $2; Rawhide Royal at 6 cents; San Antonio at $7.87½; Butte Ely at $1.12½; North American at $2.18¼; Amazon at $2.87½.

Amalgamated sold at $75.37½ down to $75.25 and up to $76.62½ and down to $76.12½; Calumet & Arizona at $70.50 down ½ point; North Butte at $34; Lake at $81.50 up to $83 and down ½ point; Butte Coalition at $23.75 up to $24; Giroux at $10 and down ⅛ point; Greene at $9.37½.

ASK ABOUT OTTO FREY

Description of the Murdered Man Is Wanted at Cleveland.

Another Otto Frey Has Been Missing From Ohio City.

Count yAttorney John Norton has received a letter from Cleveland, Ohio, asking a description of Otto Frey, who was shot aboard the steamer North Lake, Sept. 22 last by Jackson McPherson, who was lately declared guilty of the crime by a jury in the district court.

The Cleveland family had a son named Otto Frey and strangely enough in age and appearance he resembled greatly the Otto Frey who met his death in Duluth. It is hardly probable, however, that the men are the same, for the man who was killed had a sister in Youngstown, Ohio, who took charge of the funeral arrangements.

The Cleveland man has been missing for some time and the family through the newspapers read of the trial of Jackson McPherson for the murder of Otto Frey. Just now they are worrying to know whether or not it was their son who was killed.

The letter to Mr. Norton is signed by a man named Herman Preufser, who says that the family is an old one in Cleveland and very highly respected.

The Otto Frey who was killed in Duluth was, according to Dr. Robert Graham, who examined the body, about 25 or 26 years old. He was well built, weighing about 160 pounds. He had a light complexion, brown hair and was about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches.

SUPERIOR

DETECTIVE LOSES IN CIVIL ACTION

Miss Amelia Nelson was awarded a verdict for $250 by a jury in superior court shortly before noon today, in a suit which has been pending for the past few weeks against Detective Meade of the Superior police department. He is accused of having caused the girl to be held on a false arrest.

The case was originally brought against Detective Meade and Amanda Seigne, a Superior milliner, from whose establishment, the girl is said to have stolen a hat. Miss Nelson was arrested for the theft by Detective Meade, but was acquitted when given a trial in municipal court.

Yesterday, a motion to non-suit Miss Seigne from the case was granted by Judge Smith and this left Detective Meade the only defendant in the action. It is not thought that the case will be appealed.

SUPERIOR MAY BE HEADQUARTERS

Superior may be the distributing center of the Standard Oil company for all of its petroleum products sold in the Northwest. It is understood that about $100,000 will be expended on tanks and other properteis in Superior, providing the council will grant the company permission to construct their tanks on a strip of land now occupied by the grass twine plant.

According to H. W. Dietrich, who represented the company at the council meeting last evening, the company intends to purchase twenty-five acres of land now owned by the twine concern and will buy it as soon as the council gives its consent to the building of the tanks. It is planned to make Superior the headquarters for Northern Minnesota, Wisconsin, the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Washington and the Canadian Northwest.

The coming of the new industry will mean many more employes according to Mr. Dietrich. Mayor Crumpton appointed a committee to confer with the oil company officials with the view of inducing the corporation to maintain its general offices for the Northwest in Superior rather than in Duluth.

ASSAULT VICTIM HAS CHANCE FOR HIS LIFE.

John Bachleitner, the East end man who was assaulted with a pool cue Saturday afternoon at the Euclid hotel by Dan Splan, is said, at St. Frances hospital, where he has been confined since his injuries, to have a chance for life.

Splan, his assailant, is still held at police headquarters, being unable to furnish $400 bail demanded by the authorities. His case will come up Monday. He is now charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Detective Appointed.

Patrolman Jack McDonald, who has been on the Superior police force for a number of years, has been appointed temporarily as detective to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of P. A. Dill.

Returns to Superior.

Miss Helen Hill, formerly of Superior, who has for the past year been employed as secretary to President Fassett of the La Crosse normal school, has resigned to accept a similar position with President V. E. McCaskill of the Superior normal school. She will fill the vacancy left by Miss Leona Pinkham.

VERY BUSY TIMES IN THE SWOPE CASE

Three Legal Proceedings Are in Progress at Once in the Matter.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 16.—Three legal proceedings were in progress today to obtain testimony bearing on the Swope mystery.

The grand jury resumed its inquiry; the taking of depositions in the office of Frank P. Walsh in the suit for damages brought by Dr. B. C. Hyde was continued in Kansas City, and the deposition of Dr. C. H. C. Jordan, a physician who prescribed medicine for the Swope family, was taken in Kansas City, Kan.

Miss Pearl Kellar, the Swope nurse, who was the sole witness before the grand jury yesterday, was recalled today.

Holding that a witness subpoenaed for the grand jury is subject to the grand jury summons until excused or until that body adjourns, attorneys for the Swope estate assert that the plan of Attorney Walsh to subpoenae all the witnesses who appeared before the grand jury has been balked temporarily.

It is said that witnesses who testify at the grand jury hearing will not be finally excused until the hearing is adjourned, probably ten days hence.

SENATOR TILLMAN ILL.

He Had to Be Carried to His Room in the Capitol.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Senator Tillman of South Carolina was taken suddenly ill on the steps of the capitol today and had to be carried into his room by two capitol employes. Later he was removed to his home where he is now under the care of a physician.

The attack today is said to have been due to a recurrence of the senator's old trouble, hardening of the arteries. Dr. Pickford said that he did not regard his attack as serious.

Late in the day at Senator Tillman's home, it was said the senator was feeling much better.

LESLIE FOUND "NOT GUILTY"

Verdict in Pittsburg May End Prosecution of Perjury Cases.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 16.—Max G. Leslie, county delinquent tax collector, on trial for the last two days upon a charge of perjury growing out of councilmanic scandals of 1908, was today found not guilty.

Leslie was on trial for alleged perjury in his statement before the special grand jury of 1908, which indicted prominent councilmen and other municipal officers upon charges of receiving bribes in the selection of the Columbia National bank as a city depository. Leslie was accused of having handled $25,000 bribe money.

The jury in the case was out for over eighteen hours. Today's verdict may result in a discontinuance of the prosecution's activity against the five men yet to stand trial for similar offenses.

BILL TO RESTORE HOMESTEAD RIGHTS

Senator Nelson Introduces Bill on Behalf of Hans A. Ryppe.

Washington, Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Nelson today introduced a bill permitting Hans Anderson Ryppe to make a second homestead entry. Ryppe made Homestead Entry No. 12,938 at the Duluth land office Oct. 31, 1900, and he now desires to take up an additional homestead.

Ryppe entered on the east half of the southeast quarter of section 11 and the west half of the southwest quarter of section 12, 150-28, in the land office here, but the land was subsequently transferred to the Cass Lake land office. Ryppe probably later lost the land through no fault of his own or of the office, and Senator Nelson's bill is in the nature of remedial legislation so that the man will not lose his right of entry. Congressional action is probably the only means by which the right can be restored.

GIVEN HEAVY FINES.

Two Keepers of Disorderly Resorts Plead Guilty in Municipal Court.

Two alleged keepers of disorderly resorts were fined this afternoon in municipal court, drawing the maximum fine for the offense, $100 and costs. Both of the women were caught in the police raid of Saturday night. Harriet Hamm was accused of keeping a disorderly house on West Michigan street, and Marie Myers was arrested from 244 St. Croix avenue. Both entered pleas of guilty.

EBERHART AND THE COUNTY OPTION MEN.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unless Governor Eberhart assumes a different attitude on the county option question he will lose the vote of the supporters of the option plan of controlling liquor traffic. This is the gist of a statement made this morning by P. J. Youngdahl, secretary of the Anti-Saloon league, under whose auspices the county option conventon will be held in St. Paul March 2.

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME.

Big Duluths and Adams Will Play for Hockey Supremacy.

The second championship hockey game between the Big Duluths and Adams Athletic association team will be played at the West end rink tomorrow evening. This game will decide the championship of the City Amateur Hockey league should the Big Duluths win, as this team won the first game.

Both teams are in great shape and one of the best games of the present season is looked for. The winner of the present series will not only win the championship of the league, but will also be given the opportunity of meeting some of the fast teams of the Twin Cities.

SELF-SUPPORTING STUDENTS.

Independent: Formerly a student who worked his way through college anywhere was regarded with approval, even heroized. Now he meets with condemnation on both sides; from his associates in his work because he is willing to do anything and do it cheap, and from his associates in his study because he lowers the tone of the college and does not contribute to its athletics and social display.

Many of our colleges were started with the idea that students should support themselves, at least in part, by labor for the college, such as putting up the buildings, working on a a farm, etc. But as the institutions have grown in numbers and wealth thi have grown in numbers and wealth this plan has been abandoned, in most cases completely, and today we are further from it than ever and heading in the opposite direction.

If a student builds a brick wall nowadays to learn how, he is made to tear it down again. That is, even in so-called industrial schools he is not allowed to work, but compelled to play at working. It is no wonder that some of our most clear sighted and self-respecting young men desert our colleges every year through sheer disgust. The artificiality of it makes them tired.

It is idle to deplore the increasing predominance of the leisure class in our colleges when we are by force of law and public opinion compelling college students, as we have convicts, to become a leisure class. I see only two movements which might counteract the prevailing tendency to make higher education increasingly expensive and parasitic.

One is the plan of the University of Cincinnati, by which engineering students work alternately two weeks in the class room and two weeks in the shops. The other wall is to bring higher education to the people who are at work by some form of university extension.

GREAT SALT LAKES OF RUSSIA.

Chicago Tribune: Salt lagoons and lakes are distributed over most parts of the Russian empire and principally in the region of the Black and Caspian seas. The production of salt is one of the rapidly developing industries of the country. In the salt lagoons during the dry and warm season there may be found the natural evaporation which is so great that from the oversaturated brine great quantities of crystals of salt are precipitated. These salt lagoons, marshes or lakes give annually as much as 1,000,000 tons, although they have been known to yield 1,500,000 tons when seasons have been particularly dry and warm.

Such work is done principally in the provinces of Taurida, Kherson and Astrakhan. The Basekunchak lake, located within the last named province, gives in favorable seasons enormous quantities, sometimes nearly 400,000 tons. The bottom of this lake consists of thick layers of salt, and the visible supply has been computed at nearly 100,000,000 tons.

Another lake, the Elton, contains a larger reserve of solid salt along its bottom measuring forty square miles. Beginning not far from the Sea of Azov, embracing all the North and East of the Caspian Sea and extending to the East and Northeast of this is a vast territory, larger in area than France, in which every lake and standing pool of water is brackish or salt and only running water is fresh.

Hundreds of these lakes could be profitably worked for salt if required. Many of the lakes contain besides common salt various other compounds embedded in the brine or embedded in the sediments of their bottoms. These compounds are valuable in hydropathy.

MUST COAX DEADHEADS.

Musical America: Concert givers in Germany find it more and more difficult to get an audience. Free tickets by no means insure one. A Berlin journal tells how audiences at recitals (Berlin often has more than fifty of them in one week) are apt to be made up.

Miss N., who plays or sings, sends out about 200 tickets, some of them to prominent persons. One of these is the wife of Prof. X. She kindly accepts the tickets, but has no intention of attending the concert, so she gives them to her dressmaker, who in turn bestows them on her assistants, who possibly may go to the concert. In one case it was found that of 200 free tickets only forty-seven were used.

Answer This Question

When thousands of women say that they have been cured of their ailments by a certain remedy, does this not prove the merit of that remedy?

Thousands of women have written the story of their suffering, and have told how they were freed from it by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—for thirty years these reports have been published all over America.

Without great merit this medicine could never have gained the largest sale of any remedy for woman's ills—never could have become known and prized in nearly every country in the world.

Can any woman let prejudice stand between her and that which will restore her health? If you believe those who have tried it you know this medicine does cure.

Read this letter from a grateful woman, then make up your mind to give Mrs. Pinkham's medicine a chance to cure you.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I am a firm believer in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was a great sufferer from organic female troubles for years, and almost despaired of ever being well again. I had bearing-down pains, backache, headache and pains in my abdomen, and tried Mrs. Pinkham's Compound as a last resort. The result was astonishing, and I have used it and advocated it ever since. It is a great boon to expectant mothers. I have often said that I should like to have its merits thrown on the sky with a search-light so that women would read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their sufferings. "My husband joins me in its praise. He has used it for kidney trouble and been entirely cured."—Mrs. E. A. Bishop, 1915 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

ON THE ROAD TO RECOVERY

J. H. M. Parker Suffers Painful Accident as Result of Runaway.

In a letter to a Duluth friend J. H. M. Parker, formerly land agent for the Canadian Pacific Railroad company in Duluth, states that the injuries he received some time ago as the result of being thrown from a carriage while both severe and painful, are not so serious as was at first expected. Mr. Parker expects soon to be about again.

The accident happened on New Year's day. The former Duluthian was driving a spirited team. At a dangerous part of he road the horses suddenly took fright at some unseen object and the occupants of the rig were thrown out. The heavy fur coat worn by Mrs. Parker broke the force of her fall, but Mr. Parker did not fare so well. The ligaments of his shoulder were torn and his chest badly bruised. He was in a critical condition for some time.

MOSBY RANGER LEAVES REMARKABLE WILL.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 16.—The fortune of John H. Core, one of the famous Mosby Confederate rangers, is divided in a will no less remarkable than was the life of the testator. Core had accumulated $750,000 since the war.

He directs, as the first provision of his will, that a mausoleum similar to John W. Mackay's in New York be erected to himself, but it must cost $100,000 "no more, no less." A "Cleopatra's Needle" monument to cost $2,000 is to be erected to his parents and a local hospital gets a bequest of $6,000 with the provision that it shall care for his $100,000 mausoleum.

The mayor of Norfolk is to certify that Core's body is not stolen, but that it has been safely deposited in his tomb.

To All "Cough Worn" People

It's a shame to let that knife-like cough go on "murdering" you when you can stop it almost instantly with a little Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey.

It's so grateful to raw throats, so cool, so soothing, so refreshing and so healing that you forget all about ever having had a cough after a couple of teaspoonfuls.

It knocks out colds completely in a few hours.

It removes the cause of the cough and the cold—the germ laden mucous that stops the passages and irritates the throat. It does it naturally—no straining, or extra coughing. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey leaves the throat and the head as clear as a bell.

It contains real old-fashioned pine tar and real honey and other ingredients of real benefit to coughs and colds—all plainly stated on the bottle. The standard for twenty years.

It is the largest selling cough and cold remedy in the world, because no other medicine or prescription ever does for a cold what this does.

You need Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey in the house all the time. Children love the taste of it and it can't hurt them. Get a bottle now for your cough and see how quickly you begin to feel good again. At all druggists in 25c, 50c and $1 bottles.

Look for our trade mark (the bell) and Granny Metcalfe's picture on every bottle. Made by

WOLVES ARE NUMEROUS

They Are Terrifying the Settlers Near Mile Post 61.

With his eyes bulging, his face blanched with fear, his frame reeking with perspiration and weak from exertion, an Indian trapper rushed into a camp near Mile Post No. 61 on the Duluth & Iron Range railroad a few days ago and dropped exhausted to the office floor. Almost at his heels were fourteen wolves of a pack that had chased him through the forest until he reached the place of safety.

The Indian told a story of a terrible, nerve-racking escape from the hungry animals. He had been traveling through the woods and had heard the wails of wolves several times, but had paid little heed to them. He saw one gray body skulking between the trees near him and then another. Soon the woods seemed to be alive with them and the vanguard, gaining courage from the presence of reinforcements, attacked the lone traveler. He shot one and gained time for a start to the nearest camp, about two miles away.

The delay was brief. Soon the entire pack was close at his heels. Closer and closer they approached until they were so close that he did not dare turn to shoot. He loosened the pack on his back and dropped it in his tracks. The delay caused by the wolves pouncing on the pack gave him another start, but it was only for a brief time again.

He worked, shifting his gun from hand to hand until his heavy coat was free and he let that fall in the trail. Another delay gave him a short respite and he knew that if he could hold out for a short time, he would reach camp. Weak and staggering, he plunged on with the fortitude of his race. He knew his only hope was to get away. Shooting would do no good, for the pack was large and he could not hold out against them. Finally he threw his gun away and he arrived at the camp free of all encumbrances and overcome by the terrible experience.

The wolves have caused a reign of terror in that particular district. There seems to be hundreds of them and they travel in large packs, seeking what or whom they may devour. Deer are scarce and deprived of their customary prey, they attack human beings and, cowards though they are usually, they gain courage and strength from their numbers and are fearless.

The settlers are living in terror of their lives. They hardly venture out of doors and when they go any distance they go in numbers well supplied with guns and ammunition. Although there is a $15 bounty on each wolf pelt, no organized effort has been made to exterminate the pests. There is money to be made and glory to be gained for hunters, who go gunning for wolves in the vicinity of Mile Post No. 61. They will find wolves in plenty and the settlers will be glad of the aid in relieving them of the scourge.

HOWARD MILL HAS RUN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

The Howard mill, about a mile and a half from the Woodland car line, almost within the city limits, has been running steadily in season for about twenty-five years. This year the mill opened up at the usual time with about 25,000 logs on hand. Only about one-third of this supply has been taken out. Other mills have flourished and been dismantled, but the Howard mill keeps on as if it were in the heart of Northern Minnesota instead of at the edge of the state's third city. The mill has enough stuff in sight to warrant a prediction that it will be running at least five years longer.

ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO

Heartburn, Gas, Headaches and Other Stomach Misery Vanishes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure Indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your Stomach of poisons, excessive aci and stomach gas which sours your entire meal—interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any Pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or dscomfort all of any kind of food you eat.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Feb. 16.—The senate has passed a bill which is designed to deal with the whole vexed question of hazing at the West Point Military academy. The author of the measure is Senator Du Pont of Delaware. It provides that the superintendent of the academy shall make appropriate regulations for suspending for the practice of hazing and define hazing by regulations. Any cadet charged with offenses under the regulations, which would involve his dismissal, would be granted a general court-martial. In case of dismissal no cadet thereafter shall be reappointed, nor shall he be eligible for appointment as a commissioned officer in the army or navy or marine corps until two years after the graduation of the class of which he was a member.

Cotton Man Talks.

Warning that the disturbance of a business having such world-wide ramifications as the cotton industry might precipitate financial and commercial conditions not now foreseen, was given by Vice President Arthur R. Marsh of the New York cotton exchange, at the anti-option hearing before the house committee on agriculture. Mr. Marsh drew a picture of the great stock of additonal gold that might have been sent across the ocean from America if the cotton industry had been disturbed by legislation. He also suggested that the contracts made on the New York cotton exchange were all entered into within the state of New York and were not interestate commerce.

Insists on Publicity.

The president had two lengthy conferences with Attorney General Wickersham, Assistant Secretary Norton and Commissioner Cabell of the internal revenue bureau regarding the corporation tax act. It is understood, however, that the president has not changed in his conviction that publicity to which corporation heads bitterly object, is necessary to insure the complete efficacy of the proposed law.

Against Electric Railroads.

Should the administration railroad bill pass congress in its present form, it would discriminate in favor of steam railroads and absolutely crush out electric lines, according to witnesses before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce. A paragraph in the bill would give the interstate commerce commission power to fix joint and through rates on steam lines.' No mention is made of electric roads.

That Alien Tax.

Whether the United States is losing $1,500,000 a year or any part of that sum in the collection of the $4 a head tax for every alien coming into this country is the question which members of the house immigration committee are pursuing. Representative Hayes of California called attention to the fact that the figures on the total number of aliens arriving in this country and the statements of the receipts from the source did not correspond to the extent that there appeared to be about 400,000 immigrants last year who entered the country and paid no tax. Under the law, the steamship companies are required to pay the head tax of $4 for each alien brought into the ports of the United States.

Senator Crawford addressed the senate in support of the contention that instead of wasting months and years in investigating the causes of the increased prices of the necessaries of life, congress should devote itself to devising a remedy. He attributed the rise in the recent cost of living to the rapid increase of the gold supply and the corresponding increase of the per capita circulation in the United States. He declared that public opinion should compel an increase in wages, placing the wage earner on an equal footing with the producer in the enjoyment of good times.

New Title for Cannon.

"The godfather of all the river and harbor improvements," was a new title bestowed upon Speaker Cannon by Representative Moore of Pennsylvania in the house. Representative Macon of Arkansas, Democratic "objector" of the house, had taken occasion to approve the appropriation for the Mississippi river contained in the pending bill. The Mississippi river was not only the father of waters, but the mother also, he declared, and for that reason he thought no objection should be made against its improvement.

"If the Mississippi is the mother and father of the waters, where does the speaker come in?" inquired Mr. Moore, who, answering his own question, suggested that Speaker Cannon should be known as the "Godfather of the waters."

Taft Meets Ohioans.

More than a score of Ohio's staunchest Republicans gathered around the state dinner board at the White House last night and with President Taft talked over the political situation in the Buckeye state. The dinner was given by the president in honor of Wade H. Ellis, who recently resigned as assistant to the attorney general to assume the role of the chairman of the Ohio central committee.

MEANS END OF MERGER

Mackay Announcement of Sale of Telephone and Telegraph Stock.

New York, Feb. 16.—It is just to please the public, as it were, that the Mackay companies are going to sell their holdings in the American Telephone & Telegraph company, which in turn controls the Western Union. With this announcement disappeared the talked-of "billion dollar" merger, and the Postal Telegraph & Cable company, if the promise is carried out, becomes a more keen competitor of the Western Union.

When, several months ago, the American Telegraph & Telephone company bought George Gould's interest in the Western Union, carrying practical control, it was pointed out that the Mackay companies held approximately 82,000 shares of the former's stock. This was interpreted by many as a tacit merger of the three great companies, which would mean death to competition.

Denial Was Doubted.

Clarence H. Mackay, head of the Mackay companies, was quick to deny that any merger had been consummated or was even under consideration, but the rumor would not down.

Now comes the announcement of a decision of the Mackay companies to sell its holdings in the American Telephone & Telegraph company as agreed upon at the annual meeting of the companies in Boston yesterday. A statement explaining the action was issued in New York last night by C. C. Adams, vice president of the Postal Telegraph & Cable company. The statement says:

"The Mackay companies will sell their entire holdings of stock in the American Telephone & Telegraph company, that step being in deference to public opinion, which views with suspicion this large holding of stock in a company which has recently purchased the control of the Western Union Telegraph company.

Sought for Economy.

"Moreover, that stock was acquired by the Mackay companies with a view to bringing about economies in the construction and maintenance of joint pole lines over long stretches of country, where the business was not sufficient to justify either company constructing an independent pole line by itself.

"Many such arrangements were made, each company doing one-half of the pole line, but having nothing to do with the business of the other company. Since, however, the American Telephone & Telegraph company has acquired control of the Western Union Telegraph company, the time has come for the Mackay companies to sell its holdings of stock in the American Telephone & Telegraph company and that will be done.

"The Postal Telegraph system will continue to be an independent, prepared to maintain the competition which it has furnished for twenty-five years."

TURRISH BUYS OREGON TIMBER

Duluth Lumberman Purchases Tract of Twenty-Seven Thousand Acres.

Portland, Or., Feb. 16.—Henry Turrish of Duluth has purchased from S. Benson of this city 27,000 acres of timber land in Columbia county for $3,000,000. The land lies twenty-five miles north of Portland, and part of the tract is tapped by the Benson logging railroad in conjunction with the Northern Pacific.

The basis of the reported sale is $1.50 per thousand feet stumpage, which, although an advance over recent sales, is looked upon as reasonable in light of the limited supply of timber now in the world.

Negotiations for the transfer of this tract of high class timber has been carried on for some time, the property having been held under option. It is also known that Mr. Benson is now undertaking to dispose of all his timber, sawmill and logging interests with a view of retiring from active business.

TWENTY-ONE RAILROADS PENSION EMPLOYES.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Twenty-one railroad systems in the United States pension their employes and more than 600,000 men now working upon those lines are eligible to the benefits, according to a statement compiled by the department of commerce and labor.

Four of these systems have made the retiring age 65 years and the others hold it at 70 years. More than 4,500 pensioned railroad men in the United States received nearly $1,000,000 in 1907.

MURDER IN STREET CAR.

Laborer Shoots Conductor and Tries to Stab Passengers.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—A panic in a crowded and fast-moving trolley car ensued last night when Joseph Schnell, a laborer, shot and killed Herman Bierman, the conductor, and attempted to stab the passengers, mostly women and children. While the car, on a line running between Chicago and Kankakee, Ill., was going at a rapid rate through the south part of the city, Schnell, after quarreling over a transfer, pulled a revolver and fired at the conductor, who staggered to the platform and fell dead. Dropping his revolver, Schnell drew a long knife and started after the motorman and others. The women and children screamed and some of them jumped off. Two policemen on the car finally subdued Schnell.

"The Blood is The Life"

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are effected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood.

Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty cents in postage stamps to Dr. R.V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

McBRIDE IS ONE OF THE MOST PROMISING OF THE YOUNGER PLAYERS IN THE BIG LEAGUES

(BY BRUCE)

McBRIDE OF WASHINGTON

Coming to the Washington team there is no doubt that McAleer will depend more upon young McBride, the [illegible] shortstop of the team, the [illegible] boy who came from Kansas City of the American association, and who has been playing a great shortstop game for the Nationals since his jump into higher baseball society.

McBride is one of your long and lean kind. He is built on the lines of a thoroughbred. He has plenty of speed and a great whip. As a high class ball player he has only one great weakness. That weakness is his inability to bat with the leaders of the baseball society. McAleer is hoping that the fast youngster breaks into the [illegible] society the present season.

If young McBride could hit up near the .300 mark he would be almost as valuable a shortfield player as the great Mr. Tinker of the Chicago Cubs. This McBride can cover acres of old mother earth, and then besides he has one of those heads that are quick to think.

He is an inside baseball player—not an [illegible] baseball player—and there are few fine points of the game that Mr. Mac is not jerry to. He is fast upon the paths like a scared black man with a veteran bull pup in full pursuit, and he can do stunts in his territory that rival the bowlegged ball playing of the great and only Honus Wagner.

If the hope of McAleer comes true, young McBride will be one of the stars of the league the present season. The young player is one of your willing workers.

Personally McBride is the new type of baseball player—clean morally and free from habits that are fatal to the [illegible] of a high class diamond performer. He is an intelligent chap, one of the better class of players, and if he ever learns to clout that old [illegible] watch this young star [illegible].

• • •

With the assurance that Rochester and Red Wing will be the cities to complete the territory of the Minny league, it is high time that some meeting of the magnates was called and work was started on the schedule. There is a lot of work to do before the opening of the league season, and it is about time that some start was made.

We are looking for President Elliott up at this end of the circuit, and that executive might find it much better for baseball interests in this part of the country if he could find it possible to visit Duluth once in even a great while.

• • •

Down Minneapolis way the wrestling fans are in about as cheerful a mood as a rich divorcee who has been cut off from the pocket book of the once wiser. It is all about the downfall of Henry Ordemann, the pride of Minneapolis.

Since his many victories upon the mat Henry has become quite as much a part of the new Minneapolis spirit as the publicity club or the flour mills. They thought he was quite invincible. Then he goes out Seattle way, and, on the square or not on the square, as the Minneapolis fans are claiming, he was beaten by the pride of Seattle, Doc Benjamin Franklin Roller.

It is a poor sport page that does not contain a near-column of explaining about the Seattle stumble of the big Norsk. Henry has returned to the city of his adoption and given his story of the disaster. The shock came so suddenly that the fans in great and growing Minneapolis have not fully recovered as yet.

Ordemann is a great wrestler, just so is Doc Roller. Evidently the men are very evenly matched. However, Ordemann is just a young man and they have no right to get so het up about the thing.

THE GREATEST BATTLE OF THE CENTURY WAS PLAYED AT HISTORIC FOND DU LAC

SEVEN GUID CURLERS.

THE SPIRITS OF THE INDIAN BRAVES WATCHED.

The true tale of that great curling battle at Fond du Lac last Saturday has never been told. Perhaps justice never will be done to the story. It would take the pen of a Tennyson to transcribe the epic of that great battle, not the battered typewriter of a sporting editor.

All day long the noise of battle rolled, there on the historic banks of the St. Louis. The sun sank slowly in the west, casting its long shadow across the shimmering ice; the lonely wolf howled to its mate across the dark forest of the Wisconsin shore, the spirits of the old Indian braves left their silent tombs on Spirit island and roamed restlessly about the snowy banks, and still the game went on. "Hoot mon! She's a klinker! Bring 'er alang! Soop 'er up, mon, soop 'er!" Strange sounds these that fell on the ghostly ears of the restless spirits of the Red Warriors of yesterday.

Col. "Tammas" McGilvray and "Sir Tammas" Hewitt were the skips. It came about through the challenge of "Sir Tommas" to an old-time out-of-door match on the ice of the river, and eight "gind curlers" traveled up the river Friday night prepared to do battle on the morrow when the sun rose. It was a gray day—a Whistler-like morning, with a mist lying heavy about the bends of the river; a day like that on which King Arthur marched against the hosts of Modred in the West.

Colonel Tammas had served breakfast to the curlers, and Sir Tammas interrupted play long enough to invite the warriors to a hearty dinner of "cauld kail." Then back they went to the game, and not until the moon lifted her wan, pale, half circle above the eastern hills, did the sweepers cease their labors. Who won? Who knows? Sir Tammas would not tell the result of that dread battle. "They fought a good fight," he said. Colonel Tammas was no more responsive. "They did their best," he said. "Heap da—n fool," said the spirit of old "Eat-'em-up," as he gazed from a tree overhanging the bank. "Sweep and sweep, and ice all clean."

The dusky shades of night sifted softly down; the grey forms of the curlers faded softly into the mist, mingled with the dusk, dim and yet more dim, and vanished from sight. From the shadow came the words "Soop 'er up, mon, soop 'er up." Then all was still.

Who won? What happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object?

The irresistible force was: Krouse, Naughton, Currier and Hewitt. The immovable object was: Craig, Ross, Stocker and McGilvray.

LEAGUE MAGNATES FAIL TO AGREE ON SCHEDULE

Feeling in Ward-Heydler Deadlock Is Cropping Out Again.

Dove of Peace Attends Meeting of American League Owners.

New York, Feb. 16.—Five to three in favor of the 168-game season was apparently the way the National league magnates stood when the struggle over the playing schedule was resumed today.

Not in years have the rulers of National league destinies worked into so chaotic a situation as that revealed by the failure so far to agree on playing dates for the coming season. Six votes are necessary for the adoption of a schedule. The lineup today was: Messrs. Ebbetts of Brooklyn, Murphy of Chicago, Robison of St. Louis, Brush of New York and Fogel of Philadelphia for the long season; and Dreyfuss of Pittsburg, Herrman of Cincinnati and Dovey of Boston for the 154-game schedule. Both sides today declared their intention to stand pat, and the prospects for speedy reconciliation did not appear bright.

There were numerous consulations during the morning and in some quarters hope was expressed that when the magnates get together in the afternoon some sort of basis for a compromise might be reached. The bitter factional feeling engendered by the Ward-Heydler deadlock at the December meeting seemed to have broken out again, however, and it was difficult to guess what common ground for an agreement could be reached by the contending elements.

The magnates failed to reach any agreement yesterday. After indulging in heated debate from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 o'clock last night, adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Argument, which at times waxed acrimonious did not serve to clear the air or bring a decision to adopt either the so-called long schedule, 168 games, or the short schedule of 154 games. Murphy of Chicago, Robison of St. Louis and Ebbets of Brooklyn, the latter holding the proxy of Fogel of Philadelphia, who is ill, remained firm in their demand for the long schedule. Dreyfuss of Pittsburg, Herrmann of Cincinnati and Dovey of Boston, were equally emphatic in their stand for 154 games. John T. Brush of New York appeared neutral, and because of the decided split no vote was taken.

Murphy Is Sued.

After the meeting adjourned, a summons and complaint was served on Murphy of the Chicago club in a suit brought by Andy Coakley to recover $3,280, a claim for salary last season. Coakley, a pitcher, was sold to the Louisville club of the American association, but he refused to play in Louisville and played last season with semi-professional clubs.

Murphy said last night that if Kling was reinstated he would not sell him to any club. "Why," said the president, "a thousand Chicago fans sent me a letter demanding that Kling be kept in Chicago if he was reinstated. If I let him go I might as well put a padlock on the park gate."

Agreement May Be Perpetual.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The American league continued its annual meeting here today, and it was expected that the schedule of games for the season would be announced by this evening.

The first business to come up was the adoption of a new agreement to replace the original one which expires in November of this year. There appeared to be a decided feeling in favor of making the new agreement perpetual. This was discussed thoroughly at yesterday's session, but a final vote was delayed in order that the club owners might have more time to consider such an important question.

The 154-game schedule was unanimously adopted, the draft submitted being approved without any changes being made.

The report of a committee consisting of President B. B. Johnson and President Charles A. Comiskey of Chicago, recommending the use of the present style of spikes on shoes during the coming season, was adopted. It was reported that the committee was satisfied that none of the suggested devices would replace the present style.

"To discontinue the present style of spikes would slow up the game," said Comiskey. "None of the substitutes that we have examined will have the effect of the old spikes. I admit that they are dangerous, but think it would be better to adopt safeguards such as shin guards or something like that instead of doing away with them. In my mind, baseball is just fast enough, and we should take no chances of reducing that speed in any way."

No Trades Are Made.

The clubs were represented as follows: C. A. Comiskey, Chicago; Robert L. Hedges, St. Louis; Frank J. Navin, Detroit; J. F. Kilfoyle and C. W. Somers, Cleveland; Thomas C. Noyes, Washington; Benjamin F. Shibe and Connie Mack, Philadelphia; Frank J. Farrell, New York; H. ... McBreen, Boston. Six of the eight managers of the league were present, but none of them apparently was able to make any trades with his fellows. It was said that the Washington and St. Louis clubs might be able to make a deal involving George Stone, but up to a late hour nothing had been reported in the trading line. The following managers were present: Connie Mack, Philadelphia; Patsy Donovan, Boston; Hugh Duffy, Chicago; James McAleer, Washington; Jack O'Connor, St. Louis; George Stallings, New York.

President Navin of Detroit announced that the Chicago club would be Detroit's opponent on the day upon which he will raise the pennant for 1909. The date will not be decided until the schedule is adopted.

Schedule Is Adopted.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The American association adopted a 168-game schedule, opening on April 13 and closing on Sept. 25, at its annual spring meeting here yesterday. It was several hours after the schedule committee, composed of Chairman W. H. Atkins of Indianapolis, George Tebeau of Kansas City and M. F. Cantillon of Minneapolis, submitted its draft that the adoption of the dates was announced. It is said that many minor changes were found necessary to satisfy all the club owners.

Action on the proposed amendments and revision of the constitution was deferred until a special meeting of the league, which will be held on May 3. Many changes in the constitution were suggested at the December meeting, but the club representatives yesterday asked for time to consider. The date chosen for this special meeting comes at the time when the teams are changing from the Eastern cities to the Western, and will bring them all to Chicago at that time.

No radical changes in the constitution are being considered. Mr. Chivington said that the proposed changes were to be made to bring the constitution up to date. The present constitution was adopted in 1901 and has not been changed since 1904.

The business was finished at a single long session held in the afternoon. The magnates met in the morning, but were only in session for a few minutes. The drafts of the schedule were submitted to them, and the meeting adjourned to give each man time to study out the dates given his team. The meeting was harmonious all the way, according to President Chivington.

Western League Meeting.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The annual schedule meeting of the Western league was held here today. When the meeting opened it was undecided whether the list would consist of 154 or 168 games, but it was generally believed that the smaller number would be adopted.

DULUTH PLAYERS ARE HOLDOUTS

Baron Otto Mueller and George Dauss have joined with Donald Adonis Marion and refused to sign contracts offered them.

Mueller has returned the contract Brooklyn has sent him, and Dauss has refused to consider the contract offered by Michael Kelly of the St. Paul club.

The addition of Mueller and Dauss to the ranks of the holdouts makes the third Duluth player, who has come to the conclusion that the cost of living in these days of boosts of prices deserves a higher salary in return.

As Dauss is going to work on trial with the St. Paul club, if he gets on with them, his demand may be granted. There must be something very wrong if the Baron Mueller chap is peeved over it.

SCHOOL BOYS ARE WINNERS

Fast Y. M. C. A. Quint Falls Before Team Work of Highs.

Last evening in the association gymnasium the basket ball team of the Central high school defeated the Y. M. C. A. quint by a score of 36 to 19. The second team of the high school lost to the second division of the Y. M. C. A. squad by a score of 22 to 7. In the afternoon at the boys' department gymnasium the sophomores defeated the freshmen in the interclass series by a score of 19 to 11.

In the game of the first high school team against the Y. M. C. A. team, there was no stage of the contest when the Central boys did not show better form than their rivals. The hilltop players were faster, showed better team work, and in every detail of the game, with the exception of the last few minutes, maintained a faster pace than the association team.

In team play the high school boys had it on their opponents, and at times the association quint seemed puzzled at the play of the school boys. Johnson and Boyle played a great game for the high school team.

The lineup and score:

1st Y. M. C. A.		1st High School.
Peters, O'Donnell	f	Kelly, Harris
Fenton, Thompson	f	R. Johnson
Deighton	c	Waldron

The second high school team was overshadowed by the second squad players of the association. The second half of the game was close and interesting. The lineup follows:

Becker	f	Osman
Dorworth, Peters	f	Kelly
Thompson, F. Johnson	c	Mars
G. Johnson, Stack	g	Taylor

In the interclass game in the afternoon the sophomores won a slow game from the first-year men. The sophomores excelled in team work and general all-round play. Capt. Mars of the sophomores was the star of the contest. The score:

HOW HE CURED HIS CATARRH

I wrote you some time ago, giving you an account of my sufferings with an awful case of Catarrh. I had all the symptoms which accompany this disease, such as mucus dropping back into the throat, a constant desire to "hawk and spit," feeling of dryness in the throat, cough and spitting upon arising, scabs forming in the nose which required much effort to blow out, sometimes causing my nose to bleed and leaving me with a headache. I had thus suffered for five years, all the time trying different local treatments of inhalations, snuffs, douches, etc., with no real good effect. Of course I was greatly discouraged. As soon as I heard from you I commenced S. S. S. as you advised and after using it a short while noticed a change for the better. I continued to take it believing the trouble was in the blood, and S. S. S. made a permanent cure for me. I am now entirely free from Catarrh.

JUDSON A. BELLAM.
224 Randolph St., Richmond, Va.

The symptoms Mr. Bellam describes in his case of Catarrh are familiar to every one who suffers with this disease. For five years he had endured the discomfort and suffering, and was greatly discouraged as one treatment after another failed to cure him. When at last he realized that Catarrh is a blood disease, he knew that the former treatments had been wrong, and only a blood purifier like S. S. S. could produce permanent good results.

Catarrh is not merely an affection of the mucous membranes; it is a deep-seated blood disease in which the entire circulation and greater part of the system are involved. It comes from impurities accumulating in the circulation, and as the blood goes to every portion of the body the catarrhal matter irritates and inflames the different mucous surfaces and tissues causing an unhealthy and inflammatory discharge, and producing the other well known symptoms of the trouble.

The failure of local treatment to produce permanent good results in Catarrh is due entirely to the fact that such measures do not reach the cause of the trouble. Temporary relief and comfort may often be had by using some douche or inhalation, but no cure can be effected until the blood is purified of the irritating cause.

S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter, and at the same time building up the system by its unequalled tonic effects. It goes down into the circulation and removes every trace of foreign matter or impurity. In other words S. S. S. cures Catarrh by purifying the blood so that the mucous surfaces and linings of the body are all supplied with healthy blood instead of being irritated and diseased from a continual saturation of catarrhal impurities. Then the inflammed and irritated membranes heal, the discharge is checked, the head noises all cease, the stomach is toned up, the throat is no longer clogged with phlegm, but every annoying symptom of the disease is corrected. There is but one way to cure Catarrh—purify the blood, and there is but one absolutely safe and sure blood purifier—S. S. S. We have a special book on Catarrh; we will send this book, and also any special medical advice desired free to all who write.

ASKS VIRGINIA FOR FRANCHISE

Another Concern Wants Privilege of Establishing Plant in Range City.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council held a short session last night, the greater part of the evening being taken up by the argument of Mr. Ferrin, representative of the Gas Machinery company, of Cleveland, Ohio, which is seeking a franchise for the establishment of a gas plant here. Mr. Ferrin says his company for a starter will charge the consumers at the rate of $1.65 per 1,000 feet, and says that is the lowest that his company can furnish the product on the start. The members of the council will take the proposition under consideration and make a report later.

The Virginia Electric Power & Water company, which is at present furnishing the city with electricity, also has a franchise for the establishment of a gas plant. The local company has for some time had plans and specifications prepared for a modern gas plant, and the building and equipping of the plant has been delayed for various reasons. The company has expended a large amount of money in building up its present business in the line of electric lighting for the city, and intend during the coming summer to expend about $75,000 by building a larger power house, extending its lines to the etreme limits of the city, and thereby reducing its rates for light materially throughout the city.

Meat Inspector J. P. Chalmers made his regular weekly report to the council and found all markets in first-class condition, with the exception of the Mesaba market, where he condemned forty pounds of liver sausage.

Clerk of the Municipal Court Miss Jessie McNeil reported fines collected in that court for the week ending Feb. 12 in the sum of $65.

HIBBING MAY HAVE FINE GAS SYSTEM

Cleveland, Ohio, Concern Looking Over Practicability of Scheme.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a possibility of Hibbing soon having an up-to-date gas system to be supplied by the Gas Machinery company of Cleveland, Ohio. E. A. Ferrin, the company's representative, is in Hibbing consulting with Messrs. Wearne, West and Angst of the water and light commission in regard to securing a franchise, to supply the people of Hibbing with gas for both lighting and heating.

Similar plants have been installed in a great many Minnesota towns by this company and Mr. Ferrin says that if the village will grant his company a franchise they will immediately begin building and installing the plant. The rate to be charged is to be reasonable and fixed by the company's representatives and the water and light commission. It would take from $100,000 to $150,000 to finance a thing of this kind and Mr. Ferrin says that this stock will all be taken up by outside capital.

The company also proposes to put in plants of similar nature in Virginia and Crookston.

The balconies will be entirely reconstructed, making them capable of seating nearly twice the number of people they can at present accommodate. The flooring will be torn up and graded so as to give it, when relaid, the necessary angle so that patrons viewing the plays will not have to stretch and crane their necks in order to see. WIRELESS TELEPHONY

Possibilities of New Invention to Be Shown at Courthouse.

New Device Does Away With Poles, Wires and Exchanges.

C. O. Blanchard, who is in the city representing a wireless telephone company, has arranged for a demonstration in the new county building, and has invited a number of prominent business men to be present tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, when he promises to talk from one room to another, without the aid of wires.

If the wireless telephone is all that Mr. Baldwin claims it to be, it will do away with the necessity for poles and wires and telephone exchanges. All that is needed is a small instrument, little larger than the present telephone, with battery and coil attached. Each instrument is "tuned" as Mr. Baldwin describes it, to a certain number of vibrations per minute. There is no limit to the number of these "tunes" and no two telephones are alike in this respect. Direct connections are secured by a very simple device which places the telephone in "tune" with another, and while this connection is maintained, no other telephone can secure connectios.

The possibilities are ulimited. It will be possible with the new device to telephone from railroad trains, or automobiles, or from steamboats. In fact, the instruments are already in use on railroad trains and automobiles in the East.

The exhibition tomorrow is merely for the purpose of demonstrating that the waves of sound can be carried through solid walls without the aid of wires. Only one instrument is carried by Mr. Baldwin, and he will place the receiver in one room and the transmitter in another.

"I do not expect to be able to talk any great distance with but one instrument," said Mr. Baldwin today. "If I had two instruments here, and could get them in tune, I would be able to talk to any point in the city from the courthouse. This demonstration tomorrow is just to show that the sound can be transmitted through solid walls."

The demonstration tomorrow is merely for a few invited guests, but the instruments will be kept in the building all day Friday, and its possibilites shown to any who may care to see.

"I am gong East in a short time, and expect to return with an instrument such as is used on automobiles," said Mr. Blanchard. "This ought to interest the many owners of cars in Duluth, and I will show it here this summer."

Duluth has had a wireless telegraph station for some little time, but the wireless telephone is new to Duluthians.

Dickinson, N. D., Feb. 16.—Active construction work on the new Masonic temple will be commenced April 1, the delay being occasioned by an error in the original plans which results in the bids being greatly higher than the lodge had expected to invest in the property.

SURE TO EXTEND BRIBERY INQUIRY

New York Senate Leaders Are Expected to Hurry the Allds Case.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16.—Senator Conger's assertion that the Republican state committee got a contribution from the bridge company's legislative "protection fund" in 1902, has only strengthened the determination of the Republican leaders here to extend the bribery investigation without delay. In whatever way the circumstances of this contribution, during the chairmanship of Col. W. G. Dunn of Binghampton, may be explained, the party leaders here seem to realize that it would be suicidal to attempt to stifle investigation.

Senator Conger's ordeal before the senate committee of the whole was not over when the investigation of his charges against Senator Jotham P. Allds was taken up today. The Allds charges, however, have all but sunk from public attention in the flood of more important revelations.

Will Hurry Allds Inquiry.

The senate is now expected to hurry the Allds inquiry to a close and then proceed to an investigation along the lines of Conger's testimony. An investigation without limit as to time or subject, as proposed by Senator Wainwright's measure, is, however, hardly a possibility.

The present intention is to turn the spot light next on the corruption fund which Conger has admitted that the bridge companies raised in 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1905. Conger's statement yesterday practically assures the summoning of Col. Dunn and the financial and disbursing officers of the state committee of 1902 when the investigation is extended.

Kenosha Honors Simmons.

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 16.—All that was mortal of Zalmon G. Simmons was laid to rest in the Kenosha city cemetery Monday afternoon and during the two hours that the simple services of the funeral were in progress all Kenosha stood still, factories were closed, business was suspended and the city as one man mourned the loss of its greatest and best beloved citizen.

Hundreds of persons came from other cities to attend the funeral and Grand Army posts in all parts of Wisconsin and Northern Illinois were represented.

MOST REMARKABLE RECOVERY FROM ASTHMA

Wisconsin Man Willing to Neglect Business to Talk About It.

Three years ago Mr. Tracy Pritchard, who has the cigar privilege in the Hotel Matthewson, Parsons, Kan., and is well known to the traveling public, reported to the Austrian Laboratory his complete recovery from asthma through the use of the new specific, ascatco. When recently questioned as to the permanency of his cure, Mr. Pritchard said: "I can truthfully say that I am cured after 25 years of suffering. I changed climates and took everything I ever heard of, but ascatco came to my rescue." This statement was made December 20, 1909, and proves that ascatco's work was permanent. Moreover, Mr. Pritchard says: "I recommend ascatco to all sufferers from asthma and will neglect business to talk of its merits." His opinion regarding ascatco's marvelous efficiency is the same held by thousands of former asthmatics.

Every asthma sufferer may learn what effect ascatco will have in their own case by using the trial treatment, which is sent free of charge to any one who will write to the Austrian Laboratory, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city. The genuine ascatco may now be procured, for regular treatment, in both the 50-cent and $2 sizes, at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior, and other leading drug stores.

Watching a Stomach Digest Food

The Abbe Spallanzani was the first scientist to study systematically the chemical powers of the gastric juice, but it was by the careful and convincing experiments of Beaumont that the foundation of our exact knowledge of its composition and action was laid.

Beaumont was an army surgeon, located at an obscure military post in Michigan, while it was yet a territory, and was called upon to treat a gun shot wound of the stomach in a Canadian voyageur—Alexis St. Martin. When the wound healed a permanent opening was left by means of which food could be placed in the stomach and gastric juice taken from it.

Beaumont made scientific experiments with his crude means and wrote a book, which today is recognized among the classics of physiology.

Beaumont blazed the way for other scientists so that today medicine knows what the stomach does with food and what food does to the stomach.

Science also knows what the gastric juices are and how to make them best for the system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, thanks to the poor army surgeon and Alexis St. Martin, give man a means of digesting food, replenishing the exhausted juices, soothing the nerves and correcting dyspeptic conditions of the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are natural fruit and vegetable essences reduced in concentrated form and by tremendous power compressed into a tablet. These wonderful little digestors are known all over America and Canada. Full meals have been digested by them in glass tubes and they are sold by every druggist.

Physicians to the number of 40,000 use them. They are meritorious and powerful. Go to your druggist and buy a package today, price 50c, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

CROOKSTON GETS MEET

Charities and Corrections Conference Elects Duluth Woman Secretary.

County System of Caring for Poor Over Town Method Indorsed.

Mankato, Minn., Feb. 16.—Crookston was chosen as the next meeting place for the state conference of charities and corrections, which has just adjourned here. Duluth and St. Cloud invited the convention but without taking a ballot it was decided to meet in the Polk county city.

Officers were elected as follows:

President, Robert Madigan, Madison Lake; first vice president, F. A. Whittier, Red Wing; second, G. E. Maxwell, Winona; secretary, E. T. Lies, Minneapolis; enrolling secretary, Miss Jean Poirier, Duluth; executive committee, P. M. Ringdahl, Crookston; Miss Ellen Cook, St. Paul; H. F. Burt, Minneapolis; J. C. Matchitt, St. Paul; Miss Susan Kingman, Minneapolis; B. C. Clements, Polk county.

County commissioners constituted a large proportion of those attending the conference here and at a special conference of their own they adopted a resolution unanimously recommending the county system of caring for the poor over the town system and recommending the county boards contemplating changing to it to observe the method followed in Olmsted and Lac qui Parle counties.

Method Is More Humane.

The method is declared to be humane, commendable and inexpensive. Other subjects considered were county printing, summoning of jurors, compensation of jurors and roads and bridges.

The state committee on child labor found so few of the members present that it adjourned the meeting to St. Paul, Feb. 22, at the time of the meeting of the Federation of Women's clubs.

Senator F. Clague of Redwood Falls advocated a constitutional amendment providing a tax of 1 mill for good roads, to be spent under the direction of the state highway commission, acting in conjunction with the county commissioners.

It was the general opinion that the state ought to have a large part in road building, and that more approved methods ought to be adopted. Graveling and the split log road were indorsed as a cheap and effective means of having good country roads.

THIEF RIVER FALLS MAN PLEADS GUILTY

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 16.—Edward Bubuque of Thief River Falls, Minn., who was one of the pair who tried to hold up a pawnshop here last week, was yesterday sentenced to three years in the state reformatory.

Bubuque and his partner entered the pawnshop early in the morning, when only a clerk was there, and tried to make away with a tray of diamond rings. They knocked down the clerk, who, however, was only stunned, and he quickly rose and followed them before they could seize any jewelry. In the attempt to escape the thieves leaped into the icy waters of the river and nearly perished of exposure before a police boat rescued them. They were glad to be caught when in midriver, as they were chilled to the marrow. They pleaded guilty.

LABOR BLAMES TRUSTS.

Milwaukee Trades Council Raps Tariff and Mother Jones Talks.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 16.—Attacking the trusts and "organized greed" as the cause of high prices of meat and other foods, speakers in a mass meeting last night in Gemeinde hall poured forth invective and argument before a packed house.

Frank J. Weber, business agent of the Federated Trades council, "Mother Jones," labor organizer and others, spoke.

At the close of the meeting resolutions were adopted calling for higher wages and salaries, abolition of the tariff on food products and communication with the president of the national and Wisconsin cogressional representatives with regard to the nationalization of the meat producing industry.

"I am not going to say much about the meat trust," said "Mother Jones." I am going to eat all I can get and what I can't get, I'll steal."

Then she denounced the farmers who resolved to eat none of the meat, which she said, they produced, for sixty days.

THREE SALOON MEN ARE BOUND OVER

Fergus Falls, Minn., Feb 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four United States marshals, acting under orders of Special Officer Johnston, have been quietly investigating saloon conditions with reference to the sale of liquor to Indians for three weeks past along the lines of the Great Northern and the Soo from the White Earth reservation north to the Canadian line. This resulted in the arrest of one saloon keeper in Plummer and of two Warroad saloon men, all of whom were brought to this city and lodged in jail. They appeared before United States Commissioner William Michelet, who released them on bond pending their appearance before the federal grand jury at Fergus Falls in the spring.

A. Goulet of Warroad, one of the accused, is reported to be part Indian blood. A United States liquor license was sold him in the usual way and now he is apprehended by the same authorities who gave him the license. His books were also seized and will probobaly be used as evidence against the wholesalers who supplied him with his stock, as it is stated they will be prosecuted for so doing.

BEMIDJI CITY ELECTION.

John C. Parker Defeats William Mc Clussit for Mayor.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The stormy weather of yesterday cut down the vote cast at the city election and more or less dampened interest in the event which resulted in the election of John C. Parker as mayor over William McClussig by 165 votes. The total of the city was 800 compared with a normal vote of 900.

Thomas Malloy was re-elected clerk by a majority of 104 over C. J. Pryor. James Cahill for assessor, and Earl Gell for treasurer, were elected without opposition.

For alderman, W. C. Klein won in the First ward by 10 over E. R. Getchell; Tom Smart defeated Tom Johnson in the Second ward; K. K. Roe had no opposition in the Third ward, and N. W. Brown defeated George Rhea in the Fourth ward.

SHIPS PIG'S CARCASS.

Beloit, Wis, Feb. 16.—A dead pig in a trunk shipped by a Beloit woman from Allens Grove to Beloit, as baggage came near getting her into serious trouble.

When the trunk arrived the police happened to be at the station looking for some butter that had been stolen The woman's trunk was very heavy and the officers insisted on looking inside of it. They were amazed to find the carcass of a pig.

The railroad officials were not notified and although they might have had the woman prosecuted for falsely declaring her baggage, they decided not to do so.

SETTLING IN COURTS.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of the legality of the acts of the new public utilities commission of this city is being threshed out in the district court at Crookston, and probably will be completed today. Yesterday evidence was taken tending to show the legality of the appointment, etc., with the defendant city treasurer's attorneys making frequent objections. No evidence was submitted by the defense yesterday. The action is brought against the city treasurer by the commission to enforce the payment of warrants issued by the commission.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Sherburne County Youth Alleged to Have Attacked School Teacher.

Elk River, Minn., Feb. 16.—Ralph Shaw, a farmer lad 17 years of age, whose home is in the town of Palmer, Sherburne county, was arrested at his parents' home by Sheriff Iliff and brought to the county jail on the charge of assault with intent to commit rape.

Shaw is accused by a young lady, who taught in the town of Palmer, of having entered the schoolhouse after the children had left on the afternoon of Dec. 13, and there having attacked her. The woman, who is of strong build, succeeded in freeing herself and got away. Immediately upon committing the deed young Shaw fled the country. A warrant was sworn out for his arrest and the sheriff has been looking for him ever since. A few days ago Shaw returned to his home, believing that the whole thing had blown over. He was disillusioned, however, when Sheriff Iliff appeared at his home and arrested him. He was arraigned Monday and was bound over to the action of the grand jury.

BOWBELLS HOPING TO LAND COUNTY SEAT.

Bowbells, N. D., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Since the supreme court of the state has decided that Burke county was created in the last general election, Bowbells has been the scene of a continual jollification. The creation of the new county practically means that Bowbells will be its county seat, and while it is as yet early in the game, the city has already taken steps to bring about the realization of this hope.

MAY WHEAT HAS SHARP ADVANCE AT THE CLOSE

Jumps to $1.15 on Rumor of Bartlett-Patten Buying.

Big Chicago Bull Said to Be Long on May Option Again.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 16.—In the last few minutes of today's session May wheat jumped 1⅜c to $1.15 and July advanced 1⅛c to $1.14⅞ and closed $1.11¾ bid.

The sensational close was based on the activity in the Chicago market which jumped sharply when Bartlett-Patten's purchases of wheat were reported to be 1,000,000 bu. The professional element reached the conclusion that Bartlett-Patten were on the long side heavily, and the entire pit crowd began to buy, forcing many shorts to cover in the flurry. The advance came at the close of a slight dip caused by selling from a leading Chicago long who was taking profits. He had been rather well cleaned out, according to report, and the market was in a tight condition with offerings light when Bartlett-Patten began to buy and the reports that they were long heavily on wheat were spread broadcast.

May wheat opened at $1.13½ asked, advanced to $1.13¾-⅞, declined to $1.13⅝-¾, sold at $1.14 and lost ¼c, gained ⅛c and declined to $1.13⅝ and then jumped to $1.15, closing at $1.14⅞ bid. The July option opened at $1.13½ asked, gained ⅛c and then sold at $1.13⅞, lost ⅜c and jumped sharply to $1.14⅝ and closed at $1.14¾ bid.

Flax was quiet, opening at $2.19 asked and declining ¾c, closing at $2.18¼. September was $1.70 nominal.

Oats closed ⅝c up, durum ⅝c up and rye and barley were unchanged.

The opening of the markets in America today found plenty of crop scare rumors, but the country, when it sent in its bullish reports, forwarded a bunch of buying orders to keep them company. Consequently all American markets opened stronger than yesterday's close and advanced fractionally in the early hours. The trade cannot afford to overlook these reports until growing weather materializes and the market will be subject to fluctuations as the result of crop scare reports for the next six or eight weeks until the condition of the growing plant can be determined with some degree of accuracy. The reports made the shorts timorous and overcame all bearish influences. Any tendency on the part of the shorts to sell was checked and new buying was induced, although most of this came from the Southwest and West, the professional occasionally helping the game along.

There is little wheat on the market except from shorts, making the situation dangerous from the standpoint of the short. The timid element has been fairly well eliminated and the larger lines have been reduced. Cash houses in the Northwest which have received bullish reports from the West and Southwest were fairly liberal buyers. The scarcity of offerings, however, made trading comparatively light.

Reports on the growing crop were mixed. St. Louis said the plant near there is covered with snow. Indiana wired that it is too early to tell anything about the crop. Kansas, Western Missouri and Oklahoma were the source of the bullish reports. From Wichita came the doubtful message that a strong wind was blowing the plant out of the ground, although with the temperature there of 10 deg. above zero, it would appear that the wind must have been a veritable hurricane to have jerked the plant from frozen soil. There is no doubt that some damage has taken place but most traders are inclined to doubt its severity as claimed by some longs.

At this period of the year the growing crop should present a good color. Large areas, reports say, are brown in color, a feature that is new in Kansas and which is perplexing to the crop experts. Soft wheat in Northern Oklahoma and Southern Kansas is usually in good condition at this time of the year, but some specialists claim the crop has been seriously damaged. A light snow fell in parts of Kansas yesterday and snow was predicted for the Southwest today.

The bullishness of the southwestern situation is enhanced by the recent sale of a half-million bushels of wheat for export, chiefly to Mexico, and the close ownership of the remaining stores at primary markets by millers and shippers. The cash markets in the Southwest today were strong.

The July option was exceptionally strong, especially at Chicago, in comparison with the near option.

The cash market was moderately active with a good general demand. Some of the big millers were not in the market to a noticeable extent. Wheat to arrive at Minneapolis was in good demand. Cash premiums were firm, being 1@2c over May at Minneapolis and on a parity with the near option here.

Receipts in the Northwest show a big comparative decrease with two weeks ago. Stocks at Minneapolis have increased 350,000 bu in four days and 140,000 bu here in three days. The storm has hampered an already badly congested transportation service. Deliveries by farmers are extremely small, not only on account of the bad condition of the roads, but by reason of the disinclination of the farmer to let go of his supplies. Figures presented today by a Minneapolis elevator concern indicate that about 25 per cent of the crop is still on the farms in certain portions of North and South Dakota. The accuracy of the figures is not vouched for.

The Liverpool market closed ¼@½d lower. Wheat futures abroad were neglected. Broomhall said that supplies are likely to exceed requirements, a report which caused buyers to hold off. Ames-Brooks said that the foreign markets were weaker and the foreign demand for export from this country was slow.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Rally Sharply After Weak Opening.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Prices in the wheat pit rallied sharply in the early trading after a rather weak opening. May traveled up from $1.12⅝ to $1.13⅞@1.13¼. Bearish conditions abroad were ignored, and scanty offerings coupled with a recurrence of crop damage reports helped along the bullish sentiment. Opening figures for May were ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher at $1.12¼ to $1.12⅝@1.12¾.

The market continued strong throughout the session and in the final 15 minutes advanced 1c, influenced directly by the purchase of a large quantity of the May delivery by an influential concern. The advance all around was 1⅝@2¼c. May went from $1.12⅝@1.14⅝. The close was strong at nearly the high point with May at $1.11½@1.14⅝, which was 2c higher than final figures yesterday.

Corn showed strength, opening a shade lower to ¼c higher and adding in the first hour ¼@½c to the initial prices. Buying orders more than counterbalanced the bearish effect of large arrivals and rapidly accumulating stocks. Opening figures for May were 67½ to 67⅝@67¾c.

Investment buying through the day kept the market strong. May ascended to 68¼c, other futures keeping pace. The close was strong at practically the high point with May at 68⅛@68¼c. The finish was ¾c above yesterday's closing figures.

Good demand changed a weak start in oats to a firm market in the first hour, May going up from 47⅝@48c. Opening figures for that option were 47⅝c, a shade lower than the finish yesterday.

Fairly good commission buying supported by the present high prices for live hogs made itself felt in the provisions pit although the start was weaker than it has been of late. Pork opened 2½c lower to 2½c higher, lard about the same and ribs unchanged to 2½c higher. In the first hour, prices gained generally 5c. Opening figures for the May products were: Pork, $23.31½; lard, $12.52½; ribs, $12.17½@12.20.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 16.—The wheat market was very strong today. May opened ⅛@¼c higher than yesterday's close and gradually advanced. During the late session the market was especially strong. The near option closed 1⅜c higher than the opening, after fluctuating in a range of 1½c. A falling off in the spring wheat receipts and damage reports from the Southwest caused the strength. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 350,000 bu for four days. Minneapolis today received 274 cars of wheat as compared with 230 cars a year ago, Duluth, 21 cars against 17 cars a year ago, and Winnipeg, 114 cars against 44 cars a year ago. CLOSE FIRM AND ACTIVE

New York, Feb. 16.—Opening prices of stocks today were depressed by quite active selling. The declines in Reading and St. Paul ran to a point, and in Rock Island, Wabash preferred, American Car and Utah Copper to large fractions. Reading recovered part of its loss almost immediately.

Prices stopped yielding and hardened to last night's level when Reading was bid up from 165 to 166⅝. The whole list ran off again afterwards when Reading relapsed. Business was very dull. Wells-Fargo express gained 5 points.

Sharp advances in Reading and a number of minor railroad stocks and industrials held the list firm, but the general market was apathetic. Wisconsin Central rose 3, Reading, American Cotton Oil and Colorado & Southern 2, International Harvester and Philadelphia Company 1½ and Rock Island, Kansas & Texas, People's Gas, Pittsburg Coal preferred and the Virginia-Carolina Chemical stocks 1. Central Railroad of New Jersey fell 2½ and St. Lous & San Francisco second preferred 1½ and Western Maryland certificates and American Woolen 1. Bonds were heavy.

It was not until late in the day that the general market displayed any sympathy with the aggressive rise in Reading, which touched 169½. Orders were then placed on the Western railroad stocks in a number of specialties and the whole list moved up sharply. American Tobacco fours was heavily bought, rising 4⅜c to 81½c.

The market closed generally strong and active. The advance halted when Reading fell back a fraction. Prices then hardened again. Rock Island preferred rose 3, Missouri Pacific and Republic Steel 2, Rock Island 1¾, Peoria & Eastern, 6¼, American Agricultural Chemical 4, General Chemical 2¼, American Cotton Oil 3½ and Amalgamated Copper and Anaconda 1½.

FEBRUARY 16, 1910.

BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT—Has started to tighten and it is only a question of time before this stock will be the greatest local leader of them all. The heavy shipments to smelter has taken on a rather serious look and those who own big blocks of stocks are daily talking about visiting the property. The great possibilities of this mine are not taken seriously by many people. Remember on the 1,400-foot level they have hardly scratched the ground, no drifting has been done toward the Leonard and toward the High Ore. They are only working in the face of drifts and in crosscut.

We should easily develop into another Minnie Healy, and today the Butte-Alex Scott, with its wonderful showing on the 1,400-foot level stands in a class with some of the best producers in Butte, Mont. Only 100,000 shares issued and a mine that may earn $700,000.00 a year for stockholders. Is there any stock listed on the local exchange or elsewhere that can begin to compare with the Scott from present low point of view.

We have reasons for being proud of the Butte-Alex Scott proposition for in time it will be one of the biggest dividend earners ever floated in Duluth.

AMAZON-MONTANA—Look good: people back of it are very much enthused and they will make good in a big way.

ST. MARY'S—Should do better and showing at property should soon drive price of shares along. It is selling too low altogether.

Calumet & Montana, and Calumet & Corbin are due for an advance.

PRIVATE WIRES TO ALL MARKETS.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1910.

The market today showed first-class trading. Calumet & Montana and Calumet & Corbin were the features of the market. The following telegram was received from Mr. O'Leary, who is in Minneapolis at a meeting of the Calumet & Corbin directors: "Calumet & Corbin gets seven claims or 142 acres in Raedersburg district. Four claims right in line on vein. All perfect titles of these turned over to the company. Barker wires this morning—Mammoth vein seven feet between walls at bottom of shaft. Will average better than $14.00 per ton. Everything in fine shape and crowd here very enthusiastic." We want to say that this Calumet & Corbin, in our opinion is going to sell for much higher prices. The company taking over this new group of claims in the Raedersburg district, which is the district where the Keating Gold property is located, is an extremely big bull card for Calumet & Corbin. The company will from this time on be working two properties, one in the Calumet district and one in the Raedersburg district. Capt. James Wilcox of Michigan, who has been in charge of the Mass mine in the Copper country, has resigned his position as superintendent of the property and will devote his entire time from now on to developing both of the Calumet & Corbin properties in two producing mines. This stock is selling extremely cheap and will sell for much higher prices. Calumet & Montana remains strong and there are plenty of bids for this stock at all times. Red Warrior is traded at $2.87 and will sell for much higher prices without question. The property is being developed as rapidly as money can do it and is showing in magnificent shape. We advise the purchase of Live Oak on the present quiet market and know it will return handsome profits within the near future. A letter was received from Miller & Co., our New York correspondent, stating that the copper situation now is in the best shape it has been since 1906, and it also stated that copper consumption was gaining very rapidly. This, of course, is the greatest bull card that could possibly happen to copper.

FEBRUARY 16, 1910.

Butte, Mont.

M. W. LEE & CO., DULUTH, MINN:

Charlton and myself down Scott mine. Ore 15 feet wide in face, average 6 per cent, 65 feet length. Still drifting, just cut No. 4 ledge on foot wall, two feet high grade ore. Drills still in ore. Six cars on way to Pitsmont Smelter.

J. W. DAWSON.

The following message from Mr. Stone, superintendent of the Butte-Alex Scott mine corroborates the above message:

THOMAS MERRITT, Duluth, Minn.:

Returns first car Scott ore to Pittsmont Smelter, 19.6 per cent copper.

J. W. STONE, Supt.

If there was ever a question of the value of the Butte-Alex Scott mine this proves beyond a doubt that it has one of the richest pieces of ground in the Butte camp. Last spring the writer visited this property, spending considerable time under ground. Those who are familiar with my attendance at that time know that I was against the proposition for the very good reason that the company at that time was poorly managed, was not financed and the stock was selling above its intrinsic value on the showing of the mine, condition of management and finance at the time. Those who have followed the market on this issue now realize that I was right. As the full paid has sold from $18 down to the present quotation and the part paid from $12.50 to the present quotation. Conditions now are just reversed. The management is first-class, all the weak links have been eliminated and the chain is now continuous and strong. The company is well financed and since that have have shown up some of the biggest and richest ore deposits ever shown up in the Butte camp and the stock today is actually worth three times the price it was selling at nine months ago, which means that it is worth five times the price it is selling at today. With the present showing of the property and everything considered, we have no hesitancy in recommending the purchase of Butte-Alex Scott not only for investment but for speculative account, and we believe that such investments will show 500 per cent profit before the year is out. There is very little likelihood of there ever being a further call on the part paid stock as the mine is now on a self-sustaining basis and in the next three months should commence to lay up surplus for dividend accounts besides carrying on extensive development work.

SCORED AN EIGHT HEAD

Cassidy Rink of Winnipeg Accomplished Almost Impossible Feat.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jewelry class is reached in the McLaren event and today's games will put many rinks in a place where they will be sure of silverware, so that the games now are intensely interesting. Many notable games were played yesterday, but the sensation of the bonspiel is the continued winning of the Cassidy "Kid" rink of the Thistle club.

This combination went through yesterday again with four comparatively easy wins, the last one to fall before them being Brandon of the Thistles, who dropped out of the last open event at the same time. The Cassidy rink had the honor of scoring the first eight end of the bonspiel. When playing McMcMillan of Butte yesterday afternoon, the Thistle bunch achieved the feat which seldom occurs these days, owing to the smaller rings than were used a few years ago. Cassidy had to make a nice shot to make his last rock count. The continued cold weather is ideal from the curlers' standpoint, and the ice in all the rinks is in splendid condition, so that good play is the rule.

The following are the game played by the American rinks yesterday afternoon and this morning:

Dingwall cup—Cassidy, Thistle, 17; McMillan, Butte, 10.

McMillan cup—McDougall, Butte, 11; Black, Thistle, 10.

Caledonian — McMillan, Butte, 15; Hunter, Pipestone, 6; Hastings, Minneapolis, 12; Mateson, Russel, 11; Stocking, Duluth, 12; Slater, Vermilion, (default), 0.

LONG SCHEDULE FOR WESTERN

League Magnates Are Said to Favor the 168-Game Season.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Shortly before the Western league meeting was called today appeared to be a decided tendency among the club owners toward the adoption of the 168-game schedule. It is practically certain there will be no determined opposition to the longer season if the advocates of it make a decided stand.

It is expected that the Denver, Omaha and Lincoln clubs will favor either schedule, but preferably the longer one.

Several of the Western league club owners were in conference with the major league magnates during the morning and it is believed some promises of recruits at the end of the training season have been made by the American leaguers.

"BARREL" SMITH BACK IN DULUTH

Former Duluth Fighter Will Make His Home in Minneapolis.

Burrell Smith, pugilist, instructor of boxing and the gentle art of making a punching bag keep lively time to music, is in the city today, having come from the range. He is leaving for Minneapolis, where he intends making his home.

Burrell, or "Barrel," depending upon the social status and prosperity of the fighter, has had several fights upon the range. He fought fifteen rounds with Mique Brown, and according to the Smith version, the only reason he did not rock the newsboy king to sleep, was because of the fact that the Brown person has a very lively method of avoiding any real and serious fighting.

While on the range, the Duluth fighter conducted a boxing school. He has a fight on for Fargo and also some fights before one of the Montana clubs.

HEDGES DENIES RUMORED TRADE

Says George Stone and Bobby Wallace Will Stay With Browns.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Robert L. Hedges, president of the St. Louis Americans, denied today that he had any intention of trading Outfielder George Stone and Shortstop Bobby Wallace to Cleveland for Catcher Clarke and First Baseman Stovall. There has been a persistent report to that effect current about the hotel corridors and this is the first time Mr. Hedges has made a formal denial.

It is believed that many recruits of the American league teams have been promised to the minor leaguers, but they will probably not be turned over until after the training trips are completed.

Action of the National league in New York as to the length of schedule will have no effect on the American league. President B. B. Johnson of the latter organization said today that the American league would play 154 games.

RAILROADS

TRAINS ARE NOT DELAYED

Storm Does Not Interfere Greatly With Railroad Traffic.

The Duluth Roads Report But Few Trains Overdue.

With the storm conditions general throughout the West, railroad men last night predicted a serious tie-up in traffic. Duluth trains were only slightly delayed in reaching here.

The morning trains over the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific were about half an hour late, due to the storm conditions. The Northern Pacific was late in getting out of Minneapolis last night, but made up some of the time on the road.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic's train from the Soo, due here at 10:30 was about two hours late. Conditions were reported bad along the line of the South Shore, with a great quantity of snow through Michigan.

The Northwestern from Chicago pulled into Duluth an hour late this morning. Officials of the road expected that the train would be delayed for several hours. The 8:40 train was an hour late and the train due here at 12:50 reached the city about forty-five minutes behind its running time. The fast freight service of the Northwestern was nearly on time, despite the bad weather conditions. Officials of all the Duluth lines do no anticipate any further delay in train service.

BIG RUSH IS LOOKED FOR Canadian Pacific Officials Expect Immigration to Break Records.

J. M. Ferris of the Rutland railroad, with headquarters at Montreal, a visitor among railroad men today, brings the information that the Canadian Pacific and other railroads of Canada expect the biggest immigration and settlement business in the history of Canada, and that there is a prospect that the Canadian railroads may not be able to handle the immense amount of immigration which is looked for on the other side of the boundary.

Montreal is one of the big ports of entry for the immigration business of the Canadian Pacific. The Montreal officials of the Canadian Pacific have assurances that the present season will be the biggest in the history of that railroad company, according to Mr. Ferris.

Advices from Europe received by the agents of the Canadian Pacific, bear this view out, according to the statement of Mr. Ferris, and the government officials of Canada, as well as the railroad officials, look for a stream of immigration from Europe and the United States that will break the big records established when the first rush for land was made to Canada.

SAYS COL. SNELL WAS NOT SANE

Illinois Supreme Court Sustains Finding in Famous Will Contest.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 16.—That Col. Thomas Snell, the Clinton, Ill., multi-millionaire, was of unsound mind when he disinherited his son, Richard Snell, in favor of his grand-niece, Mabel Snell-McNamara, is the judgment of the Illinois supreme court in a decision handed down today. The decision is the outcome of three sensational trials in which many letters were read and the eccentricities of the aged Lothario were described.

On the first trial the jury disagreed, and on the second the supreme court reversed the finding. On the third the jury returned a verdict that Col. Snell was of unsound mind, and in this judgment the supreme court today concurred.

"SOME day you will advertise, but while you're puckering your brow, the competitor you most fear will do it. Then comes the disheartening fight, that always falls to the lot of the echo, the trailer, the 'me-to.'"

Advertising is the biggest problem of the commercial world. The commonest fallacy is the failure to concentrate, the scattering of fire, the awful waste of reaching everybody and convincing nobody, the use of all newspapers in the field, billboards, street cars, church programs, picnic programs, circulars, booklets and every known means of advertising.

As far as Duluth is concerned any advertiser who will concentrate in The Herald is certain of great success and at the smallest expenditure at which success is possible.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON'S CAREER IS EULOGIZED BY JUDGE STANTON

Beautiful Tribute to Memory of the Late Chief Executive.

His Character Will Leave Its Imprint on Future Generations.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The chief feature of the opening session here today of the annual meeting of the Minnesota State Editorial association was an address by Judge C. W. Stanton of Bemidji, former president, in eulogy of the late Governor John A. Johnson, also a former president of the association. Preceding Judge Stanton's address, the visitors were welcomed by Mayor James C. Haynes and H. A. Tuttle, president of the Commercial club, and President C. S. Edwards responded and also delivered his annual address. Judge Stanton spoke as follows:

Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of this association: In accepting the invitation of your president to address this association, in which I have for many years held and still retain membership, I was influenced by two considerations, both important to me. One consideration was the anticipated pleasure to myself of once more meeting and mingling with you at an annual gathering, and of renewing those

MADE ADDRESS TO THE STATE EDITORS

JUDGE C. W. STANTON.

DYING EMBEZZLER MAY BE RELEASED

Pennsylvania Pardon Board Would Restore Him to His Family.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 17.—When he awoke this morning in his cell in the Western penitentiary William S. Wortman, former teller of the Oakland Trust company, was notified that his release has been recommended by the pardon board because of his aged mother's plea that the son's death is near.

The circumstances revealed by the white-haired petitioner touched the hearts of the trust company directors, all of whom joined asking to have the young man made free to spend with his wife, babe and aged mother, the few remaining days he has to live. The recommendation will be transmitted to Governor Stuart at once.

Wortman is suffering from a cancer. He is under a five-year sentence for embezzlement.

Duluth Men Get Patents.

Washington, Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following patents were issued today: To Anton Heimbach and W. P. Heimbach of Duluth on a yielding hoof pad; to John N. McGibbon of Sauk Center, Minn., on a sieve cleaning device.

NO LIMIT TO BRIBE INQUIRY

Bars Are Being Let Down in State Senate Scandal at Albany.

Wainwright Resolution May Yet Be Carried Out, It Is Said.

Albany, New York, Feb. 17.—Limitations upon the investigation into the alleged corrupt use of money in the legislature nine years ago seem to be disappearing as the senate inquiry relative to the charge of Senator Benn Conger against Senator Jotham P. Allds progresses. Yesterday the name of a deceased assemblyman, Jean L. Burnett, was brought into the case by Senator Conger's testimony that Burnett was one to whom an envelope alleged to contain money was addressed in the division in which Allds is said to have shared.

Conger stated that Louis P. Bedell, at the time an assemblyman from New York county, also discussed the bridge building bill with him. Bedell, in New York last night, emphatically denied Conger's statement and declared an intention of coming to Albany to testify.

Opens Up Wide Field.

Bedell's attitude and the evident intention of Allds' counsel to force Conger to disclose names of other alleged recipients of the bridge company's bounty may easily force an inquiry such as is outlined in Senator Wainwright's resolution, which would make it possible to disclose corrupt practices in connection with state legislation for many years past.

REAL PERILS NOW PASSED

Roosevelt Party Has Reached Gondokoro After Dangerous Trips.

Ex-President Probably Will Be Met By His Wife at Khartum.

Gondokoro, Soudan on the Upper Nile, Feb. 17.—Col. Roosevelt, Kermit Roosevelt and the other members of the Smithsonian African scientific expedition arrived here today. All are well and enthusiastic over their experiences and the scientific results of their explorations.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt and the other hunters and scientists constituting the American expedition sent out by the Smithsonian Institute at Washington have now passed through the most trying stage of their perilous African journey, and from now on will be in close touch with the outside world. For the last ten days they have been practically isolated in a wilderness so forbidding to the white man that it has not been invaded by the telegraph companies, the only communication between scattered villages being by native runners.

The dangers of the march from Nimule are understood by those familiar with the dubious route, and to these the safe arrival at Gondokoro brings a feeling of relief. At Gondokoro a brick house has been placed at the disposal of Mr. Roosevelt.

At Khartum March 6.

In the town there are a few shops belonging to Greeks and Indians who have trading headquarters there. The steamboats owned by the Soudan government call once a month for passengers and mails.

The American party will embark on the Sirdar's launch, probably tomor-

Joseph Hainor Dies for the Murder of Farmer in Saskatchewan.

Regina, Sask., Feb. 17.—Joseph Hainor was hanged in the jail yard here today. Last night he confessed his guilt to Capt. The deed was committed near Yorkton, Sask.

Frazer came to Saskatchewan from Iowa, where he was known as a champion wing shot.

W. R. MACKENZIE, Chairman of Association.

Plans for Furthering Interests of Northern Minnesota Being Adopted.

"Bob" Dunn Urges Good Roads and Square Deal for Settlers.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Imbued with a determination to secure a just and equitable reapportionment for Northern Minnesota and to adopt plans for getting together on matters of mutual benefit, 200 representative men from thirteen counties gathered in Bemidji today to attend the first meeting of the recently organized Northern Minnesota Development association. A large number of delegates arrived in the city last evening, and during last night and this morning they discussed the preliminary plans for the convention. The St. Louis county contingent arrived this morning and were given a warm welcome. The utmost good nature and fellowship prevailed with everyone, as was evidenced by the extended hand and strong grip as the delegates recognized each other. W. R. Mackenzie, chairman of the Development association, who has done yeoman service in getting up the convention and arranging the details, was abroad before dawn and was personally supervising the working out of the details in connection with the convention. Mayor Pogue has issued a proclamation extending the freedom of the city to the

MORE BOMBS IN CHICAGO WARFARE

Underworld Leader Once More Victim of Attack By His Enemies.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Because of warfare between West side resorts, an attempt was made with a bomb today to wreck a three-story building belonging to one of the underworld leaders. The building is owned by Max Plummer, who leased it to Michael Heitler, both of whom figured prominently at the trial of Police Inspector Edward McCann.

This is the second bomb throwing in the underworld war, which has been waged ever since the conviction of the bluecoat official. The explosion today followed within a week the dynamiting of a building owned by Louis and Julius Frank, who also were important witnesses at the trial of McCann. No arrests have been made.

Minor Officials Under Fire.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—The federal grand jury continued its questioning of several minor officials from the National Packing company and Morris & Co., today in its investigation into the methods of the so-called beef trust.

FAVOR SOME TAFT BILLS

Washington, Feb. 17.—Arrangements having been made by Republican leaders of the senate to smooth out the creases in the administration plans for the enactment of postal savings bank legislation, stock is now being taken of other bills numbered among the Taft policies. So far as the senate is concerned, all of the administration bills appear to be in good condition except the federal incorporation measure and that to create a legislative council for Alaska.

That Senator Beveridge, who is sponsor for the Alaska bill, has agreed to allow it to be placed as "unfinished business' indicates that he is

WOMAN DIES AS HER STORE BURNS

Miss Martinke of St. Paul Falls Dead of Heart Failure.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Marie Martinke, aged 50 years, dropped dead from heart failure and seven persons were temporarily overcome by smoke in a fire early today, which wrecked the interior of a two-story brick building at 157 West Seventh street.

Miss Martinke escaped from her apartments over her millinery store, but when she saw the smoke and flames in her store she uttered a shriek, fell unconscious and died shortly afterward.

The financial loss from the fire was small.

TWELVE FIRED AT LAWRENCE

Appleton, Wis., Feb. 17.—Because they seized two members of the freshman class and compelled them to do the "snow dance" for the college co-eds, twelve students of Lawrence college were suspended today for a week. The freshmen were clad in pajamas, and after they had finished their gyrations in two feet of snow in front of the girls' dormitory, they were treated to a cold bath in the college gymnasium.

ANOTHER VOTE ON FRANCHISE

Cleveland Has Third Referendum in the Last Eighteen Months.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 17.—A vote, considered by the election board officials to be surprisingly heavy, turned out during the early hours today to pass upon the proposed street railway franchise and two bond issues.

Today's franchise referendum is the third in the last year and a half. The present ordinance provides for 3-cent fare, but an ultimately higher rate if necessary, although the company is limited to a 6 per cent earning upon the value of its property.

It is estimated that the total vote today will run about two-thirds of the normal vote. The bond issues provide for a new city hall and a high level bridge over the Cuyahoga river.

CITY IN NEED OF FIREMEN

Civil Service Examination Will Be Held at City Hall March 9.

New Engine and Turret Nozzle to Be Received Soon.

The eligible list has been exhausted and with the arrival of the big new engine about the middle of next month at least five new men will be needed to man it properly.

The force is not now short-handed, but unless the eligibles are secured it will be. As it is now, there are no substitutes who can be used in case any of the regulars are ill or disabled. To secure the needed men civil service examinations will be held at the council rooms of the city hall Wednesday morning, March 9. The last day for filing applications with the secretary at Room No. 6 in the city hall, is Feb. 28.

In addition to the new engine the department has a turret nozzle ordered which is expected in a short time. The nozzle is fastened to a base on wheels, enabling it to be moved from place to place. Streams from three lines of hose forced by engines are sent through the nozzle, throwing a powerful stream to great height. The department has such a nozzle and jointed hose, but it has to be worked from the ground, making it impossible to shift it from place to place without shutting off the water. This is what caused the hose to break and get away at the disastrous Michigan street fire last week.

The runaway hose caused the injuries to Fireman Jack Weld. He was hurt more seriously than was at first supposed. Later examination showed that he had sustained a very slight fracture of the skull. The injury received the best of medical attention and it is not expected that any ill effects will follow. He was taken to the hospital but was removed to his home a few days later and is now reported to be doing well.

TWO OFFICERS' WIVES SAID TO BE ON NINA.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 17.—The report was in circulation here today that the wives of two officers of the missing naval tug Nina, were aboard the vessel when she sailed from Hapmton Roads Feb. 6, for Boston. At the office of the commandant of the Norfolk navy yard it was stated that if such were the fact nothing was known of it, but that it was very unlikely.

TEN YEARS' TEST OF ECZEMA CURE

After a ten years' test, oil of wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription, has so thoroughly, so absolutely proven its merit for skin diseases, that we have arranged with the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago for a special offer on a 25-cent trial bottle.

We ourselves became convinced years ago. Cure after cure and the testimony of the world's leading skin specialists showed us that the way to cure the skin is through the skin, not, however, by means of a salve which always clogs the outer skin, but with a penetrating liquid that gets to the inner skin, killing the germs while soothing the healthy tissue.

The Oil of Wintergreen Compound, D. D. D. Prescription, penetrates while soothing the skin; and a 25-cent bottle—a good sized trial bottle—is now offered, besides the $1.00 bottles, in order to convince everybody. For this trial bottle ought to be enough to show the way to the cure, and at any rate the liquid the instant it is applied will take away that itch—yes, just as soon as the wash is applied, the skin is soothed and refreshed.

WAS REVERSED AT WASHINGTON

Local Engineers Reported in Favor of Deepening River Channel.

The Washington dispatch in which it was stated that the local United States engineers in charge of this district had reported adversely on the deepening of the channel of the St. Louis river to the new steel plant, was evidently the result of misinformation.

The facts are to the contrary. The local engineers recommended deepening the channel to a uniform depth of twenty-one feet. They believed that it was necessary and practicable and so stated in the report which was returned to the board of army engineers at Washington. The complete report will be found in Document No. 320 of the House of Representatives, second section, Sixty-first congress.

It appears that the board of army engineers asked the Steel corporation as to its plans, and with customary conservatism the answer was that the complete plans had not been decided upon. The evident conclusion was that nothing would be done by the government this year until it was certain that the plant would be erected, and the board of army engineers reported against the work being undertaken this year, in spite of Lieut. Col. Fitch's suggestion that at least a survey be made.

The necessary money was not allowed in the appropriation bill as passed by the house of representatives but an effort will be made to have it included when the bill reaches the senate. Congressman Miller is working on the matter and is hopeful that he will succeed in getting the needed appropriation this session.

The insurance men came here also to adjust the fire losses that were sustained in the fire at Two Harbors.

DUNN WANTS BIGGER TAX

Advocates Amendment to the State Constitution to Aid Road Fund.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert C. Dunn, former state auditor, addressing the State Editorial association at Minneapolis today advocated an extra session of the legislature to submit a constitutional amendment allowing a 1-mill tax for good roads. He said in part:

"To my mind, the most important problem that confronts the people of Minnesota at the present time is that of bettering our public highways. Under the 1906 constitutional mendments the legislature is authorized to levy a tax of one-fourth of 1 mill on all the taxable property within the state to add to the state road and bridge fund.

"A tax of 1 mill on a $1,200,000,000 valuation would produce a state road and bridge fund annually of $1,200,000. Is there anything unreasonable or impracticable in this proposition? Would a 1-mill tax be onerous? Surely a tax of 10 cents on each $100 worth of property, which is generally assessed at one-third of its value, would not be burdensome.

Richest Counties Pay Most.

"To be sure, the three large counties of St. Louis, Hennepin and Ramsey, where the population and wealth of the state is largely concentrated, would contribute more than 50 per cent of the entire fund. What of it? Large wealth should be taxed for the general good.

"I have not in view roads paved with granite blocks and macadamized roads. I have in mind roads properly drained and rounded off, wide enough for vehicles to pass each other without difficulty, with a top dressing of gravel or crushed rock wherever possible."

Papers Read.

Mr. Dunn's speech was followed by papers on "Counting the Cost in the Country Shop," by Frank B. Whitney, Marshall News-Messenger, and "Half Century Evolution in the Printing Craft," by David Ramaley, A. O. U. W. Guide, St. Paul.

Judge C. W. Stanton of the Fifteenth Judicial district delivered a eulogy on the late Governor John A. Johnson. The eulogy marked the closing of the morning session. At 1 o'clock the members took chartered cars for the agricultural school, where lunch was served by the management at 2 o'clock.

Tonight the Minneapolis Commercial club will tender a banquet to the editors at the Hotel Radisson.

County Option Sentiment.

That county option will be the real issue in the coming state campaign is the consensus of opinion among the editors. Speaking of Renville county, M. J. Dowling, at present a banker at Olivia, founder of the Renville Star-Farmer, a Republican, said of the Seventh congressional district:

"There is absolutely no question but that the Seventh district will go for county option. The temperance sentiment is growing rapidly and the candidates for office must decide one way or the other on this issue. Renville county itself is divided on the issue. We have a great many Scandinavians who are strong for county option."

"TRAMPS" ARE CHIEF CITIZENS

Clearing of East Coast of Nicaragua Means Great Changes.

Washington, Feb. 17.—When the east coast of Nicaragua is cleared of American tramps, as ordered by Gen. Estrada with approval of the American consul, that section of the country will lose some of its principal, if not oldest, inhabitants.

There are several hundred American "hoboes" in East coast who have been leading an Elysian existence. The life and character of the men are most picturesque, corresponding to that of the beach combers of the South Sea islands.

The tramps in Nicaragua represent many walks o flife—some broken adventurers, others fugitives from justice and some just "hoboes" who have drifted to the Nicaraguan coast, where life is said to be easier than it was in the Garden of Eden. Many have married native women, and the routine of a day's existence there consists of a little hunting, picking native fruits and nuts for food or raiding a plantation, and sleeping on the sands swept by the cooling tropical breezes at night.

If the provisional president has his way, however, the ideal life of a hobo will be no more in Nicaragua.

For Kidneys and Bladder

The following prescription is said to be the best obtainable for deranged kidneys, bladder or liver. Buy from any good druggist one-half ounce Murax compound in original sealed package, one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu, six ounces good, pure gin. Mix and take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal. (Be sure to get the genuine Murax compound in original sealed package.)

This prescription should be taken at first sign of kidney trouble, such as pains in the back, frequent or highly-colored urination, scalding urine, rheumatic pains in the joints, dimmed vision, puffiness under the eyes. This allows the kidneys to purify the blood properly and prevents chronic rheumatism, diabetes or dread Bright's disease.

Mr. Burns lost several very valuable papers in the flames.

cordial relations of friendship, formed in this association, which I have for many years valued. But the first and really controlling reason for my presence here today was the request that I should, in my address at this time, speak of and endeavor to pay just tribute to that greatly beloved and most conspicuously honored member of this association who has but recently been summoned to the great beyond.

Words Are Inadequate.

I am not unmindful of the fact that these veteran editors whom I observe here, as well as many others who have in more recent years become members of this association, have been so well and so intimately acquainted with our very distinguished and most sincerely lamented member that the most fervent words of eulogy that I can command, will fall far short of expressing their high esteem and affectionate regard for him; for it was in this association, surrounded by you whom I now address, encouraged by you, aided by you, admired and extolled by you, inspired to his best efforts by you, that the talented young editor from the Minnesota valley, grew, developed and matured until a discerning and intelligent public called him from his modest sanctum at St. Peter and made and continued to make him the chief executive of the great commonwealth of Minnesota.

His Growth and Development.

How well we remember the various periods of that growth and development; and what genuine pleasure it is to us now to recall them. You remember when, attracted by his pleasing personality and evident ability, soon after he engaged in newspaper work, we elected him secretary of this association; and then a year or two later, fully convinced of his ability and worth, how we honored him with the presidency. And you recall how proud we were of him as president, and how, during his incumbency of that office, he first attracted wide public attention, at the World's fair in Chicago, when, in the absence of Governor Nelson, he proudly and in eloquent words proclaimed the building there erected by the North Star state duly and appropriately dedicated. And, you know, as I do, that always, during the succeeding years, at nearly every meeting of this association, he was present and added to the interest of every session by participating in the debates and expressing his views upon every important matter; and that upon these occasions we were always benefited by his store of good common sense, entertained by his ready wit and brilliant oratory, and impressed by his example of courtesy, fairness and good fellowship. And upon our annual excursions and frequent occasions of festivity, how delighted we were to have him with us and how deeply we regretted his absence, which was infrequent. With what pride and confidence we would call upon him upon every occasion to represent the Minnesota Editorial association on the platform or in the banquet hall! We always knew that he would "make good" in whatever class of company he was placed and he always did.

A Loss to All.

And so, at this time, addressing those from every section of the state who knew him as I know him, who admired him as I admired him and who loved him as I loved him, I am not only keenly conscious of my inability to select proper words of eulogy, but I am more than ever before impressed with the thought, that, though in the rush and whirl of this busy world of ours, the removal of any man, no matter how commanding his intellect, how correct his morals, or conspicuous his station, creates but a ripple upon the current, and the tide of human affairs sweeps onward with no perceptible change in its course, yet, sometimes a person disappears whose absence is so keenly felt that it seems to leave that segment of the world in which he lived and moved, cold and desolate—a less desirable place for friends and associates. Such a loss, the state he adorned, this association which esteemed him, the friends who loved him, have sustained in the death of John A. Johnson.

His Life His Eulogy.

He needs no eulogy but the truth. No words of exaggeration, nor pictures that are overdrawn, need be called into use in speaking of him, neither is there the slightest reason to leave out the recital of a single act of his life, public or private. Among the illustrious men of the great state of Minnesota none have or ever will have a warmer place in the hearts of the people. Born here, he grew up with the state, knew its every resource and its every need and kept constantly abreast of the age in which he lived. He was an intelligent observer of men and things and his knowledge of affairs was extensive and practical.

He seemed to possess those high characteristics which combined to render him capable of grasping and of successfully dealing with every situation which arose and of always doing the right thing at the right time. He never disappointed his friends, and as one public act after another, each meriting and receiving popular approval, added to his renown, it became difficult, if not impossible, to find within the great state of Minnesota a single person who did not believe that the highest official honor within the power of the American people to bestow would confer only well-won recognition and just appreciation upon him.

Why His Phenomenal Rise?

How do you explain the phenomenal rise of this young man of humble birth? Why did he hold in such marked degree the confidence and affection of the people? Why have the testimonials of grief for his early death and of praise for his achievements, so exceeded those ever paid to the memory of a citizen of Minnesota? The time allotted to me today is much too brief in which to answer these questions as I would like to do, or to picture our friend and companion as he really was. We cannot think of him at all without recalling his cheerful greeting, his genial disposition, his kind expression, his alert mentality, his active sympathies, his unflinching courage, his uncompromising devotion to duty, and his reverence for the right.

No man ever questioned the purity of his intentions or his unswerving integrity of purpose. Even when his judgment led him to oppose the will of the people as expressed by a majority of the members of the legislature, as he did in that notable instance when he vetoed the tonnage tax bill, his absolute honesty of purpose was not for one moment questioned or doubted, and instead of being censured, he was applauded for his fearlessness and complimented for the unanswerable reasons which he gave for his conclusion.

True in His Friendships.

Honorable and upright in his conduct, generous and broad in his sympathies, unselfish and sincere in his feelings, he was true and faithful in his friendships. His tastes were simple, his manner unaffected; he was approachable by all. His understanding was comprehensive and clear, his judgment sound and accurate. With a sacred regard for individual rights, without respect of persons, he always sought the right and justice of every matter in which he was called upon to act.

Perhaps this brief reference to his high character is sufficient answer to such inquires—probably no other reasons need be given to account for his extraordinary public preferment; but I cannot content myself with only this, when so much is in my mind which proves and emphasizes that already said, and which will serve to record a just estimation of an honest, true and faithful public servant. A higher type of real manhood, a better citizen, or a more genuine and lovable friend I never knew. There was no base alloy in his nature. His hands were clean, his heart was pure. He had no enemies but such as good men must expect.

By his life he showed his belief in that sacred fundamental truth, that the greatest good of the greatest number is the proper foundation of morals, legislation and political action. While he recognized the fact that the best interests of society and of every class require, and that it is the duty of the state to see to it, that there be rendered to Caesar the things that are Caesar's—that the person and property of every citizen, irrespective of his wealth or rank, be sacredly protected at all hazards—he never forgot that the protection of the poor, the weak and the defenseless, is the first duty of the state. He sincerely sympathized with and prized the classes who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. Nothing aroused him quicker than an attempt to oppress or wrong them, excited his contempt more than a word or act intended to belittle them.

The Miners' Strike.

A great industrial disturbance in the state during his administration was settled without bloodshed because he visited the scene of the trouble personally and convinced the strikers that he would put down disorder, and the employers that the military power of the state could not be used for private purposes. Judge Thomas D. O'Brien, who was later sent as one of a commission to investigate the situation, recently stated that in his private and confidential instructions to that commission, Governor Johnson said: "If possible, I want to avoid calling out the militia, but if a single life should be imperiled because of the failure on my part to afford proper protection, disregard every political consideration and make your recommendations as to future action solely with regard to what is right."

His sympathy for the poor and suffering was boundless, and yet the chief justice of this state has often connected him for his firmness and candor in the performance of his duties upon the board of pardons.

The word "honest" as applied to the high executive office of the governor of a state means more than when used in the ordinary transactions of life. To be an honest and good governor a man must, in many matters of a judicial nature, be devoid of pride of opinion, must disregard either popular approval or condemnation, and must, for the time, forgot all enmities and friendships, and also himself, which condition of mind is above the reach of the ordinary man. David Dudley Field, in one of his addresses, did not exaggerate, when he said: "To have the power of forgetting, for the time, self, friends, interests, relationship, and to think of doing right toward another, a stranger, an enemy perhaps, is to have that which man can share only with the angels and with Him who is above men and angels." Measured by even this high standard Governor John A. Johnson was not found wanting, as the record of his unparalled administration will verify.

A Beautiful Tribute.

Here I want to borrow the language of a beautiful tribute recently paid an eminent citizen of this state. It is this: "In this rushing, grasping, sordid age of materialism in which we live, it is refreshing and inspiring to contemplate the life and character of one whose gaze was fixed on higher things than the mere acquirement of wealth and honor; whose ears were open to more harmonious sounds and nobler strains than the din and turmoil of selfish achievements; whose voice was heard in gentler tones and sweeter accents than the fierce cry of personal victory; whose heart throbbed with warmer impulses and more embracing motives than earthly gain; whose soul yearned for higher achievement and more enduring fame than mere success or passing applause; whose life was actuated by manlier ambition and truer purpose than social distinction or personal renown."

It is such a life and character that the memory of John A. Johnson reflects. Gentle, kind, modest, considerate, sympathetic, helpful, and yet strong, firm for the right, persistent in duty, unyielding in principle; in every fibre of his being, in every emotion of his heart, in every impulse of his soul, a shining example of God's most exalted handiwork, a noble man.

He Was an Optimist.

A friend has said of him that he was first of all an optimist, believing and trusting in the future, loving his country and its institutions; and that his favorite topic was the boundless opportunities which America presents to the industrious and the alert. Himself one of the nation's most conspicuous examples of the possibilities here afforded to the youth of the land to overcome the obstacles of poverty and adversity and to rise unaided to the zenith of success, he believed that the standing of the individual depended entirely upon the conduct and efforts of the individual himself, and he never tired of encouraging and admonishing young men and women to be diligent, painstaking and honorable; and of giving them assurance that in this grand republic, true merit is certain to attain its just reward.

Well may we link his name with that of Lincoln, both from he common people, for in their lives and in the traits of character which endeared them to the masses, we find much that was alike and when we think of him in comparison with men who are in the public mind today, we instinctively rank him with such men as Roosevelt and Hughes, while those who knew him intimately believed that he possessed the sincerity, the ability and the sagacity of both. It is not surprising that he had many admirers outside the state of Minneseta and that he was fast coming into prominence as a national character, for wherever he went he elicited admiration and favorable comment by his public utterances; and as he met men of every station in life, from the humblest to the most exalted, his innate frankness, his sturdy honesty, his charming personality, captivated each in turn.

A Characteristic Act.

Trivial and unimportant acts often reveal praiseworthy traits of the human character even better than large events. This thought brings to my recollection the last time that I saw him. It was in he afternoon of Editor's day at the state fair last September, and only four days before he went to submit himself to the inevitable surgical operation at Rochester. I met the governor at he Editorial association building, and while we were visiting with Granville Pease, the editor in charge, we became interested in a cheap but novel toy, by the operation of which a representation of soap bubbles could be produced. Observing that there were eight or ten boxes, containing several hundred of these toys, on hand, the governor inquired why they were not given to the children, whereupon Mr. Pease told him to distribute them if he wanted to, and the governor immediately proceeded to take box after box out into the reception room and upon the front balcony and to give them to the delighted children who came rushing from every direction to receive them. He enjoyed the occasion thoroughly and remarked that when a few imitation bubbles could make so many children happy he was glad to be able to distribute them. A trifling incident, it is true, but one which serves to illustrate the thoughtfulness, the kindliness and the big heartedness of our good friend.

A Lasting Monument.

An imposing monument is to be erected to his memory. It is to be a costly structure, a large part of the fund for which has been lovingly contributed by the school children of this state, to whom the governor was the model of manly excellence. We rejoice that this is to be done and we want it to be built of the most lasting and enduring materials, so that it may long perpetuate his name and the memory of his participation in the affairs of our great state. Time, though, and the elements of nature, will, we know, eventually crumble it into dust. But not so with his character. That will live on and on forever, having its effect and leaving its imprint on each succeeding generation, always rising higher and higher.

And now my friends, in conclusion, I can only add that I sincerely wish that I could command the language to pay to his memory the tribute that I deem fitting and complete. This I cannot do. But I know that I am expressing the thought of every member of this association and of thousands of people throughout the state of Minnesota when I say that in contemplating the death of John A. Johnson an overwhelming sense of my personal loss comes over me and fills me with profound regret. I know of no sincerer compliment that the living pay the dead than their sorrow; and with all my heart I mourn the death of John A. Johnson and wish that he was still living. There was, there is, there can be, no simpler, gentler, manlier man.

Granite Falls Murder Trial.

Granite Falls, Minn., Feb. 17.—The case of the State vs. Frank Novak, alias John F. Ruth, charged with murdering James Granville, began in this city Tuesday. Novak was indicted for murder in the second degree by the grand jury, Jan. 11, and pleaded not guilty.

The crime he is charged with is a brutal one.

MINNEAPOLIS TYPHOID IS BECOMING EPIDEMIC.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 17.—With a view toward checking the spread of the epidemic of typhoid, the health board, city council and waterworks board have decided to erect a disinfecting plant on the Mississippi river above the city.

There are 600 cases of typhoid in Minneapolis. The cause of the epidemic is the water from the city waterworks system, which draws its supply from the river.

DR. J. W. FULLER.

A FAMILY, or domestic, medicine is a medicine compounded in such a way that people who know little or nothing of drugs can use it without the advice of a physician.

That family medicine is a necessity no argument is needed to convince any thoughtful person.

There is nothing to prevent competent physicians from uniting and agreeing as to what compounds best meet the general necessities, and supply them with proper directions for use, saving not only the expense, but annoyance, of a separate visit from a physician for every little ill for which a few doses of medicine are useful.

The family medicine is a fixture of modern civilization, filling as legitimate and necessary a place in the world as any product of skill and labor.

We do not recommend Peruna as a cure-all. We do, however, believe that it is a very useful remedy for catarrh in all forms and phases. We do not ask the public to believe our statements unless backed up by evidence from those who have used it.

Now Perfectly Healthy.

Mrs. Magdalena Winkler, Route 5, Westminster, Md., writes:

"I thank you very much for your advice. I can safely say that Peruna and Manalin have saved my life.

"When I wrote to you the first time, asking you advice, my condition was so poor that I did not expect to live through the winter, but now I am perfectly healthy.

"I cannot praise your medicine enough, and I recommend it to others."

Peruna Restored Health.

Mr. C. A. Reustrom, 2317 Wash. Ave., Ogden Utah, writes: "Your medicine, Peruna, has completely cured me of a long-standing case of catarrh.

"I suffered untold agony, but today I feel as spry as any one, with more ambition and confidence in myself than I have enjoyed for years. All my friends say I look better than ever before.

"Your Peruna is the greatest tonic and builder for a broken-down constitution arising from that dreadful disease, catarrh."

Bad Case of Cystitis.

Miss Mattie McArthur, care of Hospital, Medical Lake, Wash., writes:

"I have not written to you for some time, but, oh, I have given you many words of praise. I am so well.

"I had cystitis very badly, and could not walk any distance without suffering intense pain, but I do not have a touch of my old suffering now.

"I can never praise Peruna enough. I am telling every one how much good Peruna has done for me."

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mrs. Mary Depper, La Crosse, Wis., writes: "I cannot too highly recommend your preparation for the relief of catarrhal troubles in various forms.

"I can truly recommend Peruna as the best remedy for catarrh of the stomach. You advised a treatment which I took until I felt well again. I was glad to know of something which would relieve me, and in a little over three months Peruna had successfully rid my system of all traces of catarrh.

"I therefore take great pleasure in wishing you every success."

Catarrh of Throat.

Mrs. Charles Atkinson, Pine City, Minn., writes that she had catarrh of the throat for nearly three months, and used different medicines to no purpose. A friend advised Peruna, and after taking two bottles she was cured.

Chronic Constipation Entirely Relieved.

William Eckert, Auctioneer and Salesman, 273 N. 18th St., Columbus, Ohio.

"I have been afflicted with chronic constipation for twenty-five years. Naturally, I have consulted a great many physicians, and taken many kinds of physic. All this seemed to help a little, but my constipation would come back as soon as I quit taking the stuff.

"About six months ago I was feeling badly and concluded to use Peruna as a tonic. To my surprise, before I had finished the first bottle of Peruna I noted that my bowels were moving regularly, without any physic.

"From that time to this my constipation has disappeared. Although it has been some time since I have taken any Peruna, still my bowels remain regular. I can truthfully say that for twenty-five years my bowels have not been regular except when using some laxative or physic until now.

"Peruna has done the work for me. It has not only built me up, made me feel strong again, but it has cured me of chronic constipation, an affliction which I had been unable to get rid of.

"For ten years the only way I could get my bowels to move was either to take a physic or to take an injection of hot water. It is of untold value to me to be able to say that my bowels are perfectly regular. Although I have ceased taking Peruna they still continue to be so."

Catarrh of Long Standing.

Mrs. M. A. Theatro, member Rebecca Lodge, Iola Lodge; also member of Women's Relief Corps, writes the following from 1838 Jackson St., Minneapolis, Minn.:

"As a remedy for catarrh I can cheerfully recommend Peruna.

"I have been troubled with chronic catarrh for over six years. I had tried several remedies without relief.

"A lodge friend advised me to try Peruna, and I began to use it faithfully before each meal. Since then I have always kept it in the house.

"I am now in better health than I have been in over twenty years, and I feel sure my catarrh is permanently cured."

Catarrh of Head and Throat.

Mr. Charles Levy, 80 Allen St., New York, N. Y., writes: "I am very glad to tell you of the cures wrought by Peruna in my family.

"My son, aged seven, who had catarrh of the nose, was cured by two bottles of Peruna, and I had catarrh of the head, nose, throat and ears. One bottle of Peruna cured me."

Chronic Catarrh of Head.

Dr. J. W. Fuller, Scientific Optician, 203 North Main St., Los Angeles, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with catarrh of the head for many years. It affected my sense of smell, hearing and sight.

"I spent lots of money with doctors and the use of local applications to relieve me, but to no purpose, until my attention was called to the wonderful effects of Peruna.

"I must say that I met with most surprising and satisfactory results. Peruna took hold of the complaint and drove it entirely out of my system.

"Although well along toward the alloted span of man's life, I am pleased as a child over the results, and feel like a young man again."

Head and Lungs.

Mr. William E. Gullette, Main St., Xenia, Ohio, writes: "After being sick for six or seven years I am more than glad to say that Peruna is better than any medicine I have ever taken.

"In the past twelve months it has cured me sound and well of catarrh of the head and lungs in its worst stage.

"I can recommend it to all of the world as being one of the best medicines on earth."

Chronic catarrh is a disease which is very prevalent. Peruna is a remedy for chronic catarrh, and is an immense saving to the people.

The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla works like a charm in dyspepsia is well-known by thousands of people. Miss Clara A. Dearborn, Tilton, N. H., writes:

Harmon Declares Aeroplanes Would Make Invasion Impossible.

New York, Feb. 17.—"With twenty such master navigators of the air as the Wright brothers, Paulhan, Curtiss and Hamilton," said Clifford B. Harmon, pilot of the Aero Club of America, "the United States need fear the approach of no hostile fleet. An aeroplane can carry enough explosives to blow a fleet to pieces—even a fleet of dreadnoughts."

Harmon owns the spherical balloon New York and holds the American record for length of time spent continually in the air. With Harmon at the levers the New York stayed in the air 48 hours and 28 minutes. He left today for San Antonio, Tex., where the New York now is to go after the Lahm cup and the world's record for continuous flying.

COLD SNAP CONTINUES

Wave Will Probably Not Pass Duluth Until Saturday.

Duluth is entertaining a real cold snap, the end of which is not yet in sight. Furs and ear coverings are in demand, for the air is dry and cold and one doesn't have to walk far to feel the bite of the frost.

The coldest temperature recorded thus far during the snap is 18 deg. below zero, which occurred yesterday morning about 8 o'clock. This morning, the coldest was 16 deg. below at 7 o'clock.

The snap is letting up a little today and at noon the mercury stood at 1 below. Tonight, however, its vigor will return and the temperature will probably be the lowest of the winter. The weather man offers the prediction that 20 deg. below zero will be registered.

Edmonton, away up in Canada, has been about the coldest place on the map during the present snap. This morning 34 deg. below zero was recorded there and yesterday morning it was 30 deg. below.

The weather will remain clear and cold in Duluth tonight and tomorrow and it is expected that tomorrow night the end of the cold wave will be here. By Saturday, Duluth will probably have shaken off the snap and normal conditions will return.

HOARSE COUGHS, STUFFY COLDS, pain in chest and sore lungs, are symptoms that quickly develop into a dangerous illness if the cold is not cured. Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough, heals and eases the congested parts, and brings quick relief. Sold by all druggists

E. A. SILBERSTEIN BACK FROM EAST

Says Outlook Is Very Bright for a Prosperous Year.

E. A. Silberstein returned from his Eastern buying trip yesterday, completing his purchases of early spring fashions in women's wear. He found business men in general very optimistic and everybody predicting a prosperous year ahead. Conditions in New York were never so sound, and New York is always the keynote in matters financial.

For his own store Mr. Silberstein reports having inspected and bought a magnificent line of novelties in women's coats, suits and dresses. Early in the season there promised to be some uncertainty as to the trend of styles, but Mr. Silberstein says that doubt is now eliminated and that his store will show absolutely authoritative and correct styles, as displayed by the most important manufacturers catering to women's trade.

A feature of Mr. Silberstein's visit to the market this spring was the increasing number of special orders from patrons of the store, which he was commissioned to execute according to his own taste and discretion. This confidence in the correctness of this store's judgment of the market is but one phase of the noteworthy place it occupies in the public esteem in this city.

Mr. Silberstein told the Herald of many new features which will be shown first by his firm and in many instances will not be shown elsewhere. Among those may be mentioned the new chiffon overdrapes and voiges intended to be worn over silk and lingerie dresses; also the new opera drapes of lace and chiffon: lined and unlined intended to take the place of the conventional evening cape. These were a noteworthy feature of grand opera in New York this winter, and have only just come to be accepted in the West.

Mr. Silberstein laid considerable stress upon the necessity of matching up waist with skirt and in fact introducing as far as possible a monotone throughout one's apparel. Chiffon waists will be of the exact shade of skirt or suit. The predominant colors for the coming season, according to Mr. Silberstein, seem to be the new blues, and next in order natural and tans. Helios and lavenders, and in quick succession, mullen green, cedar, possum, saffron and chicory.

In its tailored lines of suits this firm proposes introducing an important innovation in the way of a department devoted to stout and elderly women; for whom suits of special proportions have been constructed. This is the first firm to take up this much neede feature, and it will be duly appreciated by women whose figures come with the class referred to, and who heretofore have been unable to obtain a finely tailored suit in a ready-to-wear store.

The firm also intends to specialize on little women's suits, the great and growing demand for which it has hitherto been very difficult to cater to. These, in addition to regular sizes and proportions, will make the stocks of this firm as complete as can be found in any large city in the country.

Mr. Silberstein expresses himself as glad to be back among Duluthians and to get into harness again.

HOG PRICES BOOMING.

Sales in Chicago Are Made at $9.40 Per Hundred Weight.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Live hogs at the stock yards today touched a record price unequalled since 1870, selling at $9.40 a hundred weight. Continued light receipts of animals for several months at the packing centers and reports of a scarcity of hogs on the farms called out prophesies that $10 mark touched in 1870 may be reached again soon. Until today the record hog price for forty years was $9.35, made in 1882. Wartime prices for hogs in 1865 were $13.25.

BIG RUSH IS EXPECTED

Soo Passenger Agent Says Canadian Immigration Will Break Record.

Many of the Settlers Will Pass Through Duluth Gateway.

Harry Lewis, assistant general passenger agent of the Soo, is in Duluth today looking over the passenger situation at the Head of the Lakes, as well as getting in closer touch with the growing business of the Duluth office of the Soo.

Mr. Lewis stated today that the Soo had this year received to date the greatest number of inquiries that the company had ever received in a similar period, in regard to rates to Canada. These inquiries come from Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois and Kansas, and are from farmers who are going to Canada the coming spring.

According to Mr. Lewis, many of these seekers after new homes will go to Canada by the Duluth gateway, and he is positive that this spring Duluth will have the biggest passenger business that has ever passed through the gateway at the Head of the Lakes.

"The Canadian Pacific has inaugurated a scheme whereby homeseekers with comparatively little money can obtain farms upon the installment plan," said Mr. Lewis. "The Canadian Pacific Railroad company turns the farm over to the immigrant and allows him to pay a certain sum in installments, this money to apply on the purchase price. When the man has paid the original cost of the land it belongs to him.

"From the great number of inquiries that have come to the passenger department of the Soo and from the advices we have received from the land and immigration department of the Canadian Pacific railroad, it seems certain that the present season will see the greatest land rush in the history of the Dominion. The big crops of last year resulted in causing many Americans to decide to purchase land on the other side of the boundary line.

"The Americans who are going to the other side, however, are the class of men who do not have to take advantage of the offer made by the Canadian Pacific. The Americans who are going to Canada, are men who are amply provided with the world's goods and are going to Canada because they believe it is one of the best farming countries in the world.

"It looks as if the present season will see a wonderful, almost startling growth and development in Western Canada. This growth can only result in placing Western Canada in closer touch with the United States, for many of the settlers who are doing so much to develop the country, are Americans. The sympathies of the two countries are becoming closer, as a result of the vast immigration from this side of the boundary."

TYPHOID VICTIM TO BE WITNESS

Lucy Swope Sought By Both the Grand Jury and Dr. Hyde's Lawyers.

Kansas City, Kan., Feb. 17.—Sharp legal clashes seemed imminent when the attorneys interested in the Swope mystery resumed activity today.

Miss Lucy Lee Swope, who was taken ill with typhoid fever soon after her arrival home from New York in company with Dr. Hyde last fall, was one cause for contention. Her testimony was sought by the grand jury and Hyde's attorneys.

How Chessing Hatred Chase Jordan, a negro man of Kansas City, Kan., who advertises himself as "minister of medicines," "medical doctor" and "doctor of liver and gall stones," and "administerer of herb remedies" compounded by himself, obtained from $10,000 to $20,000 in about eight years for doctoring members of the Swope family, was told by the "doctor" yesterday.

He was called to give a deposition in the slander case brought by Dr. B. C. Hyde against John G. Paxton, executor for the Swope estate.

Accused by Hyde's Wife.

The "doctor's" name was first brought into the Swope case when Mrs. B. C. Hyde issued a statement expressing confidence in her husband's innocence and saying that Chrisman Swope used Jordan's remedies.

Jordan testified that his medicines were harmless "yarbs," as he called them. He said they were compounded from roots and herbs obtained in foreign countries and dug in the woods in this vicinity.

"But how could you tell whether these herbs were poisons or not?" Attorney F. P. Walsh asked him.

"Why that's easy," replied Jordan. "I'd chew them. If they didn't hurt me, certainly they weren't poisonous and certainly they wouldn't hurt my patients."

The herb man claims to be a South American.

CLAIM SLAYER SHOULD GO FREE

Lawyers Make Plea Under New Decision of Illinois Court.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—The first attempt to procure freedom by a prisoner in the Joliet penitentiary, following the declaration of the unconstitutionality of the parole law of 1899 by the Illinois supreme court, was made today. Lawyers on behalf of George Heller, who was sentenced to an indeterminate term for manslaughter under the act of 1899, presented a petition for a writ of habeas corpus based on the decision of the supreme court.

The petition sets forth that an indeterminate sentence for manslaughter is unconstitutional under the new ruling. The law of 1895 did not allow an indeterminate sentence for that offense. The petition contends that as Heller was sentenced to no definite term by the jury he is entitled to his freedom.

END INQUIRY AS TO TELEPHONES

Plaintiffs Rest Case and Defense Says It Has Nothing to Offer.

New York, Feb. 17.—The inquiry, in which considerable testimony has been taken here, relative to J. P. Morgan & Co.'s purchase of Ohio and Indiana telephone lines, came to an abrupt end today. Counsel for minority stockholders, who are contesting the purchase on the ground that the Morgan house was in reality acting for the Bell interests, notified the Bell attorneys here that the contestants had taken all the depositions deemed necessary and that unless the other side had testimony to offer there would be no further hearing in this city.

The case was adjourned last week until today, when two prominent witnesses, Henry P. Davison of Morgan & Co., and Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company, were scheduled to testify.

Counsel for the Bell interests said today that the defense had no testimony to present at this time. The next move in the case would have to come from the plaintiffs, the Bell representatives stated.

Diplomatic Bill In Senate.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, which passed the house last week, was taken up by the senate today. The house applied itself to the disposal of business relating to the District of Columbia, this having, by special order, been designated as "District day."

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Trial of "Madam" Gain Attracts Large Crowd to Court Room.

Officers Tell of Raid on Alleged Resort Saturday Night.

"Madam" Gain, proprietress of the "Hotel de Palace," who was placed on trial in police court this morning, charged with conducting an immoral house, attracted an unusually large crowd. Every seat back of the railing was packed, and many were standing with outstretched necks to drink in every word of the testimony.

The place was raided by a detail from headquarters after midnight Saturday, entrance being gained by battering down the doors. The squad was armed with a warrant sworn out on evidence previously obtained by two men in the employ of the department.

Five men, three women and the proprietress were found in the house. One of the men, Arthur Carlson, and the women were taken to the station on statutory charges. The women gave their names as Belle White, Mona Thompson and Hattie Young. All of them entered pleas of not guilty and their attorney stated this morning that he had demanded a separate trial for each of them.

The only new feature brought out at the trial this morning was the failure of the greyhound of the department, the fleet-footed Detective Irvine, to land two men, who jumped through the window of the madam's sitting room. It wasn't because he had lost any of his fleetness, but because an innocent step was in the way. He saw the couple drop to the ground and called to them to stop. They refused, and started down the street. Irvine took after them, but hadn't gotten up a good head of steam when the step intervened. He didn't know it was there and the sidewalk came up suddenly to meet him. The midnight revelers didn't come back to inquire whether or not he had hurt himself, but made good their escape.

The police officers told of getting into the place and being asked if they wanted a room, adding that advances were made to them which indicated that the "hotel" might not be a hotel in the proper sense of the word.

The raiders told of finding the pair of slippers peeping from under the bed and the production of the girl who had been hiding there. She seemed quite abashed when Detective Schulte, who made the discovery, pointed her out to the court.

The dire effects of imbibing considerable quantities of firewater were pointed out in the grist this morning by Judge Windom. He told Emil Mork, who pleaded guilty to cruelty to animals, that whisky made a brute out of him, and stated to Albert Dryer that booze evidently made a thief out of him. Mork was accused of leaving a load of calves out in the cold yesterday afternoon. It apeared that an officer had hunted him from saloon to saloon for nearly an hour and a half, and that he refused to take care of the animals. He was fined $25 and costs. Dryer admitted taking a watch from Frank Reardon. When he was arrested he denied having the Ingersoll, but a search revealed it in his underclothes. He got $25 and costs or thirty days in the county jail.

• • •

John Donovan, arrested for being drunk, forgot to make his usual "spiel" to the judge this morning. Probably he thought a few days' lodging under the care of the sheriff might be a good thing these cold days. Donovan also looked tougher than he has most of the time in the past. He admitted his guilt and went over the hill for ten days.

* * *

Irving Clement and Oliver Giroux, arrested for visiting a house of ill fame, pleaded guilty to another statutory charge yesterday afternoon. They were taken into custody when they complained to the police that they had been robbed in a shack on Railroad street by Harriet Hamm. The main reason for their arrest was that the police wanted to retain them for witnesses. The Hamm woman pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon and was fined $100 and costs or sixty days. She didn't have the cash and was taken over the hill. The men were given suspended sentences.

* * *

Marie Meyers, charged with conducting a house of ill fame, pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs, which she paid. The police reported that she had three women in the place when the evidence against her was obtained. When they arrested her Monday morning the women had gone. The only occupants beside herself were some pet dogs of a fancy breed.

* * *

Charles Olin was arrested on a warrant sworn out by his wife charging him with non-support. He entered a plea of not guilty and his trial was set for next Monday. Bail was fixed at $100, which he was unable to furnish. Olin is known to the police, having been arrested before.

* * *

The others in the grist were charged with being plain drunks and got off with the minimum, $3 or three days.

* * *

The frosty nights are driving many lodgers into the station. More have been cared for the last two or three nights than any other night this winter.

a. "Ave Maria" .... Owen
b. "Les Preludes" symphonic poem. No. 2 .... Liszt

The program commences with a beautiful sacred song which for beauty and dignity approaches the celebrated "Jerusalem" and ends with Liszt's great composition, "Les Preludes," a symphonic poem, or rather the expression in music of a poem this time Tasso's "Lament and Triumph." The music in its present form was published in 1854. The two different moods are plainly indicated by the music.

After the first instrumental organ selection is an overture by the Hungarian composer, Albert von Keler, better known as Keler-Bela, as a companion to this one he has composed an overture comique. No. 3 consists of the four movements of one of Beethoven's best known and most tuneful compositions. The "Ave Maria" is a beuatiful, tender, pathetic composition.

Miss Jean Wanless, who will be the soloist is a Duluth young woman and promises well. She will make her concert debut in some splendid selections.

BOMB EMPHASIZES DEMAND FOR MONEY

New York Man Is Given a Sample of What Will Happen to Him.

New York, Feb. 17.—The explosion of a dynamite bomb in the doorway of the house in Jamaica owned by Oscar Catanzaro, a wealthy merchant, threw the neighborhood into a panic today and knocked down and stunned a policeman who was passing. The officer was picked up unconscious but soon recovered.

Catanzaro had received several threatening letters recently in which Black Handers demanded $1,000. He had informed the police, but refused to turn over the letters so that they could trace the senders. The bomb explosion today is believed to have been another warning of what Catanzaro might expect if he did not produce the money.

The explosion did little damage to the building.

HOLMAN IS SUSPENDED

Announcement Is Made on Floor of Duluth Stock Exchange.

Has Ten Days in Which to File His Schedule of Liabilities.

The suspension of W. J. Holman of the brokerage firm of Holman Bros., & Co., with offices at 508 Palladio building was announced on the floor of the Duluth stock exchange this morning.

Complaint was made by several members that contracts with Holman Bros. & Co. had not been fulfilled and the suspension followed.

According to the rules of the exchange a schedule of liabilities is required within ten days after a suspension and it is expected that such a schedule will be filed. The unfulfilled contracts are of recent date.

W. J. Holman said to The Evening Herald that the firm's difficulties will be adjusted satisfactorily within a few days, and that the settlement of unfilled and disputed contracts would act automatically as a reinstatement of the suspended member of the company.

"All trades will be taken care of," said Mr. Holman. "Our firm is not going out of business. Our liabilities will be taken care of, but we need a few days in which to straighten our tangle. A satisfactory settlement of our trades will act as a reinstatement of our suspended member on the Duluth stock exchange. We intend to continue in business with the same energy as in the past and we will adjust our affairs as soon as possible."

W. J. Holman is now under indictment on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree as the result of a dispute in a transaction in two stocks traded in on the local board. Mr. Holman expresses confidence in his ultimate exoneration.

Damages of slightly more than $1,000 in a civil suit brought by a woman were recently returned against him by a jury in the district court as the result of a deal in stocks.

DOUBLE CELEBRATION.

Menominee Official Entertains His Friends on Birthday.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most notable events which has been celebrated in Menominee for some time was the dinner on Tuesday evening, when the county board and county officials were the guests of Edward P. Radford, chairman of the board of supervisors of Menominee county, on the occasion of his fifty-ninth birthday and the anniversary of his twentieth year as a supervisor.

Mr. Radford first came to Menominee county in 1881, as chief engineer for the Wisconsin Land & Lumber company, and has since been promoted to the office of superintendent of this concern, which, since it acquired the holdings of the William Mueller company, is the largest producer of hardwood in the world.

JUDGE DAVIS OF MINOT MENTIONED FOR GOVERNOR.

Minot, N. D., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minot will probably supply another candidate for gubernatorial honors on the Republican ticket in North Dakota this year in the person of Judge Nehemiah Davis, present county judge of Ward county. His name has been prominently and persistently mentioned for some time past, and while no formal announcement has as yet been forthcoming, it is believed that he will soon enter the race.

Judge Davis has been a resident of North Dakota almost thirty years, coming to Fairmount, in Richland county, in 1882.

FARGO MAN DISAPPEARS.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Much concern is felt by the friends and relatives as to the whereabouts of Orville E. Wood formerly Northern Pacific Express company agent here and later engaged in the dairy business, who disappeared over a week ago. He had been in ill health which adds to the fear something serious may have happened to him.

Track Laborer Killed.

Eau Claire, Wis., Feb. 17.—Charles Schaffer, 24 years of age, died yesterday afternoon, as a result of being run down by an Omaha engine yesterday morning at Altoona. Schaffer was an employe of the Omaha railroad and was picking up ice from switches. He had his cap pulled low over his head and did not hear the engine. The engineer saw him but it was too late. Schaffer was run down and had his hips crushed.

SLEEPING VOLCANOES.

Prof. Wallaston in the World Wide Magazine: It is not very generally known that right in the heart of Africa, at the southern end of Lake Albert Edward, is a great range of volcanoes. They are eight in number, and, though it is true that, unlike Ruwenzori, they carry no permanent snow, the highest peak is over 14,000 feet in height. These volcanoes are particularly interesting on account of their comparative newness. Running through the middle of Africa there is a trench many hundred miles long, in which lie the great lakes Albert, Albert Edward, Kivu and Tanganyika.

Not very many thousands of years ago the volcanoes, generally called Mfumbiro, burst up through the middle of this trench and made a dam across it, with the result that some of the water, which formerly flowed into Lake Albert Edward and so into the Nile, was cut off and a lake was formed behind the dam. As time went on the waters in the lake, which is now called Kivu, rose higher and higher until, not being able to flow over the barrier of the volcanoes, they formed the Rusisi river, which runs the other way into Tanganyika, about 100 miles distant. Of the eight volcanoes only two show signs of activity at the present time, in the form of thin wisps of steam which may occasionally be seen; but a vast plain of lava, with a wide black stream curling through its midst, showed where a formidable eruption had taken place only two or three years before our visit. There are hot springs scattered here and there, and we felt slight shocks of earthquakes once or twice, so it is not safe to say that the Mfumbiro volcanoes are extinct.

PREMIER TO ABDICATE

Government's Haste to Guarantee Bonds Rends Alberta's Cabinet.

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 17.—As a result of a scandal growing out of the guarantee of the interest on construction bonds of the Alberta & Great Waterways railroad, W. H. Cushing, minister of public works in the Alberta cabinet, has resigned his cabinet seat and other difficulties for the government are threatened.

It is the old story of a government with an overwhelming majority being gradually weakened by a disposition to exploit a rich country. It is now said that Premier Rutherford will resign and that dissolution will follow, with Cushing being called on to form a government. The government's attitude on the bonding of this new line to the remote north has aroused criticism.

Rush Bonds to Market.

The manner in which the whole affair came before the government, through Kansas City promoters; the haste with which the government, when the legislature was not in session, guaranteed the bonds on the basis of $20,000 a mile of road constructed, and the haste with which the promoters rushed to New York on a special train to dispose of the securities to Morgan & Co., attracted public attention.

The fact the present session would be called upon to guarantee bonds for the Canadian Pacific railroad and Grand Trunk Pacific was understood by the wise ones as the reason why the paper promoters of the Albera & Great Waterways wanted to get their bonds on the market early.

Cushing is a wholesale lumberman of Calgary and the strongest man in the government. He carries the whole south country with him, and his resignation form the cabinet is therefore especially significant. Cushing today said he would not make a statement until the government brings down the returns on this. Then he added, with a significant smile, "I will have a whole lot to say."

Rutherford's Power Gone.

Premier Rutherford is honest and old, and his cabinet is torn by factional strife between Duncan Marshall, a strong member of the cabinet, and Charles Cross, the attorney general. Each aspires to be leader of the government when Rutherford steps out, and the latter's resignation has appeared imminent for some time.

Rutherford is the first premier and his government was returned last year with an increased majority, there being but one member on the opposition in the legislature.

LAWYERS NOT LABORERS.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—In discharging a levy that had been made on the proceeds of a timber sale Judge McClenahan in the district court laid down the principle that in the strictest legal phraseology, a lawyer is not a laborer.

Attorney J. S. Scribner sought to levy on moneys which were the result of the sale of timber on the homestead of E. B. Townsend of Cass county, alleging that his services were those of a laborer or servant, within the meaning of article 1, section 12 of the constitution of Minnesota. Judge McClenahan dissolved the levy saying in his memorandum accompanying the order, "I really thing it would somewhat shock the bar of the state should any court so classify their services."

AGED WOMAN IS DESTITUTE

Living Alone in Small House on West Duluth Hillside.

Husband Died Suddenly Tuesday---Friends Are Helping Her.

Living alone in a small house on the hillside at West Duluth, Mrs. Christian Dahlbak, for many years past an invalid and now nearing her eightieth year, is obliged to rely solely on her neighbors and friends for support. Her husband, who was 80 years old, died early Tuesday morning and with the exception of friends she has been without a companion since.

The funeral of her husband will be held from the residence, 6405 Worden street, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. John A. Bjerke, pastor of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street, will officiate. Interment will be at Oneota cemetery.

The funeral expenses are being taken care of by Rev. Bjerke and other friends, the undertaker, M. J. Filiatrault, having donated his services free of charge. The case is one of the most deserving of charity that has come to the attention of Rev. Bjerke for a number of years, he states.

Mrs. Dahlbak has a son living, but he is in the northwestern part of Canada, where he is proving up on a claim. He has a large family and is unable to contribute anything to his poverty-stricken mother. For a number of months past, the county has contributed $4 a month to support the old people.

When her husband died, suddenly, Tuesday morning, Mrs. Dahlbak was unable to even pick him up for the floor where he had fallen. She watched over his body all the night and late into the morning until a neighbor came to inquire about the health of the aged man.

Friends of the old lady are trying to raise a subscription list to take care of her, so that she will not be obliged to pass her last days at the poor farm.

WOMAN APPLIES FOR POSITION

Dr. Margaret Ryan Would Be State Dairy and Food Inspector.

Dr. Margaret Ryan of 402 North Central avenue has applied to Andrew French, state dairy and food commissioner, for appointment as inspector in this district, and there is said to be a possibility that she will be appointed. Miss Ryan is a physician and at the last election was candidate for county superintendent of schools on the Democratic ticket. She is well known in West Duluth, where she has made her home for some time.

Andrew French, state dairy and food commissioner, said today that he had no prejudice against women, according to a dispatch to The Herald today. He was discussing the report that Dr. Ryan was an applicant for appointment.

No woman inspectors are employed by the department now, but Mr. French says it is not impossible for a woman to do the work satisfactorily. At the same time he refused to commit himself as to Dr. Ryan's appointment. That the appointment will be made soon is certain, but it is by no means certain that the woman applicant will be the appointee.

FIRE CAUSED BY KEROSENE STOVE.

A fire which broke out last evening in one of the small lodge rooms on the upper story of Wade's hardware store, Central avenue and Ramsey street, did damage to the extent of $2,400. The stock of the F. H. Wade hardware store was damaged by water and smoke, the loss being estimated at about $1,400, fully covered by insurance.

The blaze is thought to have its origin in an explosion of a kerosene stove. The stove was kept in one of the small rooms occupied by Fred Wade and the fire was first noticed when he went to his room to retire about 11:45 o'clock last evening. The smoke had spread through the upper story and he called out the department.

The firemen kept the flames from going to the roof, thus preventing what might have been a more serious fire. It is estimated that damage to the building is about $1,000, covered by insurance. The dance hall was not injured by the fire. The building is owned by Richard Schell.

Mr. Wade carried $14,500 insurance on his whole stock, but only the portion in the rear of the store was damaged by the water.

BANQUET FOR CAST OF AMATEUR PRODUCTION.

C. I. Towner gave a banquet to the young people of the Westminster Presbyterian church, who are members of the cast of "The Kingdom of Hearts' Content," a play which will be presented at West Duluth, Feb. 22, last evening at Warner's cafe. Covers were laid for twenty.

COVERING BY SHORTS

Little Liquidation After Opening Hour and Prices Are Firmer.

Local Market Is Moderately Active---Calumet & Sonora the Feature.

Heavy short covering and sympathetic advances as a result of buying in Amalgamated caused the stock market to advance today. The leading issues scored fair upturns and there was little liquidation after the opening hour during which prices declined.

The market toward the close assumed a top-heavy aspect but values held firm. An immense short interest, it is said, acted in Amalgamated and was the main reason for that issue's advance of 1½ points.

The professional element is pleased, apparently, with the status of President Taft's corporation tax measure. Students of financial legislation had supposed that one of the most favorable features of this bill was its publicity clause, but the president conveniently found that the law provides no money with which to make the publicity feature effective. This condition of the measure caused confidence in some quarters.

The North Butte, Amalgamated, Butte Coalition, Butte Ballaklava, Butte & Boston, Anaconda and Washoe mines are partially closed on account of the dispute between the engineers and the Western Federation of Labor and 9,000 men are idle in the Butte district. It is expected that the Butte and Helena smelters of the Amalgamated company may be closed.

The iron market is dull and the buying has been confined to the United States Steel corporation. The London copper market was firmer and had a good effect on this side.

The local market was moderately active and was inclined to be specialized. Trading, which was light, was well distributed and appeared to come from the public, there being, apparently, little professional activity.

Live Oak advanced 2 points in the East today, but lost 1½ points, closing ½ point higher than at the opening. The stock sold at $19 up to $21 and down to $19.50. On the local market it sold at $20.50 and $20.25. Butte Alex Scott, part paid, sold at $5 and the full paid at $7. The issues were firm. Calumet & Sonora was a feature of the market, advancing from a sale at $21.75 to sales at $23. This issue is extremely buoyant on the bullish reports from the property. Calumet & Corbin was one of the most active stocks and was well taken on the report that the company has acquired title to its claims and will proceed with active development. It sold at 86, 84, 88 and then at 86 cents.

Red Warrior sold at $2.62½, Shattuck at $19.62½. Warrior at $11.87½ and $11.93¾. Zenith at $1.12½, Black Mountain at 37 cents, Butte & Superior at $2.62½ and $2.56¼, Calumet & Montana at $1.31¼, Chief at $2.50 and $2.56¼, St. Mary's at 29 and 30 cents, North American at $2.75 and Amazon Montana at $2.75.

Amalgamated sold at $76.50 down to $75.87½ and up to $77.37½ and then at $77. Butte Coalition sold at $24, Calumet & Arizona at $70, Giroux at $9.87½ up to $10 and then at $9.75, Greene at $9.50, North Butte at $33.87½, down to $31.75, back to $33 and down to $32.75. Superior & Pittsburg sold at $14 and down ¼ point, Ojibway at $9 up to $9.75, Steel common at $80.37½ down to $79.87½ up to $80.87½ and down to $80.37½ and back to $80.50.

Calumet & Corbin has acquired full title to seven claims in the new Radersberg district of Montana, as follows: Hercules, Yellow Jacket, Mammoth, Wax Wing, Dream, Snow Bird and Diamond. The announcement was made at a meeting of the directors in St. Paul Tuesday. Capt. J. M. Wilcox, superintendent of the Mass mine in Michigan, and president of Calumet & Corbin, will assume personal charge of the Calumet & Corbin property within thirty days. A diamond drill will be put to work to determine the extent of the ore body. A temporary shaft on an outcropping of silver-lead ore is fifty feet deep and is in mineral matter all the way. It is bottomed in a vein seven feet wide.

Director Arnold of St. Paul, who recently visited the property, said he saw twenty-five teams hauling ore at one time on the road that extends from the new district to Tosten, where is the nearest railroad. The Black Friday mine in this district was started about six months ago and has produced $100,000 in silver-lead ore. Five four-horse teams are hauling ore from this property. It is taken to the Helena smelter. The mine is controlled by the official family of the state, including the governor, treasurer and secretary. The Ohio-Keating and the Keating, in which many Duluth people are interested, are 1,500 feet and half a mile, respectively, from the Calumet & Corbin properties and are shipping ore. An electric line is being constructed to the district from Tosten.

The silver-lead ore from the shaft on the Mammoth vein has produced values of from $38 to $11 a ton.

Max Stevens of Ironwood arrived in Duluth today from a trip through the Southwest. He visited several mining properties, including Greene-Cananea, the mines near Bisbee and the Calumet & Sonora property in the province of Sonora, Mex., where several Duluth people are at the present time, including J. W. Norton, general manager, H. V. Eva, secretary, and J. E. Cooley, president, are on their way home.

Mr. Stevens said that the shaft is down 378 feet. Levels are at depths of 100, 200 and 300 feet. A stope on the 100-foot level has been put within thirty feet of the surface. It is entirely in ore. On the 200-foot level all of the workings are in high grade ore. On this level is a vein of 'rosin zinc eleven feet thick and a large body of lead. There is more zinc than lead on this level, said Mr. Stevens.

On the 300-foot level there are two stopes. One is up seventy-five feet and is in six feet of solid lead without a break or intrusive of foreign matter in sight. The second stope is in lead and zinc. There is more lead than zinc on this level.

The mill is running with three shifts and the shaft is being operated with two. The mill, said Mr. Stevens, is doing first class work. The bins are kept full of lead and zinc concentrates, which are being hauled to trains constantly, a distance of three and three-fourths miles. Six mule teams and three wagons with a capacity of three tons each comprise the transportation service.

The mill, which was in the nature of an experimental affair, has a capacity of 150 tons, which, said General Manager James W. Norton, will be increased in capacity three times. Within ninety days the mill will be producing from 150 to 250 tons of concentrates. The enlargement can be made at a comparatively small expense. The zinc ore is practically pure, running from 62 to 64 per cent. The lead ore is probably the richest found in any known mine on the American continent, according to reports of well-known mining engineers who have visited the property.

"Every statement that Mr. Norton has made," said Mr. Stevens, "can be proven by an inspection of the property. I think the best part of the property is the Catalina claim, where a shaft is down 225 feet, but which is not now being operated. The water supply is excellent. As soon as the mill is enlarged the property should be able to pay $25 a year in dividends. It is capable of producing now so as to disburse $10 a year."

Boston wired today: "North Lake No. 2 is down 624 feet in an amygdaloid. The drill for the moment is idle while the pipe is being cemented in broken ground. Indiana drill No. 2, which cut rich conglomerate recently has been discontinued at a depth of 1,845 feet. Indiana No. 5, 700 feet southeast of No. 2, is down 170 feet in the overburden. This drill has been placed to cut the rich conglomerate lode nearer the surface. Indiana No. 6, 500 feet south of No. 2 is ready to start. The Franklin drill being operated ti locate the Hancock lode is down 410 feet in trap."

WOMAN MAY BE DEPORTED

W. H. Dean, inspector in charge of the United States immigration district, is conducting a hearing in his office this afternoon to determine whether or not Belle Reillia Beaudin should be deported to Montreal.

Mrs. Beaudin is the woman who, announcing herself as the most beautiful-formed woman in the world, established herself in a building on Second street and sold looks at her figure, clad only in a union suit, at 10 cents a look. She and the man, with whom she was living, were arrested and sentenced to the county jail for sixty days.

When first arrested, Mrs. Beaudin and the man both admitted that they had come from Montreal, Can., about ten days before their arrest; and that Duluth was the first city in which they had lived. The immigration authorities are said to have traced the couple and established the story as true.

The woman is hedging now. At the hearing this afternoon, she declared that she had come from Canada twenty-nine years ago and has not been back since. She also says that she lived in the Copper Country, and has a sister at Lake Linden, Mich. She declares her husband, John Beaudin, died in Ironwood, about five years ago, and she has been living with the man with whom she was arrested for several years.

Both her stories and those of the man have been conflicting, and the immigration authorities are trying to run them down to determine their value. The couple still have about a month to serve in the county jail and by that time, it is expected, their disposition will have been determined upon by the immigration officials.

WANT LAKESIDERS TO EXPRESS VIEWS.

The board of public works will open bids for the construction of the new bridge over Tischer's creek between Thirty-second and Thirty-third avenues east, at the regular meeting at the city hall tomorrow. Bids have been asked on several different kinds of structures and one of these will likely be selected at the meeting tomorrow. Those who have been instrumental in pushing the bridge, urge all residents of Lakeside and the East end to be present in order that they may express their views upon the kind of bridge desired.

LOCAL PLANT IS PRAISED

Alderman A. M. Goodrich of Minneapolis, who has been in the city several days studying the local municipally conducted water and gas plants, handed the Duluth properties a beautiful bouquet today at the conclusion of his investigations.

"The Duluth water and gas plants are certainly a success," he said today. "There is no question but that they are a big improvement over the privately owned corporations."

Alderman Goodrich declared that he has been unable to find a single man in the city who is opposed to the municipal ownership of the water and gas plants. He says that there are some minor differences of opinion as to the management and the rates, but that they are insignificant, when compared with the benefits.

He found that the rates were very favorable and a great deal more reasonable than the citizens of Minneapolis are getting from the corporation owned gas plant. He says that it was only recently discovered that half the stock of the gas company in their city was owned by the gas trust in Philadelphia, while it had been generally supposed that it was held entirely by Minneapolis people.

The council and the people of Minneapolis are having a battle with the gas company. The council offered a new franchise which was turned down. The alternative in case the company refused the franchise, was that the city would take over the plant. That is the question which is now up, and Mr. Goodrich says that it looks as though the people will buy the plant. He stated that the price asked by the gas company, about $6,250,000, is exorbitant and that it will likely have to be settled by arbitration.

The Minneapolis alderman explained that the company has allowed the plant to run down until now it is almost impossible to give good service, although the rates charged are about as high as they ever were. He has secured a big volume of statistics which he will lay before his colleagues when he returns home.

SUPERIOR

MISTAKEN FOR A CATTLE THIEF

Mistaken for a cattle thief by John Rindo of Billings park, John Swanstrom, the poundmaster for the Ninth ward, was beaten almost to insensibility, when he attempted to take the former's stray cattle into custody.

This is the basis for a civil action for damages, which is pending in the superior court. The case was opened this morning and was continued through this afternoon. It is expected that it will be disposed of tomorrow morning, when the case of Clyde Brand, charged with a murderous assault, will be tried.

It is claimed that Brand in company with his brother, Ray, and a number of other men, leaped upon Arthur Levinson, a peddler, last April, knocking him down with a club. Levinson was found unconscious and was taken to the hospital.

PUT CONGER ON DEFENSE

Allds' Attorneys Seek to Make Him Out a Giver of Bribes.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 17.—Senator Alld's attorneys today at the senate investigation of the charges made against him, made a strong effort to discredit his accuser, Senator Benn Conger, by proving the latter a self-confessed giver of bribes. Conger insisted that the circumstances under which he and his brother Frank distributed $6,000 nine years ago to protect the American Bridge company did not constitute bribery, and declared:

"I should call it blackmail."

The answer was not allowed to stand on the record, but revealed the defense he will make if the proceedings result in an attempt to punish him as well as the man he attacks.

It is the contention of Allds' attorneys that if Conger's story is true the accuser is a briber, and as such the charges are unworthy of consideration.

The cross-examination of Conger today hit all around the third name eon "Hi" Moe's envelopes.

Conger Called Again.

Senator Conger came back to the stand when the investigation was resumed today. The audience was as large as ever.

Senator Conger again insisted that he had a talk with Mr. Burnett regarding amendments to the Stevens bill, saying Burnett had a memorandum of the proposed amendments.

"Who put the amendments in the bill?"

"I don't know."

The witness was questioned then about his conversation with Allds. He said nobody else was present. Conger was asked to repeat the conversation and for the third time since the investigation began the senate heard Allds' alleged warning that "You better get the American Bridge people up here."

Conger said that he had first related this conversation eight or nine years ago.

Told of Interview.

Conger was made to rehearse what he says transpired between his brother Frank, vice president of the American Bridge company, and Allds, when the latter called at Senator Conger's apartments here to discuss terms. The witness said he did not make any objection to the payment of money for the purpose referred to.

"The conversation was on the subject of bribery, was it not?" asked Carr.

Mr. Carr objected to this answer and the chairman refused to let it stand on the record.

Conger confirmed Hiram G. Moe's statement that the senator had instructed Moe how to divide the $6,000 sent by Frank Conger for the bridge company, and had told the names to write on the envelopes.

DR. B. C. HYDE IS ACCUSED OPENLY

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 17.—John G. Paxton in a sensational answer filed in the circuit court at Independence, Mo., today accused Dr. B. C. Hyde of bad faith in trying to obtain evidence in Paxton's [illegible] answer "to prove that the plaintiff has murdered by the administration of poison Thomas H. Swope and Chrisman Swope; has also attempted to poison Margaret Swope, and by the same kind of treatment had communicated to the other members of the Swope family typhoid fever."

This is the first time Dr. Hyde has been openly charged with communicating typhoid fever to the members of the Swope family.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

To be stylish this spring, when you strut down Superio rstreet clad in the conscious pride of being appropriately gowned—as well as with a few of the latest offerings of the mode—you shall have nestling in the nest of rats made out of your own hair and transformers and Janes, and Billie Burke curls, and coronet braids, and such things, a cunning little farm yard fowl. Of course it won't be a farm yard fowl really. It will just be the nearest lifeless replica of one that art can manufacture. It will be known as the chantecler hat.

Right in the middle of her forehead will be the scowling cock's head, scarlet of comb and gleaming of eye and the sleek and gleaming feathers will be so arranged as to make a regular hat. The hat takes the attitude of the bird sitting.

The whole fad started—where?—in Paris and it all came about when a French dramatist made a play of the farmyard and the leading actors of the French stage seriously presented it. It is known as "Chantecler," and it was written by Rostand. Not only the hero will serve as the theme of the spring turban, but there will also be the owl, the brilliant hen pheasant, the gorgeous peacock and other characters of the play.

A chantecler hat has not yet been seen in Duluth and a temporary bit of fame will attach to the enterprising and daring soul who will first bring one of these nifty creations here for the public to gaze upon.

At the price of eggs think of being able to afford a whole hen to do nothing but cuddle down on your head in lieu of a hat. And by the way may be the slaughter in the farm yards of the country to supply lovely woman with the newest fashion in hats has something to do with the price of eggs.

CEASELESS ACTIVITY

Is Typical of the American Woman.

The reason that the American woman unflaggingly keeps up her amusements independent of man lies in her energy and her restlessness, asserts Mrs. Wilson Woodrow in the Delineator for March. In the first place, she realizes quite clearly that her husband will not participate in the various pursuits which take up her daytime hours.

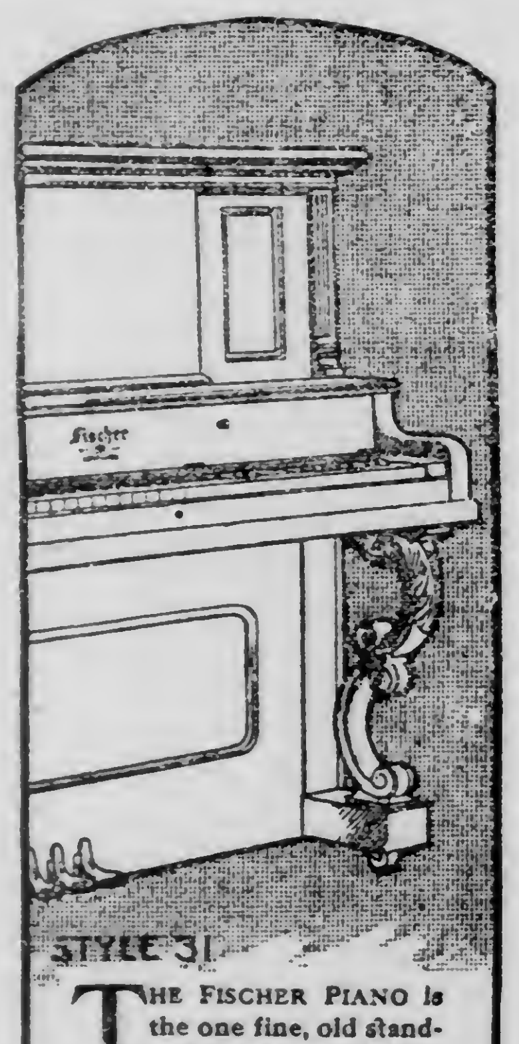
What is she to do? She is extremely systematic and executive; her household affairs are quickly administered. How, then, is she to occupy her time? She can not possibly spend a morning in the flower garden snipping dead blossoms from their stems and finding excitement in turning innumerable leaves in the quest for a possible slug, after the manner of her English sisters.

Neither can she put in her time manufacturing wonderful blouses and dainty neckwear and lingerie from carefully preserved and exquisitely mended bits of lace as does the French woman. Nor can she occupy herself brewing, baking, knitting and darning in imitation of the German hausfrau.

The climate, or perhaps her own temperament, drives her to a display of ceaseless activity; and, as she is intensely practical, she wishes to see some tangible and definite result. She is enormously occupied with the machinery of life, and she wants the wheels to whiz as fast as possible. I have seen a woman having her hair waved and her hands manicured at the same time, while her secretary read aloud the cream of various literary journals for her employer's edification.

In consequence, she lacks greatly in a certain wistful charm of hesitation, a delicate and courteous deference. She is too assured. She stands out with no softening and mysterious shadows. Just as she will wear her clothes better when she forgets that she wears them better than any woman in the world, so she will be infinitely more delightful when her beloved "culture" becomes some integral part of her soul and not a banner to flaunt on her outer walls.

She is, this American woman, the most self-centered creature on the face of the earth and she would not know how not to be assertive. It is a matter of religion with her never to get off the pedestal, and the well-trained American man dutifully hangs thereon the votive wreath and burns incense before her. She never doubts that her proper place is the pedestal, and she takes it for granted that you are interested solely in herself.



THE FISCHER PIANO is the one fine, old standard American instrument which everybody likes through and through. It may truthfully be called the National Favorite. You can buy a FISCHER PIANO with your eyes shut, and feel absolutely sure that it will hold its own against any make in the country.

CHOSEN FOR HER BEAUTY TO FILL ROLE IN NEW PLAY

LAURA NELSON HALL.

One of the conspicuous beauties of the stage is Laura Nelson Hall. That was the chief reason Miss Hall was chosen to play the principal role to Sydney Rosenfeld's new play "Children of Destiny," which opens at the Savoy theater, New York this month. The character is identified as an actress of extreme beauty. It was necessary to find some one more than usually pretty for the part and out of a long list of beautiful applicants. Mr. Harris hit on Miss Hall. Miss Hall's exquisite profile is expected to create a sensation among New York theatergoers.

SPRING STYLES.

Colors and Stuffs That Will Be Stylish.

The rough creepy weaves and lustre mohairs which of late have been so rapidly forging their way into the front ranks of fashion are now openly vieing for favor with silks of all sorts, but especially with those weaves best adapted for afternoon house gowns and demi-toilettes intended for that intermediate season when the winter garments are beginning to get just a wee bit shabby—actually or solely in the eyes of their owner—and summer things seem to belong to the far-off future. Perme, which comes in all the soft, dull colorings, is in itself so ornamental, on account of its silken sheen and crinkling texture, that scarcely any trimming is used upon the gowns developed of it. Some of the French costumes of this order are of one tone, and this feature is particularly noticeable in the peasant models which have the straight, scant skirt, fitting smoothly about the front and sides of the hips, gathered across the back and finished about the bottom with a broad hem, not caught against the material, but swung from a chiffon cloth drop skirt. The peasant waist carries whatever elaboration is devoted to the costume, and this is chiefly in the shape of Russian braid, sometimes intermingled with soutache or hand embroidery.

A radically different type of afternoon costume which now bids fair to be popular throughout the spring is composed of satin or silk and embroidered net or heavy lace. Among the models which have attracted the greatest amount of attention, not to mention admiration, is one having a plainly gored and demi-trained skirt of old blue satin over which is a polonaise of heavy Brussels net embroidered with blue silk. The back of the upper garment has the narrow, belted box plait and the surplice-closed fronts, crossing just above the waist line, extends almost to the hem of the dress. The sides of this polonaise are slashed to the hips, so that the desirable long lines are preserved, although in a quite different manner than on frocks of a similar character brought out last year.

Foulards are by all odds the most popular silken fabrics now being shown. It is safe to prophesy that each spring they will continue to appear and in larger quantities and more varied patterns, for the list of thrifty women who pin their sartorial faith to these alluring medium-priced fabrics is constantly lengthening, and while each spring innumerable attractive novelties in silk and wool are featured, the foulard reigns triumphant. Not only are these printed silks employed for the entire costume, but they serve as a foundation for the tunic dresses of chiffon cloth, etamine and marquisette which are now enjoying such a tremendous vogue. Usually the grounding of the silk is repeated in the color of the semi-transparent drapery, but occasionally the shade of the design is used and this idea is especially smart when a tunic of old rose, old blue, copper or brass shade is worn with a black or a white foulard slip.

The prominence of copper, bronze and brass shades is really amazing when it is remembered how exceptionally trying are those tints to complexions in the least degree inclined to sallowness and to hair not decidedly blonde, brown or black. Yet these queer shades are fashionable and it is the province of the dressmakers to mitigate their harshness toward the complexion, eyes and hair, by a discreet use of black and white, but how many modistes possess the art of perfectly adapting the magpie combination to a decided color?

At the moment amber is rather more exclusive than the deeper yellowish hues, but it is coming so rapidly forward that by late spring or early summer, morning frocks, afternoon dresses and dinner gowns of pale yellow will illumine the homes of the upper and middle classes if not the quarters of the deserving poor. At a fashionable wedding just before Ash Wednesday, the maid of honor and bridesmaids were in amber satin gowns trimmed with yellowish Chantilly and topped with black maline picture hats. As a proof of the liberties which are taken with yellow tones, it may be stated that these young women carried enormous bouquets of deep red roses and that the combination was perfectly successful.

Border materials continue to be employed for spring frocks and for an afternoon or bridge gown there are few fabrics which will afford better satisfaction for a comparatively small expenditure of money. Some of the soft-twilled silks and liberty satins have a wide ribbon and knot design in dull colorings woven a few inches above the selvage, and when these are arranged to border the tunic or overskirt, to trim the bodice or to outline the edges of the "jumper" or overblouse, the only additional expense will be for the transparent guimpe and half-sleeves without which the spring house costume will not be quite up-to-date.

Household Hints.

The secret of the delicious ham sandwiches served at an afternoon tea last week was in the cooking of the ham and the abundance of mayonnaise used in mixing the meat. The ham had been boiled until it was brown and then ground very fine and mixed plentifully with mayonnaise. The meat may be cooked in the oven, a thin slice being allowed to bake until it is well browned, or the meat may be fried. There is a more definite flavor about ham cooked in any of these ways than there is if it is boiled.

* * *

Shredded chicken dressed lightly with mayonnaise and served in little French rolls is popular at afternoon teas.

* * *

For a dinner fruit cocktail fill punch glasses half full of diced pineapple and oranges and top the mixture with mint ice. Lemon or orange ice may be used instead of the mint.

* * *

A shredded Spanish sweet red pepper adds flavor to creamed fish. It is especially tasty with creamed finnan haddock or any other coarse fibered fish.

* * *

Gruyere cheese and nuts seasoned with salt and paprika make tasty sandwiches for little meals.

* * *

Cold boiled spinach molded in individual forms may be served with a rim of shredded lettuce as a salad. Dress lightly with oil and vinegar and put a little mayonnaise on the top of each form.

* * *

To use up the cold boiled sweet potatoes, pare and slice them thick and fry them in butter. When they are brown sprinkle them with a little lemon juice and sugar and let the sugar melt over them.

Modish Stationery.

Both Ottoman and Japanese papers are used for writing purposes, and all stationery is thinner than it has been for many seasons, though not so transparent as onion-skinned paper. The monograms are quite long and placed upon the paper only, the envelopes being left plain. The same long monogram is also used on wedding-cake boxes. While gold is mostly used for monograms, quite often another color is chosen. Those who prefer tinted stationery will appreciate the English blues and dull champagne color, yet good taste is always shown in a choice of white stationery.

THE EVENING STORY

THE SAVING OF THE JAMADAR.

By Melville Hoyt.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Until the coming of the new French maid in waiting to the wife of the viceroy, the Jamadar Abdoul was esteemed the most loyal and efficient officer in the native guard. And so he is yet—but that is the occasion for this story.

Tall and swarthy, with the bearing of a prince, he was a splendid sight as he sat on his charger, arrayed in all the trappings and gold lace pertaining to his rank. His brave appearance did not belie his valor, and the viceroy and all his officers admitted warmly that they were glad and proud to have him in the service.

Well, Madamoiselle Marie Gaston arrived to take charge of my lady's boudeir and she looked with immediate and evident favor upon the brave hussar. And the madamoiselle was not a person to ignore or overlook. Petite, lithe as a panther, suggesting in every dainty line and curve all the possibilities of passion, highly intelligent, with eyes which flashed a response to every word or suggestion, she was one to make any man sit up and take notice.

What, then, could possibly happen to the Jamadar (to whom this woman was a new and wonderful creature, besides being the fascinating person she was to all men) excepting the one thing which did happen to him?

He simply fell in love—madly, slavishly, shamelessly, desperately in love with this experienced woman from Paris.

And she led him a merry chase. After she had taken the pains to attract his attention with all the arts known to women of her type and instilling most insidiously into his oriental mind the notion that she was deeply enamored of him, she suddenly became coy and evaded the fierce efforts he made to secure her for his own. For some weeks she kept him in a condition of alternating fever and chills until the man was nearly unbalanced.

The more she baffled him the more ardently he sought her, for with every repulse there was the invitation lurking in her eyes.

"Why, oh Mohammed," he cried in despair, as she escaped his threatened caress and vanished into the house, throwing him the most wicked and alluring kiss from the tips of her dainty fingers, "why is not she one of our women? Then I would carry her off by main force. I know not her kind nor their ways—but I will have her. I swear it by the law and the Prophets."

Which shows that the fair Marie had got him just where she wanted him.

In the meantime the faithful wife of the Jamadar had noticed that her lord was in a state of mental distress and attempted with wifely solicitude to find out the cause. He evaded her questions and denied her conclusions until he aroused the deep-rooted instinct present in every woman's breast and she knew in her heart that there was another woman in the case.

And then what did she do about it? Listen, all ye daughters of the West, who would have upbraided him and probably lost him. She went to him and, salaaming according to the custom of her people, said:

"Oh, my husband, it is given to me to know that a great danger assails thee—but I will save thee."

At which he placed his hand on her head and said what in our vernacular would be: "Pooh, pooh, dear, you are nervous. You need a rest."

She smiled—the old, old smile of Eve, and went her way, keeping her counsel.

Presently the fair Marie placed herself one day in the way of the Jamadar and did not elude his caresses as she had done before—instead, she responded to them with considerable warmth, firing the blood of the tall soldier into a fever heat. In a trice a meeting had been arranged and she vanished into the house with an expression on her face as she turned to wave him in adieu which had promise written all over it. It intoxicated the Jamadar so that it was all he could do to walk without staggering as he stepped into the viceroy's office to make his report.

The blood was bounding through his pulses when the Jamadar strode into the clump of bamboo trees which had been agreed upon as a rendezvous. And with true womanly instinct she let him pace back and forth, boiling with impatience, for many minutes before she glided into the grove with the supple grace of which she was mistress. He sprang toward her to clasp her in his arms, but she stopped him with a gesture.

"No, my hero," she said, softly, but with a vibrant note which multiplied the soldier's passion. "All shall yet be yours, but first I must prove your love."

Rising to his full height and placing his hand upon his sword, he answered eagerly:

"The test—it cannot be too hard, oh, my love, for I will do and dare all things to possess you."

"Words are cheap," she said, with just the suggestion of a curl on her dainty upper lip.

"Name the test," he said, simply—and on his face was the evidence of his noble birth and breeding.

She regarded him steadily for a moment. Then she spoke simply and directly:

"On the table of the viceroy is a package of papers. In one of these papers is the name of a very close relative of mine. It is of the greatest interest to me and those closest to me that I should know just the manner in which this person is mentioned. You have access to the viceroy's room. Get the package of papers and let me see them just long enough to know what has been said about my relative and I will return then—and—and then—" and she threw her arms up with the gesture of last surrender.

"You ask me to show you the viceroy's papers?" he questioned, stupefied.

"Only for one little minute," she replied, flashing a dazzling smile upon him.

"Madam, I am a soldier," he replied, haughtily, "and what you ask would be a betrayal of my trust. Besides, it would mean my ruin if not my life."

"Ah, just as I thought," she said, with a pathetic little sigh. "You big swarthy men are very good to look upon, but when it comes to a test you—well, you are not there."

Mad with anger and desire the Jamadar leaped forward and seized her. "I will do what you ask, if it costs my head," he said. "When and where and how do you desire I should do it?"

"Ah, my own hero," she said, yielding her lips to his passionate kisses. "Listen. The viceroy is at his bath and will not return for an hour. You have the privilege of his office. Go at once and place the packet of papers on his desk on the window ledge without the screen. I will promenade down the veranda, pick them up, glance through them, see how my relative is mentioned and replace them within a few moments. No harm possibly can come, and it will make me so happy to be of service to my relative."

"It is treason, but I will do it," said the Jamadar, "and when do I see thee, oh, my heart's delight?"

"Here at eight," she answered softly, as she glided off into the shadows.

The Jamadar had no sooner placed the precious package of papers on the window ledge than a soft hand reached for them. Then a great fear fell upon him and he realized the enormity of his crime and the terrible danger in which he stood. Even as he sat thinking and trembling the viceroy rushed in with hair disheveled and face a ghastly white.

"My reports, my reports," he shrieked, glowering at the table. "My God, Jamadar, I have just had secret advices that the French maid to my wife is a French spy and the papers on my desk are the last ones which should fall into the hands of the French—the very ones she came here to get."

He dashed madly out to call the guard and try to intercept the spy with the papers. The Jamadar stood silent for a moment. He knew his end had come and that he had been made a cheap dupe. He knew, also, of the subtle poison which would put him beyond the punishment and dishonor which would be his portion. He thought, also, of his loving, faithful wife and smiled bitterly at the contrast between the French woman and her.

There was a soft knock on the door. He opened it gravely. There stood his wife, calm and serene. From underneath her robe she produced a packet of papers which she handed to him.

"Forgiveness, oh, my husband," she said, "but I saw a great danger confronting thee and I could not but try to save thee. I heard the talk in the grove, and it was I and not she who got the packet of papers you placed without the screen. A few moments later she came and took a package of papers from the ledge, but, oh, my husband, they were but sheets of blank paper. Here are the viceroy's papers. I pray you guard them well."

The Jamadar gazed at his wife stupefied for a moment, then, with true Oriental dignity he made reply:

"It is well, oh wife of my bosom. Thou hast truly saved me, and thy reward shall be great."

Whereupon he dismissed her, and she left, fully recompensed for her devotion.

When the viceroy returned in despair a few moments later the Jamadar laid the precious package in his hands and said:

"Your excellency was in such a hurry that I could not explain, but I had the papers all the time. I came in and saw them there and thought it wise to keep them on my person."

And the Jamadar was advanced many steps and made a confidential officer on the personal staff of the viceroy. He was very kind to his wife for several months. Then as she was getting old he put her aside and took unto himself a fresh young girl.

FINNS LOOK TO DULUTH

City to Be Made Headquarters of Socialists of the Northwest.

Erection of Home and Theater in Duluth Is Important Step.

The Finns of the entire Northwest have their eyes upon Duluth with a view to making it their headquarters for the entire Middle West this side of Chicago in the future.

This fact is disclosed with the announcement that the Finnish Workingmen's association, "Ystava," will build a $50,000 home and theater at Fifth avenue east and First street, the excavation for which has already begun.

The funds for the purpose have been subscribed by thousands of Finns who intend to make their homes at the Head of the Lakes. Subscriptions have been received from the Copper country, the ranges and the scores of small towns tributary to this city. Thousands have contributed dollars and half dollars to raise the necessary money, expecting to derive their benefit in the coming years.

This explanation was made to Adolph Anderson, deputy building inspector, by Lars Forell, the architect who has drawn the plans for the new home at Fifth avenue east. The original intention was to build a home and theater costing $35,000 but as the plans call for a stage the building is classed as a theater. Under the Duluth ordinance this necessitates a fireproof structure throughout, which will bring the cost up to $50,000. The basement will contain a big dining room and kitchen where the occupants of the home will be able to get their meals.

The auditorium will be large, seating 1,000 people. The ceiling will be unusually high, being twenty-six feet above the floor level. The stage will be thirty-eight feet deep.

The "Ystava" is a Socialist organization. The word means "comrade" or "friend."

FOOTPADS WORK IN THE EAST END

E. C. Bradley Held Up and Robbed on Twenty-Third Avenue East.

E. C. Bradley, son of E. L. Bradley, reported to the police that he had been held up at the point of a gun by two foot pads on Twenty-third avenue east and First street about 10:30 o'clock last night. He said that he had been relieved of $12 in cash, a gold watch and an emerald ring.

Mr. Bradley had alighted from a car and was on his way to his home, 2229 East First street. He saw two men walking up the avenue ahead of him, but paid no attention to them. At the corner of First street they stopped and stood on the corner talking. As Mr. Bradley passed them he was ordered to put his hands over his head while a gun was flashed in his face. A domestic was robbed on the same avenue last Saturday night. It is thought that the same men may have been responsible for both robberies.

Mandan Wants Federal Building.

Mandan, N. D., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mandan is hopeful of securing an appropriation this year for the erection of a federal building here. Congressman L. B. Hanna has introduced a bill providing for an appropriation for such a building and just recently he called upon the local commercial club for a statement concerning the city's growth, business, etc., with a view to presenting it to the committee that will consider the bill. An appropriation of $100,000 has been asked.

row, and proceed down the Nile to Khartoum, where they are due about March 6. After three days' stop the start to Cairo will be made.

Mrs. Roosevelt probably will meet her husband and son at Khartoum.

Entrance Is Picturesque.

The entrance of the Americans into Gondokoro was rudely picturesque, and nothing that British and native hospitality could suggest was lacking in the welcome. The arrival of the expedition in the outskirts of the town was heralded with bugle blasts by Chief Keriba's band, which led the van. Chief Keriba accompanied his musicians.

The natives had met the expedition sixteen miles to the south. On the way here all the honor that could be gotten out of their instruments of brass and Indian drums was furnished in full.

Reaching the town the band struck up "America," which, happening to be the same tune as the British national air, suited the occasion exactly. Belgian marches were interspersed.

Carried American Flag.

Following the musicians a native porter carried a large American flag. Then came the caravan proper—Col. Roosevelt, Kermit, the other American hunters and scientists, and the body of native porters who have had an important if humble share in the work of exploration.

Waiting on the Bar El Jabel was a launch owned by Gen. Sir Reginald Wingate, sirdar of the Egyptian army, and from the vessel were flying the Stars and Stripes. Mr. Roosevelt boarded the launch at once upon reaching here, and after a brief rest began the reading of his mail. Many communications awaited him.

Gone to Meet Teddy.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Frederick C. Bonfils of the Denver Post left Chicago for New York today on his way to Khartum to meet Former President Roosevelt. Mr. Bonfils, who carries with him credentials from almost every chamber of commerce between Kansas City and the Pacific coast, will urge President Roosevelt to return to this country through Russia and the Philippines, making entry at San Francisco.

The program which is to be suggested to Mr. Roosevelt will not interfere with his present engagements in Europe, but he will be asked that after the conclusion of his lectures in England he turn toward the East again for the purpose of visiting Japan and the Philippines in order to acquaint himself with the existing conditions in the Pacific.

Mr. Bonfils will sail from New York on Saturday, Feb. 19. He will be accompanied throughout his trip by George Creel, a member of his Denver staff.

REAPPORTIONMENT CHIEF TOPIC DISCUSSED BY THE DELEGATES AT DEVELOPMENT CONVENTION

visiting delegates, and the people of Bemidji are leaving nothing undone to make everyone comfortable.

"Bob" Dunn Absent.

Among those who sent letters of regret of their inability to attend was Robert C. Dunn, who wrote Chairman Mackenzie that he was heartily in sympathy with the movement, but was compelled to attend the state editorial meeting. "I believe in good roads and in a square deal for the hardy settlers of Northern Minnesota, all around," writes Mr. Dunn. "Land owned by the state should be taxed for road and school purposes, even if a constitutional amendment is necessary. To my mind the scheme to assess state lands to aid in the construction of roads passing through them is unpracticable. If a 1-mill tax for the state road and bridge fund could be levied, there is no reason why counties like Beltrami could not secure liberal assistance from such a fund, at least $30,000 per year."

Reapportionment.

The chief theme of discussion is the necessity of securing a just reapportionment. As each county delegation has arrived the enthusiasm for a betterment of the unfair representation accorded this section in the legislature and for furthering the advancement of the interests generally of Northern Minnesota has grown. Chairman Mackenzie has issued the following statement showing how unjustly Northern Minnesota is now treated in regard to representation in the legislature:

In view of the present controversy as to fair reapportionment in the legislature of Minnesota, so that Northern Minnesota will be treated justly and equitably, an examination of the total vote cast at the general election held in November, 1908, would prove exceedingly interesting, and a comparison of the legislative representation given Northern Minnesota with that accorded Southern Minnesota will clearly show that this section of the state has by no means been given "fair play," and some of the comparisons are, to say the least, striking.

The total number of votes cast at the November, 1908, election was 355,263; divide this number by 63 and then by 119 (being respectively the number of senators and representatives in the Minnesota legislature), and we have one senator for every 5,638 votes and one representative for every 2,985 votes.

The Fifty-eighth senatorial district, comprising Pope and Douglas counties, cast 5,817 votes at the November, 1908, election, and they elect one senator and two representatives; this representation is taken as comparison as it is the only district in the state which is correctly apportioned.

The following shows the representation allowed the Fifty-eighth district, above mentioned, and other districts, which are given splendid representation, together with some of the northern districts, which are unjustly treated in the matter of representation in the legislature

First district—Houston, 2,725 votes, one senator, one representative.

Second district — Winona, 6,796 votes, one senator, three representatives.

Twenty-ninth district—Goodhue, 6,336 votes, one senator, three representatives.

Fifty-third district—Hubbard, Wadena, Todd, 8,085 votes, one senator, two representatives.

The above table will show that fourteen counties in Southern Minnesota had thirty-four representatives in the legislature, and cast 53,823 votes, an average of 1,584 votes for each representative, while thirteen counties in Northern Minnesota had nine representatives, and cast 30,508 votes, being an average to each representative of 3,390 votes.

These figures, which are absolutely correct, show that only one-half of Northern Minnesota's votes are represented in the legislature.

The Morning's Work.

The temporary organization of the Development association was made this afternoon by the election of H. J. Maxfield of Wadena as chairman and W. R. Mackenzie of Bemidji as secretary, and the appointment of committees on permanent organization and resolutions, to report in the afternoon.

P. J. Russell extended the freedom of the city and a hearty welcome to the convention and suggested as matters for consideration, better representation in the legislature, a change in the policy of selling state land, drainage and good roads, and the adoption of a state homestead law similar to that of Michigan.

George Welsh, state commissioner of immigration, spoke on "Agricultural Possibilities in Northern Minnesota." He gave statistics showing that crops raised in this section had taken prizes at state fairs and national farm congresses, and the dairy and beef cattle had been heaped with honors as leaders at exhibitions. He advocated advertising this section and getting together with local organizations for promoting the welfare of Northern Minnesota and her products. Mr. Welsh alluded to Bemidji as the Chicago of the Northwest, and asserted that Duluth was destined to be the largest distributing point in the world.

So many prominent men are present that the program will undoubtedly be changed to include many not on the program arranged by the committee.

branches. Some visitors, besides the speakers, will be here from outside of the state.

"The Association's Message to the Vital Religious Life of Men," is the general theme of the convention. The array of speakers is the best ever known at a state convention. Charles R. Towson of New York is international secretary of the industrial department. Frank H. Burt is president of the Chicago Training school. A. J. Elliott of Chicago is international secretary of the railroad department. FAVOR SOME TAFT BILLS not entirely sanguine of success. There has developed in the senate pronounced objection to denying the people of Alaska the right of suffrage, as would be done by a bill permitting the president to appoint a legislative body.

Oppose Alaska Bill.

Many senators believe that it would be better to permit present conditions to continue until the territory becomes more thickly populated. Congress, they argue, is in position to exercise control over the mineral deposits so as to prevent any monopoly from gaining a foothold.

The Arizona and New Mexico statehood bill will have early attention. The measure is to be amended by the senate committee on territories in accordance with the plan recently agreed upon between the congressional leaders and the administration advisers. In that form it is likely to pass the senate and it is probable it will be accepted by the house.

This plan looks to the separation of the votes in the two territories on the acceptance of a Constitution and the election of officers, and provides for a general federal scrutiny of the Constitutions that may be adopted This accords with the president's plan, and it is asserted he will be thoroughly satisfied with such an adjustment.

No Chance for Charters.

On every hand it is admitted that the measure looking to federal action in chartering corporations will go over until another session, but the proposed amendments to the interstate commerce law have received a decided impetus within the last few days.

The president is pressing hard for railroad legislation, and even the senators and representatives of his own party who are not entirely convinced as to the wisdom of all of the railroad legislation which he has asked are inclined to get off the track and allow him to have his way in this matter.

Strong influences are at work to get the railroad bill out of committee at the earliest possible moment, and some of the senate leaders have given their promises that it will be reported next week if not this. No amendments will be adopted of a character not satisfactory to the administration.

Disagree as to Court.

Attorney General Wickersham now is engaged in a review of the provisions giving the government supervision over the issuance of stocks and bonds and he may suggest a number of alterations. In the house there is a disposition to omit the provision for a commerce court, but the senate committee on interstate commerce expects to keep that feature.

It was announced today that the special committee of Western senators of which Senator Smoot is chairman, to which the administration conservation bills will be referred, expects to hold day and night sessions for the purpose of expediting work. The senate calendar is clear of other measures and the house is well up with its work.

Appointed by Knapp.

Unqualified approval of the administration railroad bill in all of its essential features was given today by Chairman Martin A. Knapp and Judson C. Clements of the interestate commerce commission, at a hearing before the senate committee. Some amendments, however, were suggested. At the conclusion of the statement by Chairman Knapp he was asked by Mr. Elkins whether the commission indorsed the administration measure in preference to the Cummins bill. Mr. Knapp, after some hesitation, replied that such an inference could be drawn.

"In view of the question asked by Chairman Elkins, which I believe to be somewhat unfair," interrupted Mr. Cummins, 'I should like to cross-examine Judge Knapp."

Elkins Hastened to Explain.

Mr. Elkins hastened to say that he had not intended to be unfair, and he thought the chairman of the commission had given a guarded answer to which no objection could be made. Mr. Cummins said he found no fault with Mr. Knapp's answer nor his statements approving the administration bill, but was of the opinion that one bill might be approved without condemning another. Mr. Knapp said that there were many features of the Cummins bill with which the commission was in sympathy.

The tense situation finally was adjusted by Senator Elkins' withdrawing his question.

Chairman Knapp, during his statement, called attention to the fact that neither the administration bill nor the Cummins bill specifically provides against holding companies' owning parallel lines. He said that the commission had no recommendation to make in that respect, but that they felt it incumbent upon them to direct attention to this oversight.

Wire Service Shut Off.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 17.—A combination of sleet, snow and high winds shut off wire communication today to the south.

Spring Will Have to Go.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Gentle spring, which ventured abroad in the Atlantic states yesterday and today, will be running for cover by tonight ahead of a snow and sleet storm which has taken a flying start over the Eastern Gulf states and is moving northeast rapidly. The Eastern Atlantic states will be under the influence by tomorrow morning at the latest, the weather bureau forecasters say.

This morning at Brownsville, Tex., at the mouth of the Rio Grande, the temperature is below freezing and the mercury is registering 20 and 30 below zero in the Northwest. A sleet storm is central over the Mississippi valley and snow is falling over the Ohio valley.

In the Atlantic states the storm will be accompanied by rain and snow, and a decided drop of the mercury.

Has 24 Below.

COOKING RANGE EXPLODES.

Grand Forks Housewife Given Scare But Is Unhurt.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—An explosion completely wrecked a range in the kitchen of the S. P. Swenson home yesterday. Mrs. Swenson had just stepped from the kitchen when the explosion, which shook the entire house, occurred. The stove was blown into small pieces. The range had just been filled with coke.

POPULAR RECIPE

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Stops Coughs Quickly.

Make a plain syrup by taking one pint of Granulated Sugar, add one-half pint of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put two and one-half ounces of pure Pinex in a pint bottle and fill it up with the Granulated Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Keep well corked and it will never spoil.

The effectiveness of this simple home-made article is surprising. It usually stops a deep-seated cough in twenty-four hours. It is also excellent for colds, whooping coughs, pains in the chest, bronchial troubles and similar ailments.

Use the real Pinex in making it, however. It is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract, and it is far superior to the numerous pine oil and pine tar preparations. If your druggist does not have it, he can get it for you without trouble.

The proportion above suggested makes a full pint of the best cold and cough remedy. The taste is so pleasant that children take it willingly. The total cost is about 54 cents.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

ON THE IRON RANGES

VILLAGE BOARD IS GIVEN ROAST

Grand Rapids Lawmakers Are Criticised By the Commercial Club.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting early in the week of the Commercial club, the committee appointed to interview the village council and ask that a park board be appointed, reported that they had gone before the council and made the request, suggesting a list of about a dozen names. The council, they said, absolutely ignored the committee and their petition. It was suggested that another committee be appointed to again go before the council with a request that they take some action, but as election is only a month away, it was decided to wait until after the people have had their say on the question of who shall be the members of the council for the coming year.

Village Council Scored.

There were numerous very strong expressions of disapproval of the work of the present council. Senator Gunn was outspoken in his opinion that the present council is not nearly what it should be. While he did not advise any official action by the club, Mr. Gunn suggested that every member of the club should constitute himself a committee of one to see that a new set of officials be elected who would have the best interests of the taxpayers and of the city at heart, and who would act accordingly.

The matter of appointing a water and light commission was broached, but it was thought that a committee to request the appointment of such a body would get a reception similar to that given the park board committee, and that, too, was laid over until after the village election.

It was decided to send an exhibit to the state conservation and agricultural congress which will be held at St. Paul on March 16, 17, 18, and 19. A. J. McGuire and H. E. Graffam were appointed a committee to look after the procuring of the exhibit, and the shipping of the same.

Delegates to Bemidji.

These delegates were named to the apportionment and development meeting at Bemidji: Henry Hughes and E. C. Kiley. The railroad committee reported that all that they could get out of the Great Northern officials was what the developments have shown—that the train crews for the various trains running on the new line would have their headquarters here instead of at the junction, and that a freight division would be put in here, all of which has already been done. The company, it is said, will also, as has been announced, erect a roundhouse here and a double track between here and the end of the double track east of this place. It was unofficially stated by some one, that the office rooms in the depot would soon be extended so as to take in the ladies' waiting room, and that a new ladies' waiting room would be built on to the present depot.

FIRE DURING BLIZZARD.

Nashwauk, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fire department was called out in a raging snow storm early Tuesday morning to fight a fire which was caused by an overheated stove pipe in the residence of Matt Johnson on lower Third street. The fire was extinguished in a short time, but the rooms of the structure were badly scorched by the flames and many valuables, mostly clothing, were destroyed.

Capt. William Wivell, a well-known mining man of this village and the range, employed at the Crosby mine for the past five years, has declared himself a candidate for village treasurer for the coming year.

M. O. O'Donnell, a motorman at the Crosby mine, was slightly injured about the hand while at work, but is improving rapidly.

CARRYING GUN COSTLY.

Weapon Toter of Hibbing Is Given Stiff Dose.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saulo Mulueviteh, a Montenegrin living at the Leetonia location, arrested for carrying concealed weapons, was brought before Judge Thomas Brady and fined $59 and costs. Mulueviteh paid the fine.

Victor Munson has returned from Duluth.

Miss Fannie Summerfield has returned to her home at Cloquet after spending several days visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gogalsky.

Paul D. Willard left Wednesday for Duluth and the Twin Cities.

C. B. Kinney of International Falls, has arrived for a few days on business.

LADIES' AID ENTERTAINS.

Eveleth Society Doing Honors for Visitors From Virginia.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church is entertaining the Virginia ladies' aid society at the church today. A social will be given by the local members and a fine program of entertaining numbers is being arranged.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church is planning on a coffee and tea social after the Easter season.

Members of the Christian Endeavor society will enjoy a sleigh ride tomorrow evening to Virginia, where they will be entertained by the Christian Endeavorers.

Elaborate costumes for the production, "The Merry Milkmaids' Convention," which will be given by the Methodist church ladies' society, are being made.

BOSNICK GETS LICENSE.

Hibbing Council Grants the Permit After Much Discussion.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the council Tuesday evening after much argument it was decided to grant Bosnick a license to sell liquor at 225 Pine street. The report of the municipal court for the week ending Feb. 12 showed $96.26 collected. The Bell Telephone company offered to place a call system of telephones to be used by the police department for $205, with rental of same at $30 per year. Bids were received from J. B. Gibson and P. E. Clark on the steam heating and hot water system to be installed in the new fire hall. It was decided to refer the bids to the committee who have this matter in charge. The meeting of the council for next Tuesday night was postponed until Wednesday on account of Tuesday being Washington's birthday.

MISSABE ROAD TO COME.

Chisholm People Believe Line Will Soon Be Extended There.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is much rejoicing here over the expectation that the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad will extend its line here from Hibbing.

Officials of the road while here recently imparted the information that the extension was in contemplation and would probably be made this year.

TYPHOID IN MILK.

Startling Discovery Made on Examining Sample From Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state health officials to whom samples of milk sold here were sent for examination have reported finding typhoid germs therein and there is much concern among patrons of local dairies. Samples of the water furnished by the local system made a better showing, the analysis showing that it is free from deleterious substances and on the whole very fine.

AGAIN HALED INTO COURT.

Eveleth Man Punished for Abusing Wife Has More Trouble.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Cappan, who was recently fined for assaulting his wife, was in police court yesterday claiming the custody of the seven small children, who are at present wards of the state. His demands could not be satisfied, and as he was also accused of using defamatory language to his wife he was placed under $50 bonds to assure his appearance in the municipal court Feb. 23, at which time his case will be heard.

Albert Cossette, a painter, arrested on the charge of drunkenness and abusing his wife, was allowed to go on probation for one year.

SOLDIERS VS. DRUMMERS.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The militia indoor baseball team will play the Duluth U. C. T. here next Tuesday evening. The militia will line up against the drummers with J. Murray as catcher; V. Park, pitcher; W. J. Pryer, first base; T. Van Buskirk, second base; F. Ellsworth, shortstop; C. Jenkins, right shortstop; A. Weiss, third base; Murray and Lowry, outfielders.

The militia team lined up against the Spruce engineering force nine Tuesday evening and decisively defeated them, 16 to 10, Park's delivery being unsolvable and his support very strong. The leading feature was the heavy consistent hitting of the soldier boys.

Ole Mangseth's Big Jump.

Coleraine, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to the Herald.)—In an unofficial jump on the new slide Ole R. Mangseth, a noted ski jumper of Coleraine, is said to have made 157 feet, or five feet more than the world's record made in Sweden and thirteen feet in excess of Ole Feiring's feat at Duluth, Jan. 16. Barney Riley, the famous youthful jumper, is also said to have made a phenomenal jump on the new slide. The recent snow has given the slide a fine coating and everything is ready for the big tournament.

The committee having in charge the annual ball of the Itasca Ski club reports that a first class orchestra of eleven pieces has been engaged and claim that this orchestra will dispense the latest and most elaborate program of dance music heard in many moons. E. J. Anderson, the Coleraine postmaster, has charge of the musical part of the program and being a well accomplished musician and old orchestra leader himself, his judgment in engaging music can be depended upon.

FARMERS' MEETING.

Will Be Held at Grand Rapids on Next Tuesday.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next Tuesday Supt. A. J. McQuire will hold a farmers' meeting at the church in the McKinley neighborhood south of town. The meeting will be in the nature of an agricultural institute, and agricultural problems and subjects will be discussed. Besides the practical side of the meeting, there will be a social session, at which the ladies are to join to entertain the farmers. Three schools of that neighborhood will join to produce a program and enjoy a good old-fashioned holiday. The meeting should prove a success, and will doubtless be of much benefit to the farmers and others attending.

MADE GOOD RECORDS.

The pupils of the Fayal, Adams, (old school), buildings and the primary grades of the high school building also made exceptionally good records in that respect.

The class play production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," netted $220.

FEELEY BRICK YARDS.

Proposed Plant Near Grand Rapids to Be Up to Date.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 17—O. E. Carlson, who is to be manager of the Feeley brick yard of the Enterprise Brick company of Duluth, was here recently and spoke interestingly of the new brick yard.

The yard is to be one of the most up-to-date, and best equipped in this section. All of the latest improved machinery will be installed, and a superior quality of sand mold brick be turned out. The clay, which abounds on the lands owned by the company, is of the very best, tests which have been made showing that it is even better than that of some of the best brick yard in the country.

One of the new features, which is to be installed in connection with this yard, is the drying apparatus. This will be installed in a building 80 by 100, and will be after the fashion of a dry kiln of a lumber mill. The brick will be wheeled in on cars, and will be left until ready for baking, when it will be taken out, and a new batch put on. The old-fashioned way of drying the brick was to pile them up under sheds and letting the air dry them. This process required some times as much as two or three weeks, accoroding to the weather. In the system which is to be used in this yard, a batch of bricks may be dried, and turned out in about forty-eight hours. It is said that there is only one other yard in the northern part of the state, and very few in the state equipped as this one is.

The ground for the yard has been cleared, wood for fuel has been gotten out, and other preliminary work has been done. The railroad engineers have recently laid out the right-of-way for a spur which will be shot into the yard, and the work of grading for the spur will be commenced. As soon as this grading is completed and the track laid, the machinery will be shipped in, unloaded and put into place. It is expected that the yard will be ready to operate commencing about the first of May.

This yard will run practically all the year around. In ten hours, some 60,000 bricks will be turned out, on an average.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 17.—The request for a 10 per cent increase in their wage scale by the five marine labor organiations in conference here with the executive committee of the Dredge Owners' Protective association has been flatly refused by the dredge owners. The labor organizations then submitted another proposition, which asks for the 10 per cent increase after July 1, the present scale to be in effect until then. The owners will confer on this proposition. The marine organizations in conference with the owners are the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovelers and Dredgemen; International Brotherhood of Dredge Workers, Licensed Tugmen's Protective association, Tug Firemen and Linesmen's association and the Rock Drill Workers of America.

IS THINNESS EMBARRASSING

Undoubtedly It Is to Many a Maiden and Youth—While Even Those Well Along in Years Prefer Well Rounded Figures.

Prescription Increases Weight.

A scrawny, gangling youth or maiden is almost invariably slighted, overlooked or ridiculed in any social gathering. There is something about a plump or well proportioned figure which attracts not only friendship, but love and adulation as well.

People with a proper amount of flesh are favored in all walks of life, while the thin are unblessed, unwelcome and frequently miserable for life. The difference lies in the power of the digestive functions and the ability of the blood and nerves to absorb and distribute over the body the nutrition extracted from the food eaten.

The thin person is abnormal and lacks the power to absorb and retain the flesh and fat elements which the gastric juices in the stomach and intestines should extract or separate from all kinds of food and drink.

A recent accidental discovery has proven that tincture cadomene when blended with certain other drugs, will add from one to three pounds of flesh per week during treatment, while the general health and strength also improves wonderfully.

Get in a half pint bottle, three ounces of essence of pepsin and three ounces of syrup of rhubarb; then add one ounce compound essence cardiol; shake and let stand two hours; then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound, (not cardamon). Shake well and take a teaspoonful before and after meals, drinking plenty of water between meals and when retiring.

WHISKY RULES ARE APPROVED

Taft's Decision Is Formulated Into Set of Regulations on Labels.

Washington, Feb. 17.—President Taft's decision in the liquor controversy that "whisky is whisky," whether it be blended or straight, has been formulated in a set of regulations prepared by the board of food and drugs inspection of the department of agriculture. The regulations have been approved, as required by the pure food law, by Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture, Secretary MacVeagh of the treasury and Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor.

In brief the regulations declare that all unmixed spirits distilled from grain, prepared in the customary ways, are entitled to the name "whisky" without qualification. Blended whisky must be labelled as such. The term "whisky," however, is restricted to distillates from grain, and under the regulations, distillates from other substances, if labeled "whisky," are misbranded and the person guilty of misbranding may be prosecuted.

AGNES ELKINS MAY SURVIVE

Senator's Niece May Recover From Self-Inflicted Bullet Wound.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 17.—Miss Agnes Elkins, niece of United States Senator Elkins of West Virginia, who shot herself at a local hotel yesterday, was much improved today. Her physician believes that she will recover.

Miss Elkins is 25 years old. Her mother died about a year ago and shortly afterwards she went to New York, against the wishes of relatives in this city, to apply for an engagement on the stage. Senator Elkins induced her to visit him at Elkins, W. Va., but could not change her determination to become an actress. She returned two weeks ago to prosecute a damage suit against the Metropolitan Street Railway company for $25,000 for injuries received a year ago, but the case was postponed.

ON CARRIERS' COMMITTEE.

Steenerson Will Help to Adjust the Salary Increases.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Representative Halvor Steenerson was appointed yesterday a member of a sub-committee to draft amendments to the postoffice appropriation bill to effect adjustment of the salaries of rural letter carriers. The amendment decided upon provides that none of the $36,000,000 appropriated for salaries for rural letter carriers shall be expended until the salaries of the carriers shall be adjusted according to the length of the carrier route, and until a standard route is determined.

It is not thought that the committee on postoffices and post roads will permit the amendment to get into the bill. Other members of the sub-committee with Mr. Steenerson are: Mr. Townsend, Michigan, and Mr. Burnett, Alabama.

There are twenty-one members of the house who have introduced bills for incrasing and adjusting the pay and rules of rural letter carriers.

WARNED AGAINST HAWAII.

Russian Emigrants Are Told to Beware of Going There.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 17.—The Journal of Commerce and Industry, the organ of the ministry of finance, today points a warning to Russian emigrants of alleged false representations made by Hawaiian immigration agents who promise high wages on the farms of Hawaii and other conditions favorable to Russian immigrants. The paper cites the appeal of the first party of emigrants arriving in Hawaii to the Russian consul at Yokohama asking assistance in view of their miserable condition. Hawaiian immigration agents are active among the colonists in Manchuria.

"THE RECKONING."

Under the above caption the New York World publishes an editorial about the investigation of corruption in the New York legislature that may set people in other states thinking a bit.

In part the World says: "Ten years ago in Albany sin was a joke. The 'Black Horse Cavalry' was in the saddle. Railroad and insurance companies openly maintained lobbies, money flowed freely, gambling houses bade publicly for patronage, the social harpies that thrive on 'easy money' gathered in force, and through crazy speculation Wall street was taking back in margins a large part of the money it poured out in bribes.

"When the sale of public rights and people's property for private profit was a common thing, capital in its cynicism counted it cheaper to buy off bad bills than to take trouble to expose them to public condemnation. The introduction of good bills obnoxious to corporations, with no thought of their passage but simply as a 'strike,' was considered an almost legitimate means of supplementing legislators' salaries. Men grew bold in iniquity; they thought themselves immune against exposure and dreamed that so wild an orgy of corruption could last.

"The insurance investigation shook the confidence of legislative criminals and their corruptors. The flashlight was turned upon the 'House of Mirth.' The high names of governor and senator were smirched. The grave opened for the resurrection of forgotten wrongs; and to the grave were driven the most sensitive of those men who, like John McCall, though architects of the fabric of legislative shame, were crushed by its fall. When, after those anxious days for the 'Black Horse Cavalry,' exposures ceased and the reconstructive surgery began which has so immeasurably improved the tone of public life in New York state, corrupt legislators breathed freely once more and whispered 'it has blown over.' Now, out of a comparative trifle, comes another blast of exposure, involving a transaction of minor importance, which threatens once more to shame the living and expose the dead; and men with guilty memories wonder when and where it will stop. They are not enviable. The people at least, long thwarted and plundered and hoodwinked by their servants, have nothing to lose and much to gain by publicity. They feel it well for the determent of villainy that so dramatic and unexpected an issue has arisen to show that a crook is never safe, that scoundrelism will out, that there is an eternal justice which men defy only at their lasting peril."

These ugly skeletons of crime will not stay buried. Dishonest lawmakers who have betrayed their people and made their place of trust an opportunity for infamous personal profit may fancy that their misdeeds are unknown or forgotten; but there is always the danger, as the present juncture in New York shows, that chance may pull aside the curtain and show their villainy in all its wretched nakedness.

New York's legislature may be the worst, but it is not the only one with such a history. Proud indeed may the state be whose legislators, present and past, dare permit the unveiling of the subterranean burrows in which much of the real work of legislation has been done.

Those who are familiar with legislative processes smile grimly when they hear the arguments against direct legislation—which is legislation by the people—and in favor of representative legislation. They know full well that even when every argument against direct legislation is granted, still it offers fairer show of pure and successful free government than the history of state legislatures has justified.

ANOTHER COMPARISON.

The cost of living in this country is high, we are told, because of the great increase in the supply of gold, the measure of values.

The cost of living is high, we are told, because too many people live in the cities and not enough on the farms, so the country does not produce enough to feed itself. This is a particularly entertaining reason, especially when we hear the man who gives it explaining to another audience directly after that the tariff has nothing to do with the cost of food products because this is the greatest food-exporting country in the world.

Now whatever effect the increase in gold supplies may have upon prices,—and it has some effect, because gold is proving itself to be about as unstable a basis of values as bimetalism possibly could be, and those who urge this reason are proving that Mr. Bryan was right in 1896 when he said that to increase the supply of basic money would increase prices,—whatever effect this process has is worldwide, and is not confined to the United States.

With these reasons in mind, here are a few comparisons of prices between Buffalo and Toronto recently made. Buffalo is in the United States, and Toronto is in Canada, but they are only a few miles apart, so the comparison is very instructive.

The best creamery butter was 35 cents in Buffalo and 27 cents in Toronto. The difference was about the same on the best dairy butter. Fresh eggs were 38 cents in Buffalo and 35 cents in Toronto. Full cream cheese was 17 cents in Buffalo and 13 cents in Toronto. Live chickens were 17 cents in Buffalo and 12 cents in Toronto, and turkeys were 24 cents in Buffalo and 15 cents in Toronto. Dressed chickens were 18 cents in Buffalo and 14 cents in Toronto, and dressed turkeys were 26 cents in Buffalo and 15 cents in Toronto. Beef was about the same in both places, and dressed hogs were a little cheaper in Toronto than in Buffalo.

You could buy cabbages in Toronto for $1.25 a barrel, but they cost $1.50 to $2 in Buffalo. Potatoes were 30 to 35 cents in Toronto and 45 to 48 cents in Buffalo. Beans were $1.90 to $2 a bushel in Toronto and $2.80 in Buffalo. Apples were $1.50 to $2.50 a barrel in Toronto and $2.50 to $3.50 in Buffalo.

One would think, perhaps, that it would pay the Buffalo people to do their shopping in Toronto. No; they can't. The tariff won't let them.

Is there anything about the increase in gold supplies that will account for those differences in cost of things to eat? Not a thing. Is there anything in the theory that too many people live in the city to account for it? Not a thing; because, you will remember, this is "the greatest food-exporting country in the world." Prices can't be due to scarcity so long as that statement is true.

Then it must be something else. Remember why Buffalo people can't shop in Toronto and get the benefit of its lower prices? Because of the tariff. Doesn't that seem to help throw a little light on conditions?

THIN ICE.

Washington reports come to the effect that the Minnesota delegation in the house is likely to hold a caucus and pick out a Minnesota man as a candidate for the speakership, and that in all probability the man to be chosen will be Congressman Tawney of the First district of Minnesota.

Now this may be nothing but a little demonstration in aid of Mr. Tawney in his forthcoming fight for re-election as a pro-Cannon stand-patter in an anti-Cannon, progressive district. The idea that Tawney may be the choice of the house for speaker when Joseph G. Cannon is gently but firmly kicked out might possibly avail to increase Mr. Tawney's chance for re-election. If Mr. Cannon lived in Minnesota, the chances are that the Danville district, which now sends him to congress, would be intensely anti-Cannon, and would be electing a Democrat or a progressive Republican to congress. But the fact that Cannon is speaker serves to keep him in congress, and he probably will be elected again this year, largely because he is speaker and may be speaker again.

But the members of congress from Minnesota outside of Mr. Tawney should remember that he is not the only congressman who must this year confront the necessity of re-election, and who will have to get his election from voters who are intensely interested in seeing that not only Cannon but Cannonism and all its works are overthrown and cast out. Such people are not likely to take kindly to a proposal to substitute for Cannon one of his most abject and suppliant servitors, for that would be changing the name without changing the principle. Tawneyism might be even more objectionable than Cannonism.

Those who know what relation Tawney bears to Cannonism are quite as much interested in seeing Tawney defeated as in seeing Cannon dethroned; and it will not help the other congressmen with their constituencies if they become parties to an attempt to preserve the form of Cannonism while changing merely its name. Minnesota wants congressmen who are not only against Cannon, but against Cannonism in all its branches; and Tawney is merely a twig on the unsightly tree of Cannonism.

THE THIRD DEGREE.

A great many Americans have been made familiar with the police practice known as "the third degree" by Charles Klein's strong play of that name. Doubtless there are many among those who have seen the play who fancy that the practice was over-painted then, and that really it is much more gentle and kindly. In point of fact, it would be impossible to put upon the stage some of the things that are done by police officers in administering the "third degree." They would not only be too brutal and shocking for stage presentation, but so much so that the playwright would certainly have been accused of violating truth.

But there is a feature of this monstrous third degree practice that is not touched upon in the play, and to which attention is called by an indignant citizen of Philadelphia who writes in a local newspaper to express his ideas about a prominent case where the third degree recently was administered in the hope of forcing a confession. This citizen points out the fact that the victims of the third degree always are poor, friendless and obscure. In the play the victim is the son of a rich and prominent man; and there is the only place in the play where truth is ignored. Policemen don't administer the third degree to the rich and prominent; yet if it is right to administer it to small criminals, why is it not right to use it on large ones?

Says the Philadelphia man: "The worst feature of this offense, aside from its being unlawful, is that it is almost invariably the poor and friendless prisoner who is subjected to this latter-day copy of the Spanish inquisition. And because in many cases the prisoners stand charged with crimes which outrage public opinion, many who would protest hesitate, lest their regard for the law should be interpreted as sympathy for the prisoner, so there is therefore the greater reason that some one should protest, and I raise my voice in the hope that some one with more power or authority may be moved to stop this unlawful outrage on men who are in a most trying and defenseless position—for once in a while the police authorities do get hold of an innocent person."

The point is well taken. The typical policeman is highly charged with a readiness to believe in the guilt of a person under suspicion. Policemen never are allowed on juries by criminal lawyers, because they are supposed to approach each case with a preconception of guilt. Believing a suspect guilty, they endeavor to make him confess, and as a policeman's business is not one that makes for fineness of fiber or gentleness of manner, they often use methods that are abhorrent to every sense of justice and fair play.

And when a Rockefeller or a Walsh or a sugar trust director or a beef trust officer is accused of great crimes, are they ever given "the third degree" in an attempt to force them to confess their guilt? Never yet has such a thing been seen. But poor and friendless prisoners are put upon the rack every day. The "third degree," as it is often applied, is not only unjust and unlawful, but it is a peculiarly penetrating example of the tenderness which great criminals receive and the harshness reserved for small offenders.

The report that Dr. Cook was in Chile at least had the sound of truth.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is to be married, and every newspaper in the country tells about it. It's easy to be advertised if you have a prominent father.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE PATHETIC SIDE OF IT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Having for the last fifteen years been a subscriber and a reader of your paper and having many times admired your editorials I must confess I am disappointed in the stand you are taking in regard to the Canadian Northern and especially in your editorial.

When I came to West Duluth I brought with me $1,500 and invested it in West Duluth real estate. It was the saving of a lifetime up to that time. I was told by the real estate men that it was a good investment. So it was, for them who got the money, but it proved poor to me, for when the panic of 1893 came on, I lost it all, with many years of hard work with it.

I managed to save a bare $100 and came here to the present location, where I now live and bought a place, paying the $100 down and since that time, about twelve years of hard work, my wife and children helping me, and by denying ourselves everything but a bare chance to exist, we have now a little cheap home worth, say, $2,000.

Now comes a railroad we never dreamed of, coming within a few feet of us, making it an unfit place to live, cutting the value of our property in two, and you tell us it is for the best interests of the city, and you seem to think the council did right to not consider us in the matter.

I do not complain entirely on my own account. There are others along this right-of-way as badly off as I am. I am no better able to be sacrificed than the rest, but the strange thing is that we are all poor men. No, it is not so much that they take my last pound of flesh, that they deprive my children of their birthright, but there is a principle involved in this matter that goes to my heart. Through all the years to come are the common people to have nothing to say about their own affairs. For the last twenty years I have looked forward to a better time. I have thought and hoped that in spite of all the graft and dishonesty of our national, state and municipal governments that there was a strong undercurrent of moral thought that would work out in some way to protect the people from the grafting rule of special greed, but I now give up hope. There is none. It is admitted by the people that are in favor of the present route of this road that there are other ways this road could come, but it would be a little more expensive. Is that a good reason why a few hard-working individuals must be sacrificed for it? I cannot see how this is justice. Yours very truly,

CHARLES STEVENS,

West Duluth, Feb. 15.

THE CHILD.

Zona Gale in Woman's Home Companion: "Your little boy," she had said.

When the child's hand was in his again, the bachelor walked on in a kind of abashed exaltation. Why, any stranger would naturally think that the child was his little boy!

Before the door of the village hotel half a doen strange men were sitting, tipped back in wooden armchairs, awaiting the midday meal. On a pretext of hurrying the child somewhat, Mark contrived that he should be on the inside of the walk, passing close beside the strangers so that they must see him. Half unconsciously Mark's look swept their faces with a pride not to be mistaken, so that when the two had gone by, one of the men said audibly:

"Well, I've got one about half that age."

And Mark's heart warmed toward him, not because the man "had one himself" as because he believed that Mark had.

It was with a distinct suspension of interest that Mark turned at last into the grocery, since Aufman, the grocer, could not be deceived. Aufman would merely shuffle forward and say: "Vell, vat leedle man iss you—eh?" which held no thrill.

But Aufman, it chanced, was busy in the back room, and in the front of the store a traveling salesman was waiting for him—a stranger traveling salesman. The man was standing by the peanut roaster, and instantly he flipped the child a peanut and smiled down at him when he set his little hands to catch another.

"Ask your father if you can have another, little man," said the salesman.

"Why, thank you," he said, "I guess one more peanut won't hurt him any."

The traveler was inclined to court companionship, and when the peanut had been bestowed, he moved nearer to Mark.

"How old is the kiddie?" he asked.

Mark knew this—had not Mattie told him that morning.

"Five," said he authoritatively.

"H'm—big for his age, ain't he?" said the man.

"Well, pretty good size, I guess." Mark conceded modestly.

"Got any more?" inquired the man.

"No," said Mark. "I—ain't."

"I'm a married man myself," he said, "but ours—died."

Mark threw back his head and looked the man in the face. And all in a moment he knew, knew with his whole heart, just what the man had suffered, just what his own life was denied. Mark spoke with an effort and with entire unexpectedness to himself.

"This one," he said, "ain't mine. I wish to God it was!"

"Oh!" said the man, and all at once he was looking at Mark as Mark was looking at him.

Comic Supplement Mysteries.

In Comic Supplemental Land
There's much to puzzle me,
I'd give a lot to understand
Some of its mystery.
And here I beg some one, who knows,
Its inner workings to disclose.

THE BARREL MYSTERY.

If stolen the apparel
Of one who goes to swim,
How's it there's a barrel
So handy there for him?
Somehow or other it would seem
That barrels line each lake and stream.
Each beach and bank, each creek and brook,
For swimmers who've had clothing took.

THE DANGER-WARNING MYSTERY.

And who is so heedful,
So thoughtful and so nice,
Who puts the sign so needful
Upon the treacherous ice?
Who is it braves that awful hole
To put a sign up on a pole?
What does he stand on in the air
When he puts up that warning there?

THE RAPID-RECOVERY MYSTERY.

Who fixes up the victim,
And makes him good as new,
When man and beast have kicked him,
And stamped upon him, too?
Who patches up those cuts and bumps,
And soothes away those dreadful lumps,
And gives him back to us as if
He'd never had a single biff?

The Roar of the Mob.

Asheville, N. C., Citizen: Have you ever heard the roar of the mob in pursuit of a human being? The yelp of a wolf, the horrid laugh of the hyena, the snarl of the tiger, the deep growl of the bear, the howling of the dog—all are as music that is sweet when compared to the wild cry of the mob in pursuit of human prey. All the finer virtues of man's mind and soul are washed out in the lust for the blood of a brother; reason is dethroned by insanity.

There is a fierce joy in hunting a fellow-creature in mob formation, and which is perhaps more appealing, it incurs no individual risks; there is always safety in numbers. The mob, though soulless, feels the call of manifest destiny, and puts itself in the role of an avenging angel when safety in numbers is assured.

A mob charges jail and batters down the doors thereon because it is a mob and is ruled by savagery. It drags forth a helpless victim because it thirsts for blood.

THE WEATHER.

The cold weather continues and last night the mercury dropped to 16 deg. below zero again. The air is dry and clear and the low temperature is not as uncomfortable as it would be under different accompanying conditions. Last night 16 deg. below zero was the lowest mark registered and the temperature did not get above zero. The weather man predicts 20 deg. below zero for tonight.

Fine weather prevailed a year ago today and snow was predicted.

The sun rose this morning at 7:09 and it will set at 5:35, giving ten hours and twenty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The northwestern cold wave now includes nearly all northern districts, Middle and Southwestern states. Zero weather prevails southward to New Mexico, Kansas and Iowa, and eastward to Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, the coldest being 30 deg. to 34 deg. below zero to the northward of Montana. The southwestern storm has advanced its center to Southeastern Louisiana. During the past twenty-four hours this disturbance caused light to heavy rain or snow in the eastern lake region. North Atlantic states, the Ohio and Lower Mississippi valleys, Tennessee, Kansas, Oklahoma and the region surrounding the Gulf of Mexico, besides higher temperatures in extreme Southeastern states.

"The present cold wave has begun to moderate in Western Montana and North Pacific districts, but temperatures will continue below zero at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following were the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve ending at 7 a. m. today:

You Never Miss the Water Till the Well Runs Dry.

The lessons that my mother taught to me were quite a charm;
She would often take me on her knee, when tired of childish play,
And as she pressed me to her breast I've heard her say:

Chorus:
"Waste not, want not, is a maxim I would teach,
Let your watchword be dispatch, and practice what you preach;
Do not let your chances like sunbeams pass you by,
For you never miss the water till the well runs dry."

As years rolled on I grew to be a mischief making boy,
Destruction seemed my only sport, it was my only joy;
And well do I remember, when ofttimes well chastised,
How father sat beside me then, and thus has me advised:

Chorus:
Waste not, want not, etc.

When I arrived at manhood I embarked in public life,
And found it was a ragged road, bestrewn with care and strife;
I speculated foolishly, my losses were severe;
But still a tiny little voice kept whispering in my ear:

Chorus:
Waste not, want not, etc.

Then I studied strict economy, and found to my surprise
My funds, instead of sinking, very quickly then did rise;
I grasped each chance and always "struck the iron while 'twas hot,"
I seized my opportunities and never once forgot.

Chorus:
Waste not, want not, etc.

I'm married now and happy, I've a charming little wife,
We live in peace and harmony, devoid of care and strife;
Fortune smiles upon us, we have little children three;
The lessons that I teach them, as they prattle round my knee:

Chorus:
Waste not, want not, is a maxim I would teach,
Let your watchword be despatch and practice what you preach;
Do not let your chances, like sunbeams pass you by,
For you never miss the water till the well runs dry!

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Money could do a lot more for a man if he wanted it to do less.

The reason a man has faults is that if he didn't they would be vices.

There's more brotherly love in a kind word than in a truckload of tracts.

In the Lily Trade.

Puck: After a short search the man was discovered carefully painting the lily.

"Go to, thou fool!" sneered that majority which is ever the slave of tradition.

But the man explained. "This is a 1909 lily," he pointed out. "By painting it, I make it the 1910 model. As soon as people see it they'll throw away their old lilies and buy new." And lo, it was as he predicted."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Duluth Turnverein association's hall was destroyed by fire early this morning, causing a loss of $11,000 or $12,000 on the building, which was insured for $8,000. The turning apparatus and other hall fixtures, valued at $3,500, were insured for $2,000. J. Schumann's three-story building and dwelling were burned. He had $3,100 insurance. The two-story dwelling owned by David D. Jones, foreman for Scott & Holston, and occupied by S. E. Webb and family, was destroyed with all its contents. Jones had $1,000 insurance and Webb had $700 on his furniture. The saloon of H. Meyer and Webb's grocery store were also burned. Meyer had $800 insurance, and Webb's grocery stock, valued at $3,000, was insured for $1,600. The total loss was nearly $30,000.

Manager John Gordon of the Northern Steamship line has made the following appointments of masters to the steamers of the line: Northern Wave, M. H. Murch; Northern Queen, E. M. Smith; Northern King, C. W. Brown; North Wind, Delos Waite; North Star, Arthur Thorne; Northern Light, C. S. Furey.

C. H. Foster says he owns the oldest map of the Head of the Lakes that is in existence. It was made in 1825 by a midshipman under Lieut. Bayfield, R. N., and is very interesting. That was about the time the American Fur company had its headquarters at Fond du Lac.

The lake today is rougher than at any time for a year past. The strong northeaster is sending in huge waves, each one pushing on hundreds of tons of slush ice. Communication with Park Point was cut off about 6 o'clock, and since then the water in the inner harbor has risen several feet, flooding the ice in the slips and suspending the operations of the men who were cutting ice for cold storage purposes. At one place on the north pier there is a solid drift of ice about twelve feet high.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Should Be Left as It Is.

Eveleth News: A gentleman who is both a big business man and level-headed, said to a News reporter lately: "I have no objection to Duluth keeping the county seat, for one very good reason—whenever I have occasion to go to Duluth on county seat business, I usually transact other business that would necessitate a trip there anyway." On reflection, there is considerable to be said on this score. As the big town, wholesale, mining and railroad center of this region, range business men will always have more or less occasion to travel to Duluth whether it remains the county seat of St. Louis county as a whole or were it split in twain or infinitesimal partitions.

"'T was Ever Thus."

Virginia Enterprise: Down at Duluth the candidate of the Duluth News Tribune most naturally got trimmed in the race for the mayoralty. 'T was ever thus, since before the time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

And For Special Privilege.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: In the news columns of the Ore today will be found a story taken from The Duluth Evening Herald, which shows the sad condition of the average laboring man of that city. The article states that the laborer cannot make enough to live on, and the same condition is reported from nearly all of the larger cities of the country. This goes to show that "Republican times" are better than "Democratic times." Much better—for the party leaders and their beneficiaries.

A Sign of the Times?

Wabasha Herald (Dem.): Duluth last Tuesday elected a Democratic mayor, and seven out of eleven aldermen chosen were Democrats. Coming events cast their shadows before.

Watch Duluth's Smoke.

Hutchinson Leader: The port of Duluth handles more tonnage in the eight months navigation is open than any other American port with the one exception of New York, which is open twelve months. The record for 1909 for the Duluth port was nearly 33,000,000 tons, two-thirds of which was iron ore, one-sixth coal, and one-twelfth grains and flour. The number of vessels arriving at the harbor during the year was 5,209, an average of twenty-one a day, Sundays included, for the eight months, and 5,294 departed from the port in the same period. Few people of Southern Minnesota have the slightest realization of the magnitude of the business represented by these figures. Minnesota is a great state—greater than we know who live the simple life on her Southern farms and in her quiet country villages.

Shadows.

The baby says she's sleepy now,
And sister says she's sleepy, too,
And all the fun and rowdy-dow—
And all the scamper 'round and through
The house for this one day is done,
And they are in their little beds:
May angels guard each little one!
God bless their yellow, curly heads!

When they're in bed and fast asleep,
A rounded arm 'neath each wee head,
Each one a pink and comfy heap,
Each one with her wee prayers all said,
We tiptoe out and leave them there
In their wee beds across the hall,
And never, never do we fare
Beyond the baby's easy call.

But when the day is done, and when
The lights are blinking through the night,
We sit and think of all the fun
The day has held, and the delight,
And of each love, and every squeeze
By baby arms, and each mishap;
And pinch again the dimpled knees,
And hold the babies in our lap.

And never is a day too long—
Nay, never is one long enough!
The romping, laughter, and the song,
The baby lovings, is the stuff
Of which our happiness is made,
Their laugh is pleasure to our ears.
Oft have we wished the day had stayed,
And stayed, and stayed a million years.

Responsibility comes down
Nights when we sit there all alone,
And shadows black and umber brown,
And doubts the daylight had not known
Come trooping out from where they stay,
And laugh at us, and gibe and jeer,
The shadows at the end of day
Always come to us clothed with fear.

And that is why we wish the day
Would stay, and night would never fall
And babies all would romp and play
And run with us and laugh and call,
Because we fear for them at night,
And plan and build for the glad two,
And know that we have little might!
Just God can make our dreams come true.

—J. M. Lewis in Houston Post.

Edison the Optimist.

Boston Globe: Those are most delightful dreams in which Thomas A. Edison revels. Science and social labor, he believes, will completely transform the world and dominate the future. The problems of fuel, of cheap motive power, of aerial navigation, of supplying abundant food and clothing to every one and of cheap, warm and comfortable housing for all the world will be solved, and "in 200 years, by the cheapening of commodities, the ordinary laborer will live as well as the man does now who has $200,000 annual income. Automatic machinery and scientific agriculture will bring about this result. Industry will constantly become more social and interdependent. There will be no manual labor in the factories of the future. The men in them will be merely superintendents watching the machinery to see that it works right."

Edison's advantage over the famous dreamers of the past—Plato, Sir Thomas More and other Utopians, including even Bellamy and Howells—is in fact that he possesses some sort of scientific basis for his visions, some sort of scientific reason for the hope that is in him. The world needs such dreamers in its business. "The plan is seemly and noble, but details are melancholy," says the Yankee Buddha. But Edison sees not only the "plan," but also the details. And meawhile, until Edison's two centuries shall have elapsed, it is probably best for each one to ignore as far as possible the increasing cost of living, which they say is only temporary, and to follow the example of Voltaire's Candide, who after a life of many vicissitudes came to the conclusion that all he could do was to "dig in his garden."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Judge: "I thought you told me these lots would double in value in two years, and here's a man offering me exactly what I gave for them."

"Yes; but you forgot you gave twice as much as they were worth."

Cleveland Leader: China Merchant—Heavens! I've broken a piece out of that expensive dinner set.

Old Clerk—Cheer up! Mend it with glue set it where some customer will knock it to the floor with his coat and charge him for the whole set.

St. Louis Star: A Harvard professor favors a revision of the Ten Commandments.

Ultimate Consumer—Gee whiz! Upward or downward?

Washington Star: "I thought you said you told your wife everything you did."

"I do."

"It's mighty strange. She hasn't said a word to my wife about the $10 you borrowed from me."

Houston Post: "When I returned from my poker party last night my wife just looked at me; not a word was spoken."

"My wife looked at me, too and I don't believe that a word was unspoken."

Illustrated Bits—Hardup—There was a time when people used to say that I had more money than brains, but they can't say that now.

Wife—Why not?

Hardup—Because I've come down to my last shilling.

Wife—Well, you've still got a shilling.

Newark News: "Is your new girl getting so that she can understand English?" asked the caller.

"No," replied Mrs. Keepouse, "but I am learning Hungarian rapidly."

Married Man—Well, judging from my own experience, she does.

Chicago News: "What is love?" she asked.

"Love," he answered, "is a brand of insanity that makes a man call a 200-pound woman his little tootsy wootsy."

Philadelphia Record: Tommy—Pop, what is the difference between a probability and a possibility?

Tommy's Pop—A probability, my son, is something you want to happen.

Detroit Free Press: "Is he a man to be trusted?"

"Absolutely. You may even have a cigar exposed in your vest pocket and he won't reach over and grab it."

Buffalo Express: "Whitcomb is an independent thinker."

"He is?"

"Yes, he even dares to say the clock in the railroad station is wrong."

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: A woman would much rather break bad news than a bad egg.

The more you know about some things the worse off you are.

How a little man enjoys posing before the big end of a field glass!

The less a man has to do the more he has to say about being pressed for time.

Nowadays when a girl acts shy it's dollars to doughnuts that her mother is on the watch.

The man who is unable to appreciate a pretty woman hasn't any more sense than he is entitled to.

It's awfully surprising to kiss your sister in the dark when you think it is another girl who is visiting her.

Bear Ye One Another's Burdens.

Galatians 6:1-10: Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual restore such a one in the spirit of meekness, considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted.

Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.

For if a man think himself to be something, when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself.

But let every man prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoicing in himself alone, and not in another.

Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things.

Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap.

For he that soweth to his flesh, shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit, shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.

And let us not be weary in well-doing; for in due season we shall reap if we faint not.

As we have, therefore, opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith.

Wishing.

I'd like to be the butterfly with gaily painted wings;
I'd like to be the robin that in the tall elm swings;
I'd like to be the big red rose that climbs the garden wall;
I'd like to be the leaves that dance so joyous in the fall.
I'd like to be the fairy queen within my picture book;
I'd like to be the speckled trout that leaps up in the brook.
I'd like to be so many things, it makes my poor heart whirl;
Yet I cannot be anything but just a little girl.

"THE RECKONING."

Under the above caption the New York World publishes an editorial about the investigation of corruption in the New York legislature that may set people in other states thinking a bit.

In part the World says: "Ten years ago in Albany sin was a joke. The 'Black Horse Cavalry' was in the saddle. Railroad and insurance companies openly maintained lobbies, money flowed freely, gambling houses bade publicly for patronage, the social harpies that thrive on 'easy money' gathered in force, and through crazy speculation Wall street was taking back in margins a large part of the money it poured out in bribes.

"When the sale of public rights and people's property for private profit was a common thing, capital in its cynicism counted it cheaper to buy off bad bills than to take trouble to expose them to public condemnation. The introduction of good bills obnoxious to corporations, with no thought of their passage but simply as a 'strike,' was considered an almost legitimate means of supplementing legislators' salaries. Men grew bold in iniquity; they thought themselves immune against exposure and dreamed that so wild an orgy of corruption could last.

"The insurance investigation shook the confidence of legislative criminals and their corruptors. The flashlight was turned upon the 'House of Mirth.' The high names of governor and senator were smirched. The grave opened for the resurrection of forgotten wrongs; and to the grave were driven the most sensitive of those men who, like John McCall, though architects of the fabric of legislative shame, were crushed by its fall. When, after those anxious days for the 'Black Horse Cavalry,' exposures ceased and the reconstructive surgery began which has so immeasurably improved the tone of public life in New York state, corrupt legislators breathed freely once more and whispered 'it has blown over.' Now, out of a comparative trifle, comes another blast of exposure, involving a transaction of minor importance, which threatens once more to shame the living and expose the dead; and men with guilty memories wonder when and where it will stop. They are not enviable. The people at least, long thwarted and plundered and hoodwinked by their servants, have nothing to lose and much to gain by publicity. They feel it well for the determent of villainy that so dramatic and unexpected an issue has arisen to show that a crook is never safe, that scoundrelism will out, that there is an eternal justice which men defy only at their lasting peril."

These ugly skeletons of crime will not stay buried. Dishonest lawmakers who have betrayed their people and made their place of trust an opportunity for infamous personal profit may fancy that their misdeeds are unknown or forgotten; but there is always the danger, as the present juncture in New York shows, that chance may pull aside the curtain and show their villainy in all its wretched nakedness.

New York's legislature may be the worst, but it is not the only one with such a history. Proud indeed may the state be whose legislators, present and past, dare permit the unveiling of the subterranean burrows in which much of the real work of legislation has been done.

Those who are familiar with legislative processes smile grimly when they hear the arguments against direct legislation—which is legislation by the people—and in favor of representative legislation. They know full well that even when every argument against direct legislation is granted, still it offers fairer show of pure and successful free government than the history of state legislatures has justified.

ANOTHER COMPARISON.

The cost of living in this country is high, we are told, because of the great increase in the supply of gold, the measure of values.

The cost of living is high, we are told, because too many people live in the cities and not enough on the farms, so the country does not produce enough to feed itself. This is a particularly entertaining reason, especially when we hear the man who gives it explaining to another audience directly after that the tariff has nothing to do with the cost of food products because this is the greatest food-exporting country in the world.

Now whatever effect the increase in gold supplies may have upon prices,—and it has some effect, because gold is proving itself to be about as unstable a basis of values as bimetalism possibly could be, and those who urge this reason are proving that Mr. Bryan was right in 1896 when he argued that to increase the supply of basic money would increase prices,—whatever effect this process has is worldwide, and is not confined to the United States.

With these reasons in mind, here are a few comparisons of prices between Buffalo and Toronto recently made. Buffalo is in the United States, and Toronto is in Canada, but they are only a few miles apart, so the comparison is very instructive.

The best creamery butter was 35 cents in Buffalo and 27 cents in Toronto. The difference was about the same on the best dairy butter. Fresh eggs were 38 cents in Buffalo and 35 cents in Toronto. Full cream cheese was 17 cents in Buffalo and 13 cents in Toronto. Live chickens were 17 cents in Buffalo and 12 cents in Toronto, and turkeys were 24 cents in Buffalo and 15 cents in Toronto. Dressed chickens were 18 cents in Buffalo and 14 cents in Toronto, and dressed turkeys were 26 cents in Buffalo and 15 cents in Toronto. Beef was about the same in both places, and dressed hogs were a little cheaper in Toronto than in Buffalo.

You could buy cabbages in Toronto for $1.25 a barrel, but they cost $1.50 to $2 in Buffalo. Potatoes were 30 to 35 cents in Toronto and 45 to 48 cents in Buffalo. Beans were $1.90 to $2 a bushel in Toronto and $2.80 in Buffalo. Apples were $1.50 to $2.50 a barrel in Toronto and $2.50 to $3.50 in Buffalo.

One would think, perhaps, that it would pay the Buffalo people to do their shopping in Toronto. No; they can't. The tariff won't let them.

Is there anything about the increase in gold supplies that will account for those differences in cost of things to eat? Not a thing. Is there anything in the theory that too many people live in the city to account for it? Not a thing; because, you will remember, this is "the greatest food-exporting country in the world." Prices can't be due to scarcity so long as that statement is true.

Then it must be something else. Remember why Buffalo people can't shop in Toronto and get the benefit of its lower prices? Because of the tariff. Doesn't that seem to help throw a little light on conditions?

THIN ICE.

Washington reports come to the effect that the Minnesota delegation in the house is likely to hold a caucus and pick out a Minnesota man as a candidate for the speakership, and that in all probability the man to be chosen will be Congressman Tawney of the First district of Minnesota.

Now this may be nothing but a little demonstration in aid of Mr. Tawney in his forthcoming fight for re-election as a pro-Cannon stand-patter in an anti-Cannon, progressive district. The idea that Tawney may be the choice of the house for speaker when Joseph G. Cannon is gently but firmly kicked out might possibly avail to increase Mr. Tawney's chance for re-election. If Mr. Cannon lived in Minnesota, the chances are that the Danville district, which now sends him to congress, would be intensely anti-Cannon, and would be electing a Democrat or a progressive Republican to congress. But the fact that Cannon is speaker serves to keep him in congress, and he probably will be elected again this year, largely because he is speaker and may be speaker again.

But the members of congress from Minnesota outside of Mr. Tawney should remember that he is not the only congressman who must this year confront the necessity of re-election, and who will have to get his election from voters who are intensely interested in seeing that not only Cannon but Cannonism and all its works are overthrown and cast out. Such people are not likely to take kindly to a proposal to substitute for Cannon one of his most abject and suppliant servitors, for that would be changing the name without changing the principle. Tawneyism might be even more objectionable than Cannonism.

Those who know what relation Tawney bears to Cannonism are quite as much interested in seeing Tawney defeated as in seeing Cannon dethroned; and it will not help the other congressmen with their constituencies if they become parties to an attempt to preserve the form of Cannonism while changing merely its name. Minnesota wants congressmen who are not only against Cannon, but against Cannonism in all its branches; and Tawney is merely a twig on the unsightly tree of Cannonism.

THE THIRD DEGREE.

A great many Americans have been made familiar with the police practice known as "the third degree" by Charles Klein's strong play of that name. Doubtless there are many among those who have seen the play who fancy that the practice was over-painted then, and that really it is much more gentle and kindly. In point of fact, it would be impossible to put upon the stage some of the things that are done by police officers in administering the "third degree." They would not only be too brutal and shocking for stage presentation, but so much so that the playwright would certainly have been accused of violating truth.

But there is a feature of this monstrous third degree practice that is not touched upon in the play, and to which attention is called by an indignant citizen of Philadelphia who writes in a local newspaper to express his ideas about a prominent case where the third degree recently was administered in the hope of forcing a confession. This citizen points out the fact that the victims of the third degree always are poor, friendless and obscure. In the play the victim is the son of a rich and prominent man; and there is the only place in the play where truth is ignored. Policemen don't administer the third degree to the rich and prominent; yet if it is right to administer it to small criminals, why is it not right to use it on large ones?

Says the Philadelphia man: "The worst feature of this offense, aside from its being unlawful, is that it is almost invariably the poor and friendless prisoner who is subjected to this latter-day copy of the Spanish inquisition. And because in many cases the prisoners stand charged with crimes which outrage public opinion, many who would protest hesitate, lest their regard for the law should be interpreted as sympathy for the prisoner, so there is therefore the greater reason that some one should protest, and I raise my voice in the hope that some one with more power or authority may be moved to stop this unlawful outrage on men who are in a most trying and defenseless position—for once in a while the police authorities do get hold of an innocent person."

The point is well taken. The typical policeman is highly charged with a readiness to believe in the guilt of a person under suspicion. Policemen never are allowed on juries by criminal lawyers, because they are supposed to approach each case with a preconception of guilt. Believing a suspect guilty, they endeavor to make him confess, and as a policeman's business is not one that makes for fineness of fiber or gentleness of manner, they often use methods that are abhorrent to every sense of justice and fair play.

And when a Rockefeller or a Walsh or a sugar trust director or a beef trust officer is accused of great crimes, are they ever given "the third degree" in an attempt to force them to confess their guilt? Never yet has such a thing been seen. But poor and friendless prisoners are put upon the rack every day. The "third degree," as it is often applied, is not only unjust and unlawful, but it is a peculiarly penetrating example of the tenderness which great criminals receive and the harshness reserved for small offenders.

The report that Dr. Cook was in Chile at least had the sound of truth.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is to be married, and every newspaper in the country tells about it. It's easy to be advertised if you have a prominent father.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE PATHETIC SIDE OF IT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Having for the last fifteen years been a subscriber and a reader of your paper and having many times admired your editorials I must confess I am disappointed in the stand you are taking in regard to the Canadian Northern and especially in your editorial.

When I came to West Duluth I brought with me $1,500 and invested it in West Duluth real estate. It was the saving of a lifetime up to that time. I was told by the real estate men that it was a good investment. So it was, for them who got the money, but it proved poor to me, for when the panic of 1893 came on, I lost it all, with many years of hard work with it.

I managed to save a bare $100 and came here to the present location, where I now live and bought a place, paying the $100 down and since that time, about twelve years of hard work, my wife and children helping me, and by denying ourselves everything but a bare chance to exist, we have now a little cheap home worth, say, $2,000.

Now comes a railroad we never dreamed of, coming within a few feet of us, making it an unfit place to live, cutting the value of our property in two, and you tell us it is for the best interests of the city, and you seem to think the council did right to not consider us in the matter.

I do not complain entirely on my own account. There are others along this right-of-way as badly off as I am. I am no better able to be sacrificed than the rest, but the strange thing is that we are all poor men. No, it is not so much that they take my last pound of flesh, that they deprive my children of their birthright, but there is a principle involved in this matter that goes to my heart. Through all the years to come are the common people to have nothing to say about their own affairs.

For the last twenty years I have looked forward to a better time. I have thought and hoped that in spite of all the graft and dishonesty of our national, state and municipal governments that there was a strong undercurrent of moral thought that would work out in some way to protect the people from the grafting rule of special greed, but I now give up hope. There is none. It is admitted by the people that are in favor of the present route of this road that there are other ways this road could come, but it would be a little more expensive. Is that a good reason why a few hard-working individuals must be sacrificed for it? I cannot see how this is justice. Yours very truly,

CHARLES STEVENS,

West Duluth, Feb. 15.

THE CHILD.

Zona Gale in Woman's Home Companion: "Your little boy," she had said.

When the child's hand was in his again, the bachelor walked on in a kind of abashed exaltation. Why, any stranger would naturally think that the child was his little boy!

Before the door of the village hotel half a doen strange men were sitting, tipped back in wooden armchairs, awaiting the midday meal. On a pretext of hurrying the child somewhat, Mark contrived that he should be on the inside of the walk, passing close beside the strangers so that they must see him. Half unconsciously Mark's look swept their faces with a pride not to be mistaken, so that when the two had gone by, one of the men said audibly:

"Well, I've got one about half that age."

And Mark's heart warmed toward him, not because the man "had one himself" as because he believed that Mark had.

It was with a distinct suspension of interest that Mark turned at last into the grocery, since Aufman, the grocer, could not be deceived. Aufman would merely shuffle forward and say: "Vell, vat leedle man iss you—eh?" which held no thrill.

But Aufman, it chanced, was busy in the back room, and in the front of the store a traveling salesman was waiting for him—a stranger traveling salesman. The man was standing by the peanut roaster, and instantly he flipped the child a peanut and smiled down at him when he set his little hands to catch another.

"Ask your father if you can have another, little man," said the salesman.

"Why, thank you," he said, "I guess one more peanut won't hurt him any."

The traveler was inclined to court companionship, and when the peanut had been bestowed, he moved nearer to Mark.

"How old is the kiddie?" he asked.

Mark knew this—had not Mattie told him that morning.

"Five," said he authoritatively.

"H'm—big for his age, ain't he?" said the man.

"Well, pretty good size, I guess," Mark conceded modestly.

"Got any more?" inquired the man.

"No," said Mark. "I—ain't."

"I'm a married man myself," he said, "but ours—died."

Mark threw back his head and looked the man in the face. And all in a moment he knew, knew with his whole heart, just what the man had suffered, just what his own life was denied. Mark spoke with an effort and with entire unexpectedness to himself.

"This one," he said, "ain't mine. I wish to God it was!"

"Oh!" said the man, and all at once he was looking at Mark as Mark was looking at him.

Comic Supplement Mysteries.

In Comic Supplemental Land
There's much to puzzle me,
I'd give a lot to understand
Some of its mystery.
And here I beg some one, who knows,
Its inner workings to disclose.

THE BARREL MYSTERY.
If stolen the apparel
Of one who goes to swim,
How's it there's a barrel
So handy there for him?
Somehow or other it would seem
That barrels line each lake and stream,
Each beach and bank, each creek and brook,
For swimmers who've had clothing took.

THE DANGER-WARNING MYSTERY.
Who tells us to be heedful,
So thoughtful and so nice,
Who puts the sign so needful
Upon the treacherous ice?
Who knows that there's an awful hole
Or puts a sign up on a pole?
What does he stand on in the air
When he puts the danger sign up there?

THE RAPID-RECOVERY MYSTERY.
Who fixes up the victim,
And gets him well so soon,
When man and beast have kicked him,
And stamped upon him too?
Who patches up those cuts and bumps,
And likewise the dreadful lumps,
And gives him back to us as if
He'd never had a single biff?

The Roar of the Mob.

Asheville, N. C. Citizen: Have you ever heard the roar of the mob in pursuit of a human being? The yelp of a wolf, the horrid laugh of the hyena, the snarl of the tiger, the deep growl of the bear, the howling of the dog—all are as music that is sweet when compared to the wild cry of the mob in pursuit of human prey. All the fiercer wildness of man's mind and soul are washed out in the lust for the blood of a brother; reason is dethroned in insanity.

There is a fierce joy in hunting a fellow-creature in mob formation, and which is perhaps more appealing, it lures the civilized man—it is always safety in numbers. The mob, though soulless, feels the call of manifest destiny, and puts itself in the role of an avenging angel when safety in numbers is assured.

A mob charges jail and batters down the doors thereon because it is a mob and is ruled by savagery. It drags forth a helpless victim because it thirsts for blood.

THE WEATHER.

The cold weather continues and last night the mercury dropped to 16 deg. below zero again. The air is dry and clear and the low temperature is not as uncomfortable as it would be under different accompanying conditions. Last night 16 deg. below zero was the lowest mark registered and the temperature did not get above zero. The weather man predicts 20 deg. below zero for tonight.

Fine weather prevailed a year ago today and snow was predicted.

The sun rose this morning at 7:09 and it will set at 5:35, giving ten hours and twenty-six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The northwestern cold wave now includes nearly all northern districts, Middle and Southwestern states. Zero weather prevails southward to New Mexico, Kansas and Iowa, and eastward to Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, the coldest being 30 deg. to 34 deg. below zero to the northward of Montana. The southwestern storm has advanced its center to Southeastern Louisiana. During the past twenty-four hours this disturbance caused light to heavy rain or snow in the eastern lake region. North Atlantic states, the Ohio and Lower Mississippi valleys, Tennessee, Kansas, Oklahoma and the region surrounding the Gulf of Mexico, besides higher temperatures in extreme Southeastern states.

"The present cold wave has begun to moderate in Western Montana and North Pacific districts, but temperatures will continue below zero at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following were the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve ending at 7 a. m. today:

You Never Miss the Water Till the Well Runs Dry.

The lessons that my mother taught to me were quite a charm:
She would often take me on her knee, when tired of childish play,
And as she pressed me to her breast I've heard her say:

Chorus:
"Waste not, want not, is a maxim I would teach,
Let your watchword be dispatch, and practice what you preach;
Do not let your chances like sunbeams pass you by,
For you never miss the water till the well runs dry."

As years rolled on I grew to be a mischief making boy,
Destruction seemed my only sport, it was my only joy;
And well do I remember, when ofttimes well chastised,
How father sat beside me then, and thus has me advised:

Chorus:
Waste not, want not, etc.

When I arrived at manhood I embarked in public life,
And found it was a ragged road, bestrewn with care and strife;
I speculated foolishly, my losses were severe;
But still a tiny little voice kept whispering in my ear:

Chorus:
Waste not, want not, etc.

Then I studied strict economy, and found to my surprise
My funds, instead of sinking, very quickly then did rise;
I grasped each chance and always "struck the iron while 'twas hot,"
I seized my opportunities and never once forgot.

Chorus:
Waste not, want not, etc.

I'm married now and happy, I've a charming little wife,
We live in peace and harmony, devoid of care and strife;
Fortune smiles upon us, we have little children three;
The lessons that I teach them, as they prattle round my knee:

Chorus:
Waste not, want not, is a maxim I would teach,
Let your watchword be dispatch and practice what you preach;
Do not let your chances, like sunbeams pass you by,
For you never miss the water till the well runs dry.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Money could do a lot more for a man if he wanted it to do less.

The reason a man has faults is that if he didn't they would be vices.

There's more brotherly love in a kind word than in a truckload of tracts.

In the Lily Trade.

Puck: After a short search the man was discovered carefully painting the lily.

"Go to, thou fool!" sneered that majority which is ever the slave of tradition.

But the man explained. "This is a 1909 lily," he said. "By painting it, I make it the 1910 model. As soon as people see it they will throw away all their old lilies and buy new."

And lo, it was as he predicted.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Duluth Turnverein association's hall was destroyed by fire early this morning, causing a loss of $11,000 or $12,000 on the building, which was insured for $8,000. The turning apparatus and other hall fixtures, valued at $3,500, were insured for $2,000. J. Schumann's three-story building and dwelling were burned. He had $3,100 insurance. The two-story dwelling owned by David D. Jones, foreman for Scott & Holston, and occupied by S. E. Webb and family, was destroyed with all its contents. Jones had $1,000 insurance and Webb had $700 on his furniture. The saloon of H. Meyer and Webb's grocery store were also burned. Meyer had $800 insurance, and Webb's grocery stock, valued at $3,000, was insured for $1,600. The total loss was nearly $30,000.

Manager John Gordon of the Northern Steamship line has made the following appointments of masters to the steamers of the line: Northern Wave, M. H. Murch; Northern Queen, E. M. Smith; Northern King, C. W. Brown; North Wind, Delos Waite; North Star, Arthur Thorne; Northern Light, C. S. Furey.

C. H. Foster says he owns the oldest map of the Head of the Lakes that is in existence. It was made in 1825 by a midshipman under Lieut. Bayfield, R. N., and is very interesting. That was about the time the American Fur company had its headquarters at Fond du Lac.

The lake today is rougher than at any time for a year past. The strong northeaster is sending in huge waves, each one pushing on hundreds of tons of slush ice. Communication with Park Point was cut off about 6 o'clock, and since then the water in the inner harbor has risen several feet, flooding the ice in the slips and suspending the operations of the men who were cutting ice for cold storage purposes. At one place on the north pier there is a solid drift of ice about twelve feet high.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Should Be Left as It Is.

Eveleth News: A gentleman who is both a big business man and level-headed, said to a News reporter lately: "I have no objection to Duluth keeping the county seat, for one very good reason—whenever I have occasion to go to Duluth on county seat business, I usually transact other business that would necessitate a trip there anyway." On reflection, there is considerable to be said on this score. As the big town, wholesale, mining and railroad center of this region, range business men will always have more or less occasion to travel to Duluth whether it remains the county seat of St. Louis county as a whole or were it split in twain or infinitesimal partitions.

"'T was Ever Thus."

Virginia Enterprise: Down at Duluth the candidate of the Duluth News Tribune most naturally got trimmed in the race for the mayoralty. 'T was ever thus, since before the time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

And For Special Privilege.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: In the news columns of the Ore today will be found a story taken from The Duluth Evening Herald, which shows the sad condition of the average laboring man of that city. The article states that the laborer cannot make enough to live on, and the same condition is reported from nearly all of the larger cities of the country. This goes to show that "Republican times" are better than "Democratic times." Much better—for the party leaders and their beneficiaries.

A Sign of the Times?

Wabasha Herald (Dem.): Duluth last Tuesday elected a Democratic mayor, and seven out of eleven aldermen chosen were Democrats. Coming events cast their shadows before.

Watch Duluth's Smoke.

Hutchinson Leader: The port of Duluth handles more tonnage in the eight months navigation is open than any other American port with the one exception of New York, which is open twelve months. The record for 1909 for the Duluth port was nearly 33,000,000 tons, two-thirds of which was iron ore, one-sixth coal, and one-twelfth grains and flour. The number of vessels arriving at the harbor during the year was 5,209, an average of twenty-one a day, Sundays included, for the eight months, and 5,294 departed from the port in the same period. Few people of Southern Minnesota have the slightest realization of the magnitude of the business represented by these figures. Minnesota is a great state—greater than we know who live the simple life on her Southern farms and in her quiet country villages.

Shadows.

The baby says she's sleepy now,
And sister says she's sleepy, too,
And all the fun and rowdy-dow—
And all the scamper 'round and through
The house for this one day is done,
And they are in their little beds;
May angels guard each little one!
God bless their yellow, curly heads!

When they're in bed and fast asleep,
A rounded arm 'neath each wee head,
Each one a pink and comfy heap,
Each one with her wee prayers all said,
We tiptoe out and leave them there
In their wee beds across the hall,
And never, never do we fare
Beyond the baby's easy call.

But when the day is done, and when
The lights are blinking through the night,
We sit and think of all the fun
The day has held, and the delight,
And of each love, and every squeeze
By baby arms, and each mishap;
And pinch again the dimpled knees,
And hold the babies in our lap.

And never is a day too long—
Nay, never is one long enough!
The romping, laughter, and the song,
The baby lovings, is the stuff
Of which our happiness is made,
Their laugh is pleasure to our ears,
Oft have we wished the day had stayed,
And stayed, and stayed a million years.

Responsibility comes down
Nights when we sit there all alone,
And shadows black and umber brown,
And doubts the daylight had not known
Come trooping out from where they stay,
And laugh at us, and gibe and jeer,
The shadows at the end of day
Always come to us clothed with fear.

And that is why we wish the day
Would stay, and night would never fall
And babies all would romp and play
And run with us and laugh and call,
Because we fear for them at night,
And plan and build for the glad two,
And know that we have little might!
Just God can make our dreams come true.

Edison the Optimist.

Boston Globe: Those are most delightful dreams in which Thomas A. Edison revels. Science and social labor, he believes, will completely transform the world and dominate the future. The problems of fuel, of cheap motive power, of aerial navigation, of supplying abundant food and clothing to every one and of cheap, warm and comfortable housing for all the world are to be solved, and "in 200 years, by the cheapening of commodities, the ordinary laborer will live as well as the man of today who has $200,000 annual income. Automatic machinery and scientific agriculture will bring about this result. Industry will constantly become more social and interdependent. There will be no manual labor in the factories of the future. The men in them will be merely superintendents watching the machinery to see that it works right."

Edison's advantage over the famous dreamers of the past—Plato, Sir Thomas More and other Utopians, including even Bellamy and Howells—is in fact that he possesses some sort of scientific basis for his visions, some sort of scientific reason for the hope that is in him. The world needs such dreamers in its business. [illegible] says the Yankee Buddha. But Edison sees not only the "plan," but also the details. And meanwhile, until Edison's two centuries shall have elapsed, it is a problem for each one to ignore as far as possible the increasing cost of living, which they say is only temporary, and to follow the example of Voltaire's Candide, who after a life of many vicissitudes, decided that the best thing to do was to "dig in his garden."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Judge: "I thought you told me these lots would double in value in two years, and here's a man offering me exactly what I gave for them."

"Yes; but you forgot you gave twice as much as they were worth."

Cleveland Leader: China Merchant—Heavens! I've broken a piece out of that expensive dinner set.

Old Clerk—Cheer up. Mend it with glue; set it where some customer will knock it to the floor with his coat and charge him for the whole set.

St. Louis Star: A Harvard professor favors a revision of the Ten Commandments.

Ultimate Consumer—Gee whiz! Upward or downward?

Washington Star: "I thought you said you told your wife everything you did."

"I do."

"It's mighty strange. She hasn't said a word to my wife about the $10 you borrowed from me."

Houston Post: "When I returned from my poker party last night my wife just looked at me; not a word was spoken."

"My wife looked at me, too and I don't believe that a word was unspoken."

Illustrated Bits—Hardup—There was a time when people used to say that I had more money than brains, but they can't say that now.

Wife—Why not?

Hardup—Because I've come down to my last shilling.

Wife—Well, you've still got a shilling.

Newark News: "Is your new girl getting so that she can understand English?" asked the caller.

"No," replied Mrs. Keepouse, "but I am learning Hungarian rapidly."

Boston Transcript: Suffragette—We believe that a woman should get a man's wages.

Married Man—Well, judging from my own experience, she does.

Chicago News: "What is love?" she asked.

"Love," he answered, "is a brand of insanity that makes a man call a 200-pound woman his little tootsy wootsy."

Philadelphia Record: Tommy—Pop, what is the difference between a probability and a possibility?

Tommy's Pop—A probability, my son, is something you want to happen.

Detroit Free Press: "Is he a man to be trusted?"

"Absolutely. You may even have a cigar exposed in your vest pocket and he won't reach over and grab it."

Buffalo Express: "Whitcomb is an independent thinker."

"He is?"

"Yes, he even dares to say the clock in the railroad station is wrong."

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: A woman would much rather break bad news than a bad egg.

The more you know about some things the worse off you are.

How a little man enjoys posing before the big end of a field glass!

The less a man has to do the more he has to say about being pressed for time.

Nothing pleases a fat woman more than to have her husband call her his little girl.

Nowadays when a girl acts shy it's dollars to doughnuts that her mother is on the watch.

The man who is unable to appreciate a pretty woman hasn't any more sense than he is entitled to.

It's awfully surprising to kiss your sister in the dark when you think it is another girl who is visiting her.

Bear Ye One Another's Burdens.

Galatians 6:1-10: Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual restore such a one in the spirit of meekness, considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted.

Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.

For if a man think himself to be something, when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself.

But let every man prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoicing in himself alone, and not in another.

Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things.

Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap.

For he that soweth to his flesh, shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit, shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.

And let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap if we faint not.

As we have, therefore, opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith.

Wishing.

I'd like to be the butterfly with gaily painted wings;
I'd like to be the robin that in the elm swings;
I'd like to be the big red rose that climbs the garden wall;
I'd like to be the crickets that dance so joyous in the fall;
I'd like to be the fairy queen within the leaves;
I'd like to be the speckled trout that leaps up in the brook.
[illegible]
Yet I cannot be anything but just a little girl.

RULES ON ROADS WITHIN PLANTS

Traffic Board Holds That They Are Facilities of the Industries.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Service performed by a private railroad within an industrial plant is held by the interstate commerce commission to be a plant facility. It further is held that the expense of operating such a line must be borne entirely by the owners of the manufacturing or industrial plant, and that no railroad, under the guise of absorption of a switching charge, may lawfully sustain the private road.

The question arose in the case of the [illegible] Iron Works of Pennsylvania against the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey. While the opinion is particularly applicable to the case in hand, it is of general application to conditions of a similar kind elsewhere in the country.

A Common Cold.

[illegible] that if catching cold could be avoided some of the most dangerous and fatal diseases would never be heard of. A cold often forms a culture bed for germs of infectious diseases. Consumption, pneumonia, diphtheria and scarlet fever, four of the most dangerous and fatal diseases, are of this class. The culture bed formed by the cold favors the development of the germs of these diseases, that would not otherwise find lodgment. There is little danger, however, of any of these diseases being contracted when a good expectorant cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It cleans out these culture beds that favor the development of the germs of these diseases. That is why this remedy has proved so universally successful in preventing pneumonia. It not only cures your cold quickly, but minimizes the risk of contracting these dangerous diseases. For sale by all druggists.

LYCEUM—The Yankee Doodle Stock company, in "The Dangers of Working Girls."

The Stock Company.

At the Lyceum tomorrow night the Yankee Doodle Stock company, which is now playing "The Dangers of Working Girls," will present a pretty four-act melodrama entitled "The Great Devereux Case."

This play differs widely from the ordinary melodrama and it tells a charming love story in an original style. Its scenes are laid in rural New England and in New York city, and its story deals with the fight of a young lawyer for the name and birthright of the girl he loves.

It will be played tomorrow and Saturday nights and at the Saturday matinee.

"Thelma" will be the offering Sunday afternoon and night.

The play is a clever dramatization of Marie Corelli's popular novel of the same name, and tells a pretty romance of love in Norway and England.

It will be seen for two performances only, those of Sunday afternoon and evening.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Most Popular Because It Is the Best.

"I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past eight years and find it to be one of the best selling medicines on the market. For babies and young children there is nothing better in the line of cough syrups," says Paul Allen, Plain Dealing, La. This remedy not only cures the coughs, colds and croup so common among young children, but is pleasant and safe for them to take. For sale by all druggists.

SEAMSTRESSES GET $40,000 UNDER HIS WILL.

New York, Feb. 17.—The sum of $40,000 will be divided among deserving seamstresses in New York and vicinity through the generosity of an old-time actor, Henry Howard Paul, whose will has been declared valid in the supreme court. Mr. Paul died in England in 1905 and left two wills, disposing, respectively, of his property in England and America. The clause in the American will which caused a lengthy legal controversy reads:

"The sum remaining (which amounts to about $40,000) I devise to my executors to divide the surplus among such American charities as they think well of, and I would like these sums given to any charity that assists poor seamstresses, whose toil is so poorly requited."

ESCAPE FIRE POORLY CLAD

Fifteen People Sleeping in East Grand Forks Building Scared.

Fire Started on Outside of Structure, Firebugs Being Blamed.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Incendiaries are suspected of staring a fire which routed fifteen persons sleeping on the second floor of the Star restaurant here about 3:30 this morning. The sleepers were obliged to flee from the burning building scantily clad, but were fortunate to escape at all. The blaze was started on the outside of the building and it was practically completely destroyed.

BANKER FACING FORGERY CHARGE

Cashier of Bowesmont, N. D., Bank Alleged to Have Made False Report.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ralph Sowle, cashier of the Bowesmont N. D., state bank, has been arrested, charged with forgery in connection with making reports of the bank's condition to the state examiner.

He waived examination and was bound over to the district court, being in jail at Pembina now in default of $4,000 bail.

The shortage in the bank is about $16,000, the exact amount not being known. The institution was closed about five weeks ago by the state examiner.

Sowle is a former Minneapolis man who came to Bowesmont only four years ago.

His wife has resided there during the past year.

RAZOR STROP CAUSE OF VICIOUS BATTLE

Two Hancock Men Fight Duel That Nearly Has Fatal Ending.

Hancock, Mich., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.—A common, insignificant razor strop was the cause of a hand-to-hand battel waged at a Franklin boarding house Sunday evening by two full grown hill dwellers, as a result of which Emilio Mugnani is lying at the boarding house of Alfredo Fredenelli with his head almost severed from his shoulders, and his breast hacked and gashed with a network of slashes, while Frank Tabaracci occupies a cell at the Houghton county jail, nursing a cracked cranium.

The dispute came up after a dance Sunday night. Each of the men claimed the razor strop. There being no arbitration board, they decided to settle the dispute with arms.

The affair did not come to the ears of the authorities until late Monday afternoon, when Judge C. O. Oliver, accompanied the sheriff to Franklin and investigated. They found Mugnani a powerful speciment of manhood, stretched on a bed with a gapping wound in his throat, and his breast a mass of bandages. Tabaracci, although his head pained him somewhat, was not in so severe a plight, and he was at once arrested on a warrant charging assault with intent to kill. A similar warrant has been issued for Mugnani, who will be arrested as soon as he is in condition to leave his bed. The men will be given a hearing as soon as it is possible for Mugnani to appear.

ALL PRAISE VERY HIGHLY

That Well Known Woman's Tonic, Cardui, So Says Mrs. Bryner, of Cameron, Ill.

Cameron, Ill.—"All my lady friends," writes Mrs. A. Bryner, of Cameron, "whom I have induced to take Cardui, praise it very highly.

"About five years ago, I was all run down. I had been afflicted with female trouble for several years.

"The doctor told me I would have to have an operation, but I began to take Cardui and before I had taken half a bottle, I felt like a different woman.

"I am only too glad to give you the privilege of printing my testimony, if it will induce any suffering woman to try your wonderful medicine."

In cases of serious sickness, dragging on for months or years, it is certainly important that the patient should get the medicine most likely to do her good.

How can you tell?

By reading the record of its success, in cases similar to yours.

Has any medicine an equal record to Cardui in the length of time it has been used by the people and in the relief it has brought to thousands of suffering women?

No; not one.

Try Cardui, then, for your troubles, for it will surely help you.

Your druggist will recommend it: if you ask him.

N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

PIONEER EDITOR HEEDS LAST CALL

George W. Benedict, One of Minnesota's Early Day Publishers, Dead.

He came to Sauk Rapids in 1854, when only little fringes of settlements existed in all Northern and Northwestern Minnesota. He spent fifty-six years of his life in the state. In the early days he did more to advertise this particular section than any other individual. He was a printer and identified himself with the Sauk Rapids Frontiersman, long since forgotten. In 1858 he founded the Sauk Rapids New Era.

Finding his income inadequate to meet his needs, simple as they were, Mr. Benedict in 1860 accepted employment on the Times of St. Paul. He was afterwards foreman of the Press, and in 1864 took charge of the mechanical department of the Pioneer.

Sauk Rapids reclaimed him in 1868 when he returned and started the Sauk Rapids Sentinel. Ever since, that place had been his home. He was editor of the Sentinel until November, 1903, when he sold it and retired permanently from the newspaper business.

Mr. Benedict held many offices of a public nature. He was appointed clerk of the district court of Benton county in 1856, and was a member of the state senate in 1874. Appointed a deputy revenue collector in 1876, he held this office a term of four years.

His wife, a sister of Mrs. C. A. Gilman, wife of a former lieutenant governor of Minnesota, died in 1890. No near relatives, so far as known, survive him.

GIANT HAUL OF FISH.

One Hundred Tons Taken From Lake Near Red Wing.

Red Wing, Minn., Feb. 17.—What is believed to be the largest single haul of rough fish by seine on the upper Mississippi inland lal., in these parts was made by David Gautenbein at Tetonka lake near Waterville, by means 1,800 feet of seine and the assistance of a crew of seven men, hauled in 100 tons of rough fish. Most of the fish were of the buffalo species and they were unusually large. One of the fish topped the scales at 47½ pounds.

The afternoon's work netted Mr. Gautenbein $7,200. He states that he would have made a still larger haul had his seine not come in contact with heavy snags. One end of it was partly destroyed and several tons of fish escaped.

Mr. Gautenbein is one of the most successful rough fishermen in the country. He resides at Diamond Bluff, Wis., twelve miles up the river from Red Wing.

NOTED AUTHOR COMING.

Axel Maurer, Famous Norwegian Writer, to Visit Minnesota.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Axel Maurer, well known as a Norwegian playwright, author and raconteur, vice president of the Norwegian Dramatic Authors' association, correspondent of the Norwegian Daily Tagbladet and a representative of Nordmandsforbundet of Christiania, Norway, embracing people of Norwegian birth and ancestry all over the world, is in this country. He will deliver several lecture-recitals under the management of the Sons of Norway, the strongest Norwegian society in the United States, whose headquarters is in Minneapolis. His tour will embrace all principal cities of the Northwest.

TEST COMMISSION LAW.

Case Involving Rights of East Grand Forks Board Is On.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fight involving the constitutionality of the commission law of Minnesota, providing that city councils can appoint public utilities commissions, is now progressing very rapidly in the district court in Crookston. All of the evidence has been submitted, and arguments were commenced late yesterday afternoon and will be taken up again, probably, on Friday or Saturday. In the meantime the complete record of the case is being prepared.

In this city the commissioners are sueing the city treasurer to compel him to honor their warrants. It appears that the defendants are merely laying a basis for an appeal to the supreme court where the matter will finally be determined.

CALUMET & HECLA MINE FIRE SOON EXTINGUISHED.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Little damage resulted from the fire that broke out Monday evening in the No. 4 shaft of the Calumet & Hecla. Little trouble was experienced in extinguishing the blaze and the shaft was opened again Tuesday.

It is the belief that the blaze started from a lighted lamp left in the level by masons who were building a fire wall. As soon as the fire was discovered underground, Supt. Knox and other officials visited the scene of the fire. No. 4 was shut off from the other shafts by fire doors, and had the fire gained headway, it would have been confined to the No. 4 area.

MANDAN'S PROSPERITY MIRRORED IN REPORTS.

Mandan, N. D., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city is greatly pleased over the splendid showing that has been made in the postoffice during the past year, as mirrored by the receipts. A comparative statement of the receipts in 1908 and 1909 shows that during the last year a total of $12,596.98 was received, while in the year previous only $9,555.08 was realized, thus giving the year of 1909 a lead of $3,041.90, an increas of about 30 per cent.

Another very creditable showing is made in the banks of the city which have at the present time deposits amounting to $1,755,763.06. Five years ago the deposits were only about one-half of their present figure, thus it is shown that great gains have been made.

And so you well might in days gone by. Then troubles such as yours meant a living death or the knife, that was often worse than death; but now, thanks to the generosity of Mrs. Miller, of Kokomo, the simple home treatment which has relieved so many thousands of ladies in the privacy of their own home is yours to accept or reject. Don't say your case is hopeless, go on and suffer, or try to cure yourself. Many of the cases reported have been given up to die or the knife. Mrs. Miller's treatment benefited them. Can you doubt what it may do for you?

Send No Money, Just Your Name and Address, If You Are a Sufferer From Any Women's Diseases or Piles.

In the past few years Mrs. Miller has spent thousands of dollars in sending medicine to afflicted women.

Several years ago Mrs. Miller learned of a mild and simple preparation that cured herself and several friends of female weakness and piles. She was besieged by so many women needing treatment that she decided to furnish it to those who might call for it. She started with only a few dollars capital, and the remedy, possessing true and wonderful merit, produced wonderful results where doctors and other remedies failed. The demand grew so rapidly she was several times compelled to seek larger quarters. She now occupies one of the city's largest office buildings, and almost one hundred lady clerks and stenographers are required to assist in this great business.

Some time ago it was announced that she would give to women who suffered from female diseases another $10,000.00 worth of her medicine. She has fulfilled this promise, but as she is still receiving bequests from thousands upon thousands of women from all parts of the world, who have not yet used her remedy, she has decided to continue to give away the medicine to those who are suffering and unable to find relief.

Mrs. Miller's wonderful remedy is especially prepared for the treatment of leucorrhea or whitish discharges, ulceration, displacements or falling of the womb, profuse, scanty or painful periods, uterine or ovarian tumors or growths; also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, ho flashes, weariness and piles from any cause or no matter of how long standing.

Every woman sufferer, unable to find relief, who will write Mrs. Miller now, without delay, will receive by mail, free of charge, a 50-cent box of her simple home remedy, also her book with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer and how they can treat themselves at home without the aid of a physician.

Let me try to relieve you of those tormenting and severe pains. The coupon below, dear, may bring you relief. Send it today.

How To Treat Any Case of Piles

I want to tell you flatly and plainly that any woman, or man either, for that matter, who suffers from any form of piles, may place their faith in my treatment and I believe they will not be disappointed. It's intended for piles as well as the diseases peculiar to women. It assists in healing diseased membrane surfaces, no matter where located, and I verily believe that this remedy has cured more bad cases of piles of all kinds than all the so-called "pile cures" and doctors in the country. My remedy acts speedily. It's safe and it's lasting. The purpose is to relieve the intense torture, the burning, smarting and itching is relieved and you should feel better right from the start. Send for my free treatment at once and see for yourself.

Why Men Desert Wives

A Large Per Cent of the Wife Desertions and Divorces Due To Female Weakness.

I should have taken better care of myself, I suppose. I was sick and suffering. No one but a woman can ever know how I suffered. I was irritable. I couldn't be to my husband the wife that I ought to have been. He, being a man, couldn't understand. We drifted apart. Finally there was nothing but the divorce court that could settle our differences.

That's the sad story that eight out of every ten women who have passed through the ordeal of the divorce court, as well as the countless thousands of deserted wives who are not divorced, know deep down in their hearts was the real cause of their troubles.

A sick wife, a neglected home, and the publicity and disgrace of the court-room to end it all. There wouldn't be half as much talk of the divorce evil in the world if only every wife and mother would realize her duty to preserve her health and strength.

No woman has the right to expect her husband to devote his leisure hours to his home and her when she is leading a dragged-out, hopeless, down-in-the-mouth existence that would discourage the greatest optimist on earth.

Mrs. Cora B. Miller's marvelous home remedy has done as much to prevent divorce as all the messages to congress and conventions in the world. The woman who is bright and cheerful and well has a home that reflects her own good feeling and discontent finds no place therein.

Mrs. Miller's aid and advice is as free to you as God's sunshine or the air you breathe. She wants to show to you that her common-sense home treatment may relieve you just as surely as it cured her years ago in her humble cottage.

If you are a sufferer from any female trouble, no matter what it is, send the coupon below to Mrs. Cora B. Miller at once.

Put Your Faith in Mrs. Miller

My word that my home treatment should relieve you of female diseases or piles doesn't necessarily mean anything. But when my word and medicine are backed up by thousands of ladies, that's evidence you cannot doubt. There is hardly a county or small village in the land that does not contain some poor sufferer that was relieved. I didn't force them to use my medicine. They took it of their own free will and it benefited them. You should have faith in that sort of a remedy every time. Just cut out the coupon, send it today and prove what this marvelous treatment will do for you.

This Noted Divine Says:

"I am personally acquainted with Mrs. Cora B. Miller. I most cheerfully and voluntarily testify that myself and family have been greatly benefited by the use of Mrs. Miller's home remedies and heartily recommend them to the general public."—Rev. R. G. Roscamp, 30 Terrace Ave., Newcastle, Pa.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

THE CONNECTION.

We are still studying the Sermon on the Mount. The golden rule may have been in part anticipated by other teachers. Some Jewish and Gentile philosophers had put it in a negative form. It was the glory of Jesus that He took up the best that men know how to say, made it still better and then made it practicable. Jesus here teaches the highest possible interest in others and gives us the power to practice it. No one can live up to these instructions without help from God. They are too good for unregenerate human nature.

I.

Foolish Treatment of Others, 1-6.

"Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what what measure we mete, it shall be measured unto you. And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, let me cast out the mote out of thine eye; and lo, the beam is in thine own eye? Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

"Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast your pearls before the swine, lest haply they trample them under their feet, and turn and rend you."

1. CENSORIOUSNESS VERSUS WISDOM.—He does not forbid the forming of accurate estimates of people, but the passing of severe condemnation upon them—"a Pharisiac vice, that of exalting ourselves by disparaging others." Such censoriousness sees faults rather than virtues and shows moral blindness. It enjoys faults rather than virtues, and thus shows more perverseness. The spirit of faultfinding and mud-flinging is as rampant now as it was then. The unjust criticism of public men is frightful, for it not only passes judgment on their acts as public servants, which is not wrong, but it impugns their motives and casts aspersions upon their characters with unhesitating impudence—yet this is a reflection of what is constantly said about private people as well. The freedom with which many papers deal with private motives is the necessary outcome of the way motives are judged in private. Strange that we enjoy the dross more than the gold, the filth more than the purity in the world.

2. RETRIBUTION.—The spirit of such a censor deserves punishment, invites it and will receive it, according to God's promise. For ages the Jews judged the Gentiles harshly and for ages the Gentiles showed the Jews no mercy. At Christ's judgment seat we will be treated the way we have treated His little ones.

3. SELF-DECEPTION.—The censor is usually worse than those he harshly judges, for in his eye is something as large as a beam in comparison with the little speck lodged in his brother's eye. Ignorance of oneself is at the bottom of misjudgment of others. The fault-finder should look nearer home and be quiet. He combines the spirit of the vulture and the spirit of Mephistopheles.

4. HYPOCRISY.—The word hypocrite means one who wears a mask. He usually pretends to a desire to relieve the other, "brother let me cast the mote out of thine eye." The assumption of superiority and the pretense of sympathy gives him his working reason for censoriousness. Jesus implies one real reason for desiring first a clear, pure vision—that he may trully assist his unfortunate brother.

5. PURBLIND STUPIDITY.—It must be discriminating, as verse 6 enjoins. Dogs and swine were unclean animals and to throw to them the sacred food of the temple or jewels that men and women are to wear is criminal indiscretion. While not being censorious, the representatives of Christ are to know people and adapt the truths to their moral conditions or the degree of their development. It requires sharp, clear discrimination. To feed strong men with milk and the babe with solid food; to threaten the penitent with hell and promise the reprobate a glorious heaven; to express to mixed and unsympathetic people those delicate experiences of religion which only the most pious can understand and appreciate—all these things seem forbidden by Jesus.

II.

"Ask and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you; for every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened. Or what man is there of you, who, if his son shall ask him for a loaf, will give him a stone; or if he shall ask for a fish, will give him a serpent? If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father who is in heaven give good things to them that ask Him? All things therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also unto them; for this is the law and the prophets."

1. HELP!—As He went on talking about the great and responsible duties, they would feel their utter inability to perform them. It is beyond the power of human nature, unless God can help. And He will, Jesus says.

2. HOW?—Complete effort is necessary, so complete that it requires three words to express it: ask, seek, knock, indicating desire, determination and persistence. This requires concentration on our part and develops further power. God holds back some of His answers till He can draw us out fully.

3. CERTAINLY!—For He is our Father. That settles it. An earthly father would help his child and would not give supposed help only to mock him. That father might give a round little stone that looks like a barley loaf, or a serpent that closely resembles a certain kind of fish, but he would not do so cruel and unnatural a thing even though a weak man. Of course our Father could not. He is loving and desires to give; wise and knows what and when to give; mighty and is able to give. The argument is complete. God will help us treat our brothers right.

4. GOLDEN CONDUCT.—We put others and ourselves on the same level, as children of the same Father. We do not give them or ourselves the advantage. We love them well, for it is as we love ourselves, and that is great love. We ought to love ourselves well, in order to have a very high standard of love for them. That is very different from the teaching of Isocrates, the Greek philosopher—"what would anger you, if done to you by others, that do not to them." The maxim of Isocrates appeals to self-love; the maxim of Jesus appeals to God's fatherhood. It is different from the saying of Confucius, "Do not to others what you would not have them do to you." That is good so far, but it simply enjoins self-protection, and not necessarily active unselfish effort in behalf of others. Thus we are to give as our Father gives to us who ask, and seek and knock.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

This sin (harsh judging) grows in evil times; for instance, during a war or pestilence, as rapidly as selfishness does. Everybody is busy finding fault, and few take time to notice the deeds that are praiseworthy. The practice is not only sinful in itself, but promotes other sins; for many a man will expend so much conscientiousness upon the severe condemnation of others' faults that he has not enough left for his own; nay, will even think that, having passed merited condemnation upon wrong-doing in others, he is thereby more at liberty to do wrong himself. We ought to judge ourselves strictly and judge others leniently.—Broadus.

The "Golden Rule" is attached to these thoughts by a "therefore," which seems to imply the unspoken thought of imitation of God in our giving. He gives us like the fathers of our flesh; let us give like him. Another link of connection may also be that the desires which, directed to God, have just been said to be the condition and measure of our gifts from Him, are now taken as, when directed toward men, the measure of our obligations to them.—Maclaran.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Is not every condemnation of another a reflection on ourselves?
2. Is our duty limited by our present ability or by God's ability to help?
3. Why can we ask God for everything we need in doing His will?
4. Why are we to treat others as God treats us?
5. Why is self-denial rational?

The Cause of Colds

Good Advice Regarding the Prevention of Coughs and Colds.

If people would only fortify and strengthen the system, the majority of cases of coughs, colds and pneumonia might be avoided. These troubles are frequently due to weakness, which produces a catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane, which is an internal skin of the body. When this skin is weakened it becomes easily infected with germs which cause many of the diseases to which flesh is heir. Healthy mucous membranes are essential safeguards of the body's general health.

An excellent aid in the prevention of coughs, colds, pneumonia, and such like infectious diseases, is a remedy that will prevent or cure catarrh.

We have a remedy which we honestly believe to be unsurpassed in excellence for the prevention of coughs, colds and all catarrahal conditions. It is the prescription of a famous physician, who has an enviable reputation of thirty years of cures gained through the use of this formula. We promise to make no charge for the medicine should it fail to do as we claim. We urge everybody who has need of such a medicine to try Rexall Mucu-Tone.

It stands to reason that we could not afford to make such statements and give our own personal guarantee to this remedy if we were not prepared to prove the reasonableness of our claim in every particular, and we see no reason why any one should hesitate to accept our offer and try it. We have two sizes of Rexall Mucu-Tone, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Sometimes a 50-cent bottle is sufficient to give marked relief. As a general thing the most chronic case is relieved with an average of three large bottles. You can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store.—The Rexall Store. E. M. Governor Eberhart Asked to State Position on County Option.

Anti-Saloon League's Secretary Says Issue Must Be Met.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart is called upon to declare his position clearly and unequivocally upon the county option question. The demand is made in a statement issued by Secretary P. J. Youngdahl of the Anti-Saloon league, from which the following is an extract.

"We take exception to the statement made yesterday by the governor when he says that county option is a problem for the legislature. It is the governor's duty to recommend salutary legislation just as much as it is the duty of the president of this country, and it is as much his function as it is his to enforce the laws that exist.

"We also object to the statement that he has no right to commit himself, thereby committing the Republican party. We object to this on the ground that no individual can commit a party, as that is done in the platform of the party, and, further, the county option forces of the state feel that the time has come to settle this question in open issue.

Party Should Choose Issues.

"A great many of the county optionists are Republicans. We feel that too long the parties have nominated candidates first and then fixed up issues to suit them. We feel the time has come when the members of the party should choose the issues for the campaign and then nominate men for office who can stand upon those issues.

"If we were brewers, or saloon people we should certainly want to know how the governor, who is at present the only man in the race for the nomination for governor, in the party, stands on the question, and we feel certain that they will know, if they do not know already. Consequently we feel that our people have the right to know before we can agree to give him our support.

Should Speak Clearly.

"An attempt to evade the issue we feel sure will meet with the disapproval of both sides. Consequently, unless the governor changes front and decides to make his position clear without question, the county option forces of the state will have to look to some other man.

"This matter, as well as other matters of the same kind, will be taken up at the convention to be held in St. Paul on March 2. At that time 1,500 delegates from all over the state will gather. Whatever decision is reached at that time the league will abide by."

Firm That Managed Hocking Pool Expelled From the Stock Exchange.

New York, Feb. 17.—Henry S. Haskins, board member of the stock exchange firm of Lathrop, Haskins & Co., which failed with the recent collapse of the Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron pool, has been declared ineligible for reinstatement on the exchange because of his firm's connection with the fiasco. As Mr. Haskins was the only member of the firm having a seat on the exchange, the action is equivalent to expulsion. His seat will be sold and he never will be able to become a member of the exchange again.

The report of the committee on insolvencies was submitted to the governing committee of the stock exchange late yesterday afternoon and approved by that body.

Lathrop, Haskins & Co. were the managers of the Columbus & Hocking Coal & Iron pool, according to testimony recently brought, and James R. Keene manipulated the stock market. Two other stock exchange houses—J. M. Fiske & Co. and Roberts, Hall & Criss—have yet to appear before the governors of the exchange for their participation in the pool. Several other members of the exchange, whose connection with the movement in the shares of the company was less direct, are also to come up for trial.

Nebraska Pardon Board Would Have Him Perfect His Aeroplane.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 17.—Judge Estelle of the district court has been notified by the state pardon board that if he will designate a suitable person to take charge of him, William Howard, a convict in the state penitentiary will be paroled to enable him to perfect his invention of a self-balancing aeroplane, which prison authorities are convinced will be an improvement over any machine now in use.

Howard was sent to the penitentiary from Omaha in 1907 on conviction of burglary. He was known as an inventor before that. He has in his cell now a model of his proposed airship. The necessary financial backing for the manufacture of his invention is said to be promised.

Mr. E. A. Kelley, Belvidere, Ill., writes us: "I am an ex-engineer with 22 years active service to my credit. About three years ago my kidneys were affected so that I had to give up my engine. First I was troubled with severe, aching pain over the hips. Then followed inflammation of the bladder, and specks appeared before my eyes. A sample of Foley's Kidney Pills that I tried so benefited me that I bought more. I continued to take them until now I can safely testify they have made me a sound and well man." Rabbi Levy Has Secured 35,000 Acres in Georgia as Part of Movement.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 17.—Announcement has been made that Rabbi A. I. Levy, pastor of a large congregation in Chicago, has closed the purchase of 35,000 acres of farm lands in Pierce county, Ga., to be used in the Jewish agricultural movement, which was inaugurated in 1880. The purpose of this plan is to gather Jews who are dissatisfied with conditions in the larger cities and to furnish a wholesome agricultural life for those who care to take up such careers.

This is the first definite step in procuring property for such colonies to begin operations upon. It is said this purchase is regarded as an almost immediate beginning of a colony.

The hardest test is the test of time, and Doan's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Duluth. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:

Severe pains in the small of my back made stooping or lifting difficult and every cold I caught settled in my kidneys, aggravating my complaint. I was also subject to headaches and the kidney secretions often became highly colored and irregular in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I have not had a symptom of my trouble since."

The above statement was given on Oct. 20, 1904 and on Nov. 20, Mr. Hibke added: "Since using Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago I have had no need of a kidney remedy. I willingly confirm all I have previously said about this preparation, as I know it is very effective in cases of kidney complaint."

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

THE CONNECTION.

We are still studying the Sermon on the Mount. The golden rule may have been in part anticipated by other teachers. Some Jewish and Gentile philosophers had put it in a negative form. It was the glory of Jesus that He took up the best that men know how to say, made it still better and then made it practicable. Jesus here teaches the highest possible interest in others and gives us the power to practice it. No one can live up to these instructions without help from God. They are too good for unregenerate human nature.

I.

Foolish Treatment of Others, 1-6.

"Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what what measure we mete, it shall be measured unto you. And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, let me cast out the mote out of thine eye; and lo, the beam is in thine own eye? Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

"Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast your pearls before the swine, lest haply they trample them under their feet, and turn and rend you."

1\. CENSORIOUSNESS VERSUS WISDOM.—He does not forbid the forming of accurate estimates of people, but the passing of severe condemnation upon them—"a Pharisaic vice, that of exalting ourselves by disparaging others." Such censoriousness sees faults rather than virtues and shows moral blindness. It enjoys faults rather than virtues, and thus shows more perverseness. The spirit of faultfinding and mud-flinging is as rampant now as it was then. The unjust criticism of public men is frightful, for it not only passes judgment on their acts as public servants, which is not wrong, but it impugns their motives and casts aspersions upon their characters with unhesitating impudence—yet this is a reflection of what is constantly said about private people as well. The freedom with which many papers deal with private motives is the necessary outcome of the way motives are judged in private. Strange that we enjoy the dross more than the gold, the filth more than the purity in the world.

2\. RETRIBUTION.—The spirit of such a censor deserves punishment, invites it and will receive it, according to God's promise. For ages the Jews judged the Gentiles harshly and for ages the Gentiles showed the Jews no mercy. At Christ's judgment seat we will be treated the way we have treated His little ones.

3\. SELF-DECEPTION.—The censor is usually worse than those he harshly judges, for in his eye is something as large as a beam in comparison with the little speck lodged in his brother's eye. Ignorance of oneself is at the bottom of misjudgment of others. The fault-finder should look nearer home and be quiet. He combines the spirit of the vulture and the spirit of Mephistopheles.

4\. HYPOCRISY.—The word hypocrite means one who wears a mask. He usually pretends to a desire to relieve the other, "brother let me cast the mote out of thine eye." The assumption of superiority and the pretense of sympathy gives him his working reason for censoriousness. Jesus implies one real reason for desiring first a clear, pure vision—that he may truly assist his unfortunate brother.

5\. PURBLIND STUPIDITY.—It must be discriminating, as verse 6 enjoins. Dogs and swine were unclean animals and to throw to them the sacred food of the temple or jewels that men and women are to wear is criminal indiscretion. While not being censorious, the representatives of Christ are to know people and adapt the truths to their moral conditions or the degree of their development. It requires sharp, clear discrimination. To feed strong men with milk and the babe with solid food; to threaten the penitent with hell and promise the reprobate a glorious heaven; to express to mixed and unsympathetic people those delicate experiences of religion which only the most pious can understand and appreciate—all these things seem forbidden by Jesus.

II.

"Ask and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you; for every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened. Or what man is there of you, who, if his son shall ask him for a loaf, will give him a stone; or if he shall ask for a fish, will give him a serpent? If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father who is in heaven give good things to them that ask Him? All things therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also unto them; for this is the law and the prophets."

1\. HELP!—As He went on talking about the great and responsible duties, they would feel their utter inability to perform them. It is beyond the power of human nature, unless God can help. And He will, Jesus says.

2\. HOW?—Complete effort is necessary, so complete that it requires three words to express it: ask, seek, knock, indicating desire, determination and persistence. This requires concentration on our part and develops further power. God holds back some of His answers till He can draw us out fully.

3\. CERTAINLY!—For He is our Father. That settles it. An earthly father would help his child and would not give supposed help only to mock him. That father might give a round little stone that looks like a barley loaf, or a serpent that closely resembles a certain kind of fish, but he would not do so cruel and unnatural a thing even though a weak man. Of course our Father could not. He is loving and desires to give; wise and knows what and when to give; mighty and is able to give. The argument is complete. God will help us treat our brothers right.

4\. GOLDEN CONDUCT.—We put others and ourselves on the same level, as children of the same Father. We do not give them or ourselves the advantage. We love them well, for it is as we love ourselves, and that is great love. We ought to love ourselves well, in order to have a very high standard of love for them. That is very different from the teaching of Isocrates, the Greek philosopher—"what would anger you, if done to you by others, that do not to them." The maxim of Isocrates appeals to self-love; the maxim of Jesus appeals to God's fatherhood. It is different from the saying of Confucius, "Do not to others what you would not have them do to you." That is good so far, but it simply enjoins self-protection, and not necessarily active unselfish effort in behalf of others. Thus we are to give as our Father gives to us who ask, and seek and knock.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

This sin (harsh judging) grows in evil times; for instance, during a war or pestilence, as rapidly as selfishness does. Everybody is busy finding fault, and few take time to notice the deeds that are praiseworthy. The practice is not only sinful in itself, but promotes other sins; for many a man will expend so much conscientiousness upon the severe condemnation of others' faults that he has not enough left for his own; nay, will even think that, having passed merited condemnation upon wrong-doing in others, he is thereby more at liberty to do wrong himself. We ought to judge ourselves strictly and judge others leniently.—Broadus.

The "Golden Rule" is attached to these thoughts by a "therefore," which seems to imply the unspoken thought of imitation of God in our giving. He gives us like the fathers of our flesh; let us give like him. Another link of connection may also be that the desires which, directed to God, have just been said to be the condition and measure of our gifts from Him, are now taken as, when directed toward men, the measure of our obligations to them.—Maclaran.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Is not every condemnation of another a reflection on ourselves?
2. Is our duty limited by our present ability or by God's ability to help?
3. Why can we ask God for everything we need in doing His will?
4. Why are we to treat others as God treats us?
5. Why is self-denial rational?

FRENCH CHAMPION USES SOME OF THE TRICKS OF THE FIGHTING BULL PUP IN WRESTLING BOUTS

Does Not Hesitate at Bringing Teeth Into Play--Jeffries as an Aid to Publicity.

(BY BRUCE)

RAOUL DE ROUEN.

Raoul de Rouen is the name of a wrestler who might well spell his last name "Ruin."

His one aim seems to be to put out of commission all of the wrestlers in the business. When on the mat he is as savage as the villain in the play, and he wouldn't hesitate any more about sinking his molars into the white and pink complexion of his opponent than an alley-bred terrier would hesitate in mussing up the contour and general disposition of white Pomaranian.

Whether the big Frenchman is just naturally a peevish child of sunny France, or whether he is aware of the fact that the Bathhouse John line of mat conduct that he persists in, is a very big asset at the box office, is a fact that has not been established as clearly and as definitely as Dr. Cook's part in the recent controversy.

The fact just naturally remains, however, that this de Rouen person is about the mussiest child who ever tried to get an opponent's ear in his ivories.

In the days of the Molly McGuires of Pennsylvania, or the rough house days of the Bowery, hereabouts or in New York, this de Rouen person would have been in his prime. He could have battled to his heart's content under care free rules. In these days of agitation against football and the absence of Teddy from our midst, we can hardly stand for the masculine Carrie Nation conduct of this road to Rouen wrestler.

The other night in Omaha he attempted to land a Kerry Kid swing on ancient Sandy Griswold, the venerable and thoroughly respected sporting editor of one of the Omaha newspapers. The Scottish sporting writer was the referee in the wrestling match between de Rouen and Zbyszko.

Raoul missed the swing and the sporting writer just naturally planted the toe of his boot in the ribs of the big frog. A few more referees of the grim determination of the Griswold person, would do much to tame the impetuosity of the naughty de Rouen boy.

This de Rouen boy is just out of the truly great class. He is one of the strongest men on the mat. He has wrestled all of the best and they have had to work hard to beat him. He gave Champion Frank Gotch one of the hardest matches of his career at Kansas City a year ago, and since that time the Frenchman has improved a lot.

The big man from over the pond made an awful mistake when he started the roughhouse game with Humboldt Gotch. Gotch can take care of himself amply in wrestling rough sea: in fact he is one of the best little roughriders we have in the wrestling fraternity. He did a lot of taming to the de Rouen chap, but this de Rouen is one of those kind of people who have a short memory.

There was a time that the police of Chicago forbade the de Rouen lad to grapple in the city of Chicago. He was far too fond of throwing opponents at the heads of those who had paid good money for ringside seats.

He has performed a bit, as we all must in time; but yet he is one of the best biters, gougers, kneers, twisters, wrenchers, jabbers and general punishers we have in the game.

It might be humbly suggested that James J. Jeffries engage this person to work with, in preparation for the combat with black Jack. The afternoon soirees with big Rouen would furnish zest to the daily grind of training and would also furnish large Jim an incentive for renewed efforts whenever he slacked up a bit.

Some day this de Rouen person is going to stack up against some Battling Nelson of the mat. When he does he will be in for the gruelling of his gay young existence. The tough and enduring guy will just naturally go along for an hour or so with the Monsieur person and make his personal appearance not unlike that of a man who has been mixed up in a family dispute.

Until that time, however, he will probably experiment on the art of altering the human countenance.

* * *

Duluth the last week broke into public often and muchly. Several interviews with Jeffries were quoted in other newspapers as coming from this part of the country, and the Bailey moose meat incident was given wide publication. The farewell banquet of the Jeffries party was also the cause for wide comment in the sporting press. Why not hire the Jeffries person for a press agent? As soon as his wind improved he should do very well.

* * *

Jumping from the subject of Jeffries to the darker thought of Johnson, it might be stated that Saginaw, Mich., has placed the ban on the champion. When the black man gets in the lumbering town he will find that not one of the fifteen hotels will house his large frame. Unless some of the colored brethren will take him in and attempt to satisfy that large ingrowing appetite, the Johnson man will sleep in a tent, which his manager carries for such emergencies. Imagine sleeping in a tent in Saginaw in such weather! Maybe we can kill this troublesome person off before the Jeffries fight.

* * *

An eminent authority says prize fighters can't "come back." Burrell (by request) Smith was back yesterday; and then there is the case of Curley Ulrich always coming back.

* * *

Schmirler will be taken on the trip of the Comiskey White Sox and will be given every opportunity to make good. There have been a raft of players dropped from the roster of the Sox, so that the keeping of the former Duluth flinger speaks well for his chances.

* * *

Barney Oldfield says he is getting his second wind. He is having a new automobile built for him, which he says will be the fastest thing in the world. Barney has been so near death so many times that he must have a very good idea of—heaven, of course.

* * *

James J. Jeffries says he doesn't like to talk to the newspapers. Wouldn't it be a joke if the press would ignore the big fellow? How Sam Berger would suffer.

* * *

Didn't Samuel look perfectly scrumptious in his sea green tights? Jeff came very near hitting him once. Sam looked really frightened.

* * *

Sailor Jack is at last going to be given the opportunity he has waited some time for—that of really showing the Duluth wrestling followers what he can do. He has undertaken a large and laborious contract in agreeing to throw Mauritz Harris three times in an hour.

* * *

There seems to be a question as to whether Carrie Nation can "come back." There will be no need if Chicago really goes dry.

* * *

If Mrs. Nation really wants to reform something so dreadfully much, why does she not turn her attention to the Kansas City baseball team?

* * *

If Farmer Burns is really forty-nine, there is hope for us all.

* * *

If Theodore Roosevelt were president all this controversy regarding the site of the big fight would have been settled long ago. There are times when we miss him greatly.

* * *

If they really decide to hold the fight in 'Frisco, Govvy Spry of Utah will be forgotten.

* * *

Talk about the "golden" smile of Jack Johnson—what about the golden smile of Jeffries? He isn't smiling for his health.

SKI RECORDS ARE DOOMED

Great interest is being shown in the ski tournament that will be held at Coleraine Saturday and Sunday. A large crowd will make the trip from Duluth, while reports state that all of the range towns will send big delegations over to the model city.

If the reports of the steel slide of the Itasca club are correct, the national and even the world's record are very liable to be broken by the professionals Sunday. Ole Mangseth is credited with 157 feet in practice, or thirteen feet more than the American record.

Some of the very best riders in this country will compete in the Coleraine events. The winner of the professional class may find himself classed as the champion of the world.

A report from Coleraine states that if a member of the Itasca Ski club wins the tournament with a jump that breaks the world's record, that man will be sent to Europe to compete against the best riders of Europe.

The new steel slide of the Itasca Ski club is supposed to be the best in the world. It is expected that the American record will go by the boards in Sunday's events. The best ski riding ever witnessed in this country is looked for at the meet.

In addition to the riders from the Northwestern clubs, there will be a number of riders from Illinois at the Coleraine meet.

Racquet Stars Meet.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 17.—Racquet stars from all parts of the country were present today when the preliminary round in the American amateur championships were begun. A fair sized gallery witnessed the opening play. The matches will continue tomorrow and Saturday.

LEW POWELL IS AWARDED DECISION.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 17.—By an unwritten law in local boxing circles according to which the decision of a majority of the papers is accepted after a prize fight, Lew Powell has gained the verdict over George Memsic as a result of the 10-round battle Tuesday night. Two of the three morning papers declared yesterday that Powell was entitled to the decision; the other gave the honors to Memsic by a wide margin. Bets are paid here on the majority ruling.

Through the last half of the fight, Powell suffered from an accidental foul, his opponent committed in the fifth round. Memsic, in swinging, lost his balance and fell forward, his head striking Powell below the belt. Powell from that time on landed two blows to Memsic's one. Both men were strong at the finish.

SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

American League Clubs Will Play 154 Games This Year.

Chicago Feb. 17.—The American league announced its schedule for 1910 today. One of its features is that it contains only a few conflicting dates with the National league. The list, as usual, contains 154 games.

Chicago, as usual, has the greatest number of conflicting dates. There are eight clashes between the two local clubs. St. Louis has the only other conflicts.

The season will open on April 14, with the following games: St. Louis at Chicago, Cleveland at Detroit, Philadelphia at Washington and Boston at New York.

The first sectional series will open in the East on May 10 with Cleveland at Philadelphia, Chicago at Washington, Detroit at New York and St. Louis at Boston.

NEW LEADERS IN THE DOUBLES

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 17.—Another new high mark was set in the International Bowling tournament yesterday when Weiler and Geissel of St. Paul rolled 1,165 in the doubles taking first place in that event. The teams rolling last night were from the Twin Cities, Waterloo, Iowa; Stillwater, Minn., and Winona, Minn.

The Doris of St. Paul were high in the five-men event with a score of 2,732. Other high scores were: Zieglers, St. Paul, 2,704; Schmidts, St. Paul, 2,614; North St. Paul, 2,520; Modern Brotherhood of St. Paul, 2,464.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 17.—Following were the high scores in the doubles and singles in the International Bowling tournament yesterday:

Doubles—Geissel and Weiler, St. Paul, 1,165; E. Johnson and H. Johnson, White Bear, 1,102; Anderson and Grayum, St. Paul, 1,085; H. Dale and O. Johnson, Minneapolis, 1,082; J. Stuck and Fitzgibbons, St. Paul, 1,082.

Singles—G. Drewry, St. Paul, 570; E. Hedenstrom, St. Paul, 560; J. Stuck, St. Paul, 558; O. Anderson, St. Paul, 543; A. Witzee, St. Paul, 523.

Ulrich Will Battle.

Curley Ulrich will battle on the range some time the present week, a purse of $400 having been raised. His opponent is unknown, but it is said some good man will be secured to meet the pride of Superior.

Y. M. C. A. vs. Coopers.

The first and second basket ball teams of the Y. M. C. A. will play the first and second teams of the Cooper school of Superior tomorrow evening at Superior. This will be the second time the teams of the two institutions have met the present season.

TEN EYCK IS NOT COMING

Famous Oarsman Unable to Instruct Crew Candidates of Local Club.

Edward Ten Eyck will not coach the crews of the Duluth Boat club the present season. Word to that effect has been received by the officials of the local club. At the present time the officials of the club are in correspondence with three men, one of whom has been recommended by Ten Eyck. It is very probable that one of these men will be chosen by the officials of the club as coach.

When some definite decision has been made in the selection of a coach for the oarsmen, a meeting of the directors of the club will be called for the purpose of making arrangements for the coming rowing season, as well as organizing the motor boat department of the club.

As soon as the motor boat department of the club is formed, active plans will be made for the motor boat events of the coming season. Already seven boats of the new 26-foot uniform design have been ordered from J. E. Simmons of Lake Geneva. More boats will be ordered before the season opens, so that the club officials are assured of good competition in the classes.

Already two cups have been offered for the 26-foot class. One of the cups has been offered by the Northern Hardware company of this city, and the other cup has been offered by J. E. Simmons the designer of the boats that will constitute the special class in the local motor boat events.

In addition to the weekly races between the special Duluth Boat club class motor boats, the officials of the club have decided to hold a regatta at the Head of the Lakes the coming season that will bring to Duluth some of the fastest motor boats in the entire country. Assurances from the various manufacturing companies that these boats will be shipped to the Head of the Lakes, have been received by the officials of the club.

These boats will be seen in a race, which will be open to any boat in the country. Special cups and trophies will be offered for the open events of the regatta. Local concerns have already assured the officials that they will offer suitable prizes for this class.

It is expected that Dick Schell's Dingle Capitol, which will be fitted out with a new hull the coming season, will be able to represent Duluth in the open class events. Mr. Schell's boat promises to be faster than ever the present season, as the old hull was too light for the powerful engine and was too much submerged when under full speed.

According to the correspondence received by the officials of the club who are looking after the motor boat regatta arrangements, a number of boats capable of making nearly thirty miles an hour will be seen in the open class events. These boats will be sent here by the manufacturers.

The motor boat factory of Red Wing, Minn., will send a boat here, as will the Lake Geneva, Wis., company. A number of Chicago and Eastern companies have promised to have some famous speeders here.

Indian Gets Match.

Martin Johnson, a member of the local fire department, has been matched with War Eagle Friday night at Fergus Falls. The men will wrestle under catch-as-catch-can rules to a finish. The red skin will have about forty pounds the better of Johnson in weight.

"Si" Finds Phenom.

"Si" Bennett, an enthusiastic member of the All Stars, who will oppose the League Stars in an indoor baseball game on the evening of Washington's birthday, has written from Hibbing that he has found a pitcher who is a wonder. The boy's name is Carr and he will be used in part of the game against the crack players of the Military Indoor league. "Si" writes that a number of fans of Hibbing will accompany him down from the range to witness the game.

NO AGREEMENT IN WESTERN LEAGUE

Chicago, Feb. 17.—The Western league was unable to decide upon a schedule at yesterday's meeting, and adjourned until this morning. It is almost certain that 168 games will be played and the season will probably begin about April 21 and end in the early part of October.

This was practically decided upon at yesterday's meeting, but the schedule committee was unable to adjust certain dates to the satisfaction of all the club owners. The general outline of the draft submitted by the committee proved satisfactory and the Sunday dates were said to be the rock upon which the split came. The isolated geographical location of Denver caused the schedule committee trouble in the apportionment of the Sundays at home.

No deals or trades of any importance took place. Des Moines sold five men to the Green Bay club in the Wisconsin-Illinois league. The Western leaguers held several conferences with the American league and the American association club owners and magnates.

BIG DULUTHS AND ADAMS TEAMS TO MEET.

The championship hockey game between the Big Duluths and Adams teams will be played this evening on the latter's rink in the West end. The game was scheduled for last Tuesday evening, but owing to the storm was postponed until this evening.

YOUNG SKATER WINS FROM PHIL KEARNEY

Jamestown, N. Y., Feb. 17.—Elmer Jacobson of Jamestown last night beat Phil Kearney of New York by a quarter of a lap in a two-mile ice skating race at Celoran rink, covering the distance in 5:56 3-5. Efforts are now to be made to match the young Jamestown skater with Edmund Lamy of Saranac Lake, the international champion, on account of last night's victory over Lamy's greatest rival.

Under the terms of the agreement the navy champion agrees to toss Harris three times in an hour. Sailor Jack is training at police headquarters and Harris is working out daily at the Duluth Athletic club gymnasium.

BAN JOHNSON IS HONORED

Will Control the Destinies of American League for Twenty Years.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Byron Bancroft Johnson was re-elected president, secretary and treasurer of the American league at a salary said to be $25,000 a year at the closing session of the annual schedule meeting yesterday.

The agreement under which the league has existed since November, 1900, was renewed for a period of twenty years. The new agreement includes a clause forbidding any club owner or holder of stock in any club from holding shares in any other club in the league except as an "emergency measure." All the other articles of the old agreement were retained in the new one.

Uniform tickets with rain check coupons, practically the same as now in use in the National league, were adopted.

A schedule of 154 games opened on April 14, and closed on Oct. 9, was unanimously adopted. This schedule was the only one submitted to the meeting, and was chosen without change. It was announced that the dates selected would be retained whether the National league plays 154 or 168 games.

If the National league selects the shorter season, there will be only ten conflicting dates between the two leagues. Eight of these will be in Chicago, and the other two in St. Louis.

While no official announcement was made that Mr. Johnson's salary had been increased from $15,000 to $25,000, it was said on good authority that such was the case. Mr. Johnson refused to talk of the reported salary increase, but smilingly said that it was a personal matter. He also returned the same answer to the question as to how old he would be when his term of office will expire.

This is the longest tenure of office to which any baseball president was ever elected. It was made co-existent with the length of the new agreement. It is said that Charles A. Comiskey of Chicago, and Benjamin S. Shive of Philadelphia were the men behind this signal tribute to Mr. Johnson as a league leader.

The adoption of a twenty-year agreement was said to be in the nature of a compromise. Some of the club owners favored the renewal for ten years, while others spoke for a perpetual agreement, such as now exists in the National league. This was the main subject of debate in Tuesday's meeting and the voting on it was postponed until the final session.

The article added to the agreement forbidding "syndicate baseball," reads as follows: "Syndicate baseball is prohibited except as an emergency measure and then only with the consent of the league's president and directors shall a stockholder in one club own or control stock in another club in the American league, under penalty of being voted and dealt with as an undesirable associate and barred from all connection with the league."

The expected big trade in which the St. Louis club was to be a party had not developed up to a late hour. Several conferences were held by the various managers, but nothing of importance developed. The Saginaw club of the Southern Michigan league secured two American recruits. It purchased Second Baseman Weaver from Cleveland and Pitcher Arnold from Philadelphia. The same club also bought Pitcher Burgess from the Springfield, Mo., club.

The majority of the club owners and managers left for their homes last night.

DEADLOCK IS UNBROKEN

Vote on Schedule for National League Is Said to Be Even.

New York, Feb. 17.—It began to look today like an all-week session of the National league magnates. The solons of the older baseball organization have been at logger heads for three days now over the playing schedule and today were apparently little nearer a solution of differences than when the sessions here began.

One prediction from a well informed source before the magnates resumed their debate today was that the schedule announcement would not be made before Monday next. The club presidents took up proposed amendments to the constitution and let the rival schedule propositions simmer. It was hoped by anxious fans, however, that by night the league would get down to the playing dates business again, and settle the dispute.

The league's voting strength as the session was resumed was understood to be equally divided between the long and the short schedule. President Brush of New York is supposed to have been won over to the side of the 154-game adherents, voting with Messrs. Herrmann of Cincinnati, Dreyfuss of Pittsburg and Dovey of Boston for the short season. Against them for the 168-game proposition are lined up Messrs. Ebbets of Brooklyn, Murphy of Chicago, Robison of St. Louis and Fogel of Philadelphia.

There were indications today that either of the schedules prepared in advance would be adopted in its entirety.

The Herrmann-Brush-Dreyfuss side is reported to have offered compromise to the Murphy-Ebbets faction, one proposition being to close the season a little later than the short schedule now provides for allowing games on Columbus day, Oct. 12.

JUNIORS AND SENIORS.

Play in the interclass championship of the Central High School Basketball league will be held this afternoon between the Senior and Junior teams of the school. The game will be played at the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

A victory for the Juniors will tie them with the Freshmen and Sophomores for first place. Rivalry in the interclass race is very close and the game promises to be hard fought from start to finish.

The teams will line up as follows:

Seniors.	Position.	Juniors.
Nastlund	forward	Hatchings, Paull
Thorburn	forward	Taylor
Helmer	center	Bevis
Merrit, Nelson	guard	Bondy
Mather	guard	Boyle, Northfield

The Central basket ball team will play the Aitkin high school quint tomorrow evening. The Aitkin five has defeated the Cloquet high school basket ball team the present season and is considered a very strong team.

THORSEN A HOLDOUT.

Richard Brinsley Sheridan Thorsen has joined the great and growing ranks of the holdouts. This morning he returned his contract unsigned. There were certain clauses in the contract that were not entirely to the liking of the blonde hurler.

According to Magnate Kuchnow, Thorsen will be given an opportunity to warm the bench the coming season, and will be kept out of organized baseball, unless he comes to the terms offered him.

It is believed that the league meeting will be held some time the present week, though no word has been received from President Elliott.

BROKE AT THE CLOSE

Flax Market Is Fairly Active, Closing Fractionally Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 17.—Heavy profit taking and some short selling caused a downward reaction in the wheat market today. May closed ¾c under yesterday and 1⅛c under today's high quotation. July at the close was ⅞c under yesterday. Prices broke sharply toward the close from a parity with yesterday. The market held firm during most of the session despite the heavy selling, as it received support of a good character. This was withdrawn toward the close and a break of ⅞c in May and 1c in July made the market a counterpart of yesterday's.

May wheat opened at $1.15, lost ⅛c and jumped to $1.15⅛, declined to $1.14⅞ and then broke to $1.14, closing $1.14⅛ bid. The July option opened at $1.14⅞ asked, declined to $1.14¾ nominal and sold at $1.14⅞, gained ⅛c and then broke sharply to $1.13⅞, closing at that price asked.

The flax market was fairly active, opening at $2.18¼, gaining ¾c and losing ¼c, selling at $2.18⅞ and then down to $2.18¾ and up to $2.19, closing at that price bid, ¾c higher than yesterday. September opened at $1.70 nominal and sold at $1.71 and closed at $1.71 asked.

The market opened strong, May selling at $1.15, and after a slight decline the near option went ⅛c higher than at the opening but soon lost the advance and was fairly firm with a sagging tendency due to heavy profit taking.

The domestic situation was paramount, though Liverpool closed ½@⅝d higher, due to higher markets on this side the day before. The foreign situation was mixed, offerings were light and buyers were scarce.

Crop reports still held the center of attention. Marietta, Kan., said that 75 per cent of the wheat had been killed. Dolphos said the situation is critical and the outcome depends on the weather. Junction City wired that wheat in the uplands has been badly damaged and most bottom fields are good. Caldwell said farmers are holding on to the old crop because of alarm over the growing crop. Elevator men there said the late sown crop has been killed and the early sown damaged to some extent. Asaria wired that one-third of the early sown crop is in bad shape. Abilene thinks a damage estimate of 10 to 15 per cent is conservative. Lawrence wired that wheat looks "fine." Greenfield said the damage cannot be estimated at present. Kansas City wired that farmers in Harper, Sedgwick, Sumner and Cowley counties, Kansas, say that wheat is damaged about 50 per cent. Wheat on sandy land, it was added, is not badly injured.

These crop reports helped to put wheat up about ½c from the opening in the first hour, but soon reports came in of a snowfall of three or four inches in Kansas and Missouri and this induced some selling which was accompanied by profit-taking by those who purchased before the bulge late yesterday. If good growing weather happens along some traders think it will be demonstrated that the growing crop has not been damaged more than usual.

The situation hinges on crop reports and receipts. The former are conflicting, although the bullish senders are working overtime and have the better of the argument thus far. Such a condition is conducive to a nervous market. The receipts in the Northwest are comparatively light on account of poor transportation service. Traders today followed the big speculators who were on both sides of the market. This made sentiment badly mixed and much of the trading was of a willy-nilly sort. As the session wore on heavy profit-taking continued and only good buying prevented the market from reaching lower levels than it did. Trading was heavy. The Northwest, generally, sold.

The flour trade was poor and the cash demand was fair. Premiums were firmer on account of restricted receipts. Cash at Minneapolis advanced ¼c and was 1½@2½c over May. Cash here equaled May. The cash markets in the Southwest were exceedingly strong.

MARKET GOSSIP

Broomhall wired—"There is a complete break in the commercial cable lines at Waterford, Ireland, therefore our Liverpool information is delayed. The opening showed the market as being ½d higher than yesterday. We are expecting further information and will advise at our earliest possible moment."

Bracken wired from Kansas City—"Blizzard in Texas and Oklahoma. Fields covered with ice followed by little snow. Zero at many points in Kansas. Reports from western counties appear to be the worst. Some snow fell but not general in character. Newspapers say it was wind driven consequently drifted."

Bartlett-Patten wired: "Chicago—Bad crop news continues to come in from the Southwest. This is giving us a strong market. We doubt whether any material damage has been done or not but it will be some weeks before we can ascertain the facts. We are liable to have a nervous market. It depends a good deal on weather and receipts. Receipts of corn about as estimated. Stocks still accumulating here. Some say liquidation will set in."

* * *

Foreign Markets closed as follows: Berlin, wheat, ¾c higher; Budapest, ½c lower; Liverpool, wheat, ⅜@½d higher; corn, ⅛d higher.

* * *

C. A. Cooper wired from Kansas City: "Growing wheat went into the winter in almost perfect condition. If this condition were maintained Kansas alone would raise about 125,000,000 bu of wheat. The crop could be damaged 25 per cent and Kansas would still raise as much more wheat than last year. I, therefore, see nothing to be alarmed over at present, except without of protection high winds and continued thawing and freezing will be very hard on the plant from now on."

Minneapolis stocks of wheat increased 425,000 bu. in five days. Duluth stocks increased 148,000 bu. in four days.

Foreign crops are reported in generally good condition by Broomhall, but damage in France by floods and lack of snow covering in Russia promise to become bullish influences. "United Kingdom—Weather has shown an improvement, it being drier. France—Continued complaints being received as a result of damage from the recent flood. Wheat plant has a poor appearance, and much replowing will be necessary. Germany—No complaints received regarding the crop. Supplies are good and the quality likewise. Demand is poor for foreign grain. Weather is generally unseasonably wet. Russia—Some complaints being received from the south center as a result of cold weather and light covering, otherwise the outlook is most satisfactory. It is generally claimed that interior reserves are very large. Weather is mild. Roumania—An official report for Jan. 31 states that the outlook is excellent. A good fall of snow has occurred. Bulgaria and Turkey—Outlook continues favorable. Italy—An official report for Jan. 31 says the outlook is favorable, while unofficial reports state that the excessive rains have caused some damage. Spain—Crops are suffering from drouth, excepting in the North, where the outlook is better. Australia—There is heavy chartering and this confirms a good yield. Chili—Chartering is small for the new crop. India—Crop outlook continues excellent. Sales of wheat for early shipment from Bombay and Calcutta are light. Kurrachee wheat for May-June shipment is being offered at a fair discount."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Stronger on Prospect of More Damage Reports.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Low temperatures over the western part of the wheat belt where little snow covers the winter crop, gave promise of more damage reports, and added strength to prices in the early trading here. May opened a shade to ⅜@½c higher, the distant futures starting from a shade up to ¼c lower. In the first hour prices advanced generally ⅝c, under a good demand, July running up from $1.14⅝ to $1.15⅜, May keeping practically within the opening range of $1.14⅝@1.15. New investment, realizing sales and some covering by shorts were features of the market.

Later the market fell off, May going down to $1.13⅝@1.13¾ from $1.15, the high point for the crop. The same price was also reached on Jan. 7. The close was weak at nearly the low point with May at $1.13¾@1.13⅞, ¾c lower than yesterday.

Corn showed a healthy advance at the outset, opening generally a shade to ½c higher and keeping the strength in the first hour. Buying orders abounded, and country traders took a large share of the offerings. May opened at 68¼@68⅝c, a shade to ⅜@½c higher.

The market was steady throughout the first half of the session and weakened with wheat toward the close. May sold off from 68⅜@67¾c. The close was weak at nearly the bottom with May at 67⅞c, ¼@⅜c lower than yesterday's final figures.

Oats reflected the strength of other grain. Good demand, principally from elevator interests, kept prices well toward the top. In the first hour the fluctuations were generally within the opening limits, which for May were 48¼@48½c, a shade to ⅛@¼c up.

Higher prices for live hogs and small receipts at the packing centers caused another advance in provision prices, all products advancing at the outset 7½@22½c. Offerings were scarce and buyers had difficulty in filling orders. Opening figures for the May were: Pork, $23.65@23.70; lard, $12.82½@12.90; ribs, $12.52½@12.65.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Advances at First, But Later It Turns Weak.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 17.—Wheat declined late today. May opened ⅛c lower than yesterday's close and early advanced to $1.14⅝, only ¼c from the record high point for the near option on this crop. During the latter part of the session the market was weaker and may closed at $1.13⅝, the day's low point. Advances in Some Stocks Contrasted With Realizing in Others.

General List Held Down By Profit-Taking and Close Heavy.

New York, Feb. 17.—The higher range of prices in London helped today to advance opening prices of stocks here over last night's closing level. The Southwestern railroad stocks were among the few exceptions to show declines, St. Louis Southwestern losing a point. Union Pacific, Rock Island, Pressed Steel Car, American Cotton Oil and General Electric rose 1, Hocking Coal 1¾, and United States Steel, Pittburg Coal, Consolidated Gas and Interborough Metropolitan preferred large fractions.

Extensions of the opening advances were made in many of the less active stocks, but the usual leaders began to feel the weight of realizing sales. This selling forced Reading down a point from its high figure and cancelled the gains generally in other prominent stocks.

Large offerings depressed the copper stocks below yesterday's final figures, Anaconda losing a point. United States Steel was heavily traded in at 80, on the way down, but ultimately went a trifle lower. General Electric advanced 2½, Delaware & Hudson and Pacific Coast 2, Colorado & Southern 1⅝, and Colorado Fuel, American Locomotive, Railway Steel Spring and American Agricultural Chemical 1.

There was a sharp upturn again at 11 o'clock under the leadership of Union Pacific, which touched 186¼.

The market showed uneven strength Union Pacific's 2-point rise contrasted with realizing in Reading and a 2-point drop in the second preferred. American Sugar and American Cotton Oil rose 2, Westinghouse Electric and Central Leather, 1½; Chicago Great-Western preferred, 2½ and the common, the Toledo, St. Louis & Western stocks, Southern Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande, United States Steel, Colorado Fuel, American Car and American Hide & Leather preferred, 1. Bonds were firm.

The market closed rather heavy. There were some further advances in the final hour, but the general list was held down by profit taking sales. American Linseed preferred rose 1½; Chicago Great Western preferred, 1; Pacific Mail, 1¾; Pittsburg Coal preferred declined 2¼.

FEBRUARY 17, 1910.

Mr. N. F. Hugo will return from the Calumet & Sonora mine tomorrow morning. Mr. Max Stevens of Ironwood returned today. He is talking big prices for the stock, and says it is one of the most wonderful properties that he has seen.

Mr. Hugo will leave about Saturday for the Butte-Alex Scott and will shortly be followed by others. Remember Mr. Hugo is a big man in the mining world, and you will soon see how big the success of the Butte-Alex Scott proposition will be. This one is also a rich mine, and rich deposits of high-grade ores have been opened up since Mr. Hugo left for Sonora, Mex. It is on account of rich showing of the Scott mine that he goes to Butte after a two days' rest.

Whatever you do stop and do a little thinking before you part with a share of this issue for there are big things in store for the stockholders of the Butte-Alex Scott Copper company. Heavy shipments to smelters mean more than many of you realize. Mr. Hugo is one of the largest holders of Calumet & Sonora and if he did not know what the Scott would in time become he then would not have his name connected with it. We will have a regular Minnie Healey shortly, and it should be an equal to any independent mine on Butte Hill. We are proud of the Scott proposition, for it has made good.

We believe Calumet & Sonora will in time sell at $100 a share. Remember my old advertisements on this one.

Ballaklava looks good and soon should start moving upwards.

St. Mary's is again getting stronger. Buy this one for it should now easily advance.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Feb. 17.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points, not a full response to relatively firm cables. The market soon sold off to a net loss of 5@10 points under overnight selling orders, a renewal of local bear pressure and general liquidation. There was a little foreign buying on the call, but the demand from this source was restricted by the poor cable service, and beyond covering by shorts on a scale down there appeared to be no support.

Spot closed steady; middling uplands, 14.80; middling gulf, 15.05. Sales, 1,261 bales. Futures closed steady; closing bids: February, 14.51; March, 14.52; April, 14.52; May, 14.63; June, 14.55; July, 14.52; August, 14.00; September, 13.12; October, 12.70; November, 12.56; December, 12.53.

PRIVATE WIRES TO ALL MARKETS.

FEBRUARY 17, 1910.

The market this morning was strong in sympathy with the market in New York and Boston. There are a good many more buying orders on the market than there are selling orders, and we expect a good advance in all the Duluth stocks during the coming week. There is good news constantly coming from Savana, Red Warrior, Calumet & Sonora, Duluth & Moctezuma and other stocks on the Duluth list, and developments warrant higher prices on all of them. We advise the purchase of all of these. Calumet & Sonora was exceptionally strong. Calumet & Corbin and Calumet & Montana were also well taken. Warrior Development, Live Oak are wanted in large blocks at the prevailing prices. Chief Consolidated sold as high as $29.16. Keating is also strong at $2.00 bid. We again advise the purchase of these good Duluth stocks at the prevailing prices.

BONSPIEL NEARS CLOSE

Only Fifty Games Remain to Be Played at Winnipeg.

Cassidy's "Kid Rink" Is in Line for the Grand Aggregate.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the jewelry class reached in nearly every event, the conclusion of Winnipeg's big bonspiel is now in sight.

Only some fifty games remain to be played, but as several rinks are tied up in different events a rapid finish is impossible.

They still refuse to admit defeat, and although not yet in the jewelry class in any competition, are within reaching distance in all four events as well as in the Tuckett.

In addition they have the grand aggregate practically cinched.

They defaulted their game in the Blue Ribbon yesterday. Four games were their portion yesterday, but they were not alone in that respect.

Cassidy has won sixteen games so far in the grand aggregate and his position was made practically safe by the defeats administered to McDougall and Carson yesterday. Not another contender but has been defeated in two of the events.

Fenton, of Fort William, is second in point of games won, with fifteen. McDougall has fourteen and Carson thirteen.

SPECIAL TRAINS TO COLERAINE

Large Crowds Are Expected to Attend National Ski Tournament.

Special trains will be run from Duluth to Coleraine for the national ski tournament Saturday and Sunday. A large number of people from this city will attend the tournament, according to the railroad men.

Both the Great Northern and the Duluth, Missabe & Northern will have specials coming from the tournament Sunday evening. The Missabe special will leave Coleraine Sunday evening at about 7 o'clock and will reach here that same night at about 10 o'clock.

The Great Northern special will leave Coleraine for Virginia. It will leave at about the same time as the Missabe special, reaching Virginia at 9 o'clock. Duluth people will be able to take the early morning Winnipeg train for Duluth, reaching here Monday morning at 7 o'clock.

Passenger men at the Missabe and Great Northern offices say that there will be a large number of people from this city at the tournament.

SCHEDULE IS A HARD NUT TO CRACK.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—After juggling dates all night, the schedule committee of the Western league decided to take a rest and the meeting of the league, scheduled for 10 a. m., was postponed until after noon. The committee spent about enighteen hours yesterday and early this morning trying to make the 168-game list acceptable to all club owners.

The withdrawal of Pueblo from the circuit, leaving Denver isolated, is the cause of much of the trouble.

It is expected the committee will decide upon a draft to be submitted to the meeting of the league. The majority of the club owners are in favor of adjourning today.

DEATH CLAIMS COL. PLUMMER

Noted North Dakota Public Speaker of Pioneer Days No More.

Minot, N. D., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Col. Warren C. Plummer, famed in the early days of the Dakotas as an orator with a reputation that was national, personal friend of the late James G. Blaine, and for years prominent in North Dakota politics and newspaper circles, died yesterday at the Soldiers' home, at Fairfield, Me., whither he had gone to spend his declining years. A brief message was received here last evening telling of his demise. It is expected he will be burried in Maine, his native state.

The death of Col. Plummer recalls stirring political times in the early days of North Dakota, or more properly when Dakota meant North and South Dakota. The deceased edited newspapers in Aberdeen, now South Dakota, and in Casselton, La Moure and Caledonia, N. D., as well as here, where he last lived and where he was one time register of the land office.

Stumped County for Blaine.

Col. Plummer was a campaigner of the old style and in the Blaine-Cleveland campaign he came into prominence stumping the country in behalf of his old friend the "plumed night" of the Pine Tree state. Possessed of a marvelous wealth of language, a splendid physique and a powerful voice, as well as the graces of oratory, and no little magnetism, Col. Plummer could move an average audience as only the true orator can. During the memorable, capital campaigns of Montana in the '90s, in the palmy days of the late Marcus Daly, Col. Plummer was engaged by the advocate of Anaconda, the smelter city, and the way he thundered against Helena, almost made mountains of the Treasure state ring.

Accompanied by a band, a flambeaux club and traveling on special trains, Col. Plummer gave the Montanans an example of the old-time campaigning that made the Helena side sit up and take notice. The pictures he drew of the benefits that would result from locating the capitol in Anaconda were beautiful, if not overdrawn, while the sarcasm and the ridicule he heaped upon Helena people wer bitter in the extreme. His eloquent efforts came to naught, however, Helena being selected, and it is gossip that before he died, even Marcus Daly admitted the people had selected wisely.

Col. Plummer lived here several years after his Montana experience, but his health failing, two years ago he sought the refuge of the old Soldiers' home, where he died.

Some day when the history of this section is written, an interesting chapter of anecdotes in which Col. Plummer was the central figure, may be given to the public.

CAPT. ANDERSON GIVEN SOLID BRONZE CLOCK.

Philadelphia, Feb. 17.—In recognition of the bravery of Capt. M. Anderson of the steamer L. C. Hanna, who rescued six men from the steamer Clarion, which was destroyed by fire near South shoal, Lake Erie, Dec. 8 last, the directors of the Erie & Western Transportation company (the Anchor line), which is controlled by the Pennsylvania Railroad company, has sent to the skipper a solid bronze ship's clock. The directors also adopted resolutions expressing the thanks of the board to the captain for his heroic action.

TWO MEN ARE KILLED AS OIL SHIP BLOWS UP.

Brest, France, Feb. 17.—The sloop Jeanne d'Arc, containing a cargo of petroleum, blew up at her wharf today. The captain and one sailor were burned to death. The others of the chew were fearfully scorched or otherwise injured. The accident is attributed to the carelessness of a sailor who carried a lighted candle into the hold.

"SOME day you will advertise, but while you're puckering your brow, the competitor you most fear will do it. Then comes the disheartening fight, that always falls to the lot of the echo, the trailer, the 'me-to.'"

Advertising is the biggest problem of the commercial world. The commonest fallacy is the failure to concentrate, the scattering of fire, the awful waste of reaching everybody and convincing nobody, the use of all newspapers in the field, billboards, street cars, church programs, picnic programs, circulars, booklets and every known means of advertising.

As far as Duluth is concerned any advertiser who will concentrate in The Herald is certain of great success and at the smallest expenditure at which success is possible.

DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION OF NORTHERN MINNESOTA RESOLVES TO STAND UP FOR ITS INTERESTS

Sentiment for Reapportionment and Development Is Very Strong.

Good Roads, Drainage and Other Important Subjects Discussed.

About Three Hundred Delegates Present at the Bemidji Convention.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The delegates attending the Northern Minnesota development convention were increased to nearly 300 this afternoon by arrivals during the night, and the convention was even more enthusiastic than yesterday.

Prof. Hay of the University of Minnesota spoke on "Getting Together," and told of the organization of co-operative societies among the farmers of England and Germany, and how laboring men and all classes get together with splendid beneficial results all around. Prof. Hay advocated the people of this section getting together in not only farming but in all matters of interest; that local differences be dropped and a united effort be made for the bigger things, so that Northern Minnesota would get what she deserved in reapportionment and all other things. He encouraged organization in the raising of crops and attention to shipping in larger quantities, so that much of the difficulty of unjust railroad rates would be done away with and better products would be raised and better prices secured.

G. G. Hartley Talks.

G. G. Hartley of Duluth delivered a stirring address on general development, reapportionment and better farming, advocating sticking together and demanding that every person elected to the legislature from this section be pledged in advance to just and equitable representation in the legislature from Northern Minnesota.

Mr. Hartley advocated that some plan be devised whereby state lands which surrounded farmers here could be taxed for the building of roads and establishing schools. Mr. Hartley told of his success in starting a farm at Island in the heart of a swamp and

DENIES MAKING HERESY CHARGE

Secretary Atwood of Universalists Writes in Contradiction of Reports.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 18.—M. Atwood, secretary of the Universalist general convention, denies in writing the truth of published reports that charges of heresy have been made against Rev. Paul Jordan Smith, pastor of the First Universalist church of this city, and Rev. Dr. G. E. Cunningham, secretary of the Missouri Universalist churches.

It was recently said that the two ministers would be tried for heresy because of their speeches last fall at the convention of the church in Detroit. Both clergymen, it was said, advocated the union of the Universalist and Unitarian churches.

"Is Backing Down."

When Dr. Atwood's letter was shown to Rev. Mr. Smith last night, the latter said:

"I believe that Dr. Atwood is backing down. I have his letters stating that he would urge a trial against me, but I believe that when he found out the other trustees of the church were opposed to a heresy trial, he decided not to make trouble."

A letter also has been received from Dr. W. H. McLaughlin of Chicago, general superintendent of the church, saying he has brought no charges.

USE POSTOFFICE AS LABOR AGENCY

Representative Garner Introduces Bill on Extension of Its Work.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Employment for the unemployed is the subject of a bill that has been introduced by Representative Garner, Republican, of Pennsylvania, who proposes, through the medium of the postoffice department, to bring the employer and the employe into touch so that the labor market may be made normal at all times.

The idea is to authorize the postmaster general to establish in the department and in every postoffice in the United States an "information labor officer," whose duty it shall be to supply daily to employers lists of persons wanting work, and to the latter lists of employers wanting laborers. Each county seat is to be a distributing center.

READY FOR SPRING RUSH TO ALASKA.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 18.—Preparations are being made for the sailing of the Corwyn, the first steamer to Nome at the opening of navigation in the spring, and already the entire number of first-class reservations have been sold. The steamer is booked to sail May 10. She will carry North twenty tons of mail.

DID DR. HYDE GIVE HER TYPHOID FEVER?

LUCY LEE SWOPE.

Miss Swope is wanted as a witness in both the civil and criminal cases in which Dr. B. Clarke Hyde is concerned at Independence and Kansas City, Mo. She traveled from New York to Independence with the doctor, and shortly afterward became sick with typhoid fever. It is charged that Dr. Hyde inoculated her with germs of the disease to clear the way for a larger inheritance for his own wife from the Swope millions.

OVER 200 ARE HURT IN RIOT

Police Are Blamed for Serious Outbreak in the Streets of Frankfort.

German Sentiment Is Changing Even Among Anti-Socialist Element.

Frankfort, Feb. 18.—Investigation today develops that there were many more casualties than at first had been supposed when the police last night cleared the streets of crowds gathered in public protest against the proposed Prussian suffrage laws. It was 2 o'clock this morning before the streets were clear.

Today some fifty of the demonstrators are in the hospitals and of the number, five are seriously injured. Many of the wounded avoided the hospitals, receiving treatment from private physicians in order to escape possible legal consequences.

The number of wounded is now placed between 200 and 300. Twenty policemen are among the injured.

The rioting during the later hours of the night appears to have been confined to the ruffian element among the unemployed. The municipal lodging house, which usually was packed at night, sheltered only seven persons last night.

Socialists Blame Police.

The Socialists insist that those attending the meetings had been advised by the speakers to go quietly to their homes, and that the most of them were doing so when a policeman who had arrested a man was fired upon by a party of would-be rescuers. This incident, the Socialists say, afforded the police detachments the opportunity for which they were waiting to attack the homegoers brutally, regardless of age or sex.

Other demonstrations have been an-

WANTS CITY TO RUN PLEASURE BOATS

New York's New Park Commissioner Suggests Plan to Mayor Gaynor.

New York, Feb. 18.—A system of municipal-owned pleasure boats connecting different city parks along the water front has been recommended to Mayor Gaynor by the new park commissioner, Charles B. Stover.

"New York city has 365 miles of shore line, much of it picturesque and all of it worth seeing," says the commissioner. "I propose that we shall have a number of launches or steamboats which shall encircle the city in a waterways belt line. Such a line would be a great source of pleasure to many people and could be maintained at little expense by charging a moderate rate for the pleasant, healthful trips."

Senator Smith Better.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The condition of Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan is improved today. He spent a good night. Dr. Louis Barth, his family physician, has arrived from Grand Rapids, Mich., and although it has been decided that an operation is imperative there is no immediate emergency.

Men Already Named Are Expected to Demand Separate Hearings.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 18.—The list of unanswered questions that awaited the probers of the legislative bribery scandal today was as long as on any day since the senate began its investigation. Names on the three envelopes holding the bridge company $6,000 bribe had been told by Senator Benn Conger, but yesterday's evidence had opened several new leads which the investigators may follow at once or reserve for later action under different organization.

Conger brought into the evidence yesterday several men now in office, and it is probable they will demand a hearing. S. Percy Hooker, state highway commissioner, was named as the

EDITORS FAVOR EXTRA SESSION

Want Legislature Called to Submit Good Roads Amendment.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota State Editorial association went on record yesterday in favor of an extra session of the legislature, which was urged by Robert C. Dunn in a speech advocating the submission of a constitutional amendment allowing a 1-mill tax for good roads.

As the great majority of the members of the association are Republicans, this action is regarded as putting Governor Eberhart in a perplexing position. He has given out the statement that he sees no reason for holding an extra session, while Mr. Dunn, who is still regarded as likely to be in the race for the nomination for governor, has been advocating it. With the editorial association urging a special session, the governor is placed in an awkward dilemma.

Ballinger's Accuser and Attorney Vertrees Lock Horns Again Over Answers.

Washington, Feb. 18.—When the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigating committee resumed proceedings today following a short executive session, Attorney Vertrees for the defense asked that Adolph Behrens of Seattle, Wash., be subpoenaed to appear as a witness before the committee. The cross-examination of Lewis R. Glavis was then continued.

Mr. Vertrees announced in connection with the request for a subpoena for Behrens, that he expected to impeach parts of Glavis' story by the testimony of this witness. Glavis testified that Behrens and Commissioner Dennett took dinner together in Seattle and seemed on cordial terms the very next day after Dennett had professed not to know Behrnes, who is one of the Alas-

MOTOR CARS BIG TRADE FEATURE

Last Year's Output Was $41,000,000 in Excess of That of 1902.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Automobiles entering the world's markets in the year 1909 had a value in excess of $50,000,000, as compared with an aggregate value of $9,000,000 for the year 1902, striking evidence, according to the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, that the automobile is an important and rapidly increasing factor in international commerce.

The value of automobiles exported in 1908 from France, the United States, the United Kingdom, Italy and Germany—the five leading countries in their manufacture and sale—was more than $45,000,000, a growth of 400 per cent since 1902.

France leads the world as an exporter of motor cars, with the United States second.

FRIENDS NOW HAVE NO HOPE OF HIS RECOVERY

BENJAMIN R. TILLMAN, United States Senator From South Carolina.

Washington, Feb. 18.—After a fairly comfortable night, Senator Tillman's condition this morning became alarming. He is unconscious and those close to the family have lost hope for his recovery. Following the collapse of the senator on the steps of the capitol building, Wednesday, he appeared to recover, but today his condition is said to be hopeless.

Dr. E. F. Bickford, Senator Tillman's physician, said last night that the senator is suffering from progressive paralysis, due to a leakage of blood in the brain, caused by clarification of the arteries.

BODIES ARE

Eleve Cor

Positions Indicate That the Men Were Suffocated as They Ran.

Cherry, Ill., Feb. 18.—Eleven bodies of miners were recovered from the St. Paul mine today. To the amazement of American mine inspectors, the bodies entombed since Nov. 13 last, when brought to the surface, were found to be almost perfectly mummified.

The mummified condition was brought about by the bodies having for three months been in a part of the mine which was dry and warm, the bodies going through a slow process of drying up.

"This is one of the most remarkable incidents of a disaster which has been full of wonders," declared an old mine inspector. "The mummies are in such good preservation that they might have been taken out of the ancient tombs of Egypt."

Found in Second Level.

Fighting through the fire and the deadly blackdamp, which ever since the disaster has stood between them and the 165 or more bodies, still entombed in the mine, the rescuers found the eleven bodies in what is known as the second level. They were 175 feet from the main air shaft. The men, instead of retreating to remoter parts of the mine, evidently had made a desperate effort to escape when the fire broke out and they were among the first to die.

They were found with their arms stretched forward and face downward, having been suffocated as they ran.

Their clothing was so badly scorched and their features so badly disfigured by falling that identification was difficult.

Fire is still raging in the mine.

Shots Fired During Attack on Jail Not Ordered By the Sheriff.

Militia Patrols Streets, But More Trouble Is Feared By Authorities.

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 18.—With one white man dead and four others wounded by shots fired by negro deputies who were guarding the jail last night when a mob tried to take out and lynch two negro prisoners, Cairo today is in a state of excitement such as has not been seen here since last November, when two men, one white and one black, were lynched in the public square.

Two negroes who were accused of purse snatching and annoying women were the objects of the mob's hatred last night. Today it is directed not only toward the prisoners, but toward the sheriff, who employed negroes to help him guard the jail, and against the colored deputies, who are declared by Mayor George Parsons to have fired Says It Is Because Women Get "Sloppy" After They Are Married.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 18.—"The sloppiness of women is responsible for most of the divorce cases," said Rev. Father Joachim, a Passionist priest, during a lecture at St. Peter's Catholic church. "Before marriage, many of them are neat and tidy at all times, but after the wedding ceremony they are careful about their looks only on the street.

"Many homes are wrecked because of nagging and fault-finding by both man and wife, and a disposition on the part of both not to bear with the other's failings."

Wants to Meet Them.

After a series of sermons on the causes of unhappy marriages, or why marriage is a failure, Rev. D. A. Greene of this city, as a climax to the series, has invited all the couples he has married in his six years' pastorate to this church to assemble at the Manchester Presbyterian church on Sunday morning.

There are about 200 married couples and it is the pastor's plan to have them pass in review of the pulpit at the close of the sermon and shake him by the hand. The invitation is not limited to those who have grievances, but is extended also to the happy ones.

Members of the men's Bible class and the ladies' aid society will be marshals of the procession.

WAS IN WAR WITH JAPAN

Former Russian Soldier Attempts to Join United States Army.

A man who claims to have served in the Russian army in the recent war with the Japanese, applied at the United States army recruiting station this morning for enlistment.

His name is A. Karlowiski, and he claims that he has been in the United States two years, living during the time near Aberdeen, S. D., where there is a Russian settlement. According to the story the man told at the recruiting office this morning, there are two other former soldiers of a Warsaw regiment, who served in the Japanese war, living at the present time in the Russian colony near Aberdeen.

Though Karlowiski speaks broken English, he is unable to write a word of the language. That fact will prevent him from joining the United States army. The applicant was given a partial examination this morning, even after it was discovered that he was unable to write the English language, and he was found to be an unusually fine specimen of physical manhood.

In broken English the Russian told of being discharged from his regiment a year after the close of the war with Japan, of coming to America because of the terrible conditions in Russia following the Russo-Japanese war, and of living at the Russian settlement of South Dakota.

If the statement of the ex-soldier can be believed, there were many times during the war with Japan when some of the Russian regiments were on the verge of mutiny. "No want to fight; tired, sometimes hungry, sick," he said.

The statement of the man, as he talked to the recruiting officers seemed to picture the terrible privations some of the soldiers of the Russian legions endured during the conflict with the yellow nation. He told of long and forced marches, when three of the Warsaw regiments made a forced march for the relief of Port Arthur, and of three days when the soldiers in the command were almost without food of any kind.

If the statement of the Russian is true, there is little loyalty in some of the regiments of Russia. His story brings back forcibly to memory the story of the Russian women throwing themselves in front of the trains bearing their husbands off to the war.

Few Russian soldiers re-enlist after being discharged from the army, according to the statement of Karlowiski. The Cossacks, according to his rather rambling talk, are about the only members of the Russian soldiery that have any love of country and enthusiasm for fighting.

The Russian has a wound in the shoulder, the result of a fight in the last days of the war. He received the wound in a skirmish that occurred in the attempted relief of the soldiers of Port Arthur.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT IS CHARGED AGAINST BOY.

The case against Clyde Brand, a Superior boy, who is charged with having assaulted Arthur Levanson with intent to kill, is on trial this afternoon in the superior court.

When he refused, it is claimed that Brand struck him over the head with a club. He was picked up for dead. Later he was taken to a hospital where he finally recovered. Levanson is said to have told the boys that he thought that the scrap iron was stolen.

VETERAN'S WIFE HAS HIM JUGGED

New York, Feb. 18.—Hugh Montgomery, aged 64 years, a veteran of the War of the Rebellion, was arraigned before Magistrate Naumer in the Myrtle avenue police court, charged by his wife, Mrs. Ellen Montgomery, aged 63 years, with having marched up and down their flat with a musket, occasionally charging her with a bayonet and now and then beating a drum and waving a sword.

"I was a widow only two years, judge, when I married Hugh," began the distressed wife. "He is my third husband and I am his third wife. My first two husbands always treated me in the most beautiful manner, but this last one is awful.

"Why, he will get out of bed in the middle of the night and put on his old uniform. Then he will do sentry duty for hours. I might stand that, if he didn't put the bayonet on the musket and come charging at me, shouting, 'Die, you miserable rebel!'

"Why, judge, he keeps me crawling under the bed for safety.

"When he gets tired fighting these battles, he will bring out his drum and play it until the neighbors threaten to murder him."

"What have you got to say for yourself?" the magistrate asked, turning toward the prisoner.

The grizzled warrior puckered his eyebrows, threw out his chest and replied with grim brevity:

"Drink!"

"Well, you'd better cut it out," said the court.

"Pledged!" ejaculated the old man.

"No more rum, no more battles. Come on home, Ellen, and I'll treat you better than these first husbands knew how."

Ellen went out of court smiling, supported on the still strong arm of the warrior husband.

the drawback experienced by the state owning surrounding lands on which there were no settlers, preventing settlers on lands.

To Be Recommended.

The resolutions committee has been getting together on important matters that will be recommended when the report is made this afternoon. It will recommend an appropriation of $100,000 for the use of the immigration department in advertising the state's resources, the sale of foreign bonds of the state to provide funds for local loans, especially schools, drainage and road bonds.

The convention will undoubtedly recommend that congress pass a law authorizing the sale of all mixed blood lands on the Indian reservations.

The convention will close tonight. State Auditor Iverson and R. G. Wells will both speak this afternoon.

Resolutions Committee.

As the convention got down to business yesterday, the harmonious air seemed to be "catching," and co-operation was the sentiment of every delegtae. The vociferous manner in which all speeches were received indicated that the sentiment for reapportionment, development, good roads, etc., had taken deep root in all of the 300 delegates.

It was expected that the resolutions committee would have several knotty problems to contend with in getting out the resolutions and as there were several very important matters on which to talk, the committee, with M. N. Koll of Cass Lake as chairman and G. H. Mackenzie of Onamia, as secretary, was divided into sub-committees as follows:

Reapportionment, F. A. Patrick of Duluth and Asher Murray of Wadena; drainage, Daniel Shaw of Thief River Falls, W. J. Stock of Coleraine and H. J. Hage, Crow Wing county; good roads, C. H. Mackenzie of Onamia, A. L. Gordon of Stephen, Hart Dennis of Detroit, and P. E. Dowling of Eveleth; agricultural education, A. M. Dunton of McIntosh, L. F. Ellert of Wilkin county and L. G. Bodkin of Clay county, J. E. O'Brien of Cloquet and Frank Keine, of Hallock.

Thomas R. Brown, Jr., of Crookston will introduce a resolution recommending a legislative appropriation of $100,000 for the use of the state board of immigration and endorsing the administration of George Welsh, commissioner of immigration. Mr. Brown will also introduce a resolution favoring womans' suffrage.

For Women's Suffrage.

Mrs. Maud C. Stockwell of Minneapolis, representing the Minnesota Woman's Suffrage association, addressed the convention at the afternoon session, saying:

"Gentlemen: You are here to secure justice in the matter of reapportionment of legislative representation, and every fair minded man in the state will, I am sure, be with you in your demand. We are also asking for justice, for a fair representation in government. Our objects are much alike and there is a common bond between us.

"At the present time, you are represented in the state legislature to a large extent by Southern Minnesota. Do you enjoy this kind of representation? Granting that the senators and representatives of Southern Minnesota are fair or even altruistic, can they understand the needs and solve the problems of Northern Minnesota? Can men properly represent women?

"Just to illustrate. My husband is a fair man. I exercise the only electoral right I have, that of voting for school directors. I vote for the candidates whom I deem the most efficient while my husband usually votes the straight Democratic ticket. If I could not vote he wouldn't represent me at the polls. The majority of the men say that they are willing to allow the women to vote if they want to, and then argue that the women do not want the electoral franchise. The matter should not be decided upon this basis. The issue should be the justice of the demand.

"It is admitted that women are good housekeepers, that they keep the home clean and in a sanitary condition, that they safeguard the morals of the children and that their influence is for the good of humanity. But municipal and civic government is simply housekeeping on a big scale. The probelms of sanitation and hygiene found in the home are found in the community, but only on a larger scale. The women understand these as well as the men. They are interesting themselves more and more in public affairs and are showing that they are capable of understanding and assisting in the solution of the problems of the city and state.

"In the four enfranchised states of the West no one ever has proposed that women be deprived of the ballot. They have demonstrated there that their influence at the polls is for good government. In England and her colonies, in Norway and in Finland, women have the right of suffrage in all municipal affairs, and in the two latter countries they have equal rights with the men. Their worth is recognized, and judging from their efforts in England, they will soon win complete enfranchisement in England."

Forest Development.

Prof. E. G. Cheney of the Minnesota forest school, taking the place of Prof. S. B. Green, who was unable to be present, read an address on the forest development in the northern part of Minnesota. He said:

"A convention such as this for the promotion of the development of Northern Minnesota would hardly be complete without a few remarks on the development of the great forest resources. The section contains farming land, grazing land and forest land. You are now engaged in converting the forest land to agricultural land, and rightly so, for such land is too valuable for any otther purposes. But there are sections of the country which must be devoted to forest.

"All the civilized countries of Europe have passed through essentially the same stages of development as we have and their experience has shown that it is absolutely necessary for at least 25 per cent of the area of a state must be devoted to the growth of forest if the best development of the country as a whole is to be attaind. They cleared the land and devoted nearly all of it to agriculture only to find that it was absolutely necessary to replant enough of the area to supply the local demand. This meant expense. Why should not Minnesota profit by this experience and save a sufficient area of the forest which they now have. It would save time and money.

"Citizens of this section rightly complain that the state forest lands lying idle and paying no taxes are an unjust burden on the community. The solution of this problem lies in the cultivation and improvement of these lands, whether they be in forest or agriculture. The forest lands of Germany pay a net yearly return into the state treasury of about $8 per acre. Any land which yields this much revenue to the state and as much more to the community as wages is not a burden on any community. Our lands can do this as well as those of Germany.

"This development of forest land would also necessitate the building of good roads in the forest district which would equally benefit the farmers of the neighborhood. The management of a forest can not be carried on without the development of such roads. All the European countries have splendid systems of roads which have been developed in this way. We have an example of this right near Bemidji in Itasca park which is the only piece of developed forest land in the state. The state realized that it was not just for this area to be a dead weight on the community and not pay any taxes to the county. To rectify this they co-operated with the adjacent townships to building roads around the boundaries of the park for the use of the settlers. These roads will be maintained by the state and will be great service to the people of that country. Any state forest would be managed in this way and the obligations of the state to the county recognized. A developed forest no matter to whom it belonged would be a great factor in building up any community.

"There is one more branch in which the forests would aid the rest of the country. If all the forest land were converted to agricultural purposes the value of the scenery as an attraction to summer boarders would be destroyed. This is a point well worth considering. The money spent per year by the summer boarders in the district of the Adirondack mountains is somewhere around $9.000. Both New York and Switzerland think enough of this source of revenue to invest government money in the development of it. There is no country in the world which is naturally better suited to attract summer tourists than Northern Minnesota and it is the forest bordered lakes which make it so attractive. If there were no other reason for the preservation and development of the forests this one point would make it well worth while.

"This great convention is going to make a new epoch in the history of the development of Minnesota, and it is hoped that the convention will go on record as having given due consideration and weight to the development and importance of our forest wealth."

Dairying in Northern Minnesota.

Prof. A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the northeast experimental farm at Grand Rapids, gave an address on "Dairying in Northern Minnesota," which was in part as follows:

"Six years ago I came to Northern Minnesota. I was a dairyman by profession and I took up my work in this section of the state because I believed that the natural conditions of Northern Minnesota were especially favorable to the dairy industry. At that time dairying was untried in Northern Minnesota. This whole section of the state could hardly count a successful farmer creamery. A creamery at New York Mills, in the northern part of Ottertail county, was the first attempt at dairying that attracted my attention. It was barely existing. Neither the farmers or business men had much confidence in dairying.

"I was sent for to help reorganize that creamery, and, if possible, get it on a paying basis. I did what I could to encourage them to go ahead, to stick to their plan of a farmers' cooperative creamery. They did go ahead. That was five years ago.

"Today I met a business man from that section. He told me that there are now four creameries in that settlement; that during the past year there was sold over $250,000 worth of dairy products from that section, which, five years ago, had difficulty in supporting one creamery.

"At Barnum, a small town south of Duluth, I recently held a farmers' meeting for the purpose of organizing a co-operative dairy stock breeding association. The banker there proposed to loan $1,000 on two years' time, without interest, to invest in pure-bred dairy sires. You may think that that banker is a philanthropist, but he is not. He is a shrewd business man. He is a man who knows the value of dairying in any community. 'Five years ago,' he said, 'I would have regarded such a business offer as the work of an insane man, but the farmers have been dairying around Barnum; they have found out they can make a living; and where men wanted to get out of the country a few years ago, through dairying they now have decided to stay, and it means the making of the country.'

"There are a few reasons why farmers prosper in dairying and the dairy farmers as a class are prosperous the world over, whether in Minnesota, Vermont or Denmark. The reason is this: The dairy cow is the most productive of all farm animals; the most productive of human food. The common cow, under conditions that are practical for the average farmer, will produce 5,000 pounds of milk a year. Two and one-half tons. When you come to consider this, you will see why the dairy farmer is prosperous.

"Here in Northern Minnesota, the dairy industry should be the leading branch of our agriculture. In some other branches, gardening for example, more money per acre can be made where you are close to a large market, but for the average farmer dairying is the most reliable and the most profitable. Dairying is preferable to beef-raising in Northern Minnesota, for the reason that the farms must necessarily be small and for a limited amount of feed, the dairy cow will pay three, four and often five times as much for food consumed as the beef animal. This is due to the difference in the market price of the beef products. Beef (dressed), will not usually sell for more than 6 cents per pound, when the farmer sells it. Butter averages over 30 cents per pound, and the cost of producing a pound of beef and a pound of butter, on the small farm, are practically the same.

"Most of the farmers of Northern Minnesota recognize the advantage of dairying and we want every new settler to know it and all work toward making this section of the state a special dairy section. It will pay, because the natural conditions are most favorable to dairying.

Dairy Industry Needs Help.

"Now, this dairy industry in Northern Minnesota needs help. It needs help from the state, it needs help from the local business men and I hope I have sufficiently explained that it will pay to help the dairy industry.

"In dairying, the farmer must take his cream to the creamery, nearly every day in the year. It means that for the dairy industry good roads are an almost absolute necessity, and "good roads" is the great crying need of Northern Minnesota, and especially the timbered section.

"Here is where the state can help, and where it is the duty of the state to help. The state is holding over 1,000,000 acres of land in Northern Minnesota, and this land contributes no tax. It is a burden to the community. This land ought to help bear the burden of road building. It is no right that the few and scattering settlers would have to build all the roads, where the roads they build, not only help them, but it helps all interests and increases the value of all lands. All the lands should be taxed for that which helps all the lands.

"The local business man can help the dairy industry in many ways. But one way in particular is by changing the influences of local towns. A town when in the lumbering business, may support a row of saloons, but the liquor business and farming, and especially the dairying, can never prosper together. The lumbering industry is largely over with—the demand now is for farmers. The great need of Northern Minnesota is for farmers. There are thousands of men who come to Northern Minnesota yearly, to work in the woods and the mines, who are natural-born agriculturists. They are the foreignors from Northern Europe, they come to this country in the hope of getting on the land and they would, if they were permitted to have their earnings in the woods and in the mines, but the saloons rob them and poison them, transform a large percentage of them to tramps and criminals. These men, under proper environment, would become farmers and then their labor would make a garden of Northern Minnesota. Let us get the blane idea out of our heads that the saloons help the business of the town. I tell you that for every farmer I help in an agricultural way there are the making of five farmers who are damned through drink. If the men from the woods and mines, who have been ruined in the saloons of Northern Minnesota, were today farmers in Northern Minnesota, the agricultural wealth and production of Northern Minnesota would be second to no other section of the state.

"I speak, not from the standpoint of a moralist, but from the standpoint of business. From the standpoint of a dairyman. You can't make dairymen out of farmers who spend their small earnings in the saloons. I am not knocking Northern Minnesota when I speak thus. Nowhere have I found a soil more fertile, and the air and water so pure and fresh. There is no section on earth where I believe farmers could be more prosperous, but in pleading the cause of the farmer, I must refute the practices of our towns that continue to tolerate a traffic that everyone knows robs and plunders and demoralizes the lumberman and miner. You can't subject the farmer to the same treatment and expect him to succeed. He won't. But we will make the influences of Northern Minnesota helpful to the farmer and his family and just in proportion to the help we give the farmer will we all prosper.

"Our fathers were foreigners and the kind hand of the nation had land to give them free—homestead lands. It is the foreigners who are best fitted to the rugged conditions of Northern Minnesota. There is no longer free land, but while he earns his first payment in the mines to make on his land, let us in return for what our fathers received, offer to the foreigner of today a helpful influence.

Other Speakers.

Dr. John Gray, professor of the department of economics and political science at the University of Minnesota, gave a speech on "Getting Together."

George Ralph, state drainage engineer, addressed the convention on "The Reclamation of Minnesota's Swamp Lands." He told of the work of the state drainage board in reclaiming swamp lands, and asertIng that they are reclaimed at practically $2.50 per acre.

M. N. Killan, land commissioner of the Soo railway, spoke, urging the delegates to be boosters of the towns in which they live and to eliminate kickers. In order to get settlers to enter this territory in increasing numbers, he said it is necessary to be optimistic and show the best side of the country.

W. T. Willard, industrial commissioner of the Northern Pacific railway, who is a former geologist of North Dakota, said he had seen enough of Northern Minnesota to convince him that the country posseses such agricultural possibilities as to make it a future empire. As a geologist Mr. Willard explained that before the glacier period Red Lake lands had large drainage streams; that the character of the rocks left in the soil since the glacier period has made it the most productive in the United States. He assured the convention that the Northern Pacific railway will do all in its power to help develop Northern Minnesota, where much of its interests are located.

Good Time at the Smoker.

The smoker given last night was productive of a genuine fraternal spirit and brought the 300 delegates together in a more informal manner than had the proceedings of the regular convention, and the affair was productive of genuine enjoyment as an offset for the more arduous labors of yesterday.

A. H. Jester, secretary of the Bemidji Commercial club, presided, and but few of the more prominent delegates passed up an invitation to do something or say something for the benefit of the crowd.

Prof. Harry Masten's orchestra of nine pieces furnished a high quality of music, and the Bemidji male quartet was repeatedly encored. Chairman Jester graciously responded to insistent demands for his telephone story, which has a state-wide reputation. Ike B. Lack, famous as an exponent of German and Scandinavian dialect stories, told a good one and was loudly applauded. Charles S. Mitchell of Duluth gave a rousing speech brim full of good things about Northern Minnesota, reapportionment, good roads, mining of iron ore and suggestions for the betterment of conditions generally.

A. Kaiser of Bagley, candidate for state treasurer, gave a fine speech, and addresses were made by John Dwan of Two Harbors, J. W. Wheeler and Thomas Johnston of Crookston, R. W. Hitchcock of Hibbing, Charles Warfield and W. W. Brown of Bemidji, W. M. Keller of Minneapolis and P. E. Dowling of Eveleth.

MUTUAL FARM TO CUT FOOD PRICES

New Orleans, La., Feb. 18.—A method of solving the cost of living was presented here today in the granting of a charter to the Consumers' Household Supply company.

The movement was initiated here a few days ago with a capital of $50,000, and the announced purpose of purchasing a large farm and supplying the larders of shareholders with many of the necessities of life. In the beginning the products of supply will be vegetables, poultry and eggs. Eventually the company expects to establish a supply of dairy and cattle products.

The company will be operated on a purely mutual basis, with just enough profit charged to pay the expenses of operation. If the corporation proves satisfactory it is said that the organization will be enlarged and take into scope thousands of people.

MAN AND BLIND WOMAN CHARGED WITH ARSON

Said to Have Set Fire to Pool Hall to Get Insurance.

Woman Was Blinded By Murderous Attack of Her Husband.

Mrs. Justina Svenska, a widow 32 years of age and totally blind as the result of a murderous attack of her husband, about five years ago, and Nestor Haino, were arested by Detectives Schulte and Irvine this morning on suspicion of having set fire to the pool hall owned by the woman at 346 Lake avenue south.

The circumstances surrounding the fire, which occurred about midnight last Sunday, seemed very suspicious. The firemen could find no reasonable cause for the fire and thought that it might be of incendiary origin. The police say that the place has not been paying well and that it is probable that the two conspired to set it afire in order to collect the insurance, some $1,600 or $1,800, which they carried on the contents.

Haino ran the pool hall for Mrs. Svenska. He pretended that he could not understand when questioned by Assistant Chief Wilson of the fire department, after the blaze had been extinguished. The building is owned by L. S. Loeb and was insured for $3,500.

The woman came into the limelight when her husband tried to blow out her brains with a revolver about five years ago. The bullet crashed through the front part of her head. She recovered but lost the sight of both her eyes. Believing that he had killed her, the husband committed suicide, using the same gun with which he had tried to murder his wife.

National League Magnates Grow Impatient and May Adjourn.

New York, Feb. 18.—After four days' endeavoring, National league magnates were unable last night to adopt a schedule for the coming season and adjourned. Up to nightfall Horace Fogel, president of the Philadelphia club, was still confined to his room, ostensibly suffering with gout, but about 9 o'clock he quietly left the Waldorf, climbed into a taxicab and was off, presumably for Philadelphia.

Fogel's departure forestalls any action in the matter of the claim that William J. Murray, who says he was deposed from the management of the Philadelphia club when his contract had two years to run.

With Fogel in his room, Frank Robison of St. Louis, ill in bed, and C. H. Ebbets of Brooklyn also on the sick list, the adjourned meeting of the magnates, which was to have been called at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, did not get together until 4 o'clock. Ebbets by that time was able to attend, but it was somewhat of a gahering of invalids, for President John Brush of New York was also ill and had to be assisted to the meeting. Only one vote on the question of adopting the long schedule of 168 games or the schedule of 154 games was taken up. With the proxies of Fogel and Robison held by Charles W. Murphy of Chicago, it was announced that the vote of yesterday was unchallenged, Cincinnati, Pittsburg and Boston favoring the short schedule, the other holding out for the long list. Heated argument arose over the fact that both schedules assign six conflicting dates to St. Louis and two to Chicago. Both Robison and Murphy are insisting that there must be a change.

This complicates matters so that it looks like a hopeless deadlock with a possibility that the magnates may adjourn for two weeks with the hope of effecting a settlement.

Barney Dreyfuss is discouraged. He had intended leaving for Pittsburg last night and it is probable that he will depart, leaving his short schedule vote with Hermann.

Baltimore, of the Eastern league, today sold Jim Maroney, the left-handed pitcher, to the Philadelphia Nationals. This makes seven "southpaws" the "Phillies" have on their staff.

When President Murphy of Chicago heard yesterday that the American league had voted a salary of $25,000 a year to Ban Johnson, he said: "That's pretty hot press agent work."

Dreyfuss said last night that the National league magnates were acting like "a lot of jealous chorus girls," that it was "one grand fight over trivial matters" and that he was going home to attend to more important business.

President Lynch said last night that he thought after this season the national commission would pass upon the schedules arranging dates that would work automatically year after year.

SCHEDULE WILL NOT BE CHANGED

Chicago, Feb. 18.—"There will be no changes in the American league schedule," said B. B. Johnson, president of the American league.

"The schedule as adopted and announced after our meeting will be played regardless of any objections made by the National league or any club owner in that organization. If the National league decides to play the 154-game schedule drawn up in harmony with ours, there will be fewer conflicts than we have ever had before. There will be eight clashes in Chicago and two in St. Louis.

"Our schedule stands as adopted. What the National league does will make no difference.

Every competition is now down to the eights, and point competition is now on. Stocking of Duluth left for home today, and the two Butte rinks also left today.

THE COMMITTEE FAILED TO AGREE

Chicago, Feb. 18.—After being in session the greater part of last night, the schedule committee of the Western league was unable to decide upon dates satisfactory to all, and adjourned until today. It is expected the committee will be able to reach an agreement today.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

David Christopher, on trial in police court this morning charged with conducting a house of ill fame at his hotel, 228 Lake avenue south, tried to take the sting out of the testimony of the state's best witness, Frank Johnson, with a half pint bottle of whisky and flattering words this morning, according to the police.

Chief Troyer says that before the hearing started Christopher took Johnson into the toilet room across the corridor at the rear of the courtroom. Inside with the door closed, the chief says Johnson told him that Christopher smoothed his fur the right way with soothing phrases.

"You're a good fellow, and I've always been a good fellow with you," Christopher is reported to have said to Johnson. "You don't want to do me any harm. I've always used you right and don't be hard on me."

Pulling a half pint of whisky from his pocket Christopher is said to have tendered it to Johnson. The chief says that Johnson had just taken the drink with Christopher preparing for a nice conversation with Johnson, when he broke in upon the tete-a-tete. Word had been carried to the chief that Christopher had taken Johnson into the room and he immediately made it his business to investigate.

Johnson testified that he and Andrew Legreigh ran across two women standing at the bar of Christopher's saloon one night last week. He said that they went upstairs with the women to a room, where they were subjected to improper advances on the part of the inmates.

The women were arrested as inmates of a house of ill fame. They gave their names as Alice Bogan and Sophia Jarvis. Ida Jergenson and Enner B. Jergenson were taken into custody with them when the raid was made Saturday night. They were charged with statutory crimes. They claim to be man and wife, but the police say that they have never been married.

* * *

Dan McDonald was arraigned in the police court grist this morning charged with being drunk and disorderly. The police reported that he came home drunk early last evening and drove his wife with their six children, the youngest a baby in arms, into the cold. He entered a plea of guilty and was given a suspended sentence upon his promise to improve his conduct.

* * *

The police reported that Louis Lemay claimed he would kill the officer who was sent for when he created a disturbance in the Sixth avenue hotel. However, the officer came out of it all right, although he evidently had trouble in arresting him. Lemay pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

* * *

Three vags were tried in police court yesterady afternoon. Otto W. Nelson, characterized as a "bad egg" by the police, got ninety days straight. He was given until night to shake the snow of Duluth from his feet. Erick Christenson got $10 and costs or ten days, which he couldn't pay. Sivert Anderson, accused of stealing $3.50 from Roger Preston at the Nicollet hotel, got $75 and costs or thirty days on pleading guilty to vagrancy. He went over the hill.

* * *

Edward Lehreaux and William Taidy were arrested early this morning charged with vagrancy. They are reported to have been hanging around the Nicollet hotel, although not wanted there. The police say that they are not desirable residents of Duluth, being suspected of having designs upon lumberjacks with "rolls."

Park River Institute.

Park River, N. D., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A two-day farmers' institute was closed in Park River yesterday, being one of the best held in this section of the state. This city adopted a new method of entertaining its farmer friends, holding a big entertainment on the evening of the first day with Mayor J. J. Dougherty presiding, and with a splendid program arranged. On Thursday free dinners were served by the citizens to all the farmers in attendance, indicating that Park River is thoroughly awake to the importance of the work.

MARINE MEN MUCH AROUSED

Washington, Feb. 18.—From the number of protests pouring into the navy department and upon congressional committees against the proposed transfer of the pilot chart from the hydrographic office to the weather bureau it would appear that the maritime interests of the country are thoroughly aroused. These interests are insisting that the data which they require to be included in this important aid to navigation can be obtained and collated properly only by sailors. Decided objection is made to entrusting this work to civilians.

Would Keep Control.

A point made by the hydrographic office in favor of the retention of the work in that channel is that the navy department receives a vast amount of data regarding wrecks, ice bergs, storms, meteorological observations and other matter outside of that actually used in the preparation of the pilot chart. Such information is of the utmost value to navigators, and is obtained from ship captains and other observers without further cost to the government except the mere supply of a copy of the pilot chart.

THIEF RIVER FALLS WILL ISSUE BONDS.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Holt, a small station on the Great Northern some ten miles north of this city, is to have a bank in the spring. H. P. Sponheim, D. B. Bakke, and others of this city are planning to open one there as soon as the ditching operations in that neighborhood are started in April.

At a special meeting of the city council last evening it was ordered that steps be taken to submit to the voters a proposition for the issuing of city bonds in the sum of $25,000 with which to furnish funds to complete the armory and auditorium building in this city. The total cost of the building is estimated at $45,000 when completed.

Helpful Hints on Hair Health

Scalp and Hair Troubles Generally Caused by Carelessness.

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to some one else. No matter how cleanly the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp. It is far easier to catch hair microbes than it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat. Many a hatband is a resting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely relieve these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing for the trial if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousands of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when its loss has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter, and brings about a free, healthy circulation of blood, which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow new hair. We want everybody who has any trouble with hair or scalp to know that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence and no one should scoff at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

BUTTER AND EGGS FIRM

Cold Weather Cuts Down Receipts and Causes Advance in Prices.

Potatoes Are Very Plentiful ---Meats Are Higher and Poultry Weaker.

The cold weather caused a general tightening of prices this week in butter, eggs, meats and some produce, causing them to recover from the bottom prices of the season last week. Quotations on eggs advanced about 1 cent; butter values held firm but unchanged with the exception of creamery in tubs which advanced ½ cent and fresh dairy butter which went to 28 cents after having sold at from 2 to 3 cents under that price within the last two weeks. Fowl and spring chickens are holding firm and the green vegetable trade is satisfactory. A little improvement has been noted in the fruit market, although no marked advances have been made in values in the last few days.

Cold storage eggs are a scarce article while fresh eggs, until the cold snap, were plentiful. Supplies diminished with the falling off of receipts due to cold weather and the inability of farmers to get to shipping points, the roads in some places being almost impassable. Receipts from the West and Southwest have been fairly plentiful considering the weather. The stocks are rapidly taken by buyers. Consumers have bought heavily of eggs lately, and the demand continues. It was natural that prices should become firmer as soon as receipts began to fall off. So long as the fresh stock continued to come in, prices were easy as wholesalers desired to keep their supplies moving, but when the shipments began to fall off and the demand kept up, values immediately hardened.

* * *

The butter trade has been fairly good although persistent refusals to lower prices have caused many buyers to hold aloof and in the fore part of the week there was a dull tone to the trade which improved, however, with the week's passing. The quality of arrivals is good and receipts have been large although incoming supplies have fallen off with the advent of cold weather. The break in butter which seemed imminent last week was warded off by the cold weather this week and values have held firm.

* * *

The demand for cheese is brisk and receipts are utilized almost as fast as they come in. Prices were rigidly sustained this week and the market was in a healthy condition. All descriptions and grades met with favor and sales were made at full market quotations. Dealers have only limited reserves and the knowledge of this fact restrained wholesalers from shading prices to attract more immediate business.

* * *

The poultry trade is not in as healthy condition as last week when prices were exceedingly firm. This is due, probably, to the return of many people to meat eating and the resultant decrease in the consumption of poultry. Hens and springs lost ½ cent. Turkeys, geese and ducks were unchanged. They sold fairly well and dealers had no difficulty in preventing an accumulation.

* * *

Meat values became slightly higher this week. The trade improved considerably and retailers experienced a better demand for all grades. When it is considered, however, that hogs touched the highest prices this week since thirty years ago, the remarkable feature of the meat market is the fact that prices are not now as high as when hogs and other animals were selling even lower this season than at present. This is due, probably, to the effect of public sentiment and the fact that meat consumption has not returned to its normal basis, although the consumptive demand is rapidly approaching its usual levels. Beef prices hardened slightly, various grades selling at ½@¾ cent higher than last week. Mutton is from 1@1½ cents higher and is selling at 11 cents. Pork loins gained 1 cent and lambs ½@1 cent, selling at 14 cents. Lard advanced ½ cent, selling at 14½ cents.

* * *

Potato prices are weak although there has been no reduction from the quotations of a week ago. Receivers are not inclined to reduce prices although the supplies in the country are plentiful, the demand is light and there are plenty of stocks on hand and in sight to supply the demand and leave a surplus. The buying power has not been stimulated by any concessions and there is little interest in either common or fancy stock. Sweet potatoes have had to be of excellent quality to meet with a reliable demand. Considerable inferior stock is pressing on the market.

* * *

A slight improvement is reported in the vegetable market. Offerings are being cleared more easily although arrivals are light and some of the receipts are damaged. In favor are cabbage, string beans, lettuce, choice ripe tomatoes, new beets and carrots. Celery has met with a fair inquiry but supplies have been ample and values have not fluctuated. Peppers have been held at high prices and the trade has been somewhat restricted. Supplies of cucumbers, cauliflower, and mushrooms have been large and have caused a weak market in those vegetables. There was a fair demand at steady figures for turnips, shallots, onions and egg plants.

* * *

California oranges and choice red apples sold well. There was little demand for common offerings and the market was burdened by the excessive stock. Supplies of lemons had a tendency to increase faster than the trade. Cranberries were held at fairly low figures but the demand was narrow and stocks were pressing. Florida oranges were discriminated against in favor of the California product and were difficult to move. There was a good inquiry for California grape fruit.

DIRECT PLURALITY PRIMARY MEN WIN.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 18.—The long fight over primary legislation—the big battle of the special session of the state legislature—ended in the house yesterday with a sweeping victory for direct plurality primaries. Final approval was voted by the house on the Stavmates bill, which covers nominations for all offices except state senators and representatives. The house, by 94 to 78, concurred in the senate amendments and the bill now goes to Governor Dineen for his signature.

The Gibson bill, the other half of the act, covering nominations for the general assembly, was passed by 89 to 41. Before it is a law the senate must concur in some house amendments, which it is expected to do.

IS KILLED BY A STREET CAR

Former Duluth Woman Meets Violent Death at Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Fred T. Little, 73 years old, for many years a resident of Duluth, was killed several days ago at Cleveland, where she has made her home recently, in a street car accident, according to a telegram received in Duluth yesterday.

She came to this city from Grand Rapids, Mich. with her husband in 1880. They lived here until about two years ago, when they went to live with Mrs. Little's niece, Mrs. A. L. McGregor of Cleveland. The details of the accident were not given in the telegram further than that she lived several hours afterwards. Her nearest surviving relatives are those of Mr. Little. They are Mrs. C. B. Chandler, a sister, and Mrs. R. C. Ray, a niece of California; Mrs. E. S. Radcliffe, a niece, of Duluth, and Mrs. McGregor. Mrs. Chandler was with Mrs. Little at the time of her death. She had been visiting in this city and left several days ago for Cleveland. The funeral services took place today at Cleveland.

HENEY'S SUCCESSOR GETS CALLED DOWN.

San Francisco, Feb. 18.—A new element was injected yesterday into the bribery cases which have occupied the courts of this city since 1906, when Superior Judge Lawlor and District Attorney Charles Fickert, who defeated Francis J. Heney for the office at the recent election, clashed over the conduct of the second trial of Patrick J. Calhoun, president of the United Railroads. The court intimated that unless Fickert would prosecute the case with "vigor," steps would be taken to relieve him of the necessity of prosecuting it at all.

The clash followed a motion for dismissal of the case, made by Fickert some days ago on the grounds of insufficient evidence. The motion promptly was denied by Judge Lawlor.

Both Fickert and counsel for the defense refusing to move for continuance, Judge Lawlor, on court motion, finally set the matter over until April 25.

RESORT WAS NOT A HOTEL

"Madame" Mary Gain Again Convicted and Fined in Municipal Court.

"Madame" Mary Gain was found guilty of conducting a house of ill-fame in police court yesterday afternoon, after a trial lasting all day and fined $100 and costs, which she paid. The cases against two of the inmates, Mona Thompson and Belle White, were dismissed and Hattie Young, the third of the trio arrested in the Saturday night raid, entered a plea of guilty to statutory charges. She was assessed $50 and costs.

The madam put up a good defense, denying that the policeman and the stool pigeon, who got the evidence, were ever in her establishment. She contended that she was conducting a hotel and produced a register purporting to contain the signatures of all those who have stopped there since she started to run the place for hotel purposes. No specific acts of immorality were shown against the proprietress or the three women arrested with her. In pronouncing sentence the court said that he could not forget that the madam had previously been convicted of conducting a bawdy house and the purposes for which the house had been formerly used. He said he felt obliged to believe the testimony of the police officers.

SHORTAGE OF COAL HAS CLOSED MILWAUKEE'S SHOPS

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 18.—About 1,000 employes of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad at the South Minneapolis shops were laid off Thursday.

Lack of coal in the boilerrooms was given by officials as the reason for the shut-down. Machinists, boilermakers and every other branch of workmen are without work.

One official at the shops said that there was plenty of coal in cars in the yards, but there were no men to switch the cars. It is said it probably will be a day or two before enough coal is stored in the boilerrooms to resume work.

Carry Nation In Deadwood.

Deadwood, S. D., Feb. 18.—Carry Nation is back in Deadwood, which she is pleased to call "the city of sin." She proposes to stay here a while and lecture, and to try to improve the morals of the town. She declares she has no intention of smashing saloons, as she thinks the citizens require more education on "dry" lines before radical action is taken.

Young Matron Kills Man.

Fort William, Ont., Feb. 18.—Mary Matevion, a young married woman aged 20, shot and killed Paul Fimbolisky in the coal dock district yesterday afternoon. Fimbolisky entered her home and attempted to assault her, she says.

Pulaska, N. Y.

The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co.,
Rochester, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

Very truly yours,

THE EDITORS FAIL TO ACT

Let Resolution for Extra Session of the Legislature Drop.

Governor Eberhart States That He Will Not Call One.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The committee on resolutions of the Minnesota Editorial association ignored a request in the form of a resolution passed by the body this morning asking their committee to embody in their report a request that the governor call a special session of the legislature to consider the proposed constitutional amendment to provide a tax for good roads.

Members of the association, in a discussion which followed a speech by Mary McFadden on woman's suffrage, indorsed Miss McFadden's views. Charles Stein read a paper written by Henry A. Castle who was called from the city on "Second Class Postage on Government Envelopes." Charles F. Scheers of Akeley, discussed "Successes and Failures."

Dunn Opposed It.

When the committee on resolutions reported without incorporating the recommendation urging the governor to call an extra session, C. F. Macdonald of St. Cloud protested. Robert C. Dunn of Princeton, taking part in the discussion which followed, said he did not think the editors should undertake to tell the governor what he ought to do.

"If he does not know enough to call an extra session of the legislature," said Mr. Dunn, "he should take the consequences."

Officers Chosen.

The following officers were elected: President, H. S. Sayler, Journal, Buffalo; first vice president, S. Y. Gordon, Tribune, Browns Valley; second vice president, F. E. Hadley, Enterprise, Winnebago City; third vice president, W. F. Mahler, Advance, Springfield; secretary, Charles P. Stein, St. Paul; treasurer, David Ramaley, St. Paul.

The executive committee was named as follows: C. C. Whitney, News-Messenger, Marshall; Frank Meyst, Minneapolis; and W. E. Easton, Gazette, Stillwater. Alvah Eastman of the Journal-Press, St. Cloud, was elected chairman.

Eberhart Will Not Call One.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart will not call an extra session of the legislature. He so stated today following R. C. Dunn's demand for an extra session to pass a 1-mill road tax amendment.

"I shall call no extra session," said Governor Eberhart, "unless there is a radical change in public sentiment. The assembling of the legislature, even though there are no salaries paid, would be a very expensive matter for the state. The sentiment in favor of a special session is not, in my opinion, very general, and it ought to be practically unanimous to justify calling the legislators together."

GOTHAM IS VERY BUSY

New York, Feb. 18.—More business, politics, pleasure and excitement than has set this metropolis awhirl in many a year is today promising to crowd every waking and working hour of the short month of February here. With two full and four half holidays, as well as four Sundays, cutting calendar activities down to only twenty days, leading financiers, merchants and professional men are having hard work to stand up under the load of their daily engagements that are multiplying beyond all previous experience. While the bribery probing at Albany is widely exercising every political and many business interests throughout town, opera theater and countless social functions are beginning to completely engross the smart set. Never in the history of this city have New Yorkers been driven from breakfast till bedtime by the pressure of affairs so furiously as they are today. Before the stagnation of summer sets in, all indications now point to the transaction of more of moment on this little island than its people have accomplished in the last year or two.

Money Muckers.

Still searching for the $10,000 bill that an errand boy dropped along Wall street a week ago, hundreds of private, city and amateur sleuths are roving up and down the financial district. Every inch of pavement, gutter, sidewhalk and sewer along the path of the luckless loser has been scanned and scraped by this host of treasure seekers. Keen as the scent for money is on Wall street, however, the efforts of the explorers have up to this time proved vain. As the market has run recently, the sages declare, these money hunters can do better in this outside search than they could within the walls of the stock exchange.

Won't Need a Crutch.

When Editor J. P. Sossman of Cornelius, N. C., bruised his leg badly, it started an ugly sore. Many salves and ointments proved worthless. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it thoroughly. Nothing is so prompt and sure for Ulcers, Boils, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Corns, Sores, Pimples, Eczema or Piles. 25c at all druggists.

EXTRAVAGANCE IS CURSE OF GOTHAM

Citizens Trying to Spend All They Earn, Says E. A. Silberstein.

E. A. Silberstein of the Silberstein & Bondy company is back from New York with some interesting impressions of that town. He thinks many New Yorkers are trying to get rid of all they can earn and that there are some folks eating lobsters in cafes who ought to be fondling a "ham-and" in a cheap but respectable beanery. Extravagance, said Mr. Silberstein, is one of the causes of the present high prices of necessities.

"I saw many people," he said, "scattering their money in cafes and theaters when it was reasonably certain that most of them did not have a reserve fund at home worth talking about. On clothes and food the people were trying to keep in circulation all the money they earned. At least that's the way it seemed to me. Extravagance was patent everywhere. With extravagance went waste. If somebody could figure out with a reasonable degree of accuracy the actual loss in money from these two entries on the debit side of our economic ledger the figures would be appalling."

In some lines of business there seems to be a tendency to wait for the outcome of the proposed legislation by congress, according to Mr. Silberstein. This feeling, he said, seems to be confined chiefly to Wall street and its votaries. "In legitimate business circles," he declared, "capital is optimistic and evinces an inclination to proceed in the conduct of its affairs regardless of congress or the attitude of Wall street toward it. A nervous undertone in some phases of our commercial life can be attributed to the present state of the sotck market, which, I believe, has been subject to manipulation and great speculative activity. There is nothing of a legitimate nature to justify the present comparative low levels of stocks and the resultant nervousness in those commercial enterprises which are affected by the market's action.

"Many business men have in mind the experience of the last two years. They remember that Wall street precipitated a financial crisis when the country generally was prosperous; that money became tight in Wall street and then all over the country. Tight money restricts the legitimate and natural expansion of business. The funds available for legitimate business are decreased in the same proportion that the speculative element in Wall street appropriates for its own purposes the money of the big reserve banks, trust companies and insurance companies, which is to say, the money of the world."

Mr. Silberstein said he views the future through rose tinted glasses. "I think the Northwest and Duluth, especially, are going to have a good year from the standpoint of the business man," he said. "I have backed my opinion with my money and I think my judgment in making the largest purchases ever made by our firm at this season of the year will be justified by our business."

Nursing Mothers and Over=burdened Women

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Y., for his free booklet treating of same or, better still, send 31 one-cent stamps for cloth-bound copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new, revised up-to-date Edition, 1008 pages.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it. It is not only foolish but often dangerous to do so.

MARKET STRONG AFTER OPENING

Leading Copper Issues Have Good Advance in Buying Movement.

Buying by strong interests after a weak opening caused considerable strength in coppers today and the leading issues generally scored good advances. The undertone was good although there was an effort on the part of the shorts to put prices down, but the drift of the market was steadily upward after the opening hour and their efforts were unavailiing.

Toward the close when the buying movement ceased there was an attack on the leaders which caused slight recessions, but not of sufficient severity to disturb the effect of the good day which the market had experienced. Buying in some of the leading railroads in which Reading was the most active had a good effect on the copper market and injected a feeling of confidence into the market operations.

While most of the dealing appeared to be of a professional nature yet the public appeared in fairly large numbers to pick up stocks for investment purposes and this scattered buying was not without its beneficial effect. The feeling that the government's suit against the Reading under the commodities act will fall flat caused confidence and hope in some quarters and gave the buying movement an impetus that it otherwise would not have had. The market appears to be in a scalping position and while no big advance is looked for, yet it appears to be on a fairly firm foundation temporarily. Profits on the bulges cannot afford to be overlooked as the market does not hold out a promise of a sustained advance. The situation, however, shows considerable improvement over a week and two weeks ago.

The local market was fairly active and the trading was well distributed. While some of the buying was from professional quarters yet the public appeared to be interested and there were many inquiries especially for the leading specialties. The local market is in a specialized condition and the favorites acted well today.

Copper Queen sold at 60 cents, Giroux at $9.87½ here and $10 down to $9.87½ in the East. Red Warrior at $2.62½, $2.68¾ and back to $2.62½. Shattuck at $19.50, Zenith Lead & Zinc at $1, 98 cents and back to $1, the weakness in this issue being due to sympathy with Walnut Grove, trading in which is not recognized, probably temporarily, by the exchange. Calumet & Corbin sold at 85 and 84 cents, Butte & Superior at $2.50 and $2.56¼, Calumet & Montana at $1.25, $1.62½ and $1.37½. Calumet & Sonora at $23, $22.87½ and then at $23. Carman at $1.06¼ and $1, St. Mary's at 29, 25 and 26 cents and Duluth-Toroda at 51, 55 and then at 60 cents, closing strong at 70 cents offered. The strength was due to flattering reports from the property and to the election of two new directors representing strong interests which have obtained control of considerable stock.

Amalgamated sold at $76.25 down to $75.87½ and up to $77 and then at $76.75. North Butte sold from $32.50 up to $36 and down to $34.50. Calumet & Arizona at $70.50 and $72.50. Greene at $9.50. Butte Coalition at $24.50. Superior & Pittsburg at $13.50 and $13.75.

The strike situation remains unchanged. The Butte reduction works is closed, and unless the situation is cleared up within three or four days the Great Falls and Anaconda smelters must close.

Two carloads of machinery are in transit to the property of the Cannon Mining company near Tower. On one of the cars is a drill which will be put to work as soon as it arrives. Three shifts of men are working on the shaft which is down 32 feet and is imbedded in high grade hematite. The vein was practically an outcropping as it was encountered six feet from the surface. The shaft is being put down to show up the extent and nature of the vein. The drill will be used to determine the trend and extent of the formation. Thus far the property has shown up in good shape.

The annual meeting fo the stockholders of the Duluth Moctezuma Mining company was held here yesterday afternoon. Directors retained are: George H. Mance, president; George H. Crosby, vice president; W. S. Brown, treasurer; C. H. Bagley and C. H. Jones. A. O. Robideau is secretary.

The reports of the officers and directors were considered highly favorable by the stockholders. Of the seven claims owned by the company two are being developed and operated, the Monte Cristo and the Azurite. The other properties are being developed sufficiently only to meet the government's stipulations contained in the titles to the property.

The report, which is for eleven months ending Dec. 31, 1909, indicates 147,708 tons of ore was shipped in that period with an average net value per ton of $308.17. The average net value per shipment was $11,729.70.

The product carried 629.80 ounces of silver per ton. A car of this ore has been shipped monthly. The directors recommended yesterday that a five-ton reverberatory furnace should be purchased to treat ores that cannot be shipped with profit to a smelter. The ores carried $3.10 per ton in gold and 34.46 pounds per ton in copper. The mine is valuable chiefly, however, for its silver.

On the dump are 500 tons of ore containing ninety ounces of silver to the ton as well as copper, gold and lead. The silica and lead, it was indicated, could be removed from the Monte Christo ores. The furnace would save heavy smelter charges, import duty charged by the United States and would enable the company to save freight charges on the non-productive ores from the Monte Christo claim and enable the company to use low-grade ore from the other properties at a profit, but which cannot now be marketed under prevailing conditions. The initial cost of such a furnace would be about $4,000. The ore in the bins on the company's property would, after the installation of the furnace, show a profit of about $18,000.

In the last month and a half the directors have contracted to buy a three-fourths interest in the La Cruz, a property adjoining the Monte Christo claim on the west. The terms are such that the property should be more than self-supporting, says the report. A winze has been sunk fifty feet. At a depth of ten feet a vein or ore was encountered which gave an assay of approximately 1,100 ounces of silver to the ton.

The Monte Christo claim, the scene of the greatest development, was originally worked through five shafts. A new two-compartment shaft has been put down 275 feet and drifts and crosscuts were opened up on the 100, 200, 230 and 275-foot levels. From a point 160 feet from the surface to the bottom the ore was continuous and of high grade. A winze seventy-two feet south of the shaft in the old workings was sunk from the 100-foot level, showing ore in a continous body to the bottom.

Boston wired—Urban H. Broughton, president of the Utah Consolidated Mining company, issues the following circular to stockholders: "By reference to the last annual report issued in March, 1909, it will be seen that approximately one-half of the dividends declared in the year 1908 was out of accumulated surplus. During the year 1909 smelting conditions and the price of copper were substantially the same as in 1908. The values in the ore treated in 1909 were lower than in 1908, so by far the greater part of the dividends declared in 1909 was also out of accumulated surplus. The surplus has now been encroached upon to such an extent that I consider it advisable to recommend to the board of directors that dividends be suspended until the benefits from the new smelting company contract, which will be in force in a few months, are obtained. There is no lack of ore in the mine of approximately the same grade, as far as can be ascertained, which ore, under the new smelting contract, with copper at the same price, will return between $300,000 and $400,000 per year additional earning. The annual report will be issued next month."

A meeting of stockholders of the Duluth-Toroda company was held today, at which C. A. Wright and C. A. Phelps were elected to the directorate. The development of the property, which is near Republic, Wash., will be pushed with renewed energy. Gold ore of high grade is being shipped to the Granby smelter in addition to the ore whcih is being treated by the company's mill.

Watching a Stomach Digest Food

Was the Means Whereby Science Made Possible the Cure of Dyspepsia.

The Abbe Spallanzani was the first scientist to study systematically the chemical powers of the gastric juice, but it was by the careful and convincing experiments of Beaumont that the foundation of our exact knowledge of its composition and action was laid.

Beaumont was an army surgeon, located at an obscure military post in Michigan, while it was yet a territory, and was called upon to treat a gun shot wound of the stomach in a Canadian voyageur—Alexis St. Martin. When the wound healed a permanent opening was left by means of which food could be placed in the stomach and gastric juice taken from it.

Beaumont made scientific experiments with his crude means and wrote a book, which today is recognized among the classics of physiology.

Beaumont blazed the way for other scientists so that today medicine knows what the stomach does with food and what food does to the stomach.

Science also knows what the gastric juices are and how to make them best for the system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, thanks to the poor army surgeon and Alexis St. Martin, give man a means of digesting food, replenishing the exhausted juices, soothing the nerves and correcting dyspeptic conditions of the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are natural fruit and vegetable essences reduced in concentrated form and by tremendous power compressed into a tablet. These wonderful little digestors are known all over America and Canada. Full meals have been digested by them in glass tubes and they are sold by every druggist.

Physicians to the number of 40,000 use them. They are meritorious and powerful. Go to your druggist and buy a package today, price 50c, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

PENSIONS FOR RAILROAD MEN

New York, Feb. 18.—According to the latest estimates obtainable there are 674,259 railroad employes in the United States in line for pensions. This is about 40 per cent of the total number of railroad employes in this country. Thirteen railroads report that 4,659 men drew pensions aggregating $914,695.10 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907.

A number of railroads have had unofficial pension systems for many years. Among these is the Central Railroad of New Jersey the New York Central also granted pensions before it inaugurated its official plan on Jan. 1, 1910. The officials in charge of the pension department of the New York Central, with its 125,000 employes, estimate that the inauguration of the new plan will add 1,500 to 2,000 men a year to the number already drawing pensions.

The twenty-one railroad systems having pension departments in operation are the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Atlantic Coast Line, the Bessemer & Lake Erie railroad, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Boston & Albany, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, the Central of New Jersey, the Chicago & Northwestern, the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha, the Cleveland Terminal & Valley, the Delaware, Lackwanna & Western, the Houston & Texas, the New York Central, the Illinois Central, the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company, the Oregon Short Line, the Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia & Reading, the Rock Island, the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific. The employes of the numerous subsidiaries are included, of course, in the pension systems.

In the majority of cases the pension is fixed at 1 per cent of the average wage for the ten years next preceding retirement, multiplied by the number of years of service. For example, if an engineman has earned $150 a month on the average during the last ten years of his service, has been in the employ of the company for thirty years, he is retired on a pension of $45 a month.

In every case the pension fund is supported exclusively by the company, the employes not contributing thereto. The pensions are given for both superannuation and disability. The age of retirement on four roads—the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, and the New York Central—is 65 years. On the rest of the roads it is 70 years.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Many George Washington Affairs are being planned for the anniversary of the birth of the father of his country, which this year falls on Tuesday of next week.

The principal event of the day, socially, will be the banquet at which the members of the board of the Young Women's Christian association will be hostesses at the building. The dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock and the appointments will be suggestive of the life and times of Washington.

The same evening the members of the Christian Endeavor of the Pilgrim Congregational church will entertain at a colonial social. The decorations and games will carry out the traditions of the day.

The following evening, the young boys, members of the Knights of the Round Table of Neighborhood House will entertain at a party in honor of their parents at the Neighborhood rooms, 2123 West Superior street.

Many hostesses have chosen the day for informal parties at which cherries and hatchets and other conventional symbols will suggest the traditional episodes in the life of Washington.

SUFFRAGE QUESTION

Is Discussed By C. V. McCoy at W. C. T. U. Meeting.

An evening session of the West Duluth branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union was held last evening at the home of Mrs. David Adams and "Suffrage" was the general theme for the talks and papers. The leader for the evening was Miss Elizabeth Turrell and the principal sepaker was Charles V. McCoy who spoke of the conditions today among the women and girl workers of the nation. The present condition is due in part, said Mr. McCoy, to the results of the liquor traffic. The men of families having their earning power lessened, as the result of indulgence in liquor, the women and girls of the family have been forced into the world, where advantage has been taken of their necessity. Although legislation is being brought to the adjustment of this national problem in many parts of the country, the indirect influence of women, which is talked of much by those who are opposed to the equal suffrage, is of small avail, said the speaker, against the direct legislative and judicial power of the owners of the factories who desire to keep to present conditions.

Mr. McCoy read several extracts from one of Mrs. Van Vorst's interesting and well considered expositions of woman and child labor in this country.

Following the principal speaker of the evening Ralph Johnson spoke informally of the temperance work. Alfred Ott read a paper on conservation of national resources and Miss Hannah Nelson read a paper on "Limiting the Suffrage."

Miss Eva Adams sang several solos accompanied by Mrs. R. D. Haven. An informal social hour followed the program.

ASK REAPPOINTMENT

Of Mrs. M. R. Baldwin, Health Inspector.

The Women's Council will request Mayor-elect Cullum to reappoint Mrs. M. R. Baldwin as one of the assistant health inspectors. Mrs. Baldwin was appointed two years ago by Mayor Haven at the request of the Women's Council and she has done work that, in the opinion of the organization that stood sponsor for her, has been most effective. Mrs. Baldwin has made a particular effort along the line of educational public opinion, especially among the housewives in the matter of civic health and the members of the Women's Council feel that to secure the greatest good from her service that should be prolonged at least two more years.

The request from the Council has been formally drawn up and sent to Dr. Cullum.

LONG TRIP TO MARRY

Miss Alina Borg Is Bride Half Hour After Her Arrival.

A pretty romance which began in Finland some years ago, terminated in the office of William H. Dean, inspector in charge of the local immigration department, this morning, when Miss Alina Borg became the bride of Andrew Carlson of this city.

Miss Borg this morning stepped off a train into the arms of her sweetheart, who had anxiously watched all the incoming passenger trains arriving in this city for some days past. Miss Borg came to Duluth direct from Boston, where she landed after the long ocean voyage from the old country.

They at once made their way to Mr. Dean's office in the federal building, where the marriage ceremony was read by Rev. Linnier of Superior.

Some years ago the young people swore allegiance to one another in Finland. Carlson came to the United States to make his way, promising that as soon as he could afford to take a wife he would send for her.

He established in Duluth and, true to his promise, he some weeks ago sent for the little Finnish girl, and this morning she arrived.

She had been expected for some time and during the past few days the greater part of Carlson's time has been spent around the depots awaiting her arrival.

The ceremony was read in the Swedish language, which they both understand. Alina, with an air of confidence, slipped her arm through that of her husband and they boarded a car for the home he has prepared in West Duluth.

Carlson is employed at the Alger-Smith mill.

LOCKED IN A BOX CAR

Two Woodsmen With Smallpox Have a Most Trying Experience.

Two lumberjacks had what was probably the toughest experience of their lives yesterday.

They started from a tie camp on the Duluth Missabe & Northern railroad with the intention of coming to Duluth, but the climax proved a rude shock to their happy expectations. Instead of cushions in a warm coach they were locked up a box car which took them to Proctor late in the afternoon. Nearly numb with cold they were kept inside until midnight and then hauled away to the other side of the city in the smallpox wagon to the pesthouse, which is located in the vicinity of the poor farm.

The men tried to board the passenger, but one of them showed evidences of the dreaded disease and they were refusd passage. They took the box car as the next best thing. In the meantime the authorities of the railroad had wired ahead, and when the box car was hauled into the yards the watchman put locks upon the doors of their self-made prison and telephoned the health department authorities at Duluth.

The smallpox wagon was sent up early in the evening. Before it reached Proctor the watchman had gone home. The driver did not know how the men he had come for could be liberated without the watchman. So he stuck in the railroad town until he found him. This was about midnight. All the while the victims had been jumping and dancing and screaming execrations and pleas to be taken out. They cried that they were about dead from the bitter cold as well as hungry and thirsty.

The didn't get much relief when taken out, for they were at once bundled into the chilly wagon for a long drive. They reached the pesthouse in the wee small hours of the morning, glad to get to any place which afforded shelter, food a warmth.

WANT WEYLER TO BE PREMIER

Madrid, Feb. 18.—The friends of Former Premier Moret have united in opposition to Premier Canalejas, alleging the latter is not the leader of the Liberal party and insisting that he resign and permit Capt. Gen. Weyler, the former minister of war, to form a cabinet. The premier has refused to retire, declaring that the forthcoming election must decide the issue.

NO CHANGE TO BE MADE IN WAGES

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 18.—That the wage scale of the five marine labor organizations which have been in conference here with the executive committee of the Dredge Owners' Protective association will remain unchanged during the coming season has been practically agreed upon by the owners and representatives of the labor organizations.

"All of the important matters of the contracts have been fully and satisfactorily decided upon and they will be signed at once. The wage scale will remain unchanged," said President T. V. O'Connor of the Longshoremen last ngiht. He is presiding at the conference.

The labor organizations involved are the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovelers & Dredgemen; International Brotherhood of Dredge Workers; Licensed Tugmen's Protective association; Tug Firemen & Linesmen's association, and the Rock Drill Workers of America.

The contracts as they now stand differ but little from those last season.

Negaunee, Mich., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A representative of the Western Federation of Miners is working among the Italians in Negaunee and Ishpeming, in an effort to induce them to join the organization. The Corrigan-MacKinney company of Cleveland, is also doing exploration work on the south half of the Adams section with H. O. Johnson in charge. The test pits have been laid to a depth of 640 feet, where a large bed of fine Bessemer ore has been tapped. At the Fayal section work is being carried on by the Detroit Syndicate, who report many good findings, which presages much good for the progress of the city.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LOSES LIFE FROM COLD

Robert Fisher Is Frozen to Death Several Miles From Moose Lake.

Had Been Drinking and When Crawling Through Fence He Fell Down.

Moose Lake, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first fatality in this section resulting from the cold weather became known yesterday, when a man by the name of Miller, who was coming to town from his home several miles from the village, found the body of a man lying near the Soo tracks. He first thought the man had been struck by a train, but on examination found death had resulted from freezing

Mr. Miller came into town and notified several persons who got a rig and drove out to where the body was and brought it back to town.

Identified as Robert Fisher.

It was identified as that of Robert Fisher, who has been staying with Mr. Kahring, a farmer living several miles north of the town on the Soo. It is not known just how he came to lie down and go to sleep, but it is thought that he was under the influence of intoxicating liquor and was on his way out to Kahring's, and was in the act of crawling through the fence along the Soo right-of-way in order to get onto the track, as that is the way he usually went out to Kahring's. His hands were cut in several places and so it is thought that he fell while getting through the fence and was not able to get up again. It is stated that he has no relatives in this country, but that he has a mother and sister living in Berlin, Germany. He has been in this vicinity for some time and has made his home with Mr. Kahring. The body will be interred in Riverside cemetery here.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS FOR PINE RIVER

Chances Are Bright for Early Establishment of a Plant.

Pine River, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The prospects for the establishment of an electric lighting plant here soon are bright.

At Tuesday's meeting of the village council an application for a franchise to maintain and operate an electric light plant in the village was asked for by H. A. and T. L. Arvig, local young men. The ordinance has not been drawn up, but an outline of its conditions and stipulations was heard, and it is not unlikely that the village council will grant the application at the next meeting.

The machinery for the plant has already been ordered and will be shipped just as soon as the franchise is granted. The equipment will consist of two 25-horse power electric gasoline engines and a dynamo of suitable capacity. The power house will be erected on the Shill lot in the rear of the Wideman store, and a little later the Messrs. Arvig will make a proposition to the village to erect a tower and tank, and furnish the village with water for sewerage and fire protection.

MIDDLE RIVER FORMS A COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Middle River Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Commercial club has been organized here with a membership of over twenty. A club of this kind has been a long felt want among the business men here and its completion has been prompted by the influx of many new settlers and the numberless inquiries concerning the big drainage system which is now under way in this immediate vicinity. The club will also take up the matter of the division of Marshall county which will no doubt be voted on at the coming fall election. The following officers were elected: A. C. Kvennes, president; R. D. Carr, vice president; V. A. Greer, secretary, and A. Dalquist, treasurer.

CARNEGIE CANNOT COME.

Regrets Inability to Attend Opening of Houghton Library.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new Houghton public library made possible through the generosity of Andrew Carnegie is being formally dedicated today.

The ironmaster was unable to attend the dedication being at present in Santa Barbara, Cal., and his secretary in reply to an invitation to attend sent the following:

"Mr. Carnegie tenders his thanks to the people of Houghton for their kind invitation to attend the opening of the new library and regrets it is impossible for him to accept. He begs to send his best wishes for the library and the happiness of all the people of Houghton."

Beginning tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the new library will be open for the loaning of books each day from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 in the evening, except Saturdays when it will be open from 9 in the morning until 9 in the evening. The reference and reading rooms will also observe the same hours.

From 3 until 4 o'clock each Saturday there will be a "children's hour," when the little folks will be introduced to the benefits of the library and instructed in the use of books and charts. The first of these sessions will occur next Saturday and Miss Anna Nye, who directs the work of the kindergarten in the public schools, will have charge of the reading session that day.

REDUCING THE DIVORCE AVERAGE

The other day a well known divorce lawyer made the remark that the majority of women seeking divorce are fat. As a woman advances from youth to middle age, she thickens and broadens (unless she be wise); hence, husband grows less anxious to please her as her charm over others grows less. In time this process ends up in a divorce court.

Women who have (husbands) must hold. For this nothing serves like a youthful figure. But, how overcome the thickening of middle age? Very simple. Exercise will not do—does not housework fail? and dieting makes wrinkles. Instead, escape both bother and wrinkles, by taking a Marmola Tablet after each meal and at bedtime. These tablets will take off a pound of fat a day—beginning the reduction where it shows the most, viz., on the hips, chin, abdomen, etc. Get down to the lost, youthful figure that lies under your fat; and then stay there with the occasional help of a tablet. Anticipate no ill-effect, there will be none; the tablets will rather increase your well being, being, as they are a guaranteed reproduction, in convenient form, of that famous fashionable formula, ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 3½ oz. Peppermint Water. They are also low in cost, a large case, of the makers, the Marmola company, 451 Farmer building, Detroit, Mich., or of any druggist, costing only 75 cents.

TOURNAMENT IS TO BE ARRANGED

Executive Committee of Northern Minnesota Firemen Meets at Cass Lake.

Cass Lake, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations for the meeting of the executive committee of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's Tournament association, which will be held here Friday next, are completed. The meeting promises to be one of the most enthusiastic and important in the history of the association. The next tournament will be held in Grand Rapids some time during the month of June, and it is the intention of the committee to make it a little different from any ever held. Several new races and other features are figured on. The committee will also endeavor to arrange the dates for the tournament so as not to conflict with the tournament to be held in Bemidji between Bemidji, Crookston, Warren, Red Lake Falls and other teams.

The members of the association at this time are Grand Rapids, Cass Lake, Park Rapids, Akely, Walker, Deer River, Coleraine and Bovey. It is expected that other towns will become members before the tournament.

The tournament held last year at Cass Lake was a very successful one and the banner was won by Park Rapids. This was the second successive time that that team carried off first honors, and as virtue thereof they became the permanent owners. A new banner will be offered at the Grand Rapids meet. Already the firemen are beginning preparations for the event and it is believed that the rivalry at Grand Rapids will be intense.

SMUGGLING CHARGED.

Residents of Neebish Island Said to Have Fooled Uncle Sam.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 18.—That practically every inhabitant of Neebish island, a short distance down the river from the Soo, have been engaged in smuggling from Canada is the statement of Deputy Collector of Customs McCallum.

These supplies in winter are carted across the ice by teams and in summer boats are used. A number of people have admitted violation of the law.

TAFT'S PLAN IS UPHELD

Secretary Nagel Says Federal Control of Corporations Is Needed.

Existing System of Clashing State Laws Is Called Intolerable.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Federal control of corporations is necessary to the commercial preservation of the country declared Charles Nagel, secretary of commerce and labor of the United States, in an address before the Industrial club here last night.

As to the power of the national government to authorize the organization of federal corporations, Mr. Nagel said there could be no question. The existing system of clashing state laws "a system on all sides at war with itself"—he regarded as intolerable, and he assured his hearers that the consequence of a federal corporation law such as President Taft had proposed could make for nothing but the general good.

The purpose of the government to regulate the corporations, in the opinion of the secretary, could not be considered as an attempt to encroach upon state authority, but as a determination to "employ old authority for the solution of new problems." A change of attitude regarding the relation of national to state authority he believed, had come over the country with the development of problems too big for the state individually to meet.

Among the more important problems said Secretary Nagel, "appears to be the question whether or not the national government may and should authorize and regulate the organization and conduct of federal corporations. Only a few years ago the bare suggestion of such an idea filled the public with dismay. The authority was denied and the policy was questioned. Today, the irreconcilable conflicts to which ordinary business organizations are subjected in our states have forced a general recognition that something must be done to relieve the situation.

"The idea is not limited to any particular locality of our country or to any special class. From all parts, East and West, North and South, city and country, come the suggestions that some relief upon these lines must be worked out. The proposition has now been squarely put before the country. The president of the United States has made a distinct recommendation in a message, calling attention to the needs, and submitting for consideration a form to which legislators and constituents may give their attention."

Three Points to Be Settled.

In considering the proposition, Secretary Nagel stated that three points must be determined: First, the question of the government's authority; second, the conditions which make advisable such legislation, and third, the consequence of such legislation.

"It has seemed to me from the very start," said the secretary on the question of authority, "that no one could subject this question to a thoughtful consideration without arriving at the conclusion that the federal congress must undoubtedly have the authority.

"From the earliest case in which the exclusive rights of congress to regulate interstate commerce was considered, it was made apparent that the authority to provide for the organization of business corporations was a necessary incident to the exercise of that authority, and again and again the supreme court has said that congress has this power."

The charge against the states that they had neglected their opportunities in dealing with the corporations, Secretary Nagel said he did not believe, but he attributed the failure of the states to cope with the commercial conditions to inability rather than to negligence.

"The plain and indisputable fact is," he said, "that the commerce of these organizations with which we are really concerned has outgrown both the boundaries and the authority of any particular state. In other words, the individual state is vainly struggling to control conditions that extend beyond it with respect to territory as well as power and the modern demand for congressional action is nothing but the plain, practical call for an authority that is equal to the occasion with which it has to deal. Realizing that we have a national commerce, we are naturally calling upon national authority to control it, and to protect it."

Secretary Nagel recited the development of business enterprises in the country, showing the gradual growth to the big corporation and the attempts of the states to legislate and the resultant trouble because of the varying laws, and he pointed particularly to one result of conditions as they existed.

False Competition.

"Not only is commerce subjected to inconsistent, conflicting and often destructive regulations," he said, "but the inevitable effect of such activity is to create false competition between the states at the expense of that commerce. The state of lowest standards forces the hand of all the rest. Attempts at progressive legislation are paralyzed, just as one unfair competitor always lowers standards everywhere. Nor will the efforts of the several states to promote unity of legislation meet this difficulty. These efforts are most praiseworthy with respect to all subjects which rest within the exclusive control of the several states; as to national subjects they are worse than useless.

"All co-operation in matters political means government, and why resort to mere understandings without binding force among the states, when we have a common government to deal with a common cause? Why not have our Federal government legislate where our governors can only confer and recommend?

The need and purpose of federal control of corporations, the secretary stated, he believed to be "simply to place a private business company in its commercial activity precisely where the Constitution undertook to put the citizens of the United States. The purpose is to organize companies that may engage in interstate commerce under regulations fixed by the Federal government and free from the unnatural and uneconomical embarrassments which so far any state has been at liberty to interpose."

Another phase of the question discussed by the secretary was the international commerce of the country. Up to the present time, he said, the country had rested on the belief that development of domestic commerce was sufficient. Other countries felt the need of international commercial development long ago and the United States, he urged, must do all that was necessary to meet what its competitors were doing in that line.

"We are now engaged in establishing relations with foreign countries," continued the speaker, "looking for the opportunities of our commerce in their midst. We are shaping our treaties to secure open doors and equal rights with other countries. In what form shall this commercial enterprise make its appearance in other countries if not in the form of the accepted corporate organization?

An Inconsistent System.

"Does it stand to reason that we can successfully depend upon a corporation large enough to engage in foreign commerce, and at the same time too large to be admitted by most of the states composing our own union? Will it be seriously contended that we will be blind enough to engage in foreign business under federal protection, and at the same time permit individual states of the Union to cut the pins from under this same commercial organization at home? We cannot hope to succeed with such an inconsistent and ruinous a system.

"Apart from all the embarrassments which antagonistic and conflicting state legislation has so far created it appears to me that contemplation of the future of our foreign commerce in itself absolutely settles the need for an intelligent, bold and comprehensible scheme for the organization of commercial enterprise under the same authority under whose charge that enterprise is to go forward."

The secretary agreed that confusion no doubt would result in the states with the adoption of a federal corporation law and that serious question would arise with respect to the subject of taxation, but he urged that it should at all times be remembered that the creation of a federal corporation was within the control of the people of the United States. No hard and fast rule, he said, existed as to the manner in which taxes to be paid by such an organization shall be apportioned, but he anticipated no insurmountable difficulty to be presented in this matter with respect to the individual corporation, and he saw no reason why the federal corporation law should not provide for the assessment of tangible property, and for the taxation of shares in such manner "that exact justice and protection will be afforded individual states and localities."

As to apprehension that a federal corporation statute would permit large concerns to escape some of the laws inhibitions provided against them, the secretary had no fear.

"If the mere amount of capital," he said, "is in itself to be recognized as an objection, then there is no reason why the federal law should not fix such a limit as may be found reasonable and safe. But it is believed that the real objection to large corporations in our country goes to the monopolistic character of the concerns. In that respect a federal corporation law would prove, in my judgment, infintely more effective than have the spasmodic, inharmonious attempts of individual states.

"I believe, to summarize, that there is no question whatever about the authority of the federal congress to provide for the organization of commercial corporations which may be equipped to intelligently develop domestic commerce, and to protect our interests in foreign countries. I have no question that the existing system, which on all sides is at war with itself, has become intolerable, and that nothing but the untold wealth of our country can account for our ability to hold our own as long as we have these conditions.

"I am persuaded that the creation of such corporations, immediately responsive to an authority which can deal with them on all sides, will make only for good."

FOR RELIEF OF THE ARMENIANS

Appeal Issued on Behalf of Destitute People of Cilicia.

New York, Feb. 18.—The Armenian Relief association has issued the following appeal: "The downfall of Abdul Hamid at the hands of the Young Turks last April was accompanied by the tragic massacre of thousands of Amrenian Christians. Down in Cilicia, above the northeast corner of the Mediterranean, where the new government was powerless to suppress them, great hordes of fanatical Moslems, jealous of the prosperity of their Armenian neighbors, found the opportunity to set upon the defenceless Christians and massacred them with more fiendish cruelties than had ever before been known in Turkey. Thirty thousand were put to the sword or clubbed to death, all their property looted, and entire Christian quarters of the cities, and whole villages, were burned to the ground. Two fruitful provinces were suddenly made desolate and the survivors thrown upon the mercy of the world.

"Following the cable message from the international relief committee, sent through Ambassador Straus, stating that 60,000 women and children in Cilicia were sorely in need of shelter and the necessaries of life, came a last appeal, giving details of the urgent call for help from various parts of the provinces of Adana and Aleppo. The 60,000 widows and orphans of the martyred Christians, desolate among the black ruins of their homes, are facing death through cold, disease and starvation.

"The appeal says: 'At least 80,000 will need to receive assistance of some sort to enable them to pass the coming winter. Indeed, actual starvation faces many of the unfortunates mentioned above. In the face of the appeals which we are daily receiving, we cannot do otherwise than lay the situation again before the benevolence of the world, trusting that the response may be in some degree commensurate with the existing need. The winter is now upon us. What is done for these people should be done quickly. For the destitute people of Cilicia it is a question of life and death, and we call on all who read this appeal to come to the rescue.'

"America has always responded to the call for help in the name of humanity. In our heaven-blessed land, with the gladness of Christmas a near-memory, many a heart will be moved with peculiar compassion for the thousands of agonized Armenian mothers whose husbands and sons have been cruelly murdered and who, deprived of home and plenty in one day, are now seeking food and shelter to save their little ones from disease and starvation. 'Why have you made those mounds by your tents?' asked the correspondent of a woman who was tending her children inside one of the bare tents in the relief camp. 'Those,' she said, 'are the little ones we had to bury; we were afraid to go far from the camp lest we be killed.'

"The cable will enable us to send out the relief funds quickly to the international relief committee at Constantinople to be distributed to the sufferers through committees of consular officers and American missionaries in the field. All checks should be made to J. Adams Brown, treasurer of the Armenian Relief association, and mailed to Brown Bros. & Co., depository, 59 Wall street, New York city."

CANCER CURE FOR QUART OF BLOOD

From the Patient, Instead of Cash, Offered By Doctor.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The Post prints the following:

"There is a physician in New York city who may soon be known as one of the mightiest conquerors of history—the conqueror of cancer. Out of his laboratory come wonderful tales. He is not working his miracles for the sake of gold. Nor does he demand, like Shylock, his pound of flesh. But he insists upon his 'quart of blood.'

"The hand of this laboratory wizard has reached Washington. One woman, Mrs. J. L. Faben, 2031 F street, journeyed to New York at Christmas time, submitted to the treatment, returned with new energy and strength, and is positive she has been cured of a cancer which threatened her life. The physician is Dr. Hodenpyl, of Roosevelt hospital. He has high standing among his fellow physicians.

"Before she left the hospital she signed the blood bond, for this was the sole compensation which Dr. Hodenpyl asked. And at any time after the treatment has been given a fair trial she may be called upon to surrender a quart of her blood.

"Washington physicians know little of Dr. Hodenpyl's discovery," said Dr. J. R. Nichols. "It has long been known that a dog could be cured of cancer by impregnating his blood with that of another cancerous canine, but as that obviously killed the latter animal there was little gained by the proceeding. I did not know experiments of this character were being tried on humans."

Another physician said: "Possibly the progress of cancer may be arrested by this method. Until Dr. Hodenpyl makes his demonstrations and places his proof before the medical profession I shall be loath to believe it. If cancerous patients help one another by this manner some interesting results may be gained."

BARRED BY KING EDWARD.

Lady Constance Richardson to Be Seen in America Again.

New York, Feb. 18.—Lady Constance Richardson, the celebrated bare foot dancer and sportswoman, who created quite a furore here last winter by her terpsichorean feats in scant costume, will sail for this city within a few days. It may be, too, that she will say farewell to England and become an American.

She is very indignant over the recent action of King Edward, who decided that her dances and make-ups were altogether too—er—liberal, and ordered that she should not be allowed to appear again at court.

He did not mind it so much when she danced before him; but when she took her twinkling feet to the music halls and pirouetted for money he placed the ban upon her.

Lady Constance will dance in this country.

WEDDED YOUNG WIDOW

And Fled When Five "Kids" Greeted Their New Papa.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 18.—About three months ago, Eugene Horn, a resident of Clair, married a young widow after a short acquaintance and was greatly surprised when returning home after his first day's work to find five "hand-me-down" children ready to call him papa. Horn skipped out. He came to Ann Arbor and was picked up as a vag. After his jail sentence was passed, Horn went to Detroit to look for work and a deputy from here brought him back.

TWO WIVES AND TEN KIDS

Too Much for Mazurkewicz, and He Gave Himself Up.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 18.—Joseph Mazurkewicz has appealed to the police to arrest him. For four months he has been supporting two wives and ten children in the same house, and found the strain too heavy.

He came to America fifteen years ago, but his wife would not leave Poland. After two years he took another wife. She bore him six children.

Four months ago, wife No. 1 showed up with four children, and took up her abode with Joseph and his second wife.

VAN NORDEN MADE ILL

By Rumor That He Won the $28,000 Playing Faro.

New York, Feb. 18.—False stories, circulated among his Wall street associates, to the effect that he had been indulging in high play have made Warner M. Van Norden, former president of the Van Norden Trust company and publisher of the Van Norden magazine, ill. His family made statements minimizing his indisposition, but found it very difficult to meet him and talk with him.

Mr. Van Norden was robbed of $28,000 a month ago by two women, who bumped into him as he was leaving the Waldorf-Astoria by the Thirty-third street entrance.

The stories which are said to be the cause of his present indisposition relate to the manner in which the $28,000 came into young Mr. Van Norden's possession.

It was said that he had won the $28,000 playing faro.

'PHONE SWEARS RECORDED.

As Result Manners Over Wire in Copenhagen Have Improved.

Copenhagen, Feb. 18.—Exasperated telephone subscribers who, unable to get connections as quickly as they would like, indulged in harsh language toward the girl clerks, have been cleverly brought to book by the telephone administration.

At first it was found difficult to identify the offenders, so a gramophone apparatus was installed at the central exchange. The moment a subscriber began to swear the girl would have it recorded by the gramophone.

Some of the worst offenders were summoned to the director's office, and when they denied their hasty remarks they were convicted by an exact repetition in their own voice on the gramophone. Telephone manners in Copenhagen, as a result, have greatly improved.

S.S.S. RIDS THE SYSTEM OF CATARRH

Catarrh comes as a result of impurities and morbid matter in the circulation, and is a disease that only attacks mucous membrane. The entire inner portion of the body is lined with a delicate skin or covering of soft, sensitive flesh. Thousands of tiny blood vessels are interlaced throughout this mucous surface, and it is through these that the inner membrane receives its nourishment and is kept in healthful condition. When, however, the blood becomes infected with catarrhal impurities the tissues become diseased and Catarrh gets a foothold in the system. The early stages of Catarrh are characterized by such symptoms as a tight, stuffy feeling in the head, watery eyes, buzzing noises in the ears, with partial deafness and often difficult breathing and chronic hoarseness. These are merely symptoms, and while sprays, inhalations and other local treatment may temporarily relieve them, Catarrh cannot be cured until the blood is purified of the exciting cause. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter. It goes down into the circulation and attacks the disease at its head, and removes every particle of the catarrhal impurity. Then the mucous linings are all supplied with fresh, pure blood, and allowed to heal, instead of being kept in a constant state of irritation by the catarrhal matter. A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

Sin has many tools, but a lie is a handle that fits them all.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

THE FARMER AND THE TARIFF.

The American farmer has been the bulwark of the American protective tariff system. He has been led to believe that because there was a tariff duty on his products he was prosperous, and therefore he has supported the entire system. He has been taught to ignore the things that Providence has done for him. He has accepted at their face value the claims of the stump speakers even when they robbed the sun and the rain of fair seasons of their due credit. He has been made to forget the fact that he has had poor crops and low prices under the tariff, and to ignore the fact that he would have had good crops and good prices without the tariff. He has believed that his prosperity is due to the tariff because there are duties on his products, and he overlooks the fact that those duties, while they do not affect in the slightest degree the prices of his products, increase enormously the cost of everything he buys.

Will the American farmer continue to be fooled now that the defenders of the protective tariff system are busily engaged in proving that the tariff has nothing to do with the high prices of food products? If he consents to be deluded further, the tariff will stand. If he compares the statements made today by the defenders of the tariff with those that they have made on the stump, he will see a great light, and the tariff system, as it is now manipulated, will fall.

In the senate the other day Senator Lodge, one of the doorkeepers in the house of Special Privilege, painstakingly explained that the tariff has nothing to do with the high prices of meat, because this country is one of the greatest meat-exporting countries in the world. Bear in mind, in this connection, not only that there are duties on meat products which are supposed to protect the meat producer, and which get his vote on that argument, but that the excuse for high prices is that the supply of meat is not great enough to feed the American people: yet tariff authorities now tell us that the tariff has nothing to do with the price of meat and that this is one of the greatest meat-exporting countries of the world.

President Taft, too, carefully explained in his Winona speech that the tariff could have nothing to do with the price of food products, because this country exports large quantities of all its food products.

If the farmer will take home and lay these propositions on the red table cloth beside the kitchen lamp and study them carefully, maybe he will reason out of them something to his advantage:

First, the farmer is told by the Republican party that he should be for the tariff because it protects his products.

Second, the consumer is told by the Republican party that the tariff has nothing to do with the high cost of food products, because this is a great food-exporting country.

Third, the producer is told that he should be for the Republican party because its tariff system protects his enterprise of raising stock for food.

Fourth, the consumer is told that the tariff has nothing to do with the high cost of meats because this country exports large quantities of meat products.

Fifth, the consumer is told by the beef trust that high prices are due to scarcity of meat supplies.

The tariff, then, protects the American farmer by its duties on food products; but it doesn't affect the consumer because it has nothing to do with prices.

The high cost of meats, then, is due to scarcity; yet this country is one of the world's greatest exporters of meat products.

PURE AIR IN CARS.

Chicago proposes to step in and see that pure air is provided in the street cars of that city, and if it carries out the present proposals of its health commissioner, it will be doing a very valuable work for its people.

Ask any street car conductor, and he will tell you that unless there is some way of enforcing ventilation, it is impossible to provide it. Unfortunately there are still a lot of people who are so benighted and so afflicted with prejudice or ignorance that they prefer warm, foul air to pure, cool air. If the conductor, obeying the suggestion of a person who prefers fresh air to foul, opens the doors or windows and lets in fresh air, he is promptly rebuked by other passengers who want to be warm no matter what dreadful freight the warm air carries into their systems.

If there were municipal ordinances to which the conductor could point, and say that he had no option but to enforce them, the friends of pure air would triumph, and the friends of foul air would soon discover that fresh air was good for them.

For in point of fact it is just as unclean to live in foul air as it is to refuse to wash one's face and hands and to abhor baths. The man who prefers warm, foul air is just as untidy as the man who refuses to bathe.

After long investigation Dr. Evans, Chicago's health commissioner, has drafted a series of regulations which provide, among other things, for 350 cubic feet of fresh air for each street car passenger, for a minimum amount of 28,000 cubic feet for each car, for heating the air in cold weather and for cuspidors in smoking cars.

"Air in the cars," says Dr. Evans, "should be purer than in the office or home, because so many persons are crowded into a small space, and in breathing each person throws out germs which travel varying distances before they fall. The maximum is twenty feet. The average is between one and two feet. In a street car people's faces are only a few inches apart." A person with a case of grip or a bad cold, sitting in a car surrounded by other passengers, breathes forth hordes of germs at every breath. If the car is close and unventilated, as it is likely to be, the germs thrive in the dense atmosphere, and are breathed in by other people, who presently come down with cold or grip and wonder "where they caught it". Most people never stop to think of their exposure in warm air, no matter how foul it is; they usually think of "drafts," when in point of fact few if any colds are caught in drafts, which are merely currents of fresh, pure air, and most colds are caught in close rooms and unventilated street cars.

Fresh air "cranks," however, shouldn't criticise the street railway companies, for the warm air cranks still are in the majority. They should set afoot movements looking to the general adoption and enforcement of such regulations as Chicago proposes.

STATES FREE FROM DEBT.

The Atchison Globe having commented upon the debtless condition of the state of Pennsylvania, and commended it as possibly the only state in the Union entitled to rank in this class, the Detroit Free Press says:

"Before Pennsylvania is accorded exclusive honors in these respects, it is fitting to inquire whether she really does stand alone in being debtless. If she does, it is perhaps a flattering distinction and commendation. Investigation, however, seems to deny her this claimed exclusiveness. The number of states included in her class is not large. But of the number Michigan is one. The last of the Peninsular state's bonded indebtedness was cleared from the records in 1905. Since that time she has been debtless except for the heavy obligations that the Warner administrations forced on us. However, they do not constitute a bonded indebtedness. And in the provision of her Constitution limiting future indebtedness, to meet deficiencies in revenue, Michigan's indebtedness at any one time cannot exceed $250,000. The state may, of course, contract debts in excess of the quoted figures to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, defend the state or aid the United States in time of war, but all states have that authority. The other states which, together with Michigan and Pennsylvania, are entitled to enumeration in the debtless class and to such distinction as this fact confers are Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and West Virginia."

Very creditable, surely. But Minnesota, if not technically in that class now, will be very shortly, and it is doubtful if any of these states, or any other states, can exceed Minnesota in solvency. The Constitution limits the state indebtedness to $250,000. Its only bonded debt is $100,000 in funding bonds, which will be paid within a year. It owes a little something on the new state capitol, which is being paid up, but this is not a bonded debt.

Nothing is said of the resoures of these other state governments, but Minnesota would gladly invite comparisons. With great forethought, the builders of the state provided a very large allotment of public lands for the public schools and the state university. Upon these lands were vast areas of timber, and under them were rich iron mines. Though most of the timber is gone, hardly a beginning has been made upon the state's iron mines, and in time to come the permanent funds of the state will reap rich revenues from their operation. Even now, with all this in the future, the state is carrying permanent funds amounting to nearly $30,000,000, and its investment in the bonds of other states is several times the amount of its own total indebtedness.

These other states have done very well, but Minnesota would be glad to compare balance sheets with the best of them.

FUSS AND FEATHERS.

Says the Boston Globe: "If you should write a letter to the man who is chief magistrate of this republic, you are at liberty to address him as 'The President, Washington, D. C.' That will be sufficient. He is not 'His Excellency,' as is the supreme executive magistrate of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, nor 'His High Mightiness,' a title which, they say, sounded pleasing to the ear of the 'Father of His Country.' But if you should write a letter to the secretary of state of the United States, whom the plain 'president' appointed to the job, prepare to dip your pen in honorific ink. While Mr. Taft is plain 'president,' without any titular epaulets, his secretary of state is 'The Honorable Secretary of State.' It will not do to address him as 'The Secretary of State' simply. He is something more than that. The etiquette of the state department requires that the word 'honorable' be prefixed to the word 'Secretary.'"

It's worse than that, really. If you write to the secretary of state and through accident or ignorance fail to address him properly, you will get back a printed slip stating that the proper way to address him is "The Honorable, the Secretary of State." There! Official pomposity could not easily get beyond that. This verbal frippery having been achieved by order of the state department, presently those having business with that august and magnificent bureau will be required to kowtow thirty-seven times and wave a flag with the left foot between each salaam in order to get an audience.

Probably the impudent citizen who fails to realize the dignity of the state department and addresses its chief as "Mr. Secretary" will be sent up for thirty days, and the brazen dare-devil who addresses him as "Dear Sec" will be sentenced to Tutuila for life.

Now they tell us that Alaska contains wealth heretofore undreamed of. Is it possible that the Guggenheims have overlooked anything?

Anyway the Taft administration is doing some good work in bringing before the people the fact that there are such men as Pinchot, Glavis and Harms.

President Taft has said again that the Payne-Aldrich abomination is the best tariff bill the country ever had. If he keeps on talking that way he is likely to get to believing it himself.

Rev. John Walker Powell says the high cost of living is merely the price of civilization. The reverend gentleman is doing a good deal towards robbing Lo, the poor Indian, of our sympathy.

That was a mean suggestion that Roosevelt postpone his return from April to June just so he wouldn't have Halley's comet to draw away popular attention. It is more likely he was taking pity on the comet.

MERELY THE OLD INDUCTION COIL.

To the Editor of The Herald:

To the electrician, the exhibition of wireless telephony at the courthouse yesterday, was not inspiring.

It proved to be nothing more than the inductive coil system, which was first used by Prof. Dolbear in London, Eng., in 1868. Prof. Dolbear talked across the Thames river then, I believe, and this system is discarded by all the modern text-books on the subject of wireless telegraphy and telephony.

The maximum distance at which the human voice can be transmitted by the inductive coil method is about seventy feet. The demonstrator yesterday claimed that if he had had two instruments "tuned" properly he could talk to other buildings in the city. I cannot see how he could accomplish this. He had a receiver and a transmitter, and the only difference there would be with two receivers and two transmitters, would be that the other person to whom he was talking could answer.

Yesterday he simply talked from one room to another, and when one room intervened, the sound was almost inaudible. There was only about twelve feet between the transmitter and the receiver when he talked. He said that he wanted to merely show that the sound could be transmitted through a wall, but when you took the receiver away from your ear you could hear him talk—not as distinctly, it is true—but still you could hear him.

The operator claimed that the "dead air" and the absence of furniture, handicapped him. If the sound is transmitted by furniture, why not have a row of Chippendale chairs between Duluth and Superior, and talk over them? The "dead air" proposition is almost as ridiculous. I understood the sound was transmitted by ether waves, and if so what has the air to do with it?

There is no doubt but that wireless telephony is coming some day in the future, but the exhibition given here yesterday was nothing to create any wonderment. The induction coil is not new to any electrician.

REAPPORTIONMENT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I notice the southern part of the state is up to its old trick of talking a reapportionment just before a census instead of after, so that they can hold on to their power ten years longer than they ought to. Cannot a combination of counties be made which will include enough of those who have increased materially in population since the last apportionment, so that the reapportionment can be made right after the census of 1910, instead of reapportioning now when we would get the benefit of only the figures of 1900?

POLETEEZAN.

Cost of Living.

Life: Cost of living has been generally considered a mere catch phrase for the use of the slag stirrers and pig iron workers in raising wage scales, to get the preamble of the Socialists' platforms well under way, and to furnish the statisticians and political economists something to figure on between visible crop supplies.

The trend of recent events, however, has demonstrated that cost of living is not merely a glib bogie phrase to be hurled and thundered by the wild insurgents of the Platte region, but is the sternest and barest reality.

By the use of the deadly parallel it may be clearly seen how Mr. Cost o' Living has obtruded since the days of our fathers:

NOW.		THEN.
Pianola, with rolls punched for Wagnerian thunder-music, Strauss waltz-reveries, etc.	$ 750.00	Aurora music box, rendering "Annie Rooney"	$ 15.00
Four-cylinder 30-horse power sliding gear transmission touring car	1,250.00	Old Dobin, buckboard, harness, etc	125.00
Quarter sawed, oaken sectional bookcases from Grand Rapids, with Hall Caine, McCutcheon, McGrath & Co., in red silk and gilt tops	800.00	"Pearls of Precious Promise," on top of kitchen safe	2.50
Original of Gibson's "Lady o' Dreams"	150.00	Embroidered wall text, "Kindness Makes Friends"	.50
Cuban perfecto, hand made	.50	Wheeling stogie	.01
Clark's Tour, Riviera, Nile, Holy Land, etc	650.00	Trip to state horticultural association, including red lemonade, peanuts, etc	9.00
Commander Peary's story, per word	1.20	Edgar Allan Poe, 500 words	1.20
Appendicitis, operation, nurses	750.00	Cramp colic remedies	.75

Thus it is shown that if this much-discussed gentleman continues to remain among us we will soon be the happiest, giddiest, speediest, broadest people on earth.

Cost o' Living, here's to you, old bogie! May you ever and ever be with us.

What Happened to the Militant Press.

Charles Edward Russell in Success Magazine: The one newspaper of San Francisco that continued to denounce graft and encourage Heney was the Bulletin. The interests desired to cripple and punish the Bulletin and to reward the newspapers that did their will. All business houses are dependent for money upon their banks. One day in the height of the conflict the head of a great department store, which is also a great advertiser, stepped into the bank where he kept his accounts and wanted $100,000. It is one of the most famous banks in the West, and directly connected with the Southern Pacific railroad, which is connected with the Standard Oil, which is connected with about everything else that makes money.

The president paused and hemmed and hawed.

"You know, Mr. X———," says he, "money is very scarce in San Francisco."

"I suppose so," says Mr. X———, carelessly.

"Very scarce," says the banker, "and we are making no large loans except to our personal friends."

"Oh, well," says Mr. X———, "you and I have been friends for many years."

"Yes," says the banker, "but if I let you have this money it will be on the grounds of personal friendship, and I shall ask you to do me a favor in return."

"What is it?" says Mr. X———.

"I see you advertise in the Bulletin."

"Yes."

"The favor I ask is that you take out your advertisement there. That paper is injurious to the best interests of San Francisco and of business. We are not disposed to assist houses that advertise in the Bulletin. Advertise in the papers friendly to business and we shall be glad to help you."

Mr. X——— explained that he advertised in the Bulletin only for the sake of the trade he thus secured. In the end they reached a compromise by which Mr. X——— reduced by three-fourths his advertisement in the Bulletin, and on these terms he got the money.

Where Fate Blundered.

New York Telegram: Mrs. Margaret Deland, the noted author, at the end of her recent brilliant arraignment of "the new woman" at the Waldorf-Astoria, said:

"She is—the new woman I speak of—too selfish. She thinks only of herself. It must have been she in person who visited the Boston fortune teller.

"'Lady,' said the fortune teller, shuffling the cards, 'fate decrees that you will visit foreign lands. You will mingle in the court life of kings and queens. Conquering all rivals, you will marry the man of your choice, a tall, dark, handsome gent of distinguished ancestry—in fact, a peer of the realm.'

"'Will he be young?'

"'Yes; young and rich.'

"The visitor in her excitement clutched the seer's arm.

"'But how,' she cried eargerly, 'how am I to get rid of my present husband?'"

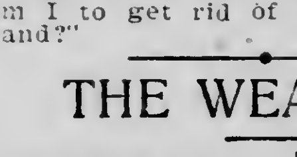
THE WEATHER.



The cold wave is still holding Duluth in its grasp. The mercury got down to 17 deg. below zero this morning, but the air was dry and still, and the day far from being a disagreeable one. The weather man expects the temperature to moderate a little by tomorrow afternoon.

A year ago today it was snowing.

The sun rose this morning at 7:08 and will set at 5:37, making ten hours and twenty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The Louisiana storm has advanced its center to the New England coast. During the past twenty-four hours it caused light to heavy rain or snow from the Mississippi river eastward to the Atlantic seaboard. Colder weather prevails in those districts this morning as a result of the high pressure area that has moved its center from the Missouri valley to the Lower Mississippi valley. Zero weather still prevails in Western Canada, Eastern Montana, the Dakotas, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, the coldest being 38 deg. below zero at Williston, N. D. Snow or rain and moderating temperatures attend a disturbance that has developed over Utah.

"The easterly movement of this depression favors snow at the Head of the Lakes by Saturday night and probably milder weather Saturday afternoon."

Following were the minimum temperatures for the last twelve hours and the maximum for the last twenty-four, ending at 7 a. m.:

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

For some time past, Giles Gilbert of the Olean Land company has been securing title to land on Rice's Point between Pine and Maple avenues, from Fourth street to the old established dock line, where he will erect a large mill with an annual capacity, for day running only, of 15,000,000 feet. Boarding houses will also be erected for the mill hands. The logs will come principally from Bayfield county, Wis., where are the timber lands of the Olean company. The mill will be erected as a private business venture by Mr. Gilbert.

A dance was given at the St. Louis hotel last night by Capt. McLaughlin of the police force in honor of the birthday of his daughter, Miss Mollie. It was a masquerade party.

The Y's of the Pilgrim Congregational church had a meeting last night when a report was presented, showing that the association had cleared $1,200 by the sale of couple of lots purchased at West Duluth some time ago.

The valentine social given at Pilgrim Congregational church realized $50 at the door and a handsome amount from sales of candy and valentines. Mrs. M. J. Carpenter was the energetic director of the affair. The old duet, "Reuben and Rachel," was given by W. J. Johnson and Miss Lee. H. D. Pearson gave a cornet solo. Miss Minnie Montague officiated as accompanist. Simple Simon, impersonated by J. D. Ferris, was very comical.

LIE PASSED IN SENATE

Senator Owen Speaks Up in Reply to Speech By Jeff Davis.

Arkansan Says He Would Like to See Rockefeller Burning in Sheol.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Senator Owen, the Indian member of the senate from Oklahoma, interrupted Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas yesterday in the midst of a fiery speech in the senate to declare that the speaker's words had no foundation in fact.

Senator Davis was denouncing a bill relating to the building of gas pipe lines into Arkansas. In the course of his speech he declared that he would like to see John D. Rockefeller wrapped in the flames of hell. His only reply to Owen was that his colleague seemed to be interested.

The speech was relative to the efforts of Mr. Owen to have passed a general bill giving right-of-way through the public lands of Arkansas for a gas pipe line.

"In Standard Oil Interests."

Mr. Davis asserted that the bill was in the interests of the Prairie Creek company, which he said was a branch of the Standard Oil company. Believing this to be the truth, Senator Davis said, he could not sit idly by and allow to be passed a bill which was in direct conflict with the anti-trust law of his state.

This law, he said, had proved to be effective, while the Sherman federal anti-trust law had done absolutely nothing to check the grasp and greed of the Standard Oil company. He had forgotten the verdict for $29,000,000, he said, but that had vanished as the frost before the sun. Hence, he concluded that the provision requiring compliance with the Sherman law was "a mere sop to catch the votes of senators who could not openly cast their votes in favor of the set of thieves and robbers which constitutes the Standard Oil company."

Pointed to Owen.

He declared the bill to be one that no senator could afford to support, and challenged any Democratic senator to vote for it. Growing more demonstrative and pointing his finger at Senator Owen, Mr. Davis exclaimed:

"Will the senator deny that the Standard Oil company is one of the most iniquitous and damnable trusts that ever existed?"

He went on to say that by the law this company could not come into Arkansas.

"Then," he asked, "why should congress give them this right?"

Returning to the operations of the Prairie Creek company in Oklahoma, he said it was the same concern that had caused so much scandal in the state in whose behalf Governor Haskell had interfered to the extent of creating a "stench which filled the nostrils of everybody."

Respects to Haskell.

Senator Davis added that the Oklahoma governor had gone on, step by step, until he had got himself indicted, and said such legislation and such favoritism as had been seen in Oklahoma would cause another equally serious scandal.

"We don't want the Standard Oil company in Arkansas," he exclaimed. "The only place that I would be willing to see a pipe line laid for the Standard Oil company, would be straight from here to hell, and I should want to see the oil flowing directly there. Furthermore, I should be glad to see that old trust magnate, John D. Rockefeller there, to receive the oil, and would be glad to see the flames that its appearance would create wrapped around him."

Senator Davis repeated his challenge to the Democrats to vote for the bill and, declaring that Mr. Owen would be the only one to cast a vote in favor of the measure, said that Owen's support was due to the fact that in some way the Oklahoma senator was believed to be interested in the Standard Oil company.

"No Foundation in Fact."

The imputation brought the Indian senator from the new state to his feet, but he was smiling when he said:

"The impudent speech, which the senator from Arkansas has just delivered, has no foundation in fact."

"Well, Mr. President, the senator acts like he is interested," responded Mr. Davis, smiling. "He talks like he is interested, and by jinks, I believe he is interested!"

After further discussion along this line, interspersed with some acrid personalities, Senator Davis closed his remarks by referring to John D. Rockefeller as an "old sly fox" who had many friends in court and out.

A viva voce vote was taken and the bill was passed, Senator Davis alone dissenting.

THE OLD RIALTO HAS MOVED ON

But the Academy of Music's Glory Has Not Faded.

New York, Feb. 18.—The Academy of Music, around whose name clusters more glorious traditions than any other playhouse in New York can boast, will pass out of the control of the Gilmore & Tomkins estate on June 15. The old art landmark, which, under many vicissitudes, has stood at the corner of East Fourteenth street and Irving place since 1856, has been leased to the New England Theater company for ten years. The annual rental will be $100,000.

When the new company enters into possession in June, a policy of producing musical plays at a maximum admission of 75 cents will be begun. If this does not meet with public support the place will be made a vaudeville theater.

When the academy was built in 1856, the Rialto lay along Fourteenth street, and this house and the old Union Square, with the old Wallack's theater just around the corner in Broadway, were at the heart of New York's gay night life. In the following year the academy was burned and in 1858 it was rebuilt upon its orginal lines. Few changes have been made since.

Those were the days of the academy's first brilliant operatic achievements. The Mapleson days, with the triumphs of Adelina Patti, Jenny Lind and Campanini, came later.

When Gilmore & Tomkins bought the property they had only $50,000 in cash, giving mortgages for the remaining $300,000. Booth and other great stars acted there in the following season, but the profits were small. A year afterward Denman Thompson, in "The Old Homestead," began his famous three-years' run, and before he left the house the owners had cleared the property with their share of the profits.

Even this was not the academy's record engagement. Four years ago, at popular prices, David Warfield, in "The Music Master," having already appeared on Broadway for two years in the same play, drew $98,600 in six weeks.

As a sign that the academy's glory is not entirely faded, Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern are appearing there now in Shakespearean plays.

LIFE OF A PIMPLE

Complexions Are Cleared and Pimples Disappear Overnight Without Trouble.

The dispensers of poslam, a new skin discovery, ask that notice be given that no one is urged to purchase it without first obtaining an experimental package. Every one who has tried it knows that the fifty-cent box, on sale at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior, and all drug stores, is sufficient to cure the worst cases of eczema, where the surface affected is not too large. The itching ceases on first application. It will also cure acne, tetter, blotches, scaly scalp, hives, barber's and every other form of itch, including itching feet. Being flesh-colored and containing no grease, the presence of poslam on exposed surfaces, such as the face and hands, is not perceptible. Water and soap cannot be used in connection with it, as these irritate and prolong skin troubles, sometimes even causing them.

As to the experimental package of poslam, it can be had free of charge by mail of the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York. It alone is sufficient to clear the complexion overnight, and to rid the face of pimples in twenty-four hours.

"OTHELLO" AS SEEN IN HAYTI

Jealous Lover Not Noble Moor, But Rich American Merchant.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—An amusing performance of "Othello," in Port au Prince, Hayti, is reported by a correspondent of the Hamburger Nachrichten.

With the exception of Othello himself, who was impersonated by an European, all the actors and actresses were natives, Desdemona being played by a handsome young negro girl. The stage manager had deemed it useful to transfer the scene of the play from Venice to a prosperous city in the United States, while the jealous lover was introduced, not as a noble Moor, but as a thriving American merchant.

With the exception of these slight alterations the play itself remained the same as in the original, and this unfortunately led to some disorder. In the last scene, when the audience beheld the swarthy Desdemona being smothered by her white-faced husband, they protested indignantly and hurled missiles at the stage.

The situation was saved by a luminous thought on the part of the manager, who after requesting the spectators to refrain from expressing their opinions until they had seen the end reserved for Othello, ushered in three natives, who fell on the pale rascal, knocked him down and then trampled on him, amid boisterous cheering from the house.

WANT PEARY TO PROVE HE DID IT

Representatives Are Holding Out on Plan to Give Him the Medal.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Members of the house may demand that Robert F. Peary exhibit his proofs to the world in general before voting him a gold medal, and the thanks of congress. It has been learned that the naval committee was not entirely unanimous on the proposition of bestowing honors upon the discoverer of the Pole.

One of the leaders of the house, who declined to allow the use of his name, said that he was opposed to accepting the proofs of Mr. Peary, that he discovered the Pole merely because the National Geographical society had accepted them. He charged a preconceived prejudice in favor of Peary on the part of the society, and said that before congress took this step the verdict of this society should be confirmed by other scientific bodies of the world.

Several members have expressed opposition to the proposed honors and one or two have threatened to discuss the matter vigorously on the floor if it is brought up there.

ISLAND CRUMBLING AWAY.

Key to North Sea Should Be Blown Up, Count Says.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—The importance of Heligoland to Germany in case of war with Great Britain is the subject of a long article by Count Reventlow in the Deutsche Tageszeitung. In spite of assurances given in the reichstag a couple of years ago, the island is in grave danger of crumbling away, and the government is asking for a further $400,000 for the construction of a protective wall along its southern face. The demand has revived the doubts as to the expediency of the enormous expenditure which has been lavished on the buttressing and fortification of this fragment of fragile rock. The count argues that the island has always had a negative value for Germany, since, if Great Britain had possessed it, she would have been able to paralyze naval mobilization from the harbors along the east coast of the North Sea. This, he says, was till recently the only advantage Germany had from its possession, as the harbor could become an anchorage for large ships of war. But, he continues:

This has been changed in the last few years by the unforeseen development of mines and submarine boats. These two weapons of floating coast defense, in conjunction with torpedo craft, make it possible to render unavailable the inside portion of the bay of the North Sea for a deep blockade, such as was formerly contemplated.

Thus German war vessels would be able to pass at will between Elms and the Jade and the Weser and the Ems, which "would be necessary if Wilhelmshaven, with its expensive works, were not to be either inaccessible or transformed into a mouse trap."

The count concludes that if it should prove impossible to fortify Heligoland with sufficient strength to render it impregnable, the only course would be to blow it to pieces and to cut a canal along the coast to keep open the communication between the rivers mentioned above.

HEARING CONTINUED.

Charges Against Red Lake Officers to Be Aired Later.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The hearing in the case of the state against two of of the county officers of Red Lake county for malfeasance in office and which was to have begun Tuesday was postponed until Feb. 23. Certain officials from St. Paul, whose presence was deemed necessary, were unable to be present and the postponement took place.

The officers under investigation are County Auditor Latandresse and County Treasurer Harry Ives. It is claimed by one of the state deputy public examiners, who recently examined the records and books of the offices of these two officials, that they had committed malfeasance in office by diverting public funds from their proper channels. This complaint was formally filed with the public examiner and the governor appointed Attorney M. Matson of Ada as referee to take evidence. The state will will be represented by ex-Attorney General Ed Young and Attorney Halvorsen of Thief River Falls and the accused will have local representation, the county attorney being persona non grata with the other county officials, not being a resident of the county seat.

ANOTHER CLAIMANT

Springs Up to Share in Million Left By Nelson.

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 18.—Another claimant for the $1,000,000 estate left by Springfield's "man of mystery," George D. Nelson, has appeared.

He is Dr. H. G. Nelson of Osgood, Ind., who claims, in a letter addressed to the executors that he is either a third or second cousin of the deceased, and asks for a share of the estate.

Nelson, although a resident of Springfield for many years, never divulged any information concerning his family.

ALL BUTTE MINES ARE NOT FORCED TO CLOSE.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 18.—In spite of the strike of engineers, a number of mines in this district were in operation yesterday, although with largely decreased forces. A dispute between the engineers and miners caused the strike and a long deadlock is possible.

GROOM ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Mother-in-Law Is Wounded as Brothers Quarrel Over Patrimony.

Vienna. Feb. 18.—A panic was caused at a wedding banquet here the other night by the attempt of the bridegroom, a coal dealer named Martin, to commit suicide.

While the banquet was in progress he quarreled with his brother about his share of their father's patrimony. Suddenly he declared that he would not have enough on which to keep his wife, and, drawing a revolver, fired several shots at his own breast.

Two of the bullets lodged in his breastbone without inflicting dangerour injury, but a third severely wounded his new mother-in-law, who was sitting at his side.

Fearing that he was going to shoot the bride next and then everyone else, the guests overturned the table on the bridegroom and then managed to take his revolver away. The bride intends to apply for a divorce.

ON THE IRON RANGES

RECORDS TO BE BROKEN

Great Things Expected on Slide at Coleraine Saturday and Sunday.

Advance Guard of Horde of Visitors Is Already Coming in.

Coleraine, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The eyes of the sporting world will be centered on this locality for the next two days in the belief there will be a smashing of records at the national ski tournament to be held Saturday and Sunday on the great slide erected by the Itasca County Ski club near here.

Today brought the advance guard of the horde of visitors expected for Saturday and Sunday's events. The citizens of both Coleraine and Bovey have been preparing for weeks to entertain visitors and it is expected that every one who comes will be well provided for. The bulk of the visitors are expected tomorrow, the first day of the tournament, when regular and special trains will pour in a lot of enthusiasts over the skiing game.

There has been brought in a car load of cots to meet the emergency demand which will be made upon Coleraine and Bovey for sleeping quarters during the tournament. A lot of the crack jumpers are already here, a delegation from Red Wing having arrived Wednesday night. The big slide is in fine shape, so those who have examined it declare, and the weather indications promise all that can be expected from the weather man.

Ball Friday Evening.

The opening event of the tournament will be the ball to be given in the auditorium of the Greenway high school tonight. Excellent music has been secured and the hall is being properly fixed up for the event.

Saturday evening there is to be a big street carnival in Coleraine on Roosevelt avenue, with participants in mask, horse, ski, foot and dog races and concluding with a grand display of fireworks. Following this will be an athletic exhibition at Bovey, when it is promised as fine a show of sport will be given as has been seen in the Northwest for some time.

Mines Close Saturday.

The mines of the Canisteo district will close at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning, and remain closed until Sunday evening, thus giving all the employes an opportunity to attend the tournament. This applies to the properties in Marble and Taconite as well as Coleraine and Bovey.

By running special trains on Sunday it is planned to give visitors from Duluth and the Twin Cities an opportunity to return to their homes in time for business Monday.

Cross-Country Run Saturday.

The big event tomorrow will be the cross-country run on skis, and for this the red flag markers are already set. In the afternoon the amateurs will try for prizes and break all amateur records.

In the evening the citizens of Coleraine will entertain the visitors on the street with a varied program of sports and fireworks. The town will be especially decorated and illuminated for this occasion. The commercial club will keep open house in Fraternity hall for the out-of-town guests. Later the Coleraine band under the direction of Prof. Hollenbeck, will furnish music for the visitors and the citizens. This concert will be in the Auditorium. Late in the evening the Bovey program of sporting events will be pulled off in that hustling place.

CANDIDATES NOT VERY PLENTIFUL

Few Seem Willing to Run for Office in Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the time for the village election, March 8, draws near, much comment is heard regarding it, the record of the present council, and what should be done. Many suggestions as to who should be nominated are also heard. The greatest difficulty along those lines, however, is that some of the best men mentioned will not serve, while other good men who have been suggested could not be elected.

The next council will be confronted with a great many difficult problems. The electric light and water plant will require remodeling, with an increase of machinery. A new water tank for the water works will be required, paving, street work, and other public work galore, with a scarcity of funds with which to work, and taxes up to the limit so that no increase in the revenue can be made, will stare the council in the face.

H. G. Becker is mentioned as a candidate for village president. For his team mates no active candidates have been announced. No one seems to be looking for the jobs, but George Arscott, J. S. Gole and B. L. Lieberman are mentioned.

For recorder the only avowed candidate thus far is E. A. Le Febvre. Recorder Yancey has stated positively on numerous occasion that he will not be a candidate. George Leroux's name has been mentioned for that office, but he states that he will not have the office under any circumstances. Henry Rannfranz has been urged to get into the race, but he will have none of it. H. E. Graffam is said to be a candidate for recorder.

J. E. McMahon is a candidate for reelection as treasurer. No other candidates have been heard from up to this time.

Judge Huson's term as justice of the peace expires soon and it is said that he is a candidate for re-election.

A rumor has been very persistent that there will be a petition presented to vote on the license or no-license question, but as far nothing definite is known.

AURORA RECORDER IS TAKEN TO TASK

Scored for Not Presenting Bill He Received to Council.

Aurora, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the council meting Wednesday night Capt. John Hudson of the Meadow mine, made complaint against Recorder Graham for not presenting a bill to the council that was mailed to him last December, and accused him of being negligent in the matter of conducting his office.

The bill was for poles put on the Interstate Mining company's land at the time the sidewalk was built to the Mohawk location. The recorder gave as his reasons for not presenting the bill that the village had a bill against the company for the same amount and took exceptions to the captain's remarks. The bill will be read at the next meeting.

Capt. Nicholas and Ed Darrow were appointed a committee to buy furniture for the new hall.

A resolution was passed that made the size for the ballots to be used at the village election to be held in March, six by three inches. The ballets last year were of two sizes, each party having their own size, and considerable confusion arose over them.

THREE, WELL KNOWN, TO LEAVE EVELETH

W. G. Kingston, Thomas Boundy and James Falk to Seek Other Fields.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three well-known citizens will soon leave here to reside elsewhere. W. G. Kingston has been engaged here for some time as range salesman for the Swift Packing company, and he has established a very good business reputation, resulting in Mr. Kingston's being called to Duluth to take up his future headquarters there as chief city man and business manager of the company's Duluth and Superior interests.

Thomas Boundy, who has been with the Oliver Iron Mining company in this city as one of the Fayal clerical force for a number of years, and is prominently connected with many of the local lodges, will also leave for Duluth about March 1, where he has accepted a very important position in the head offices of the Republic Iron & Steel company.

James Falk has been one of Eveleth's most progressive and influential citizens since its infancy and a director in the local bank, plans on leaving about March 1 for Pacific coast points, with intentions of establishing a wholesale meat distributing house in some attractive coast location.

EX-ROADMASTER DEAD.

John Shea, Sr., Formerly of Iron Range Called in Iowa.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Shea, Sr., formerly roadmaster of the Iron Range road, who resigned about eight years ago and moved to Eddyville, Iowa, is dead there, according to word received by his son, John Shea, Jr., assistant roadmaster.

nounced for next Sunday, but the meetings have been forbidden by the police, acting under orders from Berlin. The police are not members of the municipal force, but of the Prussian state constabulary, and to a great extent are former sergeants of the army.

Makes Bad Impression.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—The franchise conflicts at Frankfort have produced an unpleasant impression, even among those who do not sympathize with the Socialists. The spirit in which the Prussian police have undertaken to preserve order is especially disturbing.

When the city council of Berlin met at the rathaus last night to consider among other things resolutions objecting to the so-called election reform measures, the members found a detachment of police occupying one of the corridors. The mayor inquired the meaning of this and was informed that the commander of the Berlin police considered the presence in the building of the officers a necessary precaution against a possible unfriendly demonstration. The mayor requested the withdrawal of the police and his request was granted. The council passed a resolution asking that a more equitable suffrage law be adopted.

They are charged with having intimidated by threats of violence both Osborne and the station agent at Dry Ridge. Three counts were returned, but they differ merely technically.

Aldermen Meet and Prepare Slate of Officers to Be Elected.

Frank Jordan Will Again Be President of the Council.

Democrats of the city council, including the newly-elected members, caucused this week at the Lenox hotel, to fix the slate for the coming year. The party has eleven members of the council and the action determined upon at the meeting will go through, probably without opposition, at the meeting the night of Tuesday, March 8, when the new council organizes. The present officers of the council, Frank Jordan of the Third ward, president, and John Hogan of the Fifth ward, vice president, will be re-elected, according to a tentative agreement. H. W. Cheadle will go back again as city clerk, and Thomas Burke will again be harbor master.

Noble Sampson, sealer of weights and measures for two years by virtue of a deadlock in the city council, which until this year has been practically equally divided politically, is slated for decapitation. He has held the position for many years, but the Democrats who are on the inside state that he has no chance of again getting the position, which pays $900 a year. The harbor master's job is worth $300 a year.

The Democrats have been making every effort to keep the fact that they held a caucus thus early, a secret. When Democratic members of the aldermanic body were asked what was done at the gathering they smiled benignly and intimated that nothing had been determined upon. They didn't deny that they had met but refused to state what had been accomplished. The new council will consist of eleven Democrats, four Republicans and one Independent, who may be classified as a Republican.

THE WEATHER INTERFERES

Ship Building Has Been Delayed on the Lower Lakes.

The cold weather that has prevailed along the lower lakes during the winter has interfered to a very large extent with ship building. Many of the new boats that were intended for use early in the spring will not now be ready until well along towards the fall. But five out of the twenty-two steamers being built have up to this time been launched.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Galena, Kans.—"A year ago last March I fell, and a few days after there was soreness in my right side. In a short time a bunch came and it bothered me so much at night I could not sleep. It kept growing larger and by fall it was as large as a hen's egg. I could not go to bed without a hot water bottle applied to that side. I had one of the best doctors in Kansas and he told my husband that I would have to be operated on as it was something like a tumor caused by a rupture. I wrote to you for advice and you told me not to get discouraged but to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did take it and soon the lump in my side broke and passed away."—Mrs. R. R. HUEY, 713 Mineral Ave., Galena, Kans.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

WEST END

WOMAN HAS CLEVER GAME

"Lady Raffles" Said to Be at Work in the West End.

Uses Excuse of Renting a Room to Enter Houses.

Is a "Lady Raffles" at work at the West end?

A tall, well-proportioned woman, who always appears well dressed, has a clever game which she has been working with some success at a number of West end homes. The police have a description of her, but as yet have not caught her.

Her depredations are always committed in broad daylight and under circumstances which cast but little suspicion on her. In one home on West Third street, Tuesday afternoon, she is said to have escaped with $50 in cash.

Walking up to the front door, she rings the bell and when any one answers she greets them with a smile and asks if there is a furnished room to rent in the house. If she is asked in, she always accepts the invitation.

If informed by the housewife that there is no room for rent she leaves. She may or may not take anything with her, this depending very largely on whether the opportunity presents itself or not.

In case that no one is at the home where she calls, she will first knock at the door or ring the bell until she satisfies herself that no one can be there. Then by means of a skeleton key enters the house, but not without great precaution. She makes a hurried search for valuable and depart at once.

She called one day this week at the flats over the Bjorlin bakery at 2205 and 2207 West First street. The housewife was suspicious and after excusing herself stepped out to telephone to the police. The woman took advantage of the opportunity afforded and when the housewife returned, she was gone.

WILL ADDRESS HIS FORMER CONGREGATION.

Rev. Albert Johanson, a former pastor of the Swedish Mission church at Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, who has for the past four years been in charge of a congregation at Moline, Ill., will be in Duluth next week and will address his former congregation.

Rev. Mr. Johanson was pastor of the local church for five years just preceding Rev. F. O. Kling, now of Minneapolis, who after holding this charge for three years, resigned. Rev. Carl Nelson was elected as pastor and he remained for one year. Last October Rev. J. J. Daniels, the present pastor, was called.

Rev. Mr. Johanson has many friends among the Swedish people at the West end. He will speak at the Mission church on Thursday evening of next week.

CONSIDERING PLANS FOR NEW CHURCH.

Although actual construction has not yet begun on the new St. Clement's Catholic church which will be erected on the southeast corner of Twenty-first avenue west and Third street this year, to replace the old church on Third street which burned a few weeks ago, the building committee is busy, and many plans for the proposed structure have been considered by the church men.

The members of the committee have picked out one set of plans that call for an up-to-date structure, but this has not been finally decided on. The committee is also attending to the matter of having the debris cleared from the foundation of the old church and the place prepared for the church hall which will be moved soon.

The hall is now being used as a temporary church.

BUSINESS CLUB IS OPPOSED TO CUT-OFF.

At the meeting last evening, the Sixth Ward Business club went on record as being opposed to the action of the city council in granting the Duluth Street Railway company the right to build its tracks on Twenty-second avenue west for a cut-off between Superior and Third streets.

The following officers were elected: Ex-Alderman Alec Kennedy, president; J. W. Lent, vice president; John A. David, second vice president; H. G. Hjerpe, treasurer; and T. R. La Brosse, secretary.

The board of directors was named as follows: Capt. J. R. Randall, C. O. Johnson, E. R. Hian, David Nelson, John Anderson, J. Benpke, H. Morarity, A. derson, J. Benpke, H. Morarity, A. Thoren, A. Thompson, Martin Larson and David Olson.

Union Meeting.

Arrangements are being made today for a union meeting of the congregations of the Second Presbyterian and Central Baptist churches Sunday evening, at which time one of the Y. M. C. A. state convention delegates will address the meeting. The name of the speaker has not yet been announced.

The dead:

ALEXANDER HALLIDAY, 35 years old, dairyman; son of Former Mayor Thomas W. Halliday of Cairo; shot in head and body.

The wounded:

Samuel Wessinger, former policeman, wounded in head and shoulder; at St. Mary's infirmary.

John Maloney, brother-in-law of Mrs. Rose Maloney, whose purse was snatched by one of the negro prisoners sought by the mob; slightly wounded in cheek.

Horton Crehan, wounded in ankle; stopped to see what the trouble was.

George B. Walker, Associated Press correspondent, wounded in the leg.

Halliday, son of a former mayor of Cairo, lay for three hours dying beside the courthouse steps, with the temperature a few degrees below zero. During that entire time Sheriff Nellis, acting on orders received by telephone from Governor Deneen, refused to permit anyone to remove the wounded man or to allow a physician to enter the inclosure.

Lay Dying for Hours.

The sheriff says he believed the man was dead. Militiamen who removed his body at 4 a. m. say it was warm, indicating that death had come only a short time before.

Deputies Were Negroes.

Eight of the twelve deputies whose shots killed Halliday and wounded the others were negroes. This fact was not definitely known to the crowd which stormed the courthouse, but it was suspected, and the supposition helped to arouse the racial feeling that spurred on the crowd.

The deadly volley which the sheriff's men fired from the windows of the sheriff's and circuit clerk's offices on the first floor of the courthouse was fired in answer to scattering shots from the crowd, and after the deputies, in obedience to the sheriff's order, had fired one volley in the air.

One of the bullets fired from the crowd grazed the sheriff's right hand, causing a blood blister, but not breaking the skin. Others fell near him. It was after this, he says, that his men fired directly into the crowd.

Governor's Orders Obeyed.

The mob fell back to two saloons adjoining the courthouse and jail and remained there until the saloons were closed, shortly after 3 a. m., on an order of Mayor Parsons, caused by a message from the governor at Springfield. When the men were turned out of the saloons it was too cold to remain outside and another attack on the courthouse was not ventured.

The local militia company, ordered by the governor by midnight, did not succeed in assembling until 4 a. m., and at that hour the militiamen relieved Nellis' deputies.

The mob attack on the jail was the outgrowth of public indignation over petty crimes by negroes, particularly purse-snatchings and annoyances to women. Mrs. Rose Maloney's purse was snatched Wednesday evening. She drew a revolver and fired at the negro, but he ran away with her purse.

Stamp Stuck to Coin.

In her purse was a silver dollar to which a postage stamp had become attached. Mrs. Maloney told the police of the fact, and when a negro offered such a coin in a drug store yesterday he was at once arrested.

The negro, John Pratt, confessed that he had taken Mrs. Maloney's purse, and, several days ago, that of Mrs. Accord.

He said Lincoln Wilson was his accomplice, and Wilson, a negro, was arrested also.

Sheriff Nellis heard talk of lynching the men yesterday, and this talk increased in the early evening so that at 10 p. m. the sheriff called up Governor Deneen at Springfield.

At about midnight an order was sent to Cairo for Capt. Greaney of the local militia company to proceed to the sheriff's aid. There was delay in finding Greaney and in arousing the militiamen.

No Police Aid Given

The sheriff called on Mayor Parsons for aid from the police. The mayor said he would order some of the night force to assist Nellis, but none of the eight night policemen appeared at the courthouse.

From 10 p. m. until midnight the crowd gathered in the saloons, and talk of lynching grew into the determination to attack the jail and take out the two negroes.

The building itself was dark and the mob could not see the sheriff and twelve deputies standing guard with shotguns at the windows of the two offices on either side of the main entrance.

As the crowd rushed toward the steps, Sheriff Nellis called loudly:

"Stand back, or my men will fire on you!"

The first four men in the crowd, Nellis declares, had handkerchiefs over their faces. Nellis drew a revolver, and shouting a command to fire, he fired a shot over the heads of the mob.

Fired Into the Air.

The deputies, who had been ordered to fire their volley in the air, did so. As the sound died away pistol shots began snapping from the crowd and bullets fell around the sheriff.

Then came the second volley. Halliday, who had started up the steps in advance of his fellows, was felled by charges from at least two shotguns. He fell over the railing of the courthouse steps and lay silent in the snow. The others fell back hurriedly, none of the wounded men being in too serious condition to leave.

At a saloon Dr. Gordon dressed the wounds of the four men and a telepphone message was sent to the sheriff's office. Nellis himself answered the telephone.

"We want to send over and get that man who is lying there," said a voice from the saloon.

"You can't come until I've talked to the governor," said Nellis, and he called up Springfield. He told Governor Deneen that the man in the snow was dead, as he believed him to be, and asked whether he should permit the body to be removed.

The governor advised him, Nellis says, to wait until the militia came, and to take no chances on a ruse which might result in a renewal of the mob's attack. So when the next message came from the saloon, Nellis told his questioner that everyone must keep away.

Mob Spirit Never Has Died.

The mob spirit has never died here since the murder of Miss Annie Pelley, a shop girl, last November, by a negro and the subsequent lynching of one black and one white man. The double lynching, which aroused the anti-negro sentiment in Cario and culminated in the mob outbreak last night, took place on Nov. 11 last. The body of Miss Annie Pelley had been found in an alley, and there was evidence that she had been attacked and murdered. William (Froggie") James, a negro, was arrested on suspicion, after a hunt in which bloodhounds were used. At night a mob formed and took James from the jail. He was hanged in the public square and his body riddled with bullets. The mob, which numbered thousands, also took from the jail and lynched Henry Salzner, a white man, who was heldon a charge of wife murder.

Governor Deneen rushed state troops to the scene, and prevented the lynching of Arthur Alexander, another negro suspected of complicity in the Pelley murder. The man was spirited away to Champaign, and afterwards was released on proving his innocence.

Without Sheriff's Orders.

"The deputies fired without orders from Sheriff Nellis, so far as I have been able to determine," said Mayor George Parsons today. "I am assured the sheriff gave no order to shoot.

"The sheriff is higher in authority than the mayor, and when I received word during the night that trouble was pending, I immediately notified Nellis that I was at his command. I ordered all saloons closed.

"Later I was called on the telephone by Governor Deneen, who gave me positive instructions to see that all dramshops were kept closed.

"The fellow the mob was after was John Pratt. He was released last summer under the parole law, which I am glad to say has been knocked out by the supreme court."

MORE MANES TO COME OUT

man who helped Conger draft the proposed amendment to the highway law that was supposed to be desired by the bridge companies. Assemblyman J. P. Yale of Putnam county was spoken of as the author of the highway law which struck at the bridge companies after they had refused, according to Conger, to continue the payment of tribute to the political leaders. Senator Heacock of Herkimer county was the man who introduced the bill drafted by Conger and Hooker which Allds is supposed to have persuaded the assembly rules committee to kill at the last session of the legislature.

Two Big Questions.

The big questions are: Who shared with the late Jean L. Burnett the $4,000 which Conger says Burnett received from Hiram G. Moe on April 23, 1901, and who made the demand for $10,000 "protection" money which the bridge companies refused in 1905?

Conger's testimony that Speaker Nixon and J. P. Allds received only $1,000 for their influence at that time precludes the supposition that Burnett was given the larger sum all for himself. If Conger knows how the money was distributed, he may be forced to tell before he leaves the stand.

According to Conger, from 1901 to 1905 a systematic campaign was conducted at Albany against the treasury of the bridge company. For three years the companies paid tribute. In 1905 notice came from Albany that it would be to their interests to forward to the capitol $10,000. Then the men who controlled the bridge companies met in Syracuse and agreed not to pay. As Conger expressed it, "we decided we would not be blackmailed any longer."

Bills Failed to Pass.

During the four preceding years, measures hostile to the bridge interests had been introduced regularly, but they failed to pass. But in 1905 the legislature passed a highway act which placed on the statute books provisions against which the bridge combination had long contended. As a result of this law 60 per cent of the bridge companies were forced out of business in New York state.

Allds' accuser was on the stand all day and this was his story.

kan coal claimants. Mr. Vertrees said Mr. Behrens already had made an affidavit denying all of Glavis' testimony.

After Glavis Again.

Mr. Vertrees today questioned Glavis at some length regarding the latter's motive for bringing to the attention of the committee a lot of rules and regulations regarding coal entries in Alaska when Mr. Ballinger had made only one slight change in the rules.

"Was it to leave an unfavorable inference in the minds of the committee?" demanded the attorney.

Glavis would not answer directly. He said he thought he had given some testimony favorable to Mr. Ballinger.

"Was the change made by Mr. Ballinger a good one?" asked Mr. Vertrees.

"I considered it a bad one."

Locked Horns Again.

The examination had not gone very much further when the attorney and the witness locked horns again on the subject of direct answers. Mr. Vertrees protested to the committee that Glavis always "ties a string to his answers," and proceeded:

"I am trying to get at the purpose, the motive, the object of the witness—whether it is innocent or malicious."

Mr. Brandeis, attorney for Glavis, arose. He declared Glavis had stated his purpose in this inquiry.

"He has no other motive than to tell the truth," shouted the lawyer. "He is bringing all the facts he can before the committee—all that he considers important—to assist the committee in considering Mr. Ballinger's case."

Takes Witnesses' Side.

Representative Graham interposed: "I don't blame Mr. Vertrees for getting impatient at the constitutional hesitation of speech of the witness, but the witness should be allowed to explain his answers."

Chairman Nelson said:

"It is apparent to me that almost every answer made by the witness has a string to it. He has made no direct answers. If we were proceeding in a court of justice under rules of evidence this state of affairs woudl not have been permitted. But we are moving along without rules of evidence and the chairman is powerless to enforce any rules.

"I want to say, however, that the committee will be able to judge of the facts produced in this case, and the only effect of these long answers with arguments appended is to delay proceedings."

Detail Ballinger's Acts.

Mr. Virtrees asked Glavis to detail the acts of Mr. Ballinger while out of the government service that the witness considered improper. Mr. Ballinger resigned as commissioner of the land office March 4, 1908, and did not become secretary of the interior until March 5, 1909.

ENTHUSIASM IN STATE CONVENTION OF Y. M. C. A.

Attendance of Delegates and Visitors Large at Early Sessions.

Frank H. Burt Gives Strong Talk on "Men and Leadership."

FRANK H. BURT,
President, Chicago Training School.

With fully the number of delegates expected and visitors from Fargo and Minot, N. D., and other cities, the thirty-sixth annual convention of the Young Men's Christian association is in progress. It opened last night with an enthusiastic meeting at the First Presbyterian church and from 9 to 12 this morning, the delegates and visitors were gathered at the First M. E. church, where the remaining sessions of the convention will be held.

Some of the delegates did not arrive last night, but the belated ones came in this morning and all are now here. Sessions will be held morning, afternoon and night until the closing meeting Sunday night.

Tomorrow afternoon's session will be cut short and the afternoon from 3 o'clock on will be given over to recreative features. Some of the delegates will be entertained in the gymnasium of the Central Y. M. C. A., others will go around the city, others will visit the ski hill, and the boys in attendance at the convention will be entertained at dinner at the boys' department. The dinner will be followed by a basket ball tournament between the teams from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Two Harbors, Cloquet and Duluth.

The large auditorium of the First M. E. church was fairly well filled this morning when the inspirational hour opened. "Men and Temptation," was Dr. John Timothy Stone's subject and the talk was filled with good advice and striking thoughts. After the hour, a short business session was held and a permanent organization effected as follows:

Chairman—F. E. House.

Vice chairmen—A. B. Driscoll, St. Paul; W. D. Willard, Mankato; E. C. Little, Duluth; J. W. Kreitter, Proctor; President E. W. Van Aken, Parker college.

Credential commitee—F. M. Deerhake, Mankato; Albert Scriver, Carlton; Fred Bruchhaltz, Minneapolis.

Secretary and assistants — Edward Grace, St. Paul; H. Chase Ballou, Rochester; E. F. McDonnough, Fort Snelling.

Business committee—S. W. Wiley, Minneapolis; Glenn P. Wishard, St. Paul.

Committee on resolutions—Dr. Stanley B. Roberts, Minneapolis; Peter Kempe, Red Wing; E. E. Jewett, St. Paul; C. J. Sargent, Red Wing; W. G. Cartlich, Minneapolis.

Committee on devotional meetings—R. E. Squiers, Winona; E. S. Davis, Proctor; O. J. Stirratt, Minneapolis.

"Men and Leadership."

The train on which Charles R. Towson of New York and Frank H. Burt of Chicago arrived was late and did not come in until about 11:15. In the meantime, Charles B. Willis of Milwaukee and Dr. Stone spoke on general lines of fellowship and religious work. When the speakers arrived, Mr. Townson was withdrawn from the morning's program and the last half hour was given over to Mr. Burt.

"Men and Leadershipp" was the subject of the speaker, who is president of the Chicago training school. He went right to the meat of his subject and condensed it into the half hour so that it consisted of a series of striking shots. "Architecture doesn't make the Young Men's Christian association," he said. "Men make it and unless we have the right kind of men to carry on the work, all our buildings and property are as nothing, as far as results are concerned."

He set out his propositions as follows, giving some explanation of each:

"First—That wise, enthusiastic and progressive leadership is vital to the Young Men's Christian association.

"Second—That in the development of leadership we need persistent effort to inspire volunteers among the lay element.

"Third—That a high order of ability in the executive officers is essential to securing the type of volunteers necessary and to keep them when they are secured.

"Fourth—That the Young Men's Christian association offers to the man whom God would have in it not only a life work, but an ever widening and ever brightening field of endeavor.

"Fifth—For wastefulness, extravagance, lack of system and lack of statesmanship, the present association methods of getting and training men get the blue ribbon.

"Sixth—The importance of the issues at stake, the unsatisfactory present conditions, make this question of men easily one of the foremost questions in the association at this time.

"Seventh—In view of its vital importance, a state commission should be appointed to investigate conditions and fix and publish a state policy."

Mr. Burt did not mince matters on any of his propositions and he dwelt particularly on the last three. He said that he was not arguing for any particular training, but he did argue for a standard to be set for the executive officers of the association. Now, he said, recruits are picked up for association work anywhere and are dropping out again at will. Men are changing constantly and millions of dollars worth of property is entrusted to different men every few months. The association makes no systematic effort to secure men for a work, which is all important, and he drew a parallel between the apathy in that respect in the association and the successful efforts that are used in securing men for the missionary field.

"Strength Begets Strength."

"Strength begets strength," he said in speaking of volunteers from the ranks of the public. "Get strong men in your executive offices and they will secure strong men under them. They will attract strong men of the community for co-operation and you will have a strong body of volunteer workers. Have weak men in your executive office and you have a weak association. We have splendid buildings, splendid equipment and a splendid field, but unless we have strong men, we cannot make the most of our opportunities."

Mr. Burt urged his hearers to remember that there is a wide field for association work, and all that is needed is strong men to get into the field and do work of the association and of God. "The association gives unlimited opportunities for us to make something of our lives."

Mr. Burt caused a burst of laughter and applause when, in response to a question, "Have we the right to ask busy business men to volunteer for association work?" he said, "It will not be as a favor to the association for busy business men to get into the work. We are holding out opportunities for them to do something with their lives for the good of themselves and their fellow men."

Sectional meetings are being held this afternoon. At the the boys' department of the local Y. M. C. A., the fifty boy delegates are in session on boys' work. There are papers on different subjects in connection with the work by members of the local boys' department and delegates from other cities.

At the sectional meeting for college students, Dr. Donald J. Cowling, president of Carleton college, is presiding. A. J. Elliott of Chicago, international secretary of the student department is the principal speaker.

Another section is for physical directors and the other session is for the remaining delegates, the general subject being "Our Responsibility to the Foreigner. The speakers are Lafayette Bliss, superintendent of the Virginia schools, and Charles R. Towson of New York.

After the sectional meetings, a general meeting will be held in the M. E. church at which the theme will be, "Our Resources and Obligations." The speakers are W. H. Gold, Redwood Falls; President E. W. Van Aken of Parker college and C. B. Willis of Milwaukee.

Double Program for Evening.

There is a double program for this evening. At the Spalding hotel at 6:30, the business men's banquet will be served with Selden P. Spencer of St. Louis, ex-justice of the Missouri supreme court, and Fred B. Smith of New York as the guests of honor.

At 7:30 the regular song service will open at the M. E. church, in charge of C. B. Willis. The male quartette consisting of H. E. Gribenow, John A. Jaeger, E. W. Van Aken and E. W. Peck, will sing. Charles R. Towson and Frank H. Burt will be the speakers this evening. Mr. Towson's subject will be "The Immigrant and the Nation," and Mr. Burt will speak on "Men and Our Cities."

The First Presbyterian church was crowded last night at the opening session of the convention. Governor A. O. Eberhart, who was expected to speak at the first meeting, failed to appear, pressing engagements in the Twin Cities preventing. John Timothy Stone, D. D., of Chicago delivered the opening address, his subject being "Friendship With God."

All meetings of the convention are open to the public generally and there were many visitors at the session this morning. The only exception to the general rule will be Sunday afternoon when the meeting at the First Methodist church will replace the regular Sunday afternoon meeting of the local association and will be open to men only.

In connection with the convention, Rev. J. A. McGaughey, religious secretary of the local association, is directing a special series of shop meetings. At noon today, simultaneous meetings were held at the Clyde Iron works, the Mesaba ore docks, Ouellette & Baxter's mill, the street railway shops and the Scott-Graff mill. Tonight at midnight a meeting will be held at the Alger-Smith mill.

The snow throughout the state is the deepest it has been in twenty-five years.

South Badly Snowbound.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 18.—Following yesterday's record-breaking snow fall, passenger trains on all railroads were reported from one to five hours late today. As a result of sleet, Louisville is completely cut off telegraphically from the South. Near Bowling Green fifty poles with their burden of wires are down.

Sixteen and eighteen inches of snow is reported from points in Western Kentucky, the heaviest fall ever known there.

FREEZES IN BOX CAR.

Shakopee, Minn., Feb. 18.—Mack Chrisensen was discovered in a boxcar at Merriam Junction, nearly dead from exposure and starvation. The man entered the car at Marshalltown, Iowa, some time last week. Later the car was locked and Christensen carried to Merriam, where the car stood on a sidetrack from Sunday until Wednesday.

Christensen was brought to Shakopee and placed in the poorhouse. His hands and feet are frozen, and it is thought his feet will have to be amputated.

ADMITS THAT HE IS DR. F. A. COOK

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 18.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook today admitted his identity. He visited his old comrade, the Belgian engineer, Rysselberghe, and the two were together for some hours.

The two men were members of the Belgian Antarctic expedition of 1897-98, and the engineer recognized Cook when they were fellow passengers on the steamer from Valdivia. Until now, however, Cook refused to recognize his former companion.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

THE "GRAND OLD MAN" OF THE DIAMOND WILL BEGIN HIS TWENTIETH SEASON IN GAME

Fans All Hope to See Young Come Back--Other Live Tips on Doings of Sportdom.

(BY BRUCE)

"CY" YOUNG.

"One never gets too old to play baseball" is the statement of Veteran "Cy" Young of the Cleveland Americans.

If the statement of the G. O. M. of baseball is to be believed, he is 15 years of age. The coming season will be the twentieth the great twirler has reported to a professional team for spring practice. The coming season may be the last the Ohio farmer will take his regular turn in the box.

Last season was not as good a year for the veteran as was the season before last with the Boston speed boys. Perhaps age and continuous service are beginning to tell on the iron physique and wonderful endurance of the old warrior of the diamond.

Then, again, perhaps, too, last season was only such an off season as the best twirlers have. Mathewson had his the season before last, and they all have had years when things didn't seem to break right.

It would be great if old "Cy" would come back the coming season and pitch the game of his sweet life. There are thousands of fans throughout the country who really feel sad when the veteran gets his bumps.

When he wins you can hear readers of the daily games cry: "I guess the old boy is there yet, yes?"

Cyias Denton Young is the most loved man in baseball today. He is loved in Boston, like the memory of the early travelers of the Mayflower. In Cleveland he is worshiped, for it was here that he did his great work in his earlier days. They turn out to see him in Chicago, St. Louis, New York and in the other cities of the American league.

What is the secret of this remarkable old man's success?

He has lived close to nature.

You have never seen or heard of an athlete going on year after year, in much the same manner of the one-horse chaise, unless that athlete has followed the rational and sensible dictates of old Dame Nature. She is a loving old mother, is nature, and when one follows her teachings, the reward is generally a life vigorous almost to the very end.

"Cy" neither smokes, drinks or stays up nights. When the other players are engaged in a game of penny ante, "Cy" is generally pounding his venerable ear in the feathers of the hotel bunk. You can find him off in a corner of the lobby in the mornings, when the team is on the road, reading a magazine or some agricultural paper, for old man Young is an up-to-date farmer, down Ohio way.

He is frugal and homely in his ways. He wears clothes that even if they are city born, smack of the country. He talks in homely phrases and he totes a country size of peerless in his mouth when he mounts the hurling hill.

In the winter he saws wood and lives in the open much of the time. He claims that he has never had a sore arm in his life. Yet he is one of the steadiest pitchers in the business. He has never strained himself, for moderation is one of the characteristics of the old fellow.

"Cy" has been in the business for nineteen years. The present year will round out a career of twenty years in professional baseball company. What a grand record for a grand old man to make! "Cy" is simple and modest. Like Hans Wagner and James J. Jeffries he doesn't like crowds and excitement. The umpire has never had to chide or rebuke the old diamond hero, and, winning or losing, his temper has remained serene and unruffled.

Young is one of the links that binds the present day game to the games and generations of past baseball performances. He is a relic of bygone years, yet a live one of today.

He has property and money. It will be the farm for "Cy" when baseball [illegible]. And they won't have to give any benefits for him.

If there were more "Cy" Youngs in the game, even the most fearing mother would recommend a diamond career for her only boy.

GRAHAM DOES QUICK WORK

Duluth Boy at Quaker University Throws Man in Nine Seconds.

Pennsylvania Swimming Team Scores Victory Over Harvard Representatives.

Philadelphia, Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The University of Pennsylvania wrestling team easily defeated Columbia in their first home meet in Weightman hall, by the score of 7 to 0. All the bouts resulted in clean falls, and in a sense the victory was a surprise. The team previous to this meet had not shown brilliant form, in fact, four of the best wrestlers in the university had not been able to compete before, due to the pressure of studies.

The sensation of the meet came in the heavy classes. Capt. Reginald Graham of Duluth, who has been over weight all season and unable to enter any previous meet, threw his man in the 175-pound class in nine seconds. This feat aroused much enthusiasm, the large crowd of spectators immediately swarming onto the mat to give an ovation to the winning team and captain.

Columbia has never won a wrestling meet with Pennsylvania. Among the students there is much speculation as to what will happen when Graham meets Talbot of Cornell in the intercollegiate meet.

* * *

In the first contest in which Harvard has met Pennsylvania since the two institutions severed athletic relations five years ago the Quaker swimming team defeated the men from Cambridge by a score of 44 to 9. Pennsylvania also won the water polo game, 37 to 0. Paul Whittington, the noted football and crew man, won the only event which was taken by the Crimson. He defeated Pennsylvania's best swimmer in the 50-yard event in 27 1-5 seconds.

The crowd which witnessed the contests was the largest ever gathered at the Pennsylvania tank.

The spectators' gallery and the sides of the tank were packed to their utmost capacity and temporary bleachers, erected at the end of the pool, were filled with people. At the conclusion of the meet the president of the senior class, college department, called for a cheer for Harvard, which was given with a will.

PROMOTER APPLIES FOR INSURANCE AGAINST RAIN.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 18.—Sid Hesler, promoter of the Nelson-Wolgast fight, has applied to Lloyds of London for $30,000 insurance against rain on Feb. 22. Hesler's arena at Richmond is a roofless structure, and he is taking no chances with the weather.

ADAMS TEAM WINS GAME

West End Boys Tied With Big Duluths for Championship.

Last night the Adams Athletic association hockey team tied the Big Duluths for the championship of the city, by taking the second game of the championship series, by the score of 3 to 2.

At the end of the regular period of play, the score was tied, 1 to 1, and it was necessary to play an extra period of ten minutes. In this final lap of the game, three nets were shot, two for the winning Adams team and one for the desperately playing Big Duluths.

While the outcome of the game last evening came as a surprise, the plucky West end team earned the victory fairly.

The team work of the Adams was the best seen in any of the games of the present season, while the work of Bob Nelson and Andy Grenner was the best individual work seen on the West end rink for a long time. Time and time again the Adams players carried the game to their heavier opponents, rushing the puck into the territory of the Big Duluths, and missing goals by the narrowest margin.

In all the play of the Adams the work of Nelson and A. Grenner stood out. Both on the defense and in rushing the puck, these two players played a star game.

Wharton played the star game for the Big Duluths. He seemed to be everywhere at a critical stage of the game, and his playing last night prevented the Adams winning by a larger margin.

During the earlier period of the game the puck was in the Big Duluth's territory most of the time. The puck would be rushed right down to the Big Duluth's goal, only to be checked and shot out of danger. In the first ten minutes of play "Arnie" Olson shot a goal for the Adams, during a scrimmage in front of the Big Duluth's goal.

After the first goal the play became even faster. The Big Duluth's played with stubborn determination to overcome the lead, but as the pace quickened the team play of the Adams became even more smooth and even. Neither team scored after the first goal, until late in the second half, when Woods shot one into the net.

There was a dispute as to whether the puck went into the net, but the argument was decided in favor of the Big Duluths. In the few minutes remaining of the second half the play was the fastest of the game, but neither team could score.

In the extra ten minutes of the game three goals were shot. Erickson shot the first goal for the Adams, Cummings evened up by shooting a goal for the Big Duluths, and in about half a minute after the teams were even up for the second time in the game, Andy Grenner shot a clean net for the Adams.

The game ended with the puck in the Big Duluths' territory and both teams playing a fast and brilliant game.

The third game of the championship series will be played next Wednesday evening.

The lineup:

Adams.	Position.	Big Duluths.
R. Nelson	g	A. Woods
Erickson	p	N. Wood
E. Nelson	c p	Kelly
A. Grenner	r	G. Wood
A. Olson	c	Cummings
H. Grenner	l w	Ostergren
E. Olson	r w	Wharton

Referee, Horn; time keepers; Clark and Anderson; goal officials, Wharton, Whittel; goals, A. Grenner, 1; Erickson, 1; A. Olson, 1; Cummings, 1; G. Wood, 1.

The following players will be taken to St. Paul as representing the City Amateur Hockey league of this city, and from which list a team will be selected to play the Phoenix team of St. Paul: Asher Taylor, Stanley MacCrea, George Ostergren, Ted MacKenzie, Andrew Grenner, Earl Cummings, Ray Bartlett, George Wharton and Ray Fenton.

Roy Deetz, Charles Cargill, Edward Furni, Harris Trux, Lyon Whitson and Earl Watterworth will accompany the league representatives to St. Paul.

No selection has been made of the team, and at this time it is not known what men will play in the first game against the St. Paul team. Ray Fenton, as goal keeper, is about the only player who is reasonably certain of playing in all of the games.

The Duluth players will leave tomorrow on the 1:55 train. They will have quarters at the Merchants hotel.

WILL DINHAM'S RINK WINS THE ST. LOUIS CURLING TROPHY

WILL DINHAM,

Will Dinham's rink last night captured the St. Louis event by defeating the Walter G. Hall rink by a score of 12 to 11.

The game was one of the best seen at the local rink since the big bonspiel early in January. The rinks alternated in the lead, during a greater part of the game and every head was fought out to the last stone.

In the Manley event, Heimick defeated Newell, 15 to 4. In the Bagley, Stocker defeated Catlin, 12 to 4. West defeated Tresise, 11 to 10 in the Manley and Jamar defeated Hurdon, 11 to 8 in the same event.

Interest at the local curling rink now centers on the big Hall-Whyte match which will be played Saturday night for the championship of the city at curling. In the one day city 'spiel pulled off Saturday last, the two old rivals got down to the finals. It was agreed to postpone the final contest for one week. Both rinks have been curling in fine form since early in the season, and the rivalry between the rinks is keen though of a friendly nature.

The events are now in such shape that it is quite likely that, with the exception of the Manley event, the local trophies will have been won and out of the way by the end of the present month.

If the regular curling events are finished at that time and there is still curling weather, a number of special features will close the most successful curling season in the history of the local club.

RED WING RAISES BASEBALL FUNDS

Jake Hoffman of Hastings Mentioned for Manager of New Team.

News from Red Wing, which is expected to be a member of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league the coming season, is to the effect that half of the $3,000 necessary for the franchise has been raised by subscription and that there is little doubt but the remainder of the money will be forthcoming. It is believed the money will be raised this week.

If Red Wing is admitted to the league immediate signing of players will begin. Jake Hoffman of Hastings is mentioned for the position of manager of the Red Wing team.

Hoffman had a bunch of amateurs and semi-professionals under his wing last year and he did so well with his material that the men behind the Red Wing team have all but decided to ask him to take the management of the new league team.

Backers of the Red Wing team expect to secure some players from Mike Kelly and also some players from Phil Crier of the Burlington team of the Three-I league.

It is expected that action in the Red Wing application will be taken at the league meeting to be called next week. Rochester will probably be the other city in the league.

Play in Racquet Tourney.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 18—With the preliminary match out of the way, the American amateur racquet championship tournament at the tennis and racquet club resulted in some interesting matches today. One disappointment was the default of H. D. Scott to G. C. Clarke, Jr., of New York, made necessary by the injury of a wrist in practice. Mr. Scott was counted upon to make a lively battle but now Mr. Clarke goes forward unopposed until Saturday, when he is to be pitted against the winner of the R. Fincke-M. Bartlett match.

RANDALL WILL LEAD STRONG NINE AGAINST PICK OF THE MILITIA

NEWT RANDALL,
Captain and First Baseman, All Stars.

Yesterday Newt Randall made the selection of the All Star indoor baseball team which will meet the All League team next Tuesday evening at the Armory for the indoor championship of the northern half of the state.

The crack All Star team will line up as follows:

Twice the present season the All Stars have shown they were one of the strongest teams in the entire state. The team is composed of the very best professional players wintering in and around Duluth, and in both of the games against the strong Company A team the All Stars showed that they were too strong for the militia men.

The soldiers hope to lower the colors of the All Stars with the team that will represent the strength of the Military league. The strongest players in the league have been selected for the team, and every position on the All League team is filled with a man who has proved a star in his position during the present season.

The game will be the last big game of the present season, as the All Stars and players of the All League team will combine for some out-of-town games, after the game of next Tuesday evening.

Members of the militia are banking on the pick of the league to defeat the All Stars, while the professional and semi-professional players believe it will be a walkaway for the All Stars. The game promises to be close and well contested. The game will be followed by a dance.

LEADING TEAMS HOLD THEIR OWN

Superior Five Rolls Best Score of Day at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 18.—There were no changes in the standings of the first ten teams as a result of the rolling in the five-men event in the international bowing tournament last night. Rugge and Johnson of Faribault, Minn., went into second place in the doubles, however, with a score of 1,162.

The high scores in the five-men event tonight were as follows: Superiors, Superior, Wis., 2,431; Finch, Van Slycke & McConville, St. Paul, 2,422; Aberdeens, Aberdeen, S. D., 2,419; Brundins, Albert Lea, 2,411; Swift & Co., St. Paul, 2,400.

The best scores of the two-men teams and individuals in the tournament yesterday afternoon were as follows:

Two-men teams—Rugge and Johnson, Faribault, 1,162; Paul and Ball, Waterloo, Iowa, 1,119; Hendrickson and Brahy, St. Paul, 1,112; Stein Wedell and Rettner, St. Paul, 1,112; Luger and Walzer, St. Paul, 1,092.

Individuals—H. Paul, Waterloo, Iowa, 578; L. F. Cowan, 578; L. Klagge, Winona, 567; F. Hammernicki, Winona, 558; A. Herman, St. Paul, 547; L. Milanouski, Winona, 546.

CENTRAL CANCELS BASKET BALL GAME.

The Central high school basket ball team has been obliged to cancel the game with Minneapolis West high, owing to the fact that no gymnasium could be secured for the game.

The boys' department gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. could not be secured, as it will be in use on the date set for the game, and the association athletic authorities refused to permit the high school team to use the big association gymnasium.

An attempt will be made to schedule a later game with one of the Minneapolis high school teams.

BOWLING RECORD BROKEN.

Laidlaw and Bauer Smash Two-Men Team Mark at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 18.—The world's record for a two-men team three games, bowling event, was broken here last night in the city tournament when W. F. Laidlaw and William Bauer made a score of 1,347.

The record until last night was held by Albert and Tony Schwoegler of Madison, Wis., with a score of 1,307 made last year at the American Bowling congress in Pittsburg.

Discussion has arisen as to whether the record made last night will stand. The Laidlaw-Bauer team was not regularly entered in the event in which the score was made, but was filling in for another team.

THE DIXIE MAY BE BROUGHT HERE.

This morning it was stated that the Dixie II, a motor boat which on Aug. 21 of last year made thirty-two miles in 58:25, may be seen at the Head of the Lakes the present season in a series of exhibitons or races. The Dixie II is one of the fastest boats in the world, and if it is brought to the Head of the Lakes will show the speed possible in the modern power craft.

Ketchel Will Train.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 18.—After spending several weeks in idleness here, Stanley Ketchel left last night for Hot Springs, where he will go into training for his bout scheduled with Frank Klaus at Pittsburg, March 10. Following the Klaus fight, it is announced, Ketchel will meet Tony Caponi at Kalamazoo.

CONFERENCE TO FIX PLACE FOR FIGHT.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 18.—With the arrival of James J. Jeffries and his manager, Sam Berger, early today, it was announced that a conference to decide the place of the coming Jeffries-Johnson fight would be held immediately after the arrival of Tex Rickard. The latter missed Jeffries' train at Reno.

BOARD OPENS BIDS ON BRIDGES

The board of public works opened bids this morning for the proposed new bridge over Tischer's creek on East Superior street between Thirty-second and Thirty-third avenues. A large number of Lakeside residents presented their views but nothing was determined upon this forenoon. The meeting was adjourned until 3:30 this afternoon in order that the council committee on bridges might be consulted.

The most favorably received proposition was that of George H. Lounsberry for a concrete bridge supported by about a dozen piers. This would leave the view comparatively unimpaired from either side. The cost, which is estimated at less than $20,000 is also an important item, being $5,000 more or less than the bids on the other classes of bridges.

SOUTH DAKOTA STOCK LOSSES TO BE HEAVY.

Mobridge, S. D., Feb. 18.—Old cattlemen are authority for the statement that the loss to stock on the ranges west of the Missouri river as a result of the storm this week will exceed 50 per cent, and may amount to 60 per cent. It is estimated that there are more than 100,000 head of stock running free range, but the recent deep snow has cut down their feed. The stock is in an emaciated condition and not able to withstand the storm and subsequent severe cold.

SLEEP OUTSIDE IN COLD WEATHER

The cold weather has no terrors for the patients in Duluth who are battling tuberculosis. Neither the freezing atmosphere, the driving snow or the cutting wind has driven them indoors. They have remained outside, invoking the aid of nature in their battle for health and strength. Though they woke up the morning after the recent storm to find their cots surrounded by snow which had sifted through their shelters they went back again the next night with the mercury flirting with the 15 and 20 deg. below zero marks, and are going out every night.

They are showing excellent results with the rigorous treatment and expect to continue living outdoors until all danger has passed. One of the most appealing cases is that of a mother of two children, who has been attacked by the tubercular germ. She is slight and frail, but is showing that she is gritty in the face of the most trying circumstances.

NURSE IN CHARGE OF NEW PAVILION

Mrs. Florence Lee, nurse of the city tubercular patients, will take charge of the tuberculosis pavilion at the poor farm for a few weeks until other arrangements can be made. The pavilion was recently completed by the county at an estimated cost of $10,000 and is one of the finest in this part of the country. Although not as large as some places of its kind in the state its equipment is up to date and it is expected to be a great aid in the fight which is being waged in Duluth and Northern Minnesota against the destructive white plague.

WEST DULUTH PASTOR DECLINES TO RESIGN

Rev. Daniel G. Cole Says He Will Remain for a Year.

Claims That Stormy Scenes Took Place in the Church.

Interesting developments are expected to grow out of a dispute which is said to have arisen between Rev. Daniel George Cole, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street, and certain members of the congregation.

It is rumored that at a meeting of the trustees of the church last evening, Rev. Mr. Cole was asked to resign, but this report was neither affirmed nor denied today, when the matter was put up to one of the church official.

Rev. Mr. Cole came to the Plymouth church late last summer, when the congregation was without a pastor. He was called to the church temporarily at that time. After three months of work, in which he acted as temporary pastor, he received a call for a year.

Rev. Mr. Cole in speaking of the matter to The Herald today stated flatly that he would not resign from his position as pastor for any reason that certain church officials had thus far advanced. He claims that he was called for a year and with the explicit understanding that it was to be considered an indefinite call to be terminated with two months' notice on either side, at the end of the year.

In speaking of the rumor that he had been asked to resign, Mr. Cole said: "All this trouble has been stirred up by a few malcontents, who imagine I have been teaching Catholicism in the pulpit. One of these persons made disrespectful remarks about the Catholic church, and I felt it my duty as a Christian gentleman to resent them, which I did.

"Because I admire the Catholic church, does not follow that I am teaching what this person called Romanism. Plymouth church could have a great future, if the disturbers on the inside would only let it. But they won't.

"At the annual meeting, I was called for a year, the call being indefinite, two months' notice on either side. The motion, as moved, seconded, and carried, would entitle me to fourteen months as a pastor.

"A letter was sent me recently asking that I grant an interview with the deacons. I granted this and it was agreed that the interview was to be at my office, No. 8, Silvey block. One of the officers, who is a contractor, was rude enough to keep his hat on during the part of the conference that followed.

"When I started to read the duties of the deacons, before turning the meeting over to the presiding deacon, this person created a scene and overruled all accepted courtesy and parliamentary usage. For the sake of peace, I consented to go to the church. Other stormy scenes followed in the house of God on the Lord's day, until at last I begged to be released.

"Libelous statements were made by this ruling spirit and his creature, the senior deacon made charitable and Christian overtures and tried to pour oil on the troubled waters.

"Silly statements were made by the disturbers and when asked for the source of the fuss, the request was evaded and also in turn flatly denied. Some of the persons connected with the church have, in addition to making trouble for me, done absolutely nothing. It appears that they are disturbed because I did work necessary for the maintenance of the church. Perhaps it is a question for the courts to decide."

MUST GIVE BONDS OR SERVE TIME IN JAIL.

Mike Skovich must furnish $200 bonds to warrant that he will keep the peace for the next three months or he must go to the county jail for sixty days. He was found guilty of having threatened to kill Dan Painovich of 327 South Fifty-seventh avenue west.

Skovich was arrested late yesterday and was arraigned this morning before Judge Flack of the West Duluth justice court. He pleaded not guilty but the evidence was against him. Late this afternoon he had not furnished the bonds required.

With the Curlers.

At the curling rink last evening, Miller defeated Evered in the semi-finals of the Hendrickson event by a score of 11 to 10. In the Bagley event, Zauft defeated Holland, 14 to 8, and Rockwell lost to Clark, 14 to 9. Tonight, Hewitt will play Macauley in the Hendrickson, and Zauft will meet Keyes in the Bagley event.

SPANISH SWINDLERS ARE TRYING TO WORK DULUTH.

Another of the famous Alexander Demidoff letters has been received in this city. The letter was received by B. G. Ingraham, though it was written to his father, who is dead, and came into the hands of the son.

The letter is part of the scheme of a number of international swindlers, it is believed, as more of the same kind of letters have been received by citizens of this city.

In addition to the letter, postmarked Madrid, Spain, written in English long hand and containing the signature of A. Demidoff, a cable address is named in the letter, that the receiver is expected to communicate with, in order that he may be put in touch with the means of helping the imprisoned Demidoff and also securing a fortune.

It is claimed that some people in this city have been taken in by the same swindle and have sent money to Spain.

W. G. Mather, president of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company will contribute three medals for Marquette county riders.

THREE CANDIDATES FOR FARGO MAYORALTY RACE.

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Fargo mayoralty race promises to be three cornered. V. R. Lovell is the latest aspirant. Former Mayor Sweet and Alderman Hadges have been in the field for some time and Mr. Lovell has just started to circulate his petition. Some years ago, by common consent, the voters dropped politics from municipal affairs and as a result no selections are made by conventions, necessitating the circulation of petitions for each candidate.

Mr. Lovell is a Democrat and the other two are Republicans, but their party affiliations are unlikely to figure in the campaign. The new candidate is a well-known attorney.

A FRIENDLY GROCER

Dropped a Valuable Hint About Coffee.

"For about eight years," writes a Michigan woman, "I suffered from nervousness—part of the time down in bed with nervous prostration.

"Sometimes I would get numb and it would be almost impossible for me to speak for a spell. At other times I would have severe bilious attacks, and my heart would flutter painfully when I would walk fast, or sweep.

"I have taken enough medicine to start a small drug store, without any benefit. One evening our grocer was asking husband how I was and urged that I quit coffee and use Postum, so he brought home a package, and I made it according to directions and we were both delighted with it.

"So we quit coffee altogther and used only Postum. I began to get better in a month's time and look like another person, the color came back to my cheeks, I began to sleep well, my appetite was good and I commenced to take on flesh and become interested in everything about the house.

"Finally I was able to do all my own work without the least sign of my old trouble. "I am so thankful for the little book, 'The Road to Wellville.' It has done me so much good. I haven't taken medicine of any kind for six months and don't need any.

"A friend of ours who did not like Postum as she made it, liked mine, and when she learned to boil it long enough, her's was as good as mine. It's easy if you follow directions." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in packages. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

OBITUARY

Henry Ulke, 89 years old, whose portraits of presidents and cabinet officers gained for him the title of "Painter of Presidents," died at a hospital in Washington, Feb. 17, of concussion of the brain, due to a fall at his home here last Saturday.

Ulke was a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln and furnished part of the bedclothing of the martyred president's deathbed. Ulke was boarding at the time of the assassination in the new famous Tenth street house into which President Lincoln was carried after he was shot.

The last portrait Ulke painted was one of Robert Ingersoll, at the request of Mrs. Ingersoll. One of his best portraits was of President Grant, which now hangs in the Long gallery of the White House. Among his famous portraits are those of Secretaries Summer, Chase and Stanton of Lincoln's cabinet; James G. Blaine, John G. Carlisle and John Sherman. Five secretaries of war sat for him and their portraits are now in the war department building. He was a native of Frankelstein, Germany, and came to this country in 1849.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 18.—The wheat market closed lower than yesterday on heavy profit taking and weakness in sympathy with corn. May opened at $1.14, ⅛c off yesterday's close and became stronger on bullish crop reports, advancing to $1.14⅝, lost ⅛c and then sold at $1.14⅜, then at $1.14½ and down to $1.13⅞, up ⅛c and closed at $1.13⅞ bid. The July option opened at $1.14, ⅛c up and gained ½c, lost ⅛c and sold down to $1.13¼, closing at $1.13⅜ bid.

Light trading in flax caused the May option to advance. It closed 1c higher than yesterday. It opened at $2.18½ bid and went to $2.19 bid without trading, selling at $2.20, losing ¼c and advancing to $2.20⅛ and closing $2.20 bid. Receipts are negligible and the increase this week will be only about 2,000 bu. The September option opened at $1.71 asked and lost 1c in the asked price, closing $1.70 bid.

Rye and barley were unchanged and oats closed ¾c off. Cash wheat equaled May.

After the early advance of ½c the market began to decline on heavy profit taking by longs who followed the Bartlett-Patten people yesterday and in sympathy with the decline in corn, which was induced by heavy selling.

The domestic situation dominated all other factors. The market at the outset yielded to the bullish messages from the Southwest, but soon became topheavy and declined. After such a pronounced advance, profit taking came as a matter of expectation. The Southwest was a heavy buyer of wheat, the mills taking the actual stuff and futures too, July being a favorite. On account of the crop scare reports, July was bought by speculators and that option was stronger, relatively, than May as it was ⅛c above yesterday's closing prices, while May opened ⅛c under the closing bid price. The low temperatures and the decreasing receipts gave the bulls confidence and the buying at the opening was good.

The country appears to be impressed by the crop scare reports which are rather early. If this were the latter part of March instead of February these crop reports would be of sufficient gravity to cause skyrockets in the wheat market, but traders now are inclined to proceed with caution until the growing plant is older, until it can be determined with more accuracy whether or not the plant has been seriously damaged. The Modern Miller is moderately bullish according to an extract from one of its editorials. Farmers are holding their wheat and receipts in the Nortwest are small.

Nebraska wired that about one-half of the acreage in wheat was late sown and that the late sown wheat has been seriously damaged by alternate thawing and freezing which caused the ground to heave, leaving the roots of the plant exposed. Many reports from Kansas were sent out by way of Kansas City. Most of them were bullish. One man who has been most prolific with crop scare messages, wired that a Kansas town was calling frantically for durum for seeding purposes. All the durum Kansas has ever grown would barely pay the cost of the telegram. So long as these reports continue to come in the market will be subject to great nervousness.

The milling demand was fairly good today for wheat to arrive which in Minneapolis, sold for 2c over the near option for February delivery and 2½c over for March delivery. The cash business was dull although premiums held firm on account of the small receipts. Cash in Minneapolis was 1½@2c over May. Receipts are falling off and stocks are not increasing enough, some traders point out, to meet the heavy commercial demand.

The foreign situation was bearish although it did not have much effect here. Receipts were liberal and the consumptive demand poor. Broomhall placed Argentine shipments this week at 5,168,000 bu compared with 3,136,000 bu last week and 6,916,000 bu a year ago.

Modern Miller said: "Reports increasing regarding damage in winter wheat. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Trading in Wheat Opens on Firm Basis With Advance.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Trading in wheat here early today was on a firm basis. Prices started a shade lower to ¼c higher, and in the first hour advanced generally ¼@½c, May going up from $1.13¾ to $1.14¼ under the influences of purchases by leading concerns.

Crop damage reports continued to float in and despite the belief that it is far too soon for definite forecasts the stories made the market nervous. The opening figures for May were $1.13¾@1.14, a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher.

The market kept its strength through the first half of the session, but later went down sharply under heavy selling pressure. May fell off from $1.14½ to $1.12⅞, the other futures declining somewhat less. The close was weak, at not far from the low point with May, at $1.13@1.13⅛, ¾c lower than yesterday's final figures.

Prices at the outset in the corn pit were stationary to ¼c lower, but in the first hour a little firmness was developed by an improved demand, figures advancing from ⅛@¼c. Commission houses were the best buyers. May went up to 68c, after opening at 67⅝@67¾c to 67⅞c. Compared with last night the initial quotations were unchanged to ⅛@¼c lower.

About midday in the session prices declined heavily under influential selling. The break was from 1@1¾c. May fell off from 68@66¼c. The close was weak at nearly the low point with May at 66⅜@66½c, ⅝@½c down.

Oats were steady, opening a shade lower to a shade higher and keeping within narrow limits. Trade was light. Commission houses were the only buyers. Opening figures for May were 47⅞@48c.

In the provisions pit pork showed initial strength, starting unchanged to 7½c higher. Other products fell off 2½@10c. In the first hour the market advanced under the impetus given by live hog prices, which soared to the highest point in forty years. $9.45. May pork went up from $23.70 to $23.95. Lard and ribs gained 10@17½c, steadying at the advance.

Opening figures for May products were: Pork, $23.77½@23.70; lard, $12.80@12.77½; ribs, $12.47½@12.45.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Tone Is Easier on the Taking of Profits.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 18.—Wheat had an easier tone again today. May advanced ⅛c below yesterday's close and early advanced 1⅛c. From this, the high point, profit taking and an over-bought condition caused a steady decline. The near option sold down ⅜c below the early high and closed ⅝c below the opening. Crop damage reports from the Southwest were numerous. Local elevator stocks increased 485,000 bu for the week, making the total received 251 cars of wheat, as compared with 264 cars a year ago; Duluth, 21 cars against 29 cars a year ago; Winnipeg, 74 cars against 54 cars a year ago. May opened $1.13⅜; high, $1.14⅜@1.14½; low, $1.12¾@1.12⅞; closed $1.13. July opened $1.13, high, $1.14; low, $1.12⅜; closed, $1.12⅝.

EBERHART WILL TELL POSITION

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor A. O. Eberhart will address the county optionists on March 2 and declares that he will attempt to make his position in the present controversy clear to the anti-saloon forces. Just what his statement will be he is not ready to say.

The governor declines to consider or answer criticisms made about him by Secretary Youngdal! of the Anti-Saloon league forces. It is understood that Youngdahl's utterances have caused trouble within the ranks of his own party and that his attitude is not receiving the support of all the leaders.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Opening Lower and After Slight Advance Decline Is Resumed.

Aggressive Rise of Reading Followed By Profit-Taking Sales.

New York, Feb. 18.—Fractional declines were shown as a rule by opening prices for stocks today. The losses exceeded a half point in Union Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Southern Railway preferred, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper, Colorado Fuel, Republic Steel and Pacific Mail. A few of the industrial stocks showed gains, American Steel Foundries and American Malting preferred rising a point.

Prices began to harden after the opening, but only a few stocks made full recoveries before the decline was resumed. Union Pacific, Reading and American Smelting rallied sharply. On the reaction the metal stocks were the most easily depressed, Amalgamated Copper falling 1¼ and United States Steel and American Smelting selling a fraction lower than at the start. The market was dull and steady at 11 o'clock.

Reading's aggressive rise to 171 gave tone to the general list. Hocking Valley certificates moved up 13 points on light trading; Central Leather, 2½; Delaware & Hudson, 2; Western Maryland certificates, 1¾; Lake Erie & Western preferred, 1½, and Pacific Mail, 1. American Tobacco 4's rose 5. Bonds were steady.

The market closed irregular. The trunk line railroads came into prominence after a reaction. Baltimore & Ohio and International Pump preferred, rose 2, United States Rubber 3, Colorado & Southern first preferred and New York Central 1¾ and Rock Island preferred 1. Pennsylvania rose to 134. Profit-taking sales were renewed in the late dealings when Reading yielded to below 171.

Trading Suspended.

Trading in the stock of the Walnut Grove company which owns property in the Joplin district has been suspended on the Duluth Stock Exchange. The calling for bids and offers has been withdrawn for the time being. Trading can be resumed later if the exchange so desires.

The Walnut Grove company obtained control of its claims after the property had been drilled by a reputable company. The drilling operations showed up good ore, it is said, but when the shaft was put down the values failed to materialize. Drilling will be continued in the hope of lacating and proving up ore bodies believed to exist.

PRIVATE WIRES TO ALL MARKETS.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18TH.

We have had a rather dull market, but all of the issues have shown a very good underlying strength and all of the activity seems to be on the up side. The Butte issues were quiet yesterday on account of the strike news, but today are being sought for. North Butte at the opening was $32.50, but advanced to as high at $36.00 on heavy trading. The diminishing supply of copper is considered a bull factor and should all the mines in Butte be closed, as is now expected, a still greater shortage of copper will ensue and the metal should advance. Calumet & Sonora was well taken at $23.00 and looks considerably higher. The meeting of the stockholders of the Duluth-Moctezuma company held yesterday, was a very enthusiastic affair. This company is attracting more attention daily, and the price for the shares are cheap considering the good reports from shipments and from the developments at the mine. We predict $15.00 for Duluth-Moctezuma in the next few months. Our Boston correspondent wire us that the five working faces in Live Oak, on the 300-foot level, continue to develop ore of good commercial grade. Warrior Development has been well taken at $12.00 per share and looks higher. Cactus and Red Warrior are also cheap at the present prices. We advise the purchase of stocks at the present levels.

NO FUNDS TO ENFORCE LAW

Washington, Feb. 18.—It is well understood among the majority leaders of the house that no immediate effort will be made to meet the request of the treasury department for an appropriation of $50,000 with which to carry into effect the publicity provision of the corporation tax law. The appropriation would necessarily have to come from the ways and means committee authorizing the appropriations committee to bring in a bill. This would be necessary even if the item were to be tacked onto any one of the deficiency appropriation bills.

It is said that Champ Clark, the minority leader, went to Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee and served notice that if there was any attempt to patch up this provision of the law through the ways and means committee, that he would move to reopen the whole tariff fight.

Conferences between Republican leaders have been frequent on the subject and it was declared last night that the house would make no move to give the treasury department the appropriation requested.

Republicans in Trouble.

"The Republicans are in a peck of trouble over the thing," said Minority Leader Clark. "They have got to dig up this money or the law will become inoperative. I think they will find a way to get the money from congress."

Representative Lenroot of Wisconsin, whose opinion represented the "insurgent" Republicans' point of view, declared that whether the reports were compiled and tabulated by clerks or not, the law made the reports public documents, and without a repeal of that section the records would be open to the public.

Two more attacks on the constitutionality of the tax have appeared in appeals to the United States supreme court. Each of the new cases brings in points not involved in any of the baker's dozen of appeals already before the court.

Two Two More Attacks.

Counsel for Amery Eliot of Manchester, Mass., has filed an appeal from judgment of the United States circuit court in the district of Massachusetts, which sustains the act in Eliot's suit against the trustees of the Cushing real estate trust.

In the suit of Arthur Lyman and Arthur T. Layman, also of Massachusetts, against the Interborough Rapid Transit Company of New York city, involving the same constitutional question, counsel has filed a motion to advance the case for hearing on March 14, when the other corporation tax cases are to be heard.

Eliot contended that the law was unconstitutional because the trust in question had no capital stock.

In the other case two questions are included: One is, whether the tax is not upon a corporation that is in effect an agency of a state government for the purpose of carrying on what is a municipal and therefore a state enterprise. The other is whether there is an unconstitutional inequality and discrimination against the company as compared with other corporations whose capital stock exceeds their funded debt.

NEW TRAFFIC BILL ALTERED

Amended Interstate Commerce Law Is Introduced in the House.

Important Changes Made Including Concession to Electric Railways.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The administration railroad bill amending the interstate commerce act, originally introduced in the house by Representative Townsend of Michigan, has been reintroduced by him with a number of important amendments drawn by Attorney General Wickersham, which changes the bill in the matter of the creation of the court of commerce, in the regulation of stocks and bonds, and in the inclusion of electric railroads in the scope of the measure. In many particulars the language of the bill is modified and new sections are added.

The amendment relating to the commerce court limits its power to that of a federal circuit court to meet the objection made to the original provision that the court would have more extensive jurisdiction than the existing circuit courts of the United States.

Issuing Stocks and Bonds.

The stock and bond provision is amended so as to permit of the reorganization of railroads and for the merger of railroads not directly prohibited. The act established the general principle that no stock shall be issued by railroads except at par, and no bonds, except at their reasonable market or selling value, as ascertained by the interstate commerce commission, and where either stock or bond is paid for in property, its fair value must be ascertained by the commission.

One section deals specifically with the issue of stocks and bonds on the reorganization of existing companies and authorizes the issue of stock to an amount not exceeding the aggregate of the stock of the company reorganized and bonds to an amount not exceeding the outstanding bonds and other obligations, including new money paid in, provided the aggregate interest charges to be paid by the reorganized company do not exceed the aggregate existing interest charges.

Provides for Mergers.

In the case of the consolidation or merger of two or more railroads, the stocks and bonds of the consolidated or merged company is not to exceed the aggregate amount of stock and bonds of the constituent companies, nor be in excess of the fair estimated value of the properties or the consolidated or merded company as ascertained by the commission.

A railroad company is left free to acquire stock and bonds of another noncompetitive railroad, provided the aggregate amount of stock and bonds issued for such acquisition shall not exceed the fair value of the property, as ascertained by the commission, or the aggregate par value of the stock and bonds acquired without increase in the aggregate interest payable on such bonds.

These provisions, it is believed, will prevent the bill from interfering with any legitimate financing, while effectually preventing the issue of stock and bonds without proper legal safeguards.

The bill further provides that any officer of a railroad corporation who violates the law may be punished by a fine of $3,000 or three years' imprisonment, or both.

Sale at Public Auction.

The amended bill further provides that where notes or other obligations made in conformity with the act are secured in the pledge of bonds, a sale of the pledged bonds to enforce the loan must be had at public auction; and notes may be made convertible into pledged bonds on the basis of the reasonable market or selling value of the bonds as approved by the commission. The amendments are so framed that the new act shall not operate to impair any contract, mortgage, or other instrument made prior to the passage of the act.

The electric railroads in the amended bill are granted the concession they desired, as ascertained at the recent hearings, wherein it was complained that the bill was a discrimination in favor of the steam lines to the financial detriment of the electric roads.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Passes the Senate.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The senate passed the diplomatic and consular bill carrying an appropriation of over $4,000,000 and appointed a select committee authorized to make an investigation of the high prices of commodities.

Vice President Sherman appointed as the committee, Senators Lodge, chairman; Gallinger, McCumber, Smoot, Crawford, Simmons and Clarke of Arkansas.

In naming the committee Mr. Sherman announced that in accordance with custom he had offered the chairmanship to Senator Elkins, author of the resolution under which the inquiry is to be conducted.

Mr. Elkins, however, being engaged with the administration commerce bill, will be unable to serve in the capacity. Contrary to expectations, it now appears unlikely that hearings will be held by the committee. Chairman Lodge is of the opinion that more can be accomplished by calling to the assistance of the committee experts in the various executive departments.

It was stated by Mr. Lodge today that the investigation would be thorough. He said that if the tariff is responsible for the increased cost of necessaries of life, the committee will not hesitate to bring out all the facts.

Cannon the "Colossus."

Making an appeal for general restrictions in the immigration laws and denouncing "Cannonism," Representative Dies of Texas delivered a stirring speech in the house yesterday just before adjournment.

Speaker Cannon, he said, "like a colossus, sits astride the house of representatives. Has the time come when only Cannon Republicans can form the majority of committees and only Cannon Democrats be placed upon the minorities of these committees?"

Most of the constituents, declared Mr. Dies, would "rather see their representatives in congress grab for them than care for them."

For himself he preferred to lend aid in preserving the liberties of the people than to bow down to the flesh pots of Egypt.

Talk on Irrigation.

For more than two hours the senate listened to a discussion of the senate bill authorizing the issuance of $30,000,000 worth of certificates of indebtedness for the completion of irrigation projects already begun.

Mr. Carter said that in a number of cases reservoirs had been completed while the ditches had not been constructed, thus providing for the storage but not for the distribution of water. The effect was to withhold the water from settlers. It was stated that the money would all be repaid by the settlers and that in reality the treasury would not in any way be affected. The fear was voiced by Senators Flint and Crawford that the department might be tempted to enter upon new schemes before the completion of present enterprises.

Senator Heyburn charged the shortage of the reclamation fund to be due to the withdrawal of the public lands from sale. He urged that the relief should not be crimped.

Postal Bank Bill Safe.

Assurances of the passage through the senate of the postal savings bank bill practically were given here last night to President Taft at a conference in the White House. The house was represented at the conference by Representative Weeks of Massachusetts, chairman of the committee on postoffices. The others who took part were Senators Penrose, chairman of committee on postoffices and postroads; Senators Aldrich, Root, Crane and Carter, the last named being in charge of the measure. All of them were chary about discussing the outcome of the conference, but each appeared optimistic. It is understood, however, that the amendments offered and proposed by Senators Root and Smoot will be withdrawn.

CLEVELAND HAS 3 CENT FARES

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 18.—Turning out to vote in a howling blizzard, the people of Cleveland yesterday ended the fight for low street car fares, begun fifteen years ago, and latterly made famous by Tom L. Johnson in his four terms as mayor.

The new franchise, proposed by Judge Robert W. Taylor of the federal court, was approved in a referendum election by a majority of 8,100, the largest majority ever given to a public measure in Cleveland. The grant is said to be a hitherto untried experiment in municipal control of the profits of public untility corporations.

The basis of the franchise is that street car service under control of the city must be furnished by the Cleveland Railway company at cost plus 6 per cent return to the stockholders on their investment. For the first eight months, the fare will be 3 cents, with a penny charge for a transfer, this fixed rate being made a test. The maximum rate of fare allowable during the term of the grant is 4 cents cash or seven tickets for 25 cents.

A street railway commissioner, to be paid $4,000 a year out of the company's earnings for his salary and expenses, acts as the adviser of the city in the regulation of service and fares, and is given perpetual access to the company's books. Gerhard M. Ahl, former lieutenant of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, has been named for this place.

The 3-cent rate of fare went into operation today.

SWITCHMAN KILLED.

South Shore Employe at St. Ignace Dies of Injuries.

St. Ignace, Mich., Feb. 18.—William Rock, a switchman employed in the South Shore yards here, is dead as the result of injuries sustained Wednesday when both feet were cut off while at work. He was well known to many of the employes of the road, having held the position here for about fifteen years. He was about 40 years of age.

LINDBERGH OPPOSED BY M'GARRY AND MAY JOIN THE DEMOCRATS

Unable to Get Any Patronage From the Taft Administration.

George Hanscom's Boom for State Treasurer Put Up to Governor.

Judge Buck May Be the Democratic Candidate Against Tawney.

St. Paul. Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is whispered that Democratic leaders in the Sixth district are saying to Congressman Lindbergh, "Come on in, the water's fine." The coy congressman is still standing on the bank looking into the pellucid waters of Democracy before taking the plunge. He evidently is not so sure that there is not a wide margin of difference between the air of the bank and the water in the stream. Possibly Lindbergh just now regards the invitation as not altogether in the light of a joke. Whatever the attitude of the president toward the insurgent Republican congressmen he apparently has no scruples with respect to the Sixth district congressman. Twice lately has the congressman got it. In the case of the Brainerd postoffice Lindbergh has seen the light of two years end in his complete discomfiture. Postmaster N. H. Ingersoll has just been reappointed and confirmed against the vigorous protest of his congressman. Adding this rebuff to that given him by Governor Eberhart in appointing his worst political enemy as executive agent of the state game

SAYS KNOX'S PLAN WILL SAVE RUSSIA

Harbin Paper Foresees Possible Second War With the Japanese.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 19.—The Novaya Zhizn, a Russian paper of Harbin, strongly supports the Knox proposal regarding Manchuria, saying that the plan offers salvation to Russia, threatened with pan-Mongolian peril. Japan is enlarging her army and navy and building roads in Korea, intending to become master of the situation, says the Novaya Zhizn, and the Knox proposal, if carried out, would save Russia's Eastern frontier. For Russia to oppose the proposal would mean Japanese bayonets again being brought against Russia.

The Yomuira Shimbun of Tokio makes an attack on American consuls in Manchuria, charging them with making prejudiced reports and thus endangering the friendship between Japan and America.

DUTCH STEAMER OVERDUE.

Prins Willem II Not Heard From Since Jan. 23.

London, Feb. 19.—The Dutch merchant steamer Prins Willem II, which left Amsterdam Jan. 21 for West Indian ports and New York with fourteen passengers and a crew of thirty-eight and which should have reached Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, on Feb. 8, is now eleven day overdue. Nothing has been heard of the vessel since Jan. 23, when she passed Ouessant on the Brittany coast of France. Her sister ship, the Prins Willem IV, has joined the Dutch cruiser Utrecht in a search for the missing vessel.

IS THROUGH WITH GLAVIS

Ballinger's Attorney Has Ended Examination of Client's Accuser.

Henry Hoyt Is Called as Next Witness in Land Office Inquiry.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Attorney Vertrees sprung a surprise this morning at the Ballinger-Pinchot hearing by announcing that he did not care to cross-examine Louis R. Glavis any further. Henry Hoyt, attorney general of Porto Rico, was called as the second witness for the "prosecution."

With today's sessions, Glavis, the principal witness against Secretary Ballinger, would have been under cross-examination for one week. Despite all the questions hurled, Mr. Glavis has repeatedly reiterated his charges against Secretary Ballinger, and insists:

"The facts still convince me that he is not fit to hold his office."

The witness declares also that "Mr. Dennett, commissioner of the land office, is not loyal to his trust."

SHERMAN TO SEE DULUTH

Vice President Will Be One of Party on 3,200 Mile Trolley Trip.

Tourists Will Start West From Utica, N. Y., Next June.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Feb. 19.—A special to a local paper from Utica, N. Y., says:

The citizens of Oneida and Herkimer counties, who formed the committee which represented this congressional district at the inauguration of President Taft and Vice President Sherman in the inaugural parade, this afternoon laid plans for a reunion and long distance trolley trip from Utica via Milwaukee to Duluth next June. It is expected that Vice President Sherman will accompany the party.

The project was conceived by C. Loomis Allen, vice president of the Utica & Mohawk Valley and the Oneida Railroad companies. Two of the large cars of the Oneida railway will be fitted as Pullman cars, and an itinerary will be so arranged that stops can be made at night at the principal cities.

The trip will be from Utica to Buffalo, to Cleveland, to Columbus, to Fort Wayne, to Indianapolis, to Chicago, to Milwaukee, to St. Paul and to Duluth. It is expected that the trip will occupy fourteen days. The distance is about 3,200 miles.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 19.—Dr. Walter S. Haines of Chicago went today before the grand jury here to tell his story of the examination of the viscera of Col. Thomas H. and Chrisman Swope and the contents of the stomach of Miss Margaret Swope. Prosecutor Conkling stated that every step in the scientist's hunt for poison would be gone into.

Officers on the Cruiser Washington Find Another Case of Smallpox.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 19.—Following the breaking out of another case of smallpox today on the armored cruiser Washington, which is being detained at the Diamond Point quarantine station, officers decided to isolate all men who had been exposed to the disease and remove 150 members of the crew to the old quarantine ship Iroquois. Most cases that have broken out have been among the coal passers. The latest instance is the seventh since the Washington sailed from Honolulu.

GET NEGRO SAFELY OFF

Cairo Authorities Fear New Outbreak of Race Riots, However.

Fourth Company of Militia Sent---Troops to Go to Halliday Funeral.

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 19.—Surrounded by a hundred infantrymen, twelve convicted prisoners who were sentenced yesterday by Judge William Butler to varying terms were hurried out of town at 5 a. m. today to Chester penitentiary. Among the prisoners was John Pratt, the negro purse snatcher whose arrest resulted in an attempt to lynch him and ended in the death of the leader of the mob and the injury of four others.

The plans of the military and civil officials to get the negro out of town without a demonstration were entirely successful. Few people knew of the move, and the crowd that saw the departure was small. A squad of soldiers accompanied the prisoners to Chester.

Four Militia Companies.

Last night the streets about the jail were closely patrolled by the militia. Vigilance of the authorities to prevent the formation of a crowd was unrelaxed. The officials, military and civil, are apprehensive of what today and

MADRIZ FORCES MAY BE VICTORS

Fighting at St. Vincente Has Ceased---Invalidation Law Is Signed.

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 19.—The telegraph operator with the government army notified Gen. Toledo today that the fighting at St. Vincente closed at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the insurgents retired in the direction of Santo Tomas. This is accepted here as meaning a government victory, but no word has been received from Gen. Vasquez.

United States Consul Olivares, who has returned from Matagalpa, estimates the casualties during the recent fighting there at fourteen killed and seventy wounded. The non-combatants were not harmed although nearly every house was struck by Maxim shots. The owners are preparing claims of several hundred dollars each. The loss to Americans is chiefly in cattle and horses killed or requisitioned.

Message to Kimball.

The government's peace commissioners, Gen. Aurelio Estrada, Rudolfo Espinoso and Frederico Sacasa, sent a message today to Rear Admiral Kimball, commander of the American naval forces in Nicaraguan waters. The text is not made known here, but is supposed to embody a request for transportation for the commissioners from Greytown to Bluefields on a United States warship.

President Madriz has signed the law invalidating the debts contracted by the revolutionary party.

JUST AND IMPARTIAL REAPPORTIONMENT IS CONVENTION'S DEMAND

Northern Minnesota Will Act as Unit on This Subject.

State Road Tax and Reforms in Settlement Laws Urged.

Crookston Selected as Next Meeting Place of the Association.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The greatest convention ever held in Northern Minnesota came to a close last evening with the adoption of resolutions vigorously setting forth the demands of this section of the state for legislative action that will advance the development of its natural resources and advantages. The spirit of unity that marked the proceedings of the convention augurs well for concerted action hereafter by all the people of Northern Minnesota, regardless of political affiliations. Party lines are to be cast aside in order to secure justice for this section.

Following are the resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Reapportionment.

Delegates from thirty counties of Northern Minnesota, in convention assembled at the city of Bemidji, Feb. 17 and 18, 1910, composing the Northern Minnesota Development association, realizing that in Northern Minnesota lie the greatest opportunities for future development of natural resources and advantages such as no other land possesses and to the end that this development may be speedily

MONEY KING IN STRIKING POSE

—Copyright 1910 by Montauk Photograph Concern.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN.

Mr. Morgan is one of those people who have an intense dislike for being "snapshotted," but when he was going aboard ship to sail for Europe last Wednesday, he more than met his match in a photographer, who had been sent to get his picture. The camera man had his machine all ready when Mr. Morgan discovered him and struck at him with a walking stick. The photographer instantly pressed the button and the money king was caught. Mr. Morgan has given orders that no one shall be allowed to picture him on the ships of the lines in which he has a large investment interest, and orders to that effect are in force on the piers of other lines as well. This incident occurred outside the pier when Mr. Morgan had no protection.

Mr. Morgan's annual trip to Europe is made in the interest of his health, his business, which has wide ramifications on the other side of the water, and his interest in the collection of art treasures. When he was on his last trip to Europe he was besieged in his hotel at Rome, by impecunious Italian noblemen, who wanted to sell him heirlooms and he finally was obliged to deny himself to all callers and to have his mail left unopened, because he hadn't time to read it.

San Francisco, Feb. 19.—The long list of decapitations of city officials which has marked the brief regime of P. H. The removals were made at an executive session of the health board. Some of the most important offices of the department are involved.

Senator May Lose Power of Speech If He Survives This Illness.

Senator Smith Is Doing Fairly Well After His Operation.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The condition of Senator Benjamin R. Tillman of South Carolina, who lies ill with paralysis, continues extremely grave. He passed a fairly quiet night, and the only unfavorable symptom which developed was a loss of consciousness shortly before midnight. No change in his condition in this respect occurred with the break of day. He was unable to recognize any one this morning, and this increased the sorrowful burden of the relatives around his bedside.

Dr. Pickford said today that the senator had a chance of recovery, but that was about all. It is not believed that there is any immediate danger of a fatal turn. But even should he

MAY HEAR SMITH ON EXCHANGES

Congressional Committee Asks Him to Appear in Person or By Agent.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The congressional inquiry into the question of abolishing speculation in options 's spreading. Today the house committee on agriculture, which is conducting the investigation, continued hearing arguments by representatives of leading grain exchanges in opposition to the pending measures, particularly the Scott bill, which is designed to eliminate all transactions where there is no intent to deliver.

There are two differing elements in the New York cotton exchange, one of which already has been represented by Vice President Marsh, George W. Neville and others, who are unalterably opposed to the proposed legislation. The other element, which will be heard by the committee next week, is understood to favor changes in the present methods of the exchange and to have views radically divergent from those already presented.

Would Hear Smith's Side.

Commissioner of Corporations Herbert Knox Smith, whose report on the cotton exchange at New York has been bitterly assailed by representatives of the body, will be invited to appear personally or by representative to meet the attacks.

E. A. Reinolds of Crawfordsville, Ind., chairman of the legislative committee of the National Grain Dealers' association, was among those selected to speak for the grain exchange interests today.

Filthy Condition Is Described in Report to the Health Commissioner.

Disclosures Are Declared to Be Merely First Step in the Campaign.

Mork Brothers' Arrest Is Likely to Be Followed By Others.

Conditions even worse than those found in the city's dairies, when the campaign for pure milk was begun, are said to exist in some of Duluth's retail meat stores, and the city's health department is planning a campaign of inspection and investigation which will result in a wholesale cleaning up process, and possibly several arrests.

The first step in the campaign was the arrest yesterday of Emil and Edward Mork for allowing insanitary conditions to exist in their shop, and for having veal from calves under the age of five weeks in their store.

For many weeks the health commissioner has been dissatisfied with the city meat inspection system, and finally completed arrangements with the bureau of animal industry at

GIRLHOOD CHUMS TURN OUT SISTERS

Search Made in After Life Discloses Relationship of Friends.

Bay City, Mich., Feb. 19.—After living here during their girlhood as schoolmates and playmates, Mrs. John Schettler of this city and Mrs. Charles Bell, now of Cleveland, have discovered they are sisters.

Twenty-four years ago the sisters—Mary, now Mrs. Bell, and Elsie, now Mrs. Schettler—were, with two other sisters and a brother, placed in the Saginaw Orphans' home, following the death of their parents. Elsie was adopted by Silas Knight and wife of Oakley, Mich., and shortly afterward May became the foster child of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Smith of this city. A few years later the Knights moved to Bay City and became neighbors of the Smiths. The two girls became friends, but neither family divulged the facts concerning the parentage of the foster daughters.

Recently Mrs. Schettler began search for her brother and sisters, and in examining the orphanage records, discovered that the "little Smith girl" was her sister Mary.

CLING TO THE HOPE THAT NINA IS SAFE.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Hope of again seeing their loved one, who in the service of the country left Norfolk, Feb. 6 in the little tug Nina, still linger in the hearts of the parents and kin, even though the officials of the United States navy regard the vessel as lost.

"I have not given up hope of seeing my boy again, as I believe the Nina has been driven far out in the ocean," said Mrs. N. L. Fowler, mother of Clarence E. Fowler, chief boatswain's mate of the Nina, at their home here today. "His wife is still at Norfolk awaiting his return, but my other son expects to go there shortly and bring her back to Washington."

Boatswain Creighan's father, who lives here, says he never will give up hope of seeing his son again.

Mr. Barnhardt pointed out various charges against the postal service which he declared were not warranted and which, he added, helped to create a deficiency in the postal revenues.

GREAT STEP FORWARD FOR NORTHERN MINNESOTA

Delegates to Bemidji Gathering Are Fired With Enthusiasm.

Say Success of Convention Insures Far-Reaching Results.

Fired with enthusiasm, convinced that Northern Minnesota has taken action that will have more far-reaching effects than anything ever done in this section of the state for the development of Northern Minnesota, enthusiastic in their praises of the men responsible for the calling of the convention and of the men who attended and gave their support to the movement, the Northeastern Minnesota delegation returned this morning from the meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association at Bemidji.

If the feeling shown by the delegates from this section of the state is any criterion, the meeting was a decided success. Every man who attended says that the results surpassed his fondest expectations. Every one of the thirty counties in Northern Minnesota was represented by represetatives business men. The delegates got together and worked in perfect harmony to map out a plan of campaign to secure for Northern Minnesota consideration it has never received because it has failed to present a solid front. Petty differences, sectional feelings, community rivalries were forgotten and all joined forces to secure the betterment of the northern part of the state as a whole.

Reapportionment was the main theme of the convention, but when the delegates got together and began their discussions they found that reapportionment should not stand alone in commanding their attention. They found that drainage, good roads, the settlement of the vast expanses of the northern part of the state will require consistent co-operative effort. Once reapportionment comes, they believe, the other matters will come, for without proper representation, Northern Minnesota is handicapped in its efforts to secure legislation and consideration necessary for its development.

Politics was kept out of the meetings, entirely, the Duluth delegates say. The gathering was made up of business men and boosters for Northern Minnesota, not politicians. The object of the meeting was to secure an organization that would work for the development of the resources of this section of the state, the development to be brought about, first by reapportionment, and then by concerted action in the legislature. The meeting was not of a political character and the delegates would not countenance any effort to make it such.

The members of the Northeastern Minnesota delegation are loud in their praises of the Bemidji citizens, who showed the greatest of hospitality. W. R. Mackenzie, who was responsible for the calling and for much of the success of the convention, comes in for unstinted words of praise. The "get-together" spirit is strong in the men from this section and they say it is just as strong in the delegates from every other section of Northern Minnesota. They believe that the meeting was the greatest thing ever pulled off in Northern Minnesota for Northern Minnesota, and they say its effect will be felt soon and for many years to come.

Mr. Arnold's Opinion.

"I consider it the most important meeting that has ever been held in Northern Minnesota and also the most remarkable meeting," said L. B. Arnold. "It is the first step towards cementing together the entire northern part of the state for the interests of the entire northern half of Minnesota. The meeting was remarkable for the character and standing of the delegates in their various communities, and they made up a body of men of which any state in the Union might be proud. It was remarkable for the absolute harmony which prevailed throughout the entire meeting. All personal interests and sectional differences were buried and no mention or indication in any way of politics was seen.

"The Duluth delegation went to boost Northern Minnesota from the northwest to the northeast corner and friendly relations throughout the northern part of the state were established, which will be lasting.

"The citizens of Bemidji did everything possible for the comfort and entertainment of their guests and to the great credit of its citizens no mention of local interests was made in the convention. Mayor Haven of Duluth had the honor of proposing Crookston as the next place of meeting, and the Red River valley delegation showed the heartiest appreciation. I believe this meeting marks the beginning of a new era in the development in every way of the interests of the northern half of the state."

Mr. Craig's Verdict.

"I regard the meeting as the most successful convention of the kind and weighted with more potentialities than any I have attended in Northern Minnesota," said C. P. Craig. "I believe its effect will be more far reaching and I don't think Ia am alone so impressed, because I never attended a meeting where there was so much deference and consideration shown by every delegation present for every other delegates rights. I never have attended a convention where all the delegates attended all the meetings and stayed to the end as they did at the convention just closed.

"The class of men there, was the very best that could be found in the various counties. They were all representative men. This fact was very noticeable that there were so many things we found when we got there that we had not realized might call for consideration. If differences existed between the counties, they were submerged in the great effort for the good of the whole. We took up the matters we all agreed should command our united support and we left differences alone.

"The meeting is not only going to be far-reaching in a political way—in the matter of reapportionment, I mean, but it is felt in many other ways. I believe one of the results of the meeting will be the formulation of a definite plan of agricultural education. That it is a matter we have never gotten together on. There have been various plans submitted at every session of the legislature and when the committee received so many propositions all at variance, the whole matter was dropped. Now I believe a definite plan will be decided on and Northern Minnesota will get behind it solidly and push.

"Not only that, but I believe the meeting will be of benefit to Duluth commercially. We went there asking for nothing and we got nothing; but the people there were gratified with the size and spirit of the delegation from this section and I believe they realize that Duluth is of Northern Minnesota and for Northern Minnesota."

The Right Spirit.

"The members of our delegation were unanimous in saying that never had they attended any convention called for any purpose where each delegate seemed to feel it incumbent on himself to be present all through every session," said John Dwan of Two Harbors, who was one of the seven delegates from Lake county. "Not only did we feel it our duty, but it was in accord with our own pleasure to attend.

"Of the work done, the most important, aside from the spirit that prompted the convention, was the crystalizing, in the report of the committee on resolutions, of the sentiments of the body so as to form a platform on which thirty counties of Northern Minnesota can stand for concerted action, on all matters of mutual interest, for years to come.

"A movement was begun which will surely result in a reapportionment of the state to the great advantage of the northern section. A great impetus was also given to state drainage and road projects, which, if carried out along the lines indicated by the resolutions adopted, will open millions of acres of wilderness and swamp land to actual settlement, to the end that Northern Minnesota will be an attractive spot for settlement, not only for farmers from foreign lands, but by people from the southern part of the state and adjoining states, where prices of poorer lands are beyond the reach of people of moderate means. It will also tend to check the emigration of so many splendil citizens to Western Canada, and will also result in the co-operation of the people of the cities with those of the country. Both are brought to a realization that their interests are mutual and interwoven so closely that they cannot be separated."

The other delegates from Lake county in addition to Mr. Dwan were: Dr. J. D. Budd, George Munford, Dr. K. M. Knauff, John A. Barton and W. J. Marquis.

Means Reapportionment.

Mayor Roland D. Haven said: "In my opinion it is the most important meeting that has ever been held in the northern half of Minnesota, both in the community of interest that will result, and also from the fact that through a united effort this section of the state will be able to obtain reapportionment and many other rights that have in the past been denied.

"I am almost positive that reapportionment will eventually be the result of the convention and organization. I also believe that the other half of the state even now realizes this fact. The handwriting on the wall can be seen.

"I have never attended a convention where there was so much enthusiasm displayed as was shown in the Bemidji meeting. This enthusiasm is something that is going to count for much, and is something that we are just beginning to develop here in this section of the state.

"The Duluth delegation made a ten-strike at the convention, both in the character of the men sent from here, the number, and the fair attitude taken by the Duluth delegation. Great good to St. Louis county will grow out of the convention. Too much praise cannot be given the men behind the movement and those who are now pushing the good work along."

Mr. Patrick's Opinion.

F. A. Patrick said: "I was very favorably impressed with the results obtained at the convention. The enthusiasm, spirit and general get-togetherness of the whole convention impressed one with a belief that at last the northern section of the state is getting together. There are many things that this part of the state wants from the legislature, and by getting ogether and working together, this part of Minnesota can get what it wants in the end.

"It was a splendid gathering and a move in the right direction. The spirit was gratifying and inspiring, and one who attended the convention can only be imbued with the profound belief that Northern Minnesota has found herself and is going to stand together for her rights."

Deeply Impressed.

T. R. Johnstone of Crookston, said:

"It is by far the greatest movement that has ever been promulgated in the northern part of the state. It will result in more good and more lasting benefit than anything that has ever been organized in this section of Minnesota. Its great importance can hardly be realized at this time; but the influence of the movement, if it is maintained, from year to year, will result in the development, in the prosperity, and the growth of this section of the state.

"I have never been so deeply impressed by any convention or gathering as I was by the gathering at Bemidji. Not only will this movement impress the southern part of the state with the resourcefulness and wide-awakeness of the northern part of Minnesota, but it will also open the eyes of other states to the fact that vast resources have been in this part of Minnesota for years past, simply awaiting the time when the people awoke to their development.

"It's a cinch that we will get reapportionment. That we must have. The convention was not started with the idea of the big stick; we are in a position to ask for things that are ours by right, and if they don't believe we have the right to ask for them, all they have to do is to come to this part of the state. We are going to open the eyes of the other half of the state and the country to the wonderful natural resources up here.

"Our motto will be reapportionment, a square deal and fair treatment to all. We have started on the right move and we must progress.

"Too much cannot be said of the Duluth delegation, both as to number and to the men that made up the delegation. The convention was greatly pleased with the delegation that went from this city, which made a hit by its fair attitude and bearing."

POLES OBJECT TO NEW BILL

Ask Representatives to Vote Against Amendment to Immigration Laws.

Say Russian Officials Would Not Give Certificate of Good Character.

The members of the Polish St. Stanislaus society, lodge No. 81, of the Polish National Alliance of the United States of America drew up a protest at a recent meeting against the passage of a bill which has been introduced in congress, to further regulate the immigration of aliens into America. Copies following resolutions have been sent to Representative Clarence B. Miller and Senator Knute Nelson by the local society:

"Whereas, A bill has been introduced in the house of representatives by Mr. Hayes 'to farther regulate the immigration of the aliens into the United States';

"Whereas, The said bill contains the following provisions:

"1. The levy of $10 for every alien entering this country;

"2. The requirement of the possession of at least $25 by each immigrant;

"3. The requirement of the production of a certificate of good character signed by and under the seal of proper authority;

"4. The repeal of section 40, of the immigration act of 1907, establishing the division of immigration under the authority of the secretary of commerce and labor;

"Whereas, The said provisions of the said bill are highly objectionable as having a tendency to impose heavy and useless burdens upon the honest and deserving immigrants, who could become useful tillers of the American soil;

AGNES ELKINS DEAD.

Niece of United States Senator Succumbs to Her Wound.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 199.—Miss Agnes Leslie Elkins, niece of United States Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia, died at a hotel here at 6:50 o'clock last night as a result of a bullet wound she inflicted upon herself last Wednesday in attempting suicide.

Despondency over the refusal of relatives to consent to her being an actress is given by the young woman's friends as the cause for her suicide. She had studied music and is said to have had a good voice. She obtained a part in a play, but Senator Elkins is said to have influenced her to give it up.

Miss Elkins was an orphan. She was 26 years old. Her parents lived here several years. The girl was said to have been left a considerable sum by her father. Senator Elkins was executor of her father's estate.

There are now twenty-three children living.

BIG CHIEF MUST PAY FOR HIS SPREE

Victim of Sam Bogodi's Scalp Knife Gets Judgment of $6,000.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 19.—Big Chief Sam Bogodi will have to pay $6,000 as the price of his venture on the warpath a year ago in Cincinnati. A verdict for that amount was returned against the chief yesterday in a suit brought by Nathias Meyer, one of several persons whom the red man tried to scalp.

Bogodi reached Cincinnati a year ago on his way home to New Mexico from a trip to Washington. Some friend had supplied him with firewater, and when he arrived here he leaped from the train, and, brandishing a scalping knife, attempted to operate on the travelers in the depot. Meyer and several other persons were slashed by the Indian before he was overpowered.

Bogodi, who is reputed to be wealthy, was sent east as a representative of Indians in South Dakota.

LITTLE BLIND GOD FAILS TO SEE FAR ENOUGH AHEAD

Jealous Lover's Act Blamed for the Arrest of Mrs. Svensk.

John Salmi Is Said to Have Charged Arson to Get Rival in Trouble.

The jealousy of a lover is said to have led to the arrest of Mrs. Justina Svensk, a blind woman, yesterday on a charge of third degree arson for conspiring to set fire to her pool hall at 346 Lake avenue south, shortly before midnight Sunday.

Nestor Haino and John Salmi, both employed by Mrs. Svensk, whose pathetic past is well-known to those who were here five years ago, when her husband shot her in the head with murderous intent and then committed suicide, are claimed to have been aspirants for her hand in marriage.

The two men have been paying marked attention to her, according to the story the woman told her attorney, O. J. Larson, in the woman's department of the city jail this morning. It appears that rivalry has been rather strenuous and that some feeling has been manifested between the two suitors.

Worked for Her.

Salmi, who told the police that the place had been fired, has been employed by Mrs. Svensk on her homestead in Carlton county. She was on her land Sunday night when the place took fire. Haino has been running the pool hall and was about the building when it was on fire. Assistant Chief Wilson of the fire department tried to question him, but he either wouldn't or couldn't give intelligent answers. He was asked how it happened that the blaze started on the side of the building opposite the stove without any apparent cause, but no explanation was forthcoming.

Attorney Larson, after his conversation with the blind woman said that he was satisfied that Mrs. Svensk is the victim of a plot concocted by Salmi, the disgruntled lover. He states that Salmi probably wanted to get Haino out of the way and faked up the story of his setting the building on fire to accomplish this purpose.

Hearing Next Wednesday.

However, if the jealous lover theory is true, he evidently went too far, as he hardly would want the object of his affections arrested on a serious criminal charge. Both were arraigned in police court this morning. They asked for examination, which was set for Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Attorney Larson says that the statement that the woman had $1,600 insurance on the place is a mistake. He says she carried but $300 insurance, and that the insurance company holding the policy has already offered to settle all damages for $276. He says that she could not possibly have had any intention of setting the place on fire to collect so paltry a sum.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Campaign Against Disorderly Resorts Is Still in Progress.

Lodging House Over West Superior Street Saloon Is Raided.

Ed Douglas and May Davis were arrested this morning in a lodging house over a saloon at Sixth avenue west and Superior street this morning by Detectives Schulte and Irvine. The former was charged with selling liquor without a license and the woman was booked on a statutory charge.

The police claim that the place has been conducted in a disorderly manner. Douglas says that he is the proprietor and that the Davis woman is his housekeeper. They entered pleas of not guilty and their trials were set for this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The reports brought to headquarters are that the woman has been using strenuous tactics to get money from the men who have visited the place. It is claimed that the woman actually assaulted the two men who got the evidence on which the warrants were sworn out.

Archie Monroe was given the limit, $100 and costs or three months in the county jail, when he entered a plea of guilty in police court to disorderly conduct. The report on him was bad. Two employes at the St. Louis hotel stated that he had threatened to "get" them and that they feared he might pounce upon them in the dark from some hallway. He has also been in other places on Superior street, causing trouble. Two nights ago he went into a local cafe and ordered meals for four. Taking the check to the cashier, he said that he would come in the next morning to settle the bill. He didn't have the cash and it is probable that he will be taken care of by the sheriff until oxfords and straw hats again commence to come into vogue.

William Taidy and Edward Thereaux, arrested for trespassing at the Nicollet hotel, were discharged after a trial in police court yesterday afternoon. They claimed that they had simply stepped inside to discuss some private matters.

THE MARKET WAS ERRATIC

Speculators Closing Up Deals in Face of Three Holidays.

Light Trading on Local Exchange, Chiefly By Professionals.

In the face of two holidays and in some markets three, there was considerable long profit taking and closing of contracts today which gave the market an erratic appearance and caused the active stocks to fluctuate nervously. The selling was well absorbed except toward the close, when the liquidation was too great for the weak market which closed generally lower than the opening.

The operations appeared to be entirely professional. The customers of commission houses and the general public were not interested. Trading was especially light, but there was nothing in its action to give the market character. The opening was fairly good and the selling was well absorbed, which was a favorable feature.

The local market was quiet, 2,367 shares changing hands in the short session, 1,500 of which were Rawhide Royal at 5 cents. The public did not appear to be interested. Outside of Rawhide Royal the trading was chiefly in the higher priced issues. The buying was scattering, a few favorites being picked up.

Indications are just as strong as at any time within the last six months that the country's business, barring a crop failure, will be greater and more profitable in 1910 than in 1909. One of the relatively weak spots in the situation as a whole has been the depressed state of the market for raw copper. Evidences are gathering rapidly, however, that a distinct and far reaching improvement in this quarter is at hand. These have assumed the form chiefly of unmistakable proof that copper consumtion throughout the world is gaining largely upon copper production. If this continues at the rate displayed in the last two months it will not be long before the heavy stocks of copper that have been overhanging the market will disappear leaving the path clear for an advance in the price of the commodity.

A bearish factor in the market is the reports of labor trouble in many parts of the country. It should be remembered in this respect that strikes ordinarily follow prosperous periods or more frequent in time of prosperity. A year ago the employes of many railroads demanded higher wages, but the railroads were not alarmed for the reason that business was slack and the labor supply abundant. The rapid development in all lines of business since then brought employment to the idle and at times additional labor colud not be had in some lines of trade. The result is that the laboring man has for several months been remuneratively employed and the treasuries of the unions have been repleted. Consequently it is natural to expect more difficulty this year on the part of railroads and large corporations in satisfying the demands of their employes, although up to the present ime the attitude of the railroads has been more conciliatory then some other corporate enterprises.

A meeting of the stockholders of Walnut Grove was held this afternoon in the office of George W. Logan, 333 Manhattan building, to discuss the affairs of that company, the stock of which is not now being traded in on the Duluth stock exchange. The stock has not been dropped from the exchange's list. Under this condition stockholders will be more protected than if the issue had been sponged from the board. There is a possibility that the property may yet be shown to have sufficient values to warrant mining operations and in this event it would again be in good favor on the exchange.

Maj. H. V. Eva, secretary of the Commercial club, and secretary and director of the Calumet & Sonora and the Duluth & Sonora companies, was at his office today after a trip to Old Mexico. He visited the properties of both companies.

Maj. Eva returned with a lot of lead and zinc ore and samples of the concentrates from the C. & S. That Calumet & Sonora will be one of the greatest properties of its kind in the world, is Maj. Eva's belief. The mill, he said, is working profitably. It has a capacity of 150 tons and will soon be enlarged three times.

Forty-eight hours before arriving in Duluth Maj. Eva was basking in 110 deg. above zero weather. When he hit the Zenith City the thermometer was flirting with zero.

"It felt good to get back," he said.

MAY BECOME PART OF UNCLE SAM'S TERRITORY

SPITZBERGEN BELL SOUND.

This land may be included in the territory of the United States. A bill to that effect has passed the senate. It provides that the Spitzbergen islands shall be annexed to the United States and confirms the claim of some well-known American capitalists to several hundred thousands of acres of coal lands there. Frederick Ayer of Massachusetts and James M. Longyear of Marquette, Mich., investigated Spitzbergen for iron some years ago, but found big deposits of coal instead. The Norwegian owners were bought out, and the Arctic Coal company was formed. It had 130 men working in the mines last summer. Spitzbergen is known to American chiefly as the northern terminus of the northern excursions of the Hamburg-American line. Thousands of Americans are taken there every year, by way of the North Cape.

ARE ATTACKED BY WOLVES

Duluth Man and Companion Forced to Climb a Tree.

L. S. Levy, who lives at 515 East Second street, returned from Robinson Lake, Minn., yesterday with a story of a chase by wolves that is reminiscent of the early settler tales of this county. Had it not been for the welcome presence of a tree, Mr. Levy and his companion might not be alive to tell of the thrilling adventure.

Mr. Levy and a man named Snyder were returning to Robinson Lake, where Mr. Levy was spending a few days. Their course lay across Wolf lake, and here it was that the adventure occurred.

The two men heard a noise, and quickly turning, saw a pack of seven or eight wolves upon them. The only weapon in the possesion of the two men was a 22-caliber rifle owned by Mr. Levy.

He had an electric flash light in his pocket, and he kept the animals at bay by flashing the light in their faces. His companion dragged his coat over the snow as if it were a rope or chain.

The two men held the animals off until they came to the tree, which they quickly climbed. From the safety of the tree Mr. Levy brought his target rifle into practice. The noise of the rifle and the howls of the wolves as the bullets stung them attracted the attention of some settlers, who came and drove off the wolves.

One of the animals was wounded so that it died. Mr. Levy returned the next day and secured the carcass.

Chance for Cheap Fish.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—Fish eaters have had an abundance of fish recently because of Deputy Game Warden Neil Johnson, who confiscated in transit from Minnesota to New York several shipments, consisting principally of pike, pickerel and whitefish and sold them at a price that induced a quick clean-up. There were some 1,500 pounds involved. The fish were being shipped from Minnesota contrary to the laws of that state.

OFFICERS OF THE STATE COMMITTEE RE-ELECTED

Annual Meeting of Y. M. C. A. Central Body Is Held.

Three New Members Are Chosen By Convention in Business Session.

JOHN F. MOORE,
Senior Secretary of the Railroad Department of the Y. M. C. A. International Committee.

C. R. TOWSON,
Senior Secretary of the Industrial Department of the Y. M. C. A. International Committee.

At a meeting of the state executive committee of the Young Men's Christian association of Minnesota today in connection with the thirty-sixth annual convention in progress here, the officers of the committee were re-elected and the position of assistant treasurer was added to the list, Stanley S. Staring of Minneapolis being elected to the office. The list of officers is: Chairman, Walter N. Carroll, Minneapolis; vice chairman, George M. Tibbs, St. Paul; secretary, J. M. Anderson, Minneapolis; treasurer, David C. Bell, Minneapolis; assistant treasurer, Stanley S. Staring, Minneapolis; state secretary, Edward W. Peck, Minneapolis.

At the business session of the convention late this afternoon, the following members of the state committee, whose terms expire this year, were re-elected: R. A. Kirk, St. Paul; Dean W. S. Pattee, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis; George M. Tibbs, St. Paul; J. M. Anderson, Minneapolis; Thomas Owens, Two Harbors; E. C. Little, Duluth; W. N. Carroll, Minneapolis. Three new members were added to the state committee, Charles J. Winton of Minneapolis being elected for three years; J. W. Wheeler of Crookston for two years, and E. J. Jewett of St. Paul for one year.

$3,000 Raised.

At the meeting of the convention this morning, pledges were received for about $3,000 for carrying on the general work of the association in the state during the coming year and it is expected that amount will be substantially increased before the convention finally adjourns.

At the business session of the convention this afternoon, the state committee reported on the policy decided upon for the coming year.

The first session of the convention this morning was well attended and three ringing addresses were given by noted speakers. John F. Moore of New York, international secretary of the railroad department, spoke on "A Voice from the Past—Its Meaning," and during the course of his address, he touched upon the great work being done by the railroad department of the association. "Laymen and Christian Service," was the subject of Fred B. Smith, international secretary of the religious work department, and Selden P. Spencer of St. Louis, ex-judge of the Missouri supreme court, spoke on "Men and the Bible."

This afternoon Fred B. Smith opened the meeting with an address, and the business session followed. At the close of the business session the delegates dispersed to the various places where entertainment was provided for them for the afternoon. Another meeting will be held at the First M. E. church tonight, John F. Moore and Fred B. Smith of New York speaking.

Tomorrow morning the delegates will meet at 9:15, after which they will disperse to the various churches. A number of the speakers and delegates have been assigned to speak at churches of the city.

Tomorrow afternoon a mass meeting for men will be held in the First M. E. church, taking the place of the usual Sunday afternoon meeting of the local association. Tomorrow evening platform meetings will be held in four or five churches of the city, delegates to the convention speaking.

Y. M. C. A. and Business Men.

The relation which the Y. M. C. A. has towards business men and the industrial workers of the country was the subject of the general discussions at a double program of the convention last evening. One part consisted of a banquet of business men at the Spalding hotel and the other was a large public gathering at the First M. E. church.

The work which the association is doing throughout the country was taken up at considerable length at both gatherings by some of the ablest speakers engaged in association work.

Seldon P. Spencer, ex-judge of the Missouri supreme court, declared that the Y. M. C. A. will be the chief factor in solving the perplexing relations of labor and capital, in addressing the business men at the Spalding. He said that forty out of every hundred of the young men in the United States are in the cities and that eighty out of every hundred of them are unmarried. He explained that they are being brought together by the association as by no other organization and that upon them will rest the final responsibility of the crisis now coming on the nation.

"It is the Young Men's Christian association that is to do this work," he said. "It must be the association. The church cannot do it. She can do her part, but she is hopelessly spread by questions of creed or ceremonial or heritage into thousands of sects and orders. But the association is built upon the broadest foundation of any Christian organization.

"In it all the churches are united. Upon the solid foundations of all of them it is builded. In her cause all bickerings and differences are forgotten and only the great principle of Christianity remains. Through this organization, therefore, I say she must do her share in the solution of the problem which is to confront the next generation in all of its immensity."

Where Responsibility Lies.

Fred S. Smith, international secretary of religious work, followed the same lines as Judge Spencer. He said that the greatest responsibility is upon the business men, as they reap the largest share of the benefits and should therefore bear the heaviest part of the expense of conducting the association.

"Upon you rests the responsibility for the maintenance of the association and the progress of its work in this growing city," declared Mr. Smith. "It is not the secretaries of the association, the pastors of the churches or the women who are responsible for the morals of this community—it is you. They have their part to bear, but your burden is a greater one. For to you accrue all the earnings, all the profits, all the money which a greater earning power creates. And what factor has done so much to increase the capacity of our young men as the Young Men's Christian association?

"You business men realize this. And in the United States you have spent more than $66,000,000 in carrying on its work."

The Immigrant.

Charles R. Towson of New York spoke upon "The Immigrant and the Nation." He explained that there are many thousands of people in this country who will not go into churches because they do not feel at home in them. He stated that it is one of the duties of the association to carry Christianity to them. He said that the big capitalists and masters of industry are coming to realize the value of the association's work.

INDUSTRIAL LOANS MAY BE FEATURE OF CHARITY WORK

Associated Charities Will Consider Plan at Meeting on Monday.

White Slave Trade and Special Problems Will Also Be Discussed.

At the courthouse Monday morning there will be a special meeting of the Associated Charities.

The meeting will be for the purpose of discussing the white slave trade, industrial loans, and the hearing of the report of the state conference of corrections and charities. There are several special problems to come up for consideration.

A. P. Cook, superintendent of the county poor board, has been invited to deliver a short talk before the meeting.

The industrial loan department of the Associated Charities is a new departure that has lately been taken up and is working very well. It is for the purpose of helping those who need money for a short while to tide them over until they can repay the amount. When a man has been out of work for some time, and has at last secured a position, many times he needs coal and groceries to tide him over until his first pay day. This is the purpose of the industrial loan department. The money is loaned to him until he can repay it. The money is used over and over again and many families are being helped in this way.

Special Problems.

Among the special problems to come up for consideration is the case of a family with an epileptic son. The young man is nearly of age and, of course, cannot come under the juvenile court. The family wishes the state to care for him, claiming poverty as an excuse. He takes sudden fits and only now and then can he work at odd jobs. The father is suffering from a disease that will soon take him away and then the mother will be left with a large family of children and a large mortgage on their home staring her in the face. They claim that if the son were taken care of, they could in some way manage to live and make payments on their home. There is no reason at this time why the son should be taken care of, but the outlook is that if something is not done the whole family will, sooner or later, fall back on the county for support.

Another case to be discussed is the case of a blind man and his wife, who live on St. Croix avenue. They are absolutely without means, and on account of his blind condition the man can find nothing that he can get to do. It takes the wife about all her time to care for her husband. She is industrious and makes knitted bedspreads, but lately there has been no demand for her wares.

Cases of this kind are too numerous to mention. They are found and reported from every part of the city and each case seems to present some new problem to confront the delegates from the several societies.

That the people, at least some of them, do not understand the purpose of the society was shown this morning when a young man entered the office of Miss Poirier in the courthouse building and explained to her that she really must meet a certain girl and tell her that great harm would befall her if she should marry a certain young man. So surprised was Miss Poirier that it was some time before she was able to speak. Then she asked for the particulars. It developed that he wanted the girl, too. He knew many reasons why she should not marry the other fellow. Miss Poirier finally convinced him that she did not interfere in matters of the heart. He thought as she had the best interests of the people at heart, that she would interfere and give the girl to understand that he was the better choice.

NEW COMPANY IS ORGANIZED

"Section 30 Development Company" Will Be Offered to Investors.

The Section 30 Development company is proceeding with the development of its property, which is in the same section as the well known mine, known as the Shagawa, and which was in litigation for more than twenty years. The shaft is down nearly seventy feet and at last reports was bottomed in high-grade hematite. It is expected that the vein will widen with depth, similar to veins on Vermilion, which have been mined for many years. Capt. James Bale, president of the company, is looking after the development work personally.

The company is capitalized at $500,000, the shares being worth $1 at par. One-fifth of the stock is held in escrow in payment for the fifty-year mining lease. The company has opened subscription books to offer 100,000 shares to the public.

Both stations are to be ready by the opening of navigation. The Marquette station will be erected at once, the one at Isle Royale as soon as the first boat arrives there.

Mr. Moe received a message yesterday saying that the United Wireless Telegraph company has made contracts for the equipment of the passenger steamers of the Detroit & Cleveland and the Detroit & Buffalo Navigation companies.

SENSITIVE ABOUT HIS NOSE.

Some people, I have found, are very sensitive about their physical peculiarities, says Cartoonist "Spy," in the Strand. Writing of that reminds me of an old gentleman of very considerable position in the world, who came into my studio one day many years ago. He had a very red nose, but as I was leaving he observed, rather shyly:—

"I hope, Mr. Ward, you won't make my nose as red as it is; at all events, perhaps you won't increase the redness. It is an unfortunate fact that my grandfather and father, besides myself, had red noses, [illegible] really [illegible]. As a matter of fact, I'm a total abstainer myself, too." It was really touching, and I felt compelled to [illegible] color of his nose.

SAD STATE SHE WAS IN

Mrs. G. H. Smith of Abbottsburg In a Sad State. Has Written She Almost Wanted to Die. Now Feeling Better.

Abbottsburg, N. C.—"I suffered greatly, every month," writes Mrs. G. H. Smith, of this place, and have done so at times, ever since I was fifteen years old.

"At one time my suffering was so great I almost wanted to die, and when my baby came I was very sick for twelve long hours. I thought sure I would die, and my baby did die. So I decided to take Cardui.

"The first bottle did me so much good that I have used it ever since. Now I have three fine babies, and am never sick over three hours since I began to take Cardui."

At all times of pain and weakness, you should take Cardui, to help revive your flagging forces, drive away the pain and restore the balance of health.

When the health part of the scale is too light in the balance, a little Cardui will soon tip the beam the right way.

The reason is, that it is a specific remedy, prepared to assist the proper working of the womanly organs—while experience has proved it successful, and has been in use for over 50 years.

ON THE IRON RANGES

SOME INJURIES NEAR EVELETH

Two Sustain Broken Arms, a Third Barely Escapes Being Killed

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unknown Finlander was found in an injured condition on the Adams pit tracks last evening by miners returning home from work. He was taken to More hosptial, where it was discovered he had an arm broken. It is thought he fell on the tracks while on his way home from work.

Mert Trevarow, a mechanic on the Adams Spruce forces while at work yesterday setting a blast, broke his arm from the premature explosion of the blast.

Tony Aguize, an Italian employed in the Spruce mine, had a very narrow escape from serious bodily injury while at work underground Thursday afternoon, as the rocks above him gave way without warning and he by a lucky jump made his miraculous escape, the stones falling but a few feet from him.

MR. FLANNIGAN IS SUPERINTENDENT

Placed in Charge of Pettit, Schley and Monica Mines.

Gilbert, Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Flannigan has been appointed superintendent of the Pettit Schley and Monica mines, succeeding the late Supt. Daniel Ross.

Mr. Flannigan is a young man with plenty of push and reliability and is one of the best known of the younger mining men on the Minnesota iron ranges. The position to which Mr. Flannigan has been assigned in one of the most responsible and lucrative in the mining industry in this section. These three important mines are owned and controlled by the Republic Iron & Steel company.

The Schley mine is elaborately equipped for gigantic operations, and will, it is asserted, be one of the very largest mines in Minnesota.

McKINLEY WILL FIGHT IN COURT

Claims Mining Work Under Townsite Jeopardizes Water System.

McKinley, Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village of McKinley and the Republic Iron & Steel company will probably have to settle their differences in court.

At the last council meeting it was decided to retain an attorney to look after the prospective case in the courts, the ground for this being that the continued drifting under the townsite in the development of the Wills mine may ruin the waterworks system. N. B. Arnold, of Virginia, was selected for the work, having previously been retained by several citizens.

Cannot Reach Understanding.

The committee appointed by the Commercial club has failed to come to an understanding with the company, and the preliminary work necessary to an open fight is now to be done. Many local people believe it will be possible to reach an understanding, although some members of the committee do not feel frinedly to the company because they were refused the privilege of going underground and investigating for themselves. It was following the report of this committee that the services of an attorney were engaged.

PAID DEPARTMENT MAY BE THE RESULT.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The criticism of the fire department since the big fire that destroyed the Schreiner Bros. & Moulton store because of alleged failure to cope with the blaze continues although members of the council claim the criticisms are unjust.

The matter may result in this city having a paid department. The matter is expected to come before the council Monday evening. A few days before the fire a hydrant at the corner of the Moulton store was broken off by a runaway rig striking it. It was impossible to secure a new hydrant on a few days' notice, but the councilmen and firemen maintain that this did not hinder the fire fighting, as there were four lines of hose laid from other points.

Members of the council also point out that a few months ago, when the council was about to close a contract for a new chemical fire engine and hook and ladder wagon, many leading business men appeared before that body and protested against the expense of the proposed improvement, so that the council cannot be justly held responsible for not adding this important equipment.

IN FOOD.

What a Clergyman's Wife Found.

The wife of a Minnesota clergyman found the solution of her troubles in a simple change of food of which she says:

"My case proves that proper food will cure almost any ail. For years I suffered from dyspepsia which became chronic and was treated by some of the most skillful physicians but was not cured.

"Medicine would help for a time but the old troubles would always return because the cause was still there, and kept me weak and sickly most of the time. I had the grip every year for five years, always suffered from colds and my whole condition showed that I did not get the proper nourishment from food.

"Finally I began eating Grape-Nuts according to directions. I may say that since that time my stomach has not troubled me at all but a remarkable change took place. All through the long cold winter I ate nothing but a saucer of Grape-Nuts and cream in the morning and no matter how severe the cold I did not suffer and I did not have the grip or even a cold.

"Grape-Nuts food certainly nourished me until I have a strong constitution, feel like a new person, and indeed never was healthier in my life."

When a medicine effects a successful treatment in a very large majority of cases, and when we offer that medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cost the user nothing if it does not completely relieve catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take all the risk. These are facts which we want the people to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Mucu-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician with whom catarrh was a specialty, and who has a record of thirty years of enviable success to his record.

Its influence is toward stimulating the muco-cells, aiding digestion and improving nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time it brings about a noticeable gain in weight, strength good color and feeling of buoyancy.

TO REQUIRE MAIL BOXES

Carriers May Be Relieved of Necessity of Ringing Door Bells.

Government May Stop Printing Addresses on Envelopes Also.

Duluth people who haven't any mail boxes in front of their residences are liable not to receive any mail after June 30, 1911.

Certainly they will not if a provision of the postoffice appropriation bill becomes a law. The provision prohibits any lettercarrier from delivering any mail at any house unless there is a suitable mail box on the outside to receive it. It means that Uncle Sam is tired of having his uniformed carriers wait for people to take their time in answering their door bells.

After many experiments, it was found that the average mail carrier loses about thirty seconds in ringing each door bell and awaiting response. It is expected that this provision will greatly increase the efficiency of the service and possibly reduce the number of carriers required. A saving of $400.000 is estimated.

The vast expenditure by the people of the country which will be required to meet the provisions of this bill in the way of providing new mail boxes is estimated at approximately $20,000,000. The average mail box costs $1.

The postoffice appropriation bill this year carries $239,812,915, an increase of over $5,000,000 over the current year's appropriations. It is, however, a decrease of $2,000,000 from the final estimates of the department for next year.

A provision is contained in the bill that the government shall discontinue the printing of the names and addresses of business firms on envelopes.

Only $500,000 is provided for the extension of the rural free delivery service.

Provision is made for an investigation of the rural service in regard to the unmailable matter being carried.

ACCUSED BANKER DID NOT BENEFIT

Cashier Sowle Did Not Profit By Bowesmont Bank Affair.

Bowesmont, N. D., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following close upon the heels of the failure of the Peoples' State bank at Lakota, the closing up of the Bowesmont State bank here and the subsequent arrest of its cashier, Ralph C. Sowle, the affair has created no end of comment throughout the state. The arrest of an official of the local bank, as well as the two at Lakota, indicate that the state banking department proposes to see that justice is done, and will not overlook any steps that will tend to give the depositors protection.

The condition in the local bank is very peculiar. Mr. Sowle, it appears, has failed to realize any personal gain out of the bank's failure, and it is understood that he feels confident of being able to clear himself of criminal intent. The Pembina county term of court does not open until the second Tuesday in June, so there remain several months in which to gather evidence for the trial.

The prominence of the Sowle family in Minneapolis, where Ralph Sowle formerly resided, has also been the cause of considerable interest. Comment in general on the failure of the relatives to take steps to secure the accused man's release from jail under the $4,000 bond required.

FIFTEEN OTHERS ALSO ESCAPED BEING BURNED.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Delayed information received from Noonan, N. D., where W. T. Paul lost his life in a fire, indicate that the lives of fifteen others were endangered by the flames. The fire took place at 2 o'clock in the morning and the other inmates of the house were obliged to escape in their night robes. One man, Alexander Kerr of Kenmare, sustained a broken leg as a result of falling from a second-story window. Only the fact that fire escapes had been constructed about two weeks previous to the fire gave the other inmates of the hotel an opportunity to escape, for otherwise many would have lost their lives.

BIG SYNDICATE ON DEFENSIVE

Morgan-Guggenheim Men Explain to Senate About the Alaskan Affairs.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The interesting spectacle of the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate, through legal representatives, appearing before a congressional committee to justify its operations in the development of industries in Alaska, packed the room of the senate committee on territories yesterday. It was denied that the syndicate had a monopoly of any industrial interest.

The proceeding were unique. Some days ago, Senator Beveridge received a letter from J. P. Morgan & Co., asking permission to send representatives to answer "exaggerated reports printed in the magazines and newspapers of the work of the syndicate formed by that company and the Messrs. Guggenheim." The permission was given, and John N. Steele, general counsel for the syndicate, and Steven Birsch, the managing director, appeared.

Where Money Came From.

Mr. Birsch was put on the stand and his story drawn out by Mr. Steele. It resulted in testimony to the effect that all of the money spent in the enormous development of Alaskan resources had been furnished by the syndicate never had received anything from the government in the way of money, grants of lands or special rights.

It was testified further that the syndicate owned one railroad and had no interest in any other in Alaska; that it owned one copper mine and had no interest in any other, and owned no coal lands at all. Testimony was given about the negotiations for the Cunningham claims, but it was said these hinged upon patents being issued for the claims, and that these negotiations had come to nothing.

SUING SALOON KEEPER

Because Plaintiff's Son Was Killed While He Was Drunk.

Marinette, Wis., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alex Brechtl, a Peshtigo saloon keeper, is being sued for $10,000 by Fred Seefeldt. The basis of the suit is the allegation that the saloon keeper sold liquor to the plaintiff's minor son, who, in consequence, fell off a wagon, while in an intoxicated condition, and was killed.

MINISTERS WANT THE DEATH PENALTY KEPT.

Sandusky, Ohio, Feb. 19.—On the text "They that live by the sword, shall perish by the sword," the Lutheran ministers of Toledo, Norwalk and Fremont, meeting here, have based a protest to the Ohio legislature against the abolition of the death penalty. In the petition, which the ministers have forwarded to Columbus, it is declared that God himself ordained the execution of criminals, and they quote various passages from the Bible to prove it.

INSPECTOR SAYS HE FOUND DULUTH MEAT STORE LIKE "JUNGLE"

Washington to have the government inspectors sworn in as city deputies. The first report, which resulted in the arrest of the two Mork brothers, has been received, and it describes conditions which remind the reader of those described by Upton Sinclair in "The Jungle."

The two Mork brothers pleaded not guilty this morning in municipal court, to the charges against them, and the hearing was set for Monday at 9:30. This is just the first step in the campaign, and unless there is a very sudden and sweeping reformation on the part of several retailers, more arrests will follow.

Reports on Conditions.

The report of the inspector to Health Commissioner Patton follows:

"Dr. F. J. Patton, Health Commissioner, City of Duluth:

"Dear Sir: For your information I would respectfully report that on Thursday, Feb. 17, I made an inspection of the establishment operated by Mork Brothers, located at 529 and 31 West First street, and found the place in a filthy condition.

The meat saws used in the market were coated with dirt.

"I found eight fresh veal carcasses hanging in the ice box. Mr. Emil Mork explained that these were shipped to him from Minneapolis, but later admitted that he had killed them in the sausage processing room.

"The bench or table upon which the sausage meat is prepared was covered with a filthy crust of animal matter and dirt.

"The sausage-stuffing machine was smeared inside and outside with dirty dried fragments of meat products, and the inside of the machine smelled sour and repugnant.

"Two other machines used in the manufacture of sausage, a 'mixer' and a 'silent cutter,' were caked with meat, meal and other ingredients of sausage.

"Directly under the trimming and stuffing table is a catch basin connected with the city sewer.

"I found several boxes full of animal entrails stored under the sausage table. It was when I discovered these that Emil Mork confessed that he had slaughtered the eight calves in the processing room the day previous. These entrails were just as they had been taken from the calves the day before, full of blood, etc. Mr. Mork requested me not to make any complaint against his having killed the calves there.

"Seems Impossible."

"I hesitate about reporting the next item. It seems as though I ought to go back to that room and look again to be sure it is actually true, and yet and I have made two careful inspections of this part of the room.

"The toilet room, or rather that which serves as a toilet room, is located within the sausage processing room, and is a sort of alcove arrangement. That is, there is no door, not even a curtain to screen it from the sausage rooms. It has an ordinary stool, but that is all. There is no connection with city water for flushing the stool, so that when the stool is used, the man has to leave the stool and spend some time uncoiling a small hose and turning on the water in order to flush down the stool. As there is no curtain, screen or door to this toilet corner, you can imagine what a stench would permeate the sausage room while the man is getting the hose or pail of water into play. The barrel in which the meats are cooked for liver sausage, etc, is located not six feet from the stool, and there are no facilities for washing hands in this corner, except the barrel in which the meats are cooked, and I saw the sausagemaker washing his hands in this barrel this morning.

Eight Veal Carcasses.

"Referring back to the eight veal carcasses, would say that three of them seemed to be immature and unfit for human food, but I allowed them to hang over night to thoroughly chill, and this morning returned to the establishment, and reinspected the carcasses. I found the three to be immature, emaciated and unfit for food, and condemned them.

"I found the entrails from the eight veal carcasses still under the sausage table.

"An attempt had been made to clean the sausage stuffing machine, but there were patches of dried meat stuff on the inside, which would take a good long soak to remove."

recover, his inability to articulate will in all probability continue.

May Not Regain Speech.

It is said he can not completely regain power of speech and will never again be able to voice his convictions by the vitriolic invective for which he has been noted.

Henry C. and Sallie May Tillman, son and daughter of the senator, reached their father's home early today. They were summoned by telegraph yesterday afternoon from Greenwood, S. C. The senator's wife and eldest son, Ben R. Tillman, Jr. have been with him since the inception of the illness.

The apartments of the popular Southerner are besieged by inquiries, delivered in person, by telegraph and telephone, from his friends throughout the country. Republicans and Democrats alike are among the anxious inquirers.

Senator Smith Better.

Senator W. A. Smith of Michigan, who yesterday underwent a surgical operation for appendicitis at the Homeopathic hospital here, passed a rather uncomfortable night, but was reported by his physicians this morning as resting easy, with his condition somewhat better.

ASSAILS THE POSTOFFICE

mail matter occupies one compartment of a car and express traffic the other. On the latter the tariff from Washington to Chicago, a distance of approximately 1,000 miles, is 2¼ cents per pound in fifty or more pound quantities. For shorter distances the price is about half as much, and for across-continent transportation about twice as much.

Express and Postage.

"If the express companies make larger profits at the rates they charge, are the railroads dealing fairly with the government in charging two or three times as much for carrying mail as they charge for express shipments?"

Mr. Barnhardt charged that loose business methods characterized the conduct of the postoffice department.

"The country," he said, "is entitled to the present mail facilities. Reasonable postage and free mail delivery have done more to bring the farmer and the laboring man into deserved touch with intellectual and commercial progress than any public facility ever given to them. Reasonable rates also have given opportunity to millions who could not otherwise afford to do so, to supply themselves and their families with newspapers and magazines that contribute largely to our universal education and our marvelous progress.

Business Methods Needed.

"If there is a living man who uses the mails who is clamoring for higher postal rates or a curtailed postal service, I never heard of him. But I have heard of an army of people who demand continuation of first class mail service with no increase in rates."

Less political debt-paying and more business sagacity in the management of postal affairs might prevent deficits, said Mr. Barnhardt.

tomorrow may bring, and a fourth company of militia has been ordered here. Thousands of laboring men will be free to roam the streets from this afternoon until Monday morning, as the shops and factories close early on Saturdays.

It is feared the animosity of the disturbing element toward the blacks, who as deputies assisted Sheriff Nellis in defending the jail may bring about attacks upon negro property.

Troops to Attend Funeral.

Animosity toward Sheriff Nellis for ordering the body of Alexander Halliday to lie for three hours in front of the jail has calmed down to a large extent since the coroner's autopsy last night disclosed that death probably was instantaneous. Halliday's funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon and may be the occasion of a demonstration. A detachment of militia will attend the services in anticipation of trouble.

The saloons remained closed and the order to keep them shut is being rigidly enforced.

Grand Jury Meets.

Grand jury investigation of Thursday night's rioting began today. Sheriff Nellis declares he knows the identity of several members of the mob and that they will be compelled to testify before the grand jury. State Attorney Wilson is co-operating with the grand jury in its work.

MANY SAY HE REVEALS THEIR LIVES WITH AMAZING ACCURACY.

Has the veil of mystery that has so long shrouded the ancient sciences been raised at last? Can it be that a system has been perfected that reveals with reasonable accuracy the character and disposition of an individual, and so outlines the life as to assist in avoiding errors and taking advantage of opportunities?

Roxroy, a man who has for twenty years been delving into the mysteries of the occult, making a scientific study of the various methods of reading the lives of people, seems to have reached a higher round in the ladder of fame than his predecessors. Letters are pouring into his office from all parts of the world telling of the benefits derived from his advice. Many of his patrons look upon him as a man gifted with some strange, mysterious power, but he modestly asserts that what he accomplishes is due alone to an understanding of natural laws.

He is a man of kindly feeling toward humanity, and his manner and tone immediately impress one with his sincere belief in his work. A huge stack of grateful letters from people who have received readings from him adds to other convincing proofs as to his ability. Even astrologers and palmists admit that his system surpasses anything yet introduced.

The Rev. G. C. H. Hasskarl, Ph. D., pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, in a letter to Prof. Roxroy, says: "You are certainly the greatest specialist and master of your profession. Every one consulting you will marvel at the correctness of your detailed personal readings and advice. The most sceptical will consult you again and again after corresponding with you once."

If you wish to take advantage of Roxroy's generous offer and obtain a free reading, send your date, month and year of birth, state whether (Mr. Mrs. or Miss) and also copy the following verse in your own handwriting:

I have heard of your power
To read people's lives,
And would ask what for me
You have to advise?

Be sure to give your correct name, birth date and address and write plainly. Send your letter to ROXROY, Department 54B, No. 177a Kensington High street, London, W., England. If you wish, you may inclose 10 cents (U. S. A. stamps) to pay postage, clerical work, etc. Do not inclose coins or silver in letters.

LINDBERG OPPOSED BY M'GARRY AND MAY JOIN THE DEMOCRATS

and fish commission, it must make the congressman feel that as far as matters of patronage are concerned he is already over in the Democratic camp. It only remains for the president to refuse to appoint Editor Jubert, postmaster of Litchfield, to froce Lindbergh to the conclusion that he is indeed persona non grata at the White House at Washington. Nothing so weakens a public man as failure to have weight in patronage matters and the latest and most stunning blow given Mr. Lindbergh by the national adminstration is heartening his political enemies in the Sixth. P. H. McGarry, after looking over the district from various angles for two or three weeks, yesterday announced definitely that he will be a candidate against Lindbergh for nomination. While stranger things have happened than the unseating of a congressman who is popular with the people, it will be surprising if McGarry is able to capture the nomination in the Sixth. The fight for the county offices in the various counties is expected to bring out a heavy primary vote, but should there be by any chance a light vote in the primaries the Walker man probably has a fairly good chance for success. Lindbergh may, however, tire of fighting his battles alone in the Sixth district and go over in the camp where people believe in the same principles as he does and where he will be appreciated by the political leaders as well as by the rank and file.

County Option Sentiment.

Under the manipulation of skillful leadership there was a good deal of county option sentiment generated at the state meeting of the editors in Minneapolis this week. The talk did not seem to connect up with any specfic candidate for the governorship, but there was an undercurrent of opposition to the present governor's nomination. There was newspaper talk of Sam W. Gordon of Brown's Valley for lieutenant governor, and it received a decided impetus at the meeting. The county optionists led in supporting his candidacy, while his personal friends not connected with the option movement gave him assurance of support. Gordon is not an active candidate for the place but admits that a condition might arise by which he would cease to be in a passive state of mind and become an aggressive candidate. The association elected Gordon as first vice-president just to show that it loved him.

Hanscom for State Treasurer.

The story goes that George Hanscom's boom for state treasurer is being taken seriously in the Sixth district where he resides. It is related that two of his most ardent supporters called on the governor one day recently and put it up to him flatly as to where he stood on the treasurership. They hae heard of the slate that involves the nomination of Al Kaiser of Bagley for treasurer and which is [illegible] governor [illegible] nomination. The governor is said to have tried to side step and assured his callers that [illegible] involving candidates for other state offices. His callers were insistent, however, and left him with the declaration that if [illegible] goods [illegible] candidate [illegible]. The [illegible] curb the [illegible], but whether further results were accomplished the development of the state convention will disclose.

Seventh Judicial Fight.

Reports from the Seventh judicial district indicate that the lines are pretty closely drawn in the coming judgeship fight and that little if any [illegible] will be offered before the primaries. It seems to be generally conceded among Republicans that John W. Mason of Fergus Falls, and George W. Peterson of Long Prairie, will battle for the Republican nomination and it should prove a lively fight. Mason's friends claim that he will get the majority of the votes in the counties at each end of the district, while Peterson will run strongly in Todd, Wadena, Morrison and Western Stearns. If this diagnosis of the situation proves correct, Mason will be nominated. The Democratic leaders probably will offer a candidate at the polls in the person of C. A. Nye of Moorhead, who is widely and favorably known in the western part of the Seventh. It is not believed that Judge L. L. Baxter, because of his advanced years, will be a candidate for re-election.

In the Fifty-Seventh.

Louis O. Foss, of Grant county, wants to succeed Ole Canestorp in the state senate and has filed with the secretary of state for the nomination. It is generally understood that L. C. Spooner of Morris, the present member from that district, will be a candidate and there should be an exciting pre-primary campaign. Foss has had legislative experience but was then a rampant Populist. He has returned to the Republican fold but it is claimed still has his Populist theories with him. Spooner was a most aggressive member at the last two sessions of the house, and should he file in opposition to Foss, as now seems likely, there will be fur flying in the Fifty-seventh district.

The Corporation Tax.

The new federal corporation tax will bring into the revenues at Washington $1,000,000 of the hard cash of Minnesota corporations, according to the estimate of Revenue Collector Fred Von Baumbach of St. Paul. The reports of the corporations amenable to the terms of the act must be filed with the collector not later than Feb. 28, and Maj. Von Baumbach says that the corporations under his jurisdiction are cheerfully obeying the regulations laid down at Washington, and he does not believe that any of their officers are going to be foolish enough to flout the mandate of the law. "Estimates of the revenues to be derived by the Federal government from the operation of the corporation tax law are wholly inadequate," the collector says, "and I believe that if the law is sustained by the federal courts, not less than $50,000,000 will be converted into the national treasury. Minnesota is, of course, comparatively insignificant when compared with richer states like New York or Ohio, but I believe that fully $1,000,000 will be paid by Minnesota corporations in taxes under this law. I find that the officers of corporations in my jurisdiction are cheerfully obeying its provisions in making returns, and that they are willing, in case their competitors are likewise taxed, to pay their full share of the burden. The publicity features are perhaps somewhat distasteful, but opposition to this feature of the law is growing less emphatic. My department has been given no additional help, despite the great labors put upon it by the act, and it would be somewhat disappointing to have the law declared nugatory after all the work we have done in collecting and compiling the data."

Will Gunderson Return?

Reports from Alexandria say that Senator C. J. Gunderson of the Douglas-Pope district has not yet determined whether or not he cares to be returned to the senate. Mr. Gunderson is said to have a clear field and can have the office for another four years for the asking. He is regarded as one of the strongest lawyers in the upper house and is what is termed a "progressive" so far as his support of measures may be measured. It is not known that Gunderson is specially enamored of the senatorial job. He is a big man and there is so much in legislative matters that is trivial that his patience is somewhat exhausted at times and he fumes under the restraint. It will be recalled that the senate a year ago unanimously adopted a resolution addressed to Senator Nelson recommending Gunderson for the federal judgeship later filled by the appointment of C. A. Williard of the Philippine commission. He is said to be specially well fitted for a judgeship, and had he not accepted a unanimous election to the senate four years ago would now be in line for at least the nomination by his party in the Seventh judicial district. His senatorial preferment may have cost him the woolsack, for under the Constitution he is not now eligible to election as judge, the legislature three years ago having increased the salaries of all district judges in the state. It is said that should Gunderson be returned to the senate he will have to line up with the county option element, his district being strong on this species of ism. Incidentally the anti-liquor people are claiming that they will this spring, for the first time in the history of the city, elect a city council for Alexandria pledged to a "dry" town.

Buck for Congress.

There is said to be quite a movement on among the friends of Judge L. L. Buck of Winona to gain his consent to putting him actively in the field as a Democratic candidate for congress in the First district. Judge Buck was chairman of the Democratic state central committee when the late L. A. Rosing led the Democratic party in a contest for governor. He was for some years municipal judge of Winona, is popular in his home county and is a strong and effective campaigner. He comes from an old Minnesota family that is especially well known and respected in the First district. He is a radical Democrat and has long been a close personal as well as political friend of Mr. Bryan. Under the unusual conditions pertaining to the First district his friends confidently predict that he is the man who can unseat Mr. Tawney.

The Editors and Extra Session.

After showing Governor Eberhart that he has not lost his strength with the Minnesota editors R. C. Dunn evidently decided that the resolution could serve no useful purpose and did not press his resolution urging an extra session of the legislature be called by the governor to pass a constitutional amendment providing a specific tax for good roads. The state editorial association was unquestionably in a frame of mind to pass the resolution, but the resolutions committee was headed by one of Eli Warner's political associates, and it was thought best to keep the association out of politics to the extent that the association content itself by urging the "early enactment" of the proposed legislation. Mr. Dunn made a neat little speech in explanation of the change of front and said that if the governor did not know enough to call the extra session he should know. The shot was received with shouts of laughter and vigorous handclapping and everybody gave Dunn credit for more magnanimity than is possessed by most men. The association had the day before unanimously directed its resolution committee to present such a resolution, and only recanted in the interest of harmony. The governor had taken the position that no extra session was imperative at this time and that the proposed good roads legislation should not take precedence over matters requiring legislative action. Mr. Dunn suggested that the question be further considered by the forthcoming conservation—or conversation—congress, whichever it should be called. Inasmuch as Governor Eberhart will name the delegates to the conservation congress [illegible] given the good roads amendment [illegible] special session of the legislature, and the friends of the movement [illegible] state editorial association.

The Fifty-Third District.

A three-cornered senatorial fight is in active progress in the Fifty-third district, including the counties of Todd, Wadena and Hubbard. The issue involve the Republican nomination, James Johnston, the sitting member, is opposed by J. L. Cartwright and T. J. Sharkey, both of Staples. It is one of the hottest fights now engaging the attention of the politicians and the chances are said to favor the renomination of Johnston. Each candidate [illegible] newspaper support. Johnston has the support of the so-called Lee faction in Todd county and with it the Long Prairie Leader. Courtwright has the aid of the Long Prairie Argus and the Sheets-Wood faction and Sharkey has the Wadena Journal behind him with Edward Ryan, credited with being a shrewd political manipulator, as manager. The Democrats are planning to bring out L. M. Davis, the well-known Long Prairie lawyer and former county attorney, in opposition to the winner of the Republican primary, and Dr. McKinnon of Wadena will probably go on the ticket as a candidate for one of the house positions. He is a popular physician of his home city and is widely known in the district.

State Road Fund.

Whereas, No extensive colonization of the unoccupied lands of Northern Minnesota can be accomplished until roads are constructed and it is absolutely essential to the highest development of the agricultural sections of this state that the best possible roads be provided,

Be It Therefore Resolved, That it is expedient, proper and absolutely necessary that the legislature submit to the people for adoption a Constitutional amendment providing for the general property tax of 1 mill for road and bridge purposes, the fund thereby created to be distributed by the state highway commission among the several counties of the state of Minnesota.

Foreign Bonds Should be Sold.

There having been a lack of moneys from time to time in the funds from which loans are made by the state board of investment,

Be It Resolved, That it is the wish and will of this association that Minnesota, through its board of investment, dispose of, at the earliest possible opportunity, enough of the bonds of other states held by this state, necessary to secure and loan to our own people the money essential to state development, and especially for roads, drainage and schools.

Drainage of Lands.

Whereas, during the last few years, drainage projects of enormous magnitude have been prosecuted whereby vast areas of wet and low lands have been reclaimed and transformed into some of the richest and most fertile farm lands in the state of Minnesota, and

Whereas, there are 2,000,000 acres yet remaining unsettled for lack of drainage and the same are susceptible of drainage,

Therefore, be it resolved that we are heartily in accord with the drainage movement commenced by the different counties, the state drainage commission and the United States government, and we recommend that all of Northern Minnesota counties do all in their power to further the cause of drainage; that the Federal government be urged to reclaim the millions of acres held by them in trust for the Chippewa Indians, and further that the next state legislature submit a constitutional amendment to the end that appropriation of funds can be made for the straightening and the deepening of the rivers and channels which are the natural outlets of our drainage projects and to generally assist in this most important work.

Indian Reservations.

We urge that all matters pending in the several departments at Washington relating to our Indian reservations be immediately considered, thereby aiding us in our work of development and improvement of Northern Minnesota.

To Advertise the State.

Resolved, that the association hereby heartily endorses the campaign of the Minnesota Federation of Commercial clubs for a state appropriation of $100,000 per year for state advertising under the direction of its immigration department.

Conservation Indorsed.

Resolved, that this convention heartily endorses the conservation movement and pledges the support of the thirty counties here represented.

State Fair Advertising.

Resolved, that the board of management of the Minnesota state fair be requested to allow no advertisement of lands except Minnesota lands on the printed matter issued by the state fair management; and that the space on the back of all tags or tickets attached to exhibits be offered to the state immigration department, free of charge, for the purpose of advertising Minnesota's agricultural resources.

Agricultural Education.

Believing that one of the important factors in the agricultural development of our state is the proper education of our farm boys and girls for farm life, and believing also that the policy of the state should be to offer as much elementary education as possible to the farm boys and girls in their home schools; that fully appreciating the magnificent urban, graded and high schools which have been built up in the state of Minnesota under the direction and guidance of the high school board and by the liberal appropriations granted by the state legislature, and realizing that the proper education of our rural children is of as much importance to the welfare of the state as the education of its urban children and further recognizing that the present system of rural schools offers to the rural children educational advantages greatly inferior to those now offered to the children of our villages and cities,

Be it resolved, that the state of Minnesota should, proceeding along similar lines to those by which it has built up its excellent system of urban graded and high schools, build up a system of rural, township, graded and high schools which shall fully meet the needs of our rural population and shall insure to them in their home schools as much instruction in elementary agriculture, manual training and home economics as [illegible].

Be it further resolved, that we recommend the establishment of [illegible] schools in the state of the type of the Crookston school of agriculture [illegible].

Be it further resolved, that the movement for the establishment of agricultural departments in urban high schools be so adjusted that the rural [illegible] high schools so situated that the rural [illegible] can secure [illegible] results through [illegible] the village or city high school than through independent organization.

Further be it resolved, that we recommend [illegible] establishment of a rural high school [illegible] efficient system of rural schools.

Land Sale Changes.

Whereas, Northern Minnesota is a region of fruitful soil, splendid waterways and waterpowers, boundless wealth producing resources and healthful climate, and is the veritable parlor of nature's palace, and

Whereas, The said state of Minnesota is possessed of large and extensive areas of lands secured under special grants from the Federal government, and said lands, as now handled constitute a continuing barrier against the early settlement and development of Northern Minnesota by land-locking the settlers in this region, making the building of roads impossible, and hence retarding the agricultural development of Northern Minnesota; and,

Whereas, The present laws for the disposition of said lands are inadequate,

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That it is the demand of Northern Minnesota in convention assembled, that speedy adequate relief be afforded by the next legislature looking to the correction of these evils. That laws be passed imposing a tax on all state lands not used exclusively for public purposes to the end that these vast areas of state lands in Northern Minnesota may pay their just proportion of the tax necessary for the building of roads, schools and public buildings. That state lands, suitable for agriculture, when sold or offered for sale, be sold in their virgin state with the timber by contract or in fee simple to the end that the settlers building a home on these tracts may have some means of support from the timber while developing these farms. That the state lands, in order to be handled rightly, and intelligently be classified and appraised after a thorough examination. That the present method of dealing with actual settlers in matters of contest with homesteaders whose entries conflict with state swamp selections, be discouraged by appropriate legislative enactment. That an amendment to the Constitution of the state be submitted to the people amending Article 8 thereof so as to permit the enactment of a better and more business-like method of disposing of state lands, having in view the proper protection of the permanent school fund of the state.

Thanks to Bemidji.

Be it further resolved, That the delegates of this convention, each and every one of them, hereby exresses their appreciation of the courteous, hospitable treatment accorded them by the people of the city of Bemidji during this convention.

The unanimous thanks of this convention is hereby proffered to the genial gentleman whose energy and executive skill has been in so great a measure responsible for the successful completion of the objects desired, in the calling of this convention; for the spirit of harmony among these thirty counties which his tact has brought about, believing that this is the beginning of a new era for Northern Minnesota—for this, we heartily thank Mr. W. R. Mackenzie of Bemidji.

Permanent Organization.

Permanent organization was effected as the Northern Minnesota Development association, with the following counties as members: Aitkin, Becker, Beltrami, Carlton, Cass, Clay, Clearwater, Cook, Crow Wing, Hubbard, Itasca, Isanti, Lake, Kennebec, Kittson, Koochiching, Marshall, Mahnomen, Mille Lac, Morrison, Norman, Ottertail, Pine, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau, St. Louis, Todd, Wadena, Wilkin.

Provision was made for the election of officers for subordinate associations in each county, and for holding the annual meetings on the first Thursday of December each year.

Officers Chosen.

The matter of the election of permanent officers of the association brought Thomas R. Johnstone of Crookston to his feet with an enthusiastic speech of commendation for the unanimous election of H. J. Maxfield of Wadena as president and W. R. Mackenzie of Bemidji as secretary, as a fitting recognition of the labors which they had performed for the success of the convention, the motion being adopted with a cheer. Mayor W. J. Smith of Eveleth, president of the Miners' National bank of that place, was elected treasurer, without opposition. The executive committee was chosen as follows: M. N. Koll, Cass Lake, Sixth congressional district; T. M. Partridge, Duluth, Eighth district; T. R. Johnstone, Crookston, Ninth district, with President Maxfield and Secretary Mackenzie.

Crookston Gets Next Meeting.

On behalf of St. Louis county, Mayor Haven of Duluth suggested Crookston, "the center of the Red river valley," as the proper place for holding the next annual meeting of the association, being a recognition to Northwestern Minnesota, the suggestion being unanimously adopted.

Thomas R. Johnstone of Crookston, on behalf of his home city, thanked the convention for selecting Crookston as the next meeting place.

Mr. Johnstone assured the delegates that the residents of Crookston, including men, women and even the school children, would join in extending the visitors a right royal welcome; and he was loudly applauded.

State Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston, was called for and responded with a splendid speech on agricultural education.

Other speakers were Prof. Gray of the University of Minnesota, State Auditor Iverson, Representative Robert J. Wells of Breckenridge, Lawrence H. Johnson of Minneapolis and L. A. Barnes of Duluth.

The convention extended a unanimous vote of thanks to the press of Bemidji and Duluth and the Twin Cities for co-operation in giving publicity to the convention.

DOCTORS INDORSE Newbro's Herpicide

When a doctor endorses a preparation it means more than an ordinary testimonial. His opinion is always that of the professional man devoted to the welfare of the people.

Dr. J. J. Boyd, Covington, Tenn., says: "I feel it my duty to write this for the benefit of those suffering from dandruff. In the average case a few applications of Newbro's Herpicide will remove all dandruff. It is advisable to continue its use for several weeks."

The words of J. B. Thompson, M. D., No. 2 Burrough Place, Cor. Hollis St., Boston, Mass., are not less enthusiastic: "I can only speak in praise of Newbro's Herpicide. It is all that is claimed and perhaps more. Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp, but brightens the hair, gives it life and makes it soft."

Dr. T. A. Moore, Duncan, Ariz., writes of his experience: "My scalp was in places covered by patches of dry, scaly material and the itching was incessant. Since using Herpicide all these evils have disappeared and my hair is soft, smooth and growing. Hair has grown on spots before but thinly covered."

Newbro's Herpicide is the Original remedy to kill the dandruff germ and stop falling hair. The terrible itching which goes with dandruff is allayed almost at once.

Herpicide is for sale at Drug Stores and One Dollar Bottles are guaranteed. Applications may be obtained at the leading Barber Shops. Be sure you get genuine Herpicide. Send 10c in postage for sample and book to The Herpicide Co., Dept. 7B, Detroit, Mich.

Sunday Services in Duluth Churches

The Rev. M. S. Rice's plan to hold noon meetings at the Lyceum next week is indorsed by several of Duluth's clergymen. These meetings will be for business and professional men, women and children and will be undemoninational. Mr. Rice desires to reach especially those who are not now affiliated with any congregation.

There will be no admission to the meetings and no collection will be taken. If the meetings are successful they may be continued. Mr. Rice has the support of the congregation of the First M. E. church, of which he is pastor, and of many clergymen.

"The project was an extremely happy thought," said the Rev. J. S. Kirtley, pastor of the First Baptist church. "It will elevate the level of religious life in Duluth. I am delighted that Mr. Rice has had the courage to carry out his unique idea. I trust that the meetings will be largely attended."

REV. M. S. RICE.

Rev. Alexander Milne, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, said the plan was excellent and met with his indorsement. Rev. J. T. Moody, superintendent of the Bethel, said: "It is a great move and should meet with the indorsement of other ministers, who should co-operate with him."

"Much good should come of the meetings which Mr. Rice will hold," said Rev. T. T. Roan, pastor of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church. "His plan is excellent and deserves the support of all religious people.

Beware Of Colds

Boards of Health Issue Warning Against Danger of Present Season. Thousands of Lives Sacrificed.

The board of health has the danger sign out in big letters. Now is the time the doctor is kept busy, and the undertaker reaps his harvest from those who do not heed the warning. It's the cough or cold we contract now that lingers throughout the year, running down the system and often ending in death. The board of health and best medical authorities state positively that the deaths from these causes are absolutely unnecessary.

In view of the board of health's warning, then, we urge our readers to take "the stitch in time." A remedy like Salubrin, the great Swedish antiseptic, will absolutely prevent danger from our changeable climate.

Salubrin will have prompt effect on all diseases of the bronchial tubes and lungs. Indeed so remarkable are the benefits of Salubrin that the government of Sweden has removed all taxes on its manufacture, so that it might be universally used. The wonderful effects of Salubrin on all coughs and colds, as well as its powerful benefits in cases of weak lungs and catarrh of the throat, nose and lungs, are now creating as great a sensation in scientific circles in this country as they have already done in Sweden.

Salubrin sells for 50 cents per bottle, and every first-class druggist is prepared to furnish it for home or professional use.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Regulation of Injunctions.

Washington, Feb. 19.—What is generally recognized as the administration bill on the important subject of the regulation of court injunctions, has been introduced by Representative Moon of Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee on revision of laws. The Moon bill is a brief one, covering a single typewritten sheet. In effect it provides that no injunction, whether interlocutory or permanent, shall be issued by any federal court or judge without previous notice and an opportunity to be heard on behalf of the parties enjoined. But, it says further, if there appears a probability that "immediate and irreparable injury" is likely to ensue, the court may issue a temporary restraining order without notice. It is required that every such order shall define the injury, state why irreparable, and why granted without notice, and shall not extend more than seven days from the time the notice is served.

Satisfies Aldrich.

"So far as I am concerned, I am for the administration bill without any amendments," announced Senator Aldrich at an executive session of the committee on interstate commerce following the final hearing on the railroad bill. This statement appeared to take Senators Cummins and Clapp by surprise, and the former said he supposed the senator from Rhode Island had the bill fixed up to suit himself.

"I have not fixed the bill, nor have I had anything to do with it," smilingly retorted Mr. Aldrich.

Keeps Families Together.

Favorable action on the proposition of Representative Sulzer, Democrat, of New York to prevent the separation of alien families through the deportation of members has been taken by the house immigration committee. The bill provides that "no wife or dependent minor child less than 16 years of age, coming with and as a member of a family, the other members of which are all admissable, shall be excluded because either a person likely to become a public charge or because of a physical defect."

Persons affected with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease are not included in the exception.

Discuss Indian Bill.

Discussion of various features of the Indian appropriation bill and the reference of many war claims to the court of claims occupied most of the time of the house yesterday. No important amendment was made to the Indian bill.

Senate Hears Newlands.

The principal feature of yesterday's proceedings in the senate was the delivery of a speech by Senator Newlands in support of a measure proposed by him looking to co-operation of the engineers' corps of the army, with other agencies devoted to the development of the resources of the country. The senate adjourned until Monday.

MAN WHO STOLE $173,000 IMMUNE

Statute of Limitations Expires in Case of Theft From Sub-Treasury.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Whoever stole $173,000 from the Chicago sub-treasury Feb. 18, 1907, is now immune from criminal prosecution, the statute of limitations having expired yesterday.

The only recourse of the government now is to possibly locate the thief and institute civil action to recover the money. Secret service men will continue to run down every possible clue.

This theft, which long ago became known as the "Chicago sub-treasury case," is one of the most baffling crimes with which the United States government has had to contend. Three years ago some one stole $173,000 from the Chicago sub-treasury and the thief has never been detected, though hundreds of clues have been run to earth. The theft is today apparently as great a mystery as on the day a short message conveyed the news to Washington three years ago.

Shortly before the theft occurred in Chicago an equally mysterious theft occurred at the St. Louis sub-treasury, when $61,000 was stolen. The thief in this case has not been apprehended either.

A Common Cold.

We claim that if catching cold could be avoided some of the most dangerous and fatal diseases would never be heard of. A cold often forms a culture bed for germs of infectious diseases. Consumption, pneumonia, diphtheria and scarlet fever, four of the most dangerous and fatal diseases, are of this class. The culture bed formed by the cold favors the development of the germs of these diseases, that would not otherwise find lodgment. There is little danger, however, of any of these diseases being contracted when a good expectorant cough medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It cleans out these culture beds that favor the development of the germs of these diseases. That is why this remedy has proved so universally successful in preventing pneumonia. It not only cures your cold quickly, but minimizes the risk of contracting these dangerous diseases. For sale by all druggists.

MAY REORGANIZE THE POSTOFFICE

Bill Suggesting Sweeping Change Is Introduced in Both Houses of Congress.

Washington, Feb. 19.—There is a possibility of a general reorganization of the postoffice department. Senator Carter has introduced in the senate a measure to this end, and its duplicate was presented in the house by Representative Weeks of Massachusetts.

The bill proposes a reorganization along lines similar to those recommended by the report of the postal commission about a year ago. It looks to the creation of a new system for the management of the postal affairs of the country, and is intended to render unnecessary any special legislation regarding the handling of second-class mail matter, which recently has been the subject of so much agitation. The purpose is to place the postoffice department on a business basis, with a continuing administration of its machinery.

Defects Due to Changes.

Senator Carter and Mr. Weeks and those who believe with them take the position that many of the defects of the present system are due to the frequent changes in the directing forces of the department, including the postmaster general; the assistant postmasters general and many of the bureau chiefs, which take place at the beginning of each new administration. The abolition of all of the offices of assistants is proposed, and provision is made for the creation of the office of director of posts, who, when he is once appointed, shall retain his office for an indefinite term, and who shall be protected by law against removal for political reasons.

Another proposed change in the present law is to permit persons who may be barred from using the mails by a departmental order, to appeal to the courts for a review of their cases. At present there is no relief from such an official mandate.

HOPE TO UNITE THE SOCIETIES OF IRISHMEN.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 19.—Efforts to bring about a condition of amity among the various secret societies in America are being made by the leading officials of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Clan-Na-Gael and the United Irish League of America. National President Mathew Cummings of the Ancient Order of Hibernians has announced that a conference of all three organizations will be called shortly and that an earnest attempt will be made "to stop the unseemly conditions that have worked such injuries to the Irish name."

A Safeguard to Children.

"Our two children of six and eight years have been since infancy subject to colds and croup. About three years ago I started to use Foley's Honey and Tar, and it has never failed to prevent and cure these troubles. It is the only medicine I can get the children to take without a row." The above from W. C. Ornstein, Green Bay, Wis., duplicates the experience of thousands of other users of Foley's Honey and Tar. Sold by all druggists.

Reject Odd Lengths.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 19.—The Western retail lumber dealers, backed up by the Northwest United States lumbermen, have decided at a big convention here to refuse to accept the odd lengths. The British Columbia lumbermen now threaten retaliation.

Weston Wending His Way.

Williams, Ariz., Feb. 19.—Edward Payson Weston, pedestrian, spent last night at a section house at Belle, Mont., twenty-eight miles east of here. He resumed his eastward journey this morning.

MONEY CONDITIONS BETTER

New York, Feb. 19.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

Improved financial conditions serve to strengthen business confidence. Sentiment in iron and steel is more cheerful now that the United States Steel corporation has entered the market as a buyer of pig iron, although the situation on the whole, in this division still remains somewhat disappointing. No cancellations are reported, however, and shipments are well sustained except where severe weather has delayed transportation. Some railroads have found it necessary to replenish old stock on account of the wear and tear of an unusually hard winter, and one Western system alone has placed an order for seventy-five locomotives. Activity is especially pronounced in the wire trade, and the reported weakening of prices is not general.

The dry goods jobbing trade was more active this week, and a large sale of dress goods in a leading New York house eminently successful. Many buyers have been operating in all departments of the market, but show no speculative spirit. In the opinion of large jobbing house managers the business of the week was up to normal for this season. The primary dry goods market are still not entirely satisfactory, as competition for business is close. Some buying is noted at prices ¼ @ ⅜ below those ruling a few weeks ago. Export cottons are lacking. The larger woolen and worsted corporations are securing business, but the smaller concerns are not making satisfactory headway. Yarns continue slow and generally weak. Improvement is noted in the shoe trade; buyers no longer hesitate, a good volume of orders are received and factories are well supplied. The leather market shows renewed activity, and some large sales of sole leather are reported at Boston at close to the recent quotations. Pronounced weakness continues in all kinds of domestic hides, and foreign hides have sold at ½c reduction from former selling rates. Prices on about all varieties of packer and country hides are purely nominal as there are no sales of account, and buyers and sellers are considerably apart in their views.

MAY SETTLE DIFFICULTY.

Switchmen's Conference With Trainmaster Expected to Bear Fruit.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The conference between Trainmaster Newton and the local switchmen Wednesday evening, while not yet resulting in any local settlement, may bring about such a condition. The men offered to go back to work in a body in Brainerd, but the company, while agreeing to take all back as soon as places could be provided for them, declined to discharge the new men off hand. The company made a proposition in the matter, however, which is said to have been taken under consideration by them and which they will submit to the committee of the other unions who have been giving them moral and financial support in the strike. It is said that if the proposition meets the approval of the other local unions that a settlement will be made on that basis.

Chicago Bank Transfer.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—The National City bank has purchased the business of the Hamilton National bank, according to an announcement made yesterday. The purchase will give the National City bank deposits aggregating $21,000,000.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

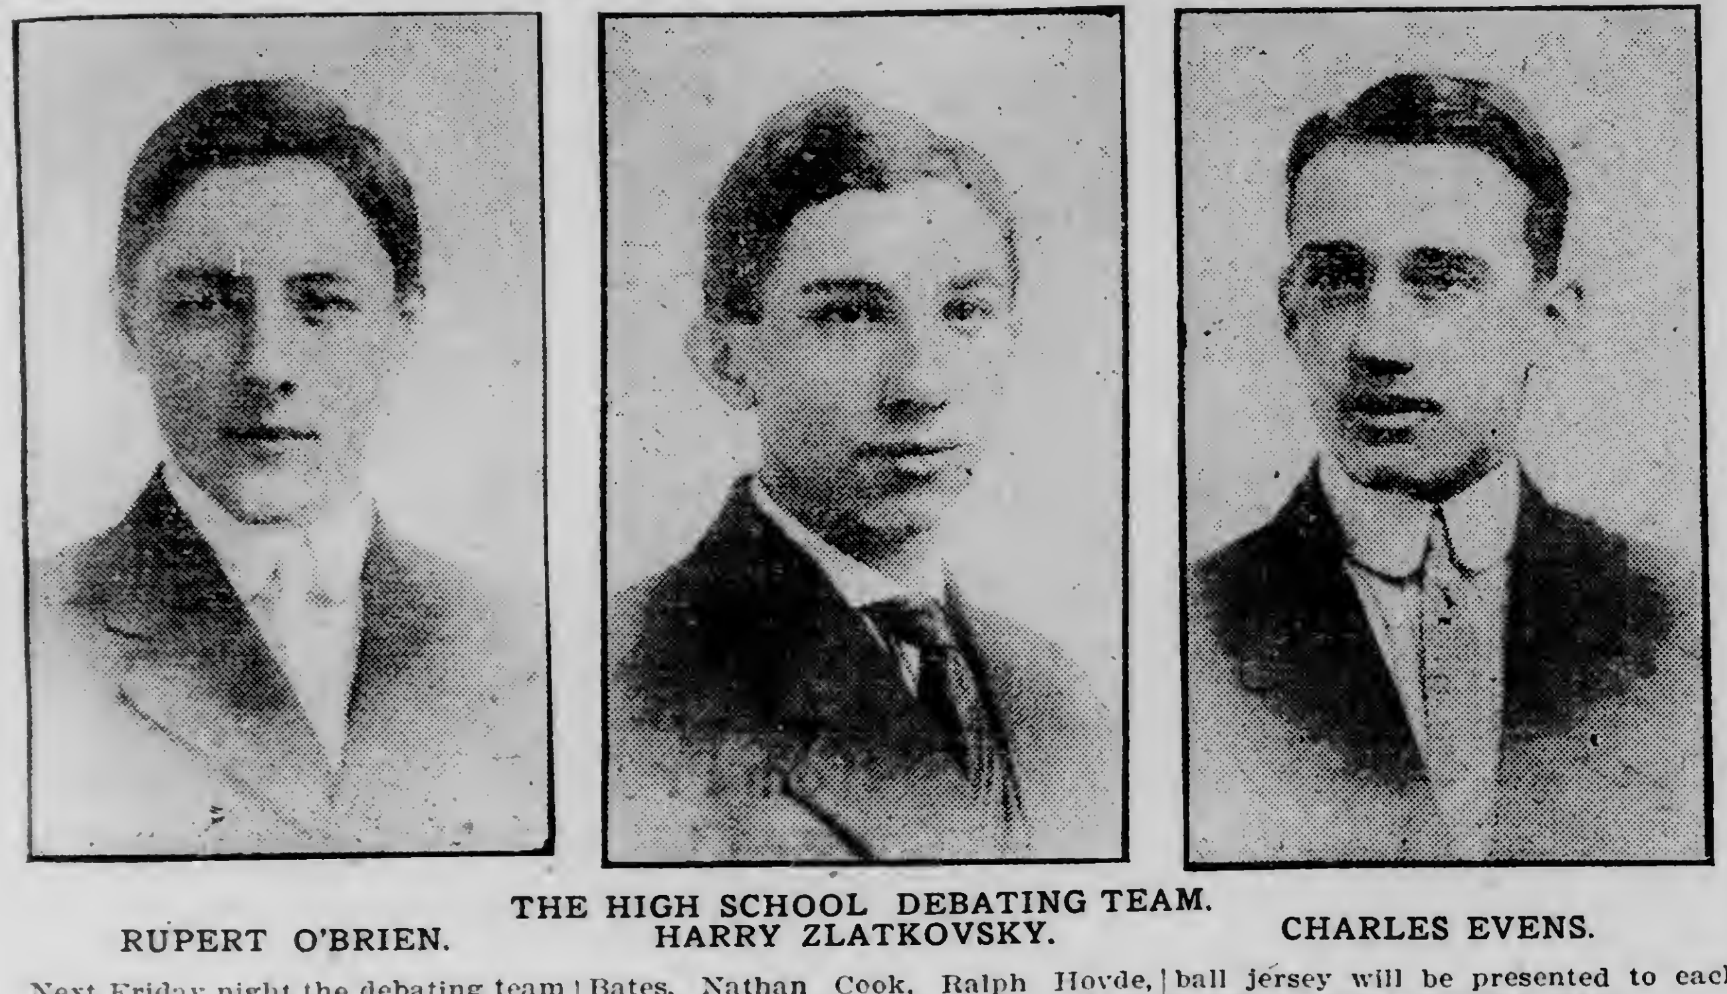
THE WEEK AT THE HIGH SCHOOL



RUPERT O'BRIEN. THE HIGH SCHOOL DEBATING TEAM. HARRY ZLATKOVSKY. CHARLES EVENS.

Next Friday night the debating team will meet the team representing the Cloquet high school, in what promises to be one of the most interesting debates of the year.

The Cloquet team is coached by Prof. Peter Olson, who last year coached the Pine City team that was victorious over Duluth. Duluth will have the affirmative and Cloquet the negative. The question for debate is: "Resolved, That Minnesota adopt the initiative and referendum." A short musical program, prepared by Prof. Custance, will be given before the debate.

The Cloquet team is composed entirely of girls, making the second team of girls the Duluth boys have met this season, the Cambridge high also being represented by girls.

The judges have not yet been selected, but an attempt will be made to secure three from out of the city.

* * *

A special meeting of the Forum was called Wednesday to make preparations for an informal banquet to be given next Monday evening in the high school lunch room. The method of entertainment for the Cloquet debating team was also discussed.

The following committees were appointed: Newspaper committee—Harry Zlatkovsky and Rupert O'Brien; board committee, Gilbert Bates, Nathan Cook, Ralph Hovde, Lloyd Greene, George Cyrene, Ludwig Melanden. A committee on posters and a sales committees will be appointed at the next meeting.

* * *

The Zenith board held a regular meeting Monday afternoon and appointed Wednesday for its regular day for meeting. Thursday afternoon the committee on individual writeups held a meeting and began its work. Thursday night, the same committee met at the home of Miss Constance Mitchell and continued its work.

As much of the work as possible will be called for next Wednesday. The board will meet at 9:30 Tuesday morning.

The slips for the Zenith are now on sale and are being sold rapidly.

The senior class basket ball team won from its rivals, the juniors, Thursday afternoon, and although the senior class will not be represented in the championship series, it is satisfied to close the season with a junior scalp to its credit.

The championship series will begin a week from Tuesday, between the freshmen and sophomores, the team winning two of three games getting the pennant. A pennant will be given the winners and also a basket ball jersey will be presented to each member of the winning team.

* * *

The pupils are feeling anxious on account of the illness of Miss Taylor. At first it was thought Miss Taylor would be back in a few days, but it is now doubtful whether she will return this year.

* * *

Harold Burgess returned to school Monday after an illness of about six weeks.

* * *

The basket ball team left for Aitkin yesterday confident of winning. The victory over the fast Y. M. C. A. team has greatly encouraged the boys and they are now hopeful of winning the remaining games on their schedule.

The game which was scheduled with Minneapolis West for Saturday has been cancelled as the team cannot secure a gymnasium.

* * *

The party went to the Spirit Lake branch of the boat club. Miss Salter, the 1912 class adviser, acted as chaperon.

* * *

Mr. Wallace went to Aitkin with the basket ball team yesterday, and Mr. Buck had charge of his history classes.

* * *

Harold Feetham, a member of the football team and a member of the senior class before leaving school this year, was a visitor Friday. Mr. Feetham leaves for Montana in two weeks to make his home there. He was very popular in school and the best wishes of all the students go with him.

* * *

At chapel exercises Friday morning, the pupils listened to an interesting talk by Fred B. Smith, who is attending the Y. M. C. A. convention in this city. Mr. Smith was a chaplain in the Mexican war, and the fact that he has come in close contact with the American soldiers has given him ample opportunity to become acquainted with men both young and old. It is said that he is one of the best speakers to men in the country. Although his talk was directed principally toward the boys, Mr. Smith's sound advice, wit, and humor made his talk interesting and enjoyable to every one. During the chapel exercises, Miss Myrtle Hobbs rendered a solo, "Come Unto Me," by H. Ernest Nichol, which was very much enjoyed by every one.

WOULD RESERVE POWER.

Canadians Favor Keeping It on Their Side of the Line.

Fort Frances, Ont., Feb. 19.—Mayor Williams returned this week from an extended visit to Toronto and Ottawa, where he had been on business for the town in connection with the water power dispute. The mayor stated that both at Ottawa and Toronto the ministers who represented the opposite side of politics expressed themselves as absolutely in favor of reserving Canadian resources for the benefit of Canada, and that Canadian water power must be used for Canadian industries.

The mayor also stated that the ministers of the crown on both sides gave every possible assistance and were well seized of the importance and necessity for saving the water power for the Canadian side as the only possible way to induce power companies to encourage the establishing of industries on the Canadian side.

If the power is worth double on the United States side of the line, as stated by Mr. Backus, there would naturally, from a business point of view, be no incentive to encourage industries on the Canadian side; but on the contrary would bend all their energies to transmit and keep the power for use on the United States side.

Mr. E. A. Kelley, Belvidere, Ill., writes us: "I am an ex-engineer with 22 years active service to my credit. About three years ago my kidneys were affected so that I had to give up my engine. First I was troubled with severe, aching pain over the hips. Then followed inflammation of the bladder, and specks appeared before my eyes. A sample of Foley's Kidney Pills that I tried so benefited me that I bought more. I continued to take them until now I can safely testify they have made me a sound and well man." Sold by all druggists.

And it is further agreed that said Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad Company shall convey to the City of Duluth, for park extension purpose, the Northeast quarter of the Northeast quarter of the Southeast quarter of Section 14, Township 49 North of Range 15 West, or such other property as may be selected by the Board of Park Commissioners of the City of Duluth, for which all or part of said 10 acres can be exchanged whereupon such 10 acres, and in the latter event such other property and any remaining part of such 10 acres, if any, shall be transferred to the City in consideration of said right-of-way through said park.

Section 4. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition, that all sewers, water pipes, gas pipes and other municipal structures or instrumentalities, now or hereafter owned by said City and encountered by said Company in the construction, alteration or repair of its said railroad and railroad facilities shall be changed by said Company, at its own cost and expense, in such wise and to such extent as may be reasonably directed by the Board of Public Works, or other proper municipal authorities of the City of Duluth, so that the usefulness and efficiency thereof shall not be impaired.

Section 5. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition that the said Company, its successors or assigns, shall construct and maintain in proper condition, at its or their own cost and expense, under the direction of the City Engineer of the City of Duluth, such drain or drains as said City Engineer shall deem necessary for the proper drainage of said railroad and railroad facilities.

Section 6. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition, that the City of Duluth and Common Council thereof reserve the right to enter upon all portions of said streets, avenues, alleys and public ways, so crossed or occupied by said Railroad Company, and to make therein such excavations and to do such other work thereon as may be necessary in the construction and repair of sewers, gutters, water mains, gas pipes or other work of a public character, without being liable therefor for any claim for damages; and the said Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, shall afford all reasonable aid and facilities demanded by said City in such work, and shall support and protect its tracks so far as made necessary by the doing of such work by the City, and shall relay its said tracks at its own cost and expense; and shall pay to said City of Duluth the increased or additional cost of doing any such work, if any, by reason of said Railroad Company occupying and using said streets, avenues, alleys and public ways. Such increased or additional cost to be ascertained by the City Engineer and the Chief Engineer of said Railroad Company; and if said engineers cannot agree as to the amount of said increased or additional cost, then either party may apply to the judge of the United States District Court for the District of Minnesota, Fifth Division, or the district thereof wherein the City of Duluth, Minnesota, may at the time be situate, for the appointment of an appraiser to act in conjunction with said engineers, and a decision of a majority of said engineers and appraiser upon the amount thereof shall be final.

Section 7. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition that said Railroad Company, its successors, and assigns, shall hold the City of Duluth harmless from any and all damages occasioned, either directly or indirectly, by reason of the construction, maintenance and operation of said railway and tracks on, over, under or along said crossings on said streets and avenues, and by reason of the construction and maintenance of any and all approaches to said crossings, whether said crossings be at grade, by overhead viaduct, or by sub-way; and said Railroad Company shall assume the defense of any and all suits brought for the recovery of such damages, and shall wholly relieve said City of Duluth from defending the same, and shall assume and pay all judgments recovered against the City therein.

Section 8. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition, that the City of Duluth in no wise guarantees any of the rights or franchises herein granted or attempted to be granted.

Section 9. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted on the express condition that said Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, shall at all times use the said streets, avenues, alleys and public ways so traversed by its said railway and facilities, in such manner as not to unnecessarily interfere with the use of the same for public travel thereon.

Said Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, shall construct and maintain suitable crossings either at grade, or by overhead viaduct or subway across, over and under its tracks, which may be laid upon or across any of said streets, avenues or alleys, or public ways which are now or may hereafter be dedicated, opened or used for public travel when declared necessary, and directed so to do by a seven-eighths (⅞) vote of all the membership of the Common Council of the City of Duluth, the same to be constructed and maintained, with the approaches thereto, at the sole cost and expense of said Company; but no such direction by the Council shall be binding upon the Railroad Company unless said Company is given ten days' notice of the proposed action and afforded an opportunity to be heard thereon within said time.

Where said crossing is at grade, the construction and maintenance of suitable crossings by said Company over its tracks at such streets, avenues, alleys and public ways, shall, within the meaning of this section, include the construction and maintenance, at its own expense, of such crossings to the width of its right-of-way and throughout the width of any such streets, avenues and public ways from lot-line to lot-line, so as to correspond in every respect with the improvements of any such streets, avenues or public ways immediately adjacent to such right-of-way; except that the portion of said right-of-way between the tracks of said Railroad Company and two (2) feet adjacent to and outside of said tracks shall be improved and maintained in such a way as shall be approved by the Common Council or the City Engineer of the City of Duluth—approval by said Engineer not to be final unless confirmed by the Council.

Where such crossing is by sub-way, the construction and maintenance of suitable crossings by said Company under its tracks at such streets, avenues, alleys and public ways shall mean the construction and maintenance, at its own expense, of such sub-way and the approaches thereto, throughout the width of any such streets, avenues or public ways, from lot-line to lot-line, so as to correspond in every respect with the improvements of any such streets, avenues or public ways immediately adjacent to said sub-way crossing; and shall include the paving of said sub-way and the construction and maintenance of sidewalks therein, all as directed and approved by the Common Council or the City Engineer of the City of Duluth—direction or approval by the Engineer not to be final unless confirmed by the Council.

Where said crossing is by overhead viaduct, the construction and maintenance of suitable crossings by said Company over its tracks at such streets, avenues, alleys and public ways shall, within the meaning of this section, include the construction and maintenance, at its own expense, of said viaduct, together with the approaches thereto, according to plans and specifications therefor, required and approved by the Common Council or City Engineer of the City of Duluth, but the requirement and approval of the City Engineer shall not be final unless confirmed by the Council.

Where said crossings are at grade, said Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, shall construct and maintain in proper condition, subject to the approval of the Common Council of the City of Duluth, on said streets and avenues, all gates which the said Common Council shall, by resolution passed by affirmative vote of seven-eights (⅞) of the total membership of said Council, declare to be necessary, so located and constructed as to properly protect and warn persons and teams using said streets and avenues from danger from trains passing on said tracks, without unnecessarily hindering or obstructing travel at said streets or avenues or keeping said gates closed for a longer period than five (5) minutes at any one time; and shall also provide and maintain all gate keepers and all watchmen which the said Council may, by resolution passed by like affirmative vote of seven-eighths (⅞) of the total membership of said Council, declare to be necessary at said crossings for all trains or cars that shall cross said streets and avenues. Provided, however, that no such resolution hereinabove provided for shall be passed by said Council or become operative until the said Railroad Company shall have received from said Council a ten (10) days' notice, in writing, of the introduction of said resolution and had an opportunity to appear before said Council and to be heard upon the same.

The present bridge on Oneota street, under which the proposed right-of-way of said Railroad Company is laid out shall throughout its entire length be considered an over-head viaduct under the terms of this section and this ordinance; and said bridge together with any approaches that may be deemed necessary on account of change of grade, or for any other reasons shall be renewed, constructed and maintained as an over-head viaduct under the terms hereof.

Section 10. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted on the express condition that said Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, shall construct and maintain its trestles, where said trestles cross any street, avenue, alley or public ground of the City of Duluth, according to plans and specifications approved by the City Engineer and the Common Council of the City of Duluth; and that all such crossings and trestles shall be constructed so as not to unnecessarily interfere with the use of said streets, avenues and alleys for public travel and convenience; and shall be constructed over streets and avenues of stone or concrete and steel, and shall not be constructed of wood, except that wood may be used in the original construction of such trestles over streets, avenues or alleys which are now ungraded and which lie westerly of Stowell's Addition to Duluth or southeast of Grand avenue; provided, that all of said trestles of whatever material shall be so constructed as to furnish a vertical clearance of not less than thirteen (13) feet below the lowest member thereof, and shall allow ample room for teams and vehicles of all kinds and for street cars to pass underneath same on the established grade, or the modification thereof herein authorized; provided, further, that for the entire distance between Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand avenue the tracks of said railroad company shall be built and maintained upon an open trestle or trestles, and not upon a filled embankment or other solid structure, and for the entire distance between Grand avenue and Oneota street said tracks to be used for the transportation of ore shall be built and maintained upon an open trestle or trestles and not upon a filled embankment or other solid structure.

Section 11. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition, that if said Railroad Company, its successors or assigns, shall at any time fail, neglect or refuse to conform to the provisions of this ordinance respecting the condition in which said street crossings, bridges, viaducts or other structures herein provided are kept, and such failure, neglect or refusal shall continue for the space of twenty (20) days after notice from the Common Council requiring said Company to conform to the provisions hereof in such manner, the City shall have, and does hereby reserve, the right and power in any such case to do and perform all things necessary to put such street crossings, viaducts or other structures into the condition provided for herein; and if said work shall be done by said City, it may add to the expense of doing the same a sum equal to ten per cent (10 per cent) of the cost of such work to the city, which additional sum shall be allowed and paid by said Company as liquidated damages, and said sum, together with the cost of said work to the City, may be collected by said City of said Company.

Section 12. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition, that in case the grade of any such streets, avenues, alleys or public ways is changed by said City of Duluth, said Railroad Company shall conform its tracks and crossings to such grade in all respects the same as is herein required as to present grades; provided, that no such change of grade shall be so made as to make the maximum grade of any such tracks exceed 1.15 feet per 100 feet of the length of such track on a straight line, and on curves this grade shall be compensated .03 of a foot for each degree of curvature per 100 feet, and except between Sixtieth and Sixty-fifth avenues west, where the maximum grade shall not be made to exceed .60 of a foot in any 100 feet, and except through the West Duluth yards, where the maximum grade shall not exceed .20 in any 100 feet.

Section 13. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition, that the said Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, shall pay its or their proportionate share of the cost to the City of Duluth of any and all street improvements on the streets, avenues, alleys and other public ways abutting any property now or hereafter owned by said Company, its successors or assigns, and any property over which it or they have acquired a right-of-way in the City of Duluth, whether used for railroad purposes or any other purpose, and any and all assessments now or hereafter levied and assessed on any such property of said Railroad Company, its successors or assigns, for street improvements and for any and all public improvements for which under the provisions of the city charter of the City of Duluth, as the same now exists or may be hereafter amended, a special assessment for benefits may be levied. In determining the benefits for the purpose of assessment, said property shall be treated as if owned by a private individual and used for purposes other than railway purposes. Said Company's proportionate share of such cost and the amount of such assessment shall be determined by the Board of Public Works of the City of Duluth or such other body or commission as the city charter may provide for the levying of such assessments. All provisions of the city charter of the City of Duluth with respect to public improvements and assessments therefor shall apply to said Railroad ompany in all respects the same as if said property of said Railroad Company was owned by an individual whose property was not used for railroad purposes or otherwise exempt from the payment of assessments for street improvements.

Section 14. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition, that as a part consideration for the franchise, easement and privileges herein granted, the said Railroad Company shall, on or before the 1st day of January, 1911, and on or before the first day of January in each and every year hereafter during the time it shall use or permit to be used said franchise, easement and privileges, pay to the City Treasurer of the City of Duluth the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000).

For the purpose of rendering more available to said City and the public the facilities of said Railroad Company, if it shall install and maintain in all its offices, freight and passenger depots and yards in said city, telephone connection and service by, over and with the telephone lines owned or operated by the City of Duluth and with the telephone lines of each corporation or association furnishing telephone connection and service in said city, which has at least thirty per cent (30 per cent) of the telephone subscribers in the City of Duluth and which now pays annually or which may hereafter pay annually to the City of Duluth a tax on its gross earnings, and whose charges for telephone service are or shall be fixed and determined by ordinance of said City, and which shall also by the terms of the ordinance by which said telephone company or association is authorized to operate a telephone service in said city be required to furnish one or more cross-arms upon its telephone poles and space for one cable in its subways for the use of the City of Duluth free of charge, the City of Duluth shall waive the payment of the said sum of One Thousand Dollars in each and every year throughout which said Railroad Company shall have installed and maintained such telephone connection and service.

Section 15. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition, that the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad Company may sell or assign its rights under this franchise, but before such assignment shall have any force or effect, the assignee or purchaser shall accept in writing all the terms of this ordinance and file with the City Clerk of the City of Duluth, in form approved by the City Attorney, an agreement, first, that it will pay its proportionate share of the cost to the City of Duluth of any and all street improvements on the streets, avenues, alleys and other public ways abutting the property then owned by said Company, its successors or assigns, and any property over which it has acquired a right-of-way in the city of Duluth, whether used for railroad purposes or any other purpose, and any and all assessments levied and assessed on any such property of said Railroad Company for street improvements and for any and all public improvements for which under the provisions of the city charter of the City of Duluth, as then existing or as thereafter modified, a special assessment for benefits may be levied; it being understood and agreed that in determining the benefits for the purposes of assessments said property shall be treated as if owned by a private individual and used for purposes other than railroad purposes. Second, that it will pay to the City Treasurer of the City of Duluth on or before the first day of January in each and every year during which it shall use said franchise easement and privilege, the sum of One Thousand Dollars; provided that if said Company shall install and maintain in all its offices, freight and passenger depots and yards in said city, telephone connections and service by, through and with the telephone lines owned or operated by the City of Duluth, and the telephone lines of each corporation or association furnishing telephone connections and service in said city having at least thirty per cent (30) of the telephone subscribers in said city, and which now pays annually or which may hereafter pay annually to the City of Duluth a tax on its gross earnings, whose charges for telephone service are then or shall later be fixed and determined by ordinance of said City, and which shall also by the terms of the ordinance by which said telephone company or association is authorized to operate a telephone service in said city, be required to furnish one or more cross-arms upon its telephone poles and space for one cable in its sub-ways for the city of Duluth free of charge, the City of Duluth shall waive the payment of said sum in each and every year during which said company shall have installed and maintained such telephone connections and service.

Section 16. Said Railroad Company shall establish and maintain at least one passenger and freight depot within the limits of said City of Duluth, west of Forty-eighth avenue west in said city and shall establish and maintain, or cause to be established and maintained within the limits of the City of Duluth, one or more roundhouses, one or more machine and repair shops, and adequate terminals and yards.

Section 17. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition, that no assignment by operation of law of the rights of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad Company shall be deemed to carry with it the rights, franchise, easements and privileges herein granted unless the person, partnership or corporation acquiring title by operation of law shall within sixty (60) days after the time that it acquires such title and after notice in writing so to do has been given it by the City, filed with the City Clerk of the City of Duluth an agreement in writing embracing the provisions set forth in Section 15 hereof, to be in legal and binding form, approved by the City Attorney of the City of Duluth, whereby it agrees to become bound by all of the provisions, conditions and obligations specified in this ordinance and shall establish and maintain within the limits of the City of Duluth one or more round-houses, one or more machine shops, one or more repair shops, and its Lake Superior terminals and yards.

Section 18. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition that said Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad Company shall begin the work of building said railroad within the limits of the city of Duluth within one (1) year after the acceptance of this ordinance, and shall diligently prosecute the same, and shall have the same completed and in operation, on or before three (3) years after the acceptance of this ordinance.

Section 19. Before this ordinance shall be in force or take effect, the said Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad Company shall accept the same by filing with the City Clerk of the City of Duluth its written acceptance thereof within sixty (60) days from the passage of this ordinance, consenting to the terms and conditions hereof and agreeing to perform all acts and things required and agreed to be done by said Railroad Company. A failure on the part of said Company to file its acceptance as before provided within sixty (60) days, the time limited, shall render this ordinance null and void. The Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad Company by the acceptance of this ordinance specifically agrees that the failure on its part to comply with any and all of the terms and conditions of this ordinance shall constitute grounds for forfeiture, and that the failure of the City of Duluth to forfeit the franchise, easements, rights and privileges herein granted for breach of any of the conditions and agreements hereof shall not in any way operate as a waiver of its right so to do, and that lapse of time shall not create an estoppel of its rights so to do.

Section 20. Said Railroad Company expressly agrees, and the rights, privileges and franchises hereof are granted upon the express condition, that said Railroad Company shall not grant to any other Railroad Company running rights over any part or portion of the route covered by this franchise, or permit any other railroad company to run locomotives or trains upon same, unless such company shall first accept in writing all the terms of this ordinance relative to the payment of assessments upon the property of such company. Such acceptance to be in form approved by the City Attorney, and to be filed with the City Clerk before said tracks are so used. It shall not be deemed a violation of this provision to permit other railroads to use the tracks and route covered by the foregoing franchise temporarily or for brief periods of time in cases of emergency.

Section 21. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication and the acceptance thereof by said Railroad Company.

JEFFRIES AT CLOSE RANGE

Study of Retired World's Champion Pugilist Is Interesting.

The Fighter Reminds One of a Great Overgrown Boy.

(BY BRUCE)

Somewhere clear back in the stone age they made men like Jim Jeffries. They don't make many men like the retired champion today. Life in a highly civilized age is not calculated to produce many prototypes of the man who defied being knocked off his feet or even being made dizzy by the hardest blow that the hardest hitters of his time could strike.

We all had a chance to study the big fellow during his stay in Duluth. After looking over the huge bulk, probably most of you believe it is simply a question as to whether the once great fighter can get in anything like condition.

The writer had a very good opportunity to study Jeff during his stay in this city. The study is interesting, as the study of any man who has achieved greatness invariably proves.

The one forcible thing that impresses you when you analyze the big man, is his closeness to the animal. He doesn't seem to be possessed of that ailment of the present age, "nerves."

Jim Corbett has the nervous face of the athlete, as has also Kid McCoy, Terry McGovern was the nervous type, and so was Jimmy Britt. Not so with this Jeffries person.

Jeffries isn't overburdened with brains. Most of his knowledge has come to him from the concrete; his visual sense is exceptionally developed and he grasps the visual object quickly and accurately. Put him at work at some abstract problem and he would be lost. His thinking powers, apparently, have never been developed.

His head is not well developed. His eyes are bright and show reflective power to a certain degree. His forehead slants back painfully and the back of his head fails to show development. He has a strong and determined face; the face of a man who could never be made to quit and a face that shows stubborn self-belief.

His eyes show penetration, directness and force. He looks at an object quickly and the least sound causes him to turn his head with lightning-like rapidity. He is not stupid at all, when it comes to things that are occurring in his presence and that are to be detected by the visual sense. That instinct is probably partly natural, and has probably been partly developed in the prize ring. It is that characteristic that has made him a great fighter.

He is reserved, gruff and boyish to an extreme. He impresses you as an overgrown boy; you can scarcely realize that this great hulk of a man, with his thinning hair, is almost 35 years of age.

When ancient Farmer Burns was showing the audience the trick of expanding his muscles to fill out a rope that had previously been stretched over a derby hat and around his body, Jeff stood at the back of the theater with a twinkle in his eye.

As the Farmer was making a bow, Jeff shouted out: "It's rubber."

Then he ducked down behind the back seat partition and chuckled to himself like a boy who has robbed an orchard and had gotten away with the trick.

He is forever playing tricks. He doesn't read much, but he finds all the amusement his mind desires from those around him. He is simple in his tastes and dresses something like a farmer, who is well-to-do, but who hasn't ever paid much attention to sartorial effects.

His mouth is coarse and strong. Not sensually coarse; rather coarse in the strength of primitive man. His face is big and bony; massive and armored against the blows of mere man. His back and shoulders are immense, and when the man moves you realize, some way, the massive, almost animal strength of his giant physique.

"I will be glad to get home, for I want to see my dogs," Jeff said in a burst of confidence. "They will be glad to see me," he added.

A Big Kid.

That is the man. He is simple, straightforward, a big kid, who may have been made the dupe of shrewd and perhaps deceitful men. That last hint may be developed later.

His skin is dark, like the men who must have lived centuries ago, in the sun and wind. It is difficult to imagine this giant being the dissipated wreck some of the papers have accused him of being. His face looks hard and grim and his huge body capable of enduring immense physical strain.

Sometimes, though, especially that night at the Lyceum, there was a kind of weary look in the face of the big fighter; as if he was tired of the whole thing. His wind seemed not as good as it might; yet when he was in action it seemed as if he possessed the strength to break his opponent in two.

If Jeff astonishes the world by "coming back," it will be because he is not cast from the same mold as the ordinary man. It is the nervous man that suffers most from the rack and strain of dissipation, and this giant doesn't seem to be possessed of those kind of things.

Jeff is the kind of a man you would imagine would like to romp with dogs and children. He is a man made for the big and open places. He doesn't look at home in a cafe, and he doesn't feel natural in a crowd. He can't simulate and smirk, and he doesn't feel chesty when a crowd is staring in open-mouthed wonderment at him. He feels bashful, like a boy who has been made to stand up in front of the class.

It is doubtful if Jeff ever reads half the things the newspapers say about him. The writer asked him whether he said he would beat Johnson in three rounds. He denied it. Then he asked why the question was asked.

He was told that a Montana paper quoted him as saying it. It was here that the big fighter growled forth his protest against some of the things the newspapers had said.

"I never read the papers," he declared, "and I don't know what they are saying. I never said that I would beat him in three rounds."

With a gun, a dog and a party of friends, you could imagine the giant would be as perfectly happy as only the simple and near-grown-ups can be. He is not quarrelsome or aggressive by disposition. When he is once aroused you can imagine him tearing men to pieces. In those quiet big men there is always the element of fury and destruction. When Jeff is roused to rage the element is undoubtedly there.

In the first Corbett-Jeffries fight some one asked Corbett why he didn't try to rough it with Jeff.

"I didn't want to rile the big fellow," answered the sagacious Corbett.

Jeff is a physical type in 10,000 men. Perhaps he is the most wonderful type of strength and health the prize ring has ever seen. He is not a natural fighter; you can see that by his face. He is like a calm and peaceful Newfoundland dog sitting there in the sun in the side of the barn.

His great strength and wonderful vitality have made him the wonder of the ring. He doesn't think deeply or rapidly. It is very doubtful if he speculates much on life. He is a boy in his instincts, and it is very doubtful if he knows much more than an average boy of 17, who has traveled over the world, rubbing up against all kinds of people and having to take care of himself.

CENTRAL WINS FROM AITKIN

Duluth Basket Ball Team Defeats Opponents By Score of 43 to 20.

Last night at Aitkin the Duluth Central high school basket ball team defeated the Aitkin team by the score of 43 to 20. The game was a fast one and the team work of the local boys was clearly the feature of the contest.

The game was followed by a dance. Next Friday and Saturday Central will play two games with Ashland.

HAS STANLEY KETCHEL SEEN HIS BEST DAYS IN THE SQUARED CIRCLE?—THE PACE THAT KILLS

Ketchel and Fitzsimmons Compared--Other Live Tips on Doings of Sportdom.

(BY BRUCE)

Did you ever compare Stanley Ketchel with Bob Fitzsimmons?

After his two fights with Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, the second of which he won in three rounds by a knockout, a good many of the followers of dope fell into the habit of saying, "That boy is a second Bob Fitzimmons."

That was a bad mistake. When ancient and venerable Ruby Robert was completely finished, the mold was destroyed. Ketchel may resemble Fitz slightly, even as a love sick young man can trace a resemblance between his best and some dazzling beauty of the Lilly Langtry type. At the best, Ketch only slightly resembles Robert J. Fitzsimmons.

Steve is slight in the limbs and broad in the shoulders. He packs a vicious clout in either mauler and when he gets a wide-open swing at a man, that man generally sprawls on the resin.

Ketchel can't assimilate the punishment that old Bob could in his prime, and he can't hit with nearly the force or accuracy of the old freckled terror of them all.

Fitz didn't have to set himself and swing. When he knocked Jim Corbett out the blow didn't travel more than a foot. It was a short arm jolt. Ketchel is a wild swinger, as the pictures of the Ketchel-Johnson fight showed you. He is not the boxer that awkward Bob was, despite his knock knees and shambling gait.

We all thought Ketchel was a wonder until he fought Johnson. Then most of us came to the conclusion that he was just a corking good light-heavy, something of the stamp of old Joe Choynski. It is very doubtful if Ketch could lick Joe, if the Hebrew were in his prime today.

The sporting world is wondering what Ketchel is going to do. He has been idle—that is as far as fighting is concerned—since the battle with Black Jack. Outside of the ring reports say the Grand Rapids youth has been very active along the primrose path.

Telegraphic reports say Ketchel will battle with Frank Klaus of Pittsburg, who harbors an ambition to become the champion middleweight of the world. This Klaus person is the lad who fought Billy Papke six even rounds in Pittsburg.

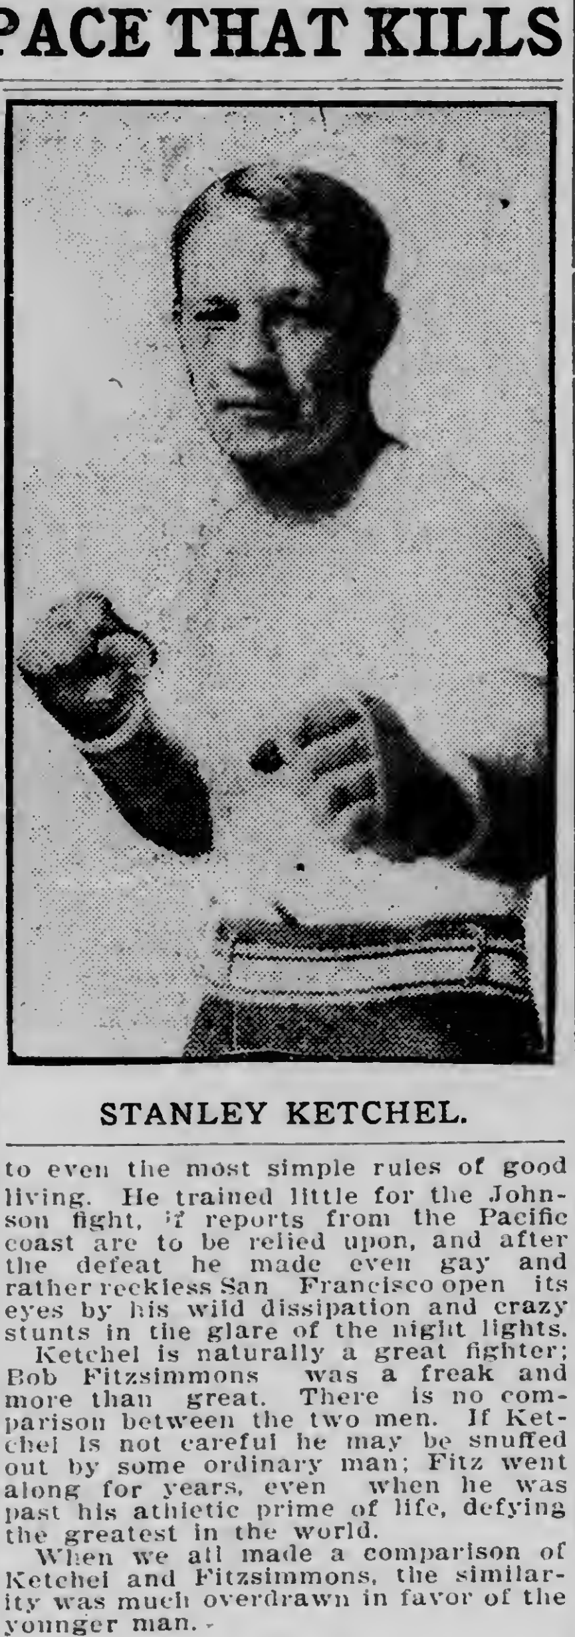
Stanley has gone to Hot Springs, Ark., according to report, to get into condition for his March meeting with the pride of the city of the newly rich. Ketchel will need quite a bit of conditioning, if the reports of his dalliance with the cup that cheereth, are correct in fact and figure.

After the Klaus battle comes the fight with Tony Caponi. The Italian is not in the same class with Steve, and the second fight will be one of the easy money kind.

It is believed Ketchel will shortly set sail for England to seek out a meeting with Tom Thomas, reputed to be the Charley Mitchell of his day and generation. A meeting with Ketchel would prove just how good the Englishman was.

There are those who believe Ketchel has passed his prime as a fighter. These wiseacres figure that the youth has gone the pace, not only recently, but since he was a mere stripling in the Butte mining camps.

Naturally wild and wayward, this young fighter has paid little attention to even the most simple rules of good living. He trained little for the Johnson fight, if reports from the Pacific coast are to be relied upon, and after the defeat he made even gay and rather reckless San Francisco open its eyes by his wild dissipation and crazy stunts in the glare of the night lights.



STANLEY KETCHEL.

Ketchel is naturally a great fighter; Bob Fitzsimmons was a freak and more than great. There is no comparison between the two men. If Ketchel is not careful he may be snuffed out by some ordinary man; Fitz went along for years, even when he was past his athletic prime of life, defying the greatest in the world.

When we all made a comparison of Ketchel and Fitzsimmons, the similarity was much overdrawn in favor of the younger man.

J. H. Ritchie, sporting editor of the Minneapolis Journal and well known to many readers of this city under the pen name of "O'Loughlin," was a visitor in the city today. "Rich" came all the way from the great and thriving city of Minneapolis to witness the ski jumping events at Coleraine. He was cordially invited to go over the jumps, in order that he might put a little color into his story when he returns to Minneapolis. He refused firmly, if courteously, however, and sent his invitation to "Empty" Caine of the St. Paul Pioneer Press. After his hardihood in visiting the pesthouse, it is not believed that "Empty" would balk at the steep descent.

Davies and Irsfield played for Minnesota in the great Minnesota-Michigan game of 1903 and did yeoman service against the great Michigan line and off the tackles. Otto is a lawyer, honestly he is, and is putting as much "pep" into his legal execution as he did in his football study and his views of the beautiful Mississippi river from the green bank back of the old main building.

JEFF'S TOUR COINED MONEY

Figures Show That Jeff-Gotch Combination Drew Over $203,000.

In a communication to the sporting editor of The Evening Herald, H. H. Frazee, Chicago theatrical magnate and the man who launched and managed the James J. Jeffries tour of the country, has made public for the first time, the receipts of the wonderful tour of the man who is matched to fight Jack Johnson.

According to the figures sent to The Herald, the show opened at Atlantic City, Nov. 17, 1909, and closed at Duluth, Feb. 13, 1910. During the tour of the retired champion, all of the principal cities in the country were visited. The communication states that wild enthusiasm greeted the ex-champion at every depot at which he alighted. The company traveled 22,112 miles, was eighty-three days en tour, appeared at ninety-eight cities and gave 101 performances.

The gross receipts of the trip were $203,712.18. Of this amount Jeffries' share in full was $62,812.26. The company's share of the gross was $148,616.28. The traveling expenses of the entire company were $10,463,19. Advertising came to $6,281.31.

The biggest receipts for one show were received at Denver, $7,010 being taken in there. It is stated that $2,600 was taken in at this city. Hamilton, Ohio, won the booby prize, only $408 being recorded in that city.

NO FENCERS IN AMERICA

—Copyright, 1910, by George Grantham Bain.

FRITZ FLESCH.

The champion swordsman of Austria and Hungary is leaving our shores more in sorrow than in anger, because he cannot find a foeman worthy of his steel. Having fenced before King Edward and won medals at Ostend, in France, Germany and Italy, Mr. Flesch came to New York in the hope of finding a challenger. But though he has waited some time, no one has appeared to challenge him, so he sails for France where he has a match two weeks hence. Mr. Flesch finds that Americans take little interest in fencing and says there are no fencers in this country and no good fencing teachers. Fencing is a popular sport on the continent. Mr. Flesch is interested in other sports, but is chiefly enthusiastic about fencing. He was educated for the law at the University of Vienna and at Heidelberg. At the latter university he fought his only duel and gave his opponent a punctured arm. His hardest match was with a Japanese, Dr. Sasaka at Wiesbaden. He vanquished the Japanese and won over ninety-eight adversaries there. Mr. Flesch did not follow the profession of the law, for which he was intended. He became a sculptor.

SNOW WAS NO HINDRANCE

Auto Trucks Given Chance to Demonstrate Worth in Deep Snow.

Dealers Say Demand for Commercial Cars Is on the Increase.

The heavy snow of the past week gave the wholesale houses, which operate heavy automobile delivering trucks, a chance to test their cars.

That transportation by automobile will, as the years go by, become more common, seems very probable. Not one truck in use in the city has been laid up because it was found useless in the snow. They have seemed to work just as well in the snow as they did before it fell. One of the first vehicles seen on the street after the storm was an automobile truck. They plowed their way up hill and down, and have been in constant use since.

It was a great test, for in places the snow was very deep and at a number of the houses it was thought best to lay them up for the rest of the winter. They were started out, however, loaded down as heavily as under ordinary circumstances and not one in the entire city was stuck.

Nearly all the wholesale houses operate the heavier trucks and in every case they have been found most satisfactory.

They have power for the hills and can be loaded even more heavily than an ordinary wagon of the kind generally in use. The cost of transportation is said to be cheaper and the car can make more than two trips to one by the old method.

Trucks are the new departure in automobiles. The commercial side of the industry is now being looked into by the makers as well as supplying pleasure vehicles. Some of the machines in Duluth are rated as high as 60-horse power and they carry huge loads up the hill at a high rate of speed.

The grocery and meat stores, have in a number of instances, done away with the horse and substituted the light auto delivery wagon. In fact, the auto delivery wagon is now a very common sight in Duluth. Dealers say that this branch of the business will, within a few years, outgrow the pleasure branch and that more trucks will then be sold than cars for pleasure.

When spring comes there will be on the streets of the city more than double the number of last year. It has now been proved that they can be used the entire year around and can be depended upon to do the work of the horse faster and at less expense.

There are several truck agencies in Duluth and several more are said to be about to open salesrooms here. A great number of the trucks up to this time have been purchased at out of town branches, and Duluth men, who have noted the growth in this line, have added trucks to their line of cars. It is now possible to buy almost any American made car from a Duluth agent.

The Cadillac people will soon open a branch agency on East Superior street near the garage of the Russell Motor company.

He said he would have a conference today with Gleason, Jeffries and Berger.

SCHEDULE IS ADOPTED

Barney Dreyfuss Makes Concessions and Saves League From Deadlock.

National League Teams Will Play Only 154 Games This Year.

New York, Feb. 19.—The National league last night adopted a playing schedule calling for 154 games for the coming season, but it was only accomplished after a majority of the magnates had expressed their opinion that newspaper criticism over the delay was causing an unfavorable attitude.

Though the wishes of the American league for a 154-game schedule were met, the league's interests were disregarded when it was resolved to stretch the schedule out to Oct. 15. The American league schedule terminates on Oct. 9 although all league contracts with players call for service until Oct. 15. Ebbets of Brooklyn, and Murphy of Chicago insisted on using their players up to the contract time.

Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg was the only club owner willing to make concessions and he saved the league from what seemed to be a hopeless deadlock.

Sunday games in Cincinnati, where there is no opposition and where such deals have been exceptionally remunerative. St. Louis was scheduled for six Sunday games in Chicago and four of these were when the Detroits of the American league were to play the White Sox. St. Louis and Chicago objected, holding that Detroit would draw the big crowds. Then Barney Dreyfuss, with his world's champions, stepped in and offered to take three of the St. Louis conflicting dates. The matter was settled by changing St. Louis to Cincinnati and Pittsburg to Chicago, so that in Chicago it will be seen whether the Pirates or the Tigers are the more popular.

BARNEY DREYFUSS.

Following the adoption of the schedule, the board of directors met to consider the claims of Former Manager William H. Murray of the Philadelphia club for two years' salary on his contract. Until the newspaper criticisms became so severe, the board refused to consider the case, but last night they took it up. No decision was reached, and the board adjourned to meet today. The league members will also continue today the consideration of the constitutional changes.

American League President Talks.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—The American league will not object to any minor changes that the National league may make in its 154-game schedule, said President B. B. Johnson of the American league.

"The agreement reached by the schedule committees of the two leagues at the Pittsburg meeting is binding on both schedules, but we will waive that right to some extent.

"I wish to repeat that the two harmonious schedules decided upon by the committee are the best that the two leagues have had since they have been working together on the dates. If the National league makes any changes that are not acceptable to the American league and persists in keeping them, then we will consider our agreement at an end. We are not looking for trouble and that rests entirely with the other league.

"Some time ago I advanced the plan of having two schedules drawn up by the presidents of the two circuits with the third member of the national commission acting as an arbitrator. The schedule adopted in this manner should be binding on both sides and thus all trouble that the National league had this year, could have been avoided easily.

"If the National league wishes to change the team that they would have in Chicago in opposition to the American league club, we will make no objections. If the schedule is accepted by the committees at Pittsburg and is not adhered to it will be a breach of faith."

RACQUET STARS MEET.

Play at Boston Bringing Together Best Players of Country.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 19.—With four matches on the schedule for today in the National Amateur Racquet tournament, bringing together the players who are rated the highest, the contests attracted increased attention. The struggle between Waterbury and Fearing was looked forward as promising to prove close, and C. A. Shaw, who is playing his best game, was expected to make things interesting for Payne Whitney. The final match this afternoon is between R. D. Wrenn and H. F. McCormick, at the present time champion.

Bantam Champions Matched.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 19.—Johnny Coulon, champion bantamweight prize fighter of America, and Jem Kendrick, bantam weight champion of England, will meet in a ten-round bout before the Royal A. C. here.

EARLY DAYS OF JOHNSON

Was Known as Lazy "Nigger" Around Galveston Athletic Club.

Fighter Would Lose Control of Limbs If Anybody Chirped.

New York, Feb. 19.—It is a remarkable thing the change that can come over the attitude of a gentleman in a few years, says a writer in the Press.

Take the case of Mr. Jack Johnson. He not only rebuked, but he cast down and jumped on and hit with a chair another gentleman in Baron Wilkin's caravansary in West Thirty-fifth street recently, simply because the other gentleman remarked en passant that there was a time when Mr. Johnson was perfectly willing to drink beer out of the same pail with him. Mr. Johnson has been drinking nothing but wine—wine, in this instance, meaning champagne — since the memorable day, a little more than a year ago, when he passed the compliments of the season with Tommy Burns, away down in Australia. It is an insult and reproach to Mr. Johnsen now for any person to allude to his beer days; but there was a time when Mr. Johnson was glad enough to get even beer, and that was only a little more than ten years ago.

The writer, who used to live in Galveston, was a member of the Galveston Athletic club at that time. Among the other members were Charley Davis and Leo Posner. The club was a close corporation for the occasional holding of scraps. Once in a while there were some pretty good fights there, with men like Joe Choynski, Dan Creedon, Tom Tracy and Jem Hall engaged. The club had not been in existence very long when Jack Johnson showed up. In many ways he was the same Jack Johnson that he is now, a little bit lighter in weight, a great deal lighter on his feet and remarkably good-natured.

Perfection of Laziness.

Also, he was too strong to work. He was the laziest "nigger" in Galveston when it came to manual labor. He would lie around the clubrooms and he would box with any one who cared to put on the gloves with him, but he wouldn't handle a cotton hook. He looked as big as the side of a house and very few of the young men gave him much trouble.

It was a rare thing for him to have a dollar. He would gladly put on the gloves and fight half a dozen rounds for a quarter or 50 cents. If he got $5 all at once it was riches beyond the dreams of avarice. When he boxed with any one, when there was an audience present, it was not for any $101,000 purse—there were no moving picture rights either. The crowd would throw nickels and dimes and sometimes a quarter on the floor of the ring and he and the other fellow would dance around and pick up the stuff with great delight. If there seemed likely to be $2 or $3 to split up Johnson would grin beatifically all the time.

Boxing wasn't work, of course. You would never see Josnson down around the wharf or out in the railroad yards, or at the great cotton compressers. He could have made $6 or $7 a day "cotton jamming," as hundreds of other negroes in town did, working for William Parr or the Mallory line: but Johnson was quite content to loaf around Postoffice street, where a horde of negroes, whose wives or sisters or mothers or sweethearts supported them by working as cooks in the families of the well-to-do whites, used to congregate.

Scorned by Sports.

Galveston in those days, as it has now, had a large population of well-dressed, care-free negroes who rarely worked. They played policy and shot craps all day long. Most of these negroes looked upon Johnson as beneath notice—a real low-down "nigger." He did not class with them.

Jack Johnson was a big, gangling, good-natured "slob" in those days. But there were few visitors around the athletic club who knew more about boxing than he did. Everybody recognized that he was remarkably strong and that he was a natural boxer—a youngster of decided cleverness in that line—but no one looked upon him seriously as likely to develop into a great fighter or one who ever would be heard of, because he had a physical or nervous peculiarity which might be played upon any time when he was in action.

Any person who ever has lived in the South knows that there are a great number of negroes who will squirm, wriggle and jump if one makes in their vicinity a certain peculiar noise with the mouth—a good deal like the way one chirps at a horse to encourage it to go faster—and the same time points a finger at them. No one ever has explained the cause of this remarkable squirming on the part of the subject. This affection belongs in the same category as the dislike that some dogs have for music and some cats for whistling—it seems to touch the subject's "funnybone" and make him uncontrollable so long as it is continued.

Tip for Sam Berger.

Johnson used to have this trouble to a remarkable degree—perhaps he still possesses it; it is hard to change a man's inherent physical and mental characteristics even in ten years. In those days at least he used to jump, shriek and squirm whenever any one would make this noise and point a finger at him. The writer has seen him do it dozens of times. It used to be a favorite amusement for the spectators at the primitive boxing bouts to start chirping and pointing just to see Johnson's gyrations. He would go wriggling around the ring, laughing and begging them to stop. While he was under the control of this peculiar form of convulsive movements he was utterly unable to command the motions of his body, his legs or his arms.

There probably are 50,000 negroes in the South who are the subjects of this peculiar affection. The stories about what some of them have done when unthinking or unkind persons have played upon their peculiarity can be heard anywhere south of Mason and Dixon's line. There was a waiter in Galveston, for instance, who had this affection as bad, if not worse, than Johnson. He was bringing a big tray of food into the dining room of Galveston's principal hostelry one day when somebody made the sign and gave the chirp. Immediately the negro shot out in one direction and the dishes in another. It took an hour to sweep up the dishes and the floor from the shower of gravies, soups, meats, potatoes and puddings that the waiter had been posing so proudly on his upborne tray.

There are a few whites who have this same affection, though they are rare, and it also is seen infrequently among the Northern negroes. But those negroes of the South possess it to a remarkable degree. Some will jump back and seem to lose control of their legs; others will add to these gyrations convulsive movements of the arms, as if they were trying to clutch the clouds; others will wriggle and grin and try to get as far away from their persecutors as possible.

It would be cruel if not murderous for any one to play on Johnson's weakness in this particular, if it still exists, especially while he is in the ring with Jeffries, for he would be absolutely helpless unless he has been cured of the trouble. It is remarkable that this curious defect of the big negro has not been discovered before. How he has concealed it is a mystery.

If the colored gentleman who suggested that beer was rich enough for Johnson's blood had known of this weakness of his giant antagonist doubtless he would not have been swatted with Johnson's fists and a chair in Baron Winkins' caravansary the other evening. It doesn't matter if a person is a consumptive or a giant, if he chirps and points in the fatal fashion its effect on Jack Johnson—unless he has become proof against this voodoo—is sure to be an effective weapon.

MILITIA BOYS TO MEET ALL STARS

R. K. LEE,
Manager for the Co. A Military Team.

Great interest is being taken in the approaching indoor baseball game between the All Stars, an aggregation of players headed by Newt Randall, the Duluth boy who has made a great record in the professional field, and a team made up of the pick of the star players of the Military Indoor Baseball league.

The teams will meet next Tuesday evening. The All Stars are one of the fastest, if not the fastest, indoor team in the state. Every player is a star professional performer. The All-Leaguers, with a star league player for every position on the team, will endeavor to be the first team this season to defeat the famous aggregation of Duluth professional players.

After the game of Tuesday an aggregation of Duluth players will meet the strong Owatonna, Minn., indoor baseball team.

ULRICH AND POTTS TO MEET

Despite Misunderstanding, the Two Old Rivals Will Probably Come Together.

There seems to be a misunderstanding as to whom Curley Ulrich, the pride of Superior, will meet on the range. Curley is strongly of the impression that he is booked to meet Jack Dougherty of Milwaukee, who two or three years ago made some noise in the "betwixt and between" class—that is, between the welter and middleweight class.

But James Ebenezer Potts was in our city last evening, and according to his story, he is the man who will face Curley in the ring.

To the sporting editor of the Herald, Curley stated last evening that he was in no condition to meet Potts and would refuse to go on. Ulrich knew that he was booked for some fight and it seemed funny that he is not in condition.

Billy Potts, brother of James Ebenezer and manager of his brother, stated last evening that if Potts got into the same ring with Curley, the latter was in for the licking of his life.

However, Ulrich is confident that he can beat Potts, and stated he would probably fight after all, despite his claim of poor condition, if he could get the same financial consideration as he understood Potts had been guaranteed.

BASEBALL NOTES

Ovie Overall is back in the East preparing for the spring training trip.

* * *

* * *

Doll Face Vance has signed his contract with the Detroit Tigers. The Stockton club has put in a claim for Vance.

* * *

The Buffalo club of the Eastern league is after Clyde Milan, the outfielder of the Washington Americans.

* * *

Outfielder Jackson and Second Baseman Stouch have been sold by the Athletics to the Atlanta club of the Southern league.

* * *

Col. Brooks, on his stay in San Francisco, came to terms with Tommy Sheehan, the thirdsacker of the Superbas and last season with Oakland in the State league. The next move is to secure his reinstatement from the National commission.

* * *

A good one to show the nerve of Bull Perrine. It happened when Perrine called Shortstop Wagner of the Boston Americans out on a play at second. Wagner was sure that he was safe and he started to walk toward Perrine. "Keep on walking to the clubhouse," said Bull. "Why," spoke up Wagner, "I haven't said a word." "I know," said Perrine, "but if I allow you to talk it would have meant suspension for a week."

* * *

The umpires will arrive about the middle of February. Judge Graham will give the umpires instructions to rush the games along.

* * *

Outfielder Strunk and Infielder Barry have signed contracts with Connie Mack of the Athletics. Kitty Bransfield and Pitcher Scanlon signed with the Phillies.

* * *

Umpire Newhouse, who umpired in the Texas league last year, has accepted terms with President Carson of the Central league. Newhouse wrote to Frank Herman asking him for a job as umpire.

* * *

From all reports gleaned from the Imperial Valley league, Danny Long has a phenom in Red Ames. Danny secured the slim curve deceiver from the Intermountain league, where he won seventeen games. In the few games that he played in during the tail end of the season Ames showed some form. Don't mention Ames' name to the leader of the Beavers. At the beginning of the season he was a Duck recruit, but McCredie turned him adrift before he had a chance to show himself. One case where the Seal chieftain beat the McCredieites.

* * *

Jerry Nops, the old major league twirler, is the center of a funny anecdote. Nops' good side arm was hurling the slants for the Wilmington club when Vanderhost, owner of the Baltimore club and a good German, set out in quest of the sidewheeler. Long, the Wilmington magnate, told Vanderhost that Nops' father was a German of high degree. This pleased the Dutch owner of the Orioles, but Ned Hanlon did not look on it with favor. Long saw the thing in an instant and calling Hanlon he said: "His mother is Irish." This caught Hanlon's fancy and Nops was signed.

* * *

The Cleveland Americans and St. Louis Cardinals will meet in a spring series at Little Rock, Ark., beginning March 20. Four games will be played.

* * *

Harrisburg fans are confident that Manager Selbach has picked up two stars in Houser and Newashe, the Carlisle Indian players.

* * *

Roger Bresnahan is trying to secure Miller Huggins to play second base for the Cardinals, but balks on an offer of that player and Spade for Pitcher Beebe.

* * *

Hugh Duffy, the new manager of the White Sox, in discussing the new players, became eloquent over Blackburn. Among other things he said: "He is a finished ball player." Some of the Sox looked like that last summer.

* * *

Manager Griffith has fixed on March 8 as reporting date for his pitchers, with the other members of the team coming along a week later. The team will remain at Hot Springs about twenty days.

* * *

William Breitenstein, who played third base for the Tigers tourists the day they beat the Chattanooga champions on their way to Cuba, has been appointed manager of the Columbia South Atlantic League club. He was with the team named last season.

* * *

Coveleskie, traded to Cincinnati by Philadelphia, isn't celebrating the switch very wisely. In a dispatch from his home town he is quoted as saying that much of his ill success last year was due to enemies on the Phillies, who tried to throw him down at every chance. That sort of talk will bring him trouble.

* * *

Eddie Doyle, a brother of Larry Doyle of the Giants, has been started on his professional career. Eddie, like his brother, is a fast fielder and will play with the Springfield, Ohio, club this season. If he makes good Eddie will be drafted next year by the New York club.

* * *

Andy Coakley has a bright idea on the foul-strike rule. He says he thinks it would be a good idea on the part of the rule makers to call only the first foul a strike. Coakley thinks no batter takes a chance of fouling off the next one, because it would only put him "in a hole."

Marion will join the team at Hot Springs and will be taken on the spring training tour. He will be given every chance in the world to make good, as he has been recommended very highly to Manager Bresnahan.

AMES AND HUESTON TO SETTLE SUPREMACY.

Yachtsmen Meeting.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 19.—Yachtsmen from lower Great Lake ports convened here today for the spring meeting of the Interlake Yachting association. Jones of Albert Lea, Minn., going into second place, with a score of 607. The Conrads of St. Paul were high in the five-men event with a score of 2,558, and go into tenth place. Following were the other five-men high scores: Marshalltown, Iowa, 2,463; Willmar, Minn., 2,410; Tobins, St. Paul, 2,384; Conrad Cubs, St. Paul, 2,315.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—The Chicago Athletic association won the handicap meet of the central section of the A. A. U. here last night by a score of thirty-five points. The Illinois Athletic club and the Seventh Regiment Athletic association were tied for second place, each winning seven points. No records were broken. The Central Turners won the gymnastic events, the Milwaukee Turners coming in second.

JEFFRIES WAS CLEVER BOXER

W. W. Naughton, Famous Fistic Critic Says Jeff Was as Fast as Corbett.

"Jim Corbett will not have it that Jeffries 'outboxed' him or proved the 'cleverer' in the last contest in San Francisco.

"In a recently published article Jim attempts to pull to pieces my article in favor of Jeffries on the occasion referred to, and, as is his wont when dealing with adverse critics, tries to quench me in the most gentlemanly manner possible," says W. W. Naughton, the San Francisco fight expert.

"There is one thing I can say for Corbett. It has been my privilege at various times during the last quarter of a century—anyhow since 1886—to criticise Jim, not always harshly by any means, and I cannot recall that my bluntness ever brought me a scowl from the fellow I saddled with the fighting nickname of 'Pompadour Jim.'

"He was always pleasant to meet and converse with; always ready to admit that a sporting editor had a right to an honest expression of opinion, no matter how unpleasant reading it might make.

"But argument is argument, and here's to you, Jim:

"In dissecting my views, he says:

"'Now I'll tell you what gave this sporting writer an idea that Jeffries outboxed me in that San Francisco fight. In the second round of that contest Jeffries caught me with a hard left swing in the short ribs that knocked all the strength out of me and consequently robbed me of my speed.'

Better Than Corbett.

"That will do for the present. Jim says a whole lot more, but it is too long to quote, and I don't wish to garble it. I think I can make my point from the extract above given.

"Corbett was trained to the minute for that fight. He gave himself special preparation, in fact, and hoped by the use of crowbars, giant dumbells and other weighty apparatus to be able to gather some of the Jeffries strength on to the Corbett cleverness and thus make a combination that couldn't be beat.

"He had all the confidence that came from the knowledge that the world considered him a paragon of pugilistic science. He had the self-reliance that came from having stood off Peter Jackson, admittedly Australia's premier heavyweight. He had the further self-reliance that came to him from the fact that he had made a 'monkey' of Jeffries for over twenty rounds at Coney Island.

"He started out on this second fight clear-brained, stout-lunged, limber-muscled and nimble-footed. He began to fiddle and feint, to bewilder and tangle the giant in front of him; yet to take his own words for it, Jeffries upset all his plans and knocked all his knowledge, confidence and experience into a cocked hat 'with a hard left-hand swing in the short ribs that knocked all the strength out of him and robbed him of his speed.'

"Isn't that being outboxed? I think so. And what does being outboxed mean, anyhow? Isn't it the winner who outswims or outruns the other man or other men? Of course, it is.

"A little further along Jim says: 'Now I'm simply using this explanation to show my readers that Jeffries is not a clever boxer.'

Pointers on Cleverness.

"All right, Jim. But, pray, what constitutes cleverness? Can any kind of showing or performance that fails of its object be considered clever?

"When an army general, noted for his brilliant maneuvers, plans what he considers will be a series of baffling movements on a battlefield, and is led into a trap and smashed to a pulp by the opposing general, which is the clever man?

"Supposing even that General No. 1 had led the other general a merry dance for hours, but was finally cornered and conquered—isn't the conquering general the cleverer? I think so.

"Somewhere else Jim says:

"Even Jeffries himself lays no claim to exceptional ability as a boxer.

"Don't you believe anything of that kind. A statement of that character, in fact, suggests a lack of knowledge of human nature. There was never a man or woman either who excelled in any department of endeavor who did not consider himself or herself master of all the side lines in the connection.

"Jeffries does consider himself a highly finished boxer, or at least he did when he relinquished the game. He not only asked me prior to his fight with Corbett to watch if he did not outbox the former champion, but he inquired of me after the affair if I did not think he had made good in his ante-contest boast.

"In the old days Jeffries not only wished to be looked upon as an exponent of clever ringmanship, but he was consumed with the desire to look dapper and willowy in action. One time he undertook to reduce the size of his legs so that they might resemble the underpinning of a clever boxer rather than the massive supports of a thick-bodied strong man."

Atz Is Released.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—The release of Jacob Atz, second baseman of the Chicago Americans last season to the Providence, Eastern league club, was announced yesterday by President Charles A. Comiskey. Atz is given in part payment for Shortstop Blackburn.

SPEED MAKES WRESTLERS

Strong Men Do Not Become Champions Unless They Are Fast.

Rough Grapplers Seldom as Effective as Mat Artists With Speed.

(By Lloyd K. Jones.)

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Can the proposition of brute strength be entirely eliminated from grappling?

We have rough wrestlers, and we have some who are very ladylike, who depend not on their power of their muscles so much as on the superior sparking qualities of their minds.

Here are the two points of view:

The advocates of scientific grappling contend that it is a matter of science; that the contestants enter the ring not to pull out arms and legs, nor yet to crack bones, but to see which is the truly clever man.

The advocates of rough wrestling contend that if a man has annexed strength to skill he has every right to exercise that strength and should beat the weaker opponent by reason of the virtue of the "survival of the fittest."

The really rough wrestler is not necessarily the one that shows it—as, for example, Pardello and De Rouen. They do a great deal of theatrically rough work, but when compared with the jolts and jerks that Gotch throws into men it is pingpong and violets.

Until there has been some radical, basic change in the tastes of the animal man there will always be a desire to see muscular superiority. We can't eliminate the human nature part. We can never get away from the innate excitement of the battle.

Fred Beell tells a story that illustrates this point. At the time he and Gotch had their go in New Orleans a lady in one of the boxes grew nervous as the match progressed. She had picked Fred as her favorite and she pulled for him after the manner of Borax Smith's twenty-mule team. Having removed an enormous and, incidentally, costly picture hat, she seized upon the innocent headgear as the most likely thing on which to vent her muscular activity. Every time she rooted she took a pull at the hat. She jerked it one way and then another. Under the severity of the attack the plumes naturally became detached, until it was for the ostrich farm to weep and cry out.

By the time the meet had ended there was no more hat. It had gone down into the reaches of yesterday—and her husband, alack and alas, must have forfeited the keenest pleasure of the contest in thinking of tomorrow's millinery bill!

Crowd Likes Rough Matches.

When a dog kills a rat the crowd wants to see a bloody contest. When two game roosters dispute each other's rights the onlookers cheer and jump, and do other foolish things, because, as nature calculates, it is but a short time back to the period when man had to fight hand-to-hand with all other creatures, as well as with his fellow beings.

Now, in the matter of rough matches we must grant that the crowd likes them—and what the crowd likes the crowd usually gets.

The roughest wrestlers are generally the most speedy. What they do is accomplished quickly. Harvey Parker and Ed Adamson never tarried very long on any hold, but they used up big men, because what they did was done in a hurry and with accuracy.

The lumbering fellow, no matter how strong, is really never rough—unless his opponent is so much weaker that the very force of slow muscular action brings pain. Given any similarity in ability, the quicker man does the most damage.

Physical Power Is Not Ability.

The novitiate grasps at basic things—and generally winds up with fundamental fallacies. He imagines, for example, that ponderous display of physical power means great ability. Hence, the heavyweight lifter seems to him to be the type of strength that has no equal. He is wrong, because the very process of deliberate preparation would be of no avail in a case where the other fellow did things speedily.

Unfortunately there are very few speedy wrestlers in the heavyweight class. There are very few in the middle and welterweight classes. Many try to show speed, but the effort is so conscious it takes their time from the other things.

The man who actually has speed uses it automatically. It is the natural thing for him to do. Being natural, he is wasting no time or energy playing to the gallery, and this habit of wanting to make a hit loses many a fellow a match.

Speed, properly defined, is not simply the ability to travel a given distance in the shortest possible time. In the wrestler it is quickness plus execution.

Wrestler Should Always Improve.

Mahmout, the Turk, has considerable speed. He does a great deal of damage, because he [illegible] results in a hurry. To be sure, the wrestler may have to take time in executing a combination of holds, but once he has secured it, his work must be decidedly there in getting the proper holds in the first place.

The wrestler who has won most of the matches in which he has engaged loses sight of the fact that he has better men to meet. He forgets that he must improve or, failing in that improvement, remain far below the top notch of his profession.

A grappler should improve to some extent in each match. He should have learned only one little detail he did not know before the match, but he can go through a hold with greater skill, but as long as he has learned and has advanced, he is heading toward the higher places.

The majority of grapplers can be thrown with the same holds today that lost them matches two years ago. They have not improved.

There is also another fault to find with the majority—they either neglect training apart from their actual matches or they train with the same people continuously. A wrestling partner can be used up to a certain point. When two men have wrestled together innumerable times their experiences become mere acrobatic feats. They unintentionally do team work where they should be battling.

But these truths, so plain as to be axiomatic, are neglected by those who need them most. Application seems to be the thing most young grapplers lack.

Giants Will Train.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 19.—Twelve members of the New York National league baseball team who are here departed for Marlin Springs, Tex., for their spring training.

NEWS of the THEATER

AT THE BIJOU

Why Duluth Gets First Class Vaudeville at Popular Prices—Maud Hall Macy and Company Feature of Next Week's Bill.

Patrons of the Bijou these days are seeing about everything in the vaudeville line that is worth seeing. Manager Maitland is lending every effort to give Duluth as good vaudeville as any city can boast of, and the proof of it is the crowds that are attending each week.

The bill that will be presented commencing Monday afternoon should prove that Duluth is getting the best acts before the public. The booking arrangement of the Sullivan & Considine circuit is one of the best systems for obtaining good acts that has yet been put into operation. In New York city the owners of the circuit have a theater where all the American acts are given a try out. Those that are considered as good acts are given contracts for from sixteen to fifty weeks' work, and as the Sullivan & Considine circuit owns and books more theaters than any other circuit, it can offer the best of acts so many weeks employment that they can cut their salary a limited amount which enables the circuit to produce the best of vaudeville amusement at popular prices.

What is considered the feature attraction for the coming week, will be one of the best known character actresses in America, Miss Maud Hall Macy and her clever company in the beautiful rural comedy entitled "The Magpie and the Jay." Maud Hall Macy has just returned from a very successful tour of two years in Europe, where she played the principle vaudeville theaters of England, Germany, France, Russia, Scotland and Ireland. Following is a recent press comment from the London Era:

"The Bowery girl became a familiar figure of our stage with the arrival at the Shaftesbury theater in 1898 of Mamie Clancey and 'The Belle of New York,' and English audiences found points of resemblance between her and 'Arriet of 'Oxton. These similarities are emphasized in the latest sketch from 'the other side,' produced with immediate success at the Coliseum on Monday, and entitled 'The Magpie and the Jay.' This one-act rural comedy-drama, to give it its exact designation, tells the story of the admiration of a young farmer, Jay Bird, for a Bowery girl. * * * Miss Maud Hall Macy gives a fine character sketch of the girl from the Bowery; Mr. Carlton Macy is a quaintly humorous farmer; and Miss Bessie Carlton's rapid chatter as the old maid Nancy is decidedly mirth-provoking."

This act is one of the few sketches that has return European bookings, after she has appeared over the Sullivan & Considine circuit.

Louis Spellman, who is the Sullivan & Considine booking representative in Europe is not only sending to this country the greatest of gymnastic novelty acts, but is also booking some of the most noted singers and comedy acts of that country. On the program commencing Monday will be a real countess and one of royalty's most charming women. She is Countess Leontine, formerly wife of Count Perkifsky of Posen, Germany. After having secured her divorce she took up the operatic stage as a profession in which she has been starring for two years and by special arrangement she has been secured to play a vaudeville tour in America, and also to see the Western country, this being her first visit to the states. The countess will be heard in a series of new songs, and the public will have an opportunity of hearing a fine soprano voice that has had a thorough training by the best vocal instructors of Russia.

A very pleasing novelty will be offered by the Boyle Bros., who have an act of club juggling and hoop rolling that will be about the best that has ever been seen at the Bijou. Besides being jugglers of much ability they also introduce a brand of comedy that is very laughable and amusing.

One of the comedy hits of the week will be Billy Elwood, who is a clever monologist and has an excellent singing voice. He will be seen as the happy sailor. His stories are new and original and his songs snappy and up-to-date.

The big gymnastic feature for the week and one that comes direct from the New York Hippodrome and the London Hippodrome, where it played for an entire season, is the original Idanias troupe of women gymnasts. These marvelous artists perform a series of aerial feats that are marvelous to behold, and their beauty and gracefulness entitle them to the name of "Queens of the Air."

Earl Morse will sing the present song rage entitled: "Oh You Blondy." The slides of this song are said to be extra good. The moving pictures will conclude the feature bill of vaudeville and the subjects shown will be all new and exclusive. Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and night performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. A special school children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon at 2:30. All scholars under the age of 14 years will be admitted for 5 cents. Performances are given Sunday afternoon and night.

The Stock Company.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Lyceum the Yankee Doodle Stock company will offer a dramatization of Marie Corelli's popular romance of Norway "Thelma."

On Monday and Tusday nights the company will present a four-act war drama entitled "Marshing Through Georgia." The play has to do with the love of a Southern girl for a Northern officer, with whom she was acquainted before the warand whom she finds wounded near her home.

At the Wednesday matinee and on Wednesday night the bill will be a high class melodramo entitled "The Man of Mystery."

"A Mad Love" a dramatization of the novel "Lady Audley's Secret" will be the bill Thursday night.

Lyceum Notes.

David Belasco will present, for an engagement of four performances, at the Lyceum, beginning Thursday, March 3, with a matinee Saturday, David Warfield in "The Music Master," the tender comedy drama in which he achieved his greatest fame. The distinguished actor has not appeared here in "The Music Master." His artistic triumph in this play has been so great, and the popular elements of appeal so many, that the New York public demanded five consecutive seasons of this unique and human drama. Only for a few months was the long and unprecedented metropolitan engagement interrupted while a brief tour was made of a few of the largest cities of the country. En tour, as well as in New York, Mr. Warfield broke all records in the history of the American stage.

* * *

The Lyceum has arranged with A. E. Caldwell, the manager of Bernard Daly, to present his star in his new romantic play, "Sweet Innisfallen," at the Lyceum on Feb. 27 and 28. Mr. Daly for the past few seasons has played Dan O'Hara, Joe Murphy's hero in "Kerry Gow," and Mr. Daly proved as expert a horseshoer as Mr. Murphy and a much better singer.

* * *

"The Girl Question," will be at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday of next week. It is a Chicago musical production, and the press agent says of it:

"There is a snap, a dash, a life to the chorus girls and the musical numbers of 'The Girl Question' which makes it the fastest play ever seen in even that home of enormous successes, the La Salle theater, Chicago. It is a play of the same type as 'The Time, the Place and the Girl,' which up to the event of 'The Girl Question' set a new record for theatrical productions and long runs in Chicago."

The attraction at the Lyceum on Tuesday, March 8, will be Miss May Robson in her succesful comedy, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary."

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"Madame X" Creates Big Sensation--Divided Opinion Anent "Mid-Channel" Unanimous as to Ethel Barrymore--John Mason's New Play Amateurish.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The biggest sensation New York playgoers have experienced since the first night of Tully Marshall's graphic performance in "The City" was afforded them last week when Henry W Savage brought "Madame X" to the New Amsterdam theater in the height of its success in Chicago. This is the most thrilling melodrama that has come this way in a number of seasons. Not a performance passes but some hyserical incident in the audience is recorded. On the second night a young woman, during the tense scene of the last act, cried out: "Take me away. Take me away! I can't stand it." And she had to be escorted into the lobby amid a disturbance that spoiled the best scene in the play. In Paris, where the piece ran at the Porte St. Martin theater for some time last season, a man in the audience during the trial scene shouted to the actor impersonating the prosecuting attorney: "Stop torturing that woman!" and fell dead from apoplexy.

As a result of this high-tension interest the theater has been crowded every night and bids fair to establish a record for long runs. New York demands something to stir it out of its apathy. But it is not only the play that grips. Dorothy Donnelly is a wonderful impersonator of the role of Madame X, and develops all the sympathy and all the pathos that is in the drama.

In the first act—it is called a prologue—she is Jacqueline, the pretty, wayward wife of Louis Floriot, an attorney, from whom, two years before, she eloped, leaving her 2-year-old son behind. Now the boy, 4 years old, is pulling through a dangerous crisis. The anguished mother returns to her former luxurious home and begs to be allowed to see her son and be restored to her former position by the generosity of her husband. Floriot, who dotes on his son, is unrelenting toward the mother, and turns her heartlessly enough from the door. An hour later, after an interview with his best friend, he would gladly have forgiven Jacqueline, but it is too late, and the frail creature disappears from the scene of events for twenty years.

When we behold her again she has gone the pace that kills. Pallid, careworn, depraved, a victim of drugs and cigarettes, her hair cut short after a prison term in a South American jail, she enters a shabby room of the Three Crowns Inn at Bordeaux as the companion of an unscrupulous adventurer named Laroque, who has also served time across the Atlantic. Here a conspiracy is formed by Laroque and two scoundrels named Derissard and Merivel which precipitates the tragedy of Madame X's future fate. Moral derelict that she is, her love for her son, whom she has not seen in twenty-two years, survives. Her husband has become the president of the Toulouse court and is known as a distinguished jurist. Laroque and his companions plot to use Jacqueline's past history to extort from Floriot the sum of 125,000 francs, the amount of her marriage dowry. This sum was to go to her son on reaching his majority—24 years in France. In the attempt to prevent Laroque from carrying out this infamous plan she shoots him dead and is arrested.

She now becomes the mysterious Madame X, who positively defies all efforts of the police to make her tell the cause of the crime. By the inexplicable logic of fate, Raymond Floriot, her own son, is assigned to defend her in court. It is his first legal case and he looks forward to his ordeal with boyish anxiety. As president of the court, Floriot cannot preside at a trial in which his own son is an attorney, but not to miss Raymond's legal debut, he accepts the invitation of the judges to sit with them on the platform.

This brings us to the big scenes of the last act, the interior of the courtroom, where, haggard, old and apathetic, Madame X. sits in the full glare of the concentrated interest on a high platform just above the head of her young attorney. The reader must see the inevitable trend of this situation. Jacqueline recognizes her husband, but suppresses every show of feeling, save a covert expression of intense hatred. It is not till the prosecuting attorney, in his arraignment, mentions the name of her son that the enigmatic creature starts out of her sodden dullness. A loud scream resounds through the courtroom as she recognizes him. The effect of this is electrical.

Amazingly well acted as it is by Miss Donnelly, with perfect restraint, yet with every mark of affection for her son, which she dare not avow, it raises the interest to the highest pitch. Presently it is the young attorney's turn to address the court. He has been strangely affected by the mysterious woman who clutched his hand so convulsively and appeared to devour him with her eyes, and there are tears in his eyes and voice. At first he is confused; his thoughts ramble wildly. But he recovers his composure and launches into a touching defense. Every one is moved. The only mitigating circumstance advanced in the woman's favor is the declaration she made to the gendarme who arrested her, that she shot Laroque to prevent harm from befalling one she loved. Out of this circumstance the young attorney weaves a masterly defense and so works on the sympathy of the jury that they bring in a verdict of acquittal.

The woman faints and is carried from the platform in a chair where Floriot's old physician ministers to her needs. Floriot has ere this recognized his wife, and in the interval after the acquittal he tells Raymond that Madame X. is his mother. The scene of meeting between son and mother is one of the most touching that can be imagined. It forms an exhibition of exquisite tenderness. But the poor creature has suffered too much. When Raymond runs out to bring his father, her head falls slowly forward on her breast, and when Floriot and Raymond hasten to her side she is dead.

The big scenes of the play are in the hands of Miss Donnelly and William Elliott, who plays the son with remarkable spirit and show of sentiment, and fairly shared in the honors that fell to his companion. Robert Droutt is Floriot and Malcolm Williams plays Laroque.

* * *

At the Hackett Harrison Grey Fiske presented John Mason in a new play by Ernest Poole entitled "None So Blind," in which that excellent actor plays the role of a Western engineer who is building a bridge in Colorado and is stricken suddenly blind. He has been thus stricken for nine months when the curtain rises, and has gone to New York nominally to consult a famous engineer about the bridge, but in reality to recover his eyesight by an operation. He returns with his vision as good as ever, but on the advice of his assistant pretends blindness before his wife Anne and Frank Knowlton, an Eastern literary man, who is a guest at Howe's mountain cabin. Anne has been his best assistant during his blindness and he is devoted to her. He soon discovers, however, that Knowlton has had an evil influence on his wife. He has turned her mind to literary pursuits, has helped her write a book, and persuaded her that the prosaic engineer is not an ideal companion for her. Believing Howe blind, she pretends to be interested in her husband's work, as before; but Howe, seeing the hypocrisy by which he is surrounded, and persuaded that Anne will never be happy with him, arranges matters so that she may return to her home in New York. Anne does not yet suspect that her husband is making a heroic self-sacrifice for her, but she accepts the suggestion to spend a long visit in the East, and prepares to leave in the companionship of Knowlton.

In the last act Howe sits alone on the mountain, in the early dawn, with the mists around him. He has sought this isolation to spare himself the pangs of parting. But presently he is joined by Anne. She has had an awakening of her conscience. Having learned that her husband has had his sight restored and that he is sending her away to insure her happiness, she discovers that her heart is attached not to Knowlton but to her husband, and the play closes with an affecting scene of reconciliation.

Mason is admirable in the part of the husband. Mabel Roebuck plays the wife and Walter Hale is Knowlton. The construction of the play, however, is amateurish, and the splendid reception with which it was greeted was due more to the popularity of the star than the vehicle in which he appeared.

Ethel Barrymore is credited with a personal hit in Pinero's "Mid-Channel," at the Empire, but the play had a disagreeable theme and ends with the suicide of the heroine. She is married woman who is shown in the most unsympathetic relationship with the quarrelsome husband. Neither inspires any sympathy. Both characters are hard and unappealing. Both enter a liaison. Through the instrumentality of a friend they are brought together again, both agreeing to forgive. The husband confesses his error, but when the wife admits her guilt it is the man who refuses to condone her offense, and she destroys herself.

The title is explained by the metaphorical resemblance of married life to the reef midway between Folkstone and Boulogne in the English channel over which the sea, however smooth elsewhere, is always troubled. Miss Barrymore completely sinks her identity in the person of Zoe Blundell, who smokes cigarettes, swears like a rounder and makes no display of tenderness or that peculiar charm which is identical with the name of Ethel Barrymore. All the critics concede her the credit of projecting a vigorous artistic impersonation without relying on her personal attributes. Opinions on the play are divided.

One of those peppery French farces which have been gaining a decided vogue in New York of late, entitled "Where There Is a Will," was produced at Weber's theater, under the direction of Maurice Campbell, Henrietta Crosman's husband. Campbell is also the adapter of the piece, which was written by Gavault and Charvey, and in the original was known as "L'Enfant du Miracle." Some of the prigs watched it with ruffled brows, but the majority of the first-nighters thought it rather a clever treatment of a bold subject and laughed heartily. It is not in the category of coarse things like "The Girl From Rectors," or "The Moulin Rouge." On the contrary, it avoids everything approaching indelicacy, and it is only in the premise that the piece might shock the unsophisticated. The main feature of the plot is well worth telling.

Mrs. Dexter has been left a young, attractive widow by a husband much her senior, and now that he is dead she sets out to make up for lost opportunities to indulge her taste for luxuries, inclusive of a young man named William Emery, who has long been in love with her. She loves him, too, but for propriety's sake she bids him go away for a year and take a trip around the world, and he is no sooner out of sight than the discovery is made that Mrs. Dexter is in a sad plight financially unless her husband's last will is found to supersede a will made before his marriage. This will provides that if he should die without direct issue, his entire fortune shall go to the little village in Pennsylvania in which he was born, provided the board of councilmen of the town will erect a bronze statue of him in the town square.

Mrs. Dexter is childless, but Cornelius Skidmore, to whom she is indebted for $40,000 for a house on the Hudson, which he purchased on commission, hits upon a happy subterfuge in order to recover his money. He informs the executor of the estate that Mrs. Dexter has expectations, and then proceeds to marry the young widow secretly to Emery, with the cold-blooded calculation that there is yet time to substantiate his representation. The farce is taken up in detailing the adventures incident to the culmination of Skidmore's marital plans. Of course, Mrs. Dexter is at first shocked, but the prospect of losing $2,000,000 reconciles her to the notion of marrying Emery at once. Emery is supposed to be on the ocean, but turns up in New York, while wireless messages arrive at intervals from him in mid-ocean protesting his undying love. Matters are complicated by the arrival of a delegate from the town council which is to profit by Dexter's will, who attaches himself to Mrs. Dexter in order to make sure there is no underhand play in Skidmore's representation, and many amusing situations are created depicting the trials and tribulations of Mrs. Dexter, Emery and Skidmore, until the last will turns up, and it is found that the deceased has left his entire fortune to his wife.

May Buckley plays Mrs. Dexter, Charles Bradshaw is Skidmore and Stephen Maley represent an interesting bucolic character in the role of the town councilman.

Some actors have played behind nets; others have played behind screens, but few have played behind bars. Nevertheless, Nora Bayes and all the members of "The Jolly Bachelors" company, now enjoy the distinction of having acted within prison walls, for all the members of the cast appeared before the prisoners of the penitentiary at Providence, R. I.

Miss Bayes is especially proud of the fact that she almost succeeded in bringing tears to the eyes of the stony-hearted jailer. The actress, who is exceedingly tender-hearted, thought that the prisoners were very nice and well-behaved, so she voiced her sentiments to the warden.

"Think how horrible it is to be confined indoors on such a beautiful day," she said. "Couldn't you let them out in the sunshine for a couple of hours? I'm sure they would enjoy it, and think how grateful they will be."

The warden looked Miss Bayes straight in the eye and shook his head solemnly as though he could find no words to express his regret.

"Oh, oh, you stone-hearted jailer," exclaimed Miss Bayes, and she says the warden would have wept then and there had they not been interrupted by some of the other players.

One would hardly imagine that Helen Lowell, who essays the homely and grotesque old maid in "The Lottery Man," was really a pretty woman "off" stage. Nevertheless, such is the case. Although Miss Lowell has appeared in character parts during her entire career, she would not be out of place in the leading lady's role. The actress first came into prominence through her creation of Miss Hazey in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

The plot of "The Inferior Sex," in which Maxine Elliott is now starring, is said to have been imparted to its author, Frank Stayton, by no less important an exponent of the drama than E. H. Sothern. Both Mr. Sothern and Mr. Stayton are to be congratulated, the former for having invented an interesting theme, the latter for the excellent manner in which he has constructed the play.

In the hope of putting an end to the various reports and rumors which are being printed regarding the conductorship of the Boston Symphony orchestra, the management of the orchestra desires to state with utmost emphasis that the only musicians who have been considered for the post of conductor this year are Max Fielder, who has just been engaged for a further term of two years, and Dr. Karl Muck of Berlin. No other conductors have been approached, nor has the possibility of engaging any other than Mr. Fielder or Dr. Muck been even considered.

George C. Tyler, managing director of Liebler & Co., is agitating the enactment of a uniform child labor law, covering the case of stage children. When Liebler & Co. produced "Alias Jimmy Valentine" in Chicago, the rigorous factory laws there prohibited their employment of a child to play the part of little Kitty, whose wandering into a vault is veritably "the plot of the piece." A "dummy" had to be substituted, and the effect was weakened. In Boston, the restrictions are equally severe; also in the state of Maryland and Louisiana and elsewhere. It is Mr. Tyler's contention that the law was never intended by its framers to apply to stage children, whose work is usually less than a total of two hours a week; who are well cared for; always travel in the company of their parents or guardians, and who must necessarily be well educated and intelligent in order to satisfactorily fill their parts. Besides, they are well paid. The subject is one in which managers all over the country—and, consequently, audiences—are keenly interested.

The company of the New theater is to make a tour upon the conclusion of its first season toward the latter part of April. Boston, Providence, Hartford, New Haven, Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburg, St. Louis, Kansas City and Chicago are to be visited.

The new additions to the repertoire are "The Witch," which will have its premier tomorrow night; "Sister Beatrice," by Maurice Materlinck, together with the fourth act of Ibsen's "Brandt," "Beethoven," by Rene Frauchois, and Shakespeare's "A Winter's Tale." These plays will complete the twelve productions the New theater set out to make during its twenty-four weeks' season, together with ten lyric operas. The total number of productions will be twenty-two, an average of about one a week.

"Sister Beatrice" is a miracle play in three acts. It has been given with success abroad, but has never been produced here. For the New theater's presentation the play has been transposed into blank verse, and will be given with a musical accompaniment and such scenic features as are fitting to the mysticisms of the drama. The play is based on a medieval legend, the story of which is familiar through "The Nun," a ballad by John Davidson, and the poem, "Legend Provence," by Adelaide Anne Proctor. Maeterlinck's drama, however, is based on the original Dutch version of the tale. In brief, the story is that of Sister Beatrice, a nun, supposed to have been an inmate of a convent near Louvain in the thirteenth century. Because of her love for a man she renounces her vows and goes out into the world. As she leaves the convent the statue of the Virgin Mary descends from its pedestal, and, in the flesh and blood, takes up the duties of Sister Beatrice, for whom she is mistaken by the nuns. Years later Sister Beatrice, worn out by the sins of the world, returns to seek forgiveness, and the statue resumes its place on the pedestal. The penitent sister is told that she has never left the convent; that such a belief on her part is merely a delusion, and she keeps her secret to her death. The moral of the play is epitomized in the last lines, which read, "God pardons sin done without hatred. There is no sin forgiveness does not touch."

A new comedy was presented in Philadelphia Monday night. It is by A. E. Thomas, and is called "Her Husband's Wife," staged under the direction of Henry Miller. In the cast are Hope Crews, Grace Elliston, Nellie Roland, Orme Caldara, Robert Warwick and Arthur Lewis. The scenes are laid in Saratoga in the racing season. The idea of the plot is a young wife picking out a second wife for her husband without his knowledge or any probability of her own early demise.

If the production is made it will be for only four weeks in order to get a line on the possibilities of the play, which is scheduled for a New York hearing early in September. "Bobby Brunit" is a dramatization of George Randolph Chester's novel.

It has been the cherished ambition of Julia Marlowe to appera as Hamlet since all of the great actresses of the world have interpreted the role, and it is not unlikely that she may realize her wish before the end of the present season. Henry B. The latest one to miss fire is "The Heights," in which Frank Keenan was starring. It has been playing at the Savoy in New York, but closed last night. Meantime Harris is preparing another production, Rosenfeld's "The Children of Destiny." The courage and tenacity he has displayed are bound to win out, because luck will change eventually.

A newspaper paragraph was the means of bringing to light an extraordinary case of fraud perpetrated on three of England's foremost dramatists—A. Conan Doyle, J. M. Barrie and E. W. Hornung—by their dramatic agent, Addison Bright. Shortly after Bright's death in 1906, Hornung read in a newspaper that his play, "Raffles," had been presented in America more than 1,000 times. He had not received royalties for that number of performances. In the investigation which followed it was found that Bright had retained $140,000 royalties, of which $20,000 belonged to E. W. Hornung, $40,000 to Sir A. Conan Doyle and $80,000 to J. M. Barrie. The money has been refunded from Bright's estate.

William Norris, the famous and versatile actor, who is now featured as the Duke with Marguerite Clark in "The King of Cadonia," has completed arrangements for a series of performances at the Lustspielhaus, Berlin, next summer. He will play a variety of roles in English, appearing with the regular German company. It has already been specifically arranged that his first appearance shall be as the fool in Boker's version of "Francesca da Rimini," which he played with notable success for one entire year with Otis Skinner. Mr. Norris' Berlin appearance will be given during the American exposition in that city, and will, therefore, be especially timely.

Why Duluth Gets First Class Vaudeville at Popular Prices—Maud Hall Macy and Company Feature of Next Week's Bill.

Patrons of the Bijou these days are seeing about everything in the vaudeville line that is worth seeing. Manager Maitland is bending every effort to give Duluth as good vaudeville as any city can boast of, and the proof of it is the crowds that are attending each week.

The bill that will be presented commencing Monday afternoon should prove that Duluth is getting the best acts before the public. The booking arrangement of the Sullivan & Considine circuit is one of the best systems for obtaining good acts that has yet been put into operation. In New York city the owners of the circuit have a theater where all the American acts are given a try out. Those that are considered as good acts are given contracts for from sixteen to fifty weeks' work, and as the Sullivan & Considine circuit owns and books more theaters than any other circuit, it can offer the best of acts so many weeks employment that they can cut their salary a limited amount which enables the circuit to produce the best of vaudeville amusement at popular prices.

What is considered the feature attraction for the coming week, will be one of the best known character actresses in America, Miss Maud Hall Macy and her clever company in the beautiful rural comedy entitled "The Magpie and the Jay." Maud Hall Macy has just returned from a very successful tour of two years in Europe, where she played the principle vaudeville theaters of England, Germany, France, Russia, Scotland and Ireland. Following is a recent press comment from the London Era:

"The Bowery girl became a familiar figure of our stage with the arrival at the Shaftesbury theater in 1898 of Mamie Clancey and The Belle of New York,' and English audiences found points of resemblance between her and 'Arriet of 'Oxton. These similarities are emphasized in the latest sketch from 'the other side,' produced with immediate success at the Coliseum on Monday, and entitled 'The Magpie and the Jay.' This one-act rural comedy-drama, to give it its exact designation, tells the story of the admiration of a young farmer, Jay Bird, for a Bowery girl. * * * Miss Maud Hall Macy gives a fine character sketch of the girl from the Bowery. Mr. Carlton Macy is a quaintly humorous farmer, and Miss Bessie Carlton's rapid chatter as the old maid Nancy is decidedly mirth-provoking."

This act is one of the few sketches that has return European bookings, after she has appeared over the Sullivan & Considine circuit.

Louis Spellman, who is the Sullivan & Considine booking representative in Europe is not only sending to this country the greatest of gymnastic novelty acts, but is also booking some of the most noted singers and comedians of that country. On the program commencing Monday will be a real countess and one of royalty's most charming women. She is Countess Leontine, formerly wife of Count Perkifsky of Posen, Germany. After having secured her divorce she took up the operatic stage as a profession in which she has been starring for two years and by special arrangement she has been secured to play a vaudeville tour in America, and also to see the Western country, this being her first visit to the states. The countess will be heard in a series of new songs, and the public will have an opportunity of hearing a fine soprano voice that has had a thorough training by the best vocal instructors of Russia.

A very pleasing novelty will be offered by the Boyle Bros., who have an act of club juggling and hoop rolling that will be about the best that has ever been seen at the Bijou. Besides being jugglers of much ability they also introduce a brand of comedy that is very laughable and amusing.

One of the comedy hits of the week will be Billy Elwood, who is a clever monologist and has an excellent singing voice. He will be seen as the happy sailor. His stories are new and original and his songs snappy and up-to-date.

The big gymnastic feature for the week and one that comes direct from the New York Hippodrome and the London Hippodrome, where it played for an entire season, is the original Idanias troupe of women gymnasts. These marvelous artists perform a series of aerial feats that are marvelous to behold, and their beauty and gracefulness entitle them to the name of "Queens of the Air."

Earl Morse will sing the present song rage entitled: "Oh You Blondy." The slides of this song are said to be extra good. The moving pictures will conclude the feature bill of vaudeville and the subjects shown will be all new and exclusive. Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and night performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. A special school children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon at 2:30. All scholars under the age of 14 years will be admitted for 5 cents. Performances are given Sunday afternoon and night.

The Stock Company.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Lyceum the Yankee Doodle Stock company will offer a dramatization of Marie Corelli's popular romance of Norway "Thelma."

On Monday and Tusday night's the company will present a four-act war drama entitled "Marshing Through Georgia." The play has to do with the love of a Southern girl for a Northern officer, with whom she was acquainted before the warand whom she finds wounded near her home.

At the Wednesday matinee and on Wednesday night the bill will be a high class melodramo entitled "The Man of Mystery."

"A Mad Love" a dramatization of the novel "Lady Audley's Secret" will be the bill Thursday night.

Lyceum Notes.

David Belasco will present, for an engagement of four performances, at the Lyceum, beginning Thursday, March 3, with a matinee Saturday, David Warfield in "The Music Master," the tender comedy drama in which he achieved his greatest fame. The distinguished actor has not appeared here in "The Music Master." His artistic triumph in this play has been so great, and the popular elements of appeal so many, that the New York public demanded five consecutive seasons of this unique and human drama. Only for a few months was the long and unprecedented metropolitan engagement interrupted while a brief tour was made of a few of the largest cities of the country. En tour, as well as in New York, Mr. Warfield broke all records in the history of the American stage.

The Lyceum has arranged with A. E. Caldwell, the manager of Bernard Daly, to present his star in his new romantic play, "Sweet Innisfallen," at the Lyceum on Feb. 27 and 28. Mr. Daly for the past few seasons has played Dan O'Hara, Joe Murphy's hero in "Kerry Gow," and Mr. Daly proved as expert a horseshoer as Mr. Murphy and a much better singer.

"The Girl Question," will be at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday of next week. It is a Chicago musical production, and the press agent says of it:

"There is a snap, a dash, a life to the chorus girls and the musical numbers of 'The Girl Question' which makes it the fastest play ever seen in even that home of enormous successes, the La Salle theater, Chicago. It is a play of the same type as 'The Time, the Place and the Girl,' which up to the event of 'The Girl Question' set a new record for theatrical productions and long runs in Chicago."

The attraction at the Lyceum on Tuesday, March 8, will be Miss May Robson in her succesful comedy, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary."

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"Madame X" Creates Big Sensation--Divided Opinion Anent "Mid-Channel" Unanimous as to Ethel Barrymore--John Mason's New Play Amateurish.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The biggest sensation New York playgoers have experienced since the first night of Tully Marshall's graphic performance in "The City" was afforded them last week when Henry W. Savage brought "Madame X" to the New Amsterdam theater in the height of its success in Chicago. This is the most thrilling melodrama that has come this way in a number of seasons. Not a performance passes but some hysterical incident in the audience is recorded. On the second night a young woman, during the tense scene of the last act, cried out: "Take me away. Take me away! I can't stand it." And she had to be escorted into the lobby amid a disturbance that spoiled the best scene in the play. In Paris, where the piece ran at the Porte St. Martin theater for some time last season, a man in the audience during the trial scene shouted to the actor impersonating the prosecuting attorney: "Stop torturing that woman!" and fell dead from apoplexy.

As a result of this high-tension interest the theater has been crowded every night and bids fair to establish a record for long runs. New York demands something to stir it out of its apathy. But it is not only the play that grips. Dorothy Donnelly is a wonderful impersonator of the role of Madame X, and develops all the sympathy and all the pathos that is in the drama.

In the first act—it is called a prologue—she is Jacqueline, the pretty, wayward wife of Louis Floriot, an attorney, from whom, two years before, she eloped, leaving her 2-year-old son behind. Now the boy, 4 years old, is pulling through a dangerous crisis. The anguished mother returns to her former luxurious home and begs to be allowed to see her son and be restored to her former position by the generosity of her husband. Floriot, who dotes on his son, is unrelenting toward the mother, and turns her heartlessly enough from the door. An hour later, after an interview with his best friend, he would gladly have forgiven Jacqueline, but it is too late, and the frail creature disappears from the scene of events for twenty years.

When we behold her again she has gone the pace that kills. Pallid, careworn, depraved a victim of drugs and cigarettes, her hair cut short after a prison term in a South American jail, she enters a shabby room of the Three Crowns Inn at Bordeaux as the companion of an unscrupulous adventurer named Laroque, who has also served time across the Atlantic. Here a conspiracy is formed by Laroque and two scoundrels named Derissard and Merivel which precipitates the tragedy of Madame X's future fate. Moral derelict that she is, her love for her son, whom she has not seen in twenty-two years, survives. Her husband has become the president of the Toulouse court and is known as a distinguished jurist. Laroque and his companions plot to use Jacqueline's past history to extort from Floriot the sum of 125,000 francs, the amount of her marriage dowry. This sum was to go to her son on reaching his majority—24 years in France. In the attempt to prevent Laroque from carrying out this infamous plan she shoots him dead and is arrested.

She now becomes the mysterious Madame X, who positively defies all efforts of the police to make her tell the cause of the crime. By the inexplicable logic of fate, Raymond Floriot, her own son, is assigned to defend her in court. It is his first legal case and he looks forward to his ordeal with boyish anxiety. As president of the court, Floriot cannot preside at a trial in which his own son is an attorney, but not to miss Raymond's legal debut, he accepts the invitation of the judges to sit with them on the platform.

This brings us to the big scenes of the last act, the interior of the courtroom, where, haggard, old and apathetic, Madame X. sits in the full glare of the concentrated interest on a high platform just above the head of her young attorney. The reader must see the inevitable trend of this situation. Jacqueline recognizes her husband, but suppresses every show of feeling, save a covert expression of intense hatred. It is not till the prosecuting attorney, in his arraignment, mentions the name of her son that the enigmatic creature starts out of her sodden dullness. A loud scream resounds through the courtroom as she recognizes him. The effect of this is electrical.

Amazingly well acted as it is by Miss Donnelly, with perfect restraint, yet with every mark of affection for her son, which she dare not avow, it raises the interest to the highest pitch. Presently it is the young attorney's turn to address the court. He has been strangely affected by the mysterious woman who clutched his hand so convulsively and appeared to devour him with her eyes, and there are tears in his eyes and voice. At first he is confused; his thoughts ramble wildly. But he recovers his composure and launches into a touching defense. Every one is moved. The only mitigating circumstance advanced in the woman's favor is the declaration she made to the gendarme who arrested her, that she shot Laroque to prevent harm from befalling one she loved. Out of this circumstance the young attorney weaves a masterly defense and so works on the sympathy of the jury that they bring in a verdict of acquittal.

The woman faints and is carried from the platform in a chair where Floriot's old physician ministers to her needs. Floriot has ere this recognized his wife, and in the interval after the acquittal he tells Raymond that Madame X. is his mother. The scene of meeting between son and mother is one of the most touching that can be imagined. It forms an exhibition of exquisite tenderness. But the poor creature has suffered too much. When Raymond runs out to bring his father, her head falls slowly forward on her breast, and when Floriot and Raymond hasten to her side she is dead.

The big scenes of the play are in the hands of Miss Donnelly and William Elliott, who plays the son with remarkable spirit and show of sentiment, and fairly shared in the honors that fell to his companion. Robert Droutt is Floriot and Malcolm Williams plays Laroque.

At the Hackett Harrison Grey Fiske presented John Mason in a new play by Ernest Poole entitled "None So Blind," in which that excellent actor plays the role of a Western engineer who is building a bridge in Colorado and is stricken suddenly blind. He has been thus stricken for nine months when the curtain rises, and has gone to New York nominally to consult a famous engineer about the bridge, but in reality to recover his eyesight by an operation. He returns with his vision as good as ever, but on the advice of his assistant pretends blindness before his wife Anne and Frank Knowlton, an Eastern literary man, who is a guest at Howe's mountain cabin. Anne has been his best assistant during his blindness and he is devoted to her. He soon discovers, however, that Knowlton has had an evil influence on his wife. He has turned her mind to literary pursuits, has helped her write a book, and persuaded her that the prosaic engineer is not an ideal companion for her. Believing Howe blind, she pretends to be interested in her husband's work, as before; but Howe, seeing the hypocrisy by which he is surrounded, and persuaded that Anne will never be happy with him, arranges matters so that she may return to her home in New York. Anne does not yet suspect that her husband is making a heroic self-sacrifice for her, but she accepts the suggestion to spend a long visit in the East, and prepares to leave in the companionship of Knowlton.

In the last act Howe sits alone on the mountain, in the early dawn, with the mists around him. He has sought this isolation to spare himself the pangs of parting. But presently he is joined by Anne. She has had an awakening of her conscience. Having learned that her husband has had his sight restored and that he is sending her away to insure her happiness, she discovers that her heart is attached not to Knowlton but to her husband, and the play closes with an affecting scene of reconciliation.

Mason is admirable in the part of the husband. Mabel Roebuck plays the wife and Walter Hale is Knowlton. The construction of the play, however, is amateurish, and the splendid reception with which it was greeted was due more to the popularity of the star than the vehicle in which he appeared.

Ethel Barrymore is credited with a personal hit in Pinero's "Mid-Channel," at the Empire, but the play had a disagreeable theme and ends with the suicide of the heroine. She is married woman who is shown in the most unsympathetic relationship with the quarrelsome husband. Neither inspires any sympathy. Both characters are hard and unappealing. Both enter a liaison. Through the instrumentality of a friend they are brought together again, both agreeing to forgive. The husband confesses his error, but when the wife admits her guilt it is the man who refuses to condone her offense, and she destroys herself.

The title is explained by the metaphorical resemblance of married life to the reef midway between Folkstone and Boulogne in the English channel over which the sea, however smooth elsewhere, is always troubled. Miss Barrymore competely sinks her identity in the person of Zoe Blundell, who smokes cigarettes, swears like a rounder and makes no display of tenderness or that peculiar charm which is identical with the name of Ethel Barrymore. All the critics concede her the credit of projecting a vigorous artistic impersonation without relying on her personal attributes. Opinions on the play are divided.

One of those peppery French farces which have been gaining a decided vogue in New York of late, entitled "Where There Is a Will," was produced at Weber's theater, under the direction of Maurice Campbell, Henrietta Crosman's husband. Campbell is also the adapter of the piece, which was written by Gavault and Charvey, and in the original was known as "L'Enfant du Miracle." Some of the prigs watched it with ruffled brows, but the majority of the first-nighters thought it rather a clever treatment of a bold subject and laughed heartily. It is not in the category of coarse things like "The Girl From Rectors," or "The Moulin Rouge." On the contrary, it avoids everything approaching indelicacy, and it is only in the premise that the piece might shock the unsophisticated. The main feature of the plot is well worth telling.

Mrs. Dexter has been left a young, attractive widow by a husband much her senior, and now that he is dead she sets out to make up for lost opportunities to indulge her taste for luxuries, inclusive of a young man named William Emery, who has long been in love with her. She loves him, too, but for propriety's sake she bids him go away for a year and take a trip around the world, and he is no sooner out of sight than the discovery is made that Mrs. Dexter is in a sad plight financially unless her husband's last will is found to supersede a will made before his marriage. This will provides that if he should die without direct issue his entire fortune shall go to the little village in Pennsylvania in which he was born, provided the board of councilmen of the town will erect a bronze statue of him in the town square.

Mrs. Dexter is childless, but Cornelius Skidmore, to whom she is indebted for $40,000 for a house on the Hudson, which he purchased on commission, hits upon a happy subterfuge in order to recover his money. He informs the executor of the estate that Mrs. Dexter has expectations, and then proceeds to marry the young widow secretly to Emery, with the cold-blooded calculation that there is yet time to substantiate his representation. The farce is taken up in detailing the adventures incident to the culmination of Skidmore's marital plans. Of course, Mrs. Dexter is at first shocked, but the prospect of losing $2,000,000 reconciles her to the notion of marrying Emery at once. Emery is supposed to be on the ocean, but turns up in New York, while wireless messages arrive at intervals from him in mid-ocean protesting his undying love. Matters are complicated by the arrival of a delegate from the town council which is to profit by Dexter's will, who attaches himself to Mrs. Dexter in order to make sure there is no underhand play in Skidmore's representation, and many amusing situations are created depicting the trials and tribulations of Mrs. Dexter, Emery and Skidmore, until the last will turns up, and it is found that the deceased has left his entire fortune to his wife.

May Buckley plays Mrs. Dexter, Charles Bradshaw is Skidmore and Stephen Maley represent an interesting bucolic character in the role of the town councilman.

Some actors have played behind nets; others have played behind screens, but few have played behind bars. Nevertheless, Nora Bayes and all the members of "The Jolly Bachelors" company, now enjoy the distinction of having acted within prison walls, for all the members of the cast appeared before the prisoners of the penitentiary at Providence, R. I.

Miss Bayes is especially proud of the fact that she almost succeeded in bringing tears to the eyes of the stony-hearted jailer. The actress, who is exceedingly tender-hearted, thought that the prisoners were very nice and well-behaved, so she voiced her sentiments to the warden.

"Think how horrible it is to be confined indoors on such a beautiful day," she said. "Couldn't you let them out in the sunshine for a couple of hours? I'm sure they would enjoy it, and think how grateful they will be."

The warden looked Miss Bayes straight in the eye and shook his head solemnly as though he could find no words to express his regret.

"Oh, oh, you stone-hearted jailer," exclaimed Miss Bayes, and she says the warden would have wept then and there had they not been interrupted by some of the other players.

One would hardly imagine that Helen Lowell, who essays the homely and grotesque old maid in "The Lottery Man," was really a pretty woman "off" stage. Nevertheless, such is the case. Although Miss Lowell has appeared in character parts during her entire career, she would not be out of place in the leading lady's role. The actress first came into prominence through her creation of Miss Hazey in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

The plot of "The Inferior Sex," in which Maxine Elliott is now starring, is said to have been imparted to its author, Frank Stayton, by no less important an exponent of the drama than E. H. Sothern. Both Mr. Sothern and Mr. Stayton are to be congratulated, the former for having invented an interesting theme, the latter for the excellent manner in which he has constructed the play.

In the hope of putting an end to the various reports and rumors which are being printed regarding the conductorship of the Boston Symphony orchestra, the management of the orchestra desires to state with utmost emphasis that the only musicians who have been considered for the post of conductor this year are Max Fielder, who has just been engaged for a further term of two years, and Dr. Karl Muck of Berlin. No other conductors have been approached, nor has the possibility of engaging any other than Mr. Fielder or Dr. Muck been even considered.

George C. Tyler, managing director of Liebler & Co., is agitating the enactment of a uniform child labor law, covering the case of stage children. When Liebler & Co. produced "Alias Jimmy Valentine" in Chicago, the rigorous factory laws there prohibited their employment of a child to play the part of little Kitty, whose wandering into a vault is veritably "the plot of the piece." A "dummy" had to be substituted, and the effect was weakened. In Boston, the restrictions are equally severe; also in the state of Maryland and Louisiana and elsewhere. It is Mr. Tyler's contention that the law was never intended by its framers to apply to stage children, whose work is usually less than a total of two hours a week; who are well cared for; always travel in the company of their parents or guardians, and who must necessarily be well educated and intelligent in order to satisfactorily fill their parts. Besides, they are well paid. The subject is one in which managers all over the country—and, consequently, audiences—are keenly interested.

The company of the New theater is to make a tour upon the conclusion of its first season toward the latter part of April. Boston, Providence, Hartford, New Haven, Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburg, St. Louis, Kansas City and Chicago are to be visited.

The new additions to the repertoire are "The Witch," which will have its premier tomorrow night; "Sister Beatrice," by Maurice Materlinck, together with the fourth act of Ibsen's "Brandt," "Beethoven," by Rene Frauchois, and Shakespeare's "A Winter's Tale." These plays will complete the twelve productions the New theater set out to make during its twenty-four weeks' season, together with ten lyric operas. The total number of productions will be twenty-two, an average of about one a week.

"Sister Beatrice" is a miracle play in three acts. It has been given with success abroad, but has never been produced here. For the New theater's presentation the play has been transposed into blank verse, and will be given with a musical accompaniment and such scenic features as are fitting to the mysticisms of the drama. The play is based on a medieval legend, the story of which is familiar through "The Nun," a ballad by John Davidson, and the poem, "Legend Provence," by Adelaide Anne Proctor. Maeterlinck's drama, however, is based on the original Dutch version of the tale. In brief, the story is that of Sister Beatrice, a nun, supposed to have been an inmate of a convent near Louvain in the thirteenth century. Because of her love for a man she renounces her vows and goes out into the world. As she leaves the convent the statue of the Virgin Mary descends from its pedestal, and, in the flesh and blood, takes up the duties of Sister Beatrice, for whom she is mistaken by the nuns. Years later Sister Beatrice, worn out by the sins of the world, returns to seek forgiveness, and the statue resumes its place on the pedestal. The penitent sister is told that she has never left the convent; that such a belief on her part is merely a delusion, and she keeps her secret to her death. The moral of the play is epitomized in the last lines, which read, "God pardons sin; done without hatred. There is no sin forgiveness does not touch."

A new comedy was presented in Philadelphia Monday night. It is by A. E. Thomas, and is called "Her Husband's Wife," staged under the direction of Henry Miller. In the cast are Hope Crews, Grace Elliston, Nellie Roland, Orme Caldara, Robert Warwick and Arthur Lewis. The scenes are laid in Saratoga in the racing season. The idea of the plot is a young wife picking out a second wife for her husband without his knowledge or any probability of her own early demise.

It is quite possible that Henry B. Harris will make a production of "Bobby Burnit" this spring. If the production is made it will be for only four weeks in order to get a line on the possibilities of the play, which is scheduled for a New York hearing early in September. "Bobby Brunit" is a dramatization of George Randolph Chester's novel.

It has been the cherished ambition of Julia Marlowe to appera as Hamlet since all of the great actresses of the world have interpreted the role, and it is not unlikely that she may realize her wish before the end of the present season. Mr. Sothern is said to have promised that she shall appear as the Melancholy Dane in the near future, when he will be seen as the king.

Mlle. Adeline Genee announces that she will be married June 1 in London. She will play one more season, however, under the management of Klaw & Erlanger before she retires from the stage. Nannette Comstock, leading lady with Robert Hilliard, will be out of the cast for some time owing to burns received in a gasoline explosion in Providence.

Henry B. Harris has been having an exceptionally unfortunate season of failures this year, but in spite of disheartening circumstances has gone along trying a new play each time fates made it necessary for him to withdraw a production. The latest one to miss fire is "The Heights," in which Frank Keenan was starring. It has been playing at the Savoy in New York, but closed last night. Meantime Harris is preparing another production, Rosenfeld's "The Children of Destiny." The courage and tenacity he has displayed are bound to win out, because luck will change eventually.

A newspaper paragraph was the means of bringing to light an extraordinary case of fraud perpetrated on three of England's foremost dramatists—A. Conan Doyle, J. M. Barrie and E. W. Hornung—by their dramatic agent, Addison Bright. Shortly after Bright's death in 1906, Hornung read in a newspaper that his play, "Raffles," had been presented in America more than 1,000 times. He had not received royalties for that number of performances. In the investigation which followed it was found that Bright had retained $140,000 royalties, of which $20,000 belonged to E. W. Hornung, $40,000 to Sir A. Conan Doyle and $80,000 to J. M. Barrie. The money has been refunded from Bright's estate.

William Norris, the famous and versatile actor, who is now featured as the Duke with Marguerite Clark in "The King of Cadonia," has completed arrangements for a series of performances at the Lustspielhaus, Berlin, next summer. He will play a variety of roles in English, appearing with the regular German company. It has already been specifically arranged that his first appearance shall be as the fool in Boker's version of "Francesca da Rimini," which he played with notable success for one entire year with Otis Skinner. Mr. Norris' Berlin appearance will be given during the American exposition in that city, and will, therefore, be especially timely.

F. F. Connor, who will direct Sarah Bernhardt's American tour next season, has received from that remarkable actress the list of plays which she wishes to present in America. They are "L'Aiglon," by Edmond Rostand, "Jeanne D'Arc," by Emile Moreau, "Les Bouffons," by Miguel Zamacois, "Sapho," by Alphonse Daudet, "La Sorciere," by Victorien Sardou, "Camille," "La Beffe," with Bernhardt presents this month in Paris. "Adrienne Lecouvreur," by herself; "Phedre," "La Rampe," by Rothschild; "La Tosca," by Victorien Sardou; "Un Coer D'Homme," by herself; "Le Passe," by G. de Porto-Riche, and "Faust." She will leave France with her company at the end of October and will open in New York in November.

Mann, One of the Personal Lieutenants of the Speaker—Prominent Inherited Lieutenants, and What They Do—The Work of "Whip" Dwight, Who is in a Lieutenant Group All By Himself—The Confidences That Are Poured Into His Ears When He Acts as a "Go-Between."

Written for the Herald by E. J. Edwards ("Holland")

(Copyright, 1910, by E. J. Edwards.)

These are the days when it seems as if every other man you meet sooner or later begins to talk about Speaker Cannon and "his lieutenants."

"His lieutenants"—that's all. But they seem to fill an important part in the general political thought and conversation of the hour.

But these lieutenants—who are they, what do they do, and how do they do it, in backing up their chief, who, just now, seems to be waging the fight of his life—for his political life.

Not few, but many, they are in number, and both inherited and of personal choice, and into several distinct and separate classifications, or groups, they fall.

There is the "kitchen cabinet," composed of a very few leaders of the house, with whom the speaker advises most. There is the rules committee, of which the speaker himself is a member. There are the strictly personal lieutenants of the speaker, who operate in the open. There are the chairmen of the big house committees, most of whom are inheritances. And, in a group all by himself, must be placed the Republican party "whip," who drives the organization band wagon—or tries to—when the organization leaders—the other lieutenants—have decided upon a definite line of action. In several instances the groups overlap, as in the case of Mr. Dwight, who is also a member of the "kitchen cabinet," but as groups each is distinct and sharply marked, and has its own work to do in upholding the hands of the speaker.

Inherited lieutenants? Yes—most certainly yes, though there is no gainsaying the fact that the speaker of the house has the power to appoint house committees and their chairmen as he sees fit. But with very few exceptions, during the last thirty years, succeeding speakers have inherited the house committees organization. Chairmen of committees rise to these places of distinction almost invariably by reason of seniority on the committees on which they serve. When Mr. Cannon became speaker he changed the chairmanship of only one large committee in the house from what it had been when David B. Henderson was speaker. When the Democrats were in power and Crisp was speaker, the seniority on the house committees was not disturbed. The ranking Democrat on each committee under the previous Republican speaker was made chairman of the committee, and the Republican who had been chairman remained the ranking Republican member.

In this congress, Mr. Cannon has removed two insurgents, Representatives Cooper of Wisconsin, and Gardner of Massachusetts, from chairmanships because they are insurgents against Cannonism. He has also demoted other insurgents who might, in the course of events, have become chairmen of committees in a comparatively short time. The speaker also can, and does, appoint or designate personal lieutenants to himself. Such a designation Speaker Cannon has made in the case of Representative James R. Mann of Chicago, who is his "watch dog" on legislation. Another is Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois, who is chairman of the Republican congressional committee. Both of these men are chairman of prominent committees of the house.

Speaker Cannon's "Kitchen Cabinet."

Because the house, to be run in any fashion whatever, must have some sort of organization, and because a large part of this organization, from custom, is inherited by speaker after speaker, some persons prefer to speak of "the lieutenants or the speakership," instead of "the lieutenants of the speaker," as applied to Mr. Cannon. But whichever way you prefer to put it, it is a fact that one of the sights of Washington has long been an automobile party composed of Speaker Cannon, Representative Sereno E. Payne of New York, chairman of the ways and means committee and floor leader of the Republican majority in the house, and Representatives John Dalzell and George F. Huff of Pennsylvania. Immediately after the adjournment of the house each day, this small coterie can frequently be seen speeding down Pennsylvania avenue to their homes. It has long been the general belief that under the roof of this automobile a few minutes each day, these few men have hatched more of the destiny of the house of representatives since Mr. Cannon has been speaker, than all the rest of the house put together. Messrs, Cannon, Payne and Dalzell were long regarded by the general public as the "three guardsmen" of protectionism in congress. This notion was not dispelled until Mr. Payne, in the recent tariff session, broke with his two colleagues and came out for a general revision of the tariff downward. Nevertheless, with "Whip" John W. Dwight and Representative James R. Mann of Chicago, Messrs, Payne and Dalzell were, and still are, members of the "kitchen cabinet" of Speaker Cannon.

Mr. Payne is the "heavyweight" member of this cabinet. He weighs in the neighborhood of 300 pounds and has a tremendous girth, about which he is more or less sensitive. During the tariff session, Mr. Payne, of course, had occasion to go to the White House frequently to consult with the president, and there was interviewed daily by a reporter with a waist-line almost as large as his own. Mr. Payne invariably refused to discuss his mission at the White House with newspaper men, and this reporter finally wrote a story about Mr. Payne's visit in which he said:

"Mr. Payne waddled to the White House again today."

The next day Mr. Payne called again. He got some distance from the entrance before the fat reporter saw him leaving. When, after a desperate run, he finally caught up with Mr. Payne and asked him for news, Mr. Payne replied:

"Tell your paper I have no news except to say that I called at the White House and that its reporter waddled out after me to make this inquiry."

Recently, the same man joshed Mr. Payne about his "waddling," whereupon the New Yorker replied:

"You must walk around with a looking glass in front of you all the time."

When Mr. Payne wants to make an appeal to the Republicans of the house, he can do it in the most sobful oratory ever heard in that body. Oratorically speaking, Mr. Payne almost weeps his words, while, at the same time, roaring them out like the bull of Bashan. What he has to say is well worth listening to, and he is everywhere regarded as an able and conscientious legislator.

One of the most ridiculous sights in the house is that of Mr. Payne and Mr. Dalzell in conference. The only way Mr. Dalzell can whisper in Mr. Payne's ear is for the latter to sit down, for he is not only taller than Mr. Dalzell, but his tremendous paunch keeps the 135-pound Pennsylvanian at arms length during their conversations. Consequently, Mr. Dalzell has chosen a seat on the floor directly behind that of Mr. Payne, so that he can converse with him without being heard all over the house.

The Coke Congressman.

Least known to the general public of the "kitchen cabinet," Representative George F. Huff could very well be called the coke congressman, for the double reason that he represents the Pennsylvania district, where the coke industry is greatest in this country and is himself president of one of the largest coke and coal companies in Americans. Like so many famous Pennsylvanians, Mr. Huff learned a trade while in the employ of the Keystone State's most famous railroad. Then he switched over to banking, and ever since—that was when he was a young man, and he is now 67—he has been of growing financial influence in the western part of his state. He is very proud of the fact that he was one of the famous "306" who tried, under Conkling's

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

CHURN DRILLS ON CORDOVA

Second Hole to be Started to Determine Commercial Ore Body---Fine Developments at Warrior---Williams Shaft in Ore.

Globe, Ariz., Feb. 19.—The churn drills in use at the Cordova Copper company's mineral claims in the Miami district has drilled to the depth of 500 feet, at which point the location will be abandoned and a second prospect hole will be started farther eastward. About 300 feet of chalcocite disseminated through the schist was drilled through, this giving promise of a commercial ore body which the drilling operations at other locations will be required to determine. The underground level work from the Sullivan shaft is being directed toward the location of the drill, and will eventually develop the ore being located by the drilling. A raise has been started from the level, and will be continued upward from the 475-foot level to further explore the schist body in which the drifts have been already partly developed.

Warrior.

The regular daily shipments of seventy-five tons of ore assaying 10 per cent copper are being sent from the Warrior mine to the El Paso smelter.

As heretofore, all of the ore is chrysocolla and is mined from the stopes between the 200 and 300-foot levels. The advance work on the 300-foot level is being directed westward and continues to develop ore of an average copper content of 200 pounds to the ton.

A raise is also being put up from this level, and for practically its full height is in ore of 9 per cent copper content, or better. The drill hole put down on the Long View claim near the Miami property's northern boundary is in schist carrying some copper and considerable pyrite. The drill is being moved westward to the second location. Seventy-five men are employed by the Warrior Development company.

National.

The Williams shaft of the National Mining Exploration property, at a depth of 548 feet, is in quartzite, the crevices of which show hematite stain. In this formation, there occur also occasional bunches of copper carbonate.

So far, the work in the Williams shaft has not been interfered with, in any appreciable degree, by water, there being so little moisture at the depth where the work is being done that water for use in drilling has to be brought from the surface.

It is considered likely that the Williams shaft will encounter ore at a depth of 600 feet or more. Supt. H. W. Woodward is maintaining a force of about twenty-five men in mining and surface work.

GOOD ORE AT LIVE OAK MINE

Average Copper Content of All Workings Given at 2.7 Per Cent---Preparations for Underground Work on an Extensive Scale.

Globe, Ariz., Feb. 19.—Five working faces being advanced daily on the 300-foot level of the Live Oak mine continue to develop ore of a good commercial grade. One of these, a raise from the junction of Drifts Nos. 306, 309 and 310, has been driven over ninety feet vertically, with no decrease in the copper content of the schist.

The four drifts being driven in the western part of the mine have an average length of 160 feet, and the ore through which these are being driven up to date has an average assay value of 2.7 per cent copper. The recent sampling of the entire workings confirms the daily assay reports made during the course of the development work, so that the value of the ore body thus far developed is accurately known. With a force of forty men employed, this property is rapidly being developed into one of the future great copper producers of the Globe quadrangle.

Preparations for underground work on an extensive scale have been practically completed by the Live Oak Development company. A ten-drill air compressor, now on the ground, should be in operation at the portal of the Sulphide tunnel within two weeks. The air pipes are already in place at the mine in readiness for connection with the compressor. Power for the compressor will be furnished by two 100-horse power boilers. With the aid of the air drills, hundreds of feet of drifting to thoroughly block out the large sulphide ore body and explore new territory should be accomplished monthly.

During the past week, drifting and raising on the 300-foot level has been progressing as usual. Drift No. 308, driven west, measures 277 feet; west drift, No. 310, is 209 feet long; south drift, No. 311, measures 115 feet; Drift No. 312, driven east, is 41 feet long; Drift No. 313, on which work was begun about a week ago, is being driven west from the Sulphide tunnel south of the shaft and has attained a length of thirty-five feet. All of the working faces of the Live Oak mine are in ore of excellent commercial grade. As soon as the necessary equipment can be secured, prospecting the Live Oak property with two churn drills will be commenced as an auxiliary to the underground work.

CALEDONIA MINE IS BOUGHT

Biggest Deal in Coeur d'Alene District for Many Years---Culmination of Lengthy Negotiations for Control of the Property.

The biggest mining deal affecting property in the Coeur d'Alenes since the sale four years ago of the Morning mine by Larson & Greenough to the Federal Mining & Smelting company for $3,000,000, was closed last week in New York, when a syndicate of bankers and railroad men bought 520,000 shares of the Caledonia Mining company, 40 per cent of its issued capital stock at $1.50 a share, or a total of $[illegible],000.

This sale, which places a cash value on the mine of $2,000,000, was negotiated by E. J. Carter of Helena, Mont., and his brother, Senator Thomas H. Carter, the former having been elected to the vice presidency of the Caledonia company, vice Jack Keating, resigned, to represent the Eastern interests on the board of directors.

This sale is the culmination of long pending negotiations for a control of the Caledonia mine by the interests represented by Mr. Carter, who is no longer associated in any way with F. Augustus Heinze, the delay in concluding the deal being wholly due to the fact that the original owners would not part with a majority of the stock.

The Caledonia group cosists of six claims, adjoining the old Sierra Nevada mine, one of the bonanza properties of early days, at Wardner. It was located by Jack Keating and others in 1885, but never had much more than the annual assessment work done on it until it was bought by Kratzer & McKinnis of Wallace in July, 1907. They organized the Caledonia company with a capital of $1,500,000 to acquire and work it, selling treasury stock to defray the expenses of its development and equipment.

The present officers of the company have all been interested in the enterprise from the start, with the exception of Mr. Carter, who took the place of Jack Keating. The officers are: President, A. B. Campbell of Finch & Campbell, Spokane; vice president, E. J. Carter, Helena, Mont.; secretary-treasurer and manager, Charles McKinnis, Wallace, Idaho; directors, Jack Hayes, Wardner, Idaho, and C. Fred Kratzer, Spokane. Other large shareholders who also still retain the major part of their interests are: W. Frank Nicholls, D. E. Keys and A. P. McRae of Mullan, Idaho, and Henry White of the White & Bender company and Jesse Freeman of Wallace, Idaho.

The active deevlopment of the mine was begun in March, 1908, the financial panic of the previous fall having rendered the task of raising working capital almost impossible. Shipments were begun exactly a year later, and to date ore to the net value of $125,000 has been produced from development work alone, no stoping having as yet been done. This ore was for the most part hand sorted into two grades for shipment to the smelter, one netting $40 a ton and the other $160. Of the latter class no fewer than five cars have been shipped that netted above $5,000 to the car, and streaks of ore of generally gray copper have been encountered in the workings that ran 3,000 ounces in silver to the ton. Shipments at present are at the rate of twenty tons a day, but during this month they will be permanently increased to an average of thirty tons daily.

AT THE SUPERIOR & BOSTON

Ore Going to the Arizona Commercial Smelter Carries 9 Per Cent Copper---Sinking of Winze Has Been Resumed.

Globe, Ariz., Feb. 19.—On Feb. 8, the Superior & Boston Copper company began shipping about fifty tons of ore to the Arizona Commercial smelter daily. The copper content of this ore is about 9 per cent. The ore to make up the smelter shipments is being obtained, partly from the store on hand in the ore bins at the McGaw shafts, and partly from the raises being put up on the Great Eastern vein from the sixth level. One of these raises, located seventy-five feet east from the Great Eastern winze, measures twenty-five feet. The other raise, 100 feet west of the winze, is fifty feet high.

The sinking of the Great Eastern winze from its present depth of thirty feet below the sixth level has just been resumed, and in the future a small hoist now located on the 400-foot level will be installed at the winze on the 600-foot level.

A force of men has resumed drifting east along so-called Iron Ledge fault at the 60-foot level of the workings from the McGaw shaft. The thirty-five foot sump of the McGaw shaft has been completed and the driving of the crosscut which is to form the 30,000-gallon pump station sump on the sixth level has advanced forty-five feet. By means of this sump, the foundation of the pump should be kept perfectly firm and dry. It is expected that this sump will be completed by Feb. 20, and at that time the installation of a 1,000-gallon Prescott pump will be commenced. As soon as this pump is installed, the sinking of the McGaw shaft to a depth of 800 feet will be resumed.

On the 400-foot level of the Gardner shaft, the long drift being driven west, should reach a point 300 feet under the Black Oxide winze within a day or two. The material through which this drift has been driven for the past few days carries a high percentage of manganese.

The branch of the Arizona Eastern railroad, now under construction from Globe to the McGaw shaft of the Superior & Boston mine, has been built half way across the company's property. When finished, this road should greatly facilitate the transferring of supplies to the mine.

Supt. J. D. Wanvig is employing over 100 men. President William G. Rice and Consulting Engineer F. H. Probert are now in the Globe on business connected with the Superior & Boston Copper company's interests.

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Stocks Under Normal, as Rail Shipments Have Been Unusually Heavy—Lake Company Finishes First Month as Steady Producer—Four Drills Now at Work on Indiana.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—An investigation of the local metal situation reveals a condition considerably better than that noted in the same periods of the previous two years, when the local stocks of the metal were unusually large. Since the close of navigation in December, shipments of metal by rail have been unusually heavy and continued so quite up to a week ago. As a consequence local stocks are under normal. It is usual at this time of the year to allow the metal to accumulate against shipment by water, and this is now being done, only such metal being moved as is necessary for immediate consumption. The production of the district is being maintained at a rate materially greater than that in former years and for the month of January is estimated at 9,260,127 pounds, compared with productions slightly in excess of 18,000,000 pounds for the years 1909 and 1908.

Lake.

The Lake Copper company has rounded out its first month as a steady producer. In this time the rate of production has very nearly doubled, and the prospects are that a further increase will follow in the months to come. The present rate of production is around 200,000 pounds fine copper monthly, secured from the milling of less than 175 tons of rock daily. No attempt is being made to force production and no attention paid to selection, the rock being milled just as it comes from the openings. Drifting is in progress at eight points from the second to the sixth level inclusive, in addition to crosscutting at the sixth level and shaft sinking below that depth. The character of the new ground opened in the Lake lode is not materially different from that opened in the past and is on the whole exceptionally rich. Development work in the new epidote lode is confined to drifting in one direction and is resulting in the disclosure of first-class copper ground. This lode is showing so well where cut in the shaft that a further investigation of the lode will be made by crosscutting at the fifth level above. An upraise is being cut at the end of the north drift at the second level to provide much-needed ventilation. The diamond drill operating to the northward of the shaft in an attempt to locate the exact strike of the Lake lode at that point has not yet brought about the desired result and as a consequence little is known at this time concerning the Lake lode beyond what is evident in the openings already created.

Bohemia.

The Bohemia Mining company is losing no time in making an investigation of its property and already has a diamond drill on the ground ready to put down the first of a series of drill holes that will be sunk in this tract. Work done preliminary to diamond drilling indicates that the overburden on this property is very light, a matter of considerable importance both in the present diamond drill work and in the shaft sinking that will follow. The territory about to be drilled lies in the presumed horizon of the Lake and Indiana lodes and it is the location of these lodes toward which the first work will be directed.

North Lake.

The operation of the North Lake company continues centered in diamond drilling in an attempt to locate the extensions of the several lodes disclosed by diamond drilling on the neighboring Lake and Indiana properties. Two diamond drill outfits are in service. One of these drills have reached a depth of about 1,000 feet and is rapidly nearing the depth at which the disclosure of the Lake lode may be expected.

Indiana.

The Indiana company recently had another drill outfit put into service on its property and is conducting exploratory work with four machines. The company recently located two very rich copper bearing beds and these will be further tested for values by the new machine recently installed.

Trimountain.

Recent developments in the Trimountain mine of the Copper Range company indicate that the bar of poor ground in which Shafts No. 1 and 2 have been sinking for more than a year past is being left behind and that a continuation of the good ground exposed in Shafts No. 3 and 4 to the northward can reasonably be looked for below this lean zone. The improvement noted is that at the twentieth level in the No. 2 shaft, in which the crosscut has advanced eighteen feet within the lode disclosing first-class commercial ground. The No. 1 shaft is as yet without this improvement. Both these shafts have proven rather discouraging in the more recent years and have driven several lifts without exposing copper ground in commercial quantities. The Nos. 3 and 4 shafts are holding their own and that end of the mine is looking first rate. The Trimountain has produced at the rate of about 500,000 pounds fine copper monthly or less than one-third as much as is being produced by the sister companies, Champion and Baltic.

MANY CHANGES TO BE MADE

Merger of Copper Properties Controlled By Amalgamated Will Result in Numerous Official Changes—Supt. John Gillie Reported to Have Resigned—Attorney Kelley Going to New York.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The chief matter of interest in mining affairs in Butte among all classes is the merger of all the copper properties owned and controlled by the Amalgamated Copper company. Many discuss the subject from the standpoint of the wage earner as to whether there will be a curtailment of the output or a complete shutdown of the mines in consequence of the large reported surplus, while others consider the merger solely from the standpoint of the number of changes likely to be made among the officials and clerical force. One of the objects of the merger is said to be a reduction in the cost of operating, and it is already whispered about that the bookkeepers and clerks in the different mine offices are to be brought under one head with a view of reducing the entire force about one-half. There are rumors in general circulation also that some important changes are likely to take place among the higher officials. Gossip of a somewhat more or less reliable character is to the effect that John Gillie, at present general superintendent of the Amalgamated Copper company, has already tendered his resignation to take effect on April 1, and that he will be succeeded by B. H. Dunshee, at the present time assistant general superintendent of the Amalgamated. It is also stated that John G. Moroney, at present vice president and manager of the Daly Bank & Trust company, will assume the active management of the business affairs of the merged companies. Attorney Con F. Kelley, at present chief counsel of the Amalgamated Copper company and now in New York looking after the legal end of the merger, will be removed from this city to New York to look after the legal interests of the company. As each of the various mines at the present time has a superintendent it is believed that some of them will be dispensed with. The cost of production of the Amalgamated, North Butte and Coalition is now about 10 cents a pound and it is stated that with various changes proposed soon after April 1, together with the electrification of the different plants, under the merger copper will be produced for a figure somewhere around 8½ cents a pound.

Basis of the Merger.

The report that J. P. Morgan is out of the deal for the proposed copper merger for the present, is not surprising to Western copper men in view of the statement authoritatively made a few weeks ago that the original merger plan had practically been abandoned. The smaller merger now being formed, it is said, came as a result of a readjustment and entirely new plans that were not contemplated before the Standard Oil decision came from the federal court and upset the scheme that was then pending. It has been said that a great deal of the merger talk since then has been in the interest of the market and to help out a pool in Amalgamated. That is the going talk in Butte, but how much foundation there is for it is not known.

What concerns Western stockholders of the Anaconda, North Butte, Butte Coalition and other companies that are to be taken into the Anaconda merger is the basis at which their holdings are to be absorbed. Coalition holders are especially anxious. Many of them secured their stock at $35 to $40 per share, bought at a time when the stock was not worth, intrinsically, nearly so much as it is worth now. Men familiar with the underground conditions of both properties decare that, capitalization aside, Butte Coalition is right now worth more per share than North Butte is, and yet Coalition has been the ragged goat in the Cole-Ryan camp for years. It is said on authority that the company is earning $1.75 per share at the present price of copper, and has, or should have, at least $4,000,000 in the treasury. And so, stockholders are anxious to know something.

May Drop Heinze.

Word comes from Wardner, Idaho, that an effort is being made to drop F. Augustus Heinze from the directorate of the Stewart Mining company. The property has been idle for a considerable time and the large stockholders are decidedly adverse to the non-progressive policy being pursued by the directors, much of which is laid at the doors of Heinze. It is stated that with Heinze out of the way a progressive board of directors would be chosen and the mine put in operation. The Stewart is in a good district.

To Install Big Dredge.

The Conrey Dredging company at Alder, in Madison county, has arranged for the construction of the largest dredge in the United States upon its property near the mouth of Alder gulch. It will cost $250,000, will dig to the depth of sixty feet and handle 200,000 cubic square yards of gravel monthly. It will be operated by electricity and every piece of machinery will be operated by its separate motor. It is expected to have the dredge ready for operation by Sept. 1.

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Greatest Discovery of Ore in Sixty Years' History of Marquette Range Made by George J. Maas Ten Miles West of Ishpeming—Randville District Receiving Much Attention.

A discovery of ore which will probably prove much the greatest in the sixty years' history of the Marquette iron range has been made in the territory ten miles west of Ishpeming. The achievement is another signal triumph for George J. Maas of Negaunee, Mich. An immense deposit has been found, and by the use of diamond drills.

Some ten years ago Mr. Maas discovered at what is now theMaas mine at Negaunee the largest single body of ore so far developed in the Marquette district. This find also was made by diamond drilling. That ore existed in the tract was doubted by most mining men, and when Mr. Maas set up his tripods and began boring into the earth's crust there were many direful predictions of the outcome. But the skeptics were put to rout when it was announced that a deposit of millions of tons of high-grade ore had been located and the property had been leased to the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company at a sliding scale of royalties, which meant a fortune for the fortunate discoverer. Now Mr. Maas has surpassed even his feat at Negaunee.

The territory to the west of the Ishpeming field had been given little attention prior to three or four years ago, when Mr. Maas acquired options and leases on a large acreage and began exploratory operations. The overburden is heavy and of necessity the diamond drill must be employed. It has been known for some time that Mr. Maas has been finding ore, but it has not been realized that his success has been as notable as has now proved the case. Only a small portion of the acreage under control has yet been extensively tested, but already there has been found a deposit of high-grade ore which rivals that of the Maas mine and enough is known to assert that the probable value of the entire tract is of surprising magnitude.

Adjoins the American.

The Maas discovery has been made on lands directly adjoining the American mine, ten miles west of Ishpeming, and which mine M. A. Hanna & Co. of Cleveland took over a few years ago. The exploratory operations have centered in one forty-acre tract in section 31, 48-28. Twenty-one drill holes have been put down, the last one, and in which the results have been the most important, only 425 feet west of the American property. In this last hole the ledge was encountered at a depth of 189 feet. Hard specular ore averaging 66 per cent in metallic iron and .045 per cent in phosphorus was struck at a point 383 feet below the surface. It continued unbroken for twenty feet. Beneath this deposit is a formation of mixed specular and jasper, and at a depth of 500 feet hard hematite ore of Bessemer quality. This hematite averages 60 per cent iron and .036 per cent phosphorus, although some samples show only .010 per cent phosphorus. The drill passed through seventy-two feet of solid ore below the 500-foot station, and then entered a dyke in which it continued for ten feet, the ore reappearing at that depth and continuing unbroken to a point 626 feet beneath the surface, making in all 116 feet of hematite of exceptionally fine grade.

Mr. Maas, who naturally is elated at the results of his exploratory work, declares that the importance of the discovery can hardly be realized. Estimated on the basis of the different qualities of the ore already encountered, the extent of the deposit in the forty-acre tract which is being tested is startling. Mr. Maas figures that on the present showing there are not less than 15,000,000 tons of the hematite alone and not less than 237,000,000 tons of mixed ore, which can be concentrated. The specular ore and jasper lying above the hematite alternate in layers a few inches in thickness all through the mixed formation. Mr. Maas has had the matter of concentration under consideration the past two years and he says the mixed ore can be transformed into a merchantable product easily and economically. Each ton of the material will yield fully one-third of a ton of high-grade specular ore, than which there is no finer in the world.

Big Mine Assured.

While the deposits already found give assurance of a big and profitable mine, it is not the belief that all the ore contained in the forty-acre tract has yet been discovered. It is the supposition that much more hematite lies beneath the last body penetrated and which extends only to a depth of 625 feet. This opinion is based on the cores extracted from a 3,265-foot drill hole, put down last summer to test the formation; on the showing in the workings of the American mine, at

RUMORS DENIED BY HOATSON

Says There Will Be No Changes in Officers of Calumet & Arizona at Annual Meeting of Stockholders in April.

Bisbee, Ariz., Feb. 19.—Capt. Thomas Hoatson, one of the moving spirits in Calumet & Arizona affairs, also in Superior & Pittsburg, who was here for a week, devoted some time to an inspection of underground workings of the Calumet & Arizona. Capt. Hoatson expressed himself as very well pleased indeed with underground conditions at the Calumet & Arizona.

Development work in the big sulphide body recently discovered on the 1,350-foot level of the Oliver continues with great encouragement. The belief that this body extends to the 1,450-foot level has been strengthened, and if it proves true it will be one of the most remarkable finds in the history of the district.

Other work at the Calumet & Arizona and Superior & Pittsburg goes on the same as usual, with nothing of a startling nature to report. The shipments to the smelter continue up to the average.

Rumors continue to fly through the air regarding new officers and a new board of directors for the Calumet & Arizona when the annual meeting of the stockholders occurs in April.

"Is there any foundation for these rumors?" was a question asked of Capt. Hoatson.

"So far as I know, there will be no change in officers or directorate," said Mr. Hoatson. "Of course these rumors have come to our ears and there appears to be more rumors in Bisbee than there are in Calumet. If there is any movement looking toward a change in Calumet & Arizona management I don't know it."

Shattuck & Denn.

Shattuck, Ariz., is now shipping to the Copper Queen smelters the richest ore that has gone out of this camp in many years. The ore coming from the 500-foot and 600-foot levels is averaging 16 and 17 per cent copper and Shattuck is producing at the rate of 1,500,000 pounds per month with a net profit of $100,000 each thirty days. Not a bad showing, to say the least.

At the Denn-Arizona, which is controlled by the same group of men as the Shattuck & Arizona, approximately thirty-five men are employed. The pumps are handling 950 gallons of water per minute. The development work consists principally of drifting on the 1,350-foot level to cut the body of the shipping ore which was encountered on the 1,250-foot level and from which ore to the value of $10,000 was sent to the Copper Queen smelters. Some work also is being done in the east drift, which is looking good.

SHOWED A LARGE INCREASE

Nipissing Company's Progress in 1909 Was Satisfactory—Dividends Increased $660,000, Surplus $1,322,985, and the Ore Reserves Are Growing.

Cobalt, Ont., Feb. 19.—In a leaflet inclosed in the letter which brought the shareholders their dividends for the first quarter of 1910, the Nipissing Mining company outlined the company's progress during the year that has just passed.

The summary shows an increase in all sections. The tonnage of ore shipped was 3,005 tons greater in 1909 than in 1908. The total amount of dividends was increased $660,000 during the year, and the actual cash surplus was $402,510.34 greater than in 1908.

In addition to these figures, General Manager Watson reports that the ore reserves have been materialy increased during the year, and that very little stoping was necessary to keep up the standard equipments, which were the largest that left the Cobalt camp during the twelve months ended Dec. 21 last.

During 1909 the company shipped 6,510 tons of ore valued at $2,210,364 net, meaning that during 1909 nearly 5,000,000 ounces of silver were shipped to the smelters. In 1908 the company shipped 3,505 tons of ore valued at $1,263,783 net. The increase over 1908 output was therefore $846,581.

On Jan. 1, 1910, the cash surplus in the treasury was $1,322,985. This was composed of cash in bank, $819,223.86; ore in transit and in the smelters, $413,033.64; and ore sacked at the mine ready for shipment, $90,780. This total amount, compared with the surplus of $920,475.16 as the total on the first day of January, 1909, shows an increase of $402,510.34.

The total dividend disbursements of the company during 1909 and including the dividend paid two weeks ago, amounted to $1,500,000, which was the highest ever paid in one year by a Cobalt company. During 1908 the total dividend disbursements amounted to only $840,000.

The vein that will perhaps show the greatest development during the present year is No. 122, discovered in August of last year in drifting close to No. 54 shaft. This vein has also been worked from a drift at a depth of seventy-five feet. At the present time the company is continuing the shaft to a greater depth and will probably carry the shaft down until two stations are cut and working.

The vein on the 75 foot level showed from two to fifteen inches of high-grade ore the richness of which may be seen from the report for the month of August last year, when in drifting ninety-five feet along the vein $93,000 worth of ore was taken out.

No. 6 shaft, on the north side of the lake, is also producing first-class ore from the 175 and 275-foot levels. The ore on the upper level is of a higher grade than that on the lower level.

At the Meyer shaft drifting and crosscutting have just been commenced at the 200-foot level, while considerable development work is being done in the Fourth of July shaft on the vein of that name, and also on Vein No. 100. These three shafts are the only ones being worked on the town side of Cobalt lake.

The famous Kendall vein and cross vein are both reached by means of the Kendall shaft. This shaft has produced the most silver of any of the shafts on the property during the year. The two veins have been worked on the 75 and 145-foot levels of the shaft. On the richest of the ore shoots in the vein stopes are being operated.

BIG RADIUM VEIN IS FOUND

Discovered Near Leonia, Mont.—Gold Also Contained in Streak Fifteen Inches Wide—Lost Lead in Homestake Mine Rediscovered.

Helena, Mont., Feb. 19.—What is pronounced to be the greatest radium vein ever discovered in the United States is announced from Leonia, Lincoln county. In addition the vein contains gold ore which assays $356 to the ton, together with some sapphires. The vein is said to be fifteen inches wide, and to make sure of its exact nature an expert was summoned from New York and he made the declaration quoted concerning the nature of the strike. A company has been formed for the operation of the property with J. H. Snatherly as president, W. A. Gohr as vice president and James Angell as secretary-treasurer. Angell is now in the East negotiating with New York and Chicago capitalists for systematic operation of the property.

The lost lead in the Homestake mine in the Bitter Root valley, about two miles from McClains spur on the Northern Pacific, has been rediscovered and rich ore with values in both copper and gold and ranging in width from 20 to 30 feet has been found. The history of the mine covers almost half a century. It has cost several mining men their fortunes. About fifty years ago a prospector asserted that he had opened a vein of rich ore in the mountains near where McClains spur now exists, and his description tallied uniformly with the present location of the Homestake. Then he disappeared. That some credence was given to his tale is shown by the fact that twenty-five years later two other prospectors, McKay and Provan, began operations and struck a vein of gold and copper, but they considered it of too poor a grade to operate profitably

NEW RECORD MADE AT MIAMI

Nearly Thousand Feet of Drifting Completed in One Week---Latest Plans Increase the Concentrator Capacity to 3,000 Tons Daily.

Globe, Ariz., Feb. 19.—A new record for underground development work was made last month by the Miami Copper company's drillers, when the total length of drifts, raises and shafts reached 3,800 feet. During last week, 939 feet of driving was done and this marks the greatest advance yet made in a single week. At this rate the Miami ore body, so far proven, will have been completely blocked out within a few more weeks, with the exception of that part at the southwestern portion now being prospected with very satisfactory results by three Star churn drills.

A drift is being driven on the 370-foot level of the main workings toward the Captain claim, where the drills are operating, and this will be the first underground work to enter the ore body on this part of the Miami property. All these drills are located within a radius of 400 feet of drill hole No. 1, and each one has drilled through over 200 feet of chalcocite ore of an exceptionally good grade. The drift being driven toward this location has not yet entered the sulphide area, but passes through ground of some mineralization.

The second large haulage level will soon be connected with the No. 4 shaft. This level is 150 feet below the 420-foot haulage level and will be the extraction level for all ore below the upper tramway. Timber sets for the station at the lower level are now being put in, and the tramway is being enlarged to the proper size for the ore tram.

At the concentrator site, formations for three additional units, making a total of nine units, are being set, and the steel construction should be started at the portions already completed during this week. According to the new plan, the concentrator will have a capacity for treating 3,000 tons of ore per day, instead of 2,000, as was originally intended.

The concrete walls and machine foundations for the power plant are well under way at the foot of the hill on which the concentrator is being built. Tools for the steel work at the concentrator and the machinery for the power plant are expected to arrive within a few days. Preparations are being made to commence the pipe line to furnish water for the concentrator and power plant. The Old Dominion mine will be the main source of supply and the water will be pumped through pipes to the concentrator water tanks. Buildings for the accomodation of the future working force are being continually added to these already completed during the past week. The employes at present number over 600 men, but this force will probably be decreased when the steel work begins.

THIS is a Vermilion Range iron property, located on the famous "Section 30" iron formation, three miles east of Ely, Minn., in Township 63 North, Range 11 West. Our property has the endorsement of the most practical and expert iron mining men in the Lake Superior district. An iron mine of high grade ore has been developed on the adjoining forty acres within the past six months, and as iron ore has been located with diamond drills within 300 feet of the east line of our property, it is the opinion of well-posted iron men that the property controlled by this company contains a large body of iron ore.

Development work is now in progress under the personal supervision of Capt. James Bale, President and General Manager of the Company.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

OLD INDIAN ACTIVE ONE

John Smith, Who Will Soon Be 100 Years Old, Very Spry.

Boasts of Having Killed Six Sioux in Portage Lake Fight.

Walker, Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—One hundred years old this coming June is the age of John Smith, an Indian brave, victor in many battles and possessor of innumerable scalps.

Old John arrived in Walker this week from his Mud Lake allotment in Upper Cass county and was on his way to interview Agent John Frater regarding his pine holdings.

Wants Money Now.

"Me die soon,' said the old buck; "happy hunting grounds in little while—wuh! Want money; no good after dead; heap good now," continued the wizened warrior as he loaded a pondrous pipe with kine-ne-ki-nick and thrust the long stem between his toothless gums.

The old Indian is known as being one of the oldest Indians of his tribe. Notwithstanding his age he is able to navigate with those of much younger years, and while his face is wrinkled with the passing of many Great Suns, there is still the clear eye and certain lithness of limb which the well preserved members of the tribe maintain until the Great Father calls them for their last hunt.

John boasts of killing six Sioux Indians in the early days, the fight occurring at Portage lake, seven miles from here.

LACK OF PRODUCERS

Is President Underwood's Theory of High Cost of Living.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 19.—President F. D. Underwood of the Erie railroad is visiting in Milwaukee. To sensational newspapers and public agitators he attributes the existing high price food market. He believes if these two agencies would subside for a while things would soon resume normal conditions. Mr. Underwood believes there are too many non-producers and unscientific men. MINER ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Returning From Rabbit Hunt When Companion's Gun Goes Off.

Laurium, Mich., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Andrew Boulmer, a miner working for the Keweenaw Copper company at Mandan, aged about 40, living with his wife and son at Mohawk, is in a critical condition as the result of a gun shot wound he received a few days ago while returning from rabbit hunting.

Boulmer, Madson, and another companion, Matti Kearnan, had been in the woods most of the day and were returning home with ten rabbits. The former was walking about thirty feet ahead of Madson, when the latter's gun was accidently discharged, the shot striking Boulmer in the neck and shoulder and some penetrating his lungs. He was carried by his companions to the road and while one of them made him as comfortable as possible, the other ran to Mandan for a sleigh to carry him home. It was found upon examination that the wound was a very serious one.

Providing the Gogebic range companies are absorbed it is the intention to build transmission lines and extend the waterwpower service to the plants taken over. The construction of an electric railroad connecting Ashland and the Gogebic range country is a possibility.

THE BEMIDJI CONFERENCE.

Northern Minnesota has found itself.

After years of ineffectual struggles without unison or common purpose, Northern Minnesota, through the gathering held at Bemidji Thursday and Friday, is a unit for the common good. What it has sought without avail as a collection of remote, unacquainted and more or less inharmonious sections, it will demand henceforth as a single body, backed by all the power of the aroused public spirit of thirty counties, covering half the area of the state.

The Bemidji conference is, without exaggeration, the biggest and most important incident that ever took place in Northern Minnesota, if not in the entire state. Duluth's part in it, equally without exaggeration, is the most valuable thing Duluth ever did. The organization of the Northern Minnesota Development association crystalizes into effective form the static force of public sentiment and makes it dynamic. The movement for the development of the northern sections, backed by this organization, will be as different from that which preceded it as modern hydraulic pressure is from that of the same amount of water sent through a hundred garden hose nozzles.

The force needed to give Northern Minnesota its just due has been here all the time, but it has been ineffective because it has been unorganized. Now this scattered force has been concentrated by the dynamo of organization at a meeting which for earnestness, enthusiasm and sincere and purposeful determination never has been equalled in this state.

HAMILTON'S GREATEST MISTAKE.

Alexander Hamilton is as largely responsible for the adoption of the protective tariff as a policy of this nation as any other man. The patriot fathers, at first, were all free traders. The early tariff measures were for revenue first, and only incidentally for protection. The first tariff schedules were not high enough, and they were raised; but it was because they didn't produce revenue enough, not because they didn't provide protection enough. Hamilton it was who concentrated public thought upon the policy of protection, and his famous "Report on Manufactures" is the original textbook of the protectionist school.

In that report he said: "When a domestic manufacture has attained to perfection and has engaged in the prosecution of it a competent number of persons, it invariably becomes cheaper. Being free from the heavy charges which attend the transportation of foreign commodities, it can be afforded, and accordingly seldom or never fails to be sold, cheaper in process of time than was the foreign article for which it is a substitute. The internal competition which takes place soon does away with everything like monopoly, and by degrees reduces the price of the article to the minimum profit on the capital employed. This accords with the reason of the thing and with experience."

That was 109 years ago, and Hamilton's confident prophecy of the effect of protection in lowering prices and destroying monopoly hasn't come true yet; and it never will come true, under present conditions.

Yet that theory of ultimate cheapness was the glittering bauble which led this nation on to the adoption of the protective system. It was absolutely essential to the argument that induced the American people to apply the principle of protection and to embark upon the promising experiment of taxing themselves rich. They did tax themselves to make riches; but they never have had their share of those riches.

It didn't work out as Hamilton thought it would—and he was honest in his belief. Competition didn't destroy monopoly. Competition destroyed itself; and out of its ashes rose the menacing form of monopoly—greedy, arrogant, remorseless, predatory.

Competition began by eliminating the weaker factors, who fell by the wayside from time to time, their fall assisted by the stronger competitors through rebates, price-cutting and other wellknown bludgeons. Then the stronger ones, assuring each other and themselves that such competition is bad business, concluded to get together and stop it. They worked thenceforth as one, and joining hands for their common purpose they kept the Republican party as a sideshow, buying it with campaign contributions and getting in return high protective schedules which kept out all foreign competition. Domestic competition being dead, foreign competition being barred out by the tariff, and there being no regulation of business in the people's interests, the nation lay prostrate at the feet of greed. The arraying of vast fortunes on one side and widespread poverty on the other, with the big middle class struggling between to make both ends meet, and to keep out of the pauper class; the nation's moral strength undermined by the example of extravagant living and democracy's machinery prostituted to the cause of greed: these tell the story of protection.

Had Hamilton not argued that protection would result in cheaper living protection never would have been adopted. His argument has been proved mistaken a thousand times over, but protection is still with us.

REAL ESTATE AS AN INVESTMENT.

Wall street, by keeping the stock market in a state of perilous uncertainty with a view of convincing congress and the courts that they ought to go light on business regulation, is in one way building better for the country than it knows.

Whatever effect the experiences of the past month or so—and they are but repetitions of frequent occurrences in the market—may have upon the gambler-speculator, they are pretty certain to show the conservative investor that stocks are dangerous things to stake his money upon. Stocks are too high today, and too low tomorrow. Almost never do they reach and maintain for any appreciable period the level of their real values. If they did that, Wall streets would be put out of business in a month; so Wall street takes pains to see that they don't do it. To keep the game going, Wall street pushes stocks up to attract the occasional gambler, and sells them to him at the top. Then it pounds stocks down and scares him out at the bottom. Next it buys his stocks back from him for less than they are worth, pushes them up again and sells them back to him for more than they are worth; and so it goes, year in and year out. The farmer and the gambler both lose, in this game, for the percentage in favor of the house is about a hundred to one.

Now that investors have had their lesson in the hazardous nature of stock-gambling, Wall street is going to lose some business. There is plenty of money in the country, and it is not going to remain idle. Its owners are going to look about for new and safer outlets for their investments, and there isn't much doubt about what the new outlet is going to be—it will be real estate.

After a perilous and heart-breaking experience with stocks, there is something very attractive about good, substantial dirt. It isn't like stock certificates, which are "worth" a lot of money today, a lot less tomorrow, and maybe good for nothing the next day. It is there, and it stays there; you can go and stand upon it and see that it is good, and that it is yours. Wall street can't juggle it out of your possession. Wall street can't make that apple of investment turn to ashes in your hands.

And when capital, sobered and chastened by its bitter Wall street experiences, turns to the land for investment, where is it going to find a more certainly profitable outlet than in Duluth? Duluth is growing steadily, and presently it will be growing as steadily, but much more rapidly. With its growth the values of its real estate, now very low compared with similar property elsewhere, must advance. Nowhere in the country is wise investment in real estate more certain to yield large profits than in Duluth.

This is the reason The Herald has suggested to prospective home-builders that they buy their home sites now. Never again will they be so cheap. Never again will it be possible to buy a home site without paying much more for it or being contented with a much less desirable location. Buy your home site now and avoid the rush of investors who are about to fly from the perils and chicaneries of Wall street.

CONSERVATION OF HUMAN LIFE.

The Herald referred recently to the figures presented at the Atlanta conference on the hookworm disease, showing that while the fight against tuberculosis and typhoid fever is having a noticeable effect in reducing the mortality from those diseases, the mortality from such diseases as those of the kidneys, heart, arteries and brain is rapidly increasing.

These figures exhibit a situation too important to be passed by with casual reference. They mean something, and they indicate a vital need of attacking the situation that makes them possible. Tuberculosis and typhoid are contagious, and it is comparatively easy to arouse public interest in the fight against them. The diseases that carry away so alarming a proportion of people of middle age are not contagious, so it is less easy to arouse interest in the fight against them. But it must be aroused, for it is a calamity that so many useful citizens, at the ages when they are of the greatest value to themselves, their families, their communities and the country, should die before their time.

Before sanitation and pure milk and water were much considered, infant mortality was enormous. It is too large now, but it has been reduced greatly. The mortality from consumption has been reduced 49 per cent since 1880, though it still kills 130,000 people a year. The toll of deaths from typhoid has been cut 49 per cent, though it still kills 22,000 people a year. The diphtheria death rate has been reduced 80 per cent, though it still claims 20,000 victims annually.

But these are signs of victory, and they are comforting. Yet in the ages when diseases of kidneys, heart, arteries and brain prevail most, the increase of mortality is alarming. Since 1880, according to Massachusetts figures, the best and most representative attainable, the death rate between 40 and 49 has increased 35 per cent, that between 50 and 59 has increased 24 per cent, that between 60 and 69 has increased 34 per cent, and that between 70 and 79 has increased 24 per cent. In other words, a much larger proportion of the population survives the perils of childhood and youth than formerly; but a much greater proportion, having reached the years of greatest usefulness, fail to survive the perils of that age. That is a tremendous loss to society, and it is caused by diseases of the kidneys, heart, arteries and brain. These diseases are caused by unwholesome living habits; they are to be prevented by right living. Usually they are incurable, because they are degenerative diseases involving irreparable destruction and alteration of tissues.

The message of these figures is a call for right living. Men die of these diseases because they drink too much, eat too much, work too much, and because they get too little relaxation, too little rest, too little recreation. It is the price we pay for a rapid pace that overdraws our resources of vitality; it is the inevitable bankruptcy that comes from drawing upon a limited physical bank balance without frequent deposits of new energy and vigor.

The man who lives rightly gets more out of life and gives more; he lives more days and each day is fuller of the joy of living; because he takes time to relax and recreate, his efficiency is greater and his achievements are the more numerous and more valuable.

Right living means health, efficiency, happiness, long life. Wrong living means disease, inefficiency, unhappiness, death.

THE REASON FOR REGULATION.

Government regulation of business enterprises is "Socialistic," "paternalistic," and it may be "unconstitutional." Even granting all these ingenious arguments against it, still it must come. The fact that it is "Socialistic" and "paternalistic" is pretty black and damning, but we shall have to get used to that; and it may be that in time, and no very long time either, these terms will become compliments by reason of their common applications to proposals pleasing to the people. The epithet "unconstitutional" is a matter for the courts, but not even that shall stand long in the way. Either we shall get judges who will discontinue the practice of condemning progressive legislation as unconstitutional, or we shall get Constitutions that won't permit them to do it any longer.

For, you see, competition being dead, something must come to take its place for the protection of the worker and consumer. Otherwise, business is turned over to an autocracy that tends to concentrate its power and to use it more oppressively as time passes. To retain its power it must corrupt the sources of law and the agencies for the execution and interpretation of law. That means the erection of a mighty power, outside the people's government, that is greater than the government and greater than the people. It would be poor business to substitute such a tyranny for the tyrannies of the kingship and hereditary class privilege that have been, in this country at least, outgrown and cast aside.

Competition is dead; long live Regulation. Competition used to see to it that the consumer was not oppressed; but competition is gone. Therefore Regulation must take up the task; otherwise it will be necessary for the people's government to own and operate big business: and that would, indeed, be Socialistic.

Says the Wall Street Journal: "The principle of free competition in all industries in which large amounts of fixed capital are employed is far from being remedial, whatever it may have been a few decades ago under a totally different industrial system. It is necessary that the principle of regulation should be substitutel for that of competition. Our business men may themselves be reluctant to accept the new principle in place of the old one; and our legislators surely will be a few decades late in recognizing the necessity for the change: but the change itself is inevitable. In brief, both the Sherman law and the principle on which it is based, and the recent decision under this law, are founded upon a theory which, under our present industrial system, is wholly inadequate, and so antiquated that as a sufficient remedy it is certain to be abandoned. The principle of limited regulation must inevitably be substituted for that of limited competition."

Right; except that the definition of the term "limited" will be broad enough to permit the government to go as far as need be to preserve the interests of society. Regulation must be full enough and broad enough to make big business the people's faithful and humble servant, thankful for the job of serving the people at a fair return upon its capital, and seeking nothing more.

Competition is dead; long live Regulation.

SOME PERTINENT "DON'TS."

In New York there is a "Woman's League for Right Living." Such a name opens up a very wide field. It can take all reform for its province, and there is scarcely anything under the sun that an organization with that name cannot take up.

One of the things this Woman's League for Right Living is doing is to put in all the street cars of New York this legend:

> MEN, PLEASE DON'T
> Stick your feet out to the center of the aisle.
> Put your feet on the seats.
> Carry smoldering and bad smelling cigars.
> Cross your legs so as to annoy the passenger next you.
> Sprawl over two seats.
> Spit.

Very good. Duluth hasn't a Woman's League for Right Living, but it has men to whom such advice as this should be helpful. Duluth has men who stick their feet out in the aisle, put their feet on the seats, cross their legs so as to annoy the passenger next to them, carry smoldering and bad smelling cigars, sprawl over two seats, and spit. Those who do these things are public nuisances, and maybe some time there will be placards in the street cars to advise them of the fact.

But it must not be supposed that women are without fault in this matter of street car amenities. It is not inconceivable that when placards to the above effect appear in the Duluth street cars, a Men's League for Right Living will place alongside them placards something like the following:

> WOMEN, PLEASE DON'T
> Crowd the entrance to the car.
> Stand in front of seated men near the door when there are seats further up the car.
> Work off your pennies on the conductor.
> Take up too much room when the car is crowded.
> Forget to thank the gentleman who gives you his seat.
> Try to pass your 15-year-old son for half fare.

The list of don'ts for men is excellent, and men should heed them. The list of don'ts for women, which the Woman's League for Right Living does not appear to have thought of, is also good. No doubt others applicable to each sex, or to both, will occur to everybody. For instance, far-spreading hat plumes and menacing hat pins are fruitful subjects for discussion in connection with the amenities of a street car expedition.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

A CHANCE TO SHOW GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The charter requires a detailed publication in the official paper of contemplated assessments, also publication advising their confirmation. When assessment rolls are received by the comptroller's office they are checked as to additions and extensions, copied, and forwarded to the office of the city treasurer for collection. The comptroller, in obedience to the requirements of the charter, prepares a notice describing the improvement for which assessment is made; that it is payable at the office of the city treasurer, and if not paid on or before date indicated a penalty of 10 per cent will be added, and that assessment will bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent from date roll was received by the comptroller's office. The special notification of assessments on the part of the comptroller's office is not a requirement of the charter but is merely an effort to save property owners penalty and interest, and the further purpose of hastening the replenishment of the funds so as to allow of additional improvements. In many instances much time must necessarily be consumed in the preparation of special notices, as in the case of first assessments entered against properties, particularly when we have no record of ownership or agency. A portion of our special notice reads as follows: "If not interested in property we will appreciate any information that will enable us to reach the persent owner." We meet with a ready response to this request, and are thus enabled to make our notification effective. We are very glad to render this service, and are doing it of our own free will and accord as we fully appreciate the fact that it is the essential duty of a public official to make very effort to protect the interests of the taxpayers, and the saving of penalty and interest can be considered in no other light than a reduction in the tax. In many cities it is imperative that all conveyances be taken to the city comptroller prior to record, so that he can make proper entry of change in ownership, but we are largely dependent upon the co-operation of property owners and agents. The city of Duluth has made many improvements during the past year, and a great many more improvements are contemplated for this season, so that it is a very opportune time to assist the comptroller's office in making the ownership record more complete.

Very respectfully,
W. S. McCORMICK,
Duluth, Feb. 18. Comptroller.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Detroit Free Press: "How does that young man impress you?"

"Not at all. I never take kindly to a young man who wraps a $20 bill around two $1's and then insists upon displaying his bank roll."

Chicago Tribune: Traveler (in Drearyhurst)—Nice, clean little town you've got here.

Uncle Welby Gosh (on his dignity)—Thanks; it haint been muckraked in none o' the magazines yit, I b'lieve.

Chicago Tribune: Man with the Bulbous Nose—Yes; I've taken to the flowing bowl again. I found I couldn't cut out the booze. But how about your quitting the chewing tobacco habit?

Man with the Bulging Brow—Oh, I'm plugging along in the same old way, again.

Buffalo Express: "Don't you find it dangerous riding freights?" asked the philanthropist.

"Yes," assented the hobo, "but what can a fellow do? If he takes to the roads he is likely to be bumped by an automobile. I believe in taking the lesser of two evils."

Chicago News: "And you consider autumn the best month for calling in your profession?" interrogated the housewife, as she handed out the pumpkin pie.

"Ah, yes, mum," said Truthful Tim, as he tipped his hat, "it is den dat de lawn mower has been laid away and de snow shovel isn't working yet."

Illustrated Bits: Husband—Have you done your best to economize this month, Mary, as I requested?

Wife—Oh, yes; I spoke to the grocer, the butcher and the landlord, and got them to put off presenting their bills until next month.

London Opinion: Hostess—You won't come to church with us then, Phyllis?

Phyllis (down for the week-end)—I don't think so, dear. You see, I shouldn't know a soul there!

Chicago Tribune: Eben—Dearest, when shall I get the marriage license?

Flo—Not until I have worn for a few months the engagement ring you are going to buy for me.

Boston Transcript: Mother (reprovingly)—Don't you know that you should never let a man kiss you?

Daughter—But, mamma, it seems so forward for a girl to do the kissing.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "I hear you're on a New York paper."

"Yes; I'm its crime commissioner."

Judge: Husband—You never kiss me except when you want money.

Wife—Well, isn't that often enough?

Life: Harduppe—Er—what was the denomination of that bill you loaned me?

Cutting—Episcopalian, I think—it keeps Lent so well.

Washington Star: "What you farmers want is uplifting," said the statesman.

"That's right," answered Farmer Corntossel. "I've got a grand piano, steam heat and a private gas plant. All we want now is an elevator in the house."

Marriage and Longevity.

London Telegraph: Is the relation of marriage to longevity a thing with which we ought to concern ourselves at all? Is it worth while to estimate anything by its influence on the duration of life? Suppose some one were to discover that we should live longer if we spent three parts of the day in sleep. Should we be right to lie abed eighteen hours of the twenty-four? Would any one be the happier or the more comfortable?

The truth is that mere duration of life is not in itself worth much sacrifice if we are always taking thought how this or that will bring nearer or postpone the day of death, life becomes nothing but a long-drawn torture. The only right way of estimating life is not by its extent but its value—how much has been achieved in it, how much enjoyed. Any other standard is a contradiction in terms.

Life is not mere existence. It is activity, doing, thinking, feeling. All that gives opportunity for that extends and increases life, though it may shorten the mere term of days. So we can hardly set ourselves with any fervor to the worthy task of increasing the marriage rate by means of promising long life to the married. People with a turn for humor may regret this. There is something peculiarly delightful in the thought of a proposal in this style: "Admired Angelina, be mine, so that I can live till 90." And Angelina would reply with tears that it was a public duty to refuse.

Conflict.

Puck: Geographer (circa 1500)—What do you think of the rival claims of Columbus and Cabot regarding the discovery of this new world?

His Colleague—I' faith, I believe neither of them reached it. We have just examined their data, and they are sadly at variance. The Italian swears it is a beautiful land of sunshine and spring flowers, while the Englishman avows it is cold, disagreeable, and as damp as an Inquisition jail.

THE WEATHER.

SNOW

The mercury slid down to 18 deg. below zero last night and thus recorded the low mark of the present cold snap. The icy hand is being released now and warmer weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow. Snow is also promised for tonight.

A year ago today was mild and cloudy.

The sun rose this morning at 7:06 and it will set at 5:38, giving ten hours and thirty-two minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The cold wave now extends eastward to and including New England states, with highest pressures overlying the Ohio valley and North Atlantic districts. Zero temperatures prevail in Northern border states and all of Canada to the eastward of Alberta, the coldest being 28 deg. below zero at Moorhead. Disturbances over Utah and Northern Saskatchewan caused snow over the Michigan Copper country, Southern Lake Michigan, Nebraska, Western Montana, Nevada and Utah, and rain in Pacific states during the past twenty-four hours. Rains also fell over Florida.

"Indications favor snow and milder temperature at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following are the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

Success Magazine: A California woman in training a new Chinese servant to wait on the door had her daughter ring the bell and present her card. Next afternoon a friend called and handed her card to the Celestial, who pulled out of his sleeve the card the daughter of the house had presented the afternoon before and carefully compared the two. "Tickee no matchee," he exclaimed, handing back the visitor's card. "No can come in."

An Observant Child.

Success Magazine: Little Adelaide was inclined to be cowardly. Her father found that sympathy only increased this unfortunate tendency, and decided to have a serious talk with his little daughter on the subject of her foolish fears.

"Papa," she ventured, at the close of the lecture, "when you see a cow, aren't you afraid?"

"Why, certainly not, Adelaide. Why should I be?"

"Well, when you see a dog, aren't you afraid then?"

"No, indeed," with marked emphasis on the "no."

"Aren't you afraid when it thunders, papa?"

"Why, no," and he laughed at the thought and added, "Oh, you silly child!"

"Papa," and Adelaide came closer and looked into her parent's eye, "aren't you afraid of nothing in the world but just mamma?"

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

How Much Is a Boy Worth?

That case reported in the newspapers the other day of a 1-year-old newsboy run over by an automobile prompts this question: "What is a boy worth." In this instance the group of men to whom the parents of the lad referred the matter of compensation settled upon $300. It is to be hoped that such a pitiably small sum was not intended to measure the full value of the youth, but simply to indicate a rough estimate of his earnings for a certain period of which earnings his family is now deprived.

Any true valuation of a lad must look beyond the knickerbocker period, beyond even school and college days, to the fully developed man. There was once a philosopher, who was in the habit of taking off his hat to every school boy because he saw in each a possible statesman, poet or a person of distinction in some other realm of human achievement. So if you were buying a boy you would look beyond his angularities and roughness to the polished gentleman he may become. If the nefarious practice of traffic in flesh and blood had included whites as well as blacks when George Washington and Abraham Lincoln were boys what would each have brought in the open market? Probably a less sum than would have been realized in case the purchasers and sellers had foreseen the brilliant destiny in store for each. Rather than have lost either this nation could afforded an outlay of millions of dollars. Who knows but that among the boys scampering down our streets today or bending over their school books there is some budding poet, whose fame will eclipse even that of Longfellow or Whittier, some future discoverer of a cure for cancer, who shall rank with him who found first an anesthetic for bodily pain, some statesman who shall persuade all the nations of the earth to adopt a policy of disarmament, some social reformer who shall devise and carry through a plan that will put an end to industrial warfare.

Boys as they spin their tops, as they skate and coast and play ball do not think much of the possibilities wrapped up in them and it is well they do not, for that might make them little prigs. Nor do they throughout their entire boyhood and youth always disport themselves in keeping with the exalted station which some of them come eventually to occupy. We usually think of Lincoln and Washington on a dais, their heads encircled with a halo and we forget the long processes of discipline and effort by means of which each came to be.

"The pillar of a nation's hope."

We forget, too, that each in youth was far from perfect, that Washington led a somewhat questionable pillaging expedition against the French, that Lincoln saturated with Tom Paine's ideas once undertook to prove that there was no God, but Washington lived to become as chivalrous as he was valorous and Lincoln to depend personally upon the Creator of this universe and to feel his guiding hand. So any boy's improvableness is one of the things which we should take into consideration when trying to determine his worth.

Fortunately we are living in a time when the boy, the potential man, is more highly valued than ever before. The schools, the churches, the Christian associations, individuals like that big-hearted clear-brained railroad man in Toledo, Uncle Gunckle, are doing wonderful things.

But the boy himself must give the final answer to this question. He can determine how much he is worth or can become worth some day to the state, to his companions, to his home, to himself and to God. And of that long series of resolutions which George Washington made in his youth the one which it will most pay a twentieth century boy to adopt is this, "I will endeavor to keep alive in my breast that spark of divine fire called conscience.

Conkling and Blaine--No. 1

By SAVOYARD.

Some ten years ago the Saturday Evening Post contained a political fairy story about Roscoe Conkling and James G. Blaine, which I read with some amusement at the time, and with still more diversion the other day, when, in a moment of relaxation from work, I happened to pick it up. The author was Charles Emory Smith, Republican politician, editor of a Philadelphia newspaper, and postmaster general of the United States. If we could call the narrative history at all, it is of the fiat order, fathered by the wish, a chimney corner tale, like a thousand other of its kind, to tickle the ear of the vulgar.

Allusion is had to that terrific forensic encounter between the haughty New Yorker and the debonair son of Maine the fatal morning in 1866, when Conkling, by the most inevitable implication, denounced Blaine as corrupt, and Blaine reported that Conkling was a turkey cock. They never spoke to each other thereafter, although their seats in the senate were near together and, as I now recall, separated only by the seats of Hannibal Hamlin and John James Ingalls in the second row from the front of the Republican side of the chamber, which is to the east, the vice president sitting with his face to the south, whereas the speaker of the house of representatives sits facing the north.

* * *

But to get back to the fable in the Saturday Evening Post. It goes on to narrate that John P. Jones, a pioneer plutocrat in the United States senate from the wild and wooly West, besought the Republican leaders in 1880 to nominate either Grant or Blaine at Chicago. He was a third-termer, intimate with Conkling and friendly to Blaine. He succeeded James W. Nye as a senator from Nevada, and the first anybody ever heard of him was couched in the answer Nye made to Donn Piatt's question, "Nye, are you a candidate for re-election to the senate?" That answer was: 'Lor', man, the fellow who wants my seat has got $10,000,000!"

That man was Jones and he got the seat all right. That reminds—Nye and old daddy Stewart got to the senate in 1864 because the G. O. P. needed two votes to pass the Thirteenth amendment, and so the mining camp of Nevada was made a state, was admitted to the Union by telegraph message, and Nye and Stewart became the senators.

* * *

Jones was in the senate five full terms. He was one of those tremendous fellows who are pertinaciously heralded as great men, but are never caught with the goods on. Session after session it was promised that Jones would committ parliamentary arson and set the Potomac on fire, but he always restrained himself, perhaps for the reason that our grand and beautiful old Tiber is not inflammable to the touch of such torches as light the intellectuals of such statesmen as the Hon. Jones. O, their name is legion. Congress is full of 'em, right now, and always will be.

Jones made a great speech for 16 to 1. It contained twice as many words as are in the New Testament Scriptures of King James' translation of the Holy Bible, and was a violent and unprovoked assault on the multiplication table. And yet Jones as a senator had voted for "the crime of '73," which John Sherman voted against on the only roll call that was had on that measure in the two congresses that considered it. He always appeared to me as even more of an old granny than his colleague, old Mother Stewart.

* * *

"The significance and importance of his position lay in the fact that he was the close friend of Senator Conkling and probably had more influence with him than any other man in the country except Gen. Grant himself. Wholly unlike in temperament and manner, they had a rare intellectual affinity and personal devotion. Then, as now, Senator Jones had an extremely interesting personality. The range of his knowledge was extraordinary; his mind was singularly alert and fecund; his not frequent speeches were perfect magazines of research and information he had the liveliest sense of humor and an inexhaustible fund of anecdote; his talk was animated and brilliant, and gleamed with story and vivid illustration.

"Besides furnishing the most interesting and vivacious companionship, Senator Jones was one of the few men who could face Mr. Conkling on equal terms. He was his peer as a senator; he was his match in repartee; he had neither the timidy that shrinks nor the homage that is blind; he could meet prejudice with persuasion, unreason with ridicule, and imperiousness with unabashed courage and consuming disdain. All in all, he had the position and the attributes that made him both the devoted friend and the wholesome check of the great New York senator."

That is all news to me. Most folks looked upon Jones as a very rich man with a penchant for politics. It was said that he was very liberal and could give as good a dinner as Delmonico could cook; but as to rating him with Conkling as a senator! Bosh! Absurd!

* * *

Now Mr. Smith's narrative has it that Jones sought to make amity between the Grant camp and the Blaine camp for months before the convention met, and that he "ingeniously and steadily pressed" his idea on Conkling.

I was here that winter, and it was my fortune to have more or less intimate personal relations with one of the Grant chieftains, who was good enough to overestimate what he called kindness I had done him. He was in the innermost councils of the third-termers and talked to me with great frankness about the approaching struggle. He was a man of extraordinary force, a superb executive, and had been a stout and daring soldier in the big war. Such was George R. Davis, subsequently director-general of the Columbian Exposition at the World's Fair, Chicago, in 1893.

In our conversations, Davis sometimes mentioned Jones, but always as an out-and-out Grant man, and such he was everywhere regarded. If he was in the convention as a delegate, I'll bet he was a "306-er." There was the intensest hostility existing between the two camps of Grant and Blaine all winter and spring, and no effort to reconcile them leaked out, as it certainly would, had it been made, or seriously contemplated.

It is true, as Mr. Smith says, that old Uncle Blair of New Hampshire, sought a composition between Conkling and Blaine, and doubtless he states it correctly. The Hon. Blair, yet living, by the way, in this very town, is the senator from New Hampshire, who sought by means of the old flag and and an appropriation to bribe the South into surrendering control of its common schools to the federal government, for that is what the Blair Educational bill was, and all it was. And I, as a Kentuckian take pride in the fact that that piece of consolidation was knocked in the head by James B. Beck and John G. Carlisle, both from Kentucky, one a senator and the other a representative.

Old daddy Blair's speech on his bill was the most voluminous ever made in the world. During its delivery of a month, John Cockrill said of it in a newspaper paragraph that the way to stop the flood then raging in the Mississippi was to employ old Blair's speech, that it was long enough to reach from Pittsburg to New Orleans and dry enough to absorb all the surplus water in the entire Mississippi Valley.

* * *

Well, the story is that Uncle Blair went to Blaine in the spring of 1880 and said: "You know, Mr. Blaine, that I am your devoted friend; I shall do all I can to secure your nomination; but it is the part of prudent men to provide an alternative course, and if it shall be found impossible to nominate you, what do you want your friends to do?" To which the story is that Blaine intimated they could do as they pleased. Then Blair said: "Well, for one, I want a positive man; I don't want a milk-and-water candidate; I am opposed to Grant on principle, because I don't believe in a third term. Now, if you can't be nominated, what do you say to Conkling?"

Mr. Smith says "this was a startling proposition to Mr. Blaine." But after a moments reflection he answered: "Yes, Mr. Conkling is a strong man and New York is a great and necessary state. We must have New York and Conkling can carry it; yes, nominate Conkling, if you think best."

* * *

Now, I have not the slightest doubt that such an interview and such a conversation occurred. It was a passage between Lawyer Playdell and Dominie Sampson, as related by Sir Walter Scott in Guy Mannering. Blaine knew that Conkling would go to the stake sooner than represent Grant in a convention and take the nomination himself. Blaine knew that Conkling would have died sooner than take the nomination at his hands and as his gift. Father Blair could not understand these philosophies. He was a plain, blunt, honest, patriotic, man. Blaine was a schemer from crown to heel.

Then Mr. Smith tells of a conversation between Postmaster James of New York City, and Conkling, the last day of the balloting, and the intimation is that Conkling had made up his mind to nominate Blaine and how Jones of Uevada said, "Now is your chance!" and what not.

Conkling would have nominated the eternal old horned devil himself sooner than his enemy from Maine.

* * *

I sat down to tell a story of Conkling and Blaine that has never been in print. It is a prosperous anecdote and true, characteristic of both men. But I am too lazy now; besides, this letter is already too long. Later on.

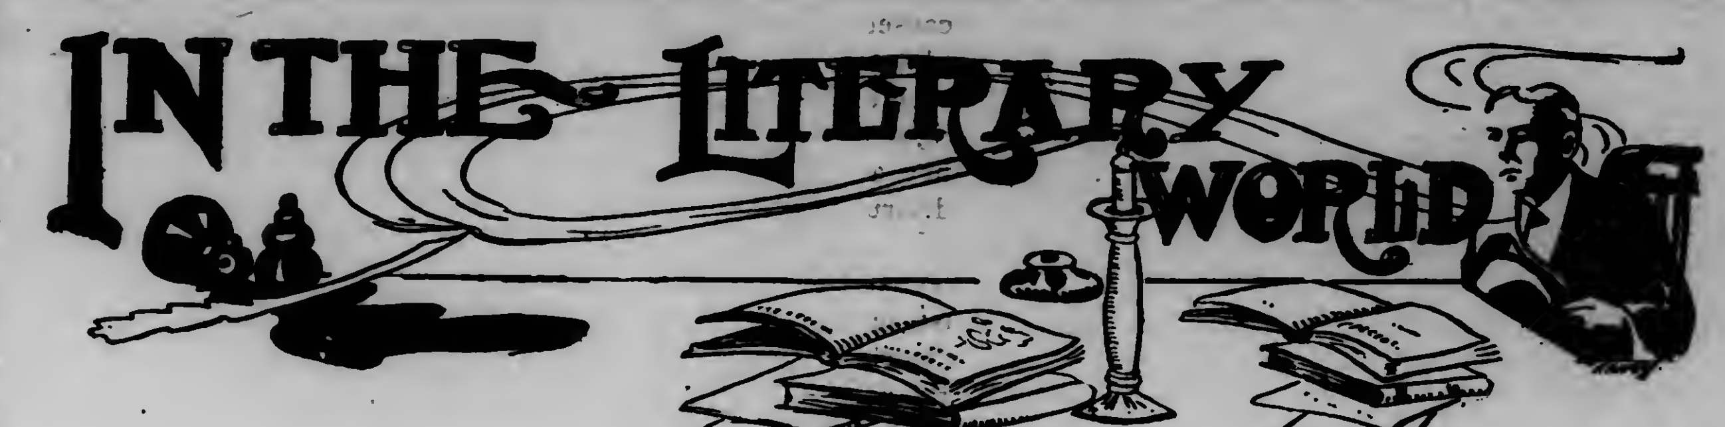
IN THE LITERARY WORLD



THE TOP OF THE MORNING. By Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, author of "Dr. Ellen," "Open House," etc. New York: Baker & Taylor company. $1.50.

Charlotte McLean's intimate circle of Bohemian friends—T. Lorrimer Ffloyd, caricaturist; Paul, sculptor; Lanse and Evelyn, playwriters; and Donna, poet and story-writer—were much distraught by the news that her son Cameron was coming home to his artist mother, fearing that it would break the charm of their comradeship to have innocent eyes and ears about. Cameron, however, turned out to be a manly lad of 16 with a masculine voice, a laugh that shook the roof, and qualities that promptly made him "one of Us." So this pleasant circle continued unbroken to the end of the story. It is a delightful set of people—different, natural, unaffected; and there is consuming charm in this book about them. Donna, for instance, had been bitten by a dog which might have been mad, so she planned to live her last week in being unguardedly affectionate to her friends. This produced a distressful misunderstanding in Ffloyd's mind, and when it was cleared up he wasn't so sure he was glad. Ffloyd got his wings burned by his career as a social fad, and discovered many things, among them how short lived are fads. But he made it the making of T. Lorrimer Ffloyd, and it was good for him, even if the reaction did drive him in despair to the verge of committing artistic suicide by signing a contract with a comic supplement. Lanse had to choose between his rich father and his play-writing, chose the latter, met rebuffs, decided to go down to the people and earn his living in the sweat of his face, dragged Donna into it, nearly got them both arrested, and had to go back to father again. There are many other blithe comedies in the book, and all of them are handled with skill and charm. It is a book about art and artists, without a touch of tawdry sham or supercilious pretense, or of that sort of make-believe "culture" which never gets down to the real meaning of that which makes for culture. It is a thoroughly delightful story about charmingly and humanly foolish people who are also wise in their friendships and affections. The intrusion—happily for but a moment—of Miss De Long, with her irritating affectations and condescensions and her shallow worship of appearances, emphasizes the charm of these wholesome and lovable friends. But not even disagreeable Miss De Long can help turning out for the better after her wings are clipped, such is the influence of the book.

The story is delicious, and those who appreciate warm book friends may by its means add delightful companionship to their circle.

THE NEW SCHAFF HERZOG ENCYCLOPEDIA OF RELIGIOUS KNOWLEDGE. Vol. VI. Edited by Samuel Macauley Jackson, D.D., LL.D. New York: Funk & Wagnalls company. Twelve volumes. Cloth, $5 per volume.

The sixth volume of this elaborate and modern religious encyclopedia is out, and the work is half completed. The volumes are being issued at the rate of four a year, and it will be completed, therefore, in about a year and a half. The present volume, which covers subjects from "Innocents" to "Liudger," treats 667 topics in 521 pages, and is the work of 171 collaborators. Because of the subjects treated, it has a doctrinal and devotional flavor. Foremost among the subjects must be placed the joint contribution on "Jesus Christ," by Prof. Benjamin B. Wearfield of Princeton and Prof. Benjamin W. Bacon of Yale, occupying eighteen pages. "Inspiration" and "Justification" are treated by Prof. Clarence A. Beckwith. The former covers the Jewish as well as the Christian dispensation, while the latter has particularly to do with the Reformation and Luther's great championship of this cardinal doctrine. Prof. Kunze of the University of Greifswald, Germany, contributes an article on "The Power of the Keys," a doctrine peculiar to the Roman Catholic church. "The Intermediate State," or the condition of the dead until the resurrection day, is presented by Prof. Beckwith. One is forcibly impressed, in opening this volume, with the many succinct biographies of well known Biblical characters and of men eminent in the religious world since the beginning of the Christian era. Among these are Joseph, Isaac, Jacob, Ishmael, Joshua, Jeremiah, Isaiah, Job, John, James, Jude, Jerome, John Knox, the popes named John and Leo, and many others. As usual, the volume impresses one most emphatically as a work indispensable to all clergymen and well informed laymen and Bible students.

Of Books and Writers.

Visitors to Cap Martin, in the South of France, may now see a "Country Life" house taking shape on a beautiful green slope with a wide silver girdle of olive trees and an exquisite blue view of the Mediterranean. This home had its origin in Country Life in America, and its builders are the popular Williamson couple, whose latest book, "Lord Loveland Discovers America," is just off the presses of Doubleday, Page & Co. Their present Riviera place, "Chalet des Pins," used to be a shooting lodge of the former prince of Monaco, the present one's father.

Because the intellectually-minded H. G. Wells has been accused of ignoring in his novel, "Ann Veronica" (Harpers), the restrictions that must and should hedge a woman in this world, the following passage from the book might in better fairness be quoted for a quite otherwise conviction in his mind. Ann Veronica, he writes, "had a second reminder that against a woman's claim to go free and untrammeled there was a case to be made; that after all it was true that a girl does not go alone in the world unchallenged, nor ever has gone freely alone in the world; that evil walks abroad, and dangers and petty insults more irritating than dangers lurk." Perhaps this is the simple truth of it. "Ann Veronica" does not say that a woman should go free and untrammeled in this world. It asks whether she can.

When Francis L. Wellman published some years ago "The Art of Cross-Examination," the book was not only a treasure-house of advice to the trial lawyer, but a revelation to laymen of the niceties and the possibilities of legal inquisition. Before Mr. Wellman no one had taken the pains to point out how highly developed a science the modern advocate had made of his profession. Now in "Day in Court; or, the Subtle Arts of Great Advocates," which the Macmillan company has just published, he goes still further into a subject fascinating in its display of trained minds at their keenest. Mr. Wellman is a lawyer himself and he is addressing lawyers primarily, but it is not with the cold science of law that he deals. As long as there are twelve men in the jury box, as long as witnesses and judges are human, a trial will be something more than a demonstration of scientific facts. Human nature as the court-room reveals it is Mr. Wellman's real theme.

Among the nine noted authors of the forthcoming Harper volume "In After Days," a curious book wherein will be inscribed the author's conviction, doubt, wonder, hope, as the case may be, of a life to come, it is noticeable that only two are women. These two, Julia Ward Howe and Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, appear in characteristic guise among the photographs of all the authors which will be a feature of the book. Mrs. Phelps is seated in the vista of her familiar, sunny veranda, remote and content. Mrs. Howe, also seated, appears at closer range, on her head the venerable cap, between her hands an open favorite book. Between these two representative women exists a difference in years of a quarter of a century, and one is led to wonder whether the factor of time has played much or little part in their relative points of view. Mrs. Phelps has named her chapter significantly, "The Great Hope." Mrs. Howe has screened her revelation behind the impassive phrase, "The Future Life."

Some of the troubles of a novelist have been revealed in a recent correspondence between Charles Major, the author of "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," and "A Gentle Knight of Old Brandenburg," and the literary editor of the Brooklyn Eagle. The Eagle discovered that the gentle knight had referred to Pope's "Essay on Man" one year before it was written—which the reviewer considered an improbable occurrence. This Mr. Major admitted it to be. He pointed out, however, that on his first manuscript was the note "Look up date of Es. on Man." Under the circumstances, therefore, it was impossible to convict him of more than a little forgetfulness. Most readers will be inclined to pardon Mr. Major on the ground that, shooting from a distance of two and a half or more centuries, one year is close enough to the mark.

Rumor has had it that Mary E. Wilkins Freeman was an influence in the action of the social club of her town in decreeing that good playing at bridge shall no longer be visited with prizes, but shall be its only reward. The rumor started when some one recalled that the initial story in Mrs. Freeman's very latest book, "The Winning Lady," was all about the desperate means taken to win a cut glass punch bowl. While no one can seriously believe that the story moved the community to its action, there can be little doubt that a conviction already prevailing that prizes are disturbing forces would be strengthened by such a story. As a matter of fact, in the book, at least, Mrs. Freeman cannot be said to have taken sides at all.

* * *

A recent statement by Josephine Dodge Daskam Bacon, who has written a strong plea for the home as women's true sphere of action in her recent book, "In the Border Country," published by Doubleday, Page & Co., has aroused opposition. Mrs. Bacon remarked to an interviewer of the New York Times, that no woman earning a salary of $5,000 a year is a suffragist. By way of refutation, a letter to the Times cites Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, the superintendent of the Chicago schools, Ellen Terry, Julia Marlowe and President Thomas of Byrn Mawr, as suffragists earning over $5,000. Mrs. Barclay Hazard, however, supports Mrs. Bacon by telling the Evening Telegram that she has found it a great advantage not to have the vote and that many women are in it for the excitement.

In the past Winston Churchill has been largely identified with the historical novel; it is, therefore, interesting to note that in his new book, "A Modern Chronicle," which the Macmillan company is to publish in a few weeks, he has turned his talent to modern affairs and modern society. In these days, when so many conflicting views are being expressed on the conventionalities of the times by our leading novelists, it will be interesting to note just what attitude Mr. Churchill will assume.

* * *

That Charles G. D. Roberts understands animals and sympathizes with them as do few men in this busy world is again proved in his new book, "Kings in Exile," which the Macmillan company is to publish shortly. This collection of stories presents a series of stirring incidents in the lives of those great kings of the animal world who have been taken away from their native haunts to live as captives among men. Mr. Roberts' interpretations are all individual and are remarkable for the way in which, without resorting to the usual means of making animals talk like human beings, they reveal the humor, the pathos or the tragedy of the prisoners' situations.

A certain literary critic expressed the opinion the other day that the reason why so many novelists made one big success and failed never afterwards, was that the one book really worth while was written from experience; that it contained all they had met with in life. Thereafter they endeavored to "make up" things in their studies. Perhaps this accounts for the continued success of Jack London's books. He is out in the world all the time gathering material. His books consequently are real, strong and vital. They are the records of the things that he himself has seen or experienced in his varied career. His new work—a collection of short stories—which the Macmillan company is to publish this month, is called "Lost Face," the title being derived from a story of a Chinaman who succeeded at last in "saving his face."

Among the Magazines.

Always a notable publication, the March Harper's deserves the chief place of interest among the periodicals of the month, in that it gives to the world the most important Shakespearean discovery that has been made in two centuries. "Shakespeare as a Man Among Men" is a wonderful revelation that Prof. Charles William Wallace, of the University of Nebraska has been able to make through the finding of documents bearing intimately upon Shakespeare, which have been lying untouched for 300 years in the archives of the English law courts. They give a picture of Shakespeare's life in London that is unique, and will go far toward throwing new light upon many questions of the great dramatist's life and works. A new signature of Shakespeare's is among the discoveries. Ellsworth Huntington, of the Yale expedition to Palestine, writes of Yalmyra, "The Fallen Queen of the Desert," and pictures its imposing ruins in a series of photographs. Prof. G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark university, contributes an important paper entitled "A Child's Institute," dealing with the tremendous advances now making in the scientific study of children, out of which the new science of paidology is being evolved. Among the eight stories in the number, there is notable work from such writers as Elinor Macartney Lane, Emery Pottle, Mrs. Henry Dudeney, James B. Connolly, Alice Brown, and Fanny Heaslip Lea. Paintings in color by Howard Pyle, and drawings by other prominent illustrators add to the attractive illustrative ensemble that Harper's always maintains.

The February Sports Afield—from its beautiful front cover to its last advertising page—is an exceptionally attractive issue. G. E. Whitmore describes how a mountain trapper waged an unceasing war against a family of panthers, and how in the end, the last of the animals almost caused his death. Many hunting and fishing trips in New Mexico, Texas, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Washington, Vermont, Arkansas, Missouri and Michigan are truthfully described. Of more than usual interest are: "The Men of '49," "Pete's Red Letter Day," "Camping and Fox Hunting," and the "Mad Buck of Hickory Bend."

"Action, action, and then—action," is the keynote of the first number for March of the fortnightly Popular Magazine. From the first page to the last of the 224 there is "something doing" all the time. Strenuous, maybe, but then we're living in a strenuous age, and the Popular owes its success to the fact that it is a most vigorous exponent of the creed of "Strenuousness." To begin with, the first complete novel by Francis Lynde is called "That Million-Dollar Holdup." Its name gives one an idea of the general scheme of the story. What it doesn't furnish is an inkling of the thrill that holds the reader breathless from start to finish. Those who read "The King of Arcady," and others of Francis Lynde's books which first appeared in the Popular, will be eager to read this latest story by him before it comes out in book form. This number of the Popular also contains another complete novel by a well-known author. A. M. Chisholm, called "When the Red Man Hates." Mr. Chisholm's knowledge of Canada, its country and its people, is thorough, and he handles his stories with master strokes.

"An Army Mule," a new serial story by Charles Miner Thompson, begins in the Feb. 1 issue of the Youth's Companion of Boston. The title of it is suggested by the blind and reckless obstinacy of the old soldier who is its principal character. His mulishness involves him and those about him in a succession of the most mystifying and distressing complications. Sample copies of the Companion, including the issue containing the first installment of this extraordinary story, will be sent upon request to any one who mentions this paper.

The March number of People's Ideal Fiction Magazine contains in 224 pages, two complete novels, large installments of four serials, and a dozen short stories. "Forty Miles Shy," is the alluring title of the first complete novel by Edgar Franklin—a very humorous tale of the adventures which befell a young member of a stranded vaudeville troupe, en route to Chicago, whose fellows force him to get off and walk in the midst of a desert when they discover that the mileage book is on the point of giving out. The other complete novel is entitled "On His Nerve." In it Hans Bugge has treated in spirited fashion the consequences which Steve Vanatta did not expect when, face to face with the alternative of starvation or jail, he butted into the private affairs of a young lady, on false pretenses, and used his college training to good advantage.

* * *

Mary Gilbert has retold in the March issue for the young folks of all ages who read St. Nicholas that charming tale from Russian folklore, "The Humpbacked Horse," one of the dear, satisfactory, "once upon a time" kind of stories. Magnel Wright Enright's illustrations for the story are altogether delightful. Day Allen Willey's story of "Winter Sports in the Alps" is a jolly article, most attractively illustrated, whch seems to give a new importance to skiing, and coasting and other play in the snow. The many other good things of th March number include even more than St. Nicholas' usual allowance of merry pictures and rhymes, a boys' story of helpful spirit in "The Junior Captain," and a charming tale of a little brown bear, "Pietro," and his devoted master.

Today adventure and romance are to be found at ther best in the 192 pages of stories that make up the March number of Gunter's Magazine. Therein are detective stories, Western stories, humorous stories, mystery stories, stories of real people in real life. In the March number are two complete novels, installments of two serial novels, and eleven short stories. The list of contributors includes: H. Rider Haggard, Edwin Bliss, Richard Marsh, Preston Ward, Lionel Dalton, Frank L. Packard, J. A. Tiffany, Eleanor M. Ingram, Jennie Harris Oliver, W. B. Kerr, Frank X. Finnegan, Vingie E. Roe, George Elliott Fleming, Lillian Bennet-Thompson, and Leslie Stuart.

Brutal, slinking, reeking, a vicious place of snarling, bull-necked men and grimacing, glittering-haired women—the underworld is pictured with an unrelenting grimness of touch in "The Quality of Mercy," by Forrest Halsey, the novelette in March Young's Magazine, that will set the everyday man's nerves aquiver like a knife-thrust. There is a girl-mother, frail, sweet, fighting madly for life, for a crust and a roof, for herself and her baby, a curious, waxen-faced, unprattling baby, tiny, pitiful, crushed victim of the child-asylum; a gross, heavy-scented woman, vastly pathetic and human behind the rouge and powder; a brutalized thief taker, enlightening in his faithfulness to life; a simple, clumsy, honest, decent husband—all cleverly drawn types of the under layers of a big city. Its clashing of will and impulses and passions makes a story that grips the very vitals of your being. Almost brutal at times in its glare on men's and women's naked souls, it is the brutality that holds one breathless, wondering, eager—and leaves one enlightened.

Duffield Osborne contributes to the March Smart Set a Zendaesque novel of American lovers and Sicilian brigands, that is full of spice and ginger. The plot moves rapidly from the start. An American girl is shipped off to Europe to avoid the attentions of a suitor whose finances do not measure up to the standard set by her ambitious mother. It is arranged that the favored suitor shall sail on the same ship. The discredited aspirant, however, invites himself to join the party—unofficially, and when the real adventure comes there is a fierce rivalry between the two as to which shall be first in at the rescue. "Third Hand High," this latest work of Mr. Osborne's, makes extremely interesting reading. Some valuable information for American girls who wish to marry titles, is given in Hrolf Wisby's article on "The Heiress Mart," in which he discusses the proneness of the American girl to judge too hastily of the relative rank of certain European titles.

Nothing so surely indicates the changing seasons as the popular monthly magazines. Just now their covers, their stories, even their advertisements, herald the fact that the year is moving swiftly forward and the spring time is at hand. This is especially noticable in the March number of Smith's. In all the verse and fiction of this number, one gets a breath of spring that is truly delightful. As usual, the magazine opens with sixteen beautiful portraits of well-known stage favorites. This art section is a feature that will appeal to all lovers of the beautiful. And when, in addition, the pictures are of lovely women you know, it makes the section one that you can't afford to miss seeing. Followinng these photographs comes the complete novel by Emma Lee Walton. She has called it "The Letters of Rebecca"—the letters of a dear, sweet girl to her "Lady Mother," who is far away.

With the number of reading pages stationary at 150 for the present, it would seem impossible for Popular Mechanics Magazine to break its own record for contents. However, incredible as it may seem, the March number leaps beyond all preceding issues with 303 articles and 294 illustrations, every article written so you can understand and enjoy it, and every picture telling a story of its own. Among the unusual features is H. H. Windsor's editorial on Fourth of July fatalities. By a remarkable hypothesis, he forces upon the American public the fact that national jubilation must no longer take the form of human sacrifice, however unintentional.

The issue of Harper's Weekly for Feb. 12 contains an article by Louise E. Dew, entitled "The Gibralter of the Southwest," which describes the army post at Fort Sam Houston and the history of San Antonio. Jackson Smith writes on "The Rise in the Meat Bill," From London, Sydney Brooks contribues an entertaining article upon "Election Manners in England and America." A story by Charles Major, entitled "The Magic Fife," which has the quality of being true as well as appealing, is published in this issue. Charles Johnston writes on "The Detective Story's Orgin." This issue contains a story by Emerson Taylor, and the usual musical and theatrical reviews of the week.

WOMANS GENTLE NATURE CALLS FOR GENTLE TREATMENT

Delicately formed and gently reared, women will find, in all the seasons of their lives, as maidens, wives or mothers, that the one simple, wholesome remedy which acts gently and pleasantly and naturally, and which may be used with truly beneficial effects, under any conditions, when the system needs a laxative. is—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna. It is well known to be a simple combination of the laxative and carminative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic liquids, which are agreeable and refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system when its gentle cleansing is desired.

Only those who buy the genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna can hope to get its beneficial effects, and as a guarantee of the excellence of the remedy, the full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is printed on the front of every package, and without it any preparation offered as Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is fraudulent and should be declined. To those who know the quality of this excellent laxative, the offer of any substitute, when Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is called for, is always resented by a transfer of patronage to some first-class drug establishment, where they do not recommend, nor sell false brands, nor imitation remedies. The genuine article may be bought of all reliable druggists everywhere; one size only. Regular price 50 cents per bottle. Get a bottle today to have in the house when needed.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

LECTURE ON CIVIC BETTERMENT

Florence Kelley Will Be Heard in Duluth March 4.

The event that will be of most interest to the club women of the city and all who are in any way interested in civic betterment, will be the coming to Duluth early in March of Florence Kelley, the American woman who has for many years been one of the most active workers in the nation, in the interest of children and working women.

During the last few years Duluth has realized that any permanent work to be done for the betterment of the city and its citizenship must be directed toward the youngest of all the citizens, and to this end the city has established playgrounds in the summer time and hopes soon to enlarge this work. Skating rinks have been maintained in several parts of the city; the school board has voted to provide vacation schools in manual training and domestic science; boys' clubs have been organized, and several sewing schools throughout the city. Every effort is made to enforce the state law that forbids the employment of children under 14 years of age, but there remains yet a large amount of work to be done.

The members of the Women's Council, which has been among the first organizations to plan and urge many of these efforts that have been mentioned, have arranged for the coming of Mrs. Kelley in order that many Duluthians who have as yet given no thought to their responsibility in the matter or done the part in this work which they might have accomplished, may listen to this woman and become imbued with her ideas of service and gain knowledge of what has been and is being accomplished throughout America, for this effort is nation wide.

Mrs. Kelley is secretary of the National Consumers' league and this work is probably more closely identified with her than any other. She is a vice president of the National Women's Suffrage association and a lecturer and writer of note. Her contributions have appeared in all of the well-known magazines and a short list of some of the magazine articles will be selected from those on file at the library and left on a reference table and any one interested may find them there. Two of Mrs. Kelley's books are in the circulating department of the library.

The date of Mrs. Kelley's local lecture will be Friday evening, March 4 and will be free. Men and women are invited to attend the lecture.

Mrs. Kelley's lecture will be given at the lecture room of the Commercial club and the members of this club will unite with the members of the Women's council in making her talk of value to Duluth citizens who should be in touch with the kind of work of which Mrs. Kelley is a prominent advocate.

Walt's Washington Club.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

IT was early in the fall that Walt Jones had conceived the idea of organizing a Washington Club among his school friends. The name, as doubtless you would infer, signified that the members of the club were to be honest in every sense, like the beloved George Washington, who "could not tell a lie." On joining the club each boy took an oath to never falsify or deceive in any way. And if one should violate his oath in the very slightest degree he would be expelled in disgrace from the club.

The club swam along finely for several months, then something happened which makes this story possible. One day while at school Tommy Jackson, a member of the Washington Club, was caught cheating at exams. And Walt was the boy who detected his clubmate resorting to this dishonest method. At first he was so shocked at what he saw that he was on the point of speaking right out to the teacher about it. Then the old adage, "Think twice before you speak" came to him and he waited. And all that forenoon he turned the thing over and over in his mind. What should he do? As a member of the Washington Club it devolved upon him to expose Tommy to their brother clubmen, for each member was a self-appointed committee to see that the organization was kept up to his high moral standard.

At the noon hour, Walt called to Tommy, asking him to walk down the street with him. He had determined to urge Tommy to confess his wrong-doing to the teacher, and also at the next club meeting. He thought this a more honorable way of righting the wrong than for him to openly accuse Tommy to either teacher or club.

As he and Tommy strolled along together he said reluctantly, for the position was a trying one for him: "Say, Tommy, I saw something today which hurt me more than I can tell you; I saw one of our club boys cheating in his history exam."

Tommy's face crimsoned. "Say, Walt, do you mean me?" he asked in an embarrassed way. "I—I—"

"Wait a minute," said Walt. "Don't say anything either one way or the other till I have finished what I have to say. Now, this boy whom I caught cheating is not a bad fellow at heart. But he has been a bit idle in school, and now he wants to keep up with his class that has not been idle, and has progressed rapidly. Well, the exam was too much for him, and he stooped to doing a dishonest thing."

"But I——" interrupted Tommy, his lips trembling and his manner confused. "I—I—"

"Wait, Tommy," again commanded Walt. "I am not through. What I want to say is this: Were I to expose this boy to our club he would be expelled in dishonor. Were I to inform on him to the teacher—well, you know what the result would be. He would stand disgraced in both school and club. That would mean his ruin, socially and morally."

Tommy's face cleared. "Then you don't mean to give it away?" he asked eagerly. "Oh, will you spare—"

Walt put up his hand. "Don't use any name or personal pronoun," he said. "I have not said who the boy is. But this I will say: If that boy will go to the teacher in person and confess to his having cheated at exam and beg her to forgive him this time—his first offense, I hope—"

"Yes, on my honor, it's the first time I ever cheated in my life," cried Tommy. "And I'm heartily ashamed—"

"I have not said who the boy is," said Walt in a low tone. "And please do not interrupt again, and do not humiliate yourself before me. I don't wish it. But let me go on: If this boy will do as I just said—throw himself on the teacher's mercy, and ask to be allowed to have the history examination submitted to him again, and study it earnestly and pass it honestly, why, that much of my duty is fulfilled. Then, he must rise before the Washington Club at its next meeting and lay bare his conduct to them. And if he presents his case exactly as it is—true in every detail—the club will let him remain one of them, but will require of him a certain sacrifice—a penance, in reality. He will be forbidden to visit the club for a certain number of weeks, during which time he shall reflect on his behavior and see the wrong he has done himself. You understand, cheating at exams does not harm the teacher; it does not harm the other pupils. But it does do harm to the person resorting to such a dishonest act. He is cheating himself out of his education and teaching himself to deceive. He is fast becoming his own worst enemy, and will soon be found out by his family and friends. Then he cannot regain their confidence, even though he try, for you know the old saying: 'A child fears the fire after he has been burned.' Once we have been deceived by anyone we can never trust that person again."

Tommy hung his head. "I see the way you look at it, Walt," he said.

"And I really had not thought about it that way before. I—I—the boy who cheated is a fool, and ashamed of himself. But—how can he go to the teacher and tell her he has been cheating? Do you suppose she'll understand him—and give him another try?"

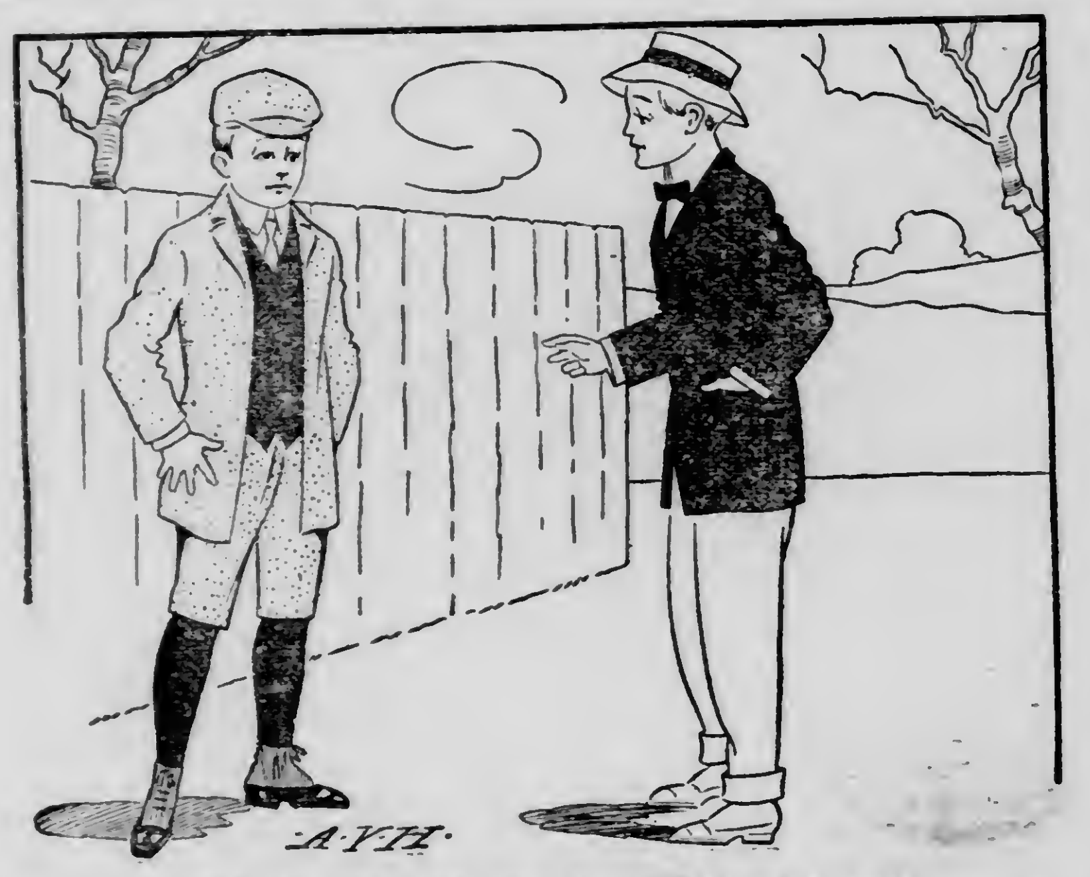
"That remains for the boy to find out," explained Walt. "But if he is really and truly sorry for what he has done, and asks to go through with the exams again, and promises to do it honestly, why, I am sure the teacher will be only too glad to help him on the right road. Our teachers are interested in us—more than we are in ourselves, sometimes. And one has never known a teacher to turn a boy down for confessing to a wrong act. It's for not confessing, but for keeping on in his evil ways that brings about a teacher's condemnation, and the condemnation of the world."

"Well, I'll—— or, I mean the boy will go to the teacher and do as you advise," said Tommy. "But—— Walt—— What about the club? If this boy confesses to this meanness—will they allow him to remain a member? And it would ruin him if the club were to turn him out in disgrace."

"He should have thought of that before he committed the wrong," said Walt. "The truth is, I really believe his conscience would hurt him more if he remained in the club, and kept silent, than the censure of the club can hurt him. He will have the consolation that he came out on the side of honesty. And I think all the boys will look at it in that light. There is but one thing to do—be honest with yourself—I mean the boy must be honest with himself, regardless of consequences. And the consequences will not be half so hard to bear as the knowledge that he is a liar and a deceiver. That would gnaw into his conscience and heart each day."

Tommy walked along, head down. Then, seizing Walt's hand, he exclaimed: "Walt, you are right. There is but one thing to do—be honest with yourself. I'll never forget what you have just said to me. You have opened up a new avenue of thought to me—the thought of honesty to one's self. So many never think of that and go on cheating, deceiving, lying, all because no one but himself knows of it. But He knows it, Walt, and the boy himself knows it, and after a while it would get unbearable. Even after that boy we are talking about cheated at his history exam, and even before he knew that he had been detected doing it, the thought of what he had done troubled him. And he was really sorry he had resorted to such a mean act. But, unless you had come to his rescue, what might have happened? He might have repeated the wrongdoing, and perhaps become a worse boy than he had intended to become. But Walt, you have saved that boy by your kindness and your forgiving spirit. He'll confess to the teacher, and make amends. He'll confess openly before the Washington Club and throw himself on their mercy. To break a vow of honesty is a serious matter, and the boy will be prepared to suffer any penance which the club may see proper to require of him. He means to never, never, so long as life lasts, break his vow of honesty again."

Walt stopped and took Tom's right hand in a firm grasp. "As president of the Washington Club, I shall do my duty to help you to keep that resolution," he said fervently. "And I know I shall have the hearty support of all the club. We don't want only the boys who are never sorely tempted to dishonest deeds, for they are safe without the club's help, but we must look after the boys who sometimes need a strong hand and a forgiving and helpful heart to keep them from falling. Our club is to prevent lying as well as to preserve truth, and if we find a boy who repents of wrong-doing it is our duty to help him to get on the right road again. I am heartily glad I did not expose you publicly to the club, for that would only have made you bitter. A true friend is one who can keep his own counsel and help the one in trouble to rise through his own effort."



"I see the way you look at it, Walt," he said.

LESSON NO. 90—GEORGE WASHINGTON AND HIS LITTLE HATCHET.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S FAMILY TREE

SO much has been written about George Washington, first president of the United States, that all are familiar with every little detail of his life. But of his ancestry little is said; therefore, a sketch of his family's genealogy may be interesting to read. The following is quoted from Washington Irving's "Life of Washington," a most authentic work:

"The Washington family is of an ancient English stock, the genealogy of which has been traced up to the century immediately succeeding the Conquest. At that time it was in possession of landed estates and manorial privileges in the county of Durham, such as were enjoyed only by those and their descendants who had come over from Normandy with the Conqueror, or fought under his standard. When William the Conqueror laid waste to the whole country north of the Humber in punishment of the insurrection of the Northumbrians, he apportioned the estates among his followers, and advanced Normans and other foreigners to the principal ecclesiastical dignities. One of the most wealthy and important sees was that of Durham. Hither had been transported the bones of St. Cuthbert from their original shrine at Lindisfarne, when it was ravaged by the Danes.

"Among the knights who held estates in the palatinate on these warlike conditions was William de Hertburn, the progenitor of the Washingtons. His Norman name of William would seem to point out his national descent, and the family long continued to have Norman names of baptism. The surname of De Hertburn was taken from a village on the palatinate, which he held of the bishop in knight's fee; probably the same now called Hartburn, on the banks of the Tees.

"The first actual mention we find of the family is in the "Bolden Book," a record of all the lands appertaining to the diocese in 1183. In this it is stated that William de Hertburn had exchanged his village of Hertburn for the manor and village of Wessyngton, likewise in the diocese, paying the bishop a quit rent of four pounds and engaging to attend him with two greyhounds in grand hunts and to furnish a man-at-arms whenever military aid was required of the palatinate.

"The family changed its surname with the estate, and thenceforward assumed that of DeWessyngton. The condition of military service attached to its manor will be found to have been often exacted, nor was the service in the grand hunt idle form. Hunting came next to war in those days, as the occupation of the nobility and gentry. The clergy engaged in it equally with the laity. The hunting establishment of the Bishop of Durham was on a princely scale. He had his forests, chases and parks, with their train of foresters, rangers and park-keepers.

"The names of Bondo de Wessyngton and his son William appear on the charters of land, granted in 1257 to religious houses. Soon after occurred the wars of the barons, in which the throne of Henry III. was shaken by the De Mountforts. The chivalry of the palatinate rallied under the royal standard. On the list of royal knights who fought for their sovereign in the disastrous battle of Lewes in 1264, we find the name of William Weshington, of Weshington."

And thus is the line of the Washingtons followed till we come to the branch of the family from which our own George Washington sprung, namely, Lawrence Washington, of Gray's Inn, son of John Washington, of Warton, in Lancashire. To quote further:

"This Lawrence Washington was for sometime mayor of Northampton, and on the dissolution of the priories by Henry VIII. he received, in 1538, a grant of the manor of Sulgrave, in Northamptonshire, with other lands in the vicinity, all confiscated property formerly belonging to the monastery of St. Andrew's. Sulgrave remained in the family till 1620, and was commonly called 'Washington Manor.'"

The first of the Washingtons to emigrate to this country were the two great grandsons of the grandee of Sulgrave, John and Andrew Washington. They landed in Virginia in the year 1657, purchasing lands in Westmorland county. His grandson, Augustine, was the father of our Washington. And from here the family history is too well known to need repeating.

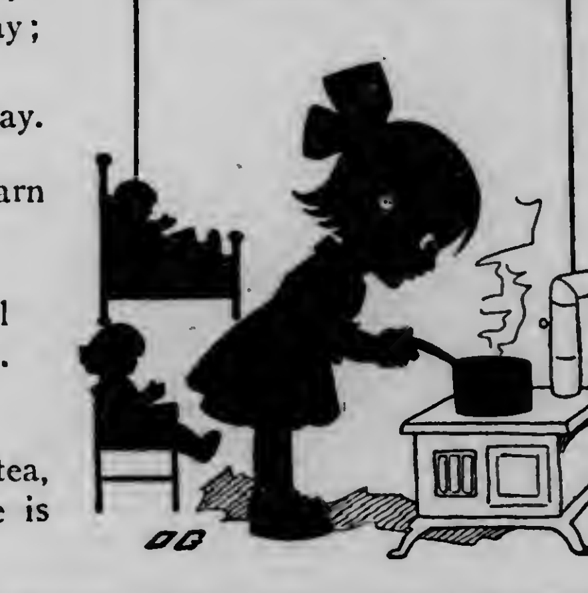
MARY GRAHAM.

BUSY MISS MINNIE.

MISS MINNIE is so busy
She has no time for play;
She has her dolls to tidy up,
And their things to put away.

There are their clothes to darn and mend,
And sweeping, too, to do,
And if one of the dolls falls ill
She must make for it a stew.

And every afternoon at five
Some friends drop in for tea,
And that is why Miss Minnie is
As busy as can be.



HUGH AND HIS AIR GUN.

BY MAUD WALKER.

NOW, although it has been a long time since Christmas, we still have reminders of that happy day in the shape of certain gifts either given to us by Santa Claus or by friends. And as I am going to tell you a story which has to do with an air gun—not a gift from Santa Claus, however—belonging to Hugh Collins, I feel it quite necessary to tell you that this ugly, cruel weapon was a gift to him on Christmas. But, as above stated, it was not left in his stocking by good old Santa, for if ever a kind and sympathetic heart beat in a breast, it is that dear old heart of Santa's. He would never leave a weapon to any child which might take innocent life. No, the air-gun in question was given to Hugh Collins by an old uncle—one who had spent much time in the pursuit of killing things, such as beautiful birds and little wild creatures of wood and dale.

And, of course, Hugh wished to try his skill as a marksman. Now, both Hugh's parents and his little sister Maggie seriously objected to Hugh's shooting at birds. "He might accidentally hit one," Papa said. "He might become cruel-hearted and enjoy the practice of taking innocent life," Mamma said. "Only bad boys shoot at lovely little birds," Maggie said. So Hugh was not encouraged to use the weapon save on inanimate things. He might shoot at a target as much as he pleased, so long as the target could not feel. Why, his papa made a fine "Bull's Eye" for him to use as a mark, and said to him: "You may fire away at that wooden thing as much as you like, Son. It can't feel."

But there were other boys—bad boys—who had air rifles, and they made a practice of shooting snow birds and squirrels whenever they had the chance. And they boasted of their marksmanship to Hugh, laughing at him for shooting at "A ole block o' wood with a circle an' spot painted on it."

"W'y, kid alive, don't you know you will never be a marksman till you can hit a bird on th' wing?" asked Sammy Peary, a boy who had no heart in his breast, unless it be of stone; for he never felt sorry for the poor little feathered victims of his gun.

And so the desire to shoot a bird grew in Hugh's breast, and one day he decided to go to the woods hunting with several boys. It was on a Saturday afternoon and Hugh's mother had gone to visit some of her friends, so Hugh did not feel the necessity of asking for permission to go to the woods hunting. He could have called up his father by phone or run to the neighbor's house where his mother was visiting; but he feared that either parent would object to his going. So he made himself believe that he was doing perfectly right to go without leave, and said to his sister Maggie: "I'll not be gone long, Sister. We're just going down in that holler beyond the hill—where the grove an' creek are. I'll be home before either Mamma or Papa are."

But when he took down his gun to carry over his shoulder Maggie asked: "You're not going hunting, are you, Hugh?"

Hugh looked a bit confused, then replied: "Oh, just a little. But you know I'm not a good shot, so couldn't hurt anything. I'm going with a lot of boys."

"I'd be ashamed," declared Maggie emphatically. "You mean to aim at birds, so you do. And if Mamma or Papa were here they'd not allow you to go."

"Oh, I tell you I can't hit anything," declared Hugh. "I'm going with a lot o' kids. We'll have a nice outing; that's about all." But he looked "sheepish," as Maggie expressed it, as he said this. And she read his mind.

With air gun over shoulder, Hugh set out through the fine snow to join his comrades who were to wait for him at the "section road" half a mile from town. There they would enter the grove of fine forest trees through which ran a little stream. This wood abounded with squirrels and sparrows, and was a delight to the hunter after small game.

After the boys entered the grove they began taking aim at the little birds and squirrels. But I am happy to say, not one of them proved his remarkable marksmanship on this occasion, and after they had been shooting away for about half an hour Hugh, to the surprise of all, winged a sparrow. The poor creature fell, fluttering and gasping with pain to the ground. "Ah, you did hit one, after all, didn't you?" And the boys gathered about the helpless little sufferer on the ground. "What you going to do with it?" asked one boy.

Hugh stood with eyes wide, looking at the fluttering, hobbling creature that he had so cruelly maimed. It did not seem hurt save in one wing; that hung limp and helpless at its side.

For a moment Hugh's heart sank in his breast. What would his mother or father or Maggie say if they could behold his work now? What should he do with his bird? Should he take the boys' advice and "finish" it with his heel and leave it on the ground or carry it home as a trophy of his skill with the gun? But not for a moment did he think of carrying home a dead bird—one whose life had been taken by him. He knew what his parents would say. But here before him hobbled in a helpless way a winged sparrow. What should he do with it? According to the sportsman's law, the bird was his to do what he chose with it. The others of the hunters would not think of touching it.

"Well, why don't you put your heel on it and finish it?" asked one of the band. "You look as though you were afraid of it. Shall I kill it for you, Brave Hunter?" And the heartless fellow made as if to crush the bird with his foot.

"Don't touch it!" cried Hugh, and his face flushed crimson, "It's mine, understand, and I'll do what I want to with it!" Then he stooped down and caught the bird in his hands. "I'll carry it home," he said. "Mamma will know what to do with it." From his pocket he took a handkerchief and wrapped it about the injured bird. Somehow his heart had been touched by its sign of suffering and fear. He had never before been responsible for a creature's suffering, and his conscience spoke loudly to him.

"Well, how can you keep on shooting with that in your hands?" asked another boy, laughing at Hugh. "Kill it and it won't be any trouble to you. You can tuck it inside your pocket then."

For the first time in Hugh's life the great feeling of sympathy and love for his feathered friends came over him, and turning sharply to the boy who had just addressed him he said: "Yes, and any of us could be tucked away in a pocket—if the pocket were big 'nough—if we was stiff an' dead. None of us would give any trouble then. An' suppose just 'cause a boy got his arm broke some giant should happen along and say, I'll step on him and finish him. Then I can lug him about in my pocket without his troublin' me. Nope, I'm going to carry this bird home an' let Mamma do what she thinks is best."

Then a shout went up at Hugh's expense, but he was fully roused and did not mind it. "Hi-hi, Baby-gurl!" cried one boy. "Chicken-heart!" cried another. "See the Gurl-boy!" shouted a third. But Hugh stalked from their midst, the winged sparrow in his hands. And as he felt the warm little body quivering against them and knew how frightened it was, and how it must be suffering, he felt a huge lump growing in his throat, and tears came into his eyes.

"Mamma and Papa and Maggie know best," he whispered. "They always said it was very wicked to kill any innocent thing. And I should have a good licking and be sent to bed without my supper for winging this little sparrow."

Thus did Hugh repent of his conduct all the way home, and on entering the house he was glad to find his mother had returned home. He went straight to her and confessed what he had done, and showed the little bird to her. "We'll take it to Dr. Drake, down at the dog and cat hospital," said Mrs. Collins. "He'll set the little wing. And after Birdie has grown strong again we'll take it to the grove and turn it loose."

"For some other wicked boy to shoot!" cried Hugh desperately. "Mamma, I'm going to begin doing all I can against the wanton slaughter of birds. I never realized what killing them meant till I saw this helpless thing, all injured and suffering, fall at my feet today. Then I understood how wicked us kids are. But I'll never shoot at a bird again. My old bull's-eye is good enough for me. But, Mamma, aren't you going to punish me for behaving as I did today?" he asked.

"You have been punished enough, my Son, by looking at the suffering your thoughtlessness has caused. You were not really heartless, Hughie, only thoughtless. But at the first sight of misery your heart responded. I am glad this thing has happened, for Birdie is not dangerously hurt and will recover, and the lesson to you has been just the thing you needed. Come, get your hat, we'll carry Birdie to the doctor and have the little wing set. Then we'll nurse the dear thing back to strength and soon we'll see it flying as usual again."

"Well, why don't you put your heel on it and finish it?" asked one of the band.

ADVICE.

DON'T keep your eyes upon sky,
For if you hold your head too high
You'll stub your toes, as sure as Fate,
And then you'll find it is too late

To keep yourself from falling down
Upon the cold, unfeeling ground.
But if you'll look before you walk
(And if you'll think before you talk),
Much trouble you'll avoid, my dears,
And save yourselves both pain and tears.

Where Your Toys Come From.

CHILDREN, when you see our shop windows filled with beautiful toys of every description, do you ever wonder where they all come from? Well, most of our unique toys are made in Germany, in the small provincial towns. There labor is cheap and the townspeople are employed making things to amuse the children of the world. Doubtless France leads in beautiful dolls, for we all know that dolls of other countries cannot compare with the French doll. She is a thing of beauty and a joy till she falls into the hands of some careless little girl. Then—presto, pass!—her beauty is a thing of the past.

There are many, many small, exquisite toys made in Switzerland, beautiful art-toys one might call them, carved from fine white wood and ivory. The Swiss are masters in the art of carving in miniature. But their toys are not so unique nor so interesting to the little folks as are the German and French toys. Japanese toys are odd and pretty, but not very amusing to American children.

Assays from the tailings after they had passed over the plates showed $2.50 a ton. The plant to be erected will have the amalgamation process and grind fine and also have the cyanide process, and if present plans carry the plant will have a daily capacity of close to 500 tons when working full.

The ore on the ground is a horn-blend schist impregnated with quartz and from pyrites carrying fine gold and has been penetrated sixty-five fee in a tunnel without encountering the foot-wall. No date has been selected for the commencement of work on the mill and the Minneapolis and other Eastern interests of the company are working out the details.

Plans for the spring work of the Castle Creek Hydraulic company, which is to operate on Rapid creek in Pennington county, are well in hand. The company has a large acreage and is now installing its machinery for active operations, having tested out the gravel on which the placer work is to be done.

Organization of the Copper Queen Mining company in the Custer Peak district has been completed. The officers and directors are Black Hills and Eastern capitalists. The ground taken is the old Donaldson group, formerly owned by Capt. John Donaldson of Minneapolis, and comprises 140 acres of promising mineral land. It has been worked at intervals in the last thirty years, but no systematic plan has been carried out owing to lack of funds.

There is a decomposed quartz vein thirty feet wide at the surface containing good copper and silver values. In the early days silver assaying as high as $5,000 to the ton was taken out of the ground. The shaft is down 100 feet, well timbered, but owing to the decomposed nature ofthe ground, which formed caves, work was abandoned in a crosscut at that level. It is the present plan to sink below the water level, where it is expected that hard rock will be encountered and the work will be much easier. It is believed that the ground contains an extension of the coper ledge opened up on the Custer Peak Mining company's property near by.

Two shifts are working on the Ruby Mining company's ground on Iron creek, where the shaft is being sunk to the quartzite, which it is hoped to reach in another seventy-five. The Ruby is an old property formerly known as the Deer Lick.

INSTALLS BIG COMPRESSOR

Much New Equipment Being Put in at Inspiration---Superior & Globe Extending Crosscuts---Arizona-Michigan to Start New Shaft.

Globe, Ariz., Feb. 19.—The large air compressor to be used in mining the ore now being developed by the Inspiration Copper company arrived at the tunnel site last week and is now being installed. The size of this compressor is 185-horse power. Two 100-horse power boilers are also being installed, the concrete foundations for these having been completed for several days. The frame of the compressor building is completed and the roofing is now being added. The tunnel has been driven over 100 feet northward, the whole length being in granite porphyry.

The wagon road from the Joe Bush shaft is already built and the pipe line to this shaft is being laid to furnish the air for the drills in the workings of this shaft. The new 60-horse power hoist being installed at this shaft will operate a skip in place of the bucket heretofore used. Ten new one-ton mine cars have also arrived at the property, and these will be used at the Joe Bush workings, where the greater part of the development work is being carried on. The raises and drifts from the 400-foot level of the shaft are blocking out the ore in 200-foot blocks, preliminary to the extracting of ore through the winzes to the tramming tunnels below. The northern part of the ore body being prospected by the churn drills is being developed by the work south from the 275-foot level of the Scorpion shaft. The present locations of the churn drills are southwest of the Joe Bush shaft and south of the Scorpion. Houses for the employes are being built north and south of the main office building, and it is the intention of the maagement to continue this work until the accommodations for the employes are ample.

Superior & Globe.

Both crosscuts from the 650-foot level of the Superior & Globe shaft are being rapidly extended by contract labor.

The approximate length of the crosscuts running southwest and northeast is 150 feet and the face of each crosscut is in diabase.

It is expected by the management that the Yuma vein will be encountered by the south crosscut within 100 feet or less from the present face. The first vein north of the present shaft will probably be opened at a distance of 300 feet. As the crosscutting is being done each way at the rate of about 125 feet a month, it can be readily seen that within six weeks, some most important developments may be expected on the Superior & Globe property, as lodes should be opened both north and south of the shaft within that time.

The 60-horse power gasoline hoisting engine recently installed south of the vertical shaft should be in operation within a week or ten days. About twenty-eight men are being employed by the Superior & Globe Copper company under the immediate direction of Foreman Pete Wagner. H. V. Snell, superintendent, is in general charge of the work.

Arizona-Michigan.

Arrangements are being made at the Arizona-Michigan property for sinking an inclined shaft on the Old Dominion vein, where it outcrops about 950 feet south of the Telfair shaft, which has already been sunk 550 feet. The new shaft will probably connect with the level work on the 500-foot level of the Telfair shaft. Up to the present time, the development work at this property has been confined principally to the 500-foot level of the Telfair, but a prospect shaft, sunk twenty feet on the Old Dominion vein several months ago, showed sufficient copper value to warrant the sinking of a double compartment shaft to explore the vein at greater depth, in the hope of developing ore during the process. Work will probably be started within the next ten days at this location.

The crosscut driven north from the Telfair shaft on the 500-foot level has advanced 474 feet. The face of this crosscut is now in quartzite. The south crosscut is 455 feet long and is still in diorite. N. A. Nelson, superintendent, is employing twenty men, but when work on the new shaft is begun, the force will probably be increased.

and so abandoned it. Again about eight years ago work was recommenced by Capt. A. Anderson, who tunnelled into the mountain side for about 800 feet and, as events show, paralleled a good vein for quite a distance but did not strike the lead he was looking for. It is said that had he developed a few feet he would have been rewarded with the strike which has now been made. As it was he spent his fortune to no avail. Finally last fall several well-known Ravalli county residents took up the work and their operations have been rewarded. It is purposed to operate the property systematically. It is said that there is sufficient commercial grade ore in sight to guarantee shipments for many months.

Wiant & Leyson have taken a lease and bond on the Green-Campbell property in the Silver Star district of Madison county. The term is one year at $185,000. Improper management, inadequate machinery and other adverse conditions have been a serious handicap in past operations, although the property is regarded by mining men as having an excellent basis. Its values are chiefly in gold and copper. The ore will be sent to East Helena or Butte for treatment.

Another rich strike of gold ore has been made in the Vineyard property in Bear Gulch, Madison county. The vein is four feet wide and is thought to be a continuation of that exposed in the Pritchett. The ore also carries some values in lead and silver.

MANY CHANGES TO BE MADE

ly two years ago during the financial depression, was recently re-opened and is now being operated by means of a tunnel, which is now in a distance of 315 feet. The vein which has been cut twice, is said to have an average width of about twenty-eight feet between walls. It is estimated that more than $300,000 worth of ore has been blocked out. The tunnel is to be driven 200 feet further into the mountain for the purpose of exploring another vein.

Keating.

The Keating Gold Mining company, located near Radersburg in this state, is engaged in installing a complete new surface plant to take the place of the old one, and it is estimated that the new plant will be in position by the latter end of next month. The new plant, which will cost $40,000, will include a complete electrically driven hoist, a new air compressor and other necessary appliances adapted to a large production of ore at a minimum of cost. The machinery is now en route. The ore that is now being mined is of an exceedingly high grade as shown by the last ten cars shipped to the Butte Reduction works, it giving an average net return of $10,000. As soon as the new plant is in operation the shipments will be increased to 250 tons of gold ore daily. Considerable copper ore has been sent to the smelter, the ore running as high as 25 per cent copper in carload lots. Within the next week or so the company will issue its statements to the stockholders, showing receipts and expenditures.

Corbin Copper.

The foundation for a 100-ton concentrator for the Corbin Copper company has been laid and it is expected that the mill will be in operation by the latter part of April. The Corbin company owns fifty-one claims, or a total of about 1,000 acres of ground, with several water rights with sufficient water to supply a 1,000-ton concentrator all through the year. On the seventeen claims tunnels and drifts have been run to an aggregate of 10,745 feet, practically opening up all of the property.

Object to Concentrator Slum.

The ranchers of the Boulder valley are organizing for the purpose of taking steps to stop the Heinze concentrator management from dumping slum into the Jefferson river at Basin. The ranchers claim that the slum from the concentrator renders the water unfit for domestic or irrigating purposes and have already engaged attorneys to secure an injunction. Just when the formal application will be made for the restraining order has not yet been made public, and those interested are not disposed to talk about the matter, beyond making the acknowledgement that such action is contemplated.

Robert Emmet.

The Robert Emmet Copper company, located in the Corbin-Wickes district, has announced its intention of building a concentrator in the spring to be ready just as soon as it is possible to complete it. The company has a shaft 350 feet deep, and two levels have been opened, at the 200 and 300. Two veins have been opened, running in width from five to fifteen feet. The pay streak in the veins runs from one to two feet in width, containing an average of 3 per cent copper, six ounces of silver, 5 per cent lead and $1.10 in gold to the ton. At present the shaft is being sunk to the 500, at which depth another level will be opened. The Emmet company has changed the location of the concentrator from that at first decided, in consequence of the announcement that the proposed electric railroad between Butte and Helena will be built this year, and in order to have the mill on the line of the proposed road. If the new road is started this spring it will mean a great deal for the Corbin district, as the shipments can be made to good advantage.

Butte & Superior.

The Butte & Superior is shipping 200 tons daily at the present time and it is expected in the near future to increase this to 400 tons daily. Plans are being prepared for a machine shop and dry room, which will accommodate 200 men and the outlook is that the Butte & Superior, in the not far distant future, will be one of the big producers of this district.

Butte-Alex Scott.

The Butte-Alex Scott is now making regular shipments of high-grade copper ore, running from 15 per cent to 20 per cent copper. The company, a few days ago, struck a body of ore on the 1,400 level averaging 6 per cent to 7 per cent copper. They have gone through this ore body ten feet and have not yet struck the other wall.

the east, and on the developments at the Steel corporation's Champion mine, some miles to the west. The formation at the Champion is similar to that at the Maas exploration; and notwithstanding that the Champion is even now mining from a depth approximating 2,500 feet the company is looking better at present than ever before in its history, recent discoveries in the lower levels having shown up larger bodies of ore than were encountered in the upper levels. On surface, the American mine vein was only five to six feet thick. At 400 feet, it had widened from twelve to fifteen feet, and in the eighth level, 685 feet down, it had expanded to twenty feet. The sixth level has been extended 1,000 feet west of the shaft thus far, and in this one the miners are within 200 feet of the Maas line. The ninth level is now being opened at a depth of 765 feet. The ore body has been entered here, and as in the upper levels it still pitches to the westward. These developments alone convince Mr. Maas that the deposit in section 31 will be found to extend considerably below the point where the drill passed through the hematite. Mr. Maas is now having a special instrument constructed for the purpose of surveying the 3,265-foot drill hole. This boring was the deepest ever made in North America. The rods became badly twisted, however, and the results were not altogether satisfactory. Experts are now at work on the surveying device, and Mr. Maas expected eventually to know just what the formation is like through every inch of the 3,265 feet.

It will require at least five years more to thoroughly test the acreage held by Mr. Maas and his associates. The exploratory work has, in fact, only been started. The territory stretches for two miles along the formation, and the deposits so far discovered are in the extreme eastern forty. Mr. Maas is sanguine that the ore extends all through the two-mile tract, and beyond it, and that ultimately a number of the biggest mines on the Marquette range will be developed. The forty acres in which the exploratory operations are centered at present are owned in fee by Mr. Maas and Theodore M. Davis of Newport, R. I., president of the Keweenaw association. The other lands are the property of the Barnes Land company, a Marquette county concern; F. M. Moore of Marquette; George Rust of California, and the Scoville and Johnson estates.

Other Interests Active.

Lands in the American mine district have been in demand the past few months, or ever since it has been understood that the Maas exploration has been attended with success, and a considerable portion of the available acreage has been taken under option or lease. The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company particularly has been active in this connection, and it even now has diamond drills at work on lands adjoining those held by Mr. Maas. The Hanna interests also have added to their holdings in the district. A number of the land owners have, however, made such extravagant demands that, unless concessions are granted, it is unlikely their tracts will be taken over by prospective lessees for a long time to come. Overtures for the Maas holdings already have been made by mining corporations and furnace concerns, but none of these propositions have yet been considered. It is not improbable, in fact, that Mr. Maas and his associates will themselves operate the properties. Whatever course is decided upon, it is assured that the single forty adjoining the American mine alone will yield a fortune.

The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, which, like Mr. Maas, has been doing a great deal of exploring in the Marquette range country to the west of Ishpeming, and especially in the North Lake district, three miles out, is planning an extension of its railroad system to that field. The company has found extensive bodies of ore and it has already started the work of opening two new mines, these at North Lake and at the old Dexter location. A six-mile extension of the Ishpeming & Lake Superior railroad will be built this year. The contract for the work has been awarded to Gus Fredeen of Norway, Mich., and construction operations will be started shortly. Both the North Lake and Dexter properties will be large producers. Neither will enter the shipping list until next year, however, and even then they will not be in condition to produce extensively. The extension of the Cleveland-Cliffs railroad will tap one of the very richest portions of the Marquette range, but it is not considered likely the company will make a bid for business outside the traffic from its own mines. To do so would require a considerable increase in equipment and additional ore dock capacity. The territory to the west of Ishpeming already is served by the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic and Chicago & Northwestern lines and to a small extent by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.

Randville District.

A promising ore-bearing field, the developments in which latterly have been attracting a good deal of attention, is the Randville district to the north of Iron Mountain, Menominee range. Until about a year or two ago this region was in little favor notwithstanding that such eminent geologists as President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin and Prof. Pompelly had expressed opinions leading to the conclusion that valuable deposits were contained in it. The former showing at the Groveland mine, the only producer in the field, had much to do with molding the prevailing belief. The ore at this property apparently was contained in a small basin of shallow depth, and the mine had had a checkered career when it was taken over by the Huron mining interests of Cleveland. It was to mine the ore remaining in the old workings that the new operators stepped in. Believing with the geologists, however, that larger and better deposits probably existed, Capt. Henry Lawry, in charge of the mining work, outlined a program of exploratory operations. Diamond drilling was started from the bottom level. This resulted in the discovery of ore of Bessemer grade. Subsequently the width of the deposit was ascertained to be upwards of eighty feet. Drilling is now being done to determine the depth of the ore body but already enough is known of the extent of the find to warrant opening and equipping the property for extensive production. Plans to that end are now being made. Considerable additional machinery has been ordered and it is expected that by the season of 1911 the Groveland will be in position to ship several hundred thousand tons. The tract comprises 240 acres.

Adjacent to the Groveland to the west are four forty-acre tracts, the fee of which is owned by Edward N. Breitung, a well-known multi-millionaire mining operator of Marquette, Mich. Mr. Breitung is now engaged in exploring the lands and so far with satisfactory results. Diamond drills are being used. Ore has already been found in quantity on one forty-acre tract, known as the Elba, and it is stated that the quality of the deposit is practically identical with that at the Groveland, which it adjoins. This forty at least will make a mine, it is stated, and it is believed that others will be found equally valuable. John T. Jones, furnace man, of Iron Mountain, is interested extensively in the Randville district, and so are George A. St. Clair of Duluth, the Beaver Iron company and Prof. Pompelly. It is expected that much exploratory work will be done in the field the coming summer, other than that now in progress, and it will not be surprising if the results are important. Mr. Jones has already explored his lands and has found ore.

LaGrippe pains that pervade the entire system, LaGrippe coughs that rack and strain, are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar. It is mildly laxative, safe and certain in results. Sold by all druggists.

SPEAKER CANNON'S LIEUTENANTS IN HIS GREATEST FIGHT

lead, to bring about the nomination of Grant for a third term. Probably no other member of congress can boast of wider personal business activities, and, it is needless to add, perhaps, Mr. Huff is a very wealthy man, even as wealth is reckoned in that paradise of millionaires, Western Pennsylvania.

The Lieutenants of the Rules Committee.

So much for the "kitchen cabinet." On the rules committee of the house, which is the vehicle by which the majority frequently enforces its will, is the speaker of the house and two of his most able Republican lieutenants. Of course, the minority has a representation of two members, but their presence on this committee is merely perfunctory.

The rules committee represents the acme of partisanship in the house. When all else fails, it is the voice through which the organization speaks for purposes of legislation. If it is desirable to enact new legislation on an appropriation bill, against which a point of order might be made without a special rule of the house specifically authorizing its consideration, such a special rule is brought out from this committee. Likewise, a special rule is utilized to bring about the consideration of a special piece of legislation out of its order on the calendar. Or it may be used as an especial appeal to Republican loyalty for legislation against which there may be considerable Republican opposition.

It is this committee, as now composed and operated, against which the Republican insurgents are striking.

In addition to the speaker, the Republican members of the committee at present are Representatives John Dalzell of Pennsylvania and Walter L. Smith of Iowa. Of course, when a rule is reported to the house, the speaker is always in the chair, and it therefore naturally devolves upon Representative Dalzell to present the report of the rules committee to the house.

Mr. Dalzell is an adept at the art of parliamentary procedure. He is a small man, as already said, who walks and talks with his head inclined over his right shoulder. This peculiar physical characteristic has led his colleagues in the house to dub him facetiously "the man who walks with his ear to the ground." The Pennsylanian is recognized as the arch standpatter on tariff in the house, representing, as he does, the Pittsburg district, which probably derives more benefit from tariff duties than any community of similar area in the entire United States. He is keen and shrewd, a debator of the caustic type, well informed, and altogether an ideal man for the position he holds in the house organization.

A Great Teller of Stories.

Representative Smith, the other Republican member, comes from the Council Bluffs district of Iowa, and is not only one of the ablest members of the house, but also one of its best story-tellers.

When President Roosevelt was blasting congress for its attitude on the secret service, Mr. Smith was in the forefront of the battle, because of the fact that he was a member of the appropriations committee of the house, which stood sponsor for the limitation of the secret service, against which the president complained. When the president sent his special message to congress on this subject, he did not mention Mr. Smith by name, but left the inference that Mr. Smith's activities were due to the fact that some of his constituents had been looked up by the secret service men. The Iowan did not take the inference seriously, but told a story in line with the point the president was trying to make.

"Did you ever hear the advice of the old politician?" he said one day, in talking with a group of acquaintances.

"Well, this particular individual was running for office. His opponents charged him with being a grafter. It made him mad, but he did not deny it. Next, somebody said he was a liar. That made him madder, but he did not deny it. Then some virtuous citizen said he was a most profane man. He greatly feared this charge would cost him the church vote, but he did not deny it. When they finally said he had made a deal with the corporations to assure his election, he got so blamed mad he could not hold in any longer, and he denied that, and, by George, they proved it on him. Deny nothing."

Mr. Smith is one of the readiest debaters in the house, a fiend for facts and figures, and has a tongue as sharp as a whip-lash. Despite his tremendous force of character, his good nature is one of the predominating features of his make-up.

James R. Mann, Personal Lieutenant.

James R. Mann of Chicago, the new chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, is a lieutenant of Speaker Cannon who was chosen a lieutenant for personal reasons. No sooner had Speaker Cannon been elected to that office in the Fifty-eighth congress than Mr. Mann appeared on the floor as the representative of the speaker in watching legislation.

"I object," coming from Mr. Mann, has come since that day to be a part of the daily routine of the house. If Mr. Mann is not objecting, he is reserving points of order for the purpose of finding out what the member proposing legislation is driving at.

"Watch-dog of the treasury," is another title which has come to him by reason of the fact that he so frequently interrupts bills carrying appropriations of money on their path of roses through the house. These titles are conferred on Mr. Mann by his colleagues and by the public because of the impression his work has created upon them.

In choosing Mr. Mann for this position, Speaker Cannon picked out an almost indefatigable worker. Not only is it the duty of Mr. Mann to look after the legislation coming from his important committee, which in this session will include legislation on the white slave traffic, the Panama canal, interstate commerce, amendments to the anti-trust law and federal incorporation, together with a host of bills of minor importance, but he must also prepare himself for legislation coming from most of the other committees, which may not be, on the whole, salutary in their effact on his party or his country if enacted into law. To do this work, Mr. Mann works night and day, rarely ever fails to fill at least a page of the Congressional Record at each daily session, and altogether is about the busiest man in congress. In fact, some of his colleagues, who get their toes trod on occasionally, think he is too busy.

A good story is told on Mr. Mann in this connection. Two years ago when he went to the West Indies with Speaker Cannon and a party of friends, a landing was made at Ponce, Porto Rico. There, the congressmen were met on the dock by a number of native Porto Ricans, who welcomed them. One of the number had been a great student of American affairs, and among other things, had made it a religious duty to read the Congressional Record zealously. Upon being introduced to Mr. Mann, he said:

"So this is Representative James R. Mann of Chicago, is it? I have long wanted to meet you. I have read every speech you have made in congress for several years back, and I must express my admiration of your services."

Vice President James S. Sherman, then a member of the house, who was shaking hands with another native nearby, overhearing the conversation between Mr. Mann and his newly found friend, rushed over and grabbing the native by the hand, exclaimed:

"I want to meet you myself. I am James S. Sherman of New York. If you have read all the speeches Jim Mann has made in congress in the last few years, you must be the busiest man in this whole darned island."

Mr. Mann is noted for his independence. In the course of his career as floor lieutenant of the speaker, he has defeated the committee on rules, which is dominated by the speaker, forced the ways and means committee composed of the "kitchen cabinet" of the speaker to move from the capitol building to the new office building, and finally, in the recent tariff session, cast his vote against the tariff bill because the senate insisted on making the duty on newspaper $4 a ton, when, after an exhaustive investigation, Mr. Mann, as chairman of the special investigating committee of the house, had found it ought not to be more than $2. There is no gainsaying the fact that Mr. Mann is the nearest approach to a walking encyclopedia on legislation in the house of representatives.

Cannon's Wealthy Personal Friend.

One of the chief adjuncts of the house machine are the chairmen of the big committees of the house, every one of whom is supposed to be a lieutenant of the speaker or of the speakership, whichever way one desires to regard it. All of these men are appointed to their positions by the speaker, although, as already pointed out, most of them have risen to their present position from a place in the rank of privates on the committee. As was also noted, the speaker sometimes exercises the real power which he has, and appoints a chairman for some specific purpose.

One of the most conspicuous instances of this kind was in the last congress, when Speaker Cannon made Representative W. B. McKinley of Illinois chairman of the house committee on coinage, weights and measures. Mr. McKinley is one of the closest personal friends the speaker has. He was the campaign manager of the Cannon boom for the presidency, and, incidentally, footed most of the bills incurred in that propaganda. He is a multimillionaire and the owner of a vast number of public utility corporations in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, including a network of electric interurban lines of several hundred miles in length in Illinois. The fact that he is a Napoleon in finance and short of stature has led some of his friends to nickname him "Napoleon."

Another instance of the speaker's favoritism was displayed in this congress when Mr. Cannon removed Representative Henry A. Cooper, a Wisconsin insurgent, from the chairmanship on the committee of insular affairs and put in his place Representative Marlin E. Olmsted of Pennsylvania, one of the main cogs of the house machine.

Representative John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, recognized as a coming man in the house, was placed at the head of the postoffice committee this session, notwithstanding the fact that he had never been a member of that committee before. He is one of the handy, all-around members of the house machine. He is a banker and broker, a graduate of Annapolis naval academy, and served as a lieutenant in the Spanish-American war, commanding the second division of the auxiliary navy. To display further his versatility, Speaker Cannon placed him on the house committee on agriculture in the last congress.

Among other lieutenants of the speaker who occupy chairmanships on prominent house committees are several prominent leaders in congress. Charles F. Scott of Kansas, chairman of the committee on agriculture, is one of those who is facing a political riot at home because of his loyalty to the speaker and the house organization, Kansas being one of the hotbeds of anti-Cannonism. James A. Tawney of Minnesota, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, who began life as a blacksmith, is another in the same fix as Mr. Scott. Edward B. Vreeland of New York, head of the banking and currency committee and joint author of the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency bill in the last congress, received his chairmanship when Speaker Cannon decapitated C. N. Fowler of New Jersey, one of the leading insurgents of the house. Joseph H. Gaines of West Virginia, chairman of the committee of elections of president, vice president and members of congress, and one of the rough-and-ready politicians of the Republican party, is another valuable adjunct of the organization. Mr. Gaines has been busy for three years holding the lid on the campaign fund publicity bill. John A. T. Hull of Iowa, chairman of the committee on military affairs, has been a Cannon adherent throughout his congressional career, despite the wave of progressiveism which has swept over Iowa, and now faces the wrath of the progressive organization in the state in the coming election. Richard Bartholdt of the public buildings and grounds committee, a native of Germany and one of the leading advocates of international peace, has taken an oath to stand or fall with Speaker Cannon because of the personal favors he has received from the present head of the house organization.

The "Go-Between" for Speaker and President.

But, when all is said and done, one of the most important functionaries on the organization band-wagon in the house is the majority "whip," which office is now held by Representative John W. Dwight of New York. This office is as well-known in the house of parliament in England as it is in the congress of the United States, and its creation is the outcome of necessity and experience.

Necessarily, no political organization, or in fact, machine of any kind, will deliberately fly in the face of the opinion of the elements which compose the body of the machine. It is, therefore, the duty of the "whip" to ascertain the sentiment of the majority in the house on each and every piece of legislation in which the house organization is especially interested. Incidentally, when there is a conflict of opinion on legislation between the president and the speaker, "whip" Dwight frequently goes to the White House bearing a message from the speaker to the president, or for the purpose of ascertaining the views of the president for guidance of the speaker. Naturally, a man in whom confidence not only of the president and the speaker, but also of many of the members of the house, are reposed, must be a sphinx, and it can be said without fear of contradiction from any of the 200 newspaper correspondents in Washington that Mr. Dwight is a sphinx of the first water.

Let us follow the duties of Mr. Dwight in a practical way. A piece of legislation involving a policy of the administration is about to come up for consideration in the house. It has opposition among a considerable number of the Republican members, who are voicing the sentiments of their constituents conscientiously. Nevertheless, the president and the speaker deem it wise legislation for the good of the country at large. Mr. Dwight reports to the speaker that a preliminary canvass has cast doubt on the success of the measure in the house. He is made the bearer of confidences between the White House and the speaker's room.

The Scouts of the "Whip."

The wheels of the house organization are set moving, with the aid of presidential pressure, to pass the bill. "Whip" Dwight summons his assistants, of whom he has one for each geographical division, which he has arbitrarily created in his own mind for purposes of his own convenience. These scouts ascertain the basis of the opposition and report back. A conference of the speaker's "kitchen cabinet" considers a method of a harmonious solution of the difficulty, which usually brings about the desired result, especially if the opposition is numerous enough to force a compromise. If it is not, the house organization may conclude to "stand pat."

A day is set for the consideration of the legislation. It is "Whip" Dwight's duty to see that every member of the house favorable to the legislation is in his seat at the appointed hour, to lend his vote in favor of the legislation which the house organization has proposed. This system usually wins, but sometimes it does not, as was recently evidenced when the house adopted the Norris amendment providing that the house members to the joint committee appointed to investigate the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy should not be appointed by the speaker, but should be elected by the house.

A "whip" of the house must be a man who inspires personal confidences from the members with whom he has to deal. Lacking somewhat the elements of a good "mixer," Mr. Dwight does not inspire these confidences quite as readily as some of his predecessors. He is essentially a man of business and not the type of "good fellow" such as was his immediate predecessor, Former Representative James E. Watson of Indiana. However, those who know him best consider him well fitted to his place.

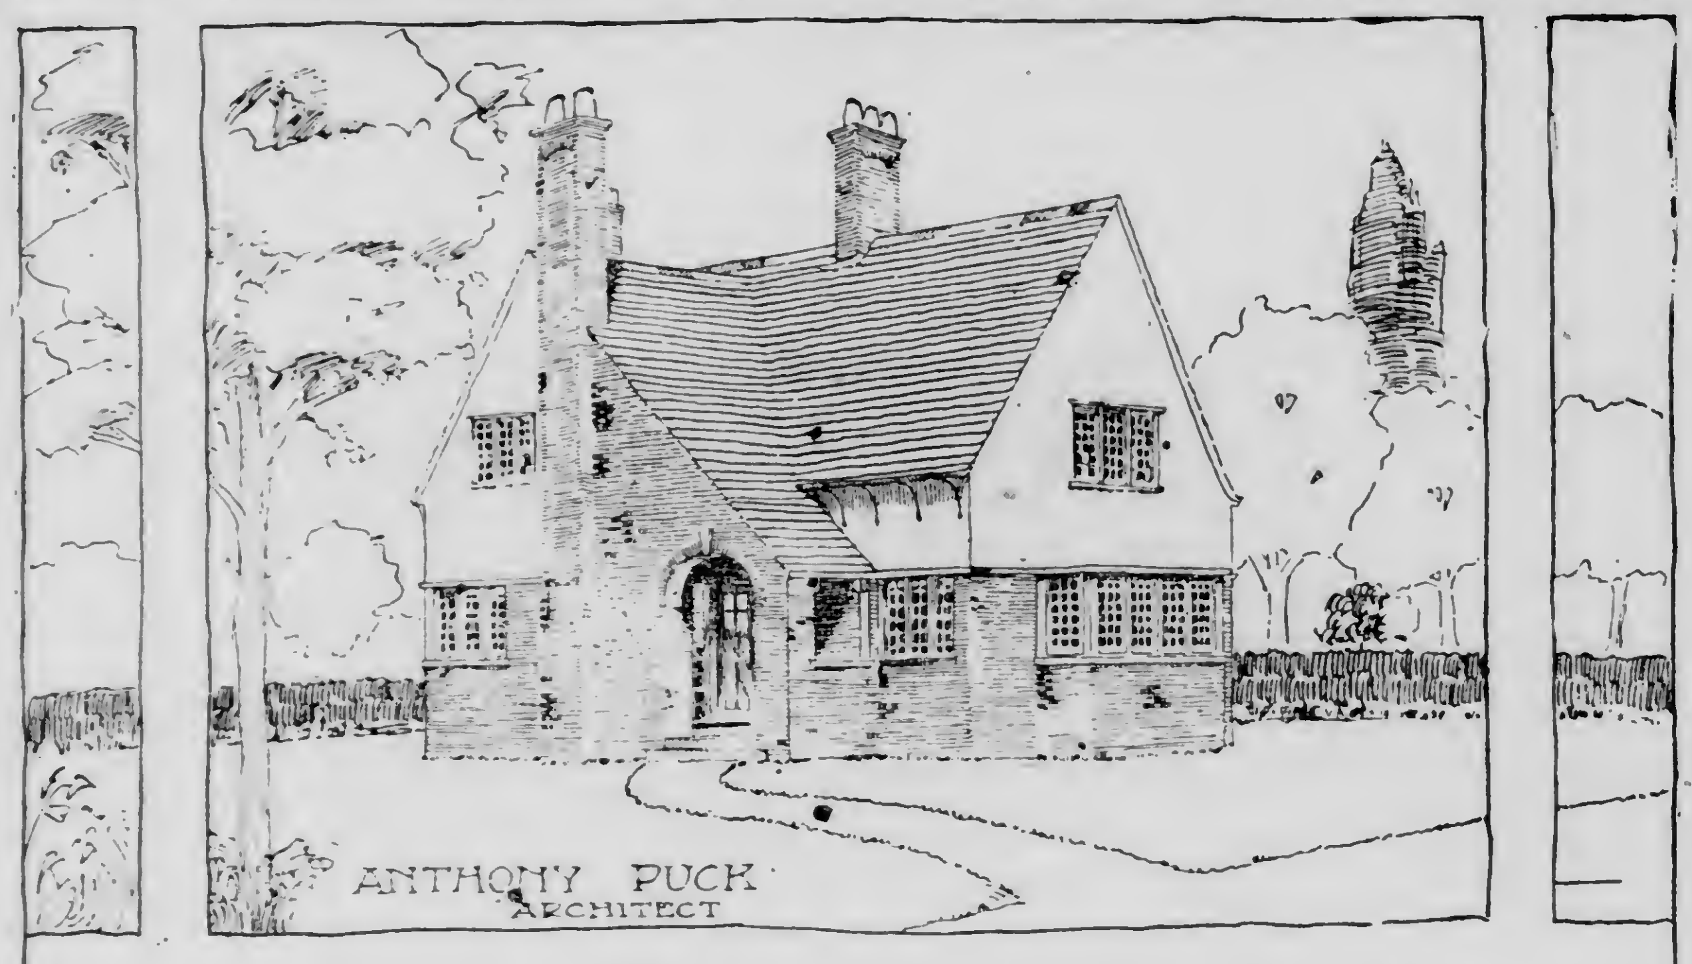
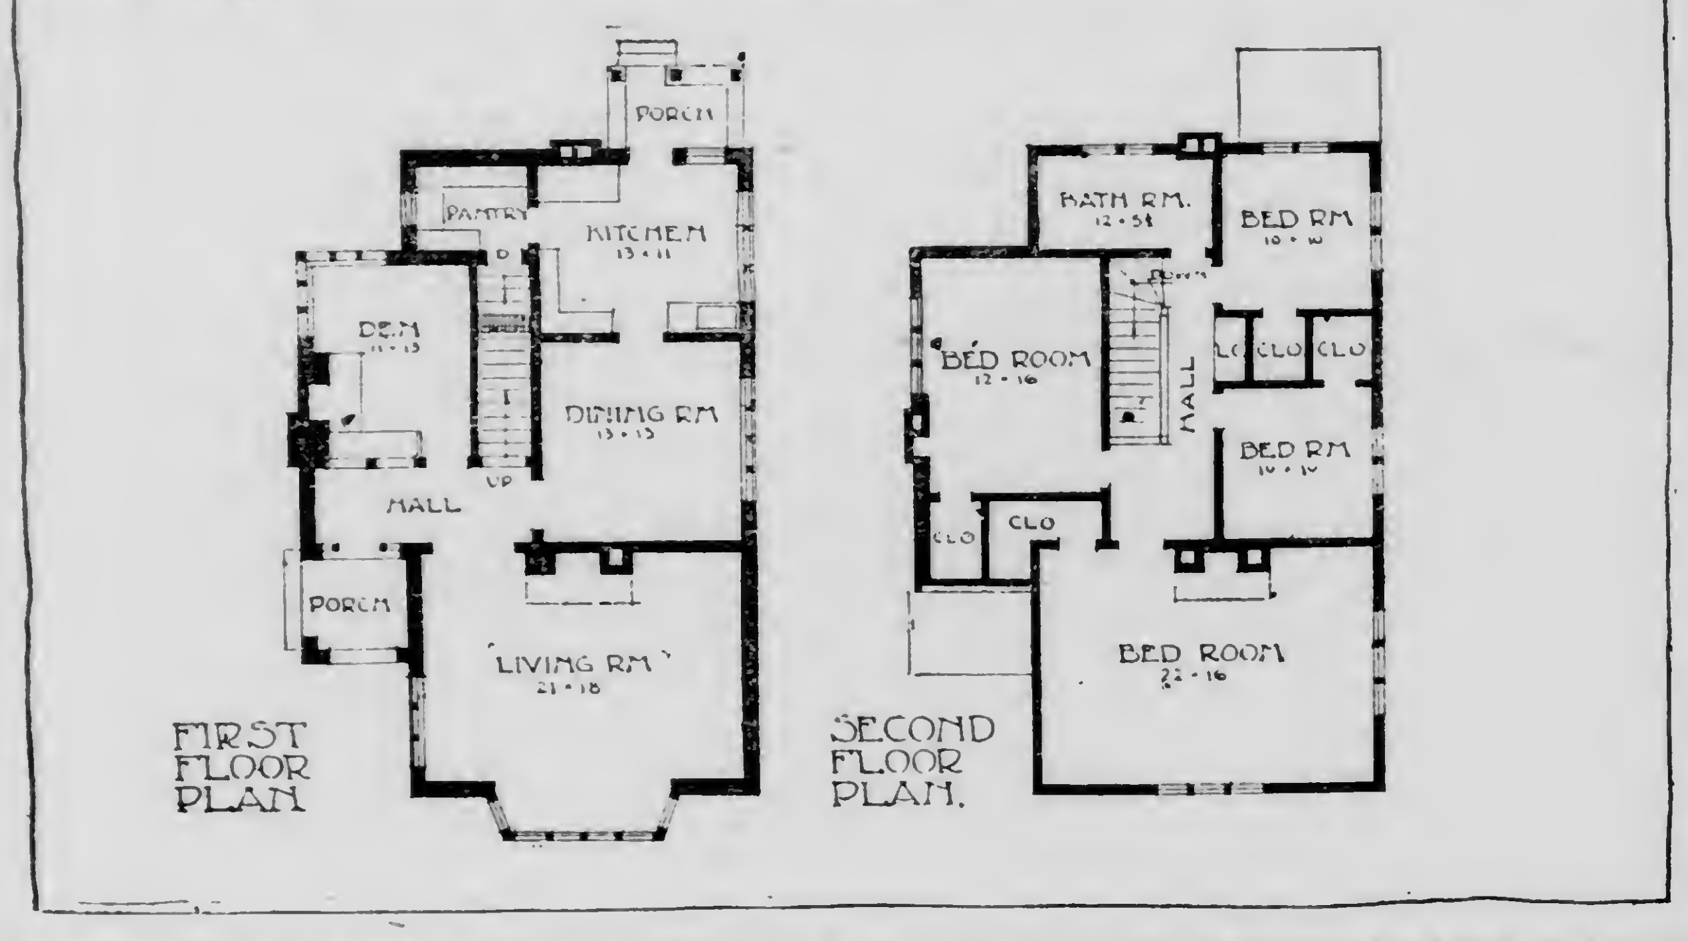
REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING NEWS

Blessed By Natural Advantages, Combined With Push and Energy, a Great City Is Sure to Result. Such a City Is Duluth at the Head of the Lakes. Dock Fronts Increasing. Buildings in Progress. Railroads Building. New Territory Being Opened. To What End? For a Near Future Expansion. Get Into the Procession!

ENGLISH HOME WHICH COULD BE BUILT IN DULUTH FOR $8,000





The above illustration shows a design distinctly English in character with a plan of cozy and homelike arrangement. This house is designed for fireproof construction, the first story being of brick, the partitions and second story walls of hollow tile, and floors of tile and concrete. It is the intention of the design to have the brick laid up in natural mortar, the tile walls with stucco finish, and the roof of slate, the foundation to be of concrete or stone.

As generally seen in English houses, this plan has the living rooms separate from each other and accessible only from the hall. This is a desirable feature and makes a most livable plan. The rooms would all work out nicely in English design and detail. The living room is particularly attractive with its deep bay, wide fireplace and glass doors communicating with the hall. The service portion is complete and convenient in equipment and arrangement. The four bedrooms of the second story are of very good proportionate size. A large bathroom and ample closet space are also provided.

The estimated cost of a home as above illustrated and described, including heating and plumbing is $8,000.

ANTHONY PUCK,
Architect.

EASTERN INVESTORS ARE LOOKING TOWARD DULUTH

City Is Not Found Wanting When Standards Are Applied.

Local People Are Slow to Realize the Opportunities Offered.

The real estate market continues in the "betwixt and between" stage. A little turn either way would develop something notable. It might be a stagnant market, with real estate men wondering where office rent and stenographer salaries are to come from, and it might be the busiest, best market that Duluth has known in a good many years.

Duluth real estate men adhere to the belief that it will be the latter. They have plenty of basis for their optimism. They point to the activity in acreage the past year, the new additions that have been opened and put on the market, the coming of industries and, most of all, the great interest that is being shown in Duluth property by Easterners.

Strange as it may seem, people right on the ground do not see the future of a city as clearly and as soon as those who have their homes elsewhere, but it is true, nevertheless. It is a fact that in nearly every city that has had great growth, investors outside of the city have reaped the harvest of profits in real estate. Eastern investors are shrewd and calculating. When a city gets into the limelight, when industries are headed in its direction, when railroads are making great efforts to reach it, when men of capital begin to look it over, the Eastern investors step right in and pick up all the property they can lay their hands on.

They know what's what, for they have had experience and experience, if high-salaried, is a great old tutor. Those eastern men with money behind them have been at the game so long they can get the grasp of a situation on short notice. They are looking for good investments. They seldom go into fake boom towns—that is, the wises ones. When they go into an investment, they usually know everything that is to be known about the prospects of the city in which they are buying dirt. Usually, they know more about it than the people living in the city.

Every real estate firm in the city has letters from Eastern investors inquiring about Duluth property. The letters show that the writers have an intelligent grasp of the situation. Real estate firms have been designated agents, with power to purchase available, desirable pieces of property. Duluth men, who have traveled in the East, have been plied with hundreds of questions by men, some of whom have surprised the Duluth men by their knowledge of the city and its prospects.

The popular Eastern impression of a few years ago that Duluth was a rocky shore inhabited principally by Indians, lumberjacks and Western bad men is no more. It has given way to the knowledge that Duluth is a progressive Western city, great in commerce, great in industry, great in energy, great in population and great in prospects.

The coming of the steel plant has done much toward putting Duluth in the limelight in the East, for Easterneds know what a steel plant means to a city. The coming of the Soo line and the Canadian Northern indicates that Duluth is to be the railroad center of the great Northwest on both sides of the border. The fact that the commerce of the Duluth-Superior harbor is second only to the commerce of the port of New York is not one to be treated lightly in the East or anywhere else, for there are a large number of ports on the North American continent.

Winnipeg had a phenomenal growth on far less roseate prospects than those of Duluth. Duluth has a more strategic position than Winnipeg, for it has the railroads and the lake both to handle its commerce and the importance of the lake as a channel of trade cannot be underestimated. Winnipeg had to depend on railroads alone. Duluth must depend on the railroads, also, but so must the railroads depend on Duluth. The railroads may ship from the Canadian Northwest direct to Duluth or Port Arthur to get their grain to the ships, but that grain must be handled in Duluth. The city has a strategic position that should make it the greatest city in the West.

Taking all those things into consideration, it is not to be wondered at that Duluth real estate men nave faith in the coming activity of the real estate market. It is small wonder that Eastern Investors, alive to opportunities in a growing city, are looking to Duluth and are ready to come here with hundreds of thousands to put into the market as soon as the construction of the steel plant is fairly under way. They have bases of estimates formed by long experience in the business world and when those bases are fairly applied to Duluth and the city is found up to the proper standards, there will be a swarm of real estate "shoppers" in Duluth that will make Duluth people wonder if blinders have been in vogue in this city.

Duluth is awakening gradually. People who did not look around them in years gone by are beginning to realize just the things that shrewd investors have realized all along. More people are inquiring, getting their resources together, preparing to get into the market and ride on the band wagon when the music starts.

It isn't well to wait too long. Duluth's destiny is at hand. Values are increasing rapidly from year to year and the increase will be more rapid in the next two or three or five years than it has been through all of Duluth's previous history. The man who places his savings into a piece of Duluth dirt right now—today—is making no mistake. He might buy copper stocks or other industrials, he might put his money into any kind of a venture he pleases, but he will not see such safe returns, such stable security, such hope of great profits as he will in Duluth's real estate market.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING NEWS

OWNERS ARE HOLDING FOR FUTURE PROFITS

Prospective Purchasers Have Difficulty in Supplying Their Wants.

Corner Opposite Library Involved in Deal Closed This Week.

Few real estate deals of importance came out during the past week. There was some activity, but it continued in the channels traveled since the first of the year, low-priced resident lots and acres forming the bulk of business.

The present market must be described as quiet, if one is to consider actual transfers only. As far as inquiry is concerned, it is not quiet. The present condition of the market is probably directly due to the scarcity of good property on the market. There are plenty of people ready to invest, but the present owners are holding on and waiting. They know that developments are coming slowly but surely, and they want to be in on the profits that will accrue to every piece of property in the city.

When offers to sell are made, they are usually at a price that includes prospective profits and paying prices that anticipate profits is not good business. While conditions remain as they are, there will not be a great deal of activity, even if the tone is the strongest it has ever been in a good many years.

* * *

Probably the most important deal of the week was the sale of 100 by 90 feet on the southwest corner of First avenue west and Second street by the Minnesota Loan & Trust company to S. B. Thomas and M. L. Sturdevant. The consideration was not made public, but the property is in a good location and it is understood it brought a large price. The seller was represented by W. M. Prindle & Co., and the purchasers by Stryker, Manley & Buck.

* * *

Another important sale was that of lot 20, block 5, Portland division, being 30 by 100 feet on the south side of Superior street between Third and Fourth avenues east by E. C. Little and others to Charles O. Baldwin. Little & Nolte represented the sellers and the purchaser was represented by Stryker, Manley & Buck. The consideration named in the deed was $1, etc.

* * *

The Duluth Building Land company was organized recently to go into home building on the easy payment plan. The company will begin to do business about the first of March and is said to have scores of applications already.

* * *

Lizzie A. Green has sold to Amel E. Welk the south half of the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 31 51-13, for $1,500.

* * *

Peter L. Johnson has sold to C. W. Elston a lot on the south side of Fourth street between Twenty-second, and Twenty-third avenues west, for $3,500.

* * *

Samuel Johnson has sold to E. F. Alford a property on the northwest corner of Sixth street and Twelfth avenue east, the consideration named in the deed being $1.

* * *

F. S. Easton has sold to Eva J. Wood a lot on the south side of Fifth street between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues east for $1,000.

* * *

M. M. Tibbetts has sold to Victor De Caigney a lot on the south side of Sixth street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth avenues east, the consideration not being made public.

* * *

The Sterling Land company has sold to R. W. Gray a lot on Woodland avenue near the normal school, the consideration named in the deed being $1.

* * *

Stryker, Manley Buck report the sale by Emma H. Drew to Homer Allard of lots 11 and 12, block 18, West Duluth, First division for $1,000.

Following were the transfers for the week.

A Texas Satsuma Orange Is a Most Delicious Fruit.

A Ten-Acre Orange Grove Is a Gold Mine—Yes Better, it Lasts Longer.

Texas Gulf Coast Country

THE LAND OF HEALTH AND WEALTH

Ten acres of land in the rich and fertile Gulf Coast country, planted with Satsuma orange and Magnolia Fig trees, is sufficient to make you independent for the rest of your life. It is an investment that provides an income from $3,000 to $5,000 a year at a conservative estimate, and with comparatively little work. You can thus afford to spend the winters in the Sunny South and the summers in the North.

If you buy now we can afford to sell you a ten-acre tract of orange and fig land at rock bottom prices, but the time will soon come when prices will soar, because the profits are very large, and people all over the Northern states are now rapidly buying. Orange land in California sells from ten to twenty times the prices we are asking, and is no more productive than this land.

See us or write for thoroughly reliable information regarding this Gulf Coast country, and especially regarding this introductory offer.

GIVEN A CHANCE TO MAKE GOOD

Angus D. McAuley Sentenced to Stillwater, But Gets Suspended Sentence.

Angus D. McAuley was yesterday afternoon sentenced to one year at hard labor at the Minnesota state prison at Stillwater by Judge Ensign of the district court.

McAuley was found guilty some time ago of deserting his family. He was found in California and brought back to Duluth for trial. Sentence was suspended upon the agreement of the prisoner to the stipulations of the court.

The terms of the parole are:

1. That during his suspension of sentence he is to abstain from intoxicants.
2. That he is to avoid all evil associations.
3. That he is to pay $25 each month for the support of the two children.
4. That he is not to leave the jurisdiction of the court, except as his labor may take him to Superior.
5. That on the tenth day of each month he is to report to F. E. Resche, probation officer of St. Louis county.

ARCHITECTS' ESTIMATES

Owner Often at Fault for Cost Going Beyond Expectations.

Many Try to Get Expensive Building at Ridiculous Price.

A series of articles in one of the larger building trade magazines from home builders whose estimate of the cost of the building of their homes was less than the actual sums paid out before the buildings were completed has from a well-known expert on building a criticism of present-day conditions. His answer on account of its interest to prospective home builders is reproduced here:

"In answer to the question 'Why is it that contractors' bids on a building almost always exceed the architect's estimate of its cost?' I would state," he declares, "that the result of my experience is that almost invariably the owner comes to the architect's office filled up with ideas that he can build for much less than the cost of construction. Oftentimes he will go to a first-class architect, who will be honest with him and tell him what his building is going to cost, which of course, will not satisfy him, as the cost will be above his ideas. Then he will begin to hunt for some one who will tell him his building will cost what his idea is. As a result he gets hold of an unscrupulous architect, or one who is not experienced, and does not know the cost of construction, and starts on the plans.

"As the plans progress different things present themselves to the mind of the owner and he has them incorporated in his building, which, though seemingly small, individually will swell materially the total cost of construction in the end.

"Finally, when the plan is ready for the contractor's figures he has a building that will cost far more than the architect's figures, and I have known instances where architects have left out the essential things which must be put in to make the subject complete and allowed them to go in under 'extras' later, in order to keep the price down where the owner will sign the contract.

"I have lost a great deal of business by being honest with the client. The conditions today, where every one is trying to get everything cheap, make the architect's profession a singularly hard one to follow for an honest, conscientious man. Nine times out of ten cases which are cited in your paper can be traced back to the owner's fault in the above manner.

"I have built $40,000 buildings with $200 in extras when completed and have never, out of over 400 residences, had over $150 in extras on any one contract, but it is hard to make the public appreciate these facts.

"I have seen clients, because I have told them the truth of the cost of their buildings, go to draftsmen who were at work in another office and get them to make the plans nights after they were through with their day's work, and have had them say to me afterwards that they paid dearly for their architect's services.

"A number of years ago I had one client for whom I made a plan; the contractor, who was a friend of the owner, influenced him that there was no need of my superintending the work. Before he got through he told me that he had paid seeveral times for supervision and he had not got a building which was satisfactory, or anywhere near one that filled the specifications.

"The last building I built professionally cost about $25,000, with $132 in extras. It is a deplorable fact that the architect's profession is filled up with a class of men, many of whom would not be allowed to practice if they were obliged to pass an examination and be licensed by the state. These not only make it harder for the architect who is competent in his profession, but in many cases are a menace to the public safety, as, for instance, the disasters which have been reported in our papers within the last few years. There are many places where I could cite where the trusses of the building over auditoriums are practically held in place by the lighter construction which should be held in place by the trusses.

"I know of many instances where this lighter construction has begun to give away and collapse of the building has only been averted by the timely intervention of the owners of the buildings or the state police."

NET INCOME FIXES THE VALUE

Ability to Value Buildings Is a Desirable Asset for Broker.

Next to the ability to gauge correctly the proper valuation of real estate, the most important asset in the success of the young broker is the ability to value buildings with accuracy.

"The net income of improved property," said a local man today, "is what determines its value. Though the gross income be ever so large, if the expense of maintenance or loss of rent due to vacancies is too great, the result to the investor will be most unsatisfactory."

A building which is properly planned and properly built for the purpose for which it is intended is the one which will yield the best results. The investor can better afford to pay a good price for a good building where the architectural features and arrangement and construction of the building itself is first-class than he can to buy at a low price a building poor in these respects. The net results in one case will be satisfactory and the reverse in the other. With these facts taken for granted, it is important that brokers as well as operators and investors have some general knowledge of how a building should be constructed and how it should be planned.

GO TO QUIZ SLEUTH WHOM HASKELL HIRED.

Guthrie, Okla., Feb. 19.—A sub-committee of the executive committee that is investigating charges of alleged irregularities by Governor Charles N. Haskell in the disposal of state funds went to Oklahoma City today. The members will try to get the deposition of C. A. Lawler, a detective, as to the nature of his services while employed by the governor. Lawler had been ordered to come to Guthrie and testify, but he was too ill to make the trip, his physicians said.

BUILDING IS RETARDED

Storm and Cold Weather Have Effects on Operations in Progress.

Prospective Builders for Coming Spring Are Slow in Deciding.

The storm and low temperatures of the past week have retarded outside building operations and little progress was made on buildings that are not under cover. The weather in Duluth this winter has been unusually favorable and more building work has been done since the first snow fell than in any previous winter. Interruptions have been few and on that account builders are not greatly disturbed by the interruption this week.

Little new building is coming out. Architects report that there are plenty of sketches in the hands of prospective builders, but decisions are coming slowly and unless there is a decided change, little new building will be begun until late in the spring.

J. J. Wangenstein has plans out for bids for the brick building to be erected on Superior street between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues west for Nelson Bros. It will be a two-story building, with stores on the first floor and apartments and a knitting mill on the second floor.

Mr. Wangenstein is now preparing plans for a three-story brick flat building to be erected by a local party on East Second street.

Mr. Wangenstein has charge of considerable work to be done outside of the city by the Duluth Brewing & Malting company. The Merchants hotel at Bemidji, a three-story brick building, will be remodeled into a modern hotel. From $12,000 to $15,000 will be expended. The Douglas hotel at Superior will also be remodeled at a cost of about $10,000. A two-story brick building will be built at Spooner, Wis.

SCHEME TO CHEAT UNCLE SAM FOUND

Forgery Conspiracy Is Alleged in Connection With Bank in California.

San Francisco Cal., Feb. 19.—An alleged conspiracy to defraud the government out of many thousands of dollars by forgery has been revealed by action of the federal grand jury in returning an indictment against B. T. Perry, a promoter. He is believed to be in Honduras, and is charged with being the accomplice of William J. Dowden, former collector teller of the Crocker National bank, who, two months ago, left the city before a shortage of $30,000 in the bank's accounts was discovered. Forging and cashing United States treasury warrants and violating the national banking laws are said to be the charges on which government authorities seek to prosecute Dowden and Perry.

WOULD RID SELF OF CHILDREN

Man Who Abuses Young Baby Makes Application to State.

Cirilli Larker of Eveleth, who was recently heavily fined for abusing his 9-months old baby, Arthur, has applied to the humane agent asking that his other two children be allowed to enter the state school at Owatonna. His hequest was refused.

The baby that was abused by the father is being cared for in Duluth. When it is sufficiently strong it will be taken to Owatonna.

Little Arthur's mother died a few days after its birth and the inhuman treatment of the child is said to have begun shortly afterward.

NEW CATALOGUE IS MOST ATTRACTIVE.

The Flaaten conservatory has issued a most attractive catalogue of its school of music that is attracting much attention among its friends in this city, and which has been mailed to many outside points to reach those interested in the school. The book is most comprehensive and is attractively bound in soft ivory-toned paper, with the simple printing in deep brown, and tied with cord of the same shade.

The book contains pictures of the conservatory, of the teachers, including the director, Gustav Flaaten; the members of the piano faculty, Olga Lawitzky Flaaten, Katherine Pearson and Nell Brown, and this year Mrs. K. A. Ostergren, who is well known in Duluth and who is identified with the school; of the voice department, Donna Louise Riblette; the violin department, Olive Capron and Roy Flaaten, besides Gustav Flaaten; the 'cello department, Jens Flaaten and Alphin Flaaten; elocution department, Mary Shesgreen; banjo, mandolin and guitar, Roy L. Middlecoff; orchestral instruments, Frederick E. Kretchmar, Adolph E. Titzman and Olaf Halten, and the department of dancing, Leopold Leo.

WEST END

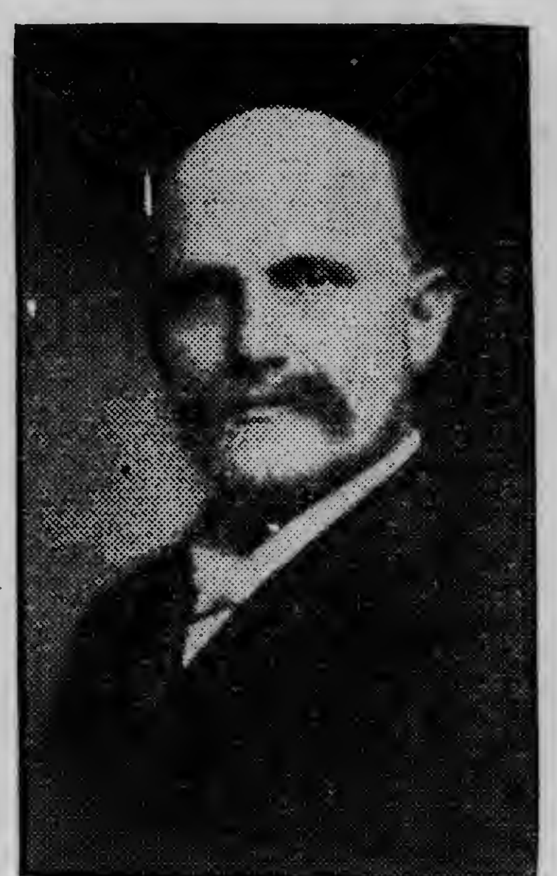
WILL NOT BUILD UNTIL NEXT YEAR

Second Presbyterian Church Will Be Repaired—Pastor Not Yet Selected.

The expected deal for the sale of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, has been called off and the proposed new church will not be erected this year according to one of the church officials.

It is now planned to expend about $500 for repairs, principally on the interior of the building. The congregation is now setting aside a building fund and in a year or so, it is thought that there will be sufficient money to warrant the purchase of a location. In the meantime, a purchaser for the old building will be looked for.

As to the matter of a pastor to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. James L. McBride, shortly before last Christmas, the congregation has had a number of men in view. Among those who are being looked upon very favorably is Rev. T. M. Findlay of Spicer, Minn., who may receive the call to the church.



REV. T. M. FINDLEY,
Who May Be Called to Second Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Mr. Findlay is now pastor-at-large for the St. Cloud district of Presbyterian churches and was a former pastor of the Second Presbyterian congregation of this city. He has been asked to occupy the putpit of the West end church a week from tomorrow, Feb. 28. He will arrive here next Saturday.

He was pastor of the Second Presbyterian church for nearly eleven years serving as its minister from January, 1880 until November, 1898. He came to Duluth late in the fall of 1887 from the Ninth Presbyterian church of St. Paul and during his stay here was prominently identified in the work of organizing new churches.

In 1890, he formed the Hazelwood Presbyterian church at Thirty-eighth avenue west and shortly afterwards he took an active hand in organizing the congregation of the Highland Presbyterian church on Duluth Heights. He was also instrumental in organizing the House of Hope Presbyterian church at New Duluth and also the Bethany Chapel.

While pastor of the Second church he added 556 new members to the church rolls of which 335 were brought in on a confession of faith. When he resigned he did so to take up the work as pastor at large in the St. Cloud district. Mrs. Findlay is well known also in Duluth as a writer and musician. She is also an able speaker and can supply her husband's place in the pulpit if need be.

Rev. Mr. Findlay will make but a short visit to Duluth. He may also preach here on March 6, and it is not yet known whether or not he will accept a call to the local church. While in the West end he will be entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Williams of 1709 West Second street.

BUILDING UP THE HILLSIDE

Much Activity Along Line of Proposed Street Car Extension.

There is considerable real estate activity in the hillside district of the West end, especially in the vicinity of Tenth street and Twenty-first avenue west, where a real estate firm has commenced the erection of a number of homes to be sold on the installment plan.

Ever since the announcement was made that the Duluth Street Railway company would extend its car line to Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street along Piedmont avenue, there has been a noticeable increase in building operations.

Making New Citizens.

A class of nineteen members was admitted to citizenship this week through the efforts of the French Naturalization club of the West end. Fifteen of the applications to be examined, were seeking first papers, while the other six applied for second papers.

The club is planning on sending another class of nine members to the clerk of the court next Monday. Last evening one of the largest meetings in the history of the club was held. The routine business of the month was transacted after which the members indulged in an impromptu game of indoor baseball.

Plans were made for a smoker to be held a week from next Monday evening.

TOURNAMENT FOR AMATEUR RIDERS.

Amateur ski enthusiasts at the West end are looking forward to tomorrow afternoon when the West end Ski club is to have the largest tournament of the winter at the slide on Miller's creek, just above the boulevard.

The members of the club are jubilant over the heavy snowfall of the past week.

During the season, some of the amateurs at the West end have jumped from this slide nearly 100 feet.

It is expected that the hill records will be broken tomorrow.

Missionary Will Preach.

Rev. J. V. Alfvegren of Minneapolis, general missionary for the Episcopalians among the Swedish people of the Northwest, will speak this evening on "The Reformation of Sweden" at the St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church. He will conduct services tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and will also preach in the evening at the usual hour. At St. Luke's Episcopal church, Nineteenth avenue west and First street, Rev. W. E. Harmann, the pastor, will preach at the evening service only. only.

Will Give Sleighride.

The Adams Co-eds, an organation of the girl rooters who follow the activities of the Adams Athletic association, will give a sleighride party this evening to New Duluth and return. While at New Duluth there will be a dancing party at one of the lodge halls and refreshments will be served.

Will Accompany Team.

A delegation from the Adams Athletic association will accompany the all-star hockey team, picked from the City league to play the Phoenix hockey team of St. Paul when it leaves for St. Paul this evening.

While in St. Paul arrangements will be made to play a series of games with teams from the Twin Cities.

FOUR MORE BODIES TAKEN FROM MINE

"Top Boss" at Cherry, Ill., May Die From Attack By Discharged Man.

Cherry, Ill., Feb. 19.—Four more bodies were taken out of the St. Paul mine today. This makes a total of 126 bodies recovered since the disaster of Nov. 13.

It is estimated that 173 bodies are yet to be found. Whether they will be brought to the surface in any great numbers soon was declared to be uncertain because of obstruction in the underground tunnels which must be removed.

Charles Atherton, known as the "top boss," who was shot while at his post of duty by Malas Manditch yesterday afternoon, was reported today to be dying. Atherton has been here only three days and he was said to be unknown to the would-be assassin, who was enraged over having been dismissed.

The recovery of more bodies brings Cherry's story up to date as follows: Nov. 13, men entombed, 310; Nov. 13, killed in rescue work, 10; Nov. 20, taken out alive, 20; Feb. 4, taken out dead, 1; Feb. 18, taken out dead, 11; Feb. 19, taken out dead, 4. Total still unrecovered, 173.

WILL TRY TO KILL CANAL

"Fighting Bob" Evans on Railroads and the Panama Canal.

Discusses the Future Freight Rates By Land and Sea.

New York, Feb. 19.—Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, who has been explaining the probable future of the Panama canal in a striking series of articles in Hampton's Magazine, concludes in the March number with a direct attack upon the railroads and their rate-making methods, which is perhaps the most lucid explanation of the whole situation yet seen in print.

"There is no more important question before the American nation today," he says, "than this of making very sure that when they have invested their hundreds of millions of dollars in the canal, it shall be permitted to give them returns on the investment.

"The Panama canal will earn the returns, albeit perhaps indirectly, if it is given the chance. But it will not be given the chance if the transcontinental railroads can prevent.

"Decade after decade, the great east-and-west railroad systems opposed and prevented the building of the canal. They knew what its competition would mean in the reduction of their freight rates.

"The canal, however, is being dug. Not because the public rose to an acute realization of the commercial necessity for it, but because of the Oregon's trip from the Pacific to the Atlantic. That one voyage of one battleship, in a time of national crisis, served to crystallize a purpose in the national mind that all the powers of railroad finance and railroad politics could not thwart.

"Today we take a certain pride in the fact that American genius and enterprise are achieving the most wonderful engineering work ever undertaken by man. But we are giving no thought, much less taking any steps, to assure to ourselves as a nation the commercial benefits which that work must bring if it shall not be a disappointment and a failure.

Always Hostile to the Canal.

"Do not imagine that I have become afflicted with any populistic anti-railroad mania. There is not a transportation authority among all the rulers of the rail who will claim more for the steam railroad as a factor in the development of the country, past, present or future, than I will concede. But the truth will not be suppressed. The railroads always have been hostile to the canal, and they may be hostile to it in the future. I believe their hostility is based on a narrow conception, a short-sighted view. But, reasonable or unreasonable, it is the fact.

'We are spending $400,000,000 digging at a canal which ought to reduce freight rates across our continent to a fraction of what they are now. The commercial justification of that expenditure will never be found, as I have heretofore tried to show, in the impetus that will be given our foreign trade. It must be found in benefit to our domestic commerce.

'Water transportation is the cheapest known to the world. Whereever there is free and fair competition, the water highway takes the business from the railroad. Year after year, a larger and larger proportion of London's coal comes down from the north of England by the sea. Year after year, the imprtance of the internal water routes—rivers and canals—on the continent of Europe increases, as they carry a steadily icreasing proportion of the freight traffic. Why? Because it is more economical to move traffic by water than by land.

"Yet for many years we have consented that the railroads should monopolize the transcontinental traffic which a canal would have carried at greater speed and vastly less cost. We have developed our continent thus far without thought of the possibilities of the great continental trade route—that via the Atlantic, the canal, and the Pacific—and without consideration of the possibilities of our imperial system of rivers.

Quicker Transportation.

"The canal is going to force attention to these things, if only the country can be aroused to understand its immense potentialities. But how many people who read this know that it will be possible to ship oranges of Southern California from Los Angeles to New York or Boston in fewer days by steamship through the Panama canal, when completed, than by fast freight across the country?

"The distance from New York to Los Angeles via the Panama canal is, in round numbers, 5,000 miles. A 6,000-ton capacity steamer loaded with oranges, or other fresh fruit, steaming at a rate of only twelve knots per hour, would cover this distance in eighteen days. If we allow one day for the steamer passing through the canal, her total time from port to port would be nineteen days. If the vessel were run specially for the fruit trade, this time could be reduced by several days. A ship of sixteen knots speed, such as those now used in the West Indian fruit trade, would make the trip in just fourteen days, giving again the allowance of one day for passing through the canal.

"The time for rail freights across the continent varies from twenty to sixty days. It will, therefore, be seen that the steamer could, in all cases, land her freight in a shorter time. This means that many kinds of freight would be delivered in a better condition and for one-third the price now charged by the railroads."

The Choking-off Process.

Admiral Evans then goes into detail, quoting specific freight rates from the Pacific coast to prove his contentions, and then attacks the railroads vigorously for their policy of choking off competition by water. Here is a sample, he says, of how the choking-off process is accomplished:

"The Panama railroad once built steamers—how many I do not recall—to run in connection with the road across the Isthmus of Panama. These steamers were to carry freight from New Orleans to Colon. When they were started, railroad rates across the continent were cut down to such a figure that the steamers could not be operated. Merchants were short-sighted enough to accept the low rates and, as a result, the ships went to the scrap heap, or were sold for service in other waters. And the railroad rates went back to where they were before the steamship line was projected."

This sort of action, he maintains, restricts the true development of the country. The railroads, anyhow, have practically all the business they can handle. Give some of it to the Panama canal, and the canal will gradually create new business of its own.

ASK TRACTION COMPANY TO PAY HALF THE COST

Aldermen Believe Company Should Help Build New Bridge.

Residents Insist That Structure Should Be Ornament, Not Eyesore.

The council committee on bridges, which attended the meeting of the board of public works yesterday afternoon to confer with Lakeside residents as to the style of bridge to be built across Tischer's creek between Thirty-second and Thirty-third avenues east on Superior street, will probably introduce a resolution at the council meeting Monday night asking the street railway company to pay half the cost.

Considerable sentiment has been expressed upon this subject. Many of those interested state that the greatest benefit from the bridge is derived by the street car company. They state that a much more substantial and expensive structure has to be built because the cars are obliged to cross it. They think that it is only fair that the street car company should stand half the cost.

The kind of bridge that will go across the stream is still unsettled. The board of public works spent all yesterday considering the subject and listening to the arguments of the Lakeside residents who attended the meeting.

The board seemed to favor the plans submitted by George H. Lounsberry, calling for a plain concrete structure supported by concrete columns. This would cost about $20,000, which amount is all that the city can afford to spend for the bridge at this time, according to the views of the board members.

Should Be an Ornament.

Residents think that it would be a mistake to put up so plain a structure. They favor a more artistic bridge, with a handsome arch spanning the stream and gulch through which it runs. They claim that it is near the entrance of what will be one of the city's finest parks and in one of the best sections of Duluth. They do not believe that it would be true economy or a proper thing for the city to do to build the bridge conforming to the cheapest plans.

The board, however, does not seem anxious to recede from its position. The members state that if the residents favoring the more expensive bridge, which would cost about $6,000 more, will pay the difference, the better bridge will be constructed. The residents may do this, but it is not very probable that the funds will be available when the board meets to take final action Monday. Many of the residents say that they do not care for the full width bridge, but will be satisfied with a narrower structure, provided the more ornamental one is erected, and it is claimed this could be built for about the same cost as the wider one which is of a very plain and unsightly type.

The board has not considered the possibility of the street car company being asked to pay part of the cost. If the resolution is introduced it will reopen the entire subject, even though the board should let a contract Monday. The contracts must be confirmed by the council, and if this is not done it will not be legal.

This will be the first time that the street car company has been asked to pay part of the cost of building any new bridges.

RATES MAY BE LOWERED

"Night Letter" Service May Be Installed By Telegraph Company.

Fifty Words for the Cost of Ten-Word Message.

The recently acquired control of the Western Union Telegraph company by the American Telephone & Telegraph company will probably result in better service and greater accommodations for the public throughout the country. Some of these improvements have been put into effect in the East and it is expected that they will reach Duluth and vicinity in a short time.

What is called the "night letter" service has been installed. Under it a fifty-word message can be sent at night for delivery the next morning at the same cost as the usual ten-word message during the day. For each additional ten words the rate will be one-fifth of the day rate.

The company reserves the right to mail the messages in the morning. The plan is to do away with the messenger service, which is expensive. The messages will be delivered prepaid at the postoffice early enough for the first morning delivery, and will be taken to their destination with the regular mail. The company figures that it can do this as many of the wires are idle much of the night, making it possible to send these messages at little additional expense.

The next step will be to utilize the telephone to collect messages. In this way any telephone subscriber of the company can repeat a message through the telephone and the bill will be sent to him with the regular monthly telephone bill.

Another innovation is planned for smaller stations where there is not night service. Any one desiring to send messages can leave them with the telephone operator, who is on duty all night, and she will transmit it to the nearest open telegraph office.

RELEASED FROM COUNTY JAIL

Buhl Man Held Two Months Without Action on His Case.

On a writ of habeas corpus, John Hartkainen this morning secured his release from the St. Louis county jail, where he has been confined for two months past.

Hartkainen was sent to the care of Sheriff Bates from Buhl, Minn. He was originally arrested for larceny, being charged with the theft of $30. The justice of peace at the village of Buhl sent him here.

Since the time of his arrest, two months ago, Hartkainen has constantly claimed that he was being held unlawfully. He had, however, been turned over to Sheriff Bates, who could not turn him loose without the proper orders.

Hartkainen claimed that he was being held illegally, for since he has been confined the grand jury has met twice and no indictment was returned against him. This morning Harkainen was brought into court and released.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF BANK IS SUICIDE.

Logansport, Ind., Feb. 19.—The body of John F. Johnson, former president of the State National bank of this city, was found floating in the Wabash river today. Johnson served six years in prison following his confession that he had embezzled $550,000 of the bank's funds. Recently he had been a grain broker and had lost heavily, selling his home to pay his debts.

Johnson's watch and jewelry were found in his clothing and there is no suspicion that he was robbed and murdered.

The suicide, who succeeded his father in the presidency of the bank, said that the older man on retiring had left a shortage of $200,000. The younger Johnson declared he had gambled in wheat in the hope of recouping this deficit and had no deliberate purpose to rob the depositors. He was 54 years old and is survived by a widow and daughter.

The purpose of the meeting will be to learn the sentiment of the people of West Duluth in regard to the establishment of a branch Y. M. C. A. at West Duluth this year. The movement has been on foot for the past six years but up to this time has never come to a head.

Six years ago, the West Duluth branch of the W. C. T. U. purchased two lots at the corner of Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street, to be set aside for a branch building of the Y. M. C. A. Secretary Phil Bevis of the Duluth association today stated that while the meeting tomorrow was to let the people know just what the Y. M. C. A. would mean to West Duluth.

RESIGNS HIS PASTORATE

Rev. Gideon Nylander Will Leave West Duluth Charge.

Rev. Gideon Nylander, for the past three years pastor of the Third Swedish Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Ramsey street, has resigned. His resignation has not yet been accepted by the church officials.

Rev. Mr. Nylander says that he has no definite church in view. He recently declined an offer from a church in the West and last summer he was asked to return to a congregation in his home town, Sundvall, Sweden, but he refused this also. During the summer he will visit Sweden to wind up the affairs of his mother's estate.

At the Third Swedish Baptist church tomorrow Rev. Oscar Swedberg of Two Harbors will preach in the morning at 11:30 o'clock and Rev. O. Jacobsen of Brainerd will talk in the evening. Special music will be rendered by the choir at both services. At the evening devotional exercises, Mrs. Nylander will sing. The other services will be as usual.

BONSPIEL ON HOLIDAY

West Duluth Curlers Plan Big Spiel for Washington's Birthday.

The Regular Club Events Are Rapidly Nearing a Close.

Washington's birthday, Tuesday, Feb. 22, will be a gala day with the West Duluth curlers.

Arrangements were completed today for a bonspiel at the Western Curling club next Tuesday afternoon in which all of the rinks will be entered in a championship race. Badges will be awarded the members of the successful rink.

It is planned to make the Washington's birthday bonspiel an annual affair at the Western Curling club. None but West Duluth rinks will be entered in the contest, and the badges that are held by the winning rink will be contested for the following season. The rules for the contest have not yet been fully completed. The playing will begin early in the afternoon.

Last evening two games were forfeited by the non-appearance of some of the rinks. Macauley forfeited to Hewitt in the Hendrickson event, and Keyes forfeited to Zauft in the Bagley affair.

Tonight three games will be played in the Bagley cup race. They are: Miller vs. Olson, Evered vs. Rockwell, and Macauley vs. Clarke. OPEN NEW PRISON BIDS WEDNESDAY

Board of Control Will Receive Offers for $2,500,000 State Structure.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—At 12 o'clock next Wednesday, the state board of control will open bids on the $2,500,000 new state prison, which is to be built at Stillwater. About twenty bids are expected. A contract for construction of the building in its entirety will be let, with sub-contracts for mechanical equipment.

According to contractors who are now in the city, the plans call for one of the most modern prison buildings in the United States. The structure is to be of stone and brick, will contain 1,024 cells, each with a lavatory and running water and as sanitary as can be. There will be a theater, gymnasium, chapel and shower and tub bath equipment.

GETTING A BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF LOS ANGELES.

"Andy" Perrin, passenger and immigration representative of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, is having the time of his gay young life in sunny Los Angeles, while less fortunate brothers of the rail are stormbound and hearth-tied by the cold weather of Northern Minnesota.

For the time being, Mr. Perrin has forsaken railroads for the less grimy mode of travel—aviating.

He has been seeing Los Angeles as the birds look upon the city. He has been riding over the tops of the tallest buildings in an airship, and a photograph of one of the airships, speedily sailing over the Lankersham hotel, shows "Andy," smiling as ever, waving gayly to the street below.

Strange tricks can be done with the camera and the art has been perfected on the coast. It is just possible Mr. Perrin never got higher than the studio.

Mr. Perrin has communicated with friends in this city, stating that he likes muchly the latest method of transportation and from the tenor of the letter it would seem as if he were in danger of being wooed away from his first love, the railroad.

FILIPINO BUGLERS.

"Speaking of buglers," says Boatswain Juraschka in his article, "Captured by Filipinos," in the Wide World Magazine, "it astonished me to find that the insurgents had so many buglers, and that many of them were of the best. They knew all our calls, although they did not know their significance. I was often asked the meaning of various calls, and was careful to give them any but the proper one. One insurgent colonel asked me what call was sounded as the retreat from the charge. I told him that we had no such call, but that, the charge once sounded, American soldiers and sailors went through, or never came back. He was very much interested, and with good reason, as he had just escaped from the attack of our men at Iloilo, and could well believe it. He said that charging was unfair—that both sides should simply snipe at each other."

POLISHING BY HOT AIR.

Youth's Companion: The marvels of friction are infinite. The use of the sand blast for polishing metals is quite a recent invention, and now it is followed by that of a blast of simple hot air. It is the velocity that gives the polishing power. The articles to be treated are placed in a basket in a centrifugal machine driven at a very high speed and heated air is blown from a pipe through the basket. A high polish is thus produced very rapidly.

Nickel plated articles that have become tarnished are made bright in a few minutes. Wet metal, fresh from the bath needs no preliminary drying, for the current of air dries and polishes at the same moment. It is only necessary to so pack the articles that the air reaches them on all sides.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

EVENTS ARE UNFINISHED

Windup in Canadian Bonspiel Will Not Come Until Monday.

Frank Cassidy Rink Has Gone Through Bonspiel With Great Record.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three more bonspiel competitions were decided yesterday, but so many games remain to be played in the big curling carnival, that the wind-up cannot be made today as expected. In yesterday's finals the Thistle rinks skipped by W. A. Carson and Frank Cassidy won the Tuckett; Sam Hastings of Minneapolis carried home the Royal Caledonian for the second year in succession; while W. Justice, Dauphin, annexed the Walker Theater International trophy.

It was another day of unbroken success for the "Casey kids." Besides helping their club to capture the Tuckett, they reached the final in the Tetley by defeating Mitchell of Sintaluta, and also gained the fours in the McLaren by taking a fall out of Carson's boys. The arduous campaign seems to have had but little effect on this wonderful rink, and little surprise will be expressed if they make something in the nature of a complete clean-up. Already they have the grand aggregate won, share first honors in the Tuckett with Carson's rink, are in the finals of the Tetley, the semi-finals of the McLaren, and are in the eighth of the Dingwall and Purity Flour event. On account of this much-talked of combination being in so many events, the conclusion of the bonspiel cannot be made before Monday.

The Hastings-Labatt ring of Minneapolis, which came up with the special intention of again winning the Royal Caledonian, succeeded in accomplishing their purpose, and curlers generally are glad to see Lord Strathcona's cup go back to the Mill City, although there would also have been much satisfaction if the clever young Regina rink skipped by Dick Ross had carried off a trophy.

These two rinks met in the final, and the argument was not decided until Hastings had played his last rock.

SERVER LEADS CITY LEAGUE

"Kid" Bowler Shows Remarkable Form in Few Games Played.

Averages compiled today of the individual and team standing of the City Bowling league, show Server, the 17-year-old youngster, leading the bowlers of the league.

The real leader of the league, however, is C. Berini, who has taken part in forty-five games against six participated in by young Server. Berini has an average of 192 pins per game. Server has an average of 203 pins.

Stiegler and Sam Olson follow close behind Berini in the order named. The race for individual honors in the city league is very close and interesting.

In the team standing the Fitwells lead the league, that team having won two more games than the Majestics, the nearest rival.

In the pin average the Majestics lead, that team having secured a total of 46,765 pins for an average of 917.

He also notified Mayor Lytle of South St. Paul to see that the fight is not held.

PASSES AWAY AT SOLDIERS' HOME

Jonas Strouse Was Resident of Fond du Lac for Twenty Years.

Jonas Strouse, 70 years of age and a veteran of the Civil war died this morning at the Soldiers' home at Minneapolis. The end was unexpected in this city as letters were received from him here during the week and he did not complain of being ill.

Mr. Strouse made his home at Fond du Lac for twenty years and was known to all residents of the suburb as well as to scores who visited there during the summer. He came to Duluth about twenty years ago when the oil excitement was on at Fond du Lac.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed. The only surviving relative known here is a son, residing in Pennsylvania.

AMERICAN GUNS.

The weapons of continental Europe, England and America are constructed on similar lines, of identical quality of steel and wood, have the same systems of choking and boring, and the character of workmanship is not essentially different.

There are minor variations of course dictated by taste and habit. Europe tends to multiplicity of locking devices, America to simplicity. But the one American rotary bolt is stronger and more lasting than the quintuple fastening of foreign arms.

American and English guns are alike, noted for their perfection of balance, beauty of outline and severe simplicity of scroll engraving. Continental Europe tends to floridity of ornamentation with the most artistic pictorial effects in engraving and woodcutting.

One thing the American manufacturer can and does do, says Outing, he can give you as much gun for $100 as Europe can for $200. Grade for grade it will be found on examination that there is very little to choose between an American gun costing $50 and an imported arm at $100. If money is no object then exercise your fancy in absolute confidence that a beautiful and satisfactory arm can be obtained either at home or abroad.

WHEAT WAS STRONGER

Advance of One Point in May Option During Session.

Probably Due to Short Covering---Flax Dull and Firm.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 19.—A jump of 1c in May at the close of the session characterized today's wheat market. The advance was similar to the sharp upturn of Thursday although the same causes were not apparent. On Thursday the upturn was due to buying by Bartlett-Patten and the professional element in the Chicago pit. Today there was considerable mystery about the transaction, there being few factors present from which an intelligent conclusion could be drawn. The upturn seemed to be the result of endeavors to close short lines at the finish of what had been a declining market characterized by light trading.

May opened at $1.13½, ⅛c higher than yesterday's close, advanced ½c but declined to $1.13¼ and toward the close jumped to $1.14¼ and at the close was $1.14⅛@¼ asked. July opened at $1.13⅜ nominal, lost ¼c and regained the opening, sold at $1.13⅞ down to $1.13¾, up ⅛c and closed $1.14 nominal. The July option acted feverish toward the close and it is said that on the Chicago board it was heavily traded in toward the close.

Wheat opened firm. Buying was scattered and offerings were light. The cables were firm although Liverpool closed fractionally lower. The strength abroad was due to lighter Argentine shipments, the comparative strength in Winnipeg and fears of poor grading of Argentine arrivals, a feature that has been urged from time to time with considerable energy by the bulls. Predictions of larger shipments of wheat to the United Kingdom caused a dull tone around midday. Ames-Brooks said there had been some inquiry from abroad chiefly for Manitoba's from Germany.

There was some short covering in wheat which gathered strength toward the close. In the face of the holidays there was a desire on the part of some shorts to close their contracts. The market declined after the opening in sympathy with corn, which was assaulted by the professionals, but recovered on buying by shorts. Trading was fairly dull until near the close.

The spot market was more active today. Cash here equalled May and in Minneapolis No. 1 northern sold at 1@2c over May. Premiums were easy, being about ½c off from yesterday. Receipts were more liberal than for three or four days which contributed to the easiness of the premiums. Country mills were fair buyers. The demand from the city mills was good. The cash situation is regarded by the bears as an important factor. Although prices in futures have scored an upturn, cash values have weakened and this is regarded by some bears with considerable favor. On the other hand it is pointed out by those bullishly inclined that it is natural for the cash market to decline at this time of the year, with May advancing. They looked upon the situation as a readjustment of values and regarded it as favorable to the bulls, cash wheat having been unusually high in comparison with futures.

Flour prices are higher, 15@25c. Stocks in the East are said to be normal although a large amount of flour is in transit to that region. Minneapolis has forwarded more than two and one-half million barrels of flour this season and stocks are accumulating as cars for the East are said to be scarce. It is claimed that flour handlers have not been following the advance in wheat and that the upturn acted as a detriment instead of a stimulant. Shipments this week have been 440,364 barrels against 284,861 a year ago.

Wheat receipts in the Northwest for several days have been running below last year, but there are indications of an increase next week, as better weather is looked for. The primary movement shows a big decrease over a week and two weeks ago and on some days this week ran far below the movement at this time last year.

A few crop scare reports came in today, but did not cause much comment. Traders remembered that the winter crop last year was second largest on record although from Feb. 1 until the middle of March damage reports came from all over the winter wheat belt. There was thawing and freezing, high winds, cold and sleet which extended into May. The winter wheat crop of 1909-10 entered the ground in good condition, cold weather set in about the middle of November and has continued since. The winter acreage for this crop is 33,483,000. Last year it was 29,884,000. Condition of the plant Dec. 1, was 95.8, while last year it was 85.3. There appears to be plenty of latitude for damage to the growing plant, abandoned acreage and reduced quality.

Broomhall wired from Liverpool: "The weakness in the American markets yesterday was offset by lighter Argentine strength than expected, comparative strength in Winnipeg and fears of poor grading of arrivals of new Argentine wheat, which caused few sellers. At the opening the market showed a steady undertone and unchanged to ⅛d lower. During the morning the market was dull and inclined lower on predictions of larger world's shipments to the United Kingdom, and at the close prices were off ⅛@¼d from yesterday. Corn at the start was off ⅜d, being influenced by the weakness of American cables. During the trading the market was neglected and unchanged from the opening."

In a market report, J. H. Wilkins of Chicago says: "Production of these cereals has more than kept pace with the increase in population. We raise, according to standard authorities, 20 per cent of the wheat, over 40 per cent of the oats and over 80 per cent of the corn raised in the world, and we number less than 5 per cent of the world's population. We cheerfully assert that our farms are not being deserted, railroad magnates to the contrary, submit the following statistics based upon the reports of the secretary of agriculture and the census bureau, in millions of bushels:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Turns Easier on Offerings Under Firm Tone.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Initial firmness in the wheat pit today was displaced by by an easier tone in the first hour as a result of increased offerings. Opening prices were generally steady to ½c up, commission firms leading in the buying. In the subsequent sag, May fell off from $1.13½ to $1.13@1.13⅛, the other futures dropping with it. Crop damage reports made their appearance again, but failed to prevent the decline. May opened at $1.13 to $1.13½, an advance of ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c.

The market dragged still lower in the first half of the session, May touching bottom at $1.12¾@1.12⅞. Those who sought to cover at that point found little wheat for sale and a brisk advance set in which carried prices up from 1¼ to 1⅜c. May climbing to $1.14⅛@1.14¼. The close was strong at almost the top, with May at $1.14@1.14⅛, which was 1c higher than final figures yesterday.

Quantities of long corn were thrown into the pit shortly after the opening and caused a decline of ⅝c to ¾c from the initial figures, which were generally steady to ⅛c higher than yesterday's close. Poor cash demand added to the heaviness of the market. May fell off from 66⅝ to 65⅞c in the first hour and the other futures followed, bearish sentiment prevailing. Opening figures for May were 66½@66⅝c, a shade to ⅛@¼c up.

The late strength in wheat gave an upward trend to corn. May traveled up from 65¾ to 66¾@66⅞c. The close was strong and near to the high point with May at 66¾c a gain of ¼@⅜c over yesterday's close.

Trade in oats was of small volume. The opening was a shade lower to ⅛c higher. Relatively liberal offerings took the edge off the market, May going down from 47¼@47⅜c to 46¾c and dragging the other futures along. Opening prices for May were 47⅛@47¼c, unchanged to a shade lower.

Realizing sales in provisions coupled with a slight decline in live hog prices gave an easier tone to the market, products opening generally 2½@15c lower.

In the first hour offerings increased and 10@15c declines were general. May pork fell from $23.67 to $23.52½. Opening prices for May: Pork, $23.65; lard, $12.72½; ribs, $12.42½.

Stocks Rise on Active Trading in Union Pacific and Steel.

Realizing Movement Sets in and Prices Are Turned Downward.

New York, Feb. 19.—The opening stock market today showed some hesitation under the influence of lower prices for Americans in the London market. Changes here were mixed and generally restricted to small fractions. United States Rubber advanced 1½ and Erie first preferred and Colorado Fuel large fractions.

Active trading for Union Pacific and United States Steel imparted a strong tone to the whole market. Accordingly quotations advanced except for Reading, which met enough selling to keep the price near to yesterday's close. The trunk line stocks followed up their rise of yesterday, New York Central reaching 122¼ and Pennsylvania 134⅛. The market sold off a fraction later. United States Steel was run up 1⅛ to 81¾ and Union Pacific to 188¾.

The market closed weak. The realizing movement, which forced Reading 2½c under last night, turned prices downward. Earlier gains were mostly wiped out. Southern Pacific, the Union Pacific stocks, St. Paul, Rock Island, Atchison, St. Louis-Southwestern, Norfolk & Western and Erie second preferred lost 1@1⅜c. La Clede Gas rose 3, Hocking Coal, 1⅝; Bethlehem Steel preferred, 1¼ and American Tobacco preferred, 1.

PRIVATE WIRES TO ALL MARKETS.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1910.

Today was a regular Saturday market and there was practically no change in the price of any of the local stocks. The Eastern market sold off to some extent, under the lead of Union Pacific, but coppers remain firm on the Boston market and show no change of any consequence. We are receiving reports from the East, from our correspondents daily, in which they state that the copper situation is the best it has been since 1906. All of the reports are to the effect that copper consumption is rapidly gaining on copper production and the reports which have been issued lately by the Producers' association confirms these statements. There is no question but that stocks are in strong hands. The market has been under pressure of liquidation for the last month, which has eliminated all of the weak holders of stock and those who now own coppers, are in a position to hold them for much higher prices, and undoubtedly they will get them. The local market is about in the same condition. There is no pressure to sell stocks and the market shows the same sold out condition that the Eastern market does. While it is hard to pick out a stock that would show a quick profit, nevertheless, we feel that any trader that takes advantage of these quiet days to buy will find himself in a position, within sixty days, in which he can easily sell and make a good profit. In view of this, we advise the purchase of the best ones.

PRIVATE WIRES TO IRON RANGE, COPPER COUNTRY, AND ALL STOCK EXCHANGES, BOTH EAST AND WEST.
Both 'Phones, 2093. 410 W. Superior St., Duluth, Minn.

FEBRUARY 19, 1910.

The engineers' strike in the Butte camp has resulted in the closing down of about three-fourths of the big mines. It has not affected the smaller independent companies, such as the Butte & Ballaklava, as they are using little electricity power, and do not require the services of engineers. It, however, has had a depressing effect on some of the stocks, especially such stocks as Butte & Superior, which is held largely by the miners of the Butte camp, being out of employment they are not in a position to invest their surplus earnings in their favorite stock.

The records show that the Butte & Superior is now shipping 200 tons a day, to the best concentrator. Plans are being drawn for a machine shop and for a "dry," which will accommodate 200 men. Plans are being perfected for the erection of a concentrating plant with a capacity of 1,000 or more tons per day, which is expected to be completed inside of the year. The ore being shipped averages better than 20 per cent zinc. The ore body on the 1,200-foot level has widened out to more than 30 feet, and at the present time is netting the company better than $10 per ton.

The Butte-Alex Scott are shipping only the ore encountered in development work. On the 1,400-foot level a long chute of pay ore has been found on which they are drifting and from which shipments are being made to the Pittsmont smelter. This ore runs from ½ to 15 per cent copper. On this level they have four veins, all under the big Rarus fault.

The Butte & Ballaklava company employes about sixty-five men on surface improvements and underground. They are drifting and stoping ore on several different levels and are making regular shipments. The foundation is being laid for the ore hoist and engine room which is expected to arrive at the property about the first of March, and will be installed and in operation somewhere from the 10th to the 20th. This will enable the company to more than double their hoist capasciity as the stope will be well opened up by that time, and shipments will be increased to about 300 tons per day.

CONFESSES TO FIVE ASSAULTS

Kansas City Negro Begs the Officers to Protect Him From Avenger.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 19.—William Jackson, 38 years old, a negro janitor who last night confessed to assaulting five young white girls, was taken before the grand jury today. Prosecutor Conkling gave promise that the prisoner would be tried at once. Coming so close upon the hanging of two negroes here Feb. 8 for assaulting a white woman, intense feeling against Jackson has been aroused, but there has been no public demonstration.

Jackson told last night that he had bought roller skates and candy for his victims to induce them to enter his room. After he had confessed to this an uncle of one of the girls attempted to shoot the negro, and, shivering with fright, Jackson crept under a table. Today Jackson, still fearful that he would be killed, begged the officers to protect him.

HELP WANTED—MALE.

WANTED—IF YOU DON'T LIKE YOUR work, read this advertisement clear through. You can't lose your position in the navy if you behave. Pay day always comes in good or bad times. No strikes. No lay-offs. You always get the same splendid things to eat and plenty of it whether the cost of food is high or low. You always have warm clothes and a clean, warm, comfortable bed, and a warm living room in day time. In fact, the fleet spends most winter days in tropical waters. If sick, you have the finest medical care free. If disabled you get a pension. If you stay in the navy thirty years, you can retire on three-fourths pay for the balance of your life. Work isn't hard and average pay of enlisted men is $35.00 per month. At the end of the month you have about $35.00 left, as navy pays nearly all your living expenses. In civil life do you have $35.00 left each month? And there's splendid chance for promotion to chief petty officer at $77.00 per month, or to warrant officer at $2,400.00 per year, with nearly all expenses paid. Some save enough money while in the navy to start in business for themselves. Others have stayed in thirty years, saved small fortunes, and retired on three-fourths pay. Should you return to civil life, you'll find yourself an able fighter in the great game of life, for navy physical training makes you strong, erect, athletic. And navy life educates you by showing you some of the United States—maybe some of the world; by throwing you into the company of educated officers and fine young men; by teaching you a trade, perhaps, and by giving you much time for study. Four navy years are better than four college years, many think. Go to a recruiting officer today. Have a private talk with the officers and bluejackets there. You'll find them glad to see you and ready to tell you everything. If you don't join that makes no difference. They won't urge you to. Go and see them today—not tomorrow—today. You'll be glad you did. Nearest recruiting office to you is Postoffice Building, Duluth, Minn. If you can't go, write for a free booklet which tells everything about a bluejacket's life, in a simple, interesting way, and is full of pictures. Just think what a small bit of trouble it is for you to get a pencil and post card and write for this book. Then think what this small bit of trouble may do for you. It may put you on the road to your life's success. Don't put it off. You'll forget it if you do. Send for it now. Also send names and addresses of four or five boys you'd like to have join the navy with you. We'll send them books, too. Bureau of Navigation, Box 204, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

CAIRO FACES RACE CRISIS

Fifth Company of Militia Is Ordered to Go to That City.

Meeting of Grand Jury Is Expected to Stir Up New Rioting.

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 21.—With 100 more militiamen on the way to this city by special train and with the people in a sullen mood awaiting developments, today was expected to bring the strained situation in Cairo to a head.

The grand jury this morning began investigation of last Thursday's rioting. The coroner's jury will conclude its inquiry this afternoon. Adjt. Gen. Dickson has been subpoenaed to appear before the latter body. Accordingly the conflict between the sheriff and the military will be given an airing.

Constant Fear of Outbreak.

Last night the officials were in constant fear of an outbreak against the negroes. As a result the soldiers kept a vigilant eye on the entire city, patrolling the streets in a drizzling rain which for twenty-four hours has done much to prevent people from congregating.

The hunt for the supposed confederate of John Pratt, the negro purse-snatcher, whose robbery of two women precipitated the present race trouble, is being continued today.

Company H of Shelbyville, ordered out at midnight last night, will arrive this afternoon, increasing the militia to a total of five companies.

BITTER FIGHT IN WILL CASE

Somebody Will Go to Prison No Matter How It Turns Out.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 21.—A hundred days' wrangle over the rightful claimant to the $750,000 estate of the late Daniel Russell of Melrose has not only marked the case as the Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce of Massachusetts jurisprudence, but has developed sufficient testimony to warrant criminal action, no matter which way the scales of justice fall.

A tall, dark-haired man from North Dakota stands before the Middlesex probate court either as a long lost son or as one of the most accomplished imposters in the legal annals of the state. He says he is Daniel Blake Russell, the second son of Daniel Russell, and that, disappearing when a boy, he did not hear of the father's death until a year after the estate had been practically settled.

Prison Term for Somebody.

On the other side stands William C. Russell, the elder son and principal beneficiary under the will, who alleges that the North Dakotan is really James Rousseau of Malone, N. Y., and that he has been backed in the fight for the Russell property by a particularly clever group of gamblers at Dickinson, N. D.

If the claimant's case is upheld the postoffice authorities will be warranted in arresting some of the other side on account of forging cancellation dates and rifling the mails. If, on the other hand, the estate wins, the claimant, whose name will be therefore Rousseau and not Russell, stands as a perjurer and one who has attempted to obtain money under false pretenses.

It is estimated that the case has cost to date $200,000.

NATIONS ARE NOT ACTING TOGETHER

England and France Are Independent in Advising China What to Do.

Pekin, Feb 21.—Great Britain and France disclaim joint or concerted action in advising China not to proceed with the Chinchow & Aigun railway plan without considering the wishes of Russia and Japan. Great Britain reiterated her representations, and the French government followed the same course.

Advices from Tsitsikhar, Manchuria, announce that the Siberian authorities have for some time been expelling Chinese settlers from Amur province. Two hundred families have been driven out, and in some instances their houses have been burned. The Chinese government has filed claims for damages with Russia.

ARGUE SUIT TO END COAL TRUST

Attorneys Appear in the Federal Circuit Court in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—Another of the big trust prosecutions begun in the Roosevelt administration came up today. Argument was heard here by the United States circuit court in the government's suit against the alleged anthracite coal combination. The case is before Judges Buffington, Lanning and Gray, the last named of whom has an intimate knowledge of conditions in the hard coal regions, by reason of having served on the anthracite commission.

About 150 attorneys represent the fifty defendants, but only a few of the lawyers will be heard.

LAST ROLE IS "DRAIN MAN"

Clay Clement Dies Suddenly of Uraemic Poisoning at Kansas City.

Part in "The Servant In The House" Is Final One for Playwright.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 21.—Clay Clement, the actor, dramatist and writer of short stories, died suddenly at a hospital here this morning of uraemic poisoning.

Mr. Clement finished a week's engagement as the "Drain Man" in "The Servant in the House," at a local theater Saturday night. He had not been feeling well and decided to remain here over Sunday. He grew worse rapidly and early today he was seized with convulsions. He then was hurried to the hospital, where he soon became unconscious and died twenty minutes later.

Clay Clement was born in Green township, Woodford county, Illinois, Dec. 21, 1863. He received his early education at El Paso, Ill., and graduated from the preparatory department of the University of Chicago in 1882. He did undergraduate work in the university proper and later read law for one year under Judge W. L. Snell in Chicago. His stage career began in 1884. His first wife was Matti E. Marshall who died in 1896. Mr. Clement later married Kathleen Kerrigan of Louisville. His best known original play was "The New Dominion."

FIND CORN IS NOT GOOD FOR SEED

Investigation Held in Nebraska Proves Serious for the Farmers.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 21.—A result of continuous tests of Nebraska seed corn, the Commercial Club of Omaha announced today that only 27½ per cent of the corn held by farmers for seed in Nebraska will grow.

The state has been alarmed by such reports, which are said to be absolutely authentic. The corn in the northern part of the state is absolutely worthless for seed. In the southern part, those farmers who have tested corn find they have only sufficient seed for themselves and will have none to sell.

The railroad companies are sending bulletins to all stations warning against planting untested corn.

LURTON MAKES FIRST DECISION

Decides Case in Favor of Corporation Against the State of Georgia.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The Georgia Railroad & Banking company today won a victory over the state of Georgia. The supreme court of the United States affirmed the main points in an opinion of the lower federal court holding that the railroad was required to pay only a flat tax of one-half of 1 per cent on net earnings and is not subject to property or franchise taxes.

Today's decision was the first which Justice Lurton has rendered from the supreme court bench. The only qualification of this victory was a modification of the decree as to the Washington branch. The state won its contention in that one respect.

Quiet Sunday in Germany.

Berlin, Feb. 21.—The Socialist-Suffrage demonstrations in the Prussian provincial cities were made quietly yesterday, and there were no disorders anywhere. Apparently the police had received orders from Berlin to assume a cautious and unprovocative attitude.

MAY INDICT STORAGE MEN

New Jersey Grand Jury Has Evidence That Health Is Menaced.

Meat Packers Also Are Said to Face Possibility of Being Accused.

New York, Feb. 21.—When the Hudson county authorities resumed their food products investigation today in Jersey City, indications were that a batch of indictments, to include not only prominent meat packers, but several men interested in big cold storage enterprises, would be presented to the grand jury with every prospect that numbers of true bills would be returned.

Refrigerating machines now in common use are the subject of attack in addition to the practices alleged to be followed by prominent packing concerns in holding back supplies by agreement to affect prices, a practice which led to a grand jury vote last week looking to action against the National Packing company.

Among other things, the alleged practice of taking meat and poultry from the cold storage plants and returning such products again for an additional period if prices realized were not satisfactory was taken up today. Such methods, the officials say, involve notable danger to the public health.

PLANS REGATTA IN STATE PRISON

Warden Prepares for Flood and Tells About Artistic Bricklayer.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 21.—In the budget of news today from the Western penitentiary at Riverside comes the following:

Warden Francis, on the anxious seat because of the prospects of a flood this spring and mindful of the fact that boats in time of flood are harder to rent than a fire engine when a conflagration rages, has set a corps of convicts at work building a number of skiffs. When the flood comes the prisoners and the turnkeys may sail about within the prison walls, in their cells, mess room and workshops without getting wet feet.

Warden Francis also has an eye for art. A convict, who was formerly a bricklayer, has done in oil the portraits of several former wardens and jail officials. The pictures now decorate the corridors of the penitentiary. The convict has also added a mural painting of the state seal in rich colors.

EGYPTIAN PREMIER VICTIM OF ASSASSIN.

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 21.—Boutros Pasha Ghali, the Egyptian premier and minister of foreign affairs, who was shot by a student yesterday, died today. The assassin, who is in custody, declares that he sought to avenge certain acts of the government which were displeasing to the Nationalists, of whom the prisoner is one.

CALMER IN PHILADELPHIA

Street Car Riots Are Practically Ended After Sunday of Violence.

Recognition of Rival Union Is Cause of the Men's Walking Out.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 21.—There was a calm today following the storm yesterday when rioters held possession of the streets of Philadelphia wherever an attempt was made to run a street car.

Although cars were running on all lines today the system was pretty well tied up, and there were few passengers. Many went to work on roller skates. Though there were disorders this morning they were of small consequence and few arrests resulted.

The Philadelphia Rapid Ttransit company, owner of the entire street railway system of the city, issued a statement that only 600 cars were running today, but that the coporation has enough men to run 1,200 if there were sufficient policemen available. The bluecoats are worn out by the disorders of yesterday and not enough men could be assigned to

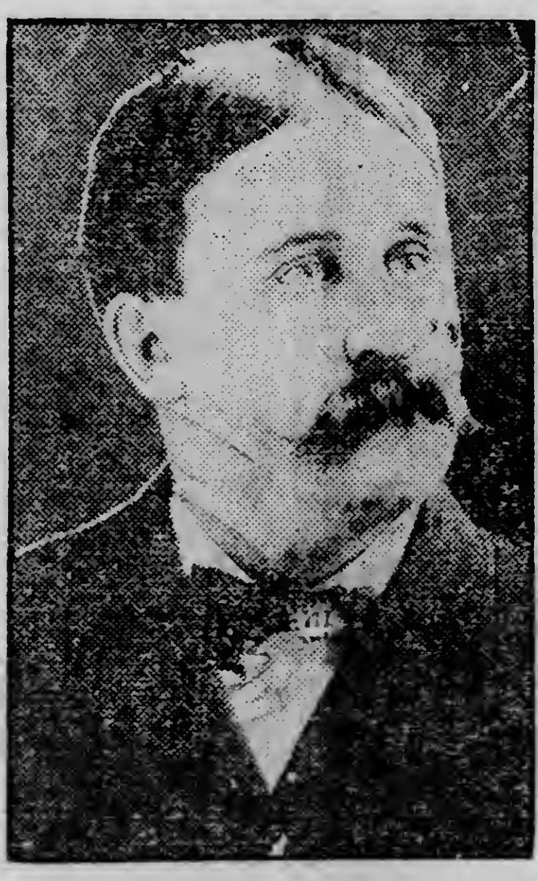
BAY STATE BANKER WHO IS IN TROUBLE



JOHN A. HALL.

Another trusted bank official is in trouble. He is John A. Hall, treasurer of the Southbridge Savings bank in Massachusetts. Mr. Hall is said to have begun stealing about the time he came into the bank and to have kept it up for twenty years. In that time he is said to have taken more than $424,000. The bank is now closed and Hall is in jail. The depositors will get about 86 per cent of their deposits and the stockholders of the bank will get nothing.

KING OPENS PARLIAMENT

Pomp and Pageantry Mark Reassembling of British Lawmakers.

John Redmond Predicts Another Dissolution Before Easter.

London, Feb. 21.—Parliament was opened formally this afternoon by King Edward, who was accompanied by Queen Alexandra. The assemblage is now fully organized and ready for the work of the session. The state opening was marked by all the pomp and pageantry associated with such occasions since the accession of Edward VII.

A meeting of all the Irish Nationalists in the new house of commons was held this afternoon to determine the party attitude toward the governmental program. John Redmond, leader of the Irish parliamentary party, presided, and that he is in a mood to fight unless Premier Asquith clears the way for Irish aspirations may be gathered from his appeal to the people of Ireland for party funds, issued this morning.

Redmond Predicts Dissolution.

"This appeal," said Mr. Redmond, "is vitally urgent by reason of the strong probability that another dissolution of parliament will be upon us immediately—perhaps before Easter."

Today's meeting authorized Mr. Redmond to voice the already expressed opinion of the party regarding the policy that should be pursued, but suspended decision on the final action to be taken until the king's speech has

BIG CROWD AT LYCEUM

First Noon Day Religious Meeting Proves a Great Success.

Dr. M. S. Rice Preaches on "The Bondage of Freedom."

The Lceum theater was crowded this noon with men and women, who had gathered to hear the first of a series of noon day religious talks by Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First Methodist church.

The attendance at the first meeting was very encouraging to those in charge of the services. Dr. Rice spoke on the subject, "The Bondage of Freedom." Miss Mary Bradshaw sang. Tuesday, Washington's birthday, the topic to be discussed by Dr. Rice is "The Patriotism of Religion."

At the service this noon Dr. Rice said in part:

"The text, 'Remember them that are in bonds as bound with them' sounds heroic. It is the note of the world's hope, whenever it shall be heard by the strong free souls of men. The passion

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A broken rail wrecked the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul passenger train due here at 8 o'clock today, near Hastings, Minn., and resulted in the death of John Willis, baggageman. A conductor on a sleeping car and one of the passengers were injured.

The engine tender, express car, baggage car and one compartment car ran off the track and turned completely over. The rear part of the train remained on the track.

FATAL DUEL IN ROOM IN HOTEL

Eleven Shots Fired By Men Thought to Have Fought Over Loot.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 21.—An unidentified man was killed in his room at a cheap hotel late last night as the result of a revolver fight with a companion, who escaped after the shooting. Eleven shots were fired by the two men. Four bullets took effect in the head of the victim. The other antagonist is believed to be wounded, as he left a trail of blood when he ran downstairs.

The police think that the men were criminals who became involved in a quarrel over the division of spoils. Neither was known to the proprietor of the hotel.

FINES NOT ADEQUATE

Meat Dealers Who Violate Laws of Sanitation Deserve Prison Terms.

Judge Gives a Scathing Lecture in Sentencing Edward Mork.

Prison sentences for butchers who allow their shops to remain in the filthy condition described by J. H. Lee, deputy government meat inspector, as existing in the place of Edward and Emil Mork at 529-531 West First street, were recommended this morning by Judge W. L. Windom, when Edward Mork entered pleas of guilty to the charges against him. He was fined $100 and costs, the limit on the complaint charging insanitary conditions and $50 and costs for keeping immature veal.

Edward Mork was given the most scathing lecture ever heard in the municipal court rooms. "Animals have enough decercy to cover up their filth," declared Judge Windom.

The court declared that the conditions described by Inspector Lee were awful. He did not understand how they were allowed to exist. "I think the main trouble is that you and your brother are drunk most of the time," said Judge Windom.

Mork denied this. He admitted that it was probably true that his brother

HAS HIKED FROM DULUTH

John McDonald Walks to Grand Forks in Three Weeks.

Has Thrilling Trip in Bitter Weather--Going to Join His Son.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—John McDonald, aged 88 years, arrived in Grand Forks Sunday evening from Iron River, Wis., having made the entire trip by foot, walking across Northern Minnesota from Duluth to this city in three weeks. The old man is on his way to Minot, where his son, Dan McDonald, is homesteading, but whose financial condition is such that he could not send money to his father.

Arriving in this city McDonald was cared for by the city officials and the remainder of the trip will be made by train, a fund being raised here to provide transportation.

Tells of Hard Trip.

McDonald's story of his trip across Northern Minnesota in intense cold, through deep snows and in sparsely settled districts is thrilling. On Cass Lake reservation he stopped nights with Indians, who he said treated him well. It took him all Saturday and Sunday to walk from Crookston to Grand Forks.

McDonald was not heavily clad, his underwear being only medium, and he wears an overall jumper. His main protection was an overcoat, which he says was purchased with money made on a railroad section at Iron River last summer. McDonald's health during the trip has been good except that he suffered from rheumatism from time to time.

Council Will Be Asked to Take Action Against Christopher.

CHRISTOPHER'S RECORD AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

Feb. 13, 1910 — Arrested for keeping house of ill fame.

Feb. 21, 1910—Found guilty and fined $100 and costs or sixty days.

July 16, 1909—Given sixty days for keeping house of ill fame. Case appealed.

June 18, 1908—Paid $27.50 for selling adulterated liquor.

Aug. 17, 1906—Paid a fine of $55 for assault.

April 11, 1906—Paid a fine of $27.50 for keeping a gambling house.

Also four robberies reported from his hotel at 228 Lake avenue south, within approximately the last year.

Following David Christopher's conviction in police court this morning on the charge of keeping a house of ill fame at his hotel, 228 Lake avenue south, it is probable that the city council will be asked to revoke his saloon license at the regular meeting tonight. Christopher was fined $100 and costs or sixty days in the county jail this morning upon being pronounced guilty by Judge Cutting.

The police declare unequivocally that Christopher's saloon license should be revoked by the common council. They declare that the place he conducts is one of the worst in the city, and that the elimination of the saloon part of it is about the only way that it can be successfully regulated.

The authorities state that the hotel has one of the worst reputations in Duluth. They assert that it is frequented by undesirable characters who make their living in an unlawful manner.

The place was raided at midnight a week ago Saturday by a detail from headquarters. Christopher, three women and a man were taken into custody. Christopher was charged with keeping a house of ill fame and statutory charges were placed against the others. None of the women appeared in court when Christopher was being tried. The case was concluded this morning.

The evidence was secured previous to the raid by two men in the employ of the police. They reported that they found two women leaning over the bar, and that they went to a room upstairs at their request, where improper proposals were made to them by the inmates.

Christopher was arrested last July on a similar charge. He was found guilty and sentenced to sixty days in the county jail. He appealed the case, which is now pending in the supreme court.

A Rummage Sale Throughout the Store

One week of thorough rummage, is only a fitting climax to the series of clearing sales that we have been conducting in order to rid ourselves of all winter wear. This is our final step in carrying NO GOODS over from one season to another. Some of the Garments look more fit to grace a queen than join a rummage sale—others do better toward "looking the part"—but nothing from "garret to cellar" escapes the rummage order. The ridiculous prices on some of the groups, make our own sales people open their eyes in wonderment at the losses we take. Many groups are too small to mention.

SAYS HE WAS MISQUOTED

Rev. T. Corbett Gives Words He Used in Reference to Y. M. C. A.

Was Merely Warning Catholics Not to Join the Association.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Owing to some misquotations, you would do me a great favor in publishing in your evening issue the following, word for word:

"The Y. M. C. A. pretends to be an organization entirely undenominational, and opens its associate membership even to Catholics. This organization claims that it antagonizes no religious belief, but this is false where Catholics are concerned. The Catholic church is hit, if possible, as happened some time ago in the Duluth Y. M. C. A., though passed over by a weak explanation. Let them prosecute their good work among Protestant young men; but let them cease to proclaim their good will towards Catholics so long as they are made objects of ridicule and calumny.

"I wish to warn Catholics that they should understand that the Y. M. C. A. is a sectarian organization, and as such, bears animosity to Catholic faith and practice. Catholic young men should not suffer themselves to be duped by such an organization for the sake of worldly advantages, in face of insults to their faith. Shame on the Catholic young man who would hesitate to express openly his honest and conscientious convictions, yea, barter his Christian heritage for a bath. Catholics are only admitted to associate membership, have no voice in the management and are not eligible to office. They are therefore only tolerated. Sons of the church of Rome, would you suffer such an indignity by becoming inferior members of any organization? You who possess the precious heritage of the faith of twenty centuries of existence. You who belong to the grandest organization the world ever beheld. The church cannot compromise with error. Catholicity is essentially intolerant, for truth itself is intolerant. The Catholic church is the bearer of God's message to mankind. She cannot accommodate herself to the changing modes of human thought. Her mission is to correct them when at variance with the doctrines of Christ.

"A certain individual in this parish, posing as a leader, has become, I understand, a fervent canvasser among our Catholic young men for membership to the Y. M. C. A. Is he a clerk, who so debases himself, as to barter his faith for influence or a position? Is it a professional man, who is ignorant of his profession as to assume this unprofessional means of gaining popularity and duping my people into trading to their great detriment? I know of no leader in this parish. No favorites exist within its limits. In this church no man is rated one iota above another.

"Catholic young men: it is beneath your dignity to forget the traditions of your church, the precious jewel of faith held by the blood of your forefathers, and trample under foot all sense of honor, by becoming a secondary member of that Protestant organization called the Y. M. C. A.

"Popularity, oh vain popularity in face of truth which will always conquer! Oh church of Rome, no honest member of yours will ever bite the dust for popularity. Catholic young men, cease therefore to join an organization that will eventually deprive you of your Christian heritage. No Catholic, to my knowledge, ever became a permanent member of the Y. M. C. A. without growing lukewarm in his faith, and finally abandoning his church until the hour of death, when he found that the Catholic religion was the religion in which to die. Catholic young men who join the Y. M. C. A. soon imagine that one religion is as good as another, and that the Y. M. C. A. is the best of all." REV. T. CORBETT.

MUST STATE FAITH CLEARLY

Rev. T. Stanley Oadams Preaches at the Endion M. E. Church.

Rev. T. Stanley Oadams of Two Harbors occupied the pulpit at Endion Methodist Episcopal church yesterday morning and preached an able sermon on "The Structure of the Soul Life." He made a strong plea for a reasonable and seasonable faith in the individual.

"To understand the gospel does not mean to remove all mystery from it, but it does mean that you must state it clearly to yourself," he said. "Protestantism is strong in this. It believes in stating its faith clearly to itself. It distrusts what it cannot state to itself. It is the religion of the soul when it is wide awake and determined to play no tricks upon itself. The spiritual atmosphere in which you live will determine the progress of character.

"Growth unto eternal life depends upon the soul's outlook. It is important which way the house faces. The revelation of God to His child was appropriated through prayer. Whatever else we believe in we must have supreme faith in the divine mercy, magnanimity, good will toward us of God—our father who loves us, and makes all life meaningful and useful as we bravely accept His guidance, trying to live life at its very best unto its eternal unfoldment."

GUARD YOUR KIDNEYS

The startling increase of deaths resulting from kidney trouble makes this advice timely. At first symptoms, such as backache, frequent or highly-colored urination, scalding urine, rheumatic pains in the joints, puffiness under the eyes, dimmed vision, etc., use the following prescription. Buy from any good druggist one-half ounce Murax compound in original sealed package and mix with one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu and six ounces good, pure gin. (Be sure to get the genuine Murax compound in original sealed packages.) Shake bottle well each time and take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal. This mixture is said to work wonders. Local druggists say the demand for these ingredients is increasing every day.

Saved From Awful Peril.

"I never felt so near my grave," writes Lewis Chamblin, of Manchester, Ohio, R. R. No. 3, "as when a frightful cough and lung trouble pulled me down to 115 pounds in spite of many remedies and the best doctors. And that I am alive today is due solely to Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. Now I weigh 160 pounds and can work hard. It also cured my four children of croup." ASSOCIATED CHARITIES WORKERS GIVEN SURPRISE

A. P. Cook Says Family Can Live on $26 a Month.

Provident Fund Established to Give Temporary Aid to Needy.

That a man, a woman and four children can live on $26 a month in the city of Duluth, providing the rent paid is not too high, was the statement made this morning in an address by A. P. Cook, superintendent of the county poor board, at a special meeting of the Associated Charities.

The statement caused a storm of protest and after the meeting the women gathered in small groups and "impossible" was the word used most frequently.

Mr. Cook appeared before the Associated Charities by invitation, to tell of the work of the county board, how problems are met, and how the families are visited and investigated before help is extended.

Mr. Cook said that women charity workers are all right and that they mean well. He intimated, however, that sometimes they let their sympathies run away with their better judgment.

Mr. Cook's talk was forceful throughout, and the women agreed with him in almost everything but the statement made on the amount of money needed to support a family.

Mr. Cook told how, in his opinion, it was better to be a little under the mark in the matter of help toward deserving families, than over. He said that $4 at a time was enough help for any family, unless the visitor could see that more than that amount was required until relief should come from other quarters. "It is not wise to be too generous," said Mr. Cook, "it is so easy to make paupers of our people."

A provident fund has now been established in Duluth and the money will be distributed through the Associated Charities. The matter was thoroughly gone over this morning and the delegates from each society are enthusiastic over the amount of good they believe it will do. The money will be loaned in sums up to $50. No interest will be charged. The fund was created for the purpose of tiding people over until circumstances can be improved.

A committee was appointed to investigate the cost of funeral expenses in Duluth. Funeral expenses are very high, according to reports made to the Associated Charities, and to find out how much money is needed to give a person a proper burial is the purpose of the investigation.

The discussion of the white slave trade was put over until a future meeting, owing to the long discussions during the morning on various subjects.

Attention was called to the lecture to be given at the Commercial club by Mrs. Florence Kelly of New York city. Mrs. Kelly is secretary of the Consumers' league and travels about the country speaking on child labor and labor conditions.

MASSEY LEADS COMMERCIALS

Heads Individuals With Average of 190 for Thirty-Nine Games.

Standings of the Commercial Bowling league show Massey as the leading player of the league to date, though he is closely pressed by Olsen, Otterson and Staudt.

In thirty-nine games Massey has maintained an average of 190 pins, which is a very good record. The next three players have each an average of 188 pins per game. The averages of the Commercial league players are very high and show the class of playing that has been seen on the alleys of Duluth the present winter.

The Three Winners are leading the league in the number of games won, that team having won twenty-nine out of 42 games. The Hilliards trail the Three Winners.

In the standing for total pins, the Hilliards lead with an average of 918 pins a game. The Three Winners are close behind.

Change in Rinks.

A change was made late this afternoon in the Duluth representation in the bonspiel at Minneapolis tomorrow. Will Dinham's rink will replace Bradley's, which will not go to the tournament. The two rinks which will represent the Duluth Curling club are made up as follows:

R. Schiller, A. Lathers, J. R. Jacobi, Will Dinham, skip.

A. W. Withrow, Walter Poehler, J. T. Pugh, S. H. Jones, skip.

BONSPIEL IS NEAR THE CLOSE

Final Game in McLaren Between Cassidy and Cullingford Rinks.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only some half dozen games remain to be played in the bonspiel, but the curtain will not be rung down until tomorrow night when the Cassidy and Cullingford rinks meet to decide the McLaren.

The Dingwall will be finished today as well as the Patriarch competition for the diamond rings.

Four competitions were decided Saturday. Cassidy winning the Tetley tankard, Fenton of Fort William the Purity flour, W. E. McGaw of the Assiniboines the Blue Ribbon, and "Mac" Rochen the Whyte cup.

The Purity Flour final resulted in the somewhat unexpected defeat of the Cassidy rink and the winning of the cup by "Bud" Fenton of Fort William. It was the second defeat sustained by the "Kids" in ten anxious days of bonspiel competition and the first in the open events. As it was the fifth straight game during the day they were naturally wearied and unable to play in their usual style. Credit must be given the Fenton rink however for its consistent good curling in this game as well as throughout the bonspiel.

WILLIE HOPPE IS IN DULUTH

"Boy Wonder" Believes He Will Regain His Forfeited Title.

Willie Hoppe, believed by most experts of the game to be the greatest billiard player the world has ever produced, though this remarkable young man is but 22 years of age, and Ora Morningstar, one of the stars of the game, are in Duluth today.

Through a disagreement with some billiard table manufacturing people, Hoppe has not competed in the big Madison Square Garden tournaments for some time. Through his failure to compete in these tournaments, he has forfeited the championship titles in both the 18.1 and 18.2 titles. March 16, Hoppe will meet Sutton for the 18.1 title and will later meet Cline, who has defeated Demarest for the 18.2 title.

Hoppe is not lacking in confidence. "I believe I will defeat Sutton in our match next month," he stated this morning. "I have beaten men equally as good as Sutton. I am also quite sure of my ability to defeat Cline. I have beaten all the men who have beaten Cline, and on this form of comparison should win from him."

At this point Morningstar cut in with the assertion that there would be no doubt of the champion, so positive is he of the ability of Hoppe to win the title from both Sutton and Cline.

Hoppe spoke in great admiration of Wizzard Jake Schaefer, who is dying of consumption in Denver.

Morningstar will challenge the winner of the Hoppe-Cline match, according to his statement today. He was recently beaten in Pittsburg by Hoppe. He is classed with Hoppe, Sutton, Slossom, Cline and Demarest, as one of the greatest of the great billiard players of the world.

Many devotees of the cue remember Willie Hoppe as a very small boy of 14. He played a game here in the Armory at that time, meeting W. F. Hatley, who has now the St. Louis parlors under his management. Hoppe has played in Duluth since that time.

Young Hoppe is what might be termed a model youth. He neither smokes or drinks. He stated today that a billiard player's condition depended much upon his nerves, and for that reason he never indulged in even the mildest for of dissipation.

AMATEUR SKI RIDERS.

Boys of West End Club Have Tourney at Miller's Creek.

About 200 people attended the tournament of the West End Ski club yesterday afternoon at its slide on Miller's creek just above the boulevard. About ten riders were entered in the contest and although no record jumps were made for that hill, the affair was very successful.

Nels Floan, who was awarded the honors of being the most graceful rider, jumped eighty-three feet. Ole Wik, Harold Hanson and Marion Olson each made eighty feet and Hans Peterson jumped seventy-eight feet. The hill was in fine condition. It is probable that the amateurs will hold another contest at the hill next Sunday.

Detroit will distribute $55,000, beginning Aug. 2. The meeting at Hamline, Minn., will be held during the week of Sept. 5, with purses aggregating $31,000.

MAKE POOR SHOWING.

Majestics Fail to Show Form in International Tournament.

In its games at St. Paul yesterday the Majestic bowling team of this city made a very indifferent showing, piling up a score of but 2,433 in the three games, which is far below the average made in the international so far during the tournament. Campbell was the only player who went over the 200 mark for the Majestics.

CONTRACT FOR BRIDGE TO BE LET

Board Will Probably Approve Plans Offered Cy C. A. P. Turner.

The board of public works will undoubtedly award the contract for the bridge over Tischer's creek this afternoon to George H. Lounsberry, whose bid is on the Turner plan, costing about $19,000.

The matter will then go to the council for confirmation this evening. C. A. P. Turner, designer, is in the city, and will probably appear before the alderman to urge the advantages of his style of bridge, if there is any opposition to the confirmation of the contract. The park board held a session at the city hall this morning and agreed that under the circumstances, the Turner plans would be satisfactory, although reservations were made. The Turner plan bridge is the full width, sixty-six feet wide. The opponents of the arch claimed that it would spoil the appearance of the street by its narrowness in the center of two steep inclines, and increase the danger of accidents with street cars, which travel at comparatively high rates of speed down the sides of the gulch. They also claimed that it would not give as good a view as the other, which is supported by a dozen circular columns in four rows of three piers each. The bridge designed under the Turner plans is flat and constructed of concrete. It does not call for a fill and costs about $5,000 less than the arch bridge. The arch proposed would not reach from bank to bank but would span only the creek with the view shortened on both sides by fills.

There is decided opposition to the Turner plans from a number of interested property owners, who claim the appearance of the most beautiful park in the city should not be spoiled by an unsightly bridge.

COMMERCIAL CLUB ACTIVITIES

TAKING CENSUS OF FARMERS

Preparing to "Show" Owners of Minnesota & North Wisconsin Road.

George Rupley and A. B. Hostetter of the Commercial club will start out tomorrow on their still hunt for the information regarding the number of settlers along the line of the Minnesota & North Wisconsin logging road.

According to the plan submitted my Mr. Rupley to the public affairs committee, the road will be operated to accommodate the farmers and settlers living along the line, and bring their produce to Duluth. The owners of the road are willing to operate it in this way if they are shown that it can be made to pay expenses, with the promise of a profit at some future date.

Mr. Rupley and Mr. Hostetter will therefore start out to secure this information. A meeting of the farmers in Canosia will be held at the Canosia town hall tomorrow night, and a census of the farmers in that town will be secured at that time. The following night a meeting will be held of the farmers in Gnesen and Rice Lake. By the time they have completed their work, it is hoped to have a complete census of the district through which the line runs, with an estimate of the total number of acres cleared and under cultivation. This information will then be forwarded to the owners of the road.

Some of the settlers claim that the owners of the road can be compelled to maintain service over it, by the railroad and warehouse commission.

WANT ARMORY FOR PUBLIC MARKET

Request of Producers' Association Will Probably Be Granted.

The city council has been asked to assist the Producers' Co-operative Market association to get started. John S. Pardee, secretary, has written to A. G. McKnight, chairman of the committee on city property, requesting that the association be allowed the use of a portion of the Armory. The committee looks favorably upon the request and upon its recommendation the council this evening will likely grant the desired permission. Later it is expected that the association will build its own warehouses and sheds.

The farmers are going into the game with the intention of doing business upon a large scale and it will not be long before the limited space that can be secured in the Armory will be insufficient. The committee will report against building sheds on the lots at West Duluth, but will allow the people in the western part of the city the use of the lots at Ramsey street and the Northern Pacific right of way. If the market is to be established within the next year the funds will have to be raised by private subscription as the city treasury cannot stand the expense.

DULUTH TO BE ADVERTISED

Effort Will Be Made to Attract Summer Visitors to City.

The first systematic attempt to advertise Duluth as a summer resort will be made this year, when all railroad and steamship companies running into Duluth will be supplied with pamphlets advertising the beauty and ideal weather conditions of Duluth in summer.

"Outdoor Duluth" will be the name of a pamphlet which is being prepared by the Duluth Commercial club for general distribution in the centers, from which tourists come. The fact that the city on the shore of Lake Superior offers a pleasant haven from the scorching heat of the crowded centers will be set forth in attractive form

The booklet will contain pictures of the beauty spots in and around Duluth and descriptions of the forms of summer amusements offered visitors. The pamphlets will also contain a street railway map of the city and information for the guidance of tourists on their arrival here.

Although tourists have swarmed to Duluth in summer for years, no organized effort has been made by the city to attract visitors. All of the advertising has been done by railroads and steamship lines and they have not done justice to the subject. In the future, Duluth will make an effort to get the tourist trade, for the city has advantages that cannot be offered elsewhere in the United States.

NOT ANXIOUS FOR OIL TANKS

Duluth Will Not Fight the Trust's Battles With Superior.

"Duluth isn't overly anxious to have the Standard Oil company locate its half-million-dollar oil tanks on this side of the bay," said a member of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club this morning.

"There is no reason why Duluth or the Commercial club should fight the battles of the oil trust with Superior, being made a simple catspaw in the game that is being played," he continued.

"Let them come if they want to, and let them go to Superior if they desire. It's a stand-off, from my way of looking at it, and not of sufficient importance to cause any stir. The investment is of but fair size. It would not bring many more laborers to Duluth, or keep them employed after they build them. The tanks would spoil the neighborhood where they would be located. The odor would be unpleasant, the insurance rates would probably be raised, and they would prevent the erection of business and residence property. I believe that the oil company and Superior should be allowed to settle their own differences without allowing the trust to hold Duluth over Superior's head as a big stick to drive a better bargain."

COCK FIGHT HELD IN WEST ST. PAUL

Birds Battle Merrily While Governor's Agents Scour Packing Suburb.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—While three St. Paul policemen and a constable from Dakota county stood within a block of the pit, one of the fiercest cocking mains ever pulled off in the state took place early Sunday morning in the basement of a house at Gorman avenue and Annapolis street, in West St. Paul.

While fourteen pairs of fighting cocks battled to the death, twenty St. Paul sports looked on.

The main took place in the basement of the home of Bill Rickman. A man stood at the entrance of the cellar stairs and demanded from all who entered a half dollar. The money forthcoming, all one had to do was to walk down the stairs, where an improvised cockpit was built and the floor was covered with shavings.

Governor Eberhart was notified Saturday that a cocking main was to be held, but was told that it would occur at South St. Paul. He directed the sheriff of Dakota county to stop the fight and the sheriff and his deputies spent several hours Saturday evening scouting for the main in Packington, while it was being adroitly pulled off in West St. Paul.

The Corset Demonstration Began This Morning.

Mrs. L. Stebbins—expert corsetiere, comes from the designing rooms of the famous Redfern corsets.

The superiority of Redferns is conceded "by women who know" and springs from the supremacy of Whalebone as a corset stiffener.

All high grade Paris corsets have whalebone. Besides being light, flat and lasting it is very resilient.

Mrs. Stebbins will discuss corset fashions and show YOU the special corset model necessary to YOUR FIGURE for current styles.

It is a fact—known and acknowledged by "specialists in the art of dress," that the FIT of the gown rests on a corset foundation.

You are cordially invited to call and see the New Redfern models—tomorrow. A purchase is not necessary. The models will be individually explained and you may be fitted to your particular corset and given the style number—purchasing at your convenience.

Fresh Styles Ready for Your Approval

SUITS—NEW

The styles of the "Victorian Era" are coming into vogue again. The new Coats are shorter—with few buttons; placed in some instances to present an unbroken front. The long straight lines tend to bring out characteristic lines of the figure and are altogether charming. See the artistic gathering in all the new spring shades. German blue, Robinhood green and other Woodland colors. 32-inch Coat fits in a loose unwrinkled way—front and back gores meeting at hip with pleats and straps. Expense $35.00. Other new lines begin at $42.50 and go up by easy stages as high as you care to go.

CUSTOM-MADE SUITS occupy a reserved compartment of their own. These suits are builded by master-tailors and embody all the skill of the profession. Each garment is "singly cut," designed by an expert who usually gets his inspiration in Paris—in person—and sewed by hand. Bust is all formed by canvas shaping and each collar is made like a man's collar—cut by hand and made to fit every individual garment and hand prest by 20 and 50-pound irons.

This is the creative A, B, C of these lovely new spring models. You can readily understand how one of these suits is more desirable than an individual made-to-your-order model because in these S. & B. custom suits you are sure of the latest Parisian adaptations—$50.00 to $65.00.

SILK DRESSES—NEW!

The charm, style points and finishing touches in the way of trimming will appeal to women who want something different. OBSERVANCE OF HOLIDAY

Schools, Public Offices, Banks and Brokerage Offices to Be Closed.

Exercises in Memory of Washington Are Held in Schools of the City.

Washington's birthday will be quite generally observed as a legal holiday in Duluth tomorrow. Public offices, banks, schools and brokerage offices will be closed, and the day will also be observed by the library and the postoffice. Few, if any, of the business places will close, as the observance of the day does not usually extend to them.

In the schools of the city notice is being taken of the holiday by exercises today. At the high school this morning the chapel exercises took the form of observance of the holiday. There was a special musical program of patriotic numbers, and Supt. R. E. Denfeld spoke for about a half hour on the life of Washington. Principal George Buck also spoke for a few minutes.

Mr. Denfeld had urged all of the teachers of the city to hold special exercises this afternoon, and the suggestion was followed in all of the schools. The programs generally were made up of musical numbers and recitations. In the Adams school there was a departure, the lessons being so arranged that they pertained to the life of Washington. In the lower grades the reading exercises were on the life and works of Washington, while in the higher grades the history lessons were on the same subject.

Federal, state and county offices in the city will all be closed tomorrow, as will the banks. There will be no sessions of the Duluth board of trade or the stock exchange, and no quotations will be received from outside markets.

There will be two carrier deliveries of mail in the business district and one in the residence district tomorrow. The stamp and general delivery windows will be open from 10 to 11 a. m.

At the public library the circulation department will be closed all day, but the reading room will be open from 2.30 to 9 p. m.

WEST END

OBJECT TO THE CUTOFF

Sixth Ward Club Protests Against Changing Route of Cars.

The merchant-hillsider fight at the West end over the proposed plan of taking the street car service from the West Third street line between Nineteenth and Twenty-second avenues and running the Grand avenue cars on Superior street as far as Twenty-second avenue west, is waxing warm again.

The Sixth Ward Business club, an organization of hillsiders, passed a set of resolutions at its last meeting, strongly condemning any such action, as depriving the hillsiders of any of their present service for the benefit of the Superior street business man is liable to derive from the change.

As was stated in The Herald last week, General Manager Warren of the street railway company expresses some doubt whether or not the line will be built this year. The following are the resolutions passed by the club:

"We believe, first of all, that the street cars are operated for the benefit of the traveling public, and it should come first in consideration.

"Second, that the present system of operating the lines running on West Third street cannot be improved without great injury and no end of inconvenience to some locality or the service.

"Third, that as at present conducted, it is not too frequent for the traffic.

"Fourth, that it is the natural course to operate the West Third street lines by way of Piedmont avenue as at present conducted.

"It was pointed out by Mr. Warren that an improvement might be gained by laying a track about Twenty-seventh avenue west between Superior and West Third street that would enable them to pull out their cars in the morning, during rush hours, at noon and night, and pull them in over the same track instead of by way of Garfield avenue or Third avenue west.

"Considering that the cost of installing the cutoff between the two streets is $3,700 for material alone, then there is the grading and laying of same.

"We firmly believe if any cutoff be built that it should be between the west side of the street car barn and the east side of the ore docks. That would give the people who live on West Thirty-ninth avenue, Fifty-seventh avenue and Seventy-first avenue lines, who work at the ore docks, the Scott-Graff Lumber company, the breweries, the Clyde Iron works and other manufacturing concerns, a better service and a chance to shop in the West end at any business house east of the ore docks, thereby satisfying the wishes of the Superior street business men. For we hold that if such would be of any benefit in that respect, why should the blocks from Twenty-first avenue west to Twenty-eighth avenue west be slighted? If we are to make that part of Superior street a business street why not make it as far as Twenty-seventh avenue west, at least, and not slight anybody?

"It is absurd to suppose that people who live on Third street and above between Twenty-seventh avenue west and Piedmont avenue would walk down to Third street and take a car (three to five blocks) to go to their work or shopping in the West end. When they take a car they go up town.

"For the above and other reasons we felt we were justified in protesting against the action of the council a short time ago in granting the street railway company a right to build a cutoff at Twenty-second avenue west, a privilege that was never considered or asked for."

WILLIAM H. LINDSAY DIES IN MONTANA.

Duluth mining men have learned with surprise of the sudden and unexpected death at Butte, Mont., last Thursday of William H. Lindsay, one of the well-known mining men of that city who frequently visited Duluth. Mr. Lindsay spent several weeks here last winter in connection with the organization of the Butte-Alex Scott Mining company and subsequently visited Duluth several times, being here last only a few weeks ago. He was 40 and a native of Wisconsin. A widow and one daughter survive him. The funeral was held in Butte Saturday. Mr. Lindsay was a victim of diabetes and Bright's disease.

Before going to Montana Mr. Lindsay resided in Salt Lake City for a number of years.

Among the important positions he held in Butte were secretary of the Butte-Alex Scott Mining company, secretary of the Montana-Standard Mining company and of the Pittsburg-New York Mining company, holding the two latter positions at the time of his death.

His disposition was genial and he made friends with every one with whom he became acquainted.

GIVE CREDIT TO MILLER

Jobbers Pleased With Congressman's Work on Storage House Bill.

May Give Duluth Jobbers Chance to Bid on Indian Supplies.

Duluth started something in Indian affairs that was scheduled to come to a windup in the house of representatives today. Duluth began the movement to wipe out Indian storage houses in various Western cities, which would present every jobber in the country an equal opportunity with every other jobber, of bidding on Indian supply contracts.

Representative Miller of Duluth introduced a bill in the house of representatives some time ago that, if passed, will change the present method of favoritism which allots the contracts mostly to Chicago, San Francisco, St. Louis and New York wholesale houses. A vote on the bill will be taken today.

Specifications have been twisted and specialized so that firms carrying certain lines of goods would have a clear track, but firms with other brands just as good had to stand out in the cold and watch their competitors eat the plums. If the bill is passed, the wholesale houses of Duluth and the Twin Cities can bid on contracts for Indian supplies with a good chance of landing them, as these cities are near to reservations, while the only Indians around Chicago are those who inhabit Rector's and the Log Cabin.

Bently P. Neff, chairman of the jobbers' committee of the Commercial club, gives considerable credit to the Duluth Commercial club in its efforts, but concedes the major share of the honors to Representative Miller of Duluth, who put to the mat representatives from the towns in which there are warehouses in a verbal joust in the house of representatives Saturday.

According to press reports, Mr. Miller made his first big splash in the house, although he stirred up a large rumpus some time ago by claiming, with some degree of justification, that his recommendations of men for appointment to federal jobs were being held up because he was an insurgent.

WILLIE DUNLAY,
In "The Girl Question."

"This Sunday morning my brother insisted upon my attending services with him, and to satisfy him I consented. We hied ourselves away to the church. The minister gave out the hymn, 'I Love to Steal Awhile Away,' etc. The regular leader being away, his function devolved upon my brother, who commenced, 'I Love to Steal,' and then broke down. Raising his voice a little higher he then sang, 'I Love to Steal.' At length, after a desperate cought, he made a final demonstration, and roared out 'I Love to Steal.'

"The effort was too much. Every one but the parson was laughing. He arose and with the utmost coolness said:

"Seeing our brother's propensity, let us pray."

The Stock Company.

There will be a special matinee tomorrow afternoon at the Lyceum, at which the Yankee Doodle Stock company will present the beautiful Southern romance, "Marching Through Georgia."

This play, perhaps the best in the repertoire of the company, is from the pen of the author of "The Parish Priest," and is one of the prettiest of love stories.

"Marching Through Georgia" will be seen tonight, tomorrow night and at the special Washington's birthday matinee.

"The Man of Mystery," the Wednesday matinee and night's offering of the Yankee Doodle Stock company, although a refined melodrama, is nevertheless as thrilling as it is possible for a quiet melodrama to be. Its plot, which deals with hypnotism as a means for the accomplishment of crime is original and the play is developed along new lines.

MISS WANLESS WELL RECEIVED

New Soloist Scores Heavily in Masonic Concert Sunday Afternoon.

A very enthusiastic audience welcomed the young debutante, Miss Jean Wanless, the soloist at the free concert yesterday afternoon at the Masonic temple and further evidenced its appreciation by hearty encores to each of the two selections sung by her.

The first was Parker's arrangement of "Nearer My God to Thee," and while the composition did not come up to the original, Miss Wanless made a very pleasant number out of it and was obliged to respond to an encore for which she selected Nevin's "Rosary." Miss Wanless in selecting those pieces threw down the gauntlet to criticism, as they are both so well known, but she came through the ordeal unscathed. Her rich, full soprano with fine volume, well under control, was used to good advantage and she may now be said to have carved a place for herself in Duluth's musical circles. Miss Wanless comes from Mr. Custance's High School Musical society, where Rena Vivienne and others have found themselves. The vocal selections were quite varied, the second number, the quaint "Wind That Shakes the Barley," with the encore the beautiful "Lift Thine Eyes" by Logan, gave her the opportunity to show herself equally effective in the religious fervor of "Nearer My God to Thee," or the delicate ideals of the "Rosary," the whimsical appreciation of "The Wind That Shakes the Barley," or the more robust "Lift Thine Eyes," to which she worked up a splendid climax.

Of the organ selections the place must be given to the four movements of Beethoven's Sonate, Op. 28; with its delicate, tuneful classic composition and varied themes and moods. "The Overture Romantique" of Keler-Bela was well received as were the "Choir Invisible" which reminds one of "Jerusalem" to some extent; the touching "Ave Marie" by Owen and the first and middle portions of Liszt's "Les Preludes" the last portion not being entirely suited to the organ, being from a piano score. The part just before the ending was sublime and grand, the full tones of the organ lending themselves splendidly to the triumphal theme and sentiment.

THE EVENING STORY

THE DUEL

By L. A. Wentworth.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

"But your promise, senorita," cried Unzar, his swarthy face growing darker; "do you remember? or has another taught you to forget?"

She hesitated—and was lost.

A hand closed upon her wrist with crushing force, and a voice low and tense with emotion cried: "I have my answer, senorita, but remember my oath—I am here to keep it."

Then the recollection aroused her; she swept back the thick hair from her high forehead and turned upon him, righteous indignation visible in every feature.

"Your oath," she repeated, scornfully; "have you not already forfeited all claims upon me? Have you not left me neglected these many years? Did you think none other would seek me? Am I so ugly as that? Senor, a broken heart is healed only by another love. Is it strange, then, that I should love another? And my promise—" She paused abruptly and again that thoughtful look came into her eyes.

She glanced at that tall, handsome figure before her, drawn up to its full height, the bold, black eyes gazing off to that day, ten years before, when she had last seen him in old Madrid.

She remembered the promise given that day; but ten years was a long time and she had given up all hope—and was now to be the bride of another. But did she love the other?

"Oh! Unzar," she cried, "I know not what to say. I thought you had forgotten me. I have heard nothing from you since that day ten years ago. Felipe wanted me and I—I—"

"And do you love this—this Felipe?" he burst out, his face flaming.

"I—God help me! no, no, no! I almost hate him!" Her eyes were swimming, her brown hands doubled into little fists.

"But, Unzar," she continued, clutching his arm, her emotion forgotten in an instant. "You must not stay here, for should he see you he would either kill you or force you to fight. In either case it would be death, for no one has escaped him yet."

"You forget, Mona, that I am master of the art," and he touched his knife.

"But Felipe uses only pistols," she cried. Unzar's face darkened.

"I care not what he uses," he vociferated. "I would fight him with any weapon. I must fight him, for I have sworn you shall be my bride."

"And I swear she will not!"

Mona stifled a scream, and even Unzar recoiled a step at this unexpected retort. The intruder was Felipe, attired in all his glory, skin-tight pantaloons, with silver buttons up and down the legs; yellow boots with high heels set off with silver spurs, a short coat with gold buttons and a broad-brimmed high-crowned sombrero covered with silver braid. He was tall and wiry, his eyes black and piercing and his face, usually expressionless, now wore an ugly look. For a moment the men gazed at each other in silence.

"By what right do you swear?" demanded Unzar.

"I am her accepted suitor," replied Felipe.

"I claim a previous right," declared Unzar.

"That for your right," sneered Felipe, blowing a cloud of smoke into the other's face.

"You will pay for that, you peon," cried Unzar, livid with rage. "Name your time and place."

Felipe smiled scornfully.

"At sunrise beyond the eucalyptus grove—with pistols."

Mona uttered a low cry at the last word, which brought that wolfish smile to Felipe's lips.

"I will not disappoint you, senor," said Unzar.

"Farewell, then," sneered Felipe. "I will leave you with your—"

Unzar's hand unconsciously sought his knife, and Felipe smiled as he backed through the doorway, the word unspoken.

The first gray streaks of dawn were just visible in the Eastern sky when two figures emerged from the grove of eucalyptus trees and glanced about. One was a gray-haired man bent with age, his companion a tall, erect figure, whose face was covered with a mask of black silk. The old man was Tony, the keeper of the inn where Unzar had passed the night; he was yet but half awake, and as he sank down on the ground to wait his head nodded and soon fell forward, his chin resting on his chest. The other stood near, toying idly with a pistol, glancing now and then toward the trees that hid from view the town, and listening intently at the least sound. And so Felipe and his two companions found them just as the sun threw his first golden rays into the valley. For a brief moment they gazed upon the scene in silence, then broke into loud laughter, which aroused old Tony, who scrambled to his feet.

"Why does the senor wear a mask?" asked Felipe, striding toward the old man, who met him half way.

"That he may not be recognized should he win or known if he fall."

The toss of a coin gave the innkeeper the honor of the count.

The two coatless figures faced each other thirty yards apart, Felipe as cool and unconcerned as though about to indulge in target practice, the other apparently nervous, as though fearing some interruption.

"Remember," Tony called, "at the word three you are to raise your pistols and fire."

"Yes, ready," said Felipe.

There was a moment's pause, then: "One."

The masked figure started slightly at some noise coming from the trees.

"Two."

They both bent slightly forward

"Three!" cried Tony, in a shrill voice.

Simultaneously with the two reports that rang as one came a wild yell from among the trees. Old Tony and the two Mexicans turned—the other two lay motionless, where they had fallen—to see a halfclad, disheveled looking figure running toward them. Then they bent over the fallen duelists. Old Tony tore away the shirt to find the wound, then paused, his face ashen, his eyes bulging.

"My God!" he cried, and again, "My God!" The newcomer thrust the old man aside and he stripped off the mask.

"Mona!" cried the old man, crossing himself, his eyes dilated with horror.

"Yes, Mona, and you've killed her, you devil! Do you hear! killed her!"

"I thought it was you—"

"Me!" cried Unzar, madly shaking the other. "Didn't you drug me while I slept?"

"No, senor, no! By the Virgin, I swear it!"

"Who did, then?" Unzar vociferated, his grief relaxing.

"I don't know," whined Tony, caressing his throat. "When I knocked at your door you—she came out wearing the mask. It was your room, your clothes, your—"

But Unzar was not listening, he was gazing at the motionless form at his feet.

"My God," she murmured, "and she did this to save me."

Then his eye caught the quiver of an eyelid.

"There, give us that bottle, quick!" and he poured a few drops of the fiery stuff between her white lips, holding his breath in suspense.

The bosom swelled slightly, then fell, and a convulsive shudder passed over her, the eyes opened, looking straight into Unzar's.

"Mona, Mona!" he cried, "speak, it is I, Unzar, do you know me? Tell me where you are hurt."

She gazed for a moment bewildered, then her brain cleared.

"I—I am not hurt," she cried, sitting up, "I guess I fainted." Then she became conscious of her condition and hastily sprang to her feet and drew on the coat she had worn.

Unzar was gazing at her, his very soul in his eyes. "And you did this for me," he said, drawing her to him.

"You could not shoot," she replied, "and I could; he taught me," and she pointed to the motionless figure, over which the two Mexicans were talking excitedly.

"I feel myself a coward," said Unzar, "unworthy of such love. And you have robbed me of the only opportunity I had to prove my love for you."

"No," said Mona, "there is one way."

"Then name it," he cried.

"By keeping your oath," she answered, raising her lips to his.

SOO EX-AGENT JAILED.

Man Formerly in Charge at Copas Assaults Old Man.

Stillwater, Minn., Feb. 21.—Howard J. Segur, who for two years has been station agent at Copas, on the Soo line, is in the county jail in default of $2,000 bail, on a charge of assault with a loaded revolver, in the second degree.

The alleged victim was Charles Eckdahl, a pioneer resident of Otisville, aged 80 years, who has conducted a general store there for twenty-two years.

The old man bears marks of a fearful conflict. His scalp is gashed and discolored and his right eye is discolored as is also the right side of his face.

Howard J. Segur is about 30 years old. He has a wife and a young son. For two years he was station agent at Copas and lived in the basement of the station. Last Tuesday the railway put another man in his place as station agent, after officers had put in some days in checking up his accounts. It is said that he owed a balance to the railroad company, which was adjusted. Segur claims to have lost $200 out of his pocket last fall.

County Attorney Nethaway decided to make the charge of assault and stated that if the facts upon further investigation justify it a charge of larceny may be made later. It is said that there have been thefts for some time about the station at Copas and an effort will be made to ascertain who has been opening packages of butter and other freight to take out portions of them.

The court granted the decree on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

He was returning from a trip to Rome, but was stricken with apoplexy in St. Paul, remained in the hospital there three or four weeks, and was transferred to St. Joseph's hospital at Ashland nearly six months ago. The extent of the paralysis has indicated for some time that there was no hope of recovery.

WHAT THE BEMIDJI MEETING MEANS.

One of the two Twin Cities newspapers that deigned to refer editorially to the organization of the Northern Minnesota Development association spoke of it as the "insurgency of Northern Minnesota." Now that is not strictly accurate.

The Bemidji meeting was not a movement to secede from the state. IT WAS AN APPLICATION FOR ADMISSION TO THE STATE ON THE PART OF A SECTION THAT HERETOFORE HAS BEEN TREATED AS A FOREIGN COLONY, and that now demands that it be taken in upon an equal basis of representation and distribution of state funds.

This strong young organization, born at a meeting which for earestness, sincerity and determination never has been equalled by any gathering held in this state, includes thirty out of the eighty-five counties in Minnesota. Their area is 60 per cent of the entire state. Within this area is most of the unoccupied land owned by the state and federal governments. Within it, too, is most of the swamp land acquired by the state from the federal government on the condition that it be drained and made fit for occupation.

Vastly the greater part of this immense area, which is greater than that of many whole states, is uncommonly fertile and peculiarly fitted, when drained, cleared and provided with roads, for profitable husbandry. It is capable of supporting in comfort a population at least as dense as that which Southern Minnesota has today. Yet in many parts of it settlers are terribly handicapped because they are surrounded by public lands which pay no taxes, and which cannot be taxed to provide roads, schools and chapels—the necessities of civilization.

In spite of these handicaps, this empire held, at the time of the last census, 35 per cent of the state's population outside the Twin Cities; and the 1910 census will show a much greater proportion of the whole than that. The area covered by the Northern Minnesota Development association embraces 40 per cent of the entire assessed valuation of the state, including that of the Twin Cities. It cast 30 per cent of the entire vote of the state in the election of 1908.

Yet this magnificent empire, with all its needs and all its potentialities of prosperity, has but thirteen out of the sixty-three members of the state senate, and thirty out of the 119 members of the house of representatives; making but 20 per cent of the representation in the senate and 24 per cent of the representation in the house for 60 per cent of the state's area, 40 per cent of its assessed valuation and 30 per cent of its population.

It is quite clear what Northern Minnesota wants, and the spirit shown at the Bemidji meeting makes it equally clear that it proposes to get it.

First, it wants a reapportionment of legislative representation based upon population as determined by the 1910 census. This is its constitutional right, and a continuance of the present unjust representation is taxation without representation, the sort of thing that has made patriots fight in times past.

Second, it wants a more enlightened policy in the making and execution of laws governing the disposal of the state's lands. It demands that new policy not only in the name of Northern Minnesota but for all the state; for a sound, business-like and progressive system of handling state lands will work to the advantage of all parts of the state. The best land on earth—and that is the kind there is in Northern Minnesota—is absolutely worthless when it lies remote from markets with which it is unconnected by practicable highways. Settlers cannot be expected to go upon state lands and till them when they are denied the help of taxpaying neighbors in building roads, schools and churches. The state must fit its lands for occupation. It must arrange to leave enough timber upon them to give the settler a start. It must provide roads and give aid in building schools for the settlers.

This is not a charity, but a sound, profitable investment. An area of rich land without roads is practically valueless. Provide it with roads and it gains in value not only the cost of the roads, but many times that much.

These are the chief items of Northern Minnesota's aggressive campaign for justice. It is weary of being heavily taxed and getting little back. It is weary of neglect. The stress of necessity has driven its people together into a compact and effective organization, and while the organization is in no sense political, it is conscious that back of it are many thousands of votes that will, so far as matters of state policy are concerned, be used for Northern Minnesota first and for party purposes second.

According to the last state auditor's report, this section pays 40 per cent of the direct tax for state purposes, and gets back but 29 per cent of the state's outlay for roads, schools, etc. In other words, it pays into the state treasury $551,940.87 more than it gets back, while the remainder of the states outside the Twin Cities, gets back $148,468.03 more than it pays in.

Northern Minnesota proposes to stop that sort of thing; and that is what the Bemidji meeting means.

VICTIMS OF POLITICS.

For many years politics has been in bad repute in this country. The term "politician" is a word of reproach. The word "statesman" is almost obsolete. Now politics ought to be the business of public service; and surely there can be no more honorable profession in the world than public service. Why is it, then, that politics is in bad repute, and politicians are classed as undesirable citizens?

Because, in the process of a sort of reactionary evolution, politics ceased to be public service, or to bear any close relationship to public service. It became private graft; and it got into so low a state because of the incrustation of American patriotism by partisanship. Instead of this being a government of the people, for the people and by the people, it became a government of the people, but for and by the parties. And that meant, in the general result, by and for the ugly forms of Special Privilege that became parasites upon American prosperity.

When politics ceased to be public service and became private graft; when this ceased to be a government for and by the people and became a government for and by parties; when the parties became controlled by rings composed of self-seeking politicians who did not scruple to use their power to betray the people: when these things came about, politics became a scandal and a shame. When government again becomes government by and for the people, and when politics again becomes public service—and these things are about to happen—politics will become respectable, and its pursuit will become honorable.

As it stands, politics has not only betrayed and degraded and corrupted and oppressed the republic and its people, but it has made shameful scoundrels out of a lot of pretty good fellows. For your politician, in the beginning, is a good fellow. He has to be, to get his start in politics. But when he has been in long enough to rub the bloom off his patriotism and to drug his conscience with the rewards of trickery, he is a very different being.

Take the case of Frank P. Glazier, the former state treasurer of Michigan who has just gone to the penitentiary for embezzling state funds, and who not only stole $685,000 of state money, but wrecked two banks, besides ruining his own career.

Not many years ago, Glazier was one of the most successful and prominent and trusted business men in Michigan. He made his home town of Chelsea a model. He gave his fellow citizens clubrooms and a library. He drove out the unruly saloon-keeper, and watched over the morals and health and happiness of his community. He made a fortune, and provided generously for the future of his family. He was, to quote a candid Michigan authority, "a lavish father, a sympathetic friend, a productive and progressive citizen."

And then politics entered his life, and working upon the very qualities which won him popularity and success, brought ruin upon his head. Chief of these qualities was vanity, upon which his ambition fed. He was state senator, then state treasurer; he aspired to be governor. It took money to feed these ambitions, as the game of politics is played nowadays; he did not realize how much it took until his own was all gone, and then he used the funds trusted to his care as a public servant. Now, broken, defeated, contemned, a good fellow no longer but a thief and a traitor to his trust, he is merely a number in the state penitentiary.

Politics does that sort of thing very often. It betrays the people, and it betrays its own followers. What is needed more than a reform of politicians is a reform of politics; and that can be done only by making it public service, as it was in the days of Webster and Clay and Jefferson and Madison and Hamilton, and not a private graft, as it is in the days of Aldrich and Cannon and Payne and Tawney and Smoot.

THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

Madison Independent Press: If the people of this state are wise they will devote a little more time to the question of who shall be lieutenant-governor.

They should, indeed; for the office of lieutenant-governor is very much more important than most people imagine.

When nominations are made in the state conventions, the fight usually is over the governorship, if the party "leaders" have not already fixed a slate up in a private room in St. Paul so that there is no fight at all. After the nomination for governor has been made, there is little interest, in the convention or outside of it, about the rest of the ticket. There may be contests for other offices, and there may even be one over the lieutenant-governorship. But contestants for these offices may fight their liveliest without attracting much public interest. And the least interest of all is shown in the liutenant-governorship. That place is filled to placate a section or a nationality, and with utterly no regard for the fact that the man chosen for it may become governor, as Clough did and as Eberhart did, or for the real importance of the office.

It is the same way in the election. The fight is on the governorship, and few people know who seeks the office of lieutenant-governor until they get into the voting booth and examine the ballot.

Now what is the lieutenant-governor, and what does he do?

For one thing, if the governor dies or resigns or becomes a United States senator—and governors have done all these things while in office—the lieutenant-governor becomes governor. And when he becomes governor he abandons the place of greater importance for the place of lesser importance, in spite of the fact that as to fame and conspicuousness the reverse is true.

The lieutenant-governor is the president of the state senate. He passes upon parliamentary points that arise, subject of course to the unusual experience of being over-ruled by the senate. He selects those who are to preside over the senate in committee of the whole, and even in the Minnesota senate the presiding officer either in committee of the whole or in formal session has much influence over the progress of legislation.

But greater and of more importance than this, he selects the senate committees—and it is in the manner of his selecion of committees that Joseph G. Cannon has gained and deserved his harshest criticisms. The prosperity of a measure in behalf of the people depends very largely upon the character of the committees. Of course it is possible to suspend the rules and call a bill from committee, but it is so hard to do that it is seldom done, and usually it requires a two-thirds' vote. The "interests," even if they can't control a majority, often can control enough to defeat a two-thirds' vote.

Committees can withhold bills for indefinite periods, or until it is too late for action. Committees can make amendments that, though fair enough upon their face, really defeat the purposes of their authors. Committees can, by deft hocus-pocus, delay and defeat legislation needed by the people.

And the committees of the senate are picked by the lieutenant-governor, who is least considered, in making nominations and elections, of all the state's elective officers.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE SMOKE NUISANCE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Isn't it sufficient that the contractor who is erecting the new building on West First street between Third and Fourth avenues, should be allowed to take over half the street for building material, without flooding the atmosphere with the dirty, black smoke?

From morning to night the little engine which furnishes power for the hoist, belches clouds of soot. The buildings on either side form an alley and I have noticed the last few days, that when there is a breeze it blows directly down the street. On several occasions it has been impossible to see clearly from one side of the street to the other, particularly in front of the Board of Trade

Bitter complaint has been made of the smoke nuisance in different parts of the city. In every case these chimneys have been over the roofs some distance away from the streets. This nuisance is right in the street, where the smoke and sticky soot blow in the faces of hundreds of people every day. This part of the city, and particularly this corner, is one of the most-traveled in Duluth with the exception of the main part of Superior street, making the complaint particularly aggravating. It is the worst that I have ever seen, and steps should be taken to have the engine removed. it seems to me that as the board of public works has jurisdiction of the street the members should take this up without loss of time. Duluth, Feb. 21.

PENNY WISE; POUND FOOLISH.

To the editor of The Herald:

Referring to an article in your paper of this date headed "To Require Mail Boxes," is it not very much of an imposition on the general public for the government to put forward or advocate a measure, which if adopted will possibly save the postal department $400,000 and put the public to an expense of $20,000,000 or fifty times the amount saved?

Then, what is to be done with such matter, which is too large to go into an ordinary mail box? Is it to be left on the outside for any one who happens along to carry off? Books, music, merchandise, etc, are frequently sent by mail and the letter box would not be large enough to admit them.

Every paper and every congressman ought to oppose any such measure. Will you?

J. B. FREEMAN.

Duluth, Feb. 19.

The Wrath of Uncle Sam.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Uncle Sam is slow to anger, but when he gets mad, he gets awful mad. And his fits of indignation are usually wholesome. They clear the atmosphere, and sweep away abuses.

Just now the wrath that has been smoldering in the hearts of the American people for some years is letting out a vast deal of smoke and heat, and flames are breaking out in spots.

Of the 80,000,000 or more inhabitants of this intelligent country, there are several millions who have some sort of idea as to how the country ought to be run for the good of the greatest number. Their attention has been turned to a few definite abuses, and their wrath is supplying enough motive power to justify the hope that something is going to be done about them.

The cost of living happens just now to have the spotlight. But other evils are not lost sight of. The people will hardly lapse again into indifference regarding inefficiency in politics, unjust and dilatory court procedure, untrammeled greed in big business, false ideals in statesmanship or the usurpation of public property rights by private corporations.

It grows more and more clear to the hard-headed common citizen that the chief thing wrong with the United States is just this: The rewards of business enterprise are large out of all proportion to the rewards of other forms of activity. One man in a thousand seems to be getting more of the comforts and luxuries of life than his superior intelligence or social service seems to warrant. The other 999 are asking why. It is not mere envy or class hatred; they want to know.

Present investigation and discussion will do much to clear up the matter. But the readjustment of business methods and commercial profits and standards of living will be slow.

The peaceful revolution that is needed, calls for calmness and sanity, for it is probably as big a task as the American people have yet undertaken. But it does not call for sluggish contentment, or cowardly acquiescence, while the evils exist. The righteous indignation of good citizens should be kept alive until the simple, plain, honest American is assured that if he lacks what others may have of the good things of life, the fault is not theirs, or the government's, but his own.

Sons of Fortune.

Coloney Mammon has a chest
Of securties the best,
Ram-jammed full as it can be—
U. S. S. and M. O. P.—
Stocks and bonds—'tis running o'er
With this Fortunatus store.
But, alas, he has no hair!
I have locks, and some to spare.

Major Croesus has untold
Barrels full of minted gold;
Owns rich mines of tin and coal
Whence uncounted dollars roll;
Has an income, so they say,
Half a million every day.
But he has no appetite!
Mine is always keen and bright.

Mr. Midas has a touch
That enriches Midas much.
Everything he handles turns
Into that which labor earns
For the men of lesser kind
That upon the way we find;
But his stomach's in dry dock!
Mine's as solid as a rock.

Brother Dives owns a town,
He's a landlord of renown;
Owns no end of tenements,
With a steady stream of rents;
Also, mortgages galore,
But he is a bachelor!
He's no fender built for two
Likes the hearth I'll show to you!

Poor old Midas, with your touch!
Poor old Mammon, with your clutch!
Poor old Croesus with your rolls
Gathered from your wealth of coals!
Poor old Dives, lonely hours,
Homeless spite of all your powers!
Sons of Fortune, how would ye
Like to swap with such as me?

—Blakeney Gray in Saturday Evening Post.

Not Fast Colors.

Success Magazine: "Aunty," said little Constance, don't you want some of my candy?"

"Thank you, dear," was the reply. "Sugared almonds are favorites of mine."

"The pink or the white ones?" asked the little tot.

"The white ones, please."

There was silence until the last piece had disappeared.

"They were all pink at first, Aunty," remarked Constance.

Flying.

Puck: It is certain that we weren't made to fly, or otherwise we shouldn't be particularly anxious to do so. For the chief end of man is to humble nature and to show Providence, as the phrase is, where to get off.

What shall it profit us though we conquer the air and are as far as ever from ruling the spirit that dwells within us? A lot, as anyone can see who is in the least gifted with imagination. Jinks cannot possibly be too high, and ingenuity will find no more lucrative employment than that of devising means whereby we may save the time which we shall presently be bored to death to kill.

THE WEATHER.

Though the sky has been clear and the sun bright, the cold snap has continued. Last night was a beautiful winter night, with the atmosphere just a little too sharp for comfort. The thermometer went down to 10 deg. below zero during the night. The weather man predicts a continuance of the cold weather and the lowest temperature tonight will be from 10 to 20 deg. below zero.

Mild weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:02 and it will set at 5:41, giving ten hours and thirty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A disturbance of moderate intensity central over Wyoming and Idaho is causing snow over the Dakotas, Montana, Southern Utah and Eastern Washington, and rising temperatures in Eastern Montana and the Dakotas. Another depression that has moved from the Upper Mississippi valley to Eastern Ontario during the past twenty-four hours caused snow or rain in most districts to the eastward of the 100th meridian. A strong high pressure area central to the northward of Montana is primarily the cause of low temperatures throughout the greater part of the Northwest, the coldest being anywhere from 30 deg. to about 40 deg. below zero in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Eastern Alberta.

"Indications favor a continuance of zero weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following are the maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve, ending at 7 a. m., today:

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

The Sketch. The Tragedian—The fact is, dear boy, I can't stand many drinks.

The Comedian—I believe you—anyway, you don't.

Ulk: She—If I had known that you would scold I never would have married you.

He—If I had known that you would marry me I would have scolded.

Washington Star: "There's one thing we will have to change if these ladies who wish to vote have their way," said Senator Sorghum.

"What is that?"

"We'll have to quit talking about 'the wisdom of the plain people.'"

Chicago Tribune: Stranger in Drearyhurst—You people here don't clean the snow off your sidewalks very well, do you?

Uncle Welby Gosh—No, sir. It saves the sidewalks, an' we b'lieve in conservin' our resources. See anything else you don't like, mister?

Boston Transcript: He—We'd have won the football game if our captain hadn't lost his head.

She—Mercy! Was it so bad as that? I heard it was only an ear.

Buffalo Express: "It's very simple, after all, to tell where the cars will stop."

"I can't see it that way."

"Certainly. If you're waiting here, they stop there; if you wait there, they stop here."

Chicago Record-Herald: "At what age," she asked, "do you consider a woman to be most beautiful?"

"At you age," he replied. But any any one might have said it. Her father had a million.

Puck: Uncle Henry—The way these corporations have been robbing the people is just like taking candy from a baby.

Uncle Ezra—Yes, and maybe they will get spanked for it, too, if the baby hollers loud enough.

Chicago News: Clara Klinger — Wouldn't it be just too lovely, Harold, if we could take our wedding trip in an automobile?

Harold Sparkler—We can, dearest.

Clara Klinger (doubtingly)—But, sweetheart, can we afford it?

Harold Sparkler—Yes, Clara; we can afford it if we go in a very modest way.

Clara Klinger—What do you mean if we go half-way round the block in a taxicab, Clara.

Boston Transcript: Figg—Why do you think that giving woman the vote will increase political corruption?

Fogg—Because few women are proof against the influence of the ring.

Presbyterian Standard: Possible Boarder—Ah, that was a ripping dinner, and if that was a fair sample of your meals I should like to come to terms.

Scotch Farmer—Before we gang any further, was that a fair sample o' your appetite?

Cleveland Leader: "The auto followed the trolley, and the airship follows the auto. What do you expect to follow the airship?"

"The ambulance."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A woman can't pretend to other people nearly as much as she can to herself.

There's no such thing as a wise government except to those who are running it.

A man can get so infatuated with his brains as never to remember he hasn't any.

Nine times out of ten principles mean you would have others instead if you thought there was more in it.

The reason one kind of man will quote the Bible so freely is he counts on nobody else being able to tell it was wrong.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

Three hearings have been had in the case of the State of Minnesota ex rel. S. L. Smith vs. M. Gallagher, president: John Mears, recorder; E. Falconer, Albert Webber and W. D. McDonald, trustees of the village of Park Point. The action is brought to define the location of the mouth of the St. Louis river as a preliminary step to the formal annexation of Park Point by the city of Duluth. The plaintiffs contend that the mouth of the river has always been recognized as existing at the place known as the Wisconsin or Superior entry, while the defendants claim that the river terminated between what is now known as Grassy Point and the Wisconsin shore opposite. This would fix the mouth at the west end of St. Louis bay.

At a meeting of the executive committee of state Republican league held at Minneapolis yesterday, Samuel F. Wadhams of Duluth was elected a delegate to the national convention at Nashville.

The West Superior real estate boom is causing great excitement, but will soon be over, as lots of 25-foot frontage on Tower avenue in a town that has thirty-two square miles of available territory unbuilt on are selling at $8,000 and $10,000.

At a meeting at the office of H. W. Pearson last night, the Duluth Gun club was organized with seventeen charter members and the following officers: H. W. Pearson, president; E. C. Howard, secretary and treasurer; F. E. Culver, W. B. Dixon, Joseph Dodge, Thomas Smith and Dr. Metcalf, board of governors.

Amos Shephard has received the handsome solid gold medal, which he has offered to the Vermilion range winner of the five-mile skating race. The first race will take place in Soudan rink on Feb. 29.

J. C. Schaefer, whose house at Lester Park was burned down a few weeks ago, will rebuild at once. The house will cost about $3,000.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Want It Occupied.

Deer River News: The statement by Governor Eberhart that Minnesota has millions of acres of unoccupied land is not new. We've been telling that for years. What we want to hear is that it hasn't.

What Do You Tell It?

Winona Independent: An Eastern paper has an article on "How to Tell a Fresh Egg." Nearly everyone could tell a fresh egg something if he could get close enough to shout to it.

Easy Money.

Fairmont Sentinel: If there is a money stringency in the First congressional district this year no one will be able to charge the blame to Jim Tawney. If the trust moguls don't put a million into Jim's campaign they are a lot of beastly ingrates.

But That's an Old Show.

St. Cloud Times: There is a good deal of Republican talk about "Back from Elba"—Roosevelt. Just wait, you fellows! We'll show you a "Back from Elba"—when Billy Bryan comes marching home from South America. Talk about your bongo killer and your lion slayer—we'll show you!

Clapp Too Outspoken.

Elk River Star-News: The country newspapers are asking for information as to the wherefore of opposition to Senator Clapp's re-election, inasmuch as he has put himself squarely on record as a champion of the people's interests. The only reason that one can think of is that Clapp is too outspoken to suit the interests.

A Palpable Hit.

Le Sueur News: It is argued against women voting that they can only see one side of politics. If only the men voted who see all sides, it would take but a few moments to count the ballots.

A Contingency.

St. Peter Free Press: John Lind is still talked of as a Democratic gubernatorial probability and the impression prevails that in the end he will become the nominee of the party. Should this come to pass the Republicans will show that they have opposition. John is an effective speaker and as well versed in the art of campaigning as any one on the other side. Since the Republican state convention probably convenes first this contingency should receive due consideration.

Why?

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: It would be interesting to know just why the Duluth News Tribune stopped booming Bob Dunn for governor. Bob surely can't be vindicated by election to the state legislature.

Kill Cannonism.

Cass Lake Times: Down with Cannon! is the cry, but if you don't down Cannon's isms at the same time, you may be crying, down with Payneism, or Dalzellism or Tawneyism and 'twill mean the same thing—to be ruled tyranically. Let Cannon live but kill his isms.

The Friend of Man.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the peace of their self-content;
There are souls, like stars, that dwell apart,
—In a fellowish firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran—
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend of man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
The men who are good, and the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I,
I would not sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban;
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend of man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife,
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears—
Both parts of an infinite plan;
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend of man.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead,
And mountains of wearisome height;
That the road passes on through the long afternoon,
And stretches away in the night,
But still I rejoice when the travelers rejoice
And weep with the strangers that moan,
Nor live in my house by the side of the road,
Like a man who dwells alone.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Wise foolish—so am I,
Then why should I sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
And be a friend of man.

Dolly's Version of It.

February's Lippincott: Dolly was not 6 when her mother bought a flock of nine Plymouth Rock hens and a rooster, and diligently explained to Dolly that the rooster was the "papa hen" and the rest were all "mamma hens." After two or three days of confinement, to accustom them to their coop, they were let out to wander about the yard, and Dolly was set to watch them. The hens stayed together nicely, but the rooster showed a tendency to wander into the next-door neighbor's chicken-yard. Dolly chased him back time and again, until she was tired and out of patience. She turned her back for a minute, and when she looked around there were the hens up by the coop, while the rooster was sedately pacing across the garden toward the next yard.

Dolly stamped her foot on the sidewalk and screamed, "Come back here! Come back to your own family." The rooster proceeded with perfect equanimity. Dolly watched him for a moment with a look of utter disgust. Then her mother heard her say very emphatically in an undertone:

"That's just like you men, any way."

THE INSURGENCY OF NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

Minneapolis Tribune: It is dangerous for any party or government to continue to treat with neglect and injustice any section of its territory that is increasing in population and power. The Republican party in control of the United States government has long persisted in this error in relation to the rich and populous Mississippi valley. The Republican party in control of Minnesota persists in it in relation to the northern part of the state.

Northern Minnesota has been the vital and growing part of the state for years. In the west its fertile lands invite new culture that would return many fold their present product with proper encouragement of scientific redemption. In the east its mineral wealth has furnished that variety of industry and diversity of occupation without which no civilization can reach its highest development. Between east and west the remnants of our devastated forests present the only field for that rational conservation of wood and water that begins to be recognized as the only permanent security for society.

Northern Minnesota has been neglected by everybody but the tax gatherer. Selfish politicians have denied it just representation in the legislature. The Constitution has been evaded and decent fairness shamed by delaying reapportionment that would give it power in the government in proportion to its population and taxation. Its just demands have been refused and its highest interests neglected by a legislature in which one southern vote counted as two in the north.

The patience of Northern Minnesota is wearing thin. From protest it begins to resort to agitation and to think of action. The industrial convention at Bemidji covers a political purpose as well advised as it is determined. The Republican party and the state legislature, as well as candidates for state office, will do well to give careful heed to its proceedings. It is no new thing for economic oppression to breed political revolution.

A Year of Food Prices.

Agnes C. Laut, in the American Review of Reviews: When you come to consider prices of food—essential food, not luxuries—the scale of increase is one to alarm the man of moderate means. Bacon sliced was 18 cents in 1909. In 1910 it is 25 cents. The increase dips a hand into the householder's pocket every time a pound is purchased and extracts 7 cents. Suppose the man cannot afford that extra 7 cents—what does he do under these high prices? He buys just that fraction of a pound less than last year; and the average size of the average family being computed at five as it is in all calculations, each of those five eats just that fraction less of necessary nourishment than last year. A year ago ham in New York was 15 cents. Now it is 20, and the buyer must pay 33 per cent more, or eat 33 per cent less. Is it surprising that the Russel Sage investigations of the poor prove that just and exactly as income decreases or prices increase, the poor eat just and exactly that proportion less of the food most needed to make muscle and brawn, namely, meat?

In New York city in 1908, according to prices current as reported in trade journals, you could buy a porterhouse for 24 or 25 cents, now it is 28 and 30; or a sirloin for 20, now it is 24; or a round steak for 18, now it is 20; or corned beef for 14, now it is 16. Salt pork three years ago cost from $16 to $18 a barrel. Now it is $25 to $28. Lard represents an advance of 60 per cent, pork 15 per cent, poultry from 20 to 50 per cent in the past year. Have salaries advanced at the same pace, from 15 to 60 per cent? Not that we have heard! Imagine the outcry and the stoppage of industry if wage earners demanded what the increase in the cost of living demands of them?

State Reapportionment Needed.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: The delegates at the Northern Minnesota development congress in Bemidji asserted in no uncertain terms that they are a unit on the question of legislative reapportionment. They are right. There should be a reapportionment, although the advisability of a special session of the legislature for the purpose of redistricting the state is doubtful.

There is no room for argument concerning the present inequalities of representation in the legislature. The northern part of the state is not represented as it should be in all fairness. The present apportionment was made in 1897 and was based on the state census of 1895, which gave to Minnesota a population of 1,574,619. The federal census in 1900 showed a population of 1,751,394 and the state census of five years ago 1,976,912. If the rate of increase has been maintained the federal census this spring will show approximately 2,250,000.

Those familiar with the development of Minnesota confidently believe that the increase during the last five years has exceeded that of any other five-year period. The population today is easily 50 per cent greater than it was fifteen years ago. A very large proportion of that increase is in the northern half of the state. There is where the largest growth has been during the last fifteen years.

It manifestly is unfair to the rapidly growing counties of the northern and northeastern parts of the state to grant to them representation on a basis of the population fifteen years ago, when some of them were almost a wilderness. Many of them have two to five times as many inhabitants as they had then. Beltrami county had more than ten times as many people five years ago as it had fifteen years ago.

The people in Northern Minnesota are entitled to consideration. They are developing the resources of the state. They are paying their share of the cost of maintaining the state institutions and should have their fair share in the making of the laws.

PULPIT AND PLATFORM

CONVENTION IS SUCCESS

Local Y. M. C. A. Is Best Ever Held in the State.

Last Meeting at First M. E. Church Is Largely Attended.

The thirty-sixth annual convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of Minnesota came to an end last night with a final meeting of the delegates in the First M. E. church. John F. Moore of New York, F. H. Burt of Chicago and President W. E. Van Aken of Parker college, Winnebago, were the speakers.

The mass meeting of men in the First M. E. church yesterday afternoon was the greatest evangelistic meeting ever held in Duluth. Fred B. Smith of New York, one of the greatest speakers to men, addressed the meeting, and his power was demonstrated when 200 men arose at the close of his address and declared their determination to lead good Christian lives.

For more than an hour Mr. Smith held his audience by the power of his eloquence. "America's Greatest Sin" was his subject and he led up to a thrilling climax. Not drunkenness, immorality, theft or murder were the greatest sins, he said, but selfishness and ingratitude. Following the main meeting, a special gathering was held for those who had declared their conversion and Mr. Smith gave a short talk on perseverance.

The convention was easily the best that has ever been held in Minnesota. The attendance of delegates was gratifying to the association leaders. The program was excellent and the speakers were the best that could be secured. Before the convention opened, the promise was made that the speakers would be exceptional in number and ability for a state convention and the promise was amply fulfilled.

Every session of the convention was largely attended, not only by delegates, but by citizens of Duluth interested in the work. The themes of discussion were interesting to everybody and the speakers were eloquent and gifted men.

Delegates and speakers were loud in their praises of the Duluth people and the officials of the local association and they caused a resolution of thanks to be spread on the records of the convention.

Leaders in Y. M. C. A. work were speakers at the different churches of Duluth yesterday. For the morning service one speaker was assigned to each of seventeen churches as follows:

First M. E. church—C. B. Willis, general secretary, Milwaukee.

First Presbyterian—F. B. Smith, New York, international secretary religious department.

Pilgrim Congregational—J. F. Moore, New York, international secretary railroad department.

First Baptist—F. H. Burt, president Chicago training school.

Glen Avon—E. W. Van Aken, Winnebago, president Parker college.

Endion M. E.—C. J. Hunt, St. Paul.

Lester Park M. E.—R. E. Squires, Winona, general secretary.

Lakeside Presbyterian—W. G. Cartlich, Minneapolis, educational director.

Second Presbyterian—I. S. Linquist, Minneapolis, state committeeman.

Central Baptist—E. Fagenstrom, St. Paul, boys' secretary.

Grace M. E.—E. H. Haig, county secretary, Lyon county.

Merritt Memorial—H. O. Peterson, St. Paul.

Asbury M. E.—Harry Goodrich, boys' secretary, Fargo, N. D.

Westminster Presbyterian—Glen P. Wishard, St. Paul, religious work director.

West Duluth Baptist—E. S. Davis, Two Harbors, general secretary.

Plymouth Congregational — F. M. Deerhake, Mankato, general secretary.

In the evening union platform meetings were held in four churches, and other churches were closed to allow their members an opportunity to hear the speakers. The meetings were held as follows:

First M. E. church—John F. Moore, F. H. Burt and W. E. Van Aken.

First Presbyterian—C. J. Hunt, C. B. Willis and W. S. Cartlich.

Central Baptist—F. M. Deerhake and R. E. Squires.

Plymouth Congregational—E. Fagenstrom.

THREE ARE ORDAINED

Deacons Are Advanced to Priesthood By Bishop Morrison.

Rev. Herman F. Arens of Detroit and Lake Park, Rev. Ernest M. Davies of Ortonville, Graceville and Brown's Valley, and Rev. Roland Dodd of Two Harbors, Tower and Aurora, were yesterday elevated to the priesthood of the Protestant Episcopal church by Bishop J. D. Morrison of the diocese of Duluth, at Trinity pro-cathedral. Rev. Albert Carswell, examining chaplain of the diocese, presented the candidates and preached the ordaining sermon. Bishop Morrison was assisted by Rev. E. Spencer Murray of Grand Rapids, Rev. Ellsworth B. Collier of West Duluth, Rev. Albert R. Parker of Duluth and Rev. William E. Harmann of the West end. A large delegation of visitors from the other churches attended the services.

SOCIETY IS CENSURED

Father Corbett Denounces Knights of Columbus From the Pulpit.

Also Says Y. M. C. A. Is No Place for Catholic Church Members.

Declaring that, since Catholics have no voting power in the Y. M. C. A., the young men of that faith should not become members of the organization, Rev. Timothy Corbett, pastor of Sacred Heart cathedral, yesterday assailed the association in connection with an attack on the local council of the Knights of Columbus for its alleged failure to co-operate with the church as it should.

Father Corbett asserted at the opening of his remarks that one of the members of his parish and a prominent member of the Knights of Columbus, was active in soliciting for the Y. M. C. A. He decried the joining of the Y. M. C. A. by Catholics and their support of it.

"It is claimed that the Y. M. C. A. is interdenominational, that all sects and creeds are equally welcome," said Father Corbett, "but that is not true. It is a Protestant organization and if Protestants wish to belong to it it is all very well for them. The association is doing a measure of good among them. But it is no place for Catholics. You young men, followers of Rome, are admitted, not as equals, but as inferiors. You can obtain no voting rights in the organization. At best you can become but associate members. Can you trade all memories of the past for the privilege of becoming secondary members of the association?"

Father Corbett declared that the local council of the Knights of Columbus is not living up to its object of co-operation with the priests of the church in furtherance of the Catholic faith.

"This council must reorganize," declared Father Corbett. "There are men in it who have no right there. They call themselves leaders, but there are no leaders in this parish, except myself, and I am leader by the power that the divine God has given me. They are false to their traditions and objects and they must go. I do not want any more of the young men of my parish to become members until the council is organized. If it does not reorganize, it must disband and I will do all in my power to disband it.

"Come what may, popularity or unpopularity to me for uttering this, I utter it. The church can never afford to stop until she has downed an enemy."

OBSERVANCE OF SUNDAY

Pastor Deplores Custom of Making Sabbath a Day for Sports.

Says That Religion Is the Basis of True Morality.

Discussing the tendency of people to turn Sunday to uses other than the worship of God in public houses of worship, the Rev. Alexander Milne, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, in his sermon last night, said that although there seems to be a drift away from the church, noticeable in the decrease of the church-going public, yet the mission of the church is being fulfilled and its labors have not been in vain.

He declared that in the heart of every man is a respect for religion. He illustrated this by saying that when the bulletin boards in Chicago flashed the news that President McKinley, dying, was repeating the words of "Nearer My God To Thee," the cosmopolitan crowds that choked the thoroughfares instantly began to sing the song.

Mr. Milne declared that religion has been the greatest force in the last 100 years for morality. "It is impossible to do without a religion," he said, "because religion is a basis of morality and morality resolves itself into a religion."

The speaker deplored the observance of Sunday other than for religious worship and rest. He gently inveighed against those who, having acquired automobiles, substitute for church attendance the experience of pleasure in their cars. He said there is a tendency upon the part of many people to make of Sunday a day for sports, and that the muscles of their legs are their chief concern.

Mr. Milne urged parents to keep a close watch over their children, to prevent them from attending the penny theaters, from reading immoral books and to so shape their minds that their whispered conversations will contain nothing of offense. He said it was wrong to assume that the lives of people are not potent examples to others. A man, he said, once declared that he was not converted by the interpretation of the gospel by a minister, nor by the profound elucidations on religious philosophy by any educator, but by the "living of Aunt Hannah."

Mr. Milne praised the Y. M. C. A., saying it is doing a great work. The congregation was dismissed early so that it might attend the closing meeting of the series held during the state convention of the association.

Union Services.

The Central Baptist church was crowded last night for the union services, at which R. E. Squires general secretary of the association at Winona, F. M. Deerhake, general secretary at Mankato, and Mr. Stirritt, educational director at Minneapolis, were the speakers. The Grace M. E. and Second Presbyterian churches joined in the services.

New Pastor Preaches.

Rev. Ray W. Hunt, the new pastor of the Christian church, Fourth street and Mesaba avenue, preached his first sermon yesterday. Mr. Hunt came to Duluth from Nebraska to fill the pastorate left vacant by the resignation of Rev. Bruce V. Black. The congregation will tender a reception to the new pastor at the church Wednesday evening.

TO END INDIAN SUPPLY HOUSES

Minnesota Members Make a Strong Fight in the House.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The Minnesota delegation in the house made a strong fight Saturday afternoon to bring about the discontinuance of the Indian supplies warehouses in Chicago, New York, Omaha, St. Louis and San Francisco. After six hours' debate the house adjourned until Monday without deciding the question. The indications are they will win, which means supplies will be bought in the open market by purchasing agents.

The arguments urged by the Minnesotans, led by Stevens, Tawney and Miller, were that the warehouses were a needless tax on the government, that they were an unwarranted drain on Indian funds, that they were expensive by prohibiting the purchase of supplies near the point of delivery, and that they encouraged favoritism among bidders. Back of the Minnesotans' plea was the desire to aid merchants living near the Indian reservations by permitting them to sell supplies to the Indians on those reservations through purchasing agents.

The proposed change in the method of making purchases for the Indian office had the approval of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger. The amendment was proposed by Chairman Burke of the committee which reported the measure to the house.

Chairman Burke explained the change contemplated, saying the warehouses cost $56,000 a year, and the supplies purchased aggregated about $3,000,000.

In the course of the debate, Mr. Miller said: "This solicitude for the Indian by gentlemen from the large cities with warehouses is insignificant. The abolishment of the warehouses is a business proposition, not for these cities, but for the Indians. The maintenance of the warehouses costs $56,000 a year, and the Indians have to pay. The warehouse serving the Indians of Minnesota, North and South Dakota is in Chicago. Supplies for the Indians purchased at their door are sent to Chicago and brought back, the Indians paying the freight both ways. It is contemplated to have supervision over the purchasing agents in some commercial centers and the purchase will be made near the Indians to be supplied. The warehouse system has favored a few bidders."

WILL TAKE TRIP TO WASHINGTON

Chippewa Chief Will Talk Over Indian Affairs With President.

Tay-ba-win-dam, chief of the Net Lake Chippewa Indians, will soon leave for a trip to Washington, where he will talk with President Taft. The chief is after more money for the aged Indians.

Chief Tay-ba-win-dam will carry letters of introduction to the Minnesota senators and representatives, which will pave the way for a chat over Indian affairs with the Great White Father.

The Indians, it is said, receive but $5.66 yearly which is the interest on the sum set aside for their use. The younger Indians are able to work and do so, but the older men and women are said to be in hard shape. Unable to work and with very little money they are said to suffer much hardship from the cold. The chief wants the present sum divided among the Indians so that the older members of the tribe may pass their last days in comfort.

Many of the Indians are very old. One old fellow known as Farmer John, is said to be 115 years of age. Another old man is totally blind. Chief Tay-ba-win-dam thinks that if the Indians have anything coming from the government, they should have it at this time.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Feb. 21.—The railroads placed very few contracts for equipment last week, but there was a fair volume of business with an increase in specifications in many lines of finished steel exceeding shipments largely because of the congested railway traffic. A little more confidence is evident and the general belief is that the present flurry in raw material will soon pass. In not a few instances the impression is that the reaction has been exaggerated unduly. Most of the finishing mills are booked far ahead, especially during the first half of the year.

In building lines, a large number of small orders for extensions to manufacturing plants and for mercantile structures has been the leading feature of interest and the prospect is that the volume of business in February will be above the average tonnage placed in corresponding months in previous years. Last week contracts for fabricated steel aggregated about 19,000 tons, including a number of small railway bridges. The Chicago & Northwestern railway has been the only line to withdraw important tonnages from the market including rails and bridge material. Contracts for rails were placed for 22,000 tons and 120,000 tons more are under negotiation. Orders for only 225 cars and seventy-five locomotives were placed, but contracts are pending for 25,000 cars and 200 locomotives.

In pig iron, the principal feature of interest has been the sale of speculative lots of Alabama iron at lower prices. Northern iron has been better sustained and there has been some increase in inquiries from consumers. In the Eastern districts contracts were placed for foundry grades aggregating about 15,000 tons. Very few orders for steel-making iron have been placed. It is estimated that stocks of furnace banks at the beginning of this month were about 1,000,000 tons.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS ARE INDORSED.

L. D. Campbell, school commissioner and former president of the builders' exchange, was in St. Paul the latter part of last week where he attended a meeting of representatives of the state builders' association. The establishment of industrial schools by the state was discussed, and it was resolved to continue a campaign to that end. A public meeting will be held in the St. Paul auditorium Wednesday evening, March 16 when several well-known Minnesotans will discuss the proposed establishment of the industrial schools. Among the speakers will be R. E. Denfeld, superintendent of the Duluth public schools.

Common Sense

Leads the most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle-wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. No Secrets. No Deception.

The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody, Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulæ, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized.

Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs.

Examine the formula on their bottle-wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials although the latter are received by thousands.

Don't accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this time-proven remedy OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. ASK YOUR NEIGHBORS. They must know of many cures made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighborhood.

Mother and Five Children on Verge of Starvation Objects of Charity.

Aurora, Minn., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deserted by her husband, left with five children, with nothing to eat in the house and only 50 cents in money, Mrs. August Niemie was found in a pitiful condition Saturday night by Deputy Commissioner of the Poor Dr. Darrow and Marshal Witte.

Niemie was a miner and had been up before the court several times for beating his children. He left for parts unknown three weeks ago, leaving his wife and family in their little home, near the Miller-Mohawk school, in the above mentioned circumstances.

The matter was reported to the officers by neighbors and their condition was found to be pitiful. A sleigh load of provisions was taken to them and they will be looked after by the county. The mother and wife is a frail little woman and the children are aged 16, 10, 5 and 3 years and the youngest is but 8 months old.

The Doctor's Question

Some Advice Against the Use of Harsh Purgatives and Physics

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver. This condition poisons the system with waste matter and causes accumulation of gases which must be removed through the bowels before health can be restored.

Salts, ordinary pills and cathartics may be truly likened to dynamite. Through their harsh, irritating action they force a passage through the bowels, causing pain and damage to the delicate intestinal system, and at best only produce temporary relief. The repeated use of such treatments causes chronic irritation of the stomach and bowels, dries and hardens their tissues, deadens their nerves, stiffens their muscles and generally brings about an injurious habit which sometimes has almost, if not fatal results.

We have a pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of its great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case where it fails to produce entire satisfaction. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies. We urge you to try them at our entire risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly and have a sothing, strengthening, healing, regulative influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effects, and they may be taken at any time without inconvenience.

Rexall Orderlies overcome the drugging habit and safely remedy constipation and associate ailments, whether acute or chronic, except in surgical cases. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Price, 36 tablets 25 cents, and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

THE BIG DULUTH

MOTHER AND CHILD PERISH IN CABIN

Heartrending Tale of Privation That Comes to Homesteaders.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The privations that go with pioneering in the unsettled portions of this section are again visibly brought to public notice by a startling discovery recently made in the northern part of St. Louis county when Mrs. Erick Forest and her newly born babe were found dead in a cabin about twenty-five miles back in the woods from Cook, a small station on the Canadian Northern road.

Dr. Darrow of Aurora and a guide made the harrowing discovery after having been detailed to visit the place by Poor Commissioner Crowe of this city.

A settler who lives near the Forest place and who knew that Mrs. Forest was soon to become a mother came into Cook and so informed a number of the residents. Mrs. T. F. Hall, of that place wired to Dr. Crowe, and the latter immediately assigned Dr. Darrow to the case. Dr. Darrow went to Cook and learning the location of the Forest home prepared to drive out there. This plan was frustrated on account of the miserable condition of the road, making it compulsory for him and a guide to walk the entire distance. When they arrived at their destination they found the woman and her babe cold in death. It took two days to make the trip.

The husband of the dead woman works in a saw mill at Bemidji, and when informed of the facts connected with the case he was overcome with grief.

NEW CHISHOLM PLANT.

Expected Swan River Lumber Company Will Move Headquarters.

Chisholm, Minn., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despite denials to the contray, the committee from the Commercial club, G. L. Train and D. C. Hack, believe the Swan River Lumber company will move its headquarters here from Hibbing. They waited on Thomas York, an officer of the company, and claim to have assurances from him the change will be made.

A site, free water and light were offered the company, and as it has a lot of timber near this city, the proposition was attractive enough to the officials to incline them to move here.

The new enterprise will mean much to Chisholm, for the company pays in salaries every year, from $300,000 to $500,000, which means the employment of a large number of men who would move to this place.

THE FOUNDING IS CELEBRATED

Knights of Pythias Observe the Order's Forty-Sixth Anniversary.

Nearly 200 members of the Knights of Pythias and the recently organized veteran branch, Saturday evening celebrated the forty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the order.

The knights gathered for dinner at the K. P. hall and a program of speeches and music followed.

Venerable Knight J. L. Cromwell acted as master of ceremonies. In opening he said that it was understood that the spreads given by the Pythian Veteran association were feeds not banquets. In explanation, he said that the order was founded in a time when it was a difficult matter to get something to eat. For this reason the veteran association wishes that a name not so pretentious as "banquet" be used.

The roll call of the veterans and the ceremony of laying away the vacant chairs of William Turnbull and A. W. Holbrook, who died during the past year, were the principal features of the program. George E. Storms made an address dwelling on the virtues of the dead members.

A committee was appointed to draft suitable resolutions of condolence to be forwarded to Fred T. Little, whose wife was killed last week in a street car accident at Cleveland.

The principal object of the Pythian Veteran association, which is composed of members of twenty years or more, is the proper observance of the anniversary of the birth of the order.

Saturday's celebration was the first of the kind ever held in Duluth.

for independence has done great things among men. But when once men have attained freedom they are faced with the great fact that their very liberty has bound them in debt to others. The question of human relationship is looming large on earth today. It is causing uneasiness everywhere. The great problem of the world is wrapped up in our disposition of the extra strength of some. I would appeal to you on the high ground that your abundant equipment is an obligation toward the less fortunate about you. Somehow this vital conviction must come upon us. The salvation of the world must come as a passion upon our hearts. We must simply pour out our lives.

"In a way, I know we have been doing very well; but too much of our work has been, and is, classed as a great charity. We can't save the world as a charity, no matter how lovely. Why were you given any more than just enough strength to get along in life with? Have you ever thought it over? What meaning is there in that margin? The Christian doctrine of inter-relationship is to prove the key to the human situation. It is the woulding pawer of the world's best thought this home. It shows itself in every sufficient energy to bring success to all. Superabundance of ability in some, and handicap in others can be made to unite in hope for all. Our problems arise because we are not united. Oh, that today there might come upon the strong free souls of earth this great sense of the bondage of their freedom. Such a plea fascinates me. Ability is answerability. Christianity would lend the extra strength that has made a foremost possible to compensate the failing strength that has made a hindmost imperative. The cry of truth is 'let the strong bear the burden of the weak,' 'Bound with them that are bound.' I would therefore in the name of the church of Christ, commissioned to the tremendous task of saving a world from sin, welcome you, my friends this hour to the great work. There come times to me, when the sins and sufferings of men weigh so heavily that the reform of the world seems well nigh hopeless. 'My God,' I cry, 'pity, O, pity these poor feeble hands, this little head and heart of mine before such a task,' and then I hear again the promise of my Lord for whom I labor, and in whose name only I dare face such thought, and I rouse myself to determined opposition of the evil of the world. Come on, my friends, with your years yet ahead of you, and add in your life for the world's greatest work."

SYSTEMATIC PLAN URGED

Bankers' Committee Recommends Changes in Agricultural Education Methods.

Extension of Work of Agricultural School to Rural Districts Is Advocated.

The adoption of systematic agricultural education and the passing of a compulsory education law such as that in force in Wisconsin are two of the recommendations made for the betterment of conditions in that respect in Minnesota, contained in the report of the committee on agricultural development and education of the Minnesota Bankers' association.

The committee also recommends that the salaries paid to all grades of rural teachers shall be increased; that the farmers' institute movement shall be extended; that a small sub-factory, employing penitentiary labor be established for the manufacture of clay drainage pipes; that an exhibition car in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Ohio; that full crop statistics be gathered by the state, and that the state veterinary board, the state dairy inspector, the state drainage board and the state grain inspector work in conjunction with the agricultural school.

The committee was appointed at the last meeting of the association to investigate the state's advantages and disadvantages in an agricultural way and the report is the result of long months of investigation and research. The committee visited the Minnesota and Wisconsin agricultural colleges and collected voluminous statistics, both within the state and from outside.

Before adversely criticising some of the methods of agricultural education employed, the committee disclaims any intention of deprecating the value of the agricultural colleges and schools of the state, as they have their place and are getting immensely better results than ever.

Rural Schools.

On the subject of the failure of the state to provide systematic agricultural instruction in the rural schools, the committee says:

"There is only one general scheme of education in the state alike for all children, irrespective of whether they are to be lawyers, preachers, merchants, farmers or mechanics. If this general scheme leans in any one direction it it toward fitting students for the professional classes. Practically nothing is being accomplished in an educational way to interest children in the farm and farm life, or in any branch of agriculture.

There is expended annually in the state of Minnesota for education the sum of $14,000,000, and we are strongly of the opinion that if a very much larger portion of this large sum could be devoted to practical instruction in agriculture and industrial training, the standard of our citizenship would be very materially raised."

The committee recommends the passage of a compulsory education law and the adoption of a systematic plan of instruction in agriculture for the rural schools. The appointment of Prof. Wood of Washington as dean of the agricultural school and of George F. Howard of Rochester as director of the extension work of the school is commended.

Experimental Work.

The report continues: "It is plain and patent, however, that while too much stress cannot be laid on the importance of extending to its utmost limit agricultural instruction in our schools, yet even more than this is needed. If our system of agricultural education is to be sufficiently comprehensive to reach the million or more people living on our farms, in their various conditions, many of whom have passed the time of life when they can easily learn from books and lectures, practical experimental work must be carried to them. In this connection we are strongly of the opinion that there should be established in every county within the state, at least one experimental farm under the management and supervision of an intelligent and practical agriculturist where farmers can go without loss of time, and see with their own eyes what can be accomplished under the newer and more scientific methods.

"We also believe in addition to the county experimental farms referred to, the time is at hand when each county should have its own agricultural schools, easily accessible to the boys and girls therein, and where also the heads of families can receive some benefit from the acquirement of a knowledge of scientific agriculture."

Figures secured by the state bankers show that there is a total acreage in Minnesota of 53,943,000 acres, of which only 3,608,000 is water. Of this total acreage at least 45,500,000 acres are suitable for cultivation, while at present only 18,000,000 acres are under actual cultivation. Some of this land needs draining, which the committee believe would be accomplished by the state establishing a factory for the manufacturing of drainage pipes.

In closing the report the idea of the conservation congress, soon to be held in St. Paul, is given full indorsement by the committee.

DISTRIBUTING AGENCY PLANNED

Builders' Supply Company May Have Warehouses in Duluth.

J. L. Schallarie, president of the Great Lakes Portland Cement company, is in the city to complete the organization of the Great Lakes Builders' Supply company, a subsidiary concern to act as the distributing agency of his corporation in the Northwest.

He wishes to interest some of the larger building contractors and building supply dealers in this city and will meet with them at the St. Louis hotel this evening to discuss plans. Other companies handling non-competitive building supplies will also be asked to invest. This would give them a base in Duluth at the least expense.

It is claimed that the cement company has an option on water front property which affords excellent dockage and rail facilities. If the plans go through it is said that extensive and expensive improvements will be made. The warehouses would be unusually large, enabling the company to carry large quantities of supplies. This would offer the advantage of solving the delays that are now encountered by contractors who are obliged to get their supplies via the railroads.

did drink quite a bit, but he said that he didn't use much liquor.

"Then you must be crazy," was the conclusion expressed by the court. "No sane man could have allowed such a mess to accumulate in his place of business. If you were sober all the time that makes the complaint worse yet."

Judge Windom then went on to say, that it was a howling shame that the public should be charged such high prices as are now being paid for meat, and that the product sold them should be exposed to such opportunities for contamination. He declared that the public is entitled to protection.

Fine Not Adequate.

"A fine is entirely inadequate in such cases," continued the court. "They should be made punishable by imprisonment in the state penitentiary. If it were within my power I would take pleasure in sending you to Stillwater for three years."

Before pronouncing sentence the court heard the report of J. H. Lee, deputy government inspector who was recently given powers of a city inspector by special dispensation of the bureau of animal industry in Washington. He said that he found several veal carcasses under five weeks of age in the ice box, which he destroyed by pouring kerosene oil over them. He then told of the filthy condition of the sausage making machine which he found in the back room. It evidently showed that it had not been cleaned for weeks. Chunks of dried meat and stale blood were on the knives. Under the counter of the back room were boxes of entrails of the veals which had been slaughtered. On one side of the sausage room was the toilet, unseparated by any screen or door and with extremely poor facilities for flushing.

It was in speaking of the toilet room that the court used the expression "worse than pigs." He thought that it was about the most disgusting thing which had ever been reported to him during his term on the bench.

The prosecution of Mork Brothers is said to be the first of a series which will be made unless conditions in certain shops are immediately rectified. The majority of the butcher shops in the city are in good shape, but it is alleged that a few have allowed conditions approximating those found in Mork Brothers to exist.

Dr. F. J. Patton, health commissioner, states that the laws for the regulation of the meat shops are adequate to meet all emergencies and that he will insist upon their enforcement.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial Orphans' Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this Institution for nine years. It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up pale, thin, weak children or rundown people it has no equal. been read and the position of the government more fully disclosed.

In a momentous speech from the throne, the king said:

"Proposals will be laid before you with all convenient speed, to define the relations between the houses of parliament so as to secure the undivided authority of the house of commons over finance and its predominance in legislation."

The speech was taken as confirmation of Premier Asquith's avowed determination to regularize the present conduct of financial affairs before attacking the house of lords.

place two on each car the company wants to run.

No Night Surface Service.

There will be no service after 6 p. m. today except on the subway and elevated lines. The company says it has imported no men and is operating cars with its own employes. The strikers say that 6,500 men out of about 7,000 are on strike and that the comany is running cars with strike breakers and power house employes.

Of 100 rioters arrested yesterday, most were under 21 years old. Nearly all of them will be held in bail for trial. The four persons wounded by bullets yesterday were watching the crowds. Except in the case of the little girl who was hit by a policeman's shot, those suffering from pistol injuries were struck by stray firing from unknown persons in the crowds. Two cars were burned up during the rioting.

Cause of the Strike.

The strike followed the refusal of the company to withdraw recognition of the Keystone union at the demand of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway employes.

The most serious outbreak this morning occurred in the mill districts in the northeastern part of the city. A crowd beat the motorman and conductor of a car and wrecked the conveyance. The motorman's skull is believed to be fractured.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

The Abbe Spallanzani was the first scientist to study systematically the chemical powers of the gastric juice, but it was by the careful and convincing experiments of Beaumont that the foundation of our exact knowledge of its composition and action was laid.

Beaumont was an army surgeon, located at an obscure military post in Michigan, while it was yet a territory, and was called upon to treat a gun shot wound of the stomach in a Canadian voyageur—Alexis St. Martin. When the wound healed a permanent opening was left by means of which food could be placed in the stomach and gastric juice taken from it.

Beaumont made scientific experiments with his crude means and wrote a book, which today is recognized among the classics of physiology.

Beaumont blazed the way for other scientists so that today medicine knows what the stomach does with food and what food does to the stomach.

Science also knows what the gastric juices are and how to make them [illegible] for the system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, thanks to the poor army surgeon and Alexis St. Martin, give man a means of digesting food, replenishing the exhausted juices, soothing the nerves and correcting dyspeptic conditions of the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are natural fruit and vegetable essences reduced to concentrated form and by tremendous power compressed into a tablet. These wonderful little digesters are known all over America and Canada. Full meals have been digested by them in glass tubes and they are sold by every druggist.

Physicians to the number of 40,000 use them. They are meritorious and [illegible]. Go to your druggist and buy a package today, price 50c, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., [illegible] Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

BIG MEETING BEARS FRUIT

Koochiching and Beltrami Counties Form County Development Organizations.

W. R. Mackenzie, Father of Movement, Secretary of Beltrami Association.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Koochiching county was the first of the northern tier of counties to organize a county development association, as a result of the organization of the Northern Minnesota Development association here last week.

The Koochiching county delegation met at the Hotel Markham and perfected a temporary organization, with T. L. Duncan of Northome as chairman and F. J. McPartlin of International Falls as secretary.

The delegates represented five different villages of Koochiching county, and a call was issued for a meeting to be held at International Falls Friday, March 11, when the permanent organization of the Koochiching County Development association will be perfected.

The entrance fee of $10 was paid to the secretary of the general association, being the first dues paid by any of the counties.

At the meeting of the Koochiching county delegation, provision was made for the exhibition of Koochiching county products and an exemplification of the resources of the county at the Minnesota conservation and agricultural development congress, to be held at St. Paul March 16 to 19.

Beltrami Also Organizes.

With G. W. Campbell of this city as chairman and A. P. Ritchie, also of Bemidji as secretary, Beltrami county was the second of the thirty counties represented at the convention to formulate plans for the organization of a county development society.

The Beltrami county delegation decided to recommend L. G. Townsend of Blackduck as president, J. E. Huss of Spooner for vice president, and W. R. Mackenzie of Bemidji as secretary-treasurer of the Beltrami County Development association.

It was the sense of the meeting of the delegation that a meeting be called, at some date in March to be selected by the secretary, at which time the permanent organization will be perfected and plans outlined for a vigorous campaign for reapportionment and the general development of this county, co-operating with the other twenty-nine counties that are members of the parent organization. As the delegates to the meeting to be held in March, every Commercial club in the county will be allowed one delegate, and each town clerk will also be allowed to participate in the meeting. Five members of the county organization will constitute a quorum, so that it will not be a difficult matter to hold a meeting at any time and transact business with dispatch.

The spirit left with every delegate at the adjournment of the recent monster meeting was of such a nature that it will be lasting, and the matter of reapportionment and development will continue to be uppermost in the minds of the northern counties until after the election next fall.

HARNESSING MENOMINEE RIVER

DAM, SLUICE GATE AND SPILLWAY SECTION.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Next spring Menominee and Marinette will be furnished power generated at the great dam of the Menominee & Marinette Light & Traction company, being built at the grand rapids of the Menominee river, eighteen miles from Marinette. The dam is of solid concrete, 500 feet long, 24 feet high and 30 feet wide.

In this concrete dam are eight gates for the purpose of letting the flood water escape. Next to the Michigan shore an immense log flume has been built from the top of the dam down along the bank to the foot of the rapids, three-quarters of a mile below.

Starting a short distance above the dam, a canal 20 feet deep and 200 feet wide and two-thirds of a mile long has been excavated. This canal follows a short way across a bend, and at the place where it reaches the river is located the power house. Over 300,000 cubic yards of dirt were removed in the construction of the canal. At its head are located concrete gates to control the flow of the water through the canal to the power house.

Power House Also Concrete.

The power house building is 60 feet wide and 120 long, built entirely of concrete and steel. In it are installed the water wheel, electric generators and auxiliary apparatus. The generators are six in number, with a rated capacity of 6,000-horse power, and can develop more power if necessary. Adjacent to the power house, and of the same construction, is the transformer house, containing the transformers necessary to raise the generated current of 2,200 volts to 33,000 volts.

The current is transmitted from the transformer house by means of copper wires to Marinette and Menominee, to be used for illumination and power purposes.

ANGRY WITNESS REVEALS CRIME

Crystal Falls Garnishment Suit Discloses Mysterious Dynamiting Plot.

Crystal Falls, Minn., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—In an unexpected manner, Sheriff Holmes has become possessed of what appears to be damaging evidence as to who made the dastardly attempt, June 17 last, to kill the family of Nick Phillips, shift boss at the Tobin mine, by blasting his home. Andrew Abebisk is accused of being the chief actor in the crime and John Bosilick of being accessory and their connection of the crime was disclosed through the accusations made by Theodore Zuzosky, who became angered at Bosilick for testifying against him in a garnishment case. Abebisk and Bosilick are in the county jail awaiting hearing.

Had Grudge Against Phillips.

The dastardly attempt to kill Phillips' family was made at night, while he was at work, and resulted from the two accused men "having it in" for him, according to the confession or accusation of Zuzosky made against them.

Zuzosky says that he was boarding at the same house with Bosilick. That on the night of June 17, he was aroused by the latter coming hurriedly into the house. Zuzosky got up to light the lamp and was told not to do so by Bosilick, who said: "I fixed that fellow; I put some powder under his house." Shortly after that Zuzosky says that he heard a blast go off. Bosilick went at once to bed and no one knew of the transaction excepting the two principals and Zuzosky.

Strenuous efforts were made at the time of the blasting to get some clew to the perpetrators of the act, but none could be had and the incident was about forgotten until the garnishment proceedings stirred up the embers and the thing burst out into flame again.

WILL BE BIG DITCH.

Contracts to Be Let at Warren for Huge Canal.

Warren, Minn., Feb. 21.—Contracts for the construction of the immense Beltrami-Marshall county judicial ditch will be let at Warren, March 1, jointly by R. C. Hayner, county auditor of Beltrami county, and A. G. Lundgren, county auditor of Marshall county.

This ditch is some 550 miles in length and will require the removal of 5,539,578 cubic yards of dirt in the construction of same.

There will be two bridges for every mile, which necessitates the construction of 1,110 bridges. The ditch will drain a large area of the northwestern portion of Beltrami county, running west, well into Marshall county.

This is said to be the largest judicial ditch which has yet been undertaken in the United States, and a prominent contractor states that it would take ten large dredges, working day and night, four years to complete the ditch.

It is expected that at least 150 contractors from different parts of the United States will be present to bid on the construction of Judicial Ditch, No. 11.

A LIGHT POWDERY SNOW PREVENTS THE SKI RIDERS BREAKING RECORDS AT THE NATIONAL TOURNAMENT

Anders Haugen Wins First Place and Makes Longest Jump.

None of the Riders Able to Pass the 125-Foot Mark.

5,000 Spectators Watch Great Norwegian Sport at Coleraine Meet.

(BY BRUCE)

In so far as the breaking of records was concerned, the second day's events of the national ski tournament at Coleraine were somewhat disappointing. Anders Haugen of Chippewa Falls, a powerful jumper, who has been making consistent marks the present season, made the longest jump of the day and carried off the first prize, his best performance being 125 feet, a mark that has been beaten consistently on the Duluth hill the present season.

Riders yesterday attributed their inability to make better marks to the weather conditions. Saturday night a fine, powder-like snow fell and the weather turned cold. Sunday the snow was dry and fluffy, checking the speed of the riders and making record-breaking an impossibility.

And aside from the weather, it is very doubtful if the Coleraine hill is the equal of the Chester Park slide of the Duluth Ski club. There doesn't seem to be sufficient tip to the take off, and the riders don't seem to get the momentum that is secured at Chester hill.

Both stands on the top of the hill were packed, and a black line of humanity stretched from far out on the lake to the very top of the take-off, long before the first event was called yesterday. It is estimated that there were at least 5,000 spectators present when the trial jumps were called.

Special parties drove over from Grand Rapids, while Hibbing, Virginia and other range towns were represented by delegations of enthusiastic ski followers. Hotels in both Coleraine and Bovey were crowded, and Saturday night rooms were at a premium. Many of those who could not find room at the hotels were taken care of by hospitable citizens.

The Longest Jump.

By far the best jump in the professional events of yesterday was the leap of 125 feet of Anders Haugen of Chippewa Falls. Judges of ski jumping stated that Haugen's jump would have been a record breaker, had the conditions been more favorable. It was one of the greatest jumps seen at any of the Northwestern tournaments the present season.

ANDERS HAUGEN,
Making the Longest Jump of the Meet.

Increasing the momentum of his descent by a few powerful strides at the start, the Chippewa Falls man struck the take-off at a tremendous speed. He gave a mighty spring as he left the take-off, flying through the air, and striking cleanly. It was by far the prettiest and best jump of the day, and when the distance was announced a mighty cheer went up from the crowd, echoing over the little lake at the foot of the big slide and disturbing unenthusiastic stay-at-homes in Bovey and nearby Coleraine.

Fiering Is Cheered.

Ole Fiering, the great Duluth rider, was greeted with a mighty cheer as he stood on the brink of the deep slide, ready for his first trial. His first jump of 117 feet was next to the best at that time, and it was generally believed that the Duluth man would be right up with the leaders. This belief proved correct. Fiering showed character and skill, but he could not equal the great jump of Haugen of Chippewa Falls.

Much was looked for from John Evenson of Duluth, who was the national champion until the tournament of yesterday. The best jump of the former national champion was 115 feet and he was obliged to be content with seventh place.

Barney Riley, the hero of Coleraine, gave an exhibition jump of 119 feet, and was greeted with tumultuous cheering from the moment he posed at the top of the big slide until the time he turned at the bottom of the long runway.

The events of Saturday were well contested and were witnessed by a great throng of interested spectators. The great fight of the day was between Barney Riley, the Hibernian crack of Coleraine, and A. Schencke of Chicago, a dark horse, who made a great showing. E. S. Hendrum was the only Duluth amateur who made any kind of a showing in the opening day of the tournament.

Cross Country Runs.

One of the features of the opening day of the tournament was the cross country run, won by T. W. Glesne of Superior. The Superior man showed superior form (joke) all the way through and won in handy fashion.

The street carnival on Roosevelt avenue, Coleraine, Saturday night was one of the features of the tournament. Although the weather was sufficiently cold to make fur overcoats a welcome garment, the well-lighted street was lined with a great crowd of celebrating citizens and visitors.

Following are the winners of the professional events of yesterday, as well as the winners of the amateur events of Saturday, the opening day of the tournament:

Officers Elected.

Sunday morning the election of officers was held, as well as the business meeting of the ski association. Dr. C. H. Mason of Superior was elected president of the association; Nick Nelson of Stillwater was elected vice president; Alex Holter of Ishpeming, secretary; H. R. Beebe of Utica, N. Y., treasurer.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., which city sent an enthusiastic delegation to the tournament, instructed to secure the next tournament for that city, will be the scene of the 1911 tournament, there being no dissenting votes on the choice.

It was also decided to send a representative jumper from the national association to the international tournament at Christiania, Norway.

ISSUES CALL FOR MEETING

Minnesota-Wisconsin Magnates Will Convene at Eau Claire or Red Wing.

President John Elliott of La Crosse has sent out notices of a meeting of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league to be held at either Eau Claire or Red Wing about March 1.

The schedule and the admission of Rochester and Red Wing are the two principal topics to come up for discussion. Duluth will begin the season away from home, but will play the first game in Duluth on Memorial day. Duluth will also get one game on July 4.

Both Rochester and Red Wing have notified the officials that they are ready for admission, and each has raised $3,500 to insure putting the team on a firm financial basis and finishing the season.

A letter received by A. W. Kuehnow from Darby O'Brien changes somewhat the early spring playing dates of the Duluth team. The dates and places to be visited follow:

At Canton, April 12 and 13; at Wheeling, W. Va., April 14 and 15; at Mansfield, Ohio, April 16, 17 and 18; at Lima, Ohio, April 19 and 20; at Fort Wayne, Ind., April 21; at Dayton, Ohio, April 22 and 23; at South Bend, Ind., April 24, 25 and 26; at Rockford, Ill., April 27, 28, 29 and 30; at Madison, Wis., May 1 and 2; at Oshkosh, Wis., May 3 and 4.

The Duluth players will be at the Head of the Lakes for a series of games with some of the fast independent teams before the regular season starts.

Fight Interrupted.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Twenty spectators at a prize fight held in an athletic club, when surprised by the police last night, pulled up the ropes around the ring and used them as a means of escape out of the windows of the "fight club." Several men, including the principals in the fight, were injured by falling. The police surrounded the place and succeeded in taking forty-two prisoners. The fight was between Charles Plummer and Frank Kripps, and had gone fifteen rounds when the police entered.

JEM DRISCOLL MAY RING DOWN THE CURTAIN ON THE CAREER OF ATTELL AS WORLD'S CHAMPION

Little Scrapper Having Trouble Whipping Even the Second Raters—Other Live Sport Tips.

(BY BRUCE)

It sure does look as if continuous service was telling on Abe Attell, who is the world's featherweight champion, and who has for many years been recognized as one of the greatest boxers in the ring.

For the past year the Hebrew has been selecting the soft ones and has been avoiding with the caution of the fox, any fighter who looked as if he might start a ruction with the Attell person on the receiving end.

It has been his habit in the past to get a fight with some plug that he could annihilate in a few short and decisive sessions.

He would coax and pamper the less skilled adversary along, fighting under wraps all the way, perhaps winning the by a shade. Thus encouraged by his splendid showing against the world's champion, the innocent and unsuspecting comeon would rush, like a sheep at a wolf, into the return match trap of the Attell party.

The return match was generally short and decisive, with Attell in the role of the wolf and the foolish fighter in the role of the sheep which is caught and devoured.

Of late Attell has not even been whipping suckers with that regularity that used to be such a prominent feature of the return engagements by the Attell collection agency. There are those who are mean and low down enough to say, right out in the open, that it has come to the pass where the champion cannot even beat the second raters.

It does sure look as if the cleverest of them all, in the misty past, is going back. His coming fight with Jim Driscoll, perhaps the greatest little boxer in the great wide world, will tell if the San Francisco boy is the bearcat of the past.

In their New York quarrel Driscoll made the other member of the argument look like an old woman with the rheumatism attempting to gather wet peas on a slippery floor with a greasy spoon. He made Abie miss and bite his teeth with dark-visaged rage; he made a sort of mucker out of the champion, don't you know. He was the first man in the world to turn the trick, and New York marveled thereat.

Mister Attell has been most consistent in avoiding a third meeting with that stout-hearted little Irishman, Owen Moran. Owen and Abie have fought two fights in the past. Both of the battles were even up affairs, with the consensus of opinion that Moran would have triumphed in the last battle, if it had gone to a finish.

They have offered all sorts of inducements to have Abie fight the rubber, but he only shakes his head and looks wise. Even if Abe is going back he is probably the first man in the world to know it.

"I would sooner fight in the small places and beat a good many suckers than to hang around the big cities and be beaten by one champion," is the statement of Abie. He has been following out this belief with religious regularity. He has been stalling and going along with the second raters, sometimes having to fight very hard to get a draw, apparently, though it is very hard to tell about Attell.

It will be a very good thing for the game if the Hebrew is beaten, for he is a champion, who has been mixed with the shady paths of the ring, and has been known as a staller, faker and fixer.

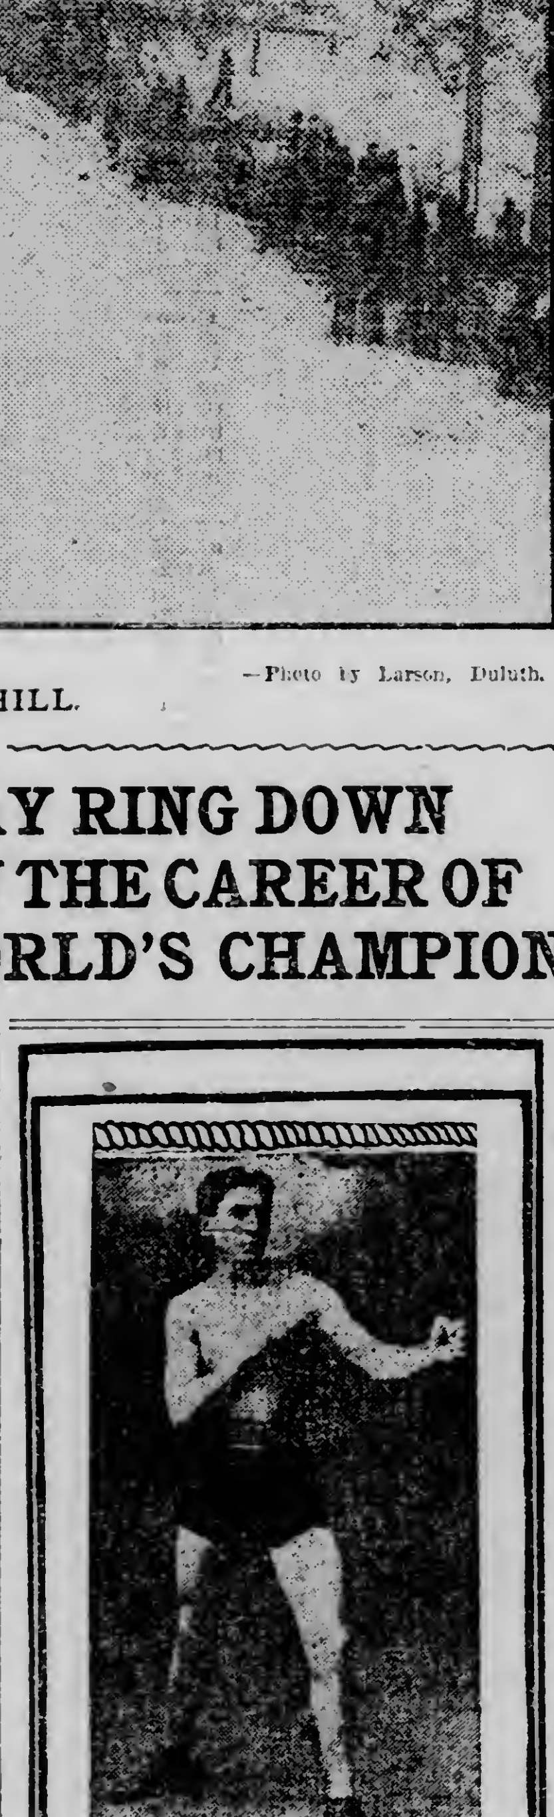
If some of the contracts sent out by the big league recently are consistent in detail with the general run of big league contracts, transportation to the home club city is no longer paid. In the days of old, when it was not thusly, as the song says, transportation was one of the first considerations remembered by the player, when he had satisfied his salary demands. Now he can walk to the home team city, for all the club management cares, and not a cent of railroad fare will be paid. His fare is paid from the home club city to the training quarters, and in these days of iron-law baseball the player can be thankful for even that.



ABE ATTELL

If John Elliott, president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league will pay more attention to the public thirst for baseball news and would treat the newspapers in this part of the league territory with more consideration, he might in the end be doing a good service, not only for himself, but for the general baseball public as well.

Here it is well along into the first of March, and as far as the public and some of the baseball magnates know, no date has been set for the meeting of the Minny league magnates, and no decision has been made in the selection of the cities that will enlarge the league.

A gentle sprinkling of the dew drops of basball information would be a good thing for the thirsty lips of baseball enthusiasts. It might serve greatly to increase the interest in the league generally.

Duke O'Dea was flirting scandalously with George Dauss in an attempt to get that player into the Superior fold. He offered the same price eventually paid for the player by the St. Paul club, and Magnate Kuehnow was wise in deciding to send the Dauss party to the Apostles.

* * *

Mike Kelly has purchased Dauss outright, paying a fairly liberal price for the player. O'Dea offered the same money. If Dauss had gone to Superior it is very likely that he would have proved the burr under the saddle of the Duluth aggregation. He would have taken as much delight in beating the hopeful White Sox as a patriotic Irishman takes on St. Patrick's day in beating the heads of some other nationalities that care not for snakes, their history, or the cause thereof.

Dauss is a good little boy, but he has lots to learn and he may not hold his hurling hill position with the Saints; but at all odds, he is in safe keeping and probably will not come back to the Minny social set.

Nothing but praise is due the Coleraine citizens who had charge of the national ski tournament that was held in the model city. The visitor could not but help catch the spirit that was manifest on every side. The citizens of Coleraine, as well as of the neighboring town of Bovey, were out to make every visitor feel at home, and in this commendable attitude they were eminently successful.

The tournament was a thorough success. Barney Riley, the pride of Coleraine, who is to have a cigar named after him, won the amateur championship. There was a great crowd present each day, and no accidents marred the sport. Coleraine and its citizens and the ski tournament officials are to be congratulated upon the efficient manner in which the tournament was conducted. The whole affair has been a boost for Coleraine and the hospitable citizens of the place.

ALL STARS ARE BEATEN

Phoenix Seven Wins First Game of Series at St. Paul.

Unfamiliar Ice Conditions Hamper Duluth Boys, Who Battle Gamely.

The All-Star Duluth hockey team dropped the first game of a series for the state championship to the Phoenix seven of St. Paul at the Saintly City Saturday night by a score of 8 to 0.

The St. Paul boys scored five goals in the first half and three in the second period of play, while all the Duluth boys could do was to shoot the puck against Hodgman and have it cleared from the front of the net. According to the reports from St. Paul, Hodgman was an insurmountable barrier and made some phenomenal stops.

Cargill, who was to have played with the Duluthians, missed the train to St. Paul and Asher Taylor was taken ill on the train, so that they were not in the game. They are expected to play tonight in the second game of the series.

Playing under unfamiliar ice conditions, the Duluth boys put up a game fight, according to the St. Paul papers. They never let up for a minute, even when the score was dead against them, and they proved that they have ability which may result in a reversal of the standing with a few more games. Wharton and Fenton were the stars for Duluth Saturday night.

The second game of the series will be played tonight, after which the St. Paul seven will come to Duluth for two game with the All Stars at the Adams rink.

Following is the lineup and summary:

Phoenix	Position.	Duluth.
Hodgman	g	Fenton
Dellinger	p	Nelson
Tierney	c. p.	Grenner
Leonard	r	Cummings
F. Bawlf	c	Bartlett

Judge of play—Ray Deetz, Duluth. Referee—Fay Moritz, St. Paul. Goals—F. Bawlf, 4; Fitzgerald, 8; Leonard, 1; C. Bawlf, 1. Time of halves, 25 minutes. Final score—Phoenix, 8; Duluth, 0.

THE BATTLER IS VERY CONFIDENT

Nelson Expects to Have No Trouble With Ad Wolgast.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 21.—Battling Nelson is so confident that he will defeat Ad Wolgast at Point Richmond on Washington's birthday, that he will meet Louis Bloot and Jimmy Griffin, two promoters, representing different clubs, to hear their best terms for a 45-round contest between himself and "Cyclone" Johnny Thompson, either on the Saturday preceding or the one following Decoration day. Nelson weighed 133¾ pounds yesterday afternoon.

"Wolgast has been strutting around just as Munroe did after he met Jeffries in Montana," he said. "He has claimed that he made me back up. Well, I'll go after him Tuesday just as Jeffries went after Munroe, and we will see who will back up."

Wolgast is at the weight notch that will permit him to make the required 133 pounds by fight day with little difficulty. He says he feels he will have little trouble in disposing of Nelson. The betting still remains at 10 to 6, with Nelson a strong favorite.

JAMES IS STILL GETTING MONEY

San Francisco, Feb. 21.—Before 6,000 spectators, James J. Jeffries, who is to fight Jack Johnson on the afternoon of July 4, appeared in the ring at an athletic carnival conducted by Jack GleasJon, one of the promoters of the big fight yesterday afternoon. It was the first time that Californians have seen Jeffries since he signified his willingness to fight Johnson.

The fight-loving people of this city, where Jeffries won his first battles, were impatient to see if he had "come back." From the applause that the retired champion received as he went through his paces, it was evident that the public was satisfied with his condition. He skipped the rope, did shadow fighting and other stunts to show his speed. When his part of the program was over, Jeffries jumped from the ring and sprinted across the baseball field to the club house, outdistancing his trainers.

No announcement was made as to where the fight will be held, although announcer Jordan, in calling attention to the fight from the ring, stated that it would be held in California. Tex Rickard and Gleason will spend another day or two in looking over the ground before deciding the place. Rickard said that he was still receiving telegrams from his backers in Salt Lake City in urging him that that city should stage the contest.

A New Swimming Record.

Sydney, N. S. W., Feb. 21.—Alex Wickham of Sydney yesterday swam fifty yards in 23 3-5 seconds. This is a new world's record. Wickham held the former record of 24 3-5 seconds for fifty yards straightaway.

WALTER HALL IS CHAMPION

Whyte's Crack Rink Loses Out in City Bonspiel Finals.

Curlers Are Planning Many Matches for Washington's Birthday.

The Walter G. Hall rink Saturday evening won the curling championship of the city.

The championship is the result of a one-day bonspiel, played at the two curling rinks in Duluth on Lincoln's birthday.

Hall and E. N. Whyte reached the finals and the last contest was played at the rink of the Duluth Curling club Saturday night. The score wass 11 to 8 and Whyte and his rink had the shorter end.

The game was close and exciting all the way through and was witnessed by a large crowd of curling enthusiasts.

It is the first time in the history of local curling that there has been a champion city rink. There was so much interest in the bonspiel that it will probably be made a yearly affair.

* * *

Steven H. Jones this year wins The Herald event. The finals in this event were played off between S. W. Richardson and Stephen H. Jones. The final score was 12 to 10. The game was as close all the way as the scores would indicate.

* * *

Washington's birthday will be celebrated by the Scots at the Head of the Lakes with a number of curling matches. Five Duluth rinks will play in Superior, four in West Duluth, and two at Minneapolis. The two rinks that go to Minneapolis will play for the Merriam trophy, which is emblematic of the state championship. The play for this medal is conducted annually at the rink which last won it. One of the Duluth rinks will be composed of E. N. Bradley, Samuel Cleveland, E. R. Jacobi, R. D. Bradley, skip. Walter C. Poehler and Stephen H. Jones will be two members of the other rink. The two other curlers are not yet chosen.

The games to be played in the afternoon at Superior are for two barrels of flour, donated by the Duluth-Superior Milling company. The winning curlers will donate the flour to needy persons. The Anderson medal will be curled for in the evening.

The curlers to play in Superior are: Ben Petz, R. Dunlop, E. R. Anderson, skip; Ed Walker, John Tresise, E. A. Forsythe, John Pugh, skip; M. Buchanan, Frank Frageau, Capt. McLennan, Alex Macrae, skip; Albert Skelton, Marshall Alworth, C. F. MacDonald, E. N. Whyte, skip; C. A. Ethridge, W. M. Hart, Thomas Gibson, R. J. McLeod, skip.

The contests at West Duluth will be the same as those to be played at Superior. Two barrels of flour will be the stakes. The flour is donated by the Duluth Universal Milling company.

The Duluth rinks entered for play at the Western club are:

J. E. McGregor, E. W. Deetz, John Oldham, Walter G. Hall, skip; C. Naughton, Gordon Wood, C. T. Staacke, George H. Feetham, skip; Jack McMillan, W. L. McKay, Walter Harris, J. E. Catlin, skip; George Wirth, Gilbert McGee, A. Lathers, Will Dinham, skip.

Positions Unchanged.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 21.—In yesterday's rolling in the International Bowling association tournament the leaders in the individual and two-men events were not displaced. In the individual rolling, F. C. Zrosky of La Crosse made high score for the day with 561, but J. Miller of St. Paul still maintains the high position with 608. In the doubles, Geisel and Weller of St. Paul, with 1,165, remain at the top. The high scores in this event for yesterday were made by W. Williams and W. Lee, Chicago, 1,146, and C. A. Cole and W. W. Connors, Minneapolis, 1,136.

WANT MAINE RAISED.

Spanish War Veterans Adopt Resolution at Meeting.

New York, Feb. 21.—The main memorial service of the Spanish War Veterans, held in Carnegie hall, turned into a demonstration to influence congress to raise the battleship Maine. By a rising vote a resolution was adopted condemning the spectacle of the rusted hull and the rotten bones of its victims, abandoned without sepulchre in alien waters, and urging that congress shall enact legislation for the immediate removal of the wreck to our own shores and the recovery of the remains of the victims for interment in the National cemetery at Arlington.

A copy of the resolution will be sent to the president and vice president, the secretary of the navy and the members of the senate and house.

Representative Sulzer of New York who has been trying to get a bill to raise the Maine through the house for several years, was the chief speaker.

$2,500,000 Pledged.

New York, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, president of George Washington Memorial association, announces that contributions to practically assure the erection of the proposed $2,500,000 George Washington Memorial hall at Washington have already been pledged.

POTTS GETS DECISION

Was Outpointed, But Never in Danger of Being Put Away.

Jimmie Potts of Minneapolis, welterweight champion claimant of the Northwest, won a decision over Curley Ulrich of Superior at Bovey Saturday night in one of the cleanest and fastest fights ever seen in this part of the country.

The bout was a great exhibition of the science of boxing, and was void of all brutality and objectionable features.

While Potts outpointed the Superior fighter, at no time did he have Curley in distress, or did he knock Ulrich off his feet. Ulrich won a great hand at the end of the fight by his gameness and willingness to mix at all times. Curley fought a clean and game battle all through, and made many friends on the range by his great showing.

The fight was fought under clean break rules, which gave all the advantage to the Minneapolis man. Ulrich held out for straight rules, but Potts refused to fight under anything but a clean break agreement.

The fight went fifteen rounds and was fast from the opening gong until the bell in the final round. Potts was the cleverer of the two men, but Ulrich packed the hardest wallop. A good crowd saw the exhibition.

At the conclusion of the fight Ulrich challenged Potts to meet him under straight rules.

The All Stars, the crack indoor baseball team of the Northwest, and the All Leaguers, a team made up of the pick of the teams in the military league, will meet tomorrow evening at the Armory in a game that will decide the championship of this part of the state. The winner of the game will meet the Owatonna, Minn., indoor team for the state championship.

Some of the best professional players in the Northwest will be seen in the lineup of the All Stars. The game will be called at 8 o'clock and will be followed by a dance.

The teams will line up as follows:

DROP THROUGH FLOOR.

Four Hundred People in Accident at Seance.

Patton, Pa., Feb. 21.—Four hundred people who attended a spiritualistic demonstration at the opera house Saturday night are feeling considerably impressed with the performance—about twenty-five of them in fact, bear the brands of red-hot coals and many others the bruises of being trampled upon in a panic when the floor gave way.

The audience was just on the point of leaving when it was precipitated together with a red-hot stove into the basement. The floor had buckled without warning. None were killed, contrary to an erroneous report, but a holocaust was prevented by men who trampled out the burning coals which were scattered in the wreckage. The loss by fire was small.

MAY REOPEN CASE.

Auld-Robnett Court-Martial Not Through Yet.

Washington, Feb. 21.—There is an uncomfortable suggestion of a reopening of the famous Auld-Robnett court-martial which was supposed to have been finally settled by approval of the navy department of the findings of the courtmartial. It appears now that attorneys for Surgeon Robnett have been authorized to present to the department arguments to show that the young officer was illegally punished in the imposition of the courtmartial sentence of a loss of numbers after he had received a letter from the department, which, in the opinion of his attorneys, amounted to a reprimand and therefore a punishment.

S.S.S. THE ONLY REMEDY FOR BLOOD POISON

The first symptom of Contagious Blood Poison is usually a little sore or ulcer, so insignificant that often no attention is given it. But when the blood becomes more fully infected with the virus the mouth and throat get sore, glands in the neck and groin swell, and sometimes ulcerate, forming sores and ulcers, the hair comes out, copper colored spots appear on the body, and where the disease is allowed to remain in the system the poison frequently penetrates deeper and attacks the bones. S. S. S. is the true antidote for Contagious Blood Poison—the only remedy that is able to get at the very root of the trouble and remove every particle of the virus from the circulation; at the same time S. S. S. acts with upbuilding and tonic effect on every portion of the system. As soon as the system gets under the influence of S. S. S. the symptoms begin to disappear and soon a perfect cure is made. S. S. S. can be used in the privacy of one's own home and a permanent cure effected. To aid those who wish to cure themselves at home we have prepared a special Home Treatment book which contains much valuable information to Contagious Blood Poison Sufferers. With the aid of this book and the use of S. S. S. a cure can be effected in every case. We will send this book, and also any medical advice desired free to all who write.

PLANS FOR OPEN MARKET

Council Will Probably Vacate City Property in West Duluth.

Business Men Will Organize to Erect Shelter for Farmers.

When the council meets this evening, the matter of establishing a public market at West Duluth will be one of the matters to be considered.

It is understood that the committee having the plans in charge will report to the council, urging that the city lots at Ramsey street and the Northern Pacific right-of-way be vacated for this purpose.

The lots were bought when West Duluth was a village for the purpose of establishing a market of this kind and for the erection of an armory. The armory was never built, nor was the market established. When West Duluth was incorporated with the city, the lots were used as a storage place for the board of public works. Today there is also a small office of the water board on the property.

The council, it is said, will do nothing more for the proposition than ordering the lots vacated by the board of public works and the water board. They will then be turned over to the promoters of the scheme and it is probable that the West Duluth Commercial club, which has been fostering the movement, may take the matter up and raise funds to construct sheds on the place.

If the Commercial club does not take any action towards raising the required funds, it is said that an organization of business men will be formed for this purpose. It is proposed to build sheds so that when the farmers drive to the city with their produce there will be protection afforded from the rain and bad weather. Stands where they may display their product will also be provided.

Following the announcement of the public market proposition, there have been many inquiries at West Duluth in regard to the building of a creamery here. This would prove to be an inducement for the farmers to come to West Duluth, and there are many who reside back of the hill who want to see this accomplished.

At the last meeting of the Commercial club the report was made by a committee that condemnation proceedings for the new Hermantown road, which would open up this district to West Duluth, had been begun. It is expected that active road construction will begin in the spring.

The road starts at Fifty-seventh avenue west and runs west along Highland street to Keene creek, where it follows the west branch, touching the Morris-Thomson road.

BRANCH Y. M. C. A. FOR WEST END

A $40,000 Building Is Recommended at Mass Metting.

A $40,000 branch Y. M. C. A. building for West Duluth was recommended at the mass meeting last evening at the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street. E. H. Fagenstrom of the boys' department of the St. Paul Y. M. C. A. was the principal speaker.

As a result of the meeting a committee comprising H. G. House, principal of the Ely school, Rev. A. J. Hoag, George J. Mallory, H. H. Phelps, Mrs. Thompson of Woodland, and L. A. Barnes was appointed to confer with the board of the uptown association with the view of securing a branch for West Duluth.

Plans will be made by this committee to raise the funds for the new branch. Speeches favoring the erection of the building were made by Rev. E. F. Stidd, Rev. W. G. Boyle, Rev. D. G. Cole, Rev. E. B. Collier, Mrs. H. H. Phelps, and the members of the committee.

Mr. Fagenstrom was accompanied by nine boys from the St. Paul boys' department, who told of the advantage that West Duluth boys would derive from the association. Among the boys who spoke were Humphrey Wilkenson, George Prudden, and Frank Gilman.

IS JAILED FOR BEATING WIFE

Edward Griffen Sentenced to Fifty Days By Judge Flack.

Following a drunken carousal Saturday night, after which he went home and assaulted his wife, Edward Griffen, 33 years old, who resides at 610 North Sixtieth avenue west, was sentenced to fifty days in the county jail this morning, when arrigned before Judge J. B. Flack of the West Duluth justice court on a charge of drunkenness.

The police were called to the Griffen home about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to place the man under arrest. He was still under the influence of liquor and there were evidences that he had been abusing his wife and children. His wife claimed that he came home Saturday night, badly intoxicated, and that he brought home a bottle of whisky with him.

It is said that this is not the first time that Griffen has come to the attention of the police. He works as a moulder and is 33 years old. When arraigned before Judge Flack this morning, he was given the option of paying a $50 fine or serving a jail sentence of fifty days.

He had more time than money, he said, and he took the jail sentence.

Miner Sues Pearson Mining Company for Fall From Ladder.

For an alleged fracture of the skull and a broken collar bone, Elias Pohja wants $25,000 from the Superior Shipbuilding company. The complaint in the action was filed this morning with the clerk of the district court.

Pohja claims that he was engaged at the yards of the company as a rivet cutter and that at the time of the accident he was working in a narrow compartment in the steamer Abraham Stearns.

One of the other men went on deck and in so doing he was forced to climb a ladder and crawl out on deck through a manhole, covered over by a heavy iron plate. In some way this plate fell through the opening and Pohja claims that it struck him with the result stated.

He claims that before the accident he was an able-bodied man making fair wages and that since the accident he has been unable to work.

Mike Radoman this morning began suit in district court against the Pearson Mining company for $2,000, for injuries alleged to have been sustained when he fell thirty feet from a ladder in the company's mine last September.

It was Radoman's duty, according to the complaint filed, to visit all parts of the mine, and in so doing he had occasion to use the connecting ladders.

He alleges in his complaint that the rounds of the ladder were old and rotten and liable at any moment to give away. He claims negligence on the part of the mining concern in that they did not furnish a safe means of transportation from one part of the mine to another.

As the result of the fall he claims that his left leg, foot and ankle were severely injured, and that he was in bed nursing his injuries for some time.

DILWORTH MAN IS SHOT TWICE

Fargo, N. D., Feb 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of a jealous row, Antonio Spossito was shot and probably fatally wounded at Dilworth, Minn., the Northern Pacific shop town, three miles east of here, this morning.

The assailant was Antonio Agosgino. Both men were employed by the railroad company and Agosgino had been rooming with the victim. During the forenoon Spossito went to his home and found Agosgino and another Italian there. He ordered them out and struck Agosgino over the head with a chair. The latter drew a revolver and shot Spossito twice, once in the shoulder and again under the heart.

The shooter, Mrs. Spossito and other witnesses are under arrest, while the wounded man is in a hospital at the point of death.

YOUNG SWIFT FIGHTS THUG

New York, Feb. 21.—Samuel F. Swift, a student and believed to be a member of the Swift family of Chicago, the wealthy packers, was held up while walking through an uptown street today, and in court accused as his assailant Edward Burns, a young tenderloin dweller. Attempted robbery was charged.

Swift was taking a young woman and her chaperone home when the assault took place. His antagonist struck him a stinging blow in the face, knocked him down, and thinking the young Chicagoan was stunned tried to pull off the victim's fur overcoat and thereby reach a money belt, which was strapped about Swift's waist, and which contained $700. Swift fought back valiantly and his shouts for help brought a policeman to the rescue.

Burns was held in default of $2,000 bail for examination.

RAILROADS

OVER MILLION IMMIGRANTS

Immigration figures received today at the Great Northern office for the season of 1909, show that 1,068,649 immigrants were landed at the port of New York by the various steamship lines that ply between that city and European ports.

Immigration agents here say that the present season will undoubtedly show an increase over last season. It is estimated here that something in the neighborhood of 1,500,000 immigrants will be brought to this country the present year through the port of New York.

Local immigration says that last year was a very good year, but the big crops and general industrial prosperity of this country this year will result in increasing the immigration very largely.

CALENDAR TO BE LIGHT

Only About Ten Criminal Cases for Consideration During March Term.

Jones and Booker Will Likely Stand Trial for Murder.

The criminal calendar for the March term of court will be very light. The present term was considered one of the lightest in the history of the local court, but during the March term there will in all probability, be no more than ten cases in all.

Just at present the outlook for March is that there will be two murder trials. It is likely that Ralph Jones will be indicted by the grand jury for first degree murder. Jones is the negro who stabbed Walter Whitehead, the colored pugilist. He was indicted by the January grand jury for assault in the first degree. White died after the indictment had been made and Jones will now be tried for first degree murder.

George Booker will no doubt stand trial for the alleged killing of his stepfather, Charles Clark. Clark was killed under peculiar circumstances and the story told by Booker upon his arrival in town with the body did not sound well to the local authorities. At the inquest, the jury decided that Clark had come to his death as the result of wounds inflicted upon his body by George Booker. No attempt was made to mention the weapon used.

George Laux is waiting to be tried on the charge of forgery in the second degree. He, it is alleged, signed F. H. Wade's name to a check which he passed on Gust Melin. He is said to have tried to pass another worthless piece of paper calling for $156.39, on W. W. Porter.

Gust Ranta will be tried on the charge of bigamy. Having a known wife living, Ranta, is said to have married Ella Tammi.

Oliver Joseph Gerow will be tried on a charge of wife desertion.

John Paulson and Bert Swanson will be tried on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. On Dec. 2 they are said to have robbed Joseph Olson of $103.

Abraham Anderson will stand trial on a charge of forgery in the second degree.

The trial of W. J. Holman, the local stockbroker, on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree, will also come up during the March term.

Some Uses of the Cocoanut.

The cocoanut, a fruit familiar to nearly every part of the world, in one form at least, is used in many ways in the countries of its growth that would surprise the lovers of its milk and meat in this country. A scientific investigation proves that golden grain belt beer is rich in nutrition and nerve food, and a pure, wholesome malt tonic that aids digestion. Serve it regularly with your meals and enjoy its benefits. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company."

SUPERIOR

Want Ferry Line.

Agitation is on foot at the East end, Superior, for the establishment of a direct ferry service between that section of Superior and Duluth. It is said that Capt. A. J. Majo of the Independent Ferry line has been asked to establish such a service during the coming summer.

Slocum Funeral.

Funeral services for the late Charles H. Slocum, who died Saturday at his residence, 1828 Banks avenue, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Masonic temple with the services in charge of the Superior commandery, Knights Templar. He was a prominent member of this order.

High Official on Visit.

A. Penhallegan, grand master of the I. O. O. F. for Wisconsin was a Superior visitor Saturday, when he visited some of the officials of the Superior lodges. Mr. Penhallegan, who resides at Mineral Point, Wis., states that the people in Southern Wisconsin are watching with interest the progress made by Duluth and Superior.

Veterans Have Banquet.

Over 200 members of Alonzo post, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief corps, with members of the Duluth post as guests, packed the Odd Fellows' temple Saturday evening, the occasion being the annual banquet of the Superior war veterans. Capt. E. Rossiter made the principal address. Other talks were given by A. T. Ledin, Col. J. F. Tostevin, Maj. A. S. Eaton, Rev. L. K. Grimes and W. Kenyon.

Will Ask Damages.

The directors of the Superior Curling & Skating club will demand $5,000 damages on account of the construction of the Belknap street viaduct, past the rink property. The railroads and the city officials have drawn a contract whereby the building will be pushed in the early spring, regardless of any objections that the curling club officers will make.

Gets Two Years.

Frank Presket of Barron county, who pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary before Judge A. J. Vinje of the circuit court, was sentenced to two years at Waupun, Saturday. The man was brought to Superior by Sheriff Johnson of Barron county.

Case Is Dismissed.

Fred Worth, a South end butcher, was dismissed this morning when arraigned in the municipal court on a charge of wife desertion. The complaining witness, his wife, failed to appear against him.

Worth claims that his wife had him arrested yesterday because he came to Duluth to look for work and did not "patronize home industries." Not being able to find any work for a meat trimmer in Duluth, he made a trip to the range.

It was when she heard that he had left for the range, that she swore out a warrant for his arrest, thinking that he had forsaken her.

No Epidemic of Smallpox.

Superior health authorities discredit the published report that the East end may be in the grip of smallpox. There is a mild case of the disease at the East end, but it is unusually light and it is said that every precaution has been taken and that there is nothing alarming about the situation.

Startles the Natives.

Manila, Feb. 21.—The army maneuvers continue, with great interest to all except the natives in the mountains, who are frightened nearly out of their wits. The officers have not been able to convince them that real war is not being carried on.

NO LIFE TO THE COPPER MARKET

Trading Is Quiet With More Offerings Than Bids.

The copper market today was dull, lifeless and without features except such as were injected into the market by reflection from the industrial and railroad markets.

In the face of a holiday there was some liquidation and many traders were not in the market as they took today as a holiday even though the exchanges revised previous rulings and did not so regard it.

The local market was quiet and featureless. The undertone was soft and there were more offerings than bids. An attempt was made at declining offers to take profits in some of the leaders, but there was no demand.

Butte-Ballaklava sold at $9.62½; Greene at $9.87½ here and $9.62½ down to $9.50 in the East; Red Warrior at $2.75; Butte & Superior at $2.56¼, $2.43¾ and $2.50; Calumet & Montana at $1.12½ up to $1.25; Calumet & Corbin at 75 and then at 74 cents; Carman at $1.12; Keating at $2; Rawhide Royal at 6 cents; San Antonio at $8.12½; St. Mary's at 26 cents; Tuolumne at $3.68¾ up to $3.75; Sierra at $3.87½; North American at $2.75; Duluth-Toroda at 75 cents.

Amalgamated sold at $76.12½ down to $75.50, up to $76.50 and down to the opening; Steel common at $80.50 down to $79.75, up to $80.75 and down ½ point and up to $80.50. Calumet & Arizona sold at $71 and up ½ point; Giroux at $9.87½ up to $10 and down ¼ point. North Butte at $35.25 down to $34.50, up to $36 and down 1 point. Walker's Copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper is quiet and prices are a shade easier. Lake is 13⅞ to 14 cents and electrolytic is 13½ to 13¾ cents per pound. A renewal of the reports, circulated some time ago, that the plans for a general copper mining merger have been definitely abandoned has checked the buying demand to some extent. In this country, however, current buying and consumption are going hand in hand, and it is claimed that none of the leading consumers are carrying more than two or three weeks' supply at the present time. The very large foreign visible supply encourages the belief that a considerable portion of the current exports is going into the hands of speculators. If this be true, the buyers are to be congratulated on their good judgment.

"As a matter of fact, both the foreign and domestic surplus stocks look very much larger than they really are. Regardless of how great the consumption may become or how urgent the demand, the world's surplus stocks will never again amount to less than 100,000,000 pounds, that amount necessarily being held up at one point or another in the regular course of turnover from producer to consumer. The present actual surplus over and above this 100,000,000 pounds is probably less than 250,000,000 pounds, or about seven weeks' production. Consumption is practically sure to increase rapidly for at least two or three years to come, and not more than five or six months more should be required to absorb all of the actual surplus and put the metal market in a position where neither a combination of producers nor a reduction of output will be required to advance prices. I believe metal prices will be higher before they are any lower."

OBITUARY

Paul A. Fusz, president of the Granite Mountain Bimetallic Mining company of Phillipsburg, Mont., is dead in St. Louis, aged 63. A native of France, he enlisted in the Confederate army when a youth, and was once captured for smuggling quinine and valuable papers to the Confederates and would have been hanged but for the intervention of President Lincoln. One of the Great Emancipator's last acts was to pardon young Fusz from Jefferson prison, where he was sent after escaping the gallows. Deceased was major general commanding the northwestern division of the Confederate Veterans.

Dr. William Everett, a noted scholar and philosopher is dead at his home in Quincy, Mass. It is believed that his death was hastened by the closing of the Adams academy, of which he was principal. Dr. Everett was the son of Edward Everett. He was born in Watertown in 1839, and was graduated from Harvard in 1859. At Trinity college, Eng., he was a classmate of the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII.

George Holland, actor, brother of E. M. Holland of the New theater, is dead in Philadelphia. Up to a year ago, he was manager of the Girard Avenue theater, Philadelphia. During the present season he was playing in "The Henrietta," with Joseph and William Jefferson on the Southern circuit. The body will be buried in Philadelphia.

Mr. Holland was single. He was a member of a family hardly less celebrated on the American stage than the Booths, the Jeffersons, the Warrens, and the Drews. The father, George Holland also, the younger George, E. M. Joseph and Katie all won admiration.

STATE WINS GROSS EARNINGS TAX SUIT

Supreme Court of United States Says Railroad Must Pay.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The state of Minnesota today won a complete victory over the Great Northern Railway company when the supreme court of the United States affirmed the decision of the state court, holding that the railroad was liable to a 4 per cent gross earnings tax.

The State of Minnesota today also won a complete victory over the Chicago Great Western Railway company when the supreme court of the United States affirmed the decision of the state court holding that railroad also liable to a 4 per cent gross earnings tax.

Biggest Suit in State's History.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Speaking of the victory in the United States supreme court today in the gross earnings tax cases, Attorney General Simpson says:

"This victory means that the state becomes possessed of $800,000 back taxes as well as being assured an annual additional revenue of $200,000. It is the most important litigation the state has ever carried on. The case was begun by my predecessor, E. T. Young. The closing arguments were made in Washington a few days ago by my assistant, George W. Peterson and myself."

DIES IN MASONIC HOME.

Former Omaha Railroad Agent at Washburn Goes Blind and Dies.

Ashland, Wis., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. W. Layton, formerly the Omaha agent at Washburn, died at the Masonic home at Dousman, Wis. on Thursday. Mr. Layton moved to La Crosse from Washburn, and was in the employ of the railway company until about a year ago. Mr. Layton was a member of the Washburn Masonic lodge, and of the Ashland chapter. About a year ago, he wrote Ashland friends that he was losing his eyesight. He consulted a number of experts without getting relief. A few weeks ago, he visited Washburn, and made a special trip to Ashland to consult with Dr. Shaw. It was ascertained that there was absolutely no hope of his ever regaining his eyesight, and he left here for the Masonic home at Dousman.

WHOLESALE MURDERER IS IN FERGUS FALLS JAIL.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Feb. 21.—William Huckheim, who killed his wife and four children in the town of Effington, has been lodged in the county jail. He has fully recovered from his attempt at suicide. A charge of murder in the first degree will be preferred against him. He appears to be sane and talks rationally on all subjects except the murders, giving fanciful reasons for destroying his family.

GARBED AS MINERS.

Hancock, Mich., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.) — The Upper Peninsula Elks are to attend the national convention at Detroit next summer as miners, and the biggest miners of them all will be the Copper country "shifts, damme," which will, according to a decision adopted the other night, wear the costume of the copper miner complete with the exception of the high boots. The uniforms will consist of the miner's hat, skull cap, lamp, jacket and trousers, and will differ somewhat from those to be worn by the herds from the iron country in order to bring out Houghton's county individuality as a mining center.

At least fifty Elks from Hancock and full as many more from Calumet are planning to attend the national meeting. A number of the Elks will be accompanied by their wives, and the Copper country party probably will number from 150 to 200.

POISON IN CANDY.

Litchfield, Minn., Feb. 21.—Officials of Todd, McLeod and this, Meeker, counties, are investigating a poisoning case in which a box of candy was mailed in Hutchinson, McLeod county, to Miss Minnie Luthens in Cedar Mills, Meeker county, that was poisoned.

The peculiar taste of the candy and the fact that it made Miss Luthen's brother sick, aroused suspicion. Some of it fed to a dog killed the animal and an examination by the chemists showed a large amount of strychnine. It is believed the death of Miss Luthens was intended.

Fond Du Lac, Wis., Feb. 21.—Gen. E. S. Bragg, commander of the famous Iron Brigade of Civil war fame, and formerly United States consul at Hong Kong, and member of congress and of the state legislature, celebrated his 83rd birthday Sunday at his home in this city. PLANS FOR OPEN MARKET

Council Will Probably Vacate City Property in West Duluth.

Business Men Will Organize to Erect Shelter for Farmers.

When the council meets this evening the matter of establishing a public market at West Duluth will be one of the matters to be considered.

It is understood that the committee having the plans in charge will report to the council, urging that the city lots at Ramsey street and the Northern Pacific right-of-way be vacated for this purpose.

The lots were bought when West Duluth was a village for the purpose of establishing a market of this kind and for the erection of an armory. The armory was never built, nor was the market established. When West Duluth was incorporated with the city, the lots were used as a storage place for the board of public works. Today there is also a small office of the water board on the property.

The council, it is said, will do nothing more for the proposition than ordering the lots vacated by the board of public works and the water board. They will then be turned over to the promoters of the scheme and it is probable that the West Duluth Commercial club, which has been fostering the movement, may take the matter up and raise funds to construct sheds on the place.

If the Commercial club does not take any action towards raising the required funds, it is said that an organization of business men will be formed for this purpose. It is proposed to build sheds so that when the farmers drive to the city with their produce there will be protection afforded from the rain and bad weather. Stands where they may display their product will also be provided.

Following the announcement of the public market proposition, there have been many inquiries at West Duluth in regard to the building of a creamery here. This would prove to be an inducement for the farmers to come to West Duluth, and there are many who reside back of the hill who want to see this accomplished.

At the last meeting of the Commercial club the report was made by a committee that condemnation proceedings for the new Hermantown road, which would open up this district to West Duluth, had been begun. It is expected that active road construction will begin in the spring.

A $40,000 Building Is Recommended at Mass Metting.

A $40,000 branch Y. M. C. A. building for West Duluth was recommended at the mass meeting last evening at the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street. C. H. Fagenstrom of the boys' department of the St. Paul Y. M. C. A. was the principal speaker.

As a result of the meeting a committee comprising H. G. House, principal of the Ely school, Rev. A. J. Hoag, George J. Mallory, H. H. Phelps, Mrs. Thompson of Woodland, and L. A. Barnes was appointed to confer with the board of the uptown association with the view of securing a branch for West Duluth.

Plans will be made by this committee to raise the funds for the new branch. Speeches favoring the erection of the building were made by Rev. E. F. Stidd, Rev. W. G. Boyle, Rev. D. G. Cole, Rev. E. B. Collier, Mrs. H. H. Phelps, and the members of the committee.

Mr. Fagenstrom was accompanied by nine boys from the St. Paul boys' department, who told of the advantage that West Duluth boys would derive from the association. Among the boys who spoke were Humphrey Wilkenson, George Prudden, and Frank Gilman.

IS JAILED FOR BEATING WIFE

Edward Griffen Sentenced to Fifty Days By Judge Flack.

Following a drunken carousal Saturday night, after which he went home and assaulted his wife, Edward Griffen, 33 years old, who resides at 610 North Sixtieth avenue west, was sentenced to fifty days in the county jail this morning, when arrigned before Judge J. B. Flack of the West Duluth justice court on a charge of drunkenness.

The police were called to the Griffen home about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to place the man under arrest. He was still under the influence of liquor and there were evidences that he had been abusing his wife and children. His wife claimed that he came home Saturday night, badly intoxicated, and that he brought home a bottle of whisky with him.

It is said that this is not the first time that Griffen has come to the attention of the police. He works as a moulder and is 33 years old. When arraigned before Judge Flack this morning, he was given the option of paying a $50 fine or serving a jail sentence of fifty days.

He had more time than money, he said, and he took the jail sentence.

SUE THEIR EMPLOYERS

Workman Wants $25,000 From the Superior Shipbuilding Company.

Miner Sues Pearson Mining Company for Fall From Ladder.

For an alleged fracture of the skull and a broken collar bone, Elias Pohja wants $25,000 from the Superior Shipbuilding company. The complaint in the action was filed this morning with the clerk of the district court.

Pohja claims that he was engaged at the yards of the company as a rivet cutter and that at the time of the accident he was working in a narrow compartment in the steamer Abraham Stearns.

One of the other men went on deck and in so doing he was forced to climb a ladder and crawl out on deck through a manhole, covered over by a heavy iron plate. In some way this plate fell through the opening and Pohja claims that it struck him with the result stated.

He claims that before the accident he was an able-bodied man making fair wages and that since the accident he has been unable to work.

* * *

Mike Radoman this morning began suit in district court against the Pearson Mining company for $2,000, for injuries alleged to have been sustained when he fell thirty feet from a ladder in the company's mine last September.

It was Radoman's duty, according to the complaint filed, to visit all parts of the mine, and in so doing he had occasion to use the connecting ladders.

He alleges in his complaint that the rounds of the ladder were old and rotten and liable at any moment to give away. He claims negligence on the part of the mining concern in that they did not furnish a safe means of transportation from one part of the mine to another.

As the result of the fall he claims that his left leg, foot and ankle were severely injured, and that he was in bed nursing his injuries for some time.

DILWORTH MAN IS SHOT TWICE

Fargo, N. D., Feb 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of a jealous row, Antonio Spossito was shot and probably fatally wounded at Dilworth, Minn., the Northern Pacific shop town, three miles east of here, this morning.

The assailant was Antonio Agosgino. Both men were employed by the railroad company and Agosgino had been rooming with the victim. During the forenoon Spossito went to his home and found Agosgino and another Italian there. He ordered them out and struck Agosgino over the head with a chair. The latter drew a revolver and shot Spossito twice, once in the shoulder and again under the heart.

The shooter, Mrs. Spossito and other witnesses are under arrest, while the wounded man is in a hospital at the point of death.

YOUNG SWIFT FIGHTS THUG

New York, Feb. 21.—Samuel F. Swift, a student and believed to be a member of the Swift family of Chicago, the wealthy packers, was held up while walking through an uptown street today, and in court accused as his assailant Edward Burns, a young tenderloin dweller. Attempted robbery was charged.

Swift was taking a young woman and her chaperone home when the assault took place. His antagonist struck him a stinging blow in the face, knocked him down, and thinking the young Chicagoan was stunned tried to pull off the victim's fur overcoat and thereby reach a money belt, which was strapped about Swift's waist, and which contained $700. Swift fought back valiantly and his shouts for help brought a policeman to the rescue.

Burns was held in default of $2,000 bail for examination.

RAILROADS

OVER MILLION IMMIGRANTS

Immigration figures received today at the Great Northern office for the season of 1909, show that 1,068,649 immigrants were landed at the port of New York by the various steamship lines that ply between that city and European ports.

Immigration agents here say that the present season will undoubtedly show an increase over last season. It is estimated here that something in the neighborhood of 1,500,000 immigrants will be brought to this country the present year through the port of New York.

Local immigration says that last year was a very good year, but the big crops and general industrial prosperity of this country this year will result in increasing the immigration very largely.

CALENDAR TO BE LIGHT

Only About Ten Criminal Cases for Consideration During March Term.

Jones and Booker Will Likely Stand Trial for Murder.

The criminal calendar for the March term of court will be very light. The present term was considered one of the lightest in the history of the local court, but during the March term there will in all probability, be no more than ten cases in all.

Just at present the outlook for March is that there will be two murder trials. It is likely that Ralph Jones will be indicted by the grand jury for first degree murder. Jones is the negro who stabbed Walter Whitehead, the colored pugilist. He was indicted by the January grand jury for assault in the first degree. White died after the indictment had been made and Jones will now be tried for first degree murder.

George Booker will no doubt stand trial for the alleged killing of his stepfather, Charles Clark. Clark was killed under peculiar circumstances and the story told by Booker upon his arrival in town with the body did not sound well to the local authorities. At the inquest, the jury decided that Clark had come to his death as the result of wounds inflicted upon his body by George Booker. No attempt was made to mention the weapon used.

George Laux is waiting to be tried on the charge of forgery in the second degree. He, it is alleged, signed F. H. Wade's name to a check which he passed on Gust Melin. He is said to have tried to pass another worthless piece of paper calling for $156.39, on W. W. Porter.

Gust Ranta will be tried on the charge of bigamy. Having a known wife living, Ranta, is said to have married Ella Tammi.

Oliver Joseph Gerow will be tried on a charge of wife desertion.

John Paulson and Bert Swanson will be tried on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. On Dec. 2 they are said to have robbed Joseph Olson of $103.

Abraham Anderson will stand trial on a charge of forgery in the second degree.

The trial of W. J. Holman, the local stockbroker, on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree, will also come up during the March term.

Some Uses of the Cocoanut.

The cocoanut, a fruit familiar to nearly every part of the world, in one form at least, is used in many ways in the countries of its growth that would surprise the lovers of its milk and meat in this country. A scientific investigation proves that golden grain belt beer is rich in nutrition and nerve food, and a pure, wholesome malt tonic that aids digestion. Serve it regularly with your meals and enjoy its benefits. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch. Minneapolis Brewing company."

SUPERIOR

Want Ferry Line.

Agitation is on foot at the East end, Superior, for the establishment of a direct ferry service between that section of Superior and Duluth. It is said that Capt. A. J. Majo of the Independent Ferry line has been asked to establish such a service during the coming summer.

Slocum Funeral.

Funeral services for the late Charles H. Slocum, who died Saturday at his residence, 1828 Banks avenue, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Masonic temple with the services in charge of the Superior commandery, Knights Templar. He was a prominent member of this order.

High Official on Visit.

A. Penhallegan, grand master of the I. O. O. F. for Wisconsin was a Superior visitor Saturday, when he visited some of the officials of the Superior lodges. Mr. Penhallegan, who resides at Mineral Point, Wis., states that the people in Southern Wisconsin are watching with interest the progress made by Duluth and Superior.

Veterans Have Banquet.

Over 200 members of Alonzo post, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief corps, with members of the Duluth post as guests, packed the Odd Fellows' temple Saturday evening, the occasion being the annual banquet of the Superior war veterans. Capt. E. Rossiter made the principal address. Other talks were given by A. T. Ledin, Col. J. F. Tostevin, Maj. A. S. Eaton, Rev. L. K. Grimes and W. Kenyon.

Will Ask Damages.

The directors of the Superior Curling & Skating club will demand $5,000 damages on account of the construction of the Belknap street viaduct, past the rink property. The railroads and the city officials have drawn a contract whereby the building will be pushed in the early spring, regardless of any objections that the curling club officers will make.

Gets Two Years.

Frank Presket of Barron county, who pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary before Judge A. J. Vinje of the circuit court, was sentenced to two years at Waupun, Saturday. The man was brought to Superior by Sheriff Johnson of Barron county.

Case Is Dismissed.

Fred Worth, a South end butcher, was dismissed this morning when arraigned in the municipal court on a charge of wife desertion. The complaining witness, his wife, failed to appear against him.

Worth claims that his wife had him arrested yesterday because he came to Duluth to look for work and did not "patronize home industries." Not being able to find any work for a meat trimmer in Duluth, he made a trip to the range.

It was when she heard that he had left for the range, that she swore out a warrant for his arrest, thinking that he had forsaken her.

No Epidemic of Smallpox.

Superior health authorities discredit the published report that the East end may be in the grip of smallpox. There is a mild case of the disease at the East end, but it is unusually light and it is said that every precaution has been taken and that there is nothing alarming about the situation.

Startles the Natives.
Manila, Feb. 21.—The army maneuvers continue, with great interest to all except the natives in the mountains, who are frightened nearly out of their wits. The officers have not been able to convince them that real war is not being carried on.

NO LIFE TO THE COPPER MARKET

Trading Is Quiet With More Offerings Than Bids.

The copper market today was dull, lifeless and without features except such as were injected into the market by reflection from the industrial and railroad markets.

In the face of a holiday there was some liquidation and many traders were not in the market as they took today as a holiday even though the exchanges revised previous rulings and did not so regard it.

The local market was quiet and featueless. The undertone was soft and there were more offerings than bids. An attempt was made at declining offers to take profits in some of the leaders, but there was no demand.

Butte-Ballaklava sold at $9.62½; Greene at $9.87½ here and $9.62½ down to $9.50 in the East; Red Warrior at $2.75; Butte & Superior at $2.56¼, $2.43¾ and $2.50; Calumet & Montana at $1.12½ up to $1.25; Calumet & Corbin at 75 and then at 74 cents; Carman at $1.12; Keating at $2; Rawhide Royal at 6 cents; San Antonio at $8.12½; St. Mary's at 26 cents; Tuolumne at $3.68¾ up to $3.75; Sierra at $3.87½; North American at $2.75; Duluth-Toroda at 75 cents.

Amalgamated sold at $76.12½ down to $75.50, up to $76.50 and down to the opening; Steel common at $80.50 down to $79.75, up to $80.75 and down ½ point and up to $80.50. Walker's Copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper is quiet and prices are a shade easier. Lake is 13⅞ to 14 cents and electrolytic is 13½ to 13¾ cents per pound. A renewal of the reports, circulated some time ago, that the plans for a general copper mining merger have been definitely abandoned has checked the buying demand to some extent. In this country, however, current buying and consumption are going hand in hand, and it is claimed that none of the leading consumers are carrying more than two or three weeks' supply at the present time. The very large foreign visible supply encourages the belief that a considerable portion of the current exports is going into the hands of speculators. If this be true, the buyers are to be congratulated on their good judgment.

"As a matter of fact, both the foreign and domestic surplus stocks look very much larger than they really are. Regardless of how great the consumption may become or how urgent the demand, the world's surplus stocks will never again amount to less than 100,000,000 pounds, that amount necessarily being held up at one point or another in the regular course of turnover from producer to consumer. The present actual surplus over and above this 100,000,000 pounds is probably less than 250,000,000 pounds, or about seven weeks' production. Consumption is practically sure to increase rapidly for at least two or three years to come, and not more than five or six months more should be required to absorb all of the actual surplus and put the metal market in a position where neither a combination of producers nor a reduction of output will be required to advance prices. I believe metal prices will be higher before they are any lower."

OBITUARY

Paul A. Fusz, president of the Granite Mountain Bimetallic Mining company of Phillipsburg, Mont., is dead in St. Louis, aged 63. A native of France, he enlisted in the Confederate army when a youth, and was once captured for smuggling quinine and valuable papers to the Confederates and would have been hanged but for the intervention of President Lincoln. One of the Great Emancipator's last acts was to pardon young Fusz from Jefferson prison, where he was sent after escaping the gallows. Deceased was major general commanding the northwestern division of the Confederate Veterans.

Dr. William Everett, a noted scholar and philosopher is dead at his home in Quincy, Mass. It is believed that his death was hastened by the closing of the Adams academy, of which he was principal. Dr. Everett was the son of Edward Everett. He was born in Watertown in 1839, and was graduated from Harvard in 1859. At Trinity college, Eng., he was a classmate of the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII.

George Holland, actor, brother of E. M. Holland of the New theater, is dead in Philadelphia. Up to a year ago, he was manager of the Girard Avenue theater, Philadelphia. During the present season he was playing in "The Henrietta," with Joseph and William Jefferson on the Southern circuit. The body will be buried in Philadelphia.

Mr. Holland was single. He was a member of a family hardly less celebrated on the American stage than the Booths, the Jeffersons, the Warrens, and the Drews. The father, George Holland also, the younger George, E. M. Joseph and Katie all won admiration.

STATE WINS GROSS EARNINGS TAX SUIT

Supreme Court of United States Says Railroad Must Pay.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The state of Minnesota today won a complete victory over the Great Northern Railway company when the supreme court of the United States affirmed the decision of the state court, holding that the railroad was liable to a 4 per cent gross earnings tax.

The State of Minnesota today also won a complete victory over the Chicago Great Western Railway company when the supreme court of the United States affirmed the decision of the state court holding that railroad also liable to a 4 per cent gross earnings tax.

Biggest Suit in State's History.
St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Speaking of the victory in the United States supreme court today in the gross earnings tax cases, Attorney General Simpson says:

"This victory means that the state becomes possessed of $800,000 back taxes as well as being assured an annual additional revenue of $200,000. It is the most important litigation the state has ever carried on. The case was begun by my predecessor, E. T. Young. The closing arguments were made in Washington a few days ago by my assistant, George W. Peterson and myself."

DIES IN MASONIC HOME.

Former Omaha Railroad Agent at Washburn Goes Blind and Dies.

Ashland, Wis., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. W. Layton, formerly the Omaha agent at Washburn, died at the Masonic home at Dousman, Wis. on Thursday. Mr. Layton moved to La Crosse from Washburn, and was in the employ of the railway company until about a year ago. Mr. Layton was a member of the Washburn Masonic lodge, and of the Ashland chapter. About a year ago, he wrote Ashland friends that he was losing his eyesight. He consulted a number of experts without getting relief. A few weeks ago, he visited Washburn, and made a special trip to Ashland to consult with Dr. Shaw. It was ascertained that there was absolutely no hope of his ever regaining his eyesight, and he left here for the Masonic home at Dousman.

WHOLESALE MURDERER IS IN FERGUS FALLS JAIL.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Feb. 21.—William Huckheim, who killed his wife and four children in the town of Effington, has been lodged in the county jail. He has fully recovered from his attempt at suicide. A charge of murder in the first degree will be preferred against him. He appears to be sane and talks rationally on all subjects except the murders, giving fanciful reasons for destroying his family.

GARBED AS MINERS.

Hancock, Mich., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.) — The Upper Peninsula Elks are to attend the national convention at Detroit next summer as miners, and the biggest miners of them all will be the Copper country "shifts, damme," which will, according to a decision adopted the other night, wear the costume of the copper miner complete with the exception of the high boots. The uniforms will consist of the miner's hat, skull cap, lamp, jacket and trousers, and will differ somewhat from those to be worn by the herds from the iron country in order to bring out Houghton's county individuality as a mining center.

At least fifty Elks from Hancock and full as many more from Calumet are planning to attend the national meeting. A number of the Elks will be accompanied by their wives, and the Copper country party probably will number from 150 to 200.

POISON IN CANDY.

Litchfield, Minn., Feb. 21.—Officials of Todd, McLeod and this, Meeker, counties, are investigating a poisoning case in which a box of candy was mailed in Hutchinson, McLeod county, to Miss Minnie Luthens in Cedar Mills, Meeker county, that was poisoned.

The peculiar taste of the candy and the fact that it made Miss Luthen's brother sick, aroused suspicion. Some of it fed to a dog killed the animal and an examination by the chemists showed a large amount of strychnine. It is believed the death of Miss Luthens was intended.

GEN. BRAGG'S BIRTHDAY.

Fond Du Lac, Wis., Feb. 21.—Gen. E. S. Bragg, commander of the famous Iron Brigade of Civil war fame, and formerly United States consul at Hong Kong, and member of congress and of the state legislature, celebrated his 83rd birthday Sunday at his home in this city. Owing to the fact that he is recovering from a severe attack of grip, he did not make any extensive plans for observing his natal day. He was at home to his friends all day and gave them the same welcome as in years past.

QUIET DAY IN MARKETS

But Little Trading in Duluth Pit Preceding the Holiday.

Both Wheat and Flax Close Fractionally Lower Than Saturday.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb 21.—At the close of a dull and lifeless session the May and July options in wheat were ⅛c lower than at the close Saturday. A slight bulge early in the day, due to the bullish crop reports, was not maintained, the weakness of cash buying being predominate. May wheat closed at $1.14@1.14⅛ bid and July at $1.13⅞ bid. The flax market was dull. May closed at $2.19½, ¾c under Saturday's close, and July closed $1.70 nominal.

Rye and barley were unchanged. Oats closed ⅛c off and cash wheat equalled May. The cash trade was not in evidence. No cash sales of wheat other than durum were reported.

For the business that was transacted, the exchange might as well have been closed. It was one of the dullest days in a long time. There was little news to influence the market and little interest in it. Offerings were light and in the leading speculative market, Chicago, interest seemed centered in corn rather than wheat.

The cash market was almost lifeless and there was a tendency for futures in other markets to approach a parity, a drift became apparent Saturday. The big milling demand has sustained cash markets, but in the last three or four days buying from this source appears to have fallen off. It was rumored, according to weekly schedule, that some of the Minneapolis mills would close, but this was denied. It was said that the mills have plenty of shipping instructions and that although there is a slight slackening in the flour demand, there is no condition present to warrant the shutting down of any of the grinders. Last week the Minneapolis mills ground 1,000,000 bu more wheat than for the same week last year. Despite this heavy consumption continued to show an increase.

The increase there for the last two days was 80,000 bu, which is small compared with the daily increases that have been recently recorded. This is due to a falling off in receipts in the Northwest. The railroads are having considerable trouble and there is very little grain delivered to country elevators by farmers for shipment. The farmers are imbued with the crop scare idea and appear to be holding on to their supplies. Whether they will release supplies if it develops that the crop, although killed eight times, has not been killed the necessary ninth, remains to be seen.

Crop scare reports continued to arrive today. Kansas sent out a batch but nobody got excited about them although the reports undoubtedly are the causes of the occasional bulges in the wheat market. The market was sustained in the early part of the session by a bullish undertone due, no doubt, to the perplexity of the situation and the alarm felt in some quarters for the new crop.

The foreigner paid no attention to the American situation. He has enough wheat for his needs and is not coming to this country for supplies. The foreign inquiries were scarce and no wheat was reported sold for export. Liverpool closed slightly lower, ⅛@¼d, because of heavy offerings from Russia and Argentina. The Sea of Azof is open. Exports from Russia and the Danube last week were about 600,000 bu more than the previous week and more than three times as much as the exports a year ago. Last week's shipments were 3,920,000 bu. Buyers are holding off.

The world's shipments last week were 11,144,000 bu against 10,752,000 bu last week and 11,904,000 bu a year ago. Wheat on passage increased 1,080,000 bu, which had a depressing effect on the foreign markets. The Argentine futures have not followed the action of the American markets lately but have been weak and sagging.

The flax market today was dull. The stocks are extremely low and receipts are confined to an occasional car that has generally been sold long before it reaches Duluth.

MARKET GOSSIP

A Chicago commission house received 250 letters from Kansas a majority claiming damage to the growing crop.

A report from Atchison, Kan., said that millers there claim much wheat in the leading producing counties has been killed. They added that the extent of the damage cannot be estimated until some time after the expiration of cold weather.

* * *

The Chicago board of trade will vote on an amendment to the rules changing the commissions on cash grain. The commission to be charged members, if the amendment carries, will be increased to ⅜c from ¼c on corn and oats and to ⅝c from ½c on wheat, rye and barley.

* * *

Lyle wired from Newton, Kan.: "Examined worst fields in this vicinity. Wheat one-third to half dead. Balance so weak will have hard time pulling through. Soil cracked three inches all directions. Some heaving and root exposure. Plant not well grown and frail; root liable to be blown out. Kansas will have large abandonment."

* * *

Broomball's Argentine agent cabled that there has been a heavy fall of rain in the North and West.

* * *

Bartlett-Patten's Liverpool agent cabled—"Wheat depressed with buyers holding back. Better reports from your side have no influence. Shipments too heavy to allow of any advance. Corn steady at last quotations."

* * *

The Canadian visible shows an increase of 63,000 not counting the supplies at various American and Canadian ports.

* * *

Shortly before the close today Chicago wired that Minneapolis had confirmed the report that two Washburn-Crosby mills will be closed on account of slow business. A telegram from Minneapolis denied this. It appears, however, that the report, which was not believed at first, is true.

* * *

Winnipeg received 57 cars of oats, 9 of barley and 5 of flax. Minneapolis got 65 cars of corn, 79 of oats and 41 of flax. Outside mills sustained the cash demand at Minneapolis in fairly good shape. Cash was 2½c over the near option. Shipments of flour were 61,606 barrels. Total stocks of wheat amount to 6,342,000 bu.

* * *

Scattered selling by the Southwest and Chicago commission houses was one of the causes of the decline in wheat at the close today.

* * *

Duluth stocks of wheat increased 300,400 bu for the week.

Foreign markets closed: Liverpool —Wheat, ⅛@¼d lower; corn, ⅛d higher; Berlin, wheat, ⅛c higher. Paris, wheat closed ¼c higher; flour, ¾@1¾c higher. Antwerp, 1¼c higher.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Comparatively Steady With Light Offerings.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Wheat opened comparatively steady today, prices being from ¼c lower to ¼c higher with little grain offered. In the first hour a fair demand, principally from commission houses, forced prices up ¼@⅜c above Saturday's closing figures. Crop damage reports continued to give encouragement to the bulls. May advanced from $1.13⅞@1.14⅜. Opening figures for May were $1.13⅞@1.14, a shade to ⅛@¼c down.

The market was erratic later in the session, the fluctuations varying from ⅞@1c. May went up to $1.14¾ and down to $1.13¾, closing firm and unchanged from Saturday's final figures, at $1.14@1.14⅛. July was given the preference over May in the final half of the day and ran up to $1.05⅝ from $1.04½, closing strong with September. Final figures for July were $1.05⅛@1.05¼, ⅜@½c up.

Early trading in corn was on a down grade, initial prices being unchanged to ¼c lower than final figures Saturday. In the first hour the strength of wheat lent firmness and the loss was practically recovered, May advancing from 66¼@66¾c. Opening prices for May were 66¾@½c, unchanged to ¼c down.

The market took on a heavy tone later in the session, May falling off from 66¾c to 65⅞@66c, other futures weakening with it. The close was weak at near the low point, with May at 66⅛c, ⅝c lower than the final figures Saturday.

Oats opened a shade to ⅛c up and soon developed more strength responsive to the firmness of wheat. The volume of trading was small. May advanced from 47⅛@47¼ to 47⅜c. Opening figures for May were 47¼c, shade higher than Saturday's close.

Reflecting a rise in the live hog market, provisions showed strength, advancing at the outset 5@20c, pork leading in the gain. In the first hour the demand shoved prices 2½@10c higher. May pork resting at $23.85.

Opening prices for the May products were: Pork, $23.75; lard, $12.82½@12.80 and ribs, $12.50.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

May Wheat Price Keeps Within Narrow Range.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 21.—Crop damage reports from the Southwest were of a sensational nature. The local market was inclined to ignore the more extreme advances. May opened at $1.13½, ¼c lower than Saturday's close on the easier foreign cables. The near option fluctuated in the narrow range of ¾c from high to low and closed at the opening figure. Local elevator stocks increased 80,000 bu for two days. Scalping profits were in order. Minneapolis today received 575 cars of wheat against a holiday a year ago; Duluth 32 cars against a holiday, Winnipeg 168 cars against 105 cars. May opened $1.13½; high, $1.14⅛; low, $1.13⅜; closed, $1.13½. July opened, $1.13; high, $1.13¾; low, $1.13; closed, $1.13⅛@1.13¼.

MAIL MUCH HEAVIER.

Weighing Outgoing Mail at Grand Forks Reveals Surprise.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to Peter Maguire, who is weighing the outgoing mail on the Great Northern platform here, the mail leaving Grand Forks is a third or fourth larger than it was four years ago. Mr. Maguire at that time occupied the same position as weigher that he now holds.

In this connection, it is also interesting to note that on Thursday Train No. 27, the fast mail carried 97,000 pounds of mail.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Markets Open Sluggish and Downward Tendency Is Soon Shown.

Some Rallies When the Selling Gives Signs of Diminution.

New York, Feb. 21.—A sluggish and apathetic stock market opened the week. Declines were most numerous, but there were a few gains and many stocks started unchanged from last week. American Smelting and Colorado Fuel declined 1, and Baltimore & Ohio and American Woolen large fractions.

Prices took and abrupt downward turn, many of the important railroad stocks, especially specialities falling 1 to 1½. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting were foremost in the decline. When the selling showed signs of diminution the room shorts covered, and there were some large fractional rallies. General Electric lost two points.

Prices drifted downwards, but met support and again hardened. Extreme dullness then set in. United States rubber fell 2.

Bonds were steady.

The market closed unsteady and dull. The general movement of prices was inconsequential. A yielding tendency marked the later dealings. American Telephone advanced 2½; Chicago & Alton, and Lake Erie & Western preferred 1¼ and Colorado & Southern, 1.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

PROTEST AGAINST FRANKING.

Central Wisconsin Districts Against Western Land Booming.

Wausau, Wis., Feb. 21.—A strong protest has been made to Wisconsin congressmen from the Central Wisconsin districts against the custom of the interior department of advertising Far Western lands by franking long and carefully worded articles exploiting the value of such lands. Newspapers are constantly receiving typewritten matter in government envelopes from this department. One giving Feb. 9 as the date of release, goes on to relate an attack by Indians in 1884 upon a United States postmaster's train. Then follows a glowing description of one of the reclamation schemes carried on by the general government. Later are copies of purported letters written to the department by settlers, who, by their own statements, have not resided here long enough to become citizens of this country. Settlers are urged to buy these lands and leave their homes in the Eastern states.

RAT TRAP IN TREE.

Champion Midwinter Story Comes From La Crosse.

La Valle, Wis., Feb. 21.—While cutting a large hemlock tree in the Coughline valley, Louis Jackson made a unique discovery. When trimming the tree, which was seventy-five feet tall and three feet in diameter, he found a rat trap about forty feet from the butt. The body of the tree had grown around he chain and was fastened to the trap and compelled Mr. Jackson to chop it out with an axe. No one knows how many years it had been there or who put it there.

"If you're tired of 'cut-throat competition,' why not make yourself independent of it by advertising? The maker of a thoroughly advertised article can set his own price and dictate his own terms."

The big manufacturers, the big jobbers, the big insurance companies of Chicago, New York and St. Louis have grown big by the use of publicity. A sale is half made if the customer has heard of the article in advance.

Duluth merchants and factories should make an advertising start in Duluth and Northern Minnesota. The Duluth Herald offers the best medium for a beginning. Everyone in Duluth and Northern Minnesota either reads The Herald or falls under its influence.
